(If 2. K takes B, then follows 3. Q to Q B 8th (ch), 4. Kt to K 3rd (ch), &c., &c.)

(a) 1.	K takes R	4. Q to Q B 4th (ch)	K to K 4th
2. Q to Q B 3rd (ch)	K to Q 4th	5. Q to K 6th (ch)	K takes R
3. Kt to K 3rd (ch)	Q takes Kt	6. Q to K B 6th.	Mate.

PROBLEM No. 838.

By Mr. Conrad Bayer.

BLACK.

WHITE.

White to play, and mate in four moves.

CHESS IN INDIA.

The following is an interesting Game lately played between the distinguished veteran Mr. John Cochrane, and Saumchurn Guttack, an Indian player of renown.

(Irregular Opening)

WHITE (S. G.)	BLACK (Mr. C.)	WHITE (S. G.)	BLACK (Mr. C.)
1. P to Q 4th	P to Q 4th	28.	B takes K R P
2. P to K Kt 3rd	P to Q B 4th	29. P takes B	Q takes P (ch)
3. P to Q B 3rd	P to K 3rd	30. K to Kt sq	Q to K Kt 6th (ch)
4. B to K Kt 2nd	P to K B 4th	31. B to Kt 2nd	Q takes K R P
5. Kt to K B 3rd	Kt to K B 3rd	32. Q to Q 4th	R to K B 5th
6. Castles	P takes P	33. Q to K 3rd	Q to K Kt 4th
7. P takes P	Kt to Q B 3rd	(Threatening to win the Queen.)
8. P to Q R 3rd	B to K 2nd	34. Q to K R 3rd	R to K Kt 5th
9. P to Q Kt 4th	P to Q R 3rd	35. R to Q B 2nd	P to K R 4th
10. Kt to Q B 3rd	B to Q 2nd	36. R to K B 2nd	Q to K 2nd
11. K to R sq	Castles	37. Q to K 3rd	P to Q 5th
12. Kt to K 5th	Kt takes Kt	38. B takes Q P	B to Q 4th
13. P takes Kt	Kt to K 5th	39. B to Q B 5th	Q to K R 5th
14. Kt takes Kt	K B P takes Kt	40. R to K B 8th (ch)	K to Kt 2nd
15. P to K B 3rd	P takes P	41. R to K B 2nd	R to K Kt 6th
16. P takes P	Q to Q B 2nd	42. Q to Q 2nd	Q to K Kt 5th*
17. B to Q Kt 2nd	Q R to Q B sq	43. B to K B 8th (ch)	K to Kt sq
18. Q R to Q B sq	Q to Q Kt 3rd	44. B to K 7th	P to K R 5th
19. Q to Q 2nd	B to Q Kt 4th	45. K to R 2nd	R to K R 6th (ch)
20. K R to K sq	Q R to Q B 5th	46. K to Kt sq
21. R takes R	B takes R	(He would obviously have been mated on the move had he taken the Rook.)
22. P to K B 4th	Q to Q B 3rd	46.	R to K Kt 6th
23. P to K R 4th	P to K Kt 3rd	47. Q to Q B 2nd	Q to Q 5th
24. K to R 2nd	Q to Q 2nd	48. K to R sq
25. R to Q B sq	P to Q Kt 4th	(A fatal error: he should have moved the King to K R 2nd. Black now gives mate by force; how, we leave the reader to discover.)
26. B to K R 3rd	B to Q sq
27. Q to Q 4th	Q to K B 2nd
28. Q to Q B 5th

(Did the Brahmin play thus to tempt Mr. Cochrane to sacrifice his Bishop?)

CHESS IN GERMANY.

A Smart Affair between Mr. F. Deacon and Herr Maget.

(Evans Gambit.)

WHITE (Mr. F. D.)	BLACK (Herr M.)	WHITE (Mr. F. D.)	BLACK (Herr M.)
1. P to K 4th	P to K 4th	15. B to K B 6th	Q Kt to K 4th
2. Kt to K B 3rd	Kt to Q B 3rd	16. Q to K 2nd	B takes Kt
3. B to Q B 4th	B to Q B 4th	17. Kt takes B	P to Q B 6th
4. P to Q Kt 4th	B takes Kt P	18. Kt to K 4th	Q to Q B 5th
5. P to Q B 3rd	B to Q B 4th	19. Q to Q B 2nd	Kt to Q 2nd
6. P to Q 4th	P takes P	20. K R to K sq	P to Q Kt 4th
7. P takes P	B to Kt 3rd	21. Q R to Q sq	Q to Q B 3rd
8. B to Q Kt 2nd	K Kt to K B 3rd	(Had he advanced his Q Kt P to Q Kt 5th, White would probably have played Q to Q R 4th.)
9. P to K 5th	P to Q 4th	22. P to K B 4th	Kt to Q B 4th
(If 9.	Kt to K 5th	23. P to K B 5th	Kt takes Kt
10. B to Q 5th	Kt to K Kt 4th	24. K R takes Kt	Q to Q B 4th (ch)
11. P to K R 4th	Kt to K 3rd	25. K R to Q 4th	B to Q 4th
12. B to K 4th, &c.)		26. K to R sq	P to Q B 3rd
10. P takes Kt	P takes B	27. Q to K 4th (ch)
11. P to Q 5th	B to Q R 4th (ch)		Black resigned.
12. K Kt to Q 2nd	Q takes Q P
13. P takes K Kt P	K R to K Kt sq
14. Castles	B to K 3rd

Money Paid for the Support of Hindoo Shrines.—A return has been issued of all sums paid to Hindoo or Mohammedan shrines, or in any way in honour or support of the religion or of religious institutions of the native inhabitants of India, which were collected or disbursed by the agency of the East India Company's servants during the year 1857. These returns are contained in eleven reports on the subject from the Governments of Bengal, the North-West Provinces, Fort St. George, Bombay, the Punjaub, Oude, Hyderabad, Nagpore, Mysore, Pegu, and the Tenasserim and Martaban provinces. In some cases the annual sums paid to religious institutions are thousands of rupees, but these are comparatively rare.

EPITOME OF NEWS—FOREIGN AND DOMESTIC.

Lord Palmerston was, on Saturday last, elected an Elder Brother of Trinity House.

The Queen has approved of Don Ramon de Silva Ferro as Consul in London for the Republic of Chili.

The learned Greek scholar and Philhellene, Fredrich von Thiersch, died at Munich on the 25th ult., aged seventy-six.

A ballet-dancer at the Opera of Berlin lost her life a few days since owing to her clothes catching fire at the footlights.

Mr. Williams will move in Committee of Ways and Means "That incomes less than £150 per annum shall not be liable to pay income tax."

The freedom of the city of Glasgow is to be conferred on Sir John Lawrence on Tuesday, the 3rd of April.

Mr. Creasy, of the Home Circuit, has been appointed to the office of Chief Justice of Ceylon.

Negotiations for a commercial treaty between France and Belgium are about to be opened.

Lord Brougham has appointed Sir David Brewster Vice-Chancellor of the University of Edinburgh.

Mr. Willcock, who has filled the office of postmaster of Manchester for about thirty-two years, has tendered his resignation.

Some Roman and other coins have just been dug up near Corfe Castle—one representing Romulus and Remus with the Wolf.

Edwin Thomas Salt, sentenced to death for the murder of his wife, at the last sitting of the Edinburgh Justiciary Court, has had his sentence commuted to penal servitude for life.

There are no less than five submarine telegraphic cables now out of order—namely, the Channel Islands, Atlantic, Mediterranean, and Red Sea cables, and the one between Singapore and Batavia.

The Princess of Prussia, wishing to testify her gratitude to M. Meyerbeer, the composer, has presented him with a magnificent bâton of leader of an orchestra.

Last Saturday a bill in Parliament was printed by which it is proposed to pay coroners a salary, instead of one guinea for each inquest and ninepence a mile travelling expenses.

At Oxford, on yesterday week, Mr. John Macpherson, Commoner of Trinity College, was elected to the vacant Scholarship at St. John's College. There were twenty-one candidates.

The State apartments at Windsor, which were closed during her Majesty's residence there, are now open to the public, the days of closing being Wednesdays and Saturday as usual.

At Liverpool yesterday week seven seamen belonging to the ship Granville were sent to prison for eight weeks (to be put to hard labour also) for refusing to go to sea in the ship.

The National Portrait Gallery has added the name of Mary Queen of Scots to its list of historical personages, the trustees having recently become possessed of the well-known Fraser Tyler portrait.

A St. Petersburg letter mentions the death of General Rostovtsov, Aid-de-Camp to the Emperor of Russia. His Majesty was present at the officer's last moments.

During the recent gale more than 400 fine elm-trees were blown down in the Great Park at Windsor; and also several in the Long Walk and playing-grounds of Eton College.

The veteran waterman, Robert Coombes, expired a few days since in the County Lunatic Asylum for Maidstone. For seven years he held the championship of the Thames.

Vice-Admiral Charner, the new commander of the French forces in China, sailed on Thursday week from Marseilles in the English steamer Panther for Alexandria, on his way to his destination.

The fund which has been commenced for the benefit of the widow and mother of the late Captain Harrison is making satisfactory progress.

MM. Gouin and Guibert, shipbuilders at Nantes, have just laid down for the French Government a transport which is to be 85 metres long, and to carry 3500 tons.

The Queen has given orders for the appointment of James de Vismes Drummond Hay, Esq., British Vice-Consul at Tetuan, to be a Companion of the Bath.

The committee of bankers, it is said, entertain favourably the memorial of the merchants, traders, and others, to close business at two o'clock on Saturdays, and intend to confer with the joint-stock banks on the subject.

The visitors at the South Kensington Museum last week numbered 10,814. On Monday, Tuesday, and Saturday (free days) there were 4459; on Monday and Tuesday (free evenings), 4414; on the three students' days (admission to the public 6d.), 1372; students' evening (Wednesday), 569.

Ramsay-terrace, recently erected by the late Lord Murray on a spur of the Castle-hill, Edinburgh, overhanging Princes-street Gardens, gave way on Thursday se'nnight, owing to defective foundation, and became a mass of ruins.

The council of the Royal Institute of British Architects have appointed a committee to consider as to the propriety of affording to members and intending members of the Institute facilities for passing a voluntary professional examination, of which certificates should be given.

Miss Celia Molloy, of Capel-street, Dublin, has bequeathed a sum of £5000 to be apportioned among the various Roman Catholic institutions in that city. St. Vincent's Hospital, under the control of the Sisters of Mercy, comes in for £1000.

Mr. Charles Seely, of Brook Hall, Isle of Wight, and Heighington, near Lincoln, has been appointed to the office of High Sheriff of the county of Southampton, the previous appointment of Mr. Craven having been cancelled at that gentleman's request.

Patrick Tuthill, Esq., solicitor, committed suicide at Limerick yesterday week by cutting his throat with a razor. Since the death of his wife, to whom he was devotedly attached, about six months since, Mr. Tuthill evinced occasional symptoms of depression bordering upon insanity.

It is understood that Mr. Wilson will forthwith introduce his measure for the Indian note circulation into the Legislative Council at Calcutta, three months after which it will become law, if in the meantime the sanction of the home authorities is received.

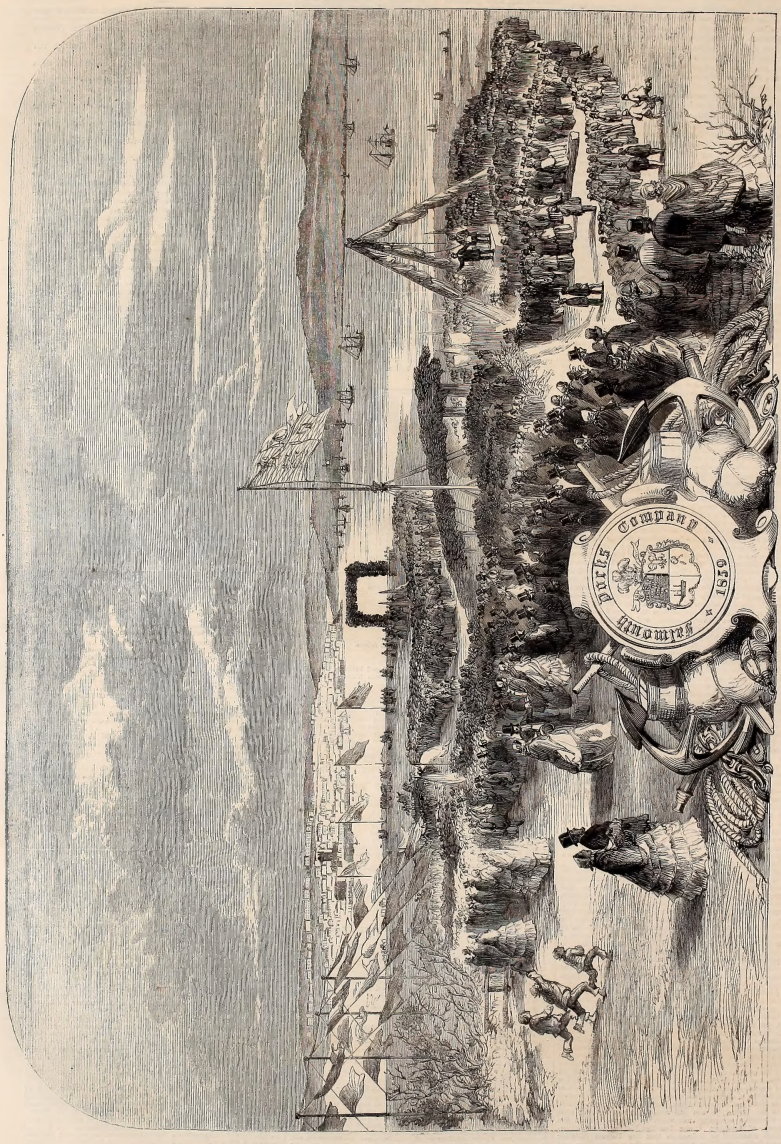
Lord Ernest Bruce is to move in Committee on the Scotch Reform Bill "That Scotch peers, not being peers of Parliament, be qualified to sit in the House of Commons for English and Scotch constituencies."

The Queen has been pleased to extend the title of Lord Brougham and Vaux, hitherto limited to the present peer, to his surviving brother, Mr. William Brougham (formerly M.P. for Southwark, and Master in Chancery), and to his male heirs.

The Earl of Airlie has been unanimously re-elected Lord Rector of Marischal College, Aberdeen. His Lordship will deliver an inaugural address to the students on Thursday, April 5—the last day but one of the College session.

Last Saturday an account to Parliament was published showing that there are 21,412 accounts in the office of the Accountant-General of the Court of Chancery. The suitors' cash in court amounts to £2,607,250, and their money placed out in the funds to £2,264,744.

A fine bull of the Ayrshire breed, decorated with the badges of seventeen first-class prizes gained at various agricultural shows, has been dispatched from Windernere as a present from S. Taylor, Esq., of Ibbotsholme, to Louis Napoleon.

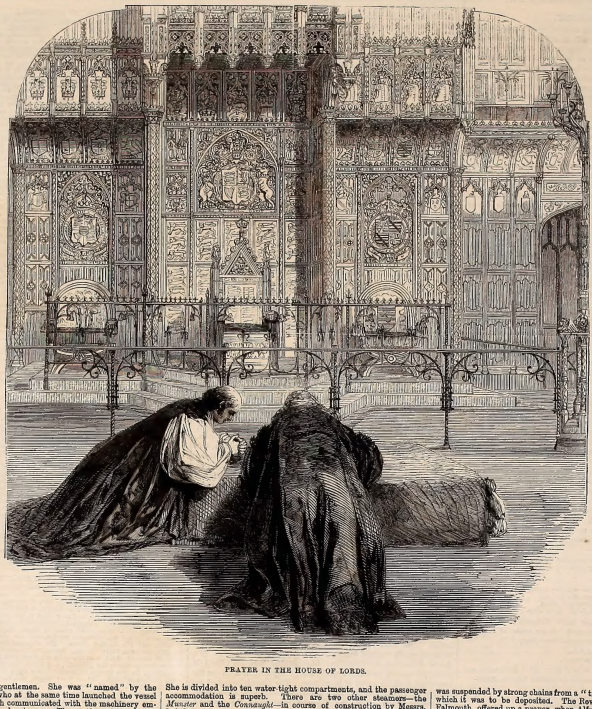


The Chamber of Representatives of Belgium have adopted unanimously a bill which strikes out of the oath to be taken by provincial councillors and municipal authorities the declaration that the house of Nassau (Orange) has no right to the throne of Belgium.

A man named Linley, a non-unionist saw-grinder, has died at Sheffield from injuries received by being shot in the head in August last, and a coroner's jury has returned a verdict of "Murder against some person or persons unknown." Several attempts had been made on Linley's life.

Lord Abercromby was entertained yesterday week at a public dinner in the Royal Hotel, Bridge of Allan, by the tenantry on his Lordship's estates of Airthrey, Brucefield, Ferntower, Menstry, and Tullibody, together with a number of friends from Stirling, Alloa, Crieff, &c. About 200 gentlemen sat down.

Cardinal Antonelli has just presented to Mrs. Stockton, wife of the United States' Minister at Rome, a handsome mosaic table, representing the Roman Forum. The border contains specimens of the valuable kinds of marble which adorned the temples and public edifices of ancient Rome.



The French treaty has caused a large amount of merchandise to be kept back until it is accepted by the House of Commons. A train of foreign goods left Folkestone on Sunday evening to the value of £200,000, the duty on which would have amounted to at least £18,000 or £20,000 under the old tariff.

LAYING THE FOUNDATION-STONE OF THE NEW DOCKS AT FALMOUTH.—VISCOUNT FALMOUTH ADDRESSING THE ASSEMBLAGE.—SEE NEXT PAGE.

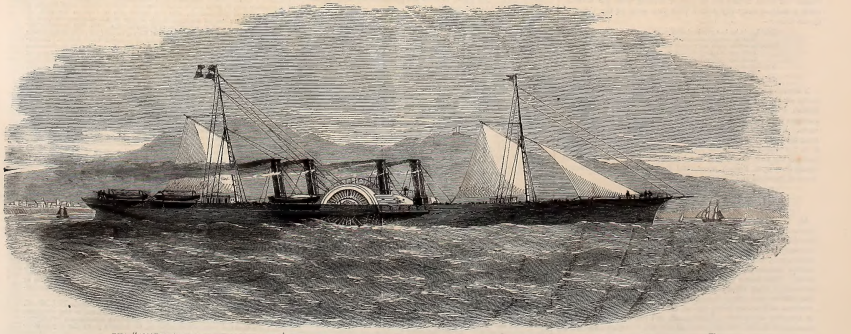
PRAYER IN THE HOUSE OF LORDS.

THIS ancient and laudable ceremony is kept up in its integrity, though certainly only a few of their Lordships are generally present on the occasion, and there few are mostly Law Lords; inasmuch as the ceremony usually takes place at half-past ten in the morning, when their Lordships sit judicially for the purpose of hearing appeals, and when three Peers are sufficient to constitute a House, of whom the officiating Bishop may be one. The spectacle of the House at its devotions is seldom seen by the public, who are not admitted within the sacred precincts. Admission, by special favour, is sometimes obtained to the corridor, whence the stranger may get a peep, through the gilded lattice-work of the door, of the impressive scene. Should any one be in the corridor near the Peers' entrance about half-past ten in the morning he will hear the measured tread of the Lord Chancellor's attendants — viz., his mace-bearer and purse-bearer. His Lordship follows, having his train borne by an attendant, through the passages to the bar of the Chamber. He then advances to the woolsack, in front of the throne, where there is already waiting one of the Bishops (the junior Bishop generally officiating); the attendants place the mace and great seal upon the woolsack, immediately in front of the Chancellor, and retire to the corner close to the door leading to the Prince's Chamber. When the service begins the general effect is that we have depicted. There are rarely more than five members of the House present during the ceremony.

PRAYER IN THE HOUSE OF LORDS.

NEW MAIL-PACKETS BETWEEN HOLYHEAD AND DUBLIN.

ON Saturday, the 25th ult., the Ulster, the first of a new class of steamers intended to carry the mail between Dublin and Holyhead, was launched from the shipbuilding yard of Messrs. John Laird and Sons, of Birkenhead, in the presence of a numerous attendance of ladies and gentlemen. She was "named" by the Marchioness of Chandos, who at the same time launched the vessel by cutting a silk cord which communicated with the machinery employed to knock away the dogshores. The motion of the vessel, which at first was slow, rapidly increased till she darted with the rapidity of an arrow into the Mersey. Yet, in spite of the great way on the vessel, and the strength of the tide, two light Trotman anchors brought her up within about her own length from the shore. Her appearance in the water, as will be seen by our Engraving, is as light and beautiful as can well be conceived; and it is confidently anticipated that she will run at an average rate of twenty miles an hour. The dimensions of the Ulster are — Length over all, 350 feet; depth of hold, 20 feet; width, 35 feet. Her draught of water at load line will be from twelve to thirteen feet; her tonnage is about 200 tons; and her nominal horse power is 700. She is divided into ten water-tight compartments, and the passenger accommodation is superb. There are two other steamers—the Munster and the Connaught—in course of construction by Messrs. Laird for the same line; and another, the Leinster, has been constructed by Messrs. Samuda Brothers at Blackwall. The latter vessel was successfully launched on Tuesday, and seems likely to realise the high expectations which are entertained of the seagoing performances of these boats. She was named by Lady Jane Repton.



LAYING THE FOUNDATION-STONE OF NEW DOCKS AT FALMOUTH.

FALMOUTH, situated at the extremity of the Channel, the blue waves of the Atlantic almost washing its walls, and which possesses a noble harbour, completely shut in by lofty heights from the prevailing gales, and capable of receiving vessels of the very largest draught of water, is at last about to receive that attention which it deserves. A company has been formed for the purpose of providing Falmouth with dock accommodation suitable to its natural position; and on Tuesday, the 26th ult., the foundation-stone was laid by Lord Falmouth, aided by the Ancient Order of the Fraternity of Freemasons. The spot which has been selected for the proposed docks is an admirable one, just inside the point which protects the inner harbour, and sheltered behind by the hill which runs up to the Hornwork, and the works are already in a forward state.

The day was kept as a general holiday. Every shop was shut, and every house had some decoration of flags and evergreens, while at intervals triumphant arches were erected. The procession set out shortly after twelve o'clock, and proceeded through the principal street to the proposed site. Here the view was charming. The people swarming about the slopes of the hills; the vessels in the harbour decked with the flags of all nations; the blue waters of the bay, here and there by the wind into white streaks and dashes; the wooded heights of Trefusis opposite; the downs beyond spotted with the sheep and backed by a bright blue sky; the long vista of the river opening up between; the town with its grey tower scattered at the foot of its own hill; far away, down through the gleam and flying spray, St. Mawe's Castle looming out faintly like a recollection of its own old world of long ago; and further and fainter still, like soft brown shadows only, point after point, some with a glint of foam about their base, sinking down into the hazy sea, all bathed in shifting golden lights,—made up a picture no easily to be forgotten by those who witnessed it.

On the arrival of the procession at the site of the docks those who were to take part in the proceedings surrounded the stone, which was suspended by strong chains from a "triangle" over the spot upon which it was to be deposited. The Rev. W. J. Coope, Rector of Falmouth, offered up a prayer, when Alfred Fox, Esq., chairman of the directors, addressed Lord Falmouth, calling upon him to lay the foundation-stone of Falmouth Docks, which, he believed, would be of great importance to this country and to the world. Without the assistance of his Lordship the undertaking would have been in a very different position to that in which it now, happily, was placed. Lord Falmouth then deposited a glass bottle containing a parchmen document and coins of the present reign. The cavity was filled with cement by the workmen and a lead plate was placed over it. Thereupon the chief engineer handed a silver trowel to Mr. Pearce, with which he secured the cement over the cover and returned the trowel to the engineer. The engineer then handed the trowel to Lord

(Continued on page 248.)

THE "ULSTER" PADDLE-STEAMER RECENTLY LAUNCHED AT BIRKENHEAD, BELONGING TO THE CITY OF DUBLIN STEAM-PACKET COMPANY.

THE WINES OF FRANCE.

No. I.—BURGUNDY.

THE Budget of Mr. Gladstone—most memorable of Budgets since the Repeal of the Corn Laws—being safe at last from the onslaughts of all its foes and the undermining manœuvres of many who call themselves its friends, the attention of the public may with advantage be more particularly directed to that portion of it which deals with the duties on French wines. We observe that the "brown-stout" interest and the "gin-spinners" interest are clamouring lustily from their own peculiar barrel-organ against the immorality of Mr. Gladstone in opening what they call the "floodgates of intemperance" in this eminently sober land. They predict woes innumerable as certain to result from the change in question, which, blame Mr. Gladstone, will allow the confectioner and the coffee-shop keeper to sell claret and burgundy by the glass to the thirsty souls who may object to beer drugged with quassia and nux vomica, to the mere compound that masquerades as the rural name of "cream of the valley." Their pretended zeal in the cause of temperance is as newborn as it is false. They do not, or at all events, never did until now, when their monopoly is threatened, object to any amount of indoor intemperance that sprung from unwise indulgence in beer or gin, loaded port, or fiery sherry, or any other unwholesome compound which they retailed at large profit. Only when the trade is to be thrown open do they make the discovery that they are the inveterate enemies of drunkenness—a discovery that must have come upon them with as much unexpectedness as that with which the worthy citizen in Moliere's comedy was made aware of the fact that he had all his life been talking prose. We might well ask such foes of the Budget and of free trade in drink how it happens that in France, where wine is so abundant, so cheap, and so wholesome, and where the very poorest classes consider it their common drink, that drunkenness is so much rarer than it is in England and Scotland? The people of France and Italy are proverbially sober, as, indeed, the people of every country are found to be where wine is looked upon as a prime necessity, and not as a luxury of life. The increase of drunkenness in England may be said to date from the Methuen Treaty in 1703, and the consequent banishment of the light wines of France from the tables of the citizen and the gentleman, to make way for the heavier and more intoxicating beverages of Spain and Portugal. The Frenchmen drank and port appear so strong and fiery that if they partake of them at all they drink them after dinner, out of liqueur-glasses, as they do curaçoa, cognac, chartreuse, or maraschino. In England, in the days of William and Mary and Queen Anne, even up to those of George I., the very strongest wine that an Englishman could be prevailed upon to drink, or that he could easily procure, was burgundy. Claret and burgundy were then the few genuine wines in England not belonging to the patrician and the travelling classes knew the difference at the present day—were the favourite beverages of the English gentleman and convivialist, as may be seen in the constant allusions to those wines in the current literature and songs of the period. Take, for instance, the old and well-known ditty, "Dr. Pope's Wish," in which the author muses on the enjoyment that he hopes to experience at the close of life—his warm, well-furnished house, the kind and fair hand "to rub his bald pate"—"the easy pad-nag to ride upon"—

> The flesh of neat mutton, not venison, nor veal,
> And clean, if course, linen at every meal.

And, last of all:—

> A pudding on Sundays, and stout humming liquor,
> And remnants of Latin to puzzle the Vicar.
> With a hidden reserve of old burgundy wine,
> To drink Being's health, as I'm sure we dine.

"Cato's advice" in a song, popular when Alexander Pope was a boy, was, that care should be drowned "in an ocean of claret;" whilst another songster of the same age declared that,

> Of all the brisk juice
> The gods can produce,
> Commend me to claret,

good claret was to be preferred to them all. Burgundy, and its superior strength and flavour, inspired a better bard to sing—

> Hail, burgundy! thou juice divine,
> Inspirer of wit and song,
> The praises given to other wine
> To thee alone belong:
> Of poignant wit and rosy charms
> Thou canst the person inspire,
> Care of its sting thy balm disarms,
> Thou gift of Love.

The well-known Irish song of "Baron Dawson" is equally emphatic:—

> Ye good fellows all,
> Who love to be toss'd where there's claret in store,
> Attend to the call
> Of one who's no frighted,
> But highly delighted,
> With six bottles more!

And it was not after, but before, Mr. Methuen had done both France and Great Britain the ill turn of making port the national drink instead of burgundy, that a poet thus sung of the Court of Queen Anne:—

> King Louis he is a goodnatured man,
> Which nobody can deny,
> Since he sends such very good wine to Queen Anne,
> Lest her Majesty should be dry.
> Because our Majesty should be dry;
> And her servants, too, I suppose;
> There's a good reason, I'm sure for why—
> Only look at the Treasurer's nose.

If enough had not been cited in these extracts to prove the popularity of French wines in England at the pre-Methuen period or British drinking habits, whole pages might be filled with similar passages from the light literature of the day, in prose as well as in verse. But these will suffice for the purpose, and, if we add another from the pen of John Home, the author of the tragedy of "Douglas," it is not simply to prove the popularity of the old, but the unpopularity of new, drink, that was introduced by the almost prohibitory duty upon French wines, and the fiscal favour accorded to those of Portugal and Spain:—

> Firm and erect the Caledonian stood;
> His limbs with motion, and his heart with blood.
> Let him drink port, the British statesman cried—
> He drinks for poison, and his poison's death!

Mr. Gladstone's Budget will help to undo the evil done by the Methuen Treaty, and, by enabling the British workman, as well as the middle and upper classes, to drink of the wine that cheers but does not easily inebriate, it will not only be the means of introducing wholesome liquor, but of removing the international jealousies that the unwise commercial legislation of our forefathers did so much to foster. Who knows what youth might never have been undertaken, and what bloody battles might never have been fought, if Englishmen had drunk French wines and Frenchmen worn English woollens and calicos during the whole of the last century! Millions of treasure, and hundreds of thousands of lives, might perhaps have been saved to both nations; and not only this, but the face of Europe might have worn a very different political aspect from that which it now presents, and the germ of many a future convulsion might have been crushed for ever.

Until the popular taste, so long vulgarised by heavy drinks, shall have been re-educated to the full enjoyment of the lighter species of clarets, and to the very excellent vin ordinaire which the Frenchman drinks at his breakfast as well as at his dinner, the wines of Burgundy, almost unknown to the present generation, may put in a strong claim to the favour of those who prefer strength combined with delicacy, and who wish to drop off by degrees from their allegiance to port. "Burgundy," as M. Augustin Leclerc says in his excellent letters upon the vintage of the Côte d'Or, published in Paris in 1857, "is the first of red wines, whoever may say to the contrary. Burgundy, like truth, has had its detractors, and, like genius and beauty, it has been calumniated; but no one in France denies its excellence, except the wine-growers of Medoc, who insist upon the superiority of claret. But our preference is decidedly for burgundy, a stronger wine than claret—a wine requiring more care in its treatment, and more subject and more liable to deterioration from travelling, and especially from a sea voyage, than the hardier wines of Bordeaux, but a wine that well repays every attention shown to it by the wine-merchant and the butler, and several varieties of which are quite as capable of transport to the remotest ends of the earth, without damage to its quality in any degree whatever, as the soundest wines of any country in the world. And this bounty of nature is so plentiful in and so little known out of France that seasons often occur when neither barrels nor bottles are to be procured to put it in, and when it becomes a positive drug in the poorest localities. The following are the names of the principal wines, taken from the carte of the well-known Café Verroy in the Palais Royal. It is there one port-loving or beer-drinking Englishman out of a thousand who ever tastes the wines of them:—

Macon	Côte Saint-Jacques	Nuits	Lalache
Macon fleuri	Mercurot	Vosne	Côte-Rôtie
Thiaarze	Beaune	Chambertin	Hermitage
Beune	Clos Saint-Georges	Richebourg	Clos Vougeot
Moulin-à-vent	Pomard	Romanée	Volnay
Thezins	Volnay

For are the white burgundies a whit better known in this country than their red competitors. What Englishman, except the "upper ten thousand," who travel or have resided on the Continent, ever heard of the white wines in this list, chablis perhaps excepted?—

Chablis	Côte Saint-Jacques	Côte-Rôtie	Ermitage
Chablis	Mont-Rachet	Saint-Perray, sparkling	Ermitage Paille

Among the red wines in the first list—the first nine, all of excellent quality, and capable of long keeping—the palm is delivered at the port of London at as small a charge as in the banlieue of Paris, and retailed to the British consumer at one-and-sixpence a bottle. Romanée, which is a pale amber-wine fit for the table of princes, but unknown to most of our London clubs and taverns, or, if known at the latter, retailed at half a guinea or twelve shillings a bottle—might be delivered to the English consumer as his own house for thirty shillings a dozen. But Romanée is the last in the list—the very word, romanée, chambertin, corton, and richebourg—will never be cheap. Not even free trade will succeed in placing them upon the tables of the people or the wine-vaults of the million. They are the wines of small vintages of great renown and excellence—highly esteemed at the tables of kings, emperors, and millionaires—and from their rarity can never be brought within the reach of ordinary purchasers. They are essentially wines of luxury, and will always command high prices.

The country that produces the best burgundy wines commences at the ancient and picturesque city of Dijon, formerly the capital of the Dukes of Burgundy, powerful rivals of the Kings of France, and so renowned as they in mediæval story. It stretches thence along the Côte d'Or, or Golden Hill, as far as Santenay; and the whole "vignoble," or land under grape-cultivation, amounts to 50,000 hectares, of which only about 2500 hectares are productive of the highest class of wine, such as romanée, clos-vougeot, and chambertin. This rich and beautiful district, which is the very heart of its vineyards was well known to the Romans, as is proved by a decree of the Emperor Domitian. Charlemagne took the Côte d'Or under his especial protection, and issued many ordonnances for the preservation of the purity of its vintage. The Church launched the thunders of its anathemas against the disloyal vintagers, who planted an inferior grape called the "gamay" instead of the "plant," a grape like the pinot of Champagne, which it is every other respect of flavour, quality, and delicacy, infinitely superior. Such planters and wine-makers were denied absolution and all the sacraments of the Church. The Dukes of Burgundy themselves were the reputation of the vineyards of Burgundy was coextensive with the civilisation of Europe, and great care and pains were taken by all interested, from the Emperor or King down to the vintager and labourer, to preserve unimpaired the reputation it so justly so one of the best sources of the wealth of the country. In the year 1731 Jean de Bussières, Abbot of Citeaux, sent thirty hogsheads of choice burgundy to Pope Clement XII., as a present to Pope Gregory XVI. The Pope, to show his gratitude for a gift so acceptable, made the Abbot a Cardinal.

The great Napoleon, who knew many things besides the art of war, knew also how to value the worth of burgundy wine, and never travelled or undertook the perils of a campaign without a few cases of it. This, according to M. Lochet, was one of the main reasons why the city of Beaune, jealous of the reputation of claret, declared itself strongly against him in 1814, and ranged itself on the side of the Bourbons.

The French peasants of the present day, though "he eat but little meat," for meat is dear, can provide himself with very excellent burgundy at six sous, or threepence English, per bottle. One of the popular songs of Dijon and the Côte d'Or thus tells his love for it, and fixes the price:—

> Joyeaux enfant de la Bourgogne
> Je n'ai jamais de goûgeon,
> Et quand je vois rougir mon rognon
> Je suis sur d'être bientôt ivrogne.
> Le vin a six sous
> Fait mon bonheur et mon regal;
> Le vin a six sous
> Est mon breuvage et ma gaieté.
> Cela rape sur la tête,
> Cela vous rend gompette,
> C'est dans la prie doux
> Le vin a six sous.

The English mechanic will never be able to procure a drink so dainty at six sous or even at twenty sous the bottle. Even were there no duty at all upon it, the cost of transport would forbid it. But the day may come and Mr. Gladstone has done much to expedite it) when he may enjoy it at eightpenoe at the public-house, and at one shilling if he prefers, as he should do, to partake of it in the bosom of his family.

The American company which has been so long engaged endeavouring to raise the vessels sunk by the Russians in the harbour of Sebastopol has only succeeded in raising fifteen of the smaller craft, and not one of the first-rate. Twenty-one ineffectual attempts have been made to raise the steamer Vladimir. At the last effort the strongest chains the company had were broken.

OBITUARY OF EMINENT PERSONS.

VISCOUNT SOUTHWELL.

THE Right Hon. Sir Thomas Anthony Southwell, K.P., third Viscount Southwell, and fifth Baron Southwell, of Castle Mattress, in the county of Limerick, in the peerage of Ireland, and a Baronet, was the eldest son of Thomas Arthur, the second Viscount, by his wife, Sophia Maria Josepha, daughter and heiress of Francis Joseph Wallis, Count de Serrant in France, and was born at Hammersmith, on the 8th of February, 1802. He succeeded, on the 8th of May, 1823, to the title and estates of John Berkeley, as eighth Baron Fitzhardinge, of Berkeley Castle, in the county of Gloucester, and Robert Berkeley, Esq., of Spetchley, in Worcestershire, and in default of lawful (she died the 30th of October, 1853) he had by none, who have both died before him unmarried, and by Elizabeth Joseph, of whom one is deceased and three are married—viz., Sophia Catherine Marie, the eldest, the wife of Charles Augustus, Marquis de Chastel Rouget; Matilda Maria, Baroness Southwell, the wife of the Right Honourable Richard More O'Farrall, of Ballynea, the highly-respected M.P. for the county of Kildare, and late Governor of Malta; and Frederica Maria Josepha, the youngest, the wife of Count Henri Carlevaris di Elmo Dalmine, an officer of the Sardinian Royal Guard. Viscount Southwell inherited the family honours at the decease of his father on the 11th of February, 1776, and was created a Knight of St. Patrick in 1837. His Lordship died on the 20th ultimo, and, as he leaves no male issue, he is succeeded by his nephew, Thomas Arthur Joseph, now fourth Viscount Southwell, who is the eldest son of the Viscount's second brother, the late Lieut.-Colonel the Hon. Arthur Southwell, by his wife, Mary Anne Acres, daughter of the late Thomas Dillon, Esq., of Mount Dillon, in the county of Dublin. The present Viscount Southwell was born on the 6th of April, 1836. His old Roman Catholic family of Southwell, originally Sowel, or Suthwell, of which the Viscount Southwell are the representatives, and of which a branch inherited the barony of De Clifford, is of great antiquity in the county of Nottingham. Edward Southwell, who was family divorced into Essex and Suffolk, and removed to Ireland tempore James I. He gave to Sir Richard Southwell the Irish estates of his cousin Sir Robert Southwell, of Kinsale, in the city of Limerick, and to sell, during his life, wine and spirit there. The nephew and heir of the former of these Sir Richard Thomas Southwell, the first Baronet, who was so created on the 4th of August, 1662. His son was made a Baron on the 4th of September, 1721, and his great-grandson a Viscount on the 16th of July, 1776. This first Viscount was grandfather of the peer just dead, who was also Baron Clonmore, and in-law of another Catholic nobleman recently deceased, Junius, twelfth Viscount Gormanston, who was husband of Lord Southwell's sister-in-law, the late Viscountess Gormanston, and who died on the 10th ultimo, and a notice was given of him in this journal.

SIR J. B. MILL, BART.

THE Rev. Sir John Barker Mill, Bart., of Mottisfont, Hants, M.A., was the only son of the Rev. John Mill, Rector of Sturminster, Dorset, by his wife, the only daughter of the Rev. Sir Richard Mill, Bart. [1.], and was the nephew of Sir Charles Mill, Bart., who died without issue in 1853, when the dormancy became extinct, but his property devolved on his nephew. The latter succeeded to the title, and assumed the year before his decease the additional surname and arms of Mill, was himself created a Baronet the 16th of March, 1858. He was born the 4th of October, 1803, and was educated at Downing College, Cambridge, where he graduated B.A. 1826 and M.A. 1831. He was in holy orders, and held the following livings in the Church. He married, in 1835, Jane, daughter of Colonel Swinburne, by whom he has issue, and his widow survives him. He leaves no issue. Consequently his baronetcy—the first created—is extinct, and the title of Mill—honour-able both by its deeds and its alliances—passes away with him.

THOMAS DE GRENIER DE FONBLANQUE, K.H.

THIS gentleman was a member of the Fonblanque family, so well and honourably known in law and in letters, and was the eldest son of the late John Fonblanque, Esq., the eminent equity lawyer, writer, and advocate, and was brother of Mr. Commissioner Fonblanque, and of Albany Fonblanque, Esq., late editor of the Examiner, and now chief of the statistical department of the Board of Trade. Mr. De Grenier de Fonblanque was born in the year 1785. He in the Army, and served eight years in Spain, Sicily, and Belgium. He afterwards joined the Portuguese army, in which he served with credit. Prussia, and the United States. He obtained the Knighthood of the Guelphic Order in 1815, and was appointed Consul-General for Syria the 26th of August, 1841, and he retained that post till the 1st of May, 1858, when he resigned it, his health having no doubt accelerated, if not caused, by the severe onslaught made upon him some time ago by some Turkish soldiers. Mr. de Fonblanque, who was sixty-seven when he died, was married, and leaves a family.

CAPTAIN BLAKISTON HOUSTON.

CAPTAIN Thomas Blakiston Houston, of the 4th or King's Own Regiment, whose lamented death occurred at Nice on the 16th ult., aged twenty-seven, was the second son of Robert Houston, Esq., of Johnston Hall, in the county of Perth, and Haddon House, both in the county of Devon, by his wife, Mary Anne, second daughter of John Blakiston, Esq., M.P., and was grandson of the late Sir Matthew Blakiston, Bart., and nephew of Sir Matthew Blakiston, the present Baronet. Captain Houston had been for a very gallant young officer. He was Adjutant of the 5th Regiment on the memorable occasion of the burning of the Sevoli forest at all events, when that regiment greatly displayed its courage and discipline. Captain Blakiston Houston's conduct on the occasion was so conspicuous that he received a step in rank in consequence. Captain Houston's name was originally Blakiston only, but some years ago he had by royal license adopted the additional surname of Houston, that of his late father-in-law, by royal license.

CAPTAIN NEWPORT.

CAPTAIN Simon George Newport, 19th Hussars, who died on the 8th of December last, at Dum Dum, near Calcutta, after fourteen days' illness of a severe attack of dysentery, was the eldest son of George Newport, Esq., of Waterford. He was at the time of his demise in the thirty-sixth year of his age, and had been eighteen years in the service. He was succeeded by sergeant when carrying the colours of his regiment (the 99th) at the battle of Maharajpore, when Sir Hugh Gough and General Grey were severely wounded he served in the Crimea, and was actively engaged in the trenches before Sebastopol. On the fall of Sebastopol he was conveyed to the cemetery at Dum Dum with military honours, all the officers of the garrison attending. He had the bronze medal for the battle of Maharajpore, the Sutlej medal, the Crimean medal, presented to him by her Majesty, Captain Newport was a son of the late General Newport, C.B., of Waterford, who never left him in his last illness, has given directions that a monument be placed over his grave at Waterford.

EXHIBITION OF FURNITURE OF ITALIAN DESIGN.—The council of the Society of Arts have resolved to open, in the first week in June next, an "Exhibition of Modern Furniture of Italian Style," by which they hope to extend the acquaintance of the public with ornamental art, and the application of it to domestic and national wants. The meutal art, and the application of it to domestic and national wants. The exhibition will include all kinds of decorated cabinet-work; works of art in metal, pottery, and glass; tapestry, carpets, and other woven fabrics; stained glass; encaustic tiles; composition ornaments, such as picture frames and brackets; and paperhangings.

WRECK OF A GRAVESEND SMACK AND LOSS OF NINE LIVES.—The supposed loss of the Gravesend fishing-smack Fortitude, with her crew, taken in tow from the Gravesend Reach by the steamer Lord Raglan for Rotterdam, on the coast of Holland, and a Gravesend fishing-smack, from the same place, had picked up the crew of the Fortitude. Eight of the crew were residents of Gravesend; and Mr. Bates, the owner and master, has left a widow and several children. It is believed that she was lost in the dreadful gales which swept the North Sea on Monday and Tuesday week.

UNEXPECTED DIVIDEND.—Mosley, Heard, and Co. were adjudged bankrupts in 1811. It appears that a fund arising out of the recovery of a sum of £900 belonging to the separate estate of the bankrupt Heard was deposited many years since in the then existing bank of Messrs. Ricketts, Thorne, and Co. of Bristol, and, having been invested in Exchequer Bills, has accumulated interest to the amount of £209 3s. 5d., making a total of £926 3s 8d. available for distribution among the creditors. A dividend meeting is appointed for the 16th inst.

In Committee on the Representation of the People Bill, Mr. E. James intends to move that the franchise be extended to the occupiers, upon certain conditions, of portions of houses as sub-lessees or lodgers; and also that the payment of rates on or before a particular day shall no longer be the condition of registration.

NEW BOOKS, &c.

REV. CHARLES KINGSLEY'S SERMONS.
This day, Second Edition Two Series, 5s. each,

SERMONS on NATIONAL SUBJECTS. By CHARLES KINGSLEY, Rector of Eversley, Chaplain in Ordinary to the Queen.
By the same Author,
GOOD NEWS OF GOD: Sermons. Second Edition 6s.
TWENTY-FIVE VILLAGE SERMONS. Fifth Edition. 2s. 6d.
SERMONS FOR THE TIMES. Second Edition. 3s. 6d.
London. John W. Parker and Son, West Strand.

This day, Fifth and Cheaper Edition, 7s. 6d.,

ARUNDINES CAMI sive Musarum Cantabrigiensium Lusus Canori. Collegit atque edidit HENRICUS DRURY, A.M.
London: John W. Parker and Son. Cambridge: Deighton, Bell, and Co.

Now ready, price 2s. 6d.,

WHO'S WHO? 1860. PEERAGE, BARONETAGE, KNIGHTAGE, PARLIAMENTARY GUIDE, &c.
"A complete epitome of that handy knowledge of the personnel of the public life of this country which every one requires to refer to."—Illustrated News.
London: Baily Brothers, Cornhill.

Sixth Thousand, with Frontispiece, cloth, price 5s.,

CHILDREN AT HOME. By Mrs. CAREY BROCK.
Seeley, Jackson, and Halliday, 54, Fleet-street, London.

Third Thousand, with Frontispiece, cloth, price 5s.,

WORKING AND WAITING. By Mrs. CAREY BROCK.
Seeley, Jackson, and Halliday, 54, Fleet-street, London.

Third Thousand, with Frontispiece, cloth, price 5s.,

HOME MEMORIES. By Mrs CAREY BROCK.
Seeley, Jackson, and Halliday, 54, Fleet-street, London.

Just ready, price 6s., cloth gilt,

ECHOES FROM DREAMLAND: a Selection of New and Original Poems by "FRANK NORMAN." Fcap 8vo, cloth, elegant.—London: Ward and Lock.

THE ART of ILLUMINATING, as Practised in Europe from the Earliest Times. Illustrated by INITIAL LETTERS and ALPHABETS, selected from the British Museum, South Kensington Museum, and other valuable collections. By W. R. TYMMS; with an Essay on the Practice of the Art at the Present Day, by M. DIGBY WYATT, Architect. Publishing in Parts of 8 or 9 Plates, price 5s.—London: Day and Son, Lithographers to the Queen.

Just published, Second Edition, with Illustrative Map, price One Shilling,

AMERICAN SECURITIES.—PRACTICAL HINTS ON THE TESTS OF STABILITY AND PROFIT, for the Guidance and Warning of British Investors. By "AN ANGLO-AMERICAN."
Owing to the rapid sale of this pamphlet, a Second Edition, revised and enlarged, has been published, with an Illustrative Map, showing the principal Railways in operation in the Eastern and Western States. In this edition the author will endeavour to answer every objection raised by the editor of the "Times'" City article, and by other public writers, in commenting on the first edition; and, it being to the advantage of the people of both countries to uphold the character of really sound and profitable enterprises, the author's views will be addressed not only to the British public, but to those whose successful administration of money, advanced in England for public works in America, deserves honourable mention. Besides twenty-eight thousand miles already in operation, sixteen thousand miles of new railway, involving an estimated expenditure of eighty millions sterling, are either under construction or projected. This circumstance enforces the importance of British capitalists looking carefully to the existence of reliable guarantees for safety and profit.
Contents.—The Author and the Reviewers, page 3; Practical Hints for the guidance of Investors, 13; Railway Progress in America, 34; Produce, Population, &c., 38; Dividends and Interest on Securities, 44; Commerce and Shipping, &c., 45.
London: Published by Mann Nephews, 39, Cornhill; W. P. Metchim, 20, Parliament-street; Bradshaw and Blacklock, 47, Bloom-street, Manchester; and T. Fairbrother, 13 Canning-place, Liverpool.

PROFESSOR BENNETT ON CONSUMPTION.
The Second Edition, demy 8vo, price 7s. 6d., is now ready of

THE PATHOLOGY AND TREATMENT OF PULMONARY CONSUMPTION. By J. HUGHES BENNETT, M.D., Professor of the Institutes of Medicine, and Senior Professor of Clinical Medicine in the University of Edinburgh.
Edinburgh: A. and C. Black. London: Longman and Co.; and all Booksellers.

Fourth Edition, just published price 2s. 6d.; or by post 32 stamps,

DISEASES OF THE SKIN: a Guide to their Treatment, and Prevention; illustrated by Cases. By THOMAS HUNT, F.R.C.S., Surgeon to the Western Dispensary for Diseases of the Skin, 21a, Charlotte-street, Fitzroy-square. "Mr. Hunt has transferred these diseases from the incurable class to the curable."—Lancet.—London: T. Richards, 37, Great Queen-street.

Third Edition, just published, price 2s. 6d.; by post, 2s. 8d.,

THE EAR IN HEALTH AND DISEASE; with Remarks on the Prevention of Deafness. By WILLIAM HARVEY, F.R.C.S., Surgeon to the Royal Dispensary for Diseases of the Ear.—London: Henry Renshaw, 356, Strand.

PARALYSIS, NEURALGIA, &c.: Their Curative Treatment with the Aid of Galvanism. By HARRY LOBB, M.R.C.S., &c. Cloth bound, Illustrated. Price 5s.
H. Bailliere, 219, Regent-street.

FIELD'S NEW ILLUMINATED PRAYER-BOOK, large type, and beautifully printed in gold and colours, from designs by Samuel Stanesby, bound in best morocco. Price 0s. 6d. Sent post-free from JOHN FIELD'S Great Bible Warehouse, 65, Regent's-quadrant. A very handsome gift-book.

THE PRETTIEST GIFT-BOOK EVER PUBLISHED.—The PICTORIAL POCKET BIBLE, with nearly 300 Wood Engravings, clear type, and 50,000 References, bound in the best morocco, for 14s., post-free. Only to be had at JOHN FIELD'S Great Bible Warehouse, 65, Regent's-quadrant, London.

ON the 20th of MARCH will be published THE ROYAL REVIEW OF FASHION, containing Beautiful Illustrations of the New Fashions in SHAWLS, CLOAKS, and DRESSES. Will be sent post-free, on receipt of Six Stamps, by the Publishers, Messrs. FARMER and ROGERS, the great India Warehouse, 171, 173, and 175, Regent-street, W.

A SMALL POWERFUL DAY and NIGHT WAISTCOAT-POCKET PERSPECTIVE GLASS, the size of a walnut, to discern minute objects at the distance of from five to six miles. Price 30s. MAGIC LANTERNS, with Dissolving Views and the Oxycalcium brilliant Light, with newly-invented German lenses and reflector. Compound Microscopes, in endless variety. Every description of Optical, Mathematical, and Philosophical Instruments.
S. and B. SOLOMONS, Opticians, 39 Albemarle-street, Piccadilly.

TELESCOPES, Opera, Race-course, Field, and general Out-door Day and Night Perspective GLASSES, very small, for the waistcoat-pocket, each containing twelve and eighteen lenses constructed of German glass. Will show distinctly a person to know them at two-and-a-half and three miles, and an object from eight to ten miles distant. They are preferred for deerstalking by sportsmen, gentlemen, and gamekeepers. Telescopes, 3½ inches long, by which a person may be clearly seen and known at 3½ miles, and an object at 12 to 14 miles distance; and, with an extra astronomical eye-piece, Jupiter's moons, Saturn's rings, and the double stars are distinctly seen. All the above can be had of larger and all sizes, with increasing powers, and are secured by her Majesty's Royal letters patent
Messrs. SOLOMONS, Opticians, 39, Albemarle-street, Piccadilly, W.

SPECTACLES.—Optical Improvements, to enable persons at an advanced age to read with ease, and to distinguish objects with perfect distinctness.—Messrs. SOLOMONS have invented SPECTACLE LENSES of the greatest transparent power. The valuable advantage derived from this invention is that vision becoming impaired is preserved and strengthened; very aged persons are enabled to employ their sight at the most minute occupation; can see with these lenses of a much less magnifying power, and they do not require the frequent changes, to the dangerous effects of further powerful assistance.—39, Albemarle-street, Piccadilly.

DEAFNESS.—A newly-invented Instrument for extreme cases of Deafness, called the Sound Magnifier, Organic Vibrator, and Invisible Voice Conductor. It fits into the ear so as not to be in the least perceptible: the unpleasant sensation of singing noises in the head is entirely removed. It affords instant relief to deaf persons, and enables them to hear distinctly at church and at public assemblies. Every other kind of hearing Instrument
Messrs. SOLOMONS Opticians, 39, Albemarle-street, Piccadilly W.

SPECTACLES.—Important Improvement in the construction of LENSES for SPECTACLES.—The improved method of grinding and polishing these glasses renders them so brilliantly transparent that aged or young persons, suffering from most defective vision, are by their aid enabled to see clearly and distinctly for any length of time without the eyes becoming fatigued. They do not require the frequent changing to stronger magnifying powers, which is so injurious to the sight. The most eminent members of the medical faculty approve and recommend them. Illustrated catalogues, containing prices of spectacles, opera, racecourse, or field-glasses, telescopes, &c. post-free on receipt of two stamps.—KEYZOR and BENDON, Opticians (successors to Harris and Son), 50, High Holborn.

HOSPITAL for CONSUMPTION, Brompton. Subscriptions, Donations, and Legacies are GREATLY NEEDED to maintain in full vigour this charity, which has no endowment. Philip Rose, Hon. Sec. Henry Dobbin, Sec.

BRIGHTON.—EDUCATION.—Two Ladies, who receive a limited number of Pupils, have Vacancies for Three Young Ladies. The educational advantages are of the highest order, and domestic comfort is much considered. Terms moderate. Address Z. Z., Mr. Forster, Chemist, King's-road, Brighton.

DANCING.—Mr. BLAND and DAUGHTERS give Lessons DAILY to Adults in the Valse, Galop, Lancers, &c., the Misses Bland officiating as partners. 53, Brewer-street, Regent-street, W.

MINES.—Mr. LELEAN continues to BUY and SELL DIVIDEND MINE SHARES for Cash. He has also for sale Shares that are paying upwards of 20 per cent. Reliable information given to capitalists desirous of investing in progressive or speculative Mines (these latter, when judiciously selected, frequently advance 500 per cent. on the outlay in a few months). Railway, Bank, or other Shares bought, sold, or exchanged at a moderate charge.—Mr. LELEAN, Stock and Share Dealer, 4, Cushion-court, Old Broad-street, E.C.; Bankers, Sir J. W. Lubbock and Co., Mansion House-street.

TO INVESTORS.—CONSOLS CAPITAL STOCK is a medium for employing and improving Large or Small Sums of Money in connection with Government Securities. The Stock is issued by the Consols Insurance Association 429, Strand, London. Incorporated pursuant to Act of Parliament. Investments bear Five per Cent per Annum Interest, receivable monthly, if desired. Full particulars may be obtained on application at the Chief Offices, 429, Strand, London, to Thomas H. Baylis, Managing Director.

THE IRON-BRIDGE ASSOCIATION, 58, Pall-mall, London, manufacture and erect Iron Bridges, Piers, and Wharfs of every description. Agents wanted in Australia, California, Chili, Demerara, Mauritius, Peru, and Trinidad

---

NEW ART-UNION.—Limited to 5000 Subscribers.—For a Subscription of one guinea will be given a Set of SEVEN of the finest large LINE ENGRAVINGS ever issued, the proof impressions of which were published at 70 guineas. They are of world-wide celebrity and undying interest. Each of the seven given for the guinea subscription is of more value than the single print usually given by Art-Unions for the same sum. The plates will be destroyed so soon as the 5000 sets are absorbed, so that each subscriber will thereupon hold a property worth at least 10s. 6d. an impression, or £3 13s. 6d. for the set of seven; and, as no more copies can be produced, it may be relied upon that, before long, the set will be worth £7 7s., or more. Upon application a set of the engravings will be sent for inspection anywhere in London. Specimens may be seen, and prospectuses obtained, at DAY and SON'S, Lithographers to the Queen, 6, Gate-street, Lincoln's-inn-fields, London.

CHRIST BLESSING LITTLE CHILDREN. Proposals for the publication, upon an entirely new plan, of the marvellous line Engraving by J. H. WATT, after the well-known Picture by Sir CHARLES EASTLAKE, P.R.A., of "Christ Blessing Little Children;" an arrangement which will enable every subscriber for a 15-guinea artist's proof, to obtain this first and most intrinsically valuable state of the plate, virtually free of cost.—Particulars on application to DAY and SON, Lithographers to the Queen, 6, Gate-street, Lincoln's Inn Fields, London.

DAY and SON, Lithographers to the Queen, execute in the best style, on the most reasonable terms, and with dispatch, every description of LITHOGRAPHY, Chromo-Lithography, and Steel and Copper plate Printing, artistic or commercial. Estimates prepared with promptness.—Gate-street, Lincoln's-inn-fields.

BINDING THE ILLUSTRATED LONDON NEWS.—Subscribers and Purchasers can have their VOLUMES BOUND in the appropriate Covers, with gilt edges, at 5s. per Volume, by sending them carriage-paid with post-office order payable to LEIGHTON, SON, and HODGE 13, Shoe-lane, London. The only Binders authorised by the proprietors

---

NO CHARGE MADE for STAMPING PAPER and ENVELOPES with ARMS, CREST, or INITIALS. RODRIGUES' Cream-laid Adhesive ENVELOPES, 4d. per 100; Cream-laid Note, full size, five quires for 6d.; thick ditto, five quires for 1s.; Foolscap, 9s. per ream. At H. RODRIGUES', 42, Piccadilly.

WEDDING CARDS, WEDDING ENVELOPES, Invitations to the Ceremony, Déjeûner, and Ball, Printed and Stamped in Silver, with Arms or Crest, in the latest fashion. Card Plate elegantly Engraved and 100 superfine Cards Printed for 4s. 6d. At HENRY RODRIGUES', 42, Piccadilly.

WEDDING and BIRTHDAY PRESENTS.—Dressing Cases, Travelling Dressing Bags, Despatch Boxes, Writing Cases, Jewel Cases, Ladies' Reticule and Carriage Bags; Mediæval Mounted Envelope Cases, Blotting Books, and Inkstands en suite; the New Patent Self-closing Book-slide; also, a choice variety of Elegancies and Novelties suitable for Presentation; to be had at H. RODRIGUES' well-known Establishment, 42, Piccadilly.

ONE GUINEA BOXES OF ILLUMINATING COLOURS AND MATERIALS. Also, guinea-and-a-half, two guinea, and three guinea ditto. Fitted very complete.
WINSOR and NEWTON, 38, Rathbone-place, London, W.

MONUMENTS, TOMBS, CHIMNEY-PIECES, &c.—The largest STOCK of MANUFACTURED MARBLE in Europe on view at the British and Foreign Marble Galleries, 17, Newman-street. Manufactories—Carrara, Brussels, and 17, Newman-street, Oxford-street.
EDWARDES, EDWARDS, and Co., Proprietors.

FOR FAMILY ARMS send Name and County to the HERALDIC OFFICE, 44, High Holborn, W.C. Sketch and Description, 2s. 6d.; in Colour, 5s.; on Vellum, 21s. Official Seals, Dies, and Diploma Plates in Mediæval and Modern Styles.

STAINED GLASS.—Your Arms, Crest, and Motto, size 13 in. by 11 in., 30s. Designs and Estimates for Memorial Windows, Monumental Brasses, Monograms, &c. Illustrated Price-lists post-free.—MORING, Heraldic Artist, High Holborn.

SOLID GOLD, 18-carat, Hall-marked, Sardonyx or Bloodstone RING, Engraved Crest, Two Guineas. Larger size Engraved Arms, Crest, and Motto, 75s. Desk-seals, Pencil-cases, &c.—MORING, 44, High Holborn, W.C.

FOR FAMILY ARMS, CREST, or PEDIGREE, send Name and County, and in three days you will receive a correct copy of your Armorial Bearings. Plain Sketch, 2s.; in Heraldic Colours, 4s. Family Pedigrees, with original grant of Arms, to whom and when granted, the origin of the family, traced from authentic records at the British Museum, fee 21s. An Index kept containing the Names of all Persons who are entitled to use Arms as copied from the College of Arms, British Museum, and other places of authority.—By T. CULLETON, Genealogist, Royal Heraldic Office, 25, Cranbourn-street, corner of St. Martin's-lane.

CREST DIES, 6s.; Book Plate, engraved with Arms, 10s., or Crest, 5s; Crest on Seals or Rings, 7s. "The Manual of Heraldry," 400 Illustrations, 3s. By T. CULLETON, Heraldic Engraver to the Queen, H.R.H. the Duke of Cambridge, and the Princess Mary, by appointment, 30th of April, 1852, Diesinker to the Board of Trade and Somerset House; Lecturer on Heraldry at the Mechanics' Institution, &c., 25, Cranbourn-street, corner of St. Martin's-lane, W.C. The Studio and Library open daily.

EMBOSSING PRESS, 15s.—By means of this Press persons can stamp their own paper with Crest or Address. Carriage-free for P.O. order.—T. CULLETON, Seal Engraver, 25, Cranbourn-street (corner of St. Martin's-lane), W.C.

WEDDING CARDS—For Lady and Gentleman—50 each. 50 Embossed Enamelled Envelopes, with Maiden Name printed inside, 13s. Sent free for stamps. A Copper Plate Engraved in any style and 50 Visiting Cards for 2s. Post-free. T. CULLETON, Seal Engraver, 25, Cranbourn-street, corner of St. Martin's-lane, W.C.

THE PEN SUPERSEDED.—MARK YOUR LINEN.—The best and only method of marking linen, silk, stockings, coarse towels, &c., so as to prevent the ink washing out, is with CULLETON'S PATENT ELECTRO-SILVER PLATES. By means of this novel invention a Thousand Pieces of Linen can be marked in one Hour, with Initials, Name, Coronet, or Crest; with directions for use. Sent post-free for stamps. Initial Plate, 1s.; Name, 2s. 6d.; Set of Movable Numbers, 2s. 6d.; Crest, 5s.
T. Culleton, Patentee, 25, Cranbourn-street corner of St. Martin's-lane, W.C.

HADLOW'S PATENT LINENMARKER.—WHAT IS IT?—New Method of Marking Linen.—Ladies should send for specimens (gratis) to the Inventor and Patentee Hadlow, Brighton.

BIJOU NEEDLE-CASE, containing 100 of DEANE'S DRILLED-EYED NEEDLES, for 1s. This neat, useful, and elegant appendage to a Lady's Work-table will be forwarded post free on receipt of twelve postage-stamps.—Address to DEANE and CO., London-bridge, E.C. Established A.D. 1700.

MECHI and BAZIN'S DESPATCH-BOX WRITING CASES, in russia and morocco leather, are made in twenty different forms and sizes, fitted with real Bramah and Chubb Locks; also, others of a cheaper description. Prices vary from £1 to £50. Portable writing and dressing cases, brush cases, courier bags, picnic cases, wicker luncheon baskets, sporting knives, wine and spirit flasks, &c.—112 Regent-street, W.; and 4, Leadenhall-street, E.C.

2s. 6d. LADIES'! 2s. 9d. GENTLEMEN'S!! Very Best PARIS KID GLOVES. 1s. 6d. Ladies', 1s. 6d. Gentlemen's, best Alpine Kid.—BAKER and CRISP, 221, Regent-street. Samples sent for two extra stamps.

LAST YEAR'S MUSLINS!—BAREGES!!
Balzarines, Mohairs, &c., at half the original cost.
Patterns sent free.
BAKER and CRISP, 221, Regent street (entrance Maddox-street).

MOIRE ANTIQUE.—Patterns post-free!!!
The Royal Court Moire Antiques, worth £4, in every colour, for 2 guineas.
BLACK SILKS.—Rich Black Ducapes, £1 5s. 6d. full Robe.
BAKER and CRISP, 221, Regent-street (entrance Maddox-street).

---

25 PER CENT CHEAPER!! than any House in the World. Patterns sent free.
The New Mohairs, Barèges, Balzarines, Llamas, Grenadines, Brilliants, Cambrics, Muslins, &c., &c.
BAKER and CRISP, 221, Regent-street (only entrance Maddox-street).

SLIGHTLY SOILED FINE FRENCH CAMBRIC HANDKERCHIEFS at less than half-price.
Ladies' and Gentlemen's Goods that were 1, 2, 3 guineas the dozen, now selling for 10s. 6d., 15s., 21s. Hemmed stitched and bordered.
BAKER and CRISP, Regent-street (entrance Maddox-street).

OUR READY-MADE DRESSES!!!
Engravings and Patterns
post-free.
BAKER and CRISP, Regent-street (entrance Maddox street).

NEW SPRING DRESSES!!!
Patterns post-free.
A lot of Check Mohairs, 6s. 9d., worth 12s. 6d.
The New Pomella Dress, 8s. 9d., and 10s. 9d.
The New Droguet Dress, 12s. 6d. and 14s 6d.
Last Year's Muslins half price.
KNIGHT and COMPANY, SPONSALIA, 217, Regent-street.

THE COSTUME DEPARTMENT. Every Novelty for Ladies' Morning, Walking, or Travelling Dresses complete. The New Cambric Robe, 8s. 9d.
The New Mohair, beautifully trimmed, 14s. 9d. to 2 guineas.
The largest and cheapest Stock in London to choose from.
KNIGHT and COMPANY, SPONSALIA, 217, Regent-street.

NEW FRENCH TARIFF!!! Extraordinary Sale of NEEDLEWORK EMBROIDERIES.—KNIGHT and COMPANY having cleared, at an immense discount, the entire Stock of a French Manufacturer, consisting of Empress, Victoria, and Princess Royal Book and Cambric Jets, Rich Collars and Cuffs, Sleeves, Handkerchiefs, and Flouncings, the same will be offered to their numerous customers on Monday and following days, at half the original cost. Example: sets usually sold at 21s., now 6s. 6d.—Knight and Company, Sponsalia, 217, Regent-street.

MRS. ROBERTSHAW, 100, Oxford-street.
Ladies' Ready-made Linen;
Wedding and India Outfits;
Silk, Lisle, and Balbriggan Stockings;
Dressing Gowns;
Trimmed Petticoats, 16s. 6d.

THE LAST DAYS of the PANTHEON
HALL OF COMMERCE!!!
THE END OF THE MEMORABLE SALE
of
FOREIGN SILKMERCERY, MANTLES, and MIXED GARMENT GOODS, at Nos. 77 and 78, Oxford-street, is approaching.
The last day of negotiation is unalterably fixed for SATURDAY, the 17th day of MARCH. On the 24th day of March Messrs. Mappin and Co., Queen's Cutlers, will take possession of the premises as the future tenants.
EVERY VESTIGE OF THE STOCK IS NOW ALLOTTED, and has been subject to a final reduction. Not an article will be refused; not a vestige is desired to be retained whenever a purchaser is forthcoming.
NOTICE!
All Jouvin's Patent Alpine Kid Gloves, familiar in every household, at 1s. 6d. per pair, are now on sale at Ninepence per pair.
N.B. Country orders, for not less than six pairs, must be accompanied by stamps or post-office order, with 8d. extra for postage.
THE PANTHEON HALL OF COMMERCE,
Nos. 77, 78, Oxford-street (exactly facing the Bazaar).
RUMBELL and OWEN, Proprietors.
NOTE THIS!—No order by post can possibly be attended to after SATURDAY, the 17th day of MARCH.

HOUSEHOLD LINEN DEPARTMENT.—JOHN HARVEY, SON, and CO., of 9, Ludgate-hill, established upwards of fifty years, will send patterns or samples free, for inspection or comparison, of their rich DOUBLE DAMASK TABLE CLOTHS, with Napkins and Slip-cloths to match, diaper and damask, by the yard, 6-4, 7-4, 8-4, and 10-4 wide; sheetings in width from 1 to 3½ yards; cotton sheeting from 1 to 3 yards wide; huckabacks, medical, Baden-Baden, roll towelings, glass and knife cloths, dusters, &c., made up and marked upon the shortest notice. Carriage paid upon amounts above £5. Families waited upon at home in London.

SILKS, Rich, Plain, Striped, and Checked Glacé, at 22s. 6d. per Dress of 12 yards, well worth the attention of families. Patterns sent free by post. Also patterns and prices of their rich stock of silks.—JOHN HARVEY, SON, and CO., 9, Ludgate-hill. Established upwards of 50 years. Carriage paid upon amounts above £5

FRENCH SILKS DUTY FREE. GRANT and GASK (late Williams and Co.), have just received a large importation of New French Silks, which they are enabled to sell at greatly-reduced prices in consequence of the abolition of the duty. Grant and Gask beg also to state that the whole of their extensive Stock of French Silks, Barèges, &c., have been reduced in price from 10 to 15 per cent. Orders for Wedding Trousseaux, Court Trains, and Family Mourning executed in the first style, under the superintendence of an experienced manager.
Patterns forwarded to the Country.
59, 60, 61, and 62, Oxford-street; and 3, 4, and 5, Wells-street.

THE HALF-GUINEA CLOTH JACKET.
The Guinea-and-Half Velvet Jacket.

	s.	d.
Rich Sealskin Paletots	22	6
Black Lace Jackets	12	9
White Muslin Jackets	9	10½
Cashmere Opera Jackets	12	9
The Military Braided Cloth Jacket	13	9

Illustrations free.
The Two-Guinea Three-flounced Black Silk Dress.
THE FRENCH MUSLIN COMPANY, 16, Oxford-street.

THE TIME TO BUY MUSLINS CHEAP.
Last Year's Muslins clearing out.
Retail Drapers, Shippers, and Families will save immensely.
Patterns post-free.
THE FRENCH MUSLIN COMPANY, 16, Oxford-street.

LINENDRAPERS TO THE QUEEN BY APPOINTMENT.
Established in 1778.

BABIES' BASSINETS,
Trimmed and Furnished
ready for use, and sent home free of carriage.
BABIES' BASKETS,
Trimmed and Furnished to correspond.
CAPPER, SON, and CO., 69, Gracechurch-street, London, E.C.
Descriptive Lists, with Prices, sent free by post.

Sent post-free, Descriptive Lists of

COMPLETE SETS of BABY LINEN,
which are sent home
throughout the kingdom free of carriage.
UNDERCLOTHING FOR HOME, INDIA, AND THE COLONIES for Ladies and Children of all ages.

LINENDRAPERS TO THE QUEEN BY APPOINTMENT.
Established in 1778.

LADIES' WEDDING OUTFITS,
sent home free of carriage.
Descriptive Lists, with Prices, sent free by post.
CAPPER, SON, and CO., 69, Gracechurch-street, London, E.C.

TOUR DE BABEL. FRENCH GLOVE WAREHOUSE, 84, Regent-street, W.
The Stock of Best Paris Kid Gloves at 2s. 6d. per pair of this unrivalled Establishment is this year the largest, newest, and most varied ever submitted to its numerous patrons.

BERDOE'S WATERPROOF CAPES.—The extensive sale of these first-class garments is their best recommendation. 96, New Bond-street; and 69, Cornhill (north side).

SAUNDERS'S FACE POWDER, OR BLOOM OF NINON, Beautifies and Preserves the Complexion, and contains nothing injurious. Packets 6d. and 1s., free for 8 or 16 stamps
J. Touzeau Saunders, 148, Oxford-street, W.

KALYDOR SOAP.—This soap needs but a trial to prove its softening and beautifying effects upon the skin. Made by the inventor, J. THOMPSON, Factory, 6, King-street, Holborn, London. 3d., 4d., and 6d. each Tablet.

WANTED, LEFT-OFF CLOTHES, Uniforms, Outfits, Miscellaneous Property, &c. The highest price given. Ladies or Gentlemen waited on by addressing to Mr. or Mrs HART, 31, Newcastle-street, Strand, W.C. Parcels sent, the utmost value in cash immediately remitted. Established 1801.

P. and S. BEYFUS' £28 DINING-ROOM
SUITE consists of
Six mahogany chairs in morocco and hair.
One easy do., spring stuffed do.
Cabriole couch do. do.
Set telescope dining tables to dine 12 persons
Superior sideboard, fitted with trays and cellaret-drawer.
City Furniture Warehouses, 91, 93, 95, City-road.

P. and S. BEYFUS' £35 DRAWING-ROOM
SUITE consists of
Rosewood or Walnut Loo-table on pillar and claw;
Chiffonier, with marble top, plate-glass back and doors
Cabriole couch, covered in silk velvet or damask
Easy-chair en suite;
Six handsome chairs, ditto
Chimney-glass in gilt frame
Two papier-mâché chairs;
Handsome whatnot;
Elegant work-table, fitted
Occasional table.
City Furniture Warehouses, 91, 93, 95, City-road.

P. and S. BEYFUS' £26 BEDROOM SUITE consists of
Superior mahogany bedstead, with rich damask furniture.
Palliasse and wool mattress;
Goose-feather bed, bolster, and pillows
Washstand, with marble top
Dressing-table, with ditto
British plate toilet-glass;
Mahogany towel-horse;
Four cane chairs;
Superior winged wardrobe
£4 servants' bedroom complete.
£7 Bachelor's bedroom complete.

P. and S. BEYFUS Pay the Carriage for Goods to any part of the Kingdom.
P. and S. BEYFUS warrant and exchange any article not approved.
P. and S. BEYFUS forward their complete Catalogue, Illustrated by 300 Engravings, gratis and post-free.—P. and S. Beyfus, City Furniture Warehouses, 91, 93, and 95, City-road.

J. MAPLE and CO.'S FIRST-CLASS FURNITURE.—Mahogany wing wardrobes, 9 guineas; ditto with plate-glass doors, 11 guineas; ditto, in painted wood, with plate glass doors, 5½ guineas. Bedsteads of every description in wood, iron, and brass, fitted with drapery and bedding complete. Several suites of drawing-room furniture, from 12 to 20 guineas. The Eugénie easy-chair, 25s.; couch to correspond, 3 guineas; many chiffoniers with plate-glass and marble, from £5 to £25. Marqueterie cabinets, from 2 guineas; very large ditto, in buhl, from £12 to £25; bookcases from 4½ guineas; dining-tables, both in mahogany and oak, from 3 to 30 guineas.
J. MAPLE and CO., entrance 145, Tottenham-court-road, the most convenient furnishing establishment in the world. Families furnishing should visit these warehouses before giving their orders: it will save them much time, trouble, and expense. Established 20 years.

J. MAPLE and CO. for CARPETS.
Magnificent Brussels,
2s. 9d. to 3s. the yard
145, 146, 147, Tottenham-court-road

FURNITURE, CARPETS, AND BEDDING. ROBERT GREEN and CO., Portland Bazaar, Langham place, Regent-street, invite the Nobility and Gentry to their extensive Stock of FURNITURE, which for style and sterling quality is unsurpassed; also to their new system of fitting up a number of rooms in one long gallery, enabling purchasers at a glance to estimate the cost of any class of house. Drawing-room Suite, in fine Walnut and Rich Silk, £45; Spanish Mahogany Dining-room Suite, covered in morocco, £40; Bedroom, in Spanish Mahogany, including Bed Furniture and Wing Wardrobe, £28; Enamelled Suite of Bedroom Furniture, of new design, £21; Servants' Bedroom, complete, £4 16s. to £5 16s.; Brussels Carpet, 2s. 6d. per yard.

GARDNERS' £2 2s. DINNER SERVICES COMPLETE, best quality. Breakfast, Dessert, Tea, and Toilet Services equally low. Cut Wines, 3s. 6d. per dozen; Cut Quart Decanters, 7s. 6d. per pair.—Gardners' (established 107 years), to her Majesty, 63 and 453, Strand. Engravings free by post.

SARL and SONS, 17 and 18, Cornhill, respectfully solicit a visit to their magnificent Establishment. The Ground Floor is more particularly devoted to the display of Fine Gold Jewellery, Gold and Silver Watches, and Fine Gold Chains. The Silver-Plate Department is in the Gallery of the Building, and consists of every article requisite for the table and sideboard. In the magnificent Showrooms is displayed a large and beautiful stock of Argentine Plate, the manufacture of which has stood the test of twenty years' experience. Sarl and Sons have also fitted up a separate Showroom for the display of Drawing and Dining Room Clocks of the most exquisite designs.
Books containing Drawings and Prices may be had on application.
Sarl and Sons, 17 and 18, Cornhill, London.

PAPERHANGINGS.—The Largest and Best Stock in London of French and English Designs, commencing at 12 yards for 6d., is at CROSS'S, 70, Great Portland-street, Oxford-street. House Painting and Decorating in every style. Estimates.

CHUBB'S WROUGHT-IRON FIREPROOF SAFES—all secured by their Gunpowder Proof Steel-plated Detector Locks, and Patent Drill Preventive. Illustrated Priced-Lists post-free.—CHUBB and SON, 57, St. Paul's Churchyard, E.C.

DON'T BEAT YOUR CARPETS: have them thoroughly cleansed from all impurities and the colours revived by patent process, 3d., 4d., &c., per yard. Lace, muslin, and damask curtains, chintzes, dimities, blankets, quilts, &c., beautifully finished. Dyeing in all its branches. Articles received from all parts of England. Price lists sent. Moderate charges. Fetched and returned in town in eight days.—METROPOLITAN STEAM BLEACHING and DYEING COMPANY, Wharf-road, City-road, N

EAU-DE-VIE,—This pure PALE BRANDY, though only 16s. per gallon, is demonstrated, upon analysis, to be peculiarly free from acidity, and very superior to recent importations of veritable Cognac. In French bottles, 34s. per dozen; or securely packed in a case for the country, 35s.—HENRY BRETT and CO., Old Furnival's Distillery, Holborn

---

HORNIMAN'S PURE TEA is "always good alike," as importing it not covered with powdered colour prevents the Chinese passing off the low-priced brown autumn leaves as the best. Prices, 3s. 8d., 4s., and 4s. 4d. per lb., in packets.—Pursell, 80, Cornhill; Elphinstone, 227, Regent-street; Wolf, 75 St. Paul's; Fortescue, Bayswater; Pegg, Notting-hill; Purvis, Islington; Bliss, Brompton; Cheeseman, Camden-town; Johnston, Charing-cross; Salmon, Chelsea; Webster, Moorgate-street; Newell, Hackney; Dodson, Borough. Horniman's Agents are to be found in every town

---

BROWN AND POLSON'S

PATENT CORN FLOUR.
The "Lancet" states
"This is superior to anything of the kind known."
The most wholesome part of the best Indian Corn, prepared by a process patented for the three Kingdoms and France, and wherever it becomes known obtains great favour for Puddings, Custards, and Blancmange; all the uses of the finest arrowroot, and especially suited to the delicacy of Children and Invalids.—Brown and Polson, Manufacturers to her Majesty the Queen, Ironmonger-lane, London.

ROBINSON'S PATENT GROATS, the most esteemed and best-known preparation for making pure gruel. Persons of weak digestion or constipative habit would derive benefit from its use.
ROBINSON, BELLVILLE and CO., Purveyors to the Queen, 64, Red Lion-street, Holborn, London. Established 1764.

EPPS'S HOMŒOPATHIC COCOA.—Its delicious aroma, grateful smoothness, and invigorating power render it a desirable beverage for Breakfast, Luncheon, or Supper. Sold in 1lb., ½lb., and ¼lb. packets, at 1s. 6d. per lb., by Grocers. Each packet is labelled "James Epps, Homœopathic Chemist, London."

HOMŒOPATHIC COCOA.—TAYLOR BROTHERS' Homœopathic Cocoa is unequalled as an article of Diet for Homœopathic Patients, Dyspeptics, and Persons of Delicate Constitutions. Sold by all Grocers, in packets, at 1s. 3d. per lb.

ABERDEEN TONGUES from the HIGHLAND BULLOCKS.—These Tongues, though less in size, are much superior in quality to any others. Price 4s. House and Grass Lamb, at per quarter. Clun Forest Mutton, four years old, small, of high character, saddles 9d. per lb., legs 10d.
LIDSTONE and CO., Butchers, 110, New Bond-street, W.

SAUSAGES—GENUINE HOME MADE.—Pork, 11d.; Beef, 7d. per lb.—DOSSETOR and SON, Butchers, 5, Russell street, Covent-garden, W.C.

£10,000 DAMAGES.—The Proprietors of the GLENFIELD PATENT STARCH hereby caution Grocers, Druggists, Chandlers, &c., against selling any imitation of their Starch, as by a decision, in Chancery, of the Master of the Rolls, Wotherspoon v. Turner (see "Times," and other London daily papers, of the 26th of November, 1859), they are equally liable to the above penalty with the makers of the spurious article.

BLIGHTS, MILDEW, BED-BUGS.—GISHURST COMPOUND, patented for preventing and destroying these and other pests—see "Gardener's Chronicle," "Cottage Gardener," and "Field." In boxes, 1s., 3s., 10s 6d. Retail of all Nursery and Seeds Men; wholesale of Price's Patent Candle Company.

(Continued from page 245)

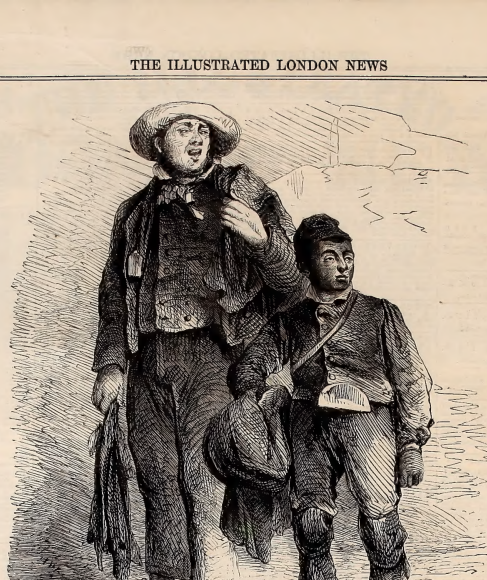
Falmouth, and his Lordship, having used the trowel upon the cement, thus completed this part of the business, and retained the trowel as a memento of the ceremony. The stone was lowered and adjusted to its position in a professional manner by the P.D.G.M. for Cornwall. The Rev. W. J. Coope commenced reading a prayer, and at the proper time a cornucopia was handed to Brother Pearce, who scattered upon the stone the wheat which it contained. A goblet of wine and a vase of oil were poured over the stone, and the prayer was concluded, all the "brethren" responding "So mote it be." Other masonic ceremonies having been performed, Lord Falmouth mounted the stone and was greeted with hearty cheers. He expressed his belief that, in consequence of the improvements brought about by steam, only ports nearest to the ocean will be chosen for embarkation, and some of the eastern towns must yield up their trade to Falmouth when this port is brought into direct communication by railway with other parts of the kingdom, and this beautiful expanse of inland water becomes the great highway to the ocean. He congratulated the directors on the commencement of an undertaking which would economize property, preserve life, and save time; and added that, in future years, all present may be proud to remember that they had taken a part in that important and interesting occasion Three cheers were given for the Queen, three cheers for the Prince of Wales, and three cheers for Mr. Gurney, M.P.; after which the procession reformed, and returned to the town of Falmouth.

The above particulars of the ceremonial of laying the foundation-stone are abridged from the Western Morning News, and annexed is a brief account of the works themselves:—



An outer or seaward breakwater, now called the Prince of Wales Breakwater (the laying of the foundation-stone of which on the 28th ultimo forms the subject of our Engraving), together with another breakwater of 1500 feet in length, will inclose a tidal harbour of forty-two acres area, having a depth of 18 feet in it at low water of spring tides, and at high-water spring tides a depth of 30 feet 6 inches, and a neap of 27 feet. On the southern side of this great tidal harbour there is to be constructed an extensive range of graving docks on a large scale, with workshops and all other appurtenances necessary for the repairs of shipping. Beyond the tidal harbour, to the westward, there is to be constructed a floating dock of fourteen acres area, with an entrance capable of admitting the largest class of shipping, and having an average depth of water of 30 feet. Round the margin of the dock there will be broad and spacious quays, with extensive ranges of sheds and warehouses, in immediate connection with the projected railway to Truro, which it is proposed immediately to commence, so that the journey from Falmouth to London will be brought within a period of ten hours; and, seeing the great saving that will be effected to the shipping by avoiding the dangerous and intricate navigation up the Channel by using Falmouth as their port, there is great probability of its eventually becoming the principal packet-station in the kingdom.

Our Engraving is from a sketch by Mr. George Townsend, of Exeter.

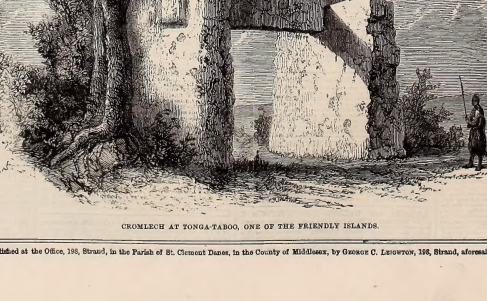
SAVOYARDS IN PARIS.

SINCE the agitation of the question of the annexation of Savoy to France considerable excitement has been evinced by the Savoyards who inhabit Paris. A petition in favour of that project is being got up by a committee of the subsidy Piedmontese subjects, to be presented to the Emperor Napoleon, requesting the speedy realisation of the proposed union. Among the 35,000 Savoyards who live in Paris, many of whom have arrived at highly respectable positions from very modest beginnings, a feeling of gratitude towards France seems to be the prevailing sentiment. Shut in in their own country by Mount Cenis on the one side, which renders commerce with the rest of Piedmont difficult, and by the frontier of France on the other, those who remain on their native soil have to rely entirely on their own resources. It is for this reason that at least two-thirds of the population emigrate, carrying with them a spirit of enterprise and perseverance that generally meets its reward. Thus it is that, out of two millions of Savoyards, not more than 600,000 inhabit their mother country the remainder dispersed themselves over all parts of the globe; and England, America, and France especially, receive annually a large influx of this migratory people.

We give an Engraving of two familiar types to whom the appellation of Savoyards is mostly given, though not always at the present day with accuracy, as many of those who fill the occupation of ramoneurs and marchands de peaux de lapin (sweeps, and rabbit-skin dealers) come from the mountain districts of France. However, our Illustration, drawn from nature, represents two real Savoyards, the master and the boy, almost inseparables, for as soon as the one appears in sight, or comes within hearing, the other is sure to follow quickly. The lot of these poor Savoyard boys is far from happy. Hardly worked, indifferently fed, and not often treated with ordinary kindness, they drag through their three years' apprenticeship for a small pittance paid at its expiration, upon the receipt of which they base their hopes for the future. This idea of a pecuniary starting-point, early implanted in the young mind of the little mountaineers, seems to sustain them in their arduous existence, and it is rare to find one who is discouraged by his present sufferings. They may often be seen to smile and show their snow-white teeth; and when their bright black eyes are enlivened by a momentary pleasure, which the most trifling enjoyment suffices to produce, their animation of countenance leads one to hope that the future may reserve for them, as it generally does, a less painful position.

SAVOYARDS IN PARIS.—FROM A DRAWING BY J. A. BEAUCÉ.

A great many of the Savoyards of a more advanced age are employed on their native soil as waiters, shopmen, &c., and become afterwards, by their persevering industry and economy, merchants or tradesmen. A large number of commercial houses in different parts of France have been founded by them; and in the French capital there are many lawyers, bankers, chevaliers of the Legion of Honour, and literary men of note, who first saw the light in Piedmont, but who owe their present honourable stations to the protection and encouragement they have met with in France. It is, therefore, quite natural that they should feel favourably disposed towards the annexation of their native country to the French empire, from which they may reasonably expect an amelioration in the condition of their fellow-countrymen in Savoy, where, under the present circumstances of a geographical obstacle on the one hand and a foreign frontier on the other, all social, political, and commercial progress is surrounded by the greatest difficulties.



CROMLECH AT TONGA-TABOO.

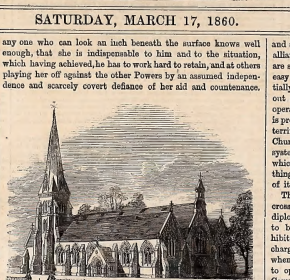
THE extraordinary and colossal structure represented in the accompanying Engraving was discovered several years ago by the late Mr. Philip Hervey, of Sydney, and a drawing made by him has been forwarded to us for publication by his nephew, Mr. Kennedy R. H. Mackenzie, who communicates the following particulars on the subject:—

This cromlech structure is situated on the south-east coast of the island of Tongo-Taboo, the largest of that group of the Friendly Islands known as the Tonga Islands, the other groups being called the Feejee Islands and Navigators' Islands. The island of Tonga-Taboo itself is situated in lat. 20° 47' S., long. 175° 40' W. The cromlech stands alone on a remote coral-bound part of the island, without any other monument or ruin nearer it than the cyclopean tombs of Ha Tui-Tongas, where in "Cook's Voyages" as standing on a clear plain, but since his time have become surrounded by a dense jungle, and may only be reached with difficulty.

From these tombs the cromlech is distant some eight or nine miles. Not having been prepared to expect anything of the kind in a ramble, Mr. Hervey was unprovided with the means of making an exact measurement, but the following may be relied upon to be not far from the truth:—Upper transverse stone, 24 feet long by rather more than 4 feet deep; uprights, 16 feet high on a depth of 5 feet to 9 feet 6 inches from front to back. The material is the coral rock or coral reef of the neighbourhood, differing from all the other structures of the island, which are formed of stone brought from Wallis's Island, an island considerably to the north-westward of Tonga. The mortice and fitting of the cross stone Mr. Hervey found to be done with as much care as the rough material would admit, and on the centre of it a small cava bowl is scooped out. For the benefit of many fond of speculating upon the presumed scientific knowledge of the builders of such monuments it may be mentioned that the cromlech does not appear to be adjusted to any particular point of the compass.

Of the age of this remarkable structure it is impossible to form any idea or to make any estimate; but in all probability it dates from a most remote antiquity. The natives, who can name and point out the tombs of thirty Tui-Tongas, have not even a tradition respecting or connected with it, except that a great spirit laid down his load there. They shrug their shoulders when questioned about it, and say that all the men on the island could not put it up now. At the angle of the stone an immense tree has grown, clasping the corner in its body. Similar to this circumstance is the fact noted by Mr. Catherwood in Yucatan of the ancient pyramidal structures in the forests of Central America, where trees have forced their way between the stones of the pyramid. In England a like instance of a tree growing in the walls of a building may be found at Bexley Abbey, near Maidstone in Kent.

CROMLECH AT TONGA-TABOO, ONE OF THE FRIENDLY ISLANDS.

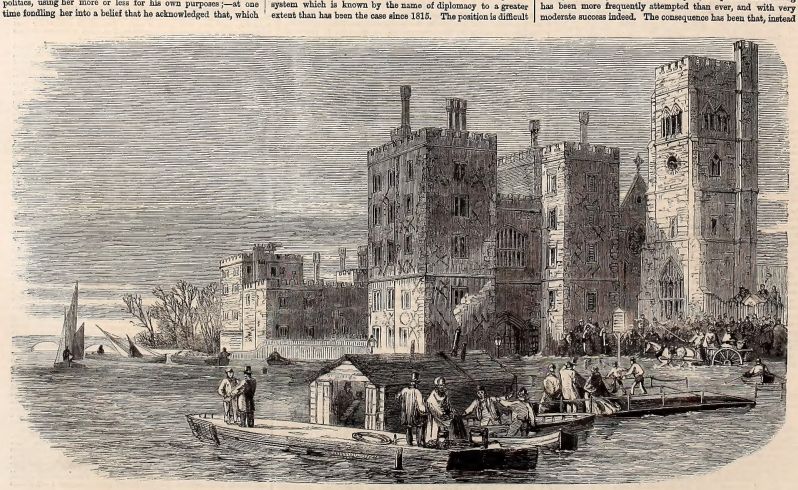


LONDON: Printed and Published at the Office, 198, Strand, in the Parish of St. Clement Danes, in the County of Middlesex, by GEORGE C. LEIGHTON, 198, Strand, aforesaid.—SATURDAY, MARCH 10, 1860.

THE ILLUSTRATED LONDON NEWS.

No. 1022.—VOL. XXXVI.] SATURDAY, MARCH 17, 1860. [WITH A SUPPLEMENT, FIVEPENCE

FOREIGN AFFAIRS.



It is not a little singular that, in a Session which has been characterised by the production of items of domestic legislation which, in their completeness and practical unassailability, partake more than anything we have had for many a long day of the nature of the measures of Sir Robert Peel in his great day of strength, the interest of home affairs should be overshadowed by a feverish excitement with regard to that which is foreign. No doubt something of this peculiarity is owing to the direct connection of our financial plans with a large political and diplomatic question; but, be the cause what it may, the British Parliament is fast freeing itself from the reproach which it has incurred, that it neither cares for nor understands the impossibility of a country like England being able to isolate herself from the consideration of her necessary involvement in the course of events in Europe. There still remain among a few members—of whom, perhaps, Mr. Bright may be taken as a type—an impatience, which certainly deserves the epithet of ignorant, of our legislators stretching their ideas or opinions beyond the limits of mere parish matters. A satirical writer a few years ago, in a remarkably suggestive work on our governing system, dubbed this indifference and something more, to anything that did not concern our internal affairs with the name of the Bermondsey policy, which is as good as any other for curtly expressing what we intend to convey. The narrow circle of home policy in which a school of politicians to whom our statesmen were fast giving way are confined, was somewhat rudely broken by the war with Russia, the exact cause of which we believe that the majority of the professors of that creed in question do not to this day understand. From that time the Emperor of the French has contrived to keep England in the midst, if not in the van, of the march of European politics, using her more or less for his own purposes;—at one time fondling her into a belief that he acknowledged that, which any one who can look an inch beneath the surface knows well enough, that she is indispensable to him and to the situation, which having achieved, he has to work hard to retain, and at others playing her off against the other Powers by an assumed independence and scarcely covert defiance of her aid and countenance.

ALL SAINTS' CHURCH, FRAHRAN, DIOCESE OF MELBOURNE.
SEE SUPPLEMENT, PAGE 285.

For good or for evil, for her advancement to the dignity, such as it is, of being the pivot on which European affairs turn, or for an object against which foreign combination is to be directed, as the case may be, England has become identified with that general system which is known by the name of diplomacy to a greater extent than has been the case since 1815. The position is difficult and anomalous. It is no light task satisfactorily to manipulate an alliance with France when the institutions of the two countries are so destitute of points of cohesion. On the face of it it is not easy to lay down a plan by which a pure despotism and an essentially free State can work together for the purpose of carrying out an idea of liberty. Not less difficult is it to combine the operations of a nation which, from its very nature and its genius, is prone to carry out its objects by means of war, and which treats territoral aggrandisement much in the same way as our chosen Churchmen are supposed to decline to become Bishops, with the system of a country which seeks peace almost at any price, and which, probably because it is utterly without pretext for such a thing, has not the slightest notion of adding to the dominions of its Sovereign within the compass of Europe.

This is a perplexity which evinces itself in the face of a cross-examined Foreign Secretary, and generates a course of diplomatic secrecy which is utterly inconsistent with, and ought to be unknown to, our institutions. Few more ludicrous exhibitions can be witnessed than that of an English Minister charged with reconciling anomalies such as we have indicated, when he performs the critical and embarrassing duty of seeming to open his mind and his counsels to an inquiring House of Commons, when, in fact, his object and his intention is to say nothing. Nothing can be more burlesque than the appearance of a member of a free Parliament, who, being of too romantic a turn of mind to comprehend or to care for tariffs, or to understand the varied mosaic of a financial plan, takes a flight into the region of foreign affairs, when he is told that the public service demands entire reticence on the part of the Minister, and enforced silence on the part of that assembly whose end and being is talk. At most times some such state of things occurs during the sitting of our Legislature; but, this year, the process of muzzling has been more frequently attempted than ever, and with very moderate success indeed. The consequence has been that, instead of steady, set debates, which in their very nature would tend to modify the tone and calm the spirit of discussion, we have short, sharp, angry declamation against the mystery of the Foreign Office, which, in a land of publicity and free ventilation of affairs, contrasts oddly and by no means favourably with the regular and systematic demonstrativeness on all the points of our neighbours over the water, from whose State papers, given periodically to the world at large, our representatives usually first learn what is going on and is about to be done

THE HIGH TIDE AT LAMBETH ON WEDNESDAY WEEK.—SEE PAGE 255.

However the British Parliament may concern itself in the minor consideration of pressing the secrets of diplomacy out of the Secretary for Foreign Affairs, it seems quite clear that the vexed questions which agitate Europe are settling, or unsettling, as the case may be, themselves. The remarkable principle of universal suffrage in the choice of rulers is in full swing. Tuscany and the Romagna have unequivocably pronounced for a junction with Piedmont, and the erection of an Italian kingdom with a population almost equal to that of Prussia is on the point of being established. Yet a few days, and Savoy will be determining its future destiny in the ballot-urns; and the new arrangement of the territorial disposition of Europe will be a fait accompli. In this juncture what is left to England to do? The social diatribes of gentlemen who call themselves statesmen, and who are free from the responsibilities of office, have dwindled from their angry dimensions, and the demand which was made for rendering the disposition of Savoy a casus belli, which was scarcely equivocal, has been with a quiet determination that there is something which can be done by this country which is calculated to change, even at this moment, the course of events, though what that wonderful specific is we have yet to learn. It can could verily be a prediction to be more sceptical and so uncertain we should say that the end will be, that a show of consulting the great Powers will be made by the high personage principally engaged in managing or influencing the affairs of Italy and Savoy, and at the instant when the decision shall become so pronounced that nothing but an armed interference can alter the issue of events. As this country is not prepared to go to war for that which is, after all, to her but an idea, it is more than probable that the other great Powers will have no option but to enter into a belligerent contest with France and Sardinia. All that will then remain will be an acquiescence more or less dignified, and once more, the prevalence of the will of the Emperor of the French. But, whatever happens, at least this lesson will have been learned, that it is the duty of England either to take some line in future with reference to foreign policy which will give her that influence in the affairs of Europe which she claims, or else that she should abnegate all right to interference, and assume that policy of isolation which short-sighted public men seem to consider to be consistent with her dignity and her honour.

FOREIGN AND COLONIAL NEWS.

FRANCE.

The Moniteur of Sunday published the treaty of commerce, followed by a report to the Emperor, by M. Rouher, on the negotiations which preceded the treaty, and on the advantages to both countries which may be expected from it.

Government has submitted a project of law to the Corps Législatif for devoting forty millions of francs in loans to manufacturers for the renewal and improvement of their machinery; also a similar project concerning the modifications of the tariff for wools, cottons, and raw materials.

The Siècle has received a warning for an article of M. Jourdan, published in its number of Friday last. The article is considered "as containing attacks against the fundamental principles of Christianity."

The Imperial Paris Horticultural Society has announced its intention of holding a general exhibition of every description of garden produce, from the 15th to the 20th of May next, open to all the world. The subjects of exhibition must be in the Palace of Industry in the Champs Elysées at the latest by eight o'clock on the morning of the 15th, and the judges will proceed to their examination at once. As to the conifers, trees, and large shrubs not in flower, they must be delivered between the 1st and 5th of May. Objects of art and industry will not be received later than the 5th of May.

ITALY.

TUSCANY AND THE CENTRAL STATES.

A despatch of Count Carour to Baron Ricasoli, dated the 29th of February, communicates the French ideas relative to the settlement of Central Italy. Count Carour says:—

France does not pronounce positive to the choice of the future Sovereign, but the verbal and authentic assurances of the French Government show that the election of a Prince of the House of Savoy would not be opposed by France. I am certain that your Excellency will take into consideration the counsel given to Tuscany by our generous ally on whom Italy is indebted for her destiny. The Government of Tuscany will not take the responsibility of the final deliberation without consulting the nation. The Government, in acknowledging the opportunity for the new vote, hopes that the Chamber of Tuscany will act in such a manner that the election will take place with loyalty and sincerity. Whatever may be the result, the Government of the King accepts it beforehand.

As regards the annexation of Tuscany, M. Thouvenel, in his reply to Count Carour's despatches of the 1st and 3rd inst., repeats that France cannot but follow Piedmont in a perilous course. If King Victor Emmanuel accept the annexation of Tuscany he will necessarily remain exposed to the risks of such a policy without being able to reckon upon the support of France.

The results of the voting in Tuscany and Central Italy show how just were the anticipations that overwhelming majorities of the people would declare for annexation to Sardinia. In Tuscany, indeed, it was thought that there were some remains of a Ducal, or at least of an anti-annexation party, the majority, it will be seen, is enormous. It is scarcely understood that in many districts the priests appeared to share the laity's resolve to vote for annexation. We may now expect speedily to hear that King Victor Emmanuel, "overcome by regret," has formally assumed the sovereignty of his new dominions, and that the Sardinian troops have entered Tuscany and the Romagna.

The result of the voting in Romagna was proclaimed on Wednesday by the Court of Cassation, amidst loud cheering. At Bologna the total numbers are as follow:—

For annexation	..	256,659
For a separate kingdom	..	1,506
Void through informality	..	283

The returns of the votes in Tuscany, with the exception of thirty-two communes, show:—

For annexation	..	336,367
For a separate kingdom	..	13,116

The National Assembly of Tuscany is convoked for the 20th inst.

The results of the voting in Parma are known for the whole Duchy, excepting one district and five communes. Of 73,903 men who were registered as entitled to vote, 62,121 voted for annexation, and only 164 for a separate State.

The result of the voting in Modena is partly known. Here, where the tyranny of the expelled Duke is so fresh in men's memories, only 56 persons voted for the maintenance of the Duchy's existence as a separate State, against 50,459 for annexation.

THE PAPAL STATES.

The Holy See has replied to the last proposals of France. The Pope declines the proposition to confine within an exclusive political compass a question which, as it concerns the integrity of the patrimony of St. Peter, is intimately bound up with the independence of the Church. Although decidedly rejecting the proposition to create a Vicariate of the Romagna in favour of a foreign sovereign, his Holiness shows himself disposed to enter into the task of reform in connection with the integrity of the States of the Church is guaranteed.

The enrolment of students has been received by General Goyon, who delivered a written reply, exhorting them to resume their studies, and expressing his resolution to support the public authorities by all means at his disposal in order to maintain the observance of the laws.

The army has been increased to 20,000 men, but desertions are numerous throughout Pesario and the Marches.

SAVOY AND NICE.

Proclamations of the Government of Savoy have been posted in all the parishes of that country notifying that the inhabitants will be called upon to vote for the maintenance of the union with the monarchy of Sardinia or for annexation to France, according to the form prescribed by Parliament.

The Opinione of Turin publishes Count Cavour's note of the 2nd of March relative to the question of Savoy and Nice. In this note Count Cavour recalls the declarations contained in the despatches of M. Thouvenel, in which the attempt to justify the annexation of the aggrandisement of Sardinia could ever constitute a violation of the treaty, to whom the late events attach her by the bonds of gratitude and friendship.

Nevertheless (Count Cavour says) we are too sensible of what Italy owes to the Emperor not to give our anxious attention to the demand which rests upon the respect due to the population. The Government of the King would never consent to put its own with a project of treaty, or enter into exchange any part of the territory which for many centuries has formed a political contingent to the Crown; but the Government of the King cannot refuse to take into consideration the changes which the events in the last months have effected in the situation of Central Italy, and at the moment when we demand for the inhabitants of Central Italy the right to dispose of their own destinies, we should be guilty of manifest inconsistency and injustice if we refuse to the subjects of the King dwelling on the other side of the Alps the right to pronounce their opinion. However deep the regrets we should feel if the provinces, the cradle of the Piedmontese monarchy, and which constitute its dominion, should not refuse to recognise the weight of a manifestation, however slight, if made in conformity with the prescriptions of Parliament.

Count Cavour says further that the declaration of M. Thouvenel relative to the Emperor's intention to guarantee Savoyese a fair interpretation of the motives which guide the conduct of the Government, the removal of which must only be effected with great caution, France should consider, being inspired by high sentiments of equity and justice, leave no cause to doubt as to the loyalty of the intentions of the Government of France and Sardinia would direct any negotiations on the question.

Baron Talleyrand has delivered to Count Cavour another despatch of M. Thouvenel, in which replies to Count Cavour's despatch of the 1st and 3rd inst. M. Thouvenel points out the essential difference which exists between the question of the annexation of Savoy to Piedmont and that of the annexation of Savoy to France, and says that the principal difficulty which opposes the first is to obtain the separation by France of which he speaks from the independence of Tuscany to the dynasty of Lorraine. In the latter this difficulty disappears, and the annexation of Savoy to France would be the union and Sardinia relative to the spontaneous cession of Savoy: consequently the Emperor of the French regards the regulation of the question of Savoy by a simple cession, to be settled by mutual consent, and without having recourse to universal suffrage. M. Thouvenel thinks that to become acquainted with the wish of the country it is not sufficient to consult the municipalities of Savoy.

The Patrie publishes a despatch addressed a division of Savoy, in which it declares that the annexation of Chablais and Faucigny to Switzerland is opposed to. The Courrier de Lyon announces, upon information obtained from an official source, that Savoy will not be dismembered, but will form two departments, and will preserve the Court of Appeal at Chambery.

NAPLES.

The English fleet has arrived at Naples, part of which anchored in the open roads, the port proving to be too shallow. This event caused great sensation. For several nights tricoloured cockades have been exhibited in the streets. Fresh arrests of foreigners and porters have taken place. The military preparations continue, and the works at the arsenals are carried on without intermission. The formation of a navable regiment is the first step of the frontier is spoken of. It would be commanded by the King.

BELGIUM

In the Chamber of Representatives, on the 10th inst., the Minister of Finance brought in a bill for the total abolition of the octroi duties. The less economical way by this measure will be made up by increasing the 75 per cent et certain duties belonging to the State. The project was received with hearty and prolonged cheering.

The municipal regulations of Antwerp have been adopted by the Chamber. In the event of the death of one of the parties, the survivor will be liable for the payment of from one to five years, and a fine of from 2000f. to 10,000.

HOLLAND.

Advices from the Hague state that the Dutch Ministry is now complete, Count Van Zuylen van Nyevelt, the resident Minister at Constantinople, having been appointed by the King to the depart ment of Foreign Affairs.

SPAIN AND MOROCCO.

A despatch from Tetuan on Monday states that a second campaign has actually commenced. On the last occasion the numerous Moorish tribes, including the Kabyles of Melilla, attacked the encampment at Tetuan, and were repulsed. Many of those tribes were taking, and the Moors pursued for a distance of half a league. Their losses were considerable.

On Monday, so we learn by a telegram from Madrid, a Moorish messenger delivered a letter to Marshall O'Donnell from the Emperor of Morocco, which commenced. On that occasion the Emperor of Morocco, which commenced. On that occasion the Marshal to facilitate an arrangement advantageous to both nations. The Marshal [illegible] to negotiate, but declared that he would not suspend his military operations.

The Nouvelliste of Madrid states that extensive works have been projected at Melilla, and that large military reinforcements were about to establish themselves there; and from these circumstances it assumes that the town will probably not be abandoned.

RUSSIA.

Intelligence from the right wing of the line of the Caucasus states that the mountaineers of Daghestan have submitted to about 25,000 souls, who inhabit the country between the Lower Kaban, the Black Sea, and the Rivers Neberdeshs and Adaguen, had submitted to the Russian arms, and had acknowledged their authority by signing a document to that effect. This had been effected peaceably.

The official journal gives a list of the Russian ships of war which were launched in the course of January last, amounting to twenty vessels, carrying 361 guns, and of a force of 4460 horse power, as follows:—In Mazilla, 1; East Siberia, 3; Naples, 1; Villafranca, 2; Japan and China, 1; Sebastopol, 1; Nicolaieff, 1; Archangel, 1; Nikodaki, 4; on their way to Rio Janeiro, 2; and Toulon, 1, the frigate bearing the Grand Duke Alexander.

According to intelligence from Kiachta, in Asiatic Russia, the centre of the trade and political intercourse between the Russian and Chinese empires, the Chinese were again receiving merchandise in exchange for tea, a sign that China had again plenty of silver, which had been received in large quantities from Europe during the past year.

INDIAN FINANCES.—Mr. Wilson made his financial statement on the 16th of February. The deficit is about nine millions. He proposes a trade license of from 5s to 20s. yearly; a tax upon incomes of from £100 to £600 at two per cent, and above that at four per cent, with no exemption; and a large duty upon tobacco. The tariff is to be modified. There will be no loan.

LATEST NEWS FROM ABROAD.

The following telegram was received through Mr. Reuter's office on Thursday evening:—

TURIN, Thursday.—The returns of the voting in the Æmilian provinces are complete. The numbers in favour of annexation to Piedmont are as follows:—

The Romagna	..	256,659
Modena	..	113,621
Parma	..	86,341

The total number of votes for a separate kingdom has not yet been announced.

QUEENSTOWN, Thursday.—The Liverpool, New York, and Philadelphia Company's steamer Vigo, Captain Leiland, from New York on the 3rd instant, has arrived. Her news has been in a measure anticipated. Advices had been received from Jamaica to the 10th of February. The weather was highly favourable to sugar making, and the crops were expected to be materially over last year's. The islands were healthier.

THE UNITED STATES.

The Senate is discussing the treaty with Mexico. Senator Seward has made a great speech in favour of the admission of Kansas into the Union.

The Senate has called upon the President for a copy of any report which may have been made by the commissioner for marking the boundary between the United States and the British territory.

The House of Representatives has at last elected a printer, in the person of ex-Governor Ford, of Ohio.

Notwithstanding the Governor's veto, the bill abolishing slavery had again been passed in the Legislature of Kansas by a majority of 30 to 7.

The Indians on the northern frontiers of Texas, according to late accounts, were massacreing the people. Nine companies of regulars have already taken the field against them and the robbers on the Rio Grande.

The principal part of Danville, Kentucky, was destroyed by fire on the 23rd ult. Eighty dwellings were consumed, including three churches, the Court-house, &c. The loss was estimated at 250,000 dollars.

Xavier Church, Wall-street, Cincinnati, fell on the 1st inst., and fourteen persons were killed.

CANADA.

The Canadian Parliament was opened at Quebec on the 28th ult. with the usual ceremonies. In his speech the Governor-General announced that the Prince of Wales would visit Canada in the ensuing summer. He also congratulated the Parliament on surplus revenue and flourishing trade.

The residence of the Governor-General was entirely destroyed by fire on the 29th ult.

A long address from the Reform Association of Toronto, Canada, had been published. It advocates a dissolution of the Union and the establishment of two or more separate States, with a confederacy, a central authority to administer matters common to the whole country, and a written Constitution.

The elections of representatives to serve in the new House of Assembly of Vancouver's Island are just over, and give a very marked majority in favour of the Government.

The Ellamee tribe are still living in Surrey County, North Carolina, United States. At the late revival the wife of Chang was baptised.

Mr. Keitt, brother to the member of Congress for South Carolina, has been murdered by some of his negroes, who almost severed his head from his body. He was at the time considered to be his property.

The Southern French journals state that a fearful tempest had swept over the country on the Mediterranean coast, and that the violence of the wind that two trains were overturned on the railway between Nismes.

Mr. Justice Phillips (whose suspension from the Natal Bench by the Governor of that colony we noticed in a former issue) has been reinstated by the Home Government. Mr. Phillips returns to Natal to resume his duties.

The English Minister in Nicaragua has negotiated a treaty with President Martinez, having for its object the gradual extinction of the protectorate over Mosquito, the King of which is to be pensioned by Nicaragua.

Whilst William Jones, a farmer, residing at Whalebig, was being fodder to the cattle, a mouse suddenly raised her head in front of her horn entering the corner of one eye, he died in a few hours in the greatest agony.

The long-expected gold ship the Commodore Perry arrived on Tuesday off Deptford from Melbourne, after a passage of 113 days, with 480,000 in gold and 5001 bales of wool. Twenty-five guineas per cent were paid on the previous day at Lloyd's to effect fresh insurances on the vessel.

MURDER OF AN ENGLISH MARINE.—From Panama we learn that a marine serving on board the Royal Mail steamer Tamar had been mured rod and robbed by natives on shore near Taboga. The commander of the vessel offered a party of men to search, who hunted up the scene and brought them on board the vessel, where they were tried and sentenced to be hanged, the Governor of the State agreeing to be justified their fate.

AT SHRAGOSHA, during the first week of this month, an execution took place of three of the most notorious brave assassins, during the performance of which a murder was committed under the very scaffold; and a short time after the same had taken place. Consul de Pame did Prize to receive moneys for prayers on behalf of the executed was taken with the criminals.

SUICIDE OF BARON EYNATTEN.—At the close of the Italian campaign there were rumours of enormous defalcations in the Austrian military chest, involving the name of General in high command. The Court of Vienna made great efforts to cushion the affair; but the suicide of Lieutenant Field Marshal Baron Eynatten has revealed all. The unfortunate has put an end to secrecy. He left a written avowal of his embezzlements, and hopes pardon for his crimes from God and his people, but not from the Kaiser.

NEW ZEALAND.—We have received our file of the New Zealander (Auckland) to the 28th of December last. We extract from the monthly summary for the English mail of the following particulars:—The Statesman, from Liverpool, arrived on the 23rd of December with two hundred and fourteen immigrants. Three children died on the voyage out. The voyage had been a prosperous one, and the emigrants were well content with the ship and the way in which they had been treated. The "free grant" system had been in operation about a year; and, notwithstanding the uncertainty as to the title which the three children had to the property, it appears that during the year 3670 emigrants had been landed at Auckland, and 18,000 acres of land had been disposed of, of which 1,500 acres had been taken by emigrants having land orders. Some sensation had been created in Auckland by the appointment of a Presbyterian clergyman to the use of Rovers' Patent National Coal Gas Apparatus for the manufacture of gas from coal. The Rev. Mr. Stewart is very confident, that the coal was found to be well adapted for the purpose, and there was little doubt but that the whole city would be lighted with gas within the next twelve months.

THE "HUNGARIAN" STEAM-SHIP.—There is no news of importance relative to the wreck of the steamer Hungarian, and the vessel and cargo are now fully abandoned. Part of the cargo of bullion was got on board perfect. The ship was lying about a mile and a half inshore at low water, and the sea was breaking over her. Several divers and others had visited the wreck, and had brought up the greater portion of the bullion.—Bantry Mercury, Feb. 28.—I have just returned from the wreck, the weather continues very favourable, and the sea is smooth. The vessel is in a terrible state; all aft that is gone, except fifteen feet of the main deck. Both paddle wheels and the heavy bell, with many boilers have yet been found. From what I can learn from the fishermen, they must have all gone to the eastward, about Fair Head. I start for there this morning. From all I can see or learn of goods, nothing has been taken ashore which is worth. The packages have all been broken up, and taken into the boats in pieces, and carried to the fishermen's houses. I have not seen a whole case or bale all around Cape Bible Island. I found a great many loose letters at the different fishermen's houses, and had them all collected and brought here. The packages have all been broken up, and taken into the boats in pieces, and carried to the fishermen's houses. I have not seen a whole case or bale all around Cape Bible Island. I found a great many loose letters at the different fishermen's houses, and had them all collected and brought here. There are also twelve or fifteen bags at the Post-office, which are open. I have issued notices to all having goods to bring them here, put them on shore, and have them surveyed. There is a diver here from Yarmouth, but he has not been able to do anything. I have seen no passengers' effects to identify.—ARTHUR CRAWFORD." A telegraphic despatch from the agent of the owners of the steamer, dated at Barrington, N.S., on the 27th of February, states no more bodies had been washed ashore. One boat in good condition had been found, and fragments of other boats had been picked up off Cape Sable.

TOWN AND TABLE TALK ON LITERATURE, ART, &c.

"THE Deil's awa with th' Exciseman.' The excise duty has at length been taken off paper, and publishers are rejoicing loudly and sensibly at the removal of a tax on the dissemination of knowledge. There is, however, one eminent publisher in London, who, after fighting a fair fight for the retention of the tax, is in sackcloth and rags—real paper rags—at its upset. We refer to Mr. H. G. Bohn, who has done more than any bookseller to give good books—real standard authors—at a price within the means of the middle classes; ay, and at times of the poorer classes. That the repeal will be beneficial to literature we have no manner of doubt; but, of course, we are not to expect that it will be the further means of giving us an additional Shakspeare or a supplemental Walter Scott.

The Royal Literary Fund annual meeting was held on Wednesday last, and passed off without any kind of opposition. Mr. Dickens, Mr. Dilke, and the authors who have voted with them on many previous meetings, purposely kept away. Earl Stanhope, as chairman, did his work with his customary courtesy and ability, and announced, on the part of the fund, the unconditional refusal of the offer of the conditional library of a well-known living author with thanks. We are inclined still to think that terms might have been come to that would have satisfied the proffered donor and been beneficial to the best interests of the fund. But the matter is over, and it is idle to say more about it.

We cannot, while gossiping about letters and the repeal of the paper duty, suffer to let pass without a word of satisfaction a recent gracious act on the part of her Majesty to the large world of letters Mr. Rowland Hill, who gave us the penny post, and who is also one of the ablest Civil servants of the Crown, is now Sir Rowland Hill K.C.B. This honour, we hear universally said, might have been given to Mr. Hill many years ago.

Let us also record another double act of good taste and good sense on the part of her Majesty. Mr. Donne, the Examiner of Plays in the Lord Chamberlain's office, has received the present of a silver inkstand from his Queen, who at the same time, remembering the fiery nature of playhouse flesh and blood, has appointed Mr. Donne to the responsible post of Master of the Revels, or the Comptroller of Plays to be played before the Queen in Windsor Castle.

The new full-esquired of the Royal Academy of Arts in England is Mr. Hook. The selection without the walls of the Academy has given general satisfaction. Within the walls, it is said, Mr. Danby, Mr. Sydney Cooper, Mr. W. E. Frost, Mr. Thorburn, and Mr. Egg are not over-well pleased, or in the best possible temper with their esquired superiors. Mr. Hook was a junior Associate to the five over whose heads he has been taken by an almost unexpected leap.

The new First Commissioner of Public Works was unable to answer an artistic public question put to him the other night in the House of Commons. The question referred to the long-promised lions required for the completion of the Nelson Monument in Trafalgar-square. What, so ran the query, is the gentleman about to whom the execution of the four lions has been intrusted? Mr. Cowper (an able man, and fit for his new post) was sorry to say that he could not tell what Sir Edwin Landseer was about. This is unsatisfactory. The statue on the top of the column was set up just seventeen years ago.

There is good news in the realms of art, the Duke of Marlborough has rearranged the magnificent collection of pictures at Blenheim, and admits visitors on the payment of a shilling—the collected shillings going to a public charity. Manchester has published its intention of raising the magnificent sum of one hundred thousand pounds for the formation of a Manchester National Gallery; and through Mr. Thomas Fairbairn, whose activity and ability are well known, Manchester will certainly make good what she says she will do. An odd reflection arises—the National Gallery of England, since its foundation in 1824, has not cost the nation anything like one hundred thousand pounds.

The restoration of Waltham Abbey Church is proceeding at a more than Nelson Column pace, and we record with pleasure the anonymous donation this week of the sum of five hundred and fifty pounds; a good Saxon amount towards the restoration of the church which covers the remains of King Harold, who fought so well and died so nobly before Norman William and the bold conquerors of his people.

Go and see, by all means, Mr. Page's new Westminster Bridge. One half is open, and yet the old bridge is still open, while, at the same time, Mr. Page is busy below removing the old bridge by Labelye and constructing the other half of his own. It is not only a triumph of engineering skill, but, at the same time, one of the most suggestive and instructive sights in London.

Mr. S. C. Hall's very pleasant and well-delivered lectures on "The Authors of the Age" continue to attract attention. Mr. Hall is airing himself throughout England, and people listen with delight, as they ever will, to anecdotes about famous men, known well to them by their works but whom they never saw. Mr. Hall has had many opportunities, possesses a good memory, and has a power of reproducing traits, anecdotes, and portraiture not common with many lecturers.

Mr. Scharf, we are glad to observe, has stated in evidence before a public commission that he should be glad to see the National Portrait Gallery open to the public between the hours of seven and ten in the evening. We shall soon get from daylight into gas in more than one fine stronghold of artistic treasures. Mr. Scharf is secretary to the Portrait Gallery Committee, and is entitled to be heard on such a point.

We are stepping westward. Mr. E. T. Smith finds Drury-lane, in Sir Rowland Hill's "W.C." district, an out-of-the-way place for making the Italian Opera remunerative; he therefore removes to Vanbrugh's house in the Haymarket, "W.," and is to open in right good earnest on the 10th of April. Tragedy flourishes in the East end of London—operas in the West.

An epigram is no common production. Dr. South called a good epigram the masterpiece of man. Here is one just published fresh from the mint of Mr. R. E. Egerton Warburton:—

CARVING AND GILDING.

"You see," said our host, as we entered his doors,
"I have furnished my house à la Louis Quatorze."
"Then I wish," said a guest, "when you ask us to eat,
You would furnish your board à la Louis Dixhuit;
The eye cannot feast when the stomach is starving?
Pray less of your gilding and more of your carving."

"This is good," said a real wit, "and is much in Mat Prior's manner."

Her Majesty has presented Mr. W. B. Donne, examiner of plays, who has had the direction of the recent theatrical performances at Windsor, with a handsome silver inkstand, in token that his services have been duly appreciated. Mr. Donne has also received her Majesty's commands to continue to direct the Windsor theatricals.

At the meeting of the Civil Engineers on Wednesday evening Sir William Armstrong produced his gun, described its manufacture, and went through the operation of loading it. He, moreover, described the mechanism of the shell and fuse.

MUSIC.

It is announced that the Royal Italian Opera season will commence on the 10th of April—the same day on which her Majesty's Theatre is to be opened by Mr. E. T. Smith. Mr. Gye's prospectus of the season has not yet appeared.

The regular season of the Royal English Opera terminates this evening; but, in consequence of the extraordinary success of "Lurline," and the unflagging demand for places, Mr. Harrison and Miss Pyne announced nine extra performances of that opera. They must now regret the long delay in the production of a piece so beneficial to the treasury. The sale of the principal airs, &c., at Messrs. Cramer and Beale's, corresponds with the success of the opera at the theatre.

The Crystal Palace Saturday Concerts flourish this season, owing very much, we believe, to the improved locality in which they take place. The new concert-hall is favourable to the production of musical sound; it is spacious and comfortable, and the audience is not disturbed, as formerly, by the bustle of restless people constantly moving about. In consequence of the facilities thus afforded to the conductor to have good music well performed the selections are now of a high and classical order. This was particularly the case on Saturday last, when the concert, besides its general excellence, derived an especial interest from the performance, for the first time in this country, of a great orchestral work of the celebrated Robert Schumann—his symphony in B flat, written when he was in the zenith of his powers, destined to be soon extinguished in hopeless insanity. Schumann's music as yet is too little known in this country, and is undervalued by professed critics, who are evidently unacquainted with it. But his reputation, like that of many other men of genius, is more and more recognised since his untimely death; and we doubt not that a place will soon be unanimously assigned to him among the Mozarts, Beethovens, and Mendelssohns, the great luminaries of the art. Arabella Goddard was the pianist. She performed Hummel's "Rondo Brillant" in A, and Thalberg's fantasia on a theme from "Mosè in Egitto." She played superbly, and (we need scarcely add) had an enthusiastic reception. Miss Parepa was the only vocalist. She sang Wallace's scena, "Hope in Sorrow;" Mellon's cavatina "Oh, bright were my visions," from "Victorine;" and a florid Italian air by Alari. This young lady is a singer of the highest order, and promises to fill the blank made by the retirement of Clara Novello. We observe that M. Sainton and Madame Sainton-Dolby are to appear together at the Crystal Palace this day, for the first time since their return from the Continent.

Mr. Aguilar has announced a series of performances of classical pianoforte music, the first of which was given on Saturday evening last, at his residence in Westbourne-square. He performed two of the finest of Beethoven's sonatas, two preludes and fugues of Sebastian Bach, and Weber's "Invitation à la Valse;" in all of which he showed himself a pianist of the very highest class, a thorough master of the instrument, and a performer full of sentiment and expression. Several vocal pieces were sung by Mr. Aguilar's relative, Miss Lindo, a young and accomplished singer, who cannot fail to rise to eminence. Her performance of two pieces in very different style, the pathetic air "Lascia ch'io pianga," from Handel's "Rinaldo," and Mozart's splendid "Deh vieni, non tardar," was admirable in every respect. The rooms were filled with a fashionable and musical audience, who seemed highly gratified by the entertainment.

Another musical association has been added to the many which we possess already. This is the London Quintet Union, formed for the purpose of giving concerts consisting of the quintets, quartets, trios, and other chamber compositions of the great masters. The members of the union are Mr. Willy, and Mr. Weslake, first and second violins; Mr. Webb, viola; Mr. Pettit, violoncello; Mr. Reynolds, contrabasso, and Mr. Maycock, contrabasso. Additional performers are engaged when the music requires it; and variety is given by the introduction of vocal pieces.

The Concert at St. Martin's Hall on Thursday evening was excellent and interesting. The instrumental pieces were Onslow's quintet in B flat, op. 33; Sterndale Bennett's chamber trio, op. 26; and Mozart's quintet in A for the clarinet and stringed instruments. All these pieces are masterpieces, and the performance of all of them was masterly. Mr. Willy, though he does not put himself forward as a concerto player, has no superior among us as an orchestral violinist and a performer of concerted music. His associates are all "good men and true;" and one of them—Mr. Pettit—though very young and as yet comparatively unknown, is already a violoncellist of the first rank. In Sterndale Bennett's chamber trio the pianoforte part was played by Lindsay Sloper, an artist too well known to demand any eulogy. Mozart's quintet, in which the clarinet is the principal instrument, showed that Mr. Maycock is one of our most accomplished performers. We were glad to find that the society is reviving the works of Onslow, once unboundedly popular throughout Europe, but now almost consigned to unmerited oblivion. He was a great musician; and his music—his masterly quintets especially—ought never to be forgotten. The singers were Miss Banks and Madame Sainton-Dolby, who appeared in public for the first time since her change of condition, and was welcomed with all the enthusiasm so justly due to her as an artist and as a woman.

Poor Jullien, we are glad to learn, is not in such a desperate condition as was at first supposed. His insanity was temporary, the consequence of a brain fever, brought on by excessive fatigue and excitement in preparing a great musical performance to be given in Paris. He is recovering; but is, unhappily, in a state of indigence amounting to destitution. He never got over the effects of the ruinous speculations which brought him into the Bankruptcy Court—an ordeal through which, it will be remembered, he passed without the slightest impeachment of his integrity. We understand that a subscription for his benefit is to be set on foot in England. We trust it will succeed, as there are no musicians to whom the English public owe a larger debt of gratitude than to Jullien.

AN ENGLISH OPERA, under the direction of Dr. James Pech, will be given at the Princess' Theatre, commencing in May next. The season will extend over a period of fifteen weeks. We hear that engagements are pending, and, in many instances, concluded, with some of our most eminent artistes. The band and chorus will be very complete, numbering some seventy or eighty artistes. The operas to be placed upon the stage are spoken of as "Gustavus," "Oberon," "Acis and Galatea," and "Les Mousquetaires de la Reine," with some of the earlier works of Benedict, Balfe, and other English composers.

THE THEATRES, &c.

DRURY LANE.—Mr. Fitzball has made a clever drama out of a French picture, which was produced on Monday with success. The title of the piece is "Christmas Eve; or, The Duel in the Snow." The picture in question, which was exhibited at the Exhibition of French Artists in Pall-mall, represented a dying pierrot, or French fool, supported by a number of masqueraders, his fellow-duelist, in the disguise of a New Zealand chieftain, looking on. Mr. Fitzball adopts this as the closing scene of his drama, and the rest is occupied with incidents calculated to account for such a catastrophe. Sir Charles Audry (Mr. Emery) is the pierrot, and the friend of Captain Dashwood, the disguised New Zealander (Mr. Verner). The Captain in distress has been helped to money and saved from suicide by Sir Charles, whose lady accidentally drinks of the poisoned cup which the Captain had prepared for himself. Sir Charles marries again, and the Captain has the ingratitude to seduce his young wife, and elope with her to Paris. He also plots with his degraded minion that she should obtain from her husband's pity a supply of cash that he wants. This coming to Sir Charles's knowledge, he follows to the ball where the Captain is masquerading, and fastens a quarrel on him; after which they proceed together to the Bois de Boulogne, where the duel takes place. The final scene was very effective; and the piece, well acted, proved successful.

STRAND.—A new piece was produced here on Monday, entitled "The Loves of Arcadia." It is written by a lady, and forms a pleasant and somewhat poetic Watteau spectacle on a larger scale than usual. The story is silly, but pretty, with an old-world air about it that is charming. Louis XV. (Mr. Bland) desires the union of the Chevalier de Merrilac (Mr. Parselle) and Mdlle. Desirée de Launay (Miss Swanborough), but of course the two parties most interested are disinclined to the match. They have, however, never met, the lady having resided at a convent and the gentleman at Court. Both, nevertheless, hit upon the same plan. Determined never to meet, they seek an Arcadian sort of life, and play the shepherd and shepherdess in a forest. In this disguise, of course, they make each other's acquaintance, and fall in love together; so that when the King comes hunting he finds them both prepared to submit to his will. This, however, does not take place immediately, the lady being first removed to Court to take her place in an Arcadian fête intended by the Monarch; and the gentleman follows, exhibiting himself as his own portrait in a picture frame, which is pronounced by the courtiers an execrable likeness. After these little manœuvres are played out the usual happy catastrophe supervenes. This elegant piece signalised Miss Swanborough's reappearance this season.

OLYMPIC.—A new version, by Mr. J. Oxenford, of "L'Oncle Baptiste," under the title of "Uncle Zachary," was produced last week, in which Mr. Robson had the opportunity of rivaling the celebrated M. Bouffé. The piece is already known to the English public by a Haymarket adaptation, called "Peter and Paul." The part is one exactly suited to the genius of Mr. Robson, who has made of it one of his greatest successes. The dialogue of the drama has been much improved by the present adapter, and some of the incidents have been agreeably modified. Altogether, the admirers of Mr. Robson are provided with a rich treat. The piece is admirably mounted, and the scenes are arranged with the most liberal care.

Mr. and Mrs. Howard Paul appear on Thursday and Friday next at Middleton Hall, Islington.

SCIENTIFIC NEWS.

ON Friday Professor Owen delivered the sixth lecture of his course on fossil mammalia at the Museum of Practical Geology, in Jermyn-street. Some of the fossil remains found in the red crag, a narrow stratum that lies exposed along the coast of Norfolk and Suffolk, formed the immediate subjects of this lecture.

ROYAL INSTITUTION LECTURES.

The Friday evening discourse (March 9) was delivered by Professor Faraday—the subject being "Lighthouse Illumination," with especial reference to the electric light. Lord Wensleydale was in the chair, and the Duke and Duchess of Wellington and very many of the aristocracy of rank and talent were present. The audience were, in the first place, reminded of the manner in which that most important matter—the illumination of the shores of a maritime country—had been advanced from a solitary candle to fire-beacons; and, finally, to the most admirably-constructed lamps, having the rays of light concentrated and sent out by the finest optical apparatus, combining reflection and refraction, such as parabolic reflectors, Fresnel's dioptric apparatus, &c. With all these aids the light, however, cannot be increased without many difficulties, such as enlarging the building, increase of the products of combustion, &c. Hence attention has long been directed to electricity for a source of light. The voltaic battery gives the most intense light in small compass, but is subject to variation, and may be easily extinguished. Professor Holmes, however, after long application, has produced from the electro-magnet a most intense continuous light, which has been used with great success at the South Foreland Lighthouse for the last two winters; and Professor Faraday, who has carefully watched its progress, considers that hereby a great step has been taken in the development of the lighthouse system; the only difficulty in the way of the general adoption of this light, apparently, being the expense. By the aid of Dr. Tyndall, the lecture was illustrated with many brilliant experiments, such as the contrast between the light of a burner three inches in diameter and that of the electric lamp of Duboscq, sent through a Fresnel lens; when the former light was totally eclipsed. The production of electricity from the magnet is one of Professor Faraday's own discoveries. He laid on the table the instrument by means of which he first elicited an electric spark from a permanent magnet in 1831. For an account of this, and a description of Professor Holmes's elaborate apparatus, accompanied by an engraving of the South Foreland Lighthouse, we refer our readers to our Number for Oct. 22, 1859, pages 399-400. They should also read an article on "Lighthouses" in the last number of the Cornhill Magazine, and Mr. Stevenson's little book, published by Weale, of Holborn.

Professor TYNDALL's ninth lecture on "Light," on Thursday (last week), was devoted, first, to some concluding remarks and experiments on the phenomena of interference, as obtained by reflection from a finely-striated surface, to which is due the colours of pearl, Barton's buttons, &c. 2. Diffraction was shown to be obtained by the bending of the ether waves round the edges of bodies—the particles of ether in the path of a luminous beam oscillating in all directions. The colours thus produced were shown by looking at the electric light through handkerchiefs, and also through clouds of lycopodium dust. Dr. Tyndall especially referred to the unsurpassed, gorgeous colours witnessed by himself one morning on Monte Rosa, produced by the sun shining through a cloud, which produced diffraction. 3. The polarisation of light consists in reducing all the vibrations to a plane, which may be effected by ordinary reflection and refraction, and also by passing the light through tourmaline and other crystals. These methods were shown by experiment. 4. Certain crystals have the power of splitting a luminous beam into two; this is termed double refraction, and is exemplified in the well-known Iceland spar. The two beams thus obtained polarise at right angles to each other.

Dr. LANKESTER's seventh lecture was devoted to "Bones and Teeth," the structure of which and their chemical constituents were fully discussed, especial notice being taken of the presence in them of fluoride of calcium and phosphorus. Red and white phosphorus were described, and also the terrible effects of the latter upon the health of the persons engaged in making lucifer matches. The latter part of the lecture was devoted to the consideration of the nature of ivory and its manufacture. The table was covered with interesting illustrations, consisting of bones of the walrus, hippopotamus, and other animals; Chinese carvings in ivory, artificial teeth, &c.

Professor TYNDALL, in his eighth lecture on "Light," on Thursday (March 1), continued his exposition of the wave theory, dwelling especially on the phenomena denominated by Dr. T. Young "interference"—due to the space between plates of glass, thin films, &c., which gives rise in glass to Newton's coloured rings, the varying tints of the soap bubble, &c.; to the iridescence of anthracite coal, of the wings of insects, and of the varnished papers of Messrs. De la Rue. The beams reflected from the outer and inner surface of a thin transparent film may interfere and produce mutual extinction, or the two beams may reinforce each other. Whether they shall interfere or coincide depends on the thickness of the films. If a film vary in thickness different colours are extinguished, and on different parts—the residual colours being seen. Among other illustrations referred to were Nobili's metallo-chromes, the skimming of melted lead, and especially the beautifully-coloured incrustations on some ancient bottles sent by the Rev. R. Walker, of Oxford.

Professor ROSCOE gave the Friday evening (March 2) discourse "On the Measurement of the Chemical Action of the Solar Rays." He described an instrument employed by Professor Bunsen and himself for the exact measurement of the chemical action of light, noticing some examples of measurements actually made in illustration of the method employed.

Professor OWEN's ninth lecture on Fossil Reptiles (on Tuesday week) more especially related to the old huge land reptiles now so familiar by their restoration, the Hylæosaurus (or wood-lizard) and Megalosaurus (or great lizard). The former was discovered in the Weald of Sussex, and described by Dr. Mantell, in 1832. It was probably herbivorous, and in size about twenty-five feet. The size of the Megalosaurus was possibly fifty feet: it was undoubtedly carnivorous, having an ample supply of teeth, characterised by Dean Buckland, its discoverer, as possessing the properties of the sabre, knife, and saw, by which it could feed on its more helpless herbivorous brethren. The Megalosaurus was discovered in the oolitic slate of Stonesfield, near Oxford.

At the last general monthly meeting the secretary announced that after Easter the folllowing courses would be delivered:—Seven lectures on herbivorous mammalia (the giraffe, antelope, camel, elephant, rhinoceros, hippopotamus, &c.), by Dr. Spencer Cobbold; eight lectures on physical geography and geology (the Atlantic Ocean, volcanos, earthquakes, &c.), by Professor Ansted; and eight lectures on the association of heat with chemical force, by Mr. F. Abel, chief of the chemical department, Royal Arsenal, Woolwich.

PRINTERS' PENSION SOCIETY.—On Monday the annual meeting of this society was held at the London Tavern—Mr. Chas. Wyman in the chair. Mr. Hodson, the secretary, read the report, which stated that the proceedings during the past year had been of more than usual interest and importance. The late Mr. G. Biggs, proprietor of the Family Herald, left a legacy of £500, and the committee proposed that the interest arising from it should form a special pension, to be called the "Biggs Pension." The sum of £100 being required to complete the establishment of the Caxton pension, the Rev. J. M. Bellew had delivered a lecture on "Caxton," at St. Martin's Hall, in order to raise the amount necessary for its completion, but the result did not realise the sum required. There were fifty-eight pensioners on the funds, to which eight were to be added that day, making the number sixty-six. During the year £202 10s. had been added to the reserve fund, making the funded property £9488 0s. 8d., of which amount £1200 is for special pensions. The income of the past year, including the balance of £158 15s. from the previous year, amounted to £2222 19s. The expenditure included £761 9s. paid to pensioners, and £172 6s. 10d. other expenses, and there was a balance in hand of £650 17s. 3d. The report was received, and adopted.

LITERATURE.

AN INQUIRY INTO THE GENUINENESS OF THE MANUSCRIPT CORRECTIONS IN MR. PAYNE COLLIER'S ANNOTATED SHAKESPEARE FOLIO, 1632, AND OF CERTAIN SHAKSPEARIAN DOCUMENTS LIKEWISE PUBLISHED BY COLLIER. By N. E. S. A. HAMILTON. Bentley.

Mr. Hamilton's work is devoted to a question of the highest importance to the interest of literature and to the personal honour of an industrious and well-known writer. The editors of Shakspeare—the late Mr. Singer, Mr. Dyce, Mr. Staunton, Mr. Knight, and Mr. Halliwell—upon internal evidence, were long ago convinced that nearly everything in those "corrections" that appeared new was not good, and what was good was not new; but the question of their genuineness can only be determined to the satisfaction of the world at large on palæographic grounds—i.e., by the testimony of persons skilled in ancient writing. For this reason Dr. Ingleby's clever little book, which treats of philological anachronisms, and exhibits a mass of circumstantial evidence to show that the folio was "at least tampered with while in Mr. Collier's hands," though of the highest value and interest to scholars, is of less weight in the scale of general opinion than the more technical opusculum by Mr. Hamilton. In this we have first an account of the circumstances which led to the volume being sent to the British Museum, from Sir Frederic Madden's own hand:—"I had a great wish to see the volume, after this second several of doubts expressed by Mr. Staunton and Dr. Ingleby, but my mind was so free from any bias that I did not entertain the least suspicion of forgery, and in September, 1858, I eagerly availed myself of the opportunity afforded me by Mr. Collier (who had sent me a copy of the 'Hamlet' of 1603, lithographed at the expense of the late Duke of Devonshire) to express to him my wish to see the annotated folio, but, not having the honour to be acquainted with the now Duke of Devonshire, I asked Mr. Collier if he could manage to gain me access to the volume. To this request Mr. Collier never made any reply."

Sir Frederic Madden's independent examination of the writing soon convinced him of its fictitious character, and his conviction was at once indorsed by Mr. Panizzi, Mr. Bond, and Mr. Hamilton, of the Museum, as well as by Mr. T. Duffus Hardy, the Rev. Joseph Hunter, Professor Brewer, and a host of skilful palæographers, who had been invited to inspect the folio. It was found that, although evidently written by the same hand, the forms of the letters were anomalous. One page exhibited words or letters characteristic of the fourteenth century, while in close juxtaposition the same word or letter bore every appearance of having been written within the present century. The ink employed was discovered to be a mere wash or paint coloured to resemble faded ink, and numberless partially-obliterated pencil corrections corresponding with the quasi-antique corrections, were visible throughout the margins. Upon the application of a microscope it was found too, in many instances, that these pencillings, in a modern hand, actually underlie the writing in the feigned old hand. Again, whole syllables or words were discovered to occur in pencil, partially rubbed out, but still legible, while since to them the same syllable or word is repeated in the antique writing. The inevitable conclusion to all which is that the pencil-writing had been placed on the margins to direct the alterations afterwards made in pigment.

Mr. Hamilton next proceeds to consider Mr. Collier's oft-repeated assertion that he has published every letter, syllable, word, and line of the corrections, and proves undisputably, by a literal collation of a single play (Hamlet), that, so far from this being the truth, he has not printed one half the textual alterations which are visible upon the margin of his folio.

We have not space to enter upon the vexed question of the folio's pedigree. Upon that point the reader can consult Mr. Hamilton's book and an admirably conclusive article by Mr. J. A. Arnold, the police magistrate, in Fraser's Magazine of the present month.

Having brought the evidences against the authenticity of the "Corrected Folio," 1632, to a close, Mr. Hamilton goes on to say:—

But the facts I am now about to advert to are far graver than the question of the authenticity of that or any other particular volume. They have reference to a series of systematic forgeries which have been perpetrated, apparently within the last half century, and are in connection generally with the history of Shakspere and Shakspearian literature, although other subjects have occasionally been introduced.

The first instance adduced is the magnificent copy of the folio, 1623, in the possession of Lord Ellesmere. In 1842 Mr. Collier, to whom the late Lord Ellesmere, then Lord Francis Egerton, had lent the volume, announced the discovery of certain MS. annotations on its margins, which he attributed to the time of the Commonwealth. Upon examination of this book by Sir Frederic Madden, Mr. Panizzi, Mr. Bond, and Mr. Hamilton, the marginal emendations were found to have been indicated first in pencil and afterwards in ink, and to be in the same handwriting as the emendations on the "Corrected Folio," 1632.

The next case is more surprising still. In 1838 Mr. Collier discovered in the library of Bridgewater House some documents regarding the life of Shakspeare, which he communicated to the public through a letter addressed to Mr. Thomas Amyot. These instruments were represented to have been found in bundles of manuscript, probably not opened since the time of Lord Chancellor Ellesmere. Mr.

GROUND PLAN OF THE PALACE OF THE PEOPLE AT MUSWELL HILL.—MR. OWEN JONES, ARCHITECT.—SEE SUPPLEMENT, PAGE 305.

Collier expressed no doubt of their authenticity; but the Rev. Joseph Hunter, from intrinsic evidence, was led to entertain an opinion adverse to their pretensions as genuine documents, and in 1853 Mr. Halliwell printed for private circulation a pamphlet in which he unhesitatingly pronounced them forgeries. Of these papers, which were examined by Sir Frederic Madden, Dr. Kingsley (Lord Ellesmere's librarian), and Mr. Hamilton, the last observes, "With one exception these documents display their spurious character at a glance, whilst two of the number are such manifest forgeries, that it seems incredible how they could have cheated Mr. Collier's observation."

From the Bridgewater Papers Mr. Hamilton passes to the manuscripts in Dulwich College:—

In 1841 Mr. Collier edited for the Shakspere Society a volume entitled "Memoirs of Edward Alleyn." Amongst the documents published by Mr. Collier in this volume is one correctly stated to be an original letter from Mrs. Alleyn, wife of the founder of Dulwich College, and addressed to her husband. The letter in itself is interesting; but the point upon exception these documents display their spurious character at a glance, whilst two of the number are such manifest forgeries, that it seems incredible how they could have cheated Mr. Collier's observation."

From the Bridgewater Papers Mr. Hamilton passes to the manuscripts in Dulwich College:—

In 1841 Mr. Collier edited for the Shakspere Society a volume entitled "Memoirs of Edward Alleyn." Amongst the documents published by Mr. Collier in this volume is one correctly stated to be an original letter from Mrs. Alleyn, wife of the founder of Dulwich College, and addressed to her husband. The letter in itself is interesting; but the point upon exception Mr. Collier mainly insists, as constituting its peculiar value, is a paragraph he prints as contained in it relative to "Mr. Shakespeare of the Globe," and from which he proceeds to draw various deductions. On collating this letter with the original, it appears to have been entirely removed by Mr. Collier, as there is not the smallest trace of authority for any allusion to Shakspere, or to any of the words concerning him found there by Mr. Collier, and printed by him as forming part of the original document.

A cleverly-executed facsimile of this portion of the letter accompanies Mr. Hamilton's book, showing clearly that, while inserting words which could never have belonged to it, Mr. Collier has omitted others which are plainly visible.

Although this letter of Mrs. Alleyn, with the exceptions mentioned, is genuine, Dulwich College is no more exempt from Shakspearean fabrications than Bridgewater House. Mr. Hamilton adduces three instances, all first printed by Mr. Collier as authentic documents. The first is a letter purporting to be written by Marston, the playwright, and which may be seen in Mr. Collier's "Memoirs of Edward Alleyn," p. 154. The writing of this letter is a good resemblance of Marston's hand; but a careful inspection revealed that the whole of the words had been first traced out in pencil, as is the case with the corrections in the annotated folios before mentioned.

The next of the Dulwich counterfeits is a copy of verses, first published in Mr. Collier's "Memoirs of Alleyn," p. 13, beginning—which is pronounced by Mr. Hamilton to be a forgery from beginning to end.

Swoete Noddie, nowe wynne another wager,

The third document is genuine, and has been quoted by Malone. What brings it in the category of fictitious papers is an appended "List of Players," with "Shakespeare," of course, among them, first published by Mr. Collier, and written evidently in the same hand as the rest of those abominations.

We now reach the last and most remarkable of the impositions disclosed by Mr. Hamilton. The document in question, which is known as the "Petition of the Players," 1596, was first printed by Mr. Collier, who found it in the State Paper Office. It has no date, and is written on a half sheet of foolscap paper, without water-mark. On an examination Mr. Hamilton was led to believe not only that the writing was not genuine, but that it had been concocted by the same hand as the fictitious instruments before discussed. An application to the Master of the Rolls was followed by an official inquiry into the genuineness of the document. On the 30th of January Sir Francis Palgrave, Deputy Keeper of Public Records, Sir Frederic Madden, T. Duffus Hardy, Esq., Assistant Keeper of Public Records, Professor Brewer, Reader at the Rolls, and Mr. Hamilton, assembled for the purpose of investigation. After a minute and careful scrutiny, these gentlemen denied unanimously that the Players' Petition was spurious, and the Master of the Rolls directed that their resolution should be appended to the document condemned!

Such is the result of the inquiry so far; but it is obviously impossible to rest here. Every Shakspearean document brought to light during the last half century, whether discovered at Devonshire or Bridgewater House, in Dulwich College, or in our State Record Offices, must, after these startling revelations, undergo a rigid scrutiny, and upon no person is it so incumbent to render every assistance in separating what is genuine from what is false among these papers as upon Mr. Collier himself.

THE CAUSES AND TREATMENT OF IMPERFECT DIGESTION. By ARTHUR LEARED, M.B. Churchill.

This small volume contains a large amount of valuable information on a subject of much importance—viz., imperfect digestion, a prevalent evil, which is the cause of numberless diseases in very many persons. Dr. Leared starts with an explanation of the physiology of digestion: he then proceeds to point out the causes of dyspepsia and to suggest various modes of treatment, especially that which has been attended with some success in his hands. He classes among numerous other causes of indigestion that of snacking and swigging; they are shown to be productive of dyspepsia, and "must be," he says, "considered, if we would, as physicians, to ensure successful treatment." It is also desirable to place some restrictions on diet. He considers good cooking of great importance; and of the ordinary modes he prefers boiling and roasting. Dr. Leared's book may be consulted by every one interested in maintaining health, or in restoring it when lost.

ON DISEASES OF THE THROAT, EPIGLOTTIS, WINDPIPE, &c. By GEORGE D. GIBB, M.D. Churchill.

The work before us is one of an essentially practical character, and deals with the numerous affections which medical men are daily called upon to treat, and which it is imperative they should be well skilled in recognising, not only the various forms of it, but their complications, as laid down in this treatise. A manual on diseases so important, and which should furnish a large amount of useful information in a small compass, was greatly needed, and must be of considerable value to those who are unable to wade through voluminous works. Nor is this work a mere manual on the special subjects upon which it treats, for there is much new matter, hitherto unpublished, which will be apparent to the reader in going through its pages. Some new methods of treatment are submitted for chronic diseases of the throat, but more particularly in that alarming disease croup; and the arrangement of the whole is such as to render the work most useful.

PRACTICAL OBSERVATIONS ON THE PREVENTION OF CONSUMPTION. By JOHN HOGG, M.D. Hardwicke.

It is thought, and with some show of truth, that an important advance has been made not only in the pathology but in the treatment of consumption since Dr. Bennett, of Edinburgh, introduced cod-liver oil as a remedial agent for this very prevalent disease. He also once more revived the question of the curability of consumption, and maintained that, if detected in its earliest stage, it may be arrested and cured. We now have another intelligent medical author telling us "that the aim and object of the present essay is prevention rather than cure. The collective evidence of eminent men goes to prove that, if good is to be done, it must be done quickly. When the physical signs of consumption are so palpable as to be distinctly recognised and traced by the aid of the stethoscope, the balance is sadly against the patient. Active measures must be adopted long before matters have arrived at this pass. It is in predisposition, in diathesis, that the change is to be worked; then there is every prospect of success." The observations advanced in this work are practical throughout, and facts are apparently well supported by a mass of statistics of considerable value.

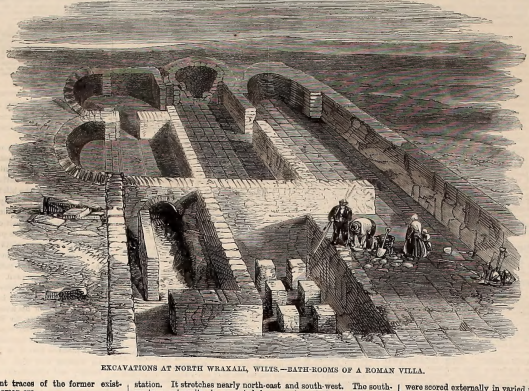
ADVICE TO A MOTHER ON THE MANAGEMENT OF HER OFFSPRING. By P. H. CHAVASSE, F.R.C.S. Churchill.

Mr. Chavasse's book, having already passed through four large editions, requires but a word of commendation at our hands for this, a fifth and enlarged edition. The work is intended chiefly to teach mothers to banish injurious practices from the nursery, to strengthen the delicate child, preserve the health of the healthy, and to strive to make a medical man's task more agreeable to himself and more beneficial to his patient.

CANCER CURES AND CANCER-CURERS. Churchill.

A pamphlet bearing the above title, from the pen of Mr. Spencer Wells, is issued with a view of placing the public on their guard against designing charlatans who flock to this country for the sole purpose of deluding sufferers into a belief of cure of cancer. Now, cancer is one of those remarkable forms of disease which the educated and scientific practitioners of this and other countries declare medicine and nostrums cannot reach and will not cure. Is it possible, then, for the uneducated man to arrest and cure a malady of which he is entirely ignorant, and when he cannot possibly know whether the case is one of cancer or a totally different disease? This pamphlet will serve to warn the afflicted against placing themselves in the hands of pretenders to a knowledge of the healing art.

DISCOVERY OF ROMAN REMAINS AT NORTH WRAXALL, WILTS.



AN interesting discovery of Roman buildings has recently been made in the parish of North Wraxall, Wilts. The workmen have already cleared the foundation-walls of one entire building, measuring about 130 feet by 36 feet, and containing more than sixteen separate rooms, or courts, and traced out several other walls extending over an area of two or three acres. Among other articles met with were numerous iron cramps, a large iron key with complicated wards, several iron chisels, bronze styles, coins, &c. Mr. Poulett Scrope is superintending the excavations. North Wraxall is on the "Fosseway," or "Annan Street," between Bath and Cirencester.

A field at the north-western extremity of the parish of North Wraxall has long been known by the residents in the neighbourhood as the site of some buildings of the Roman period. It bears the name of the "Coffin-ground," from the circumstance of a stone sarcophagus having been dug up there towards the commencement of the century, containing a skeleton at full length. It had a stone cover, but was of rude workmanship and without sculpture or inscription. Unfortunately the farmer, finding it in his way, some years since broke it up. A space of about three acres on the northern side of this field, and on the brow of a steep wooded slope which borders a deep glen separating it from the parish of Castle Combe, is strewn over with fragments of stone and burnt tile, black, blue, and red pottery, and other evident traces of the former existence of buildings belonging to the Roman era.

In the course of the last autumn the farm, which is the property of Lord Methuen, passed into the hands of a new tenant, who, finding the stones in the way of his plough, employed labourers to remove them, and thus brought to light the walls of several small rooms. Mr. Poulett Scrope, who had watched these proceedings with much interest, thereupon communicated with Lord Methuen, and was requested by his Lordship to direct further excavations to be executed. Four men were set to work in the beginning of December, and have up to this time cleared the foundation-walls of one entire building, measuring about 130 feet by 36, and containing more than sixteen separate rooms, passages, or courts, and traced out several other walls extending over the area of two or three acres already mentioned. Parts of the latter belonged probably to other houses, barracks, perhaps, or farm buildings, while some seem to have been the inclosures of yards or gardens.

The principal building, already almost entirely exavated, was probably the villa or habitation of a person of some importance—perhaps a landed proprietor, or the commanding officer of a military station. It stretches nearly north-east and south-west. The south-western extremity is occupied by a series of five or six small chambers (seen in our Sketch) communicating with one another by doorways, and all having floors "suspended" over hypocausts, or arched ranges of hot flues. Four of these possess semicircular recesses at one end, one of them being occupied by a stone bath, the front of which is unfortunately broken. The floors of these rooms were entire when first discovered, at a depth of about three or four feet below the surface of the field; but, owing partly to the influence of the weather, which has been of an unusually destructive character this winter, and partly to the mischievous meddling of visitors, it has been impossible to preserve them. They were formed of concrete about eight inches thick, supporting a floor of either stone slabs neatly jointed, or of "terrass," and spread over broad planks of sandstone, which themselves rested upon numerous pillars, about three feet in height, composed of tiers of square burnt tiles bedded in mortar, according to the method peculiar to Roman hypocausts. Considerable interest attaches to this nest of rooms, inasmuch as their arrangement corresponds most accurately with that usually practised in Roman therma, or hot baths, as described by Sir W. Gell in his "Pompeiana," and as recommended by Vitruvius. There is a small innermost room immediately adjoining the furnace, and therefore the hottest of all, which was no doubt the "laconicum," or inner sweating-bath; from this a doorway communicates with another small heated apartment, the "caldarium" probably next to this is the bath-room proper, having the "loutron," or stone-bath, at the end; then comes what was no doubt the "tepidarium," a cooler apartment, though still based on a hypocaust, and this opens into a larger room, corresponding to the "frigidarium," or cooling-room, only one quarter of whose area possessed warm flues, and to which access was gained from without by a long corridor, the "exedra." This disposition of the several rooms is evidently intended to allow the persons taking the baths to approach and to leave the most heated chamber through successive gradations of temperature, as is, indeed, still practised in the East. The internal parts of the hypocaust retained a thick coating of the soot of burnt wood or charcoal, and a recess on one side of the furnace was filled to the depth of more than a foot with charcoal dust. Besides the pillars of tile supporting the floors of these rooms many hollow flue-pipes of terra cotta were met with in the hypocausts, some upright and ranged along the walls, some lying flat on the floor, many broken. These no doubt conveyed the hot air through the floors to heat the rooms above. They were from one to two feet in length, and from six to eight inches in width, and had one or two square openings on one or more sides, of course to admit the heated air.

The greater part of the above particulars are abridged from an interesting account of the progress of the excavations at Wraxall, communicated to the Wiltshire Independent by Mr. Poulett Scrope, M.P., to whom, also, we are indebted for the sketch from which the annexed Engraving is taken.

EXCAVATIONS AT NORTH WRAXALL, WILTS.—BATH-ROOMS OF A ROMAN VILLA.

MEHTARS; OR, STREET-SWEEPERS IN CALCUTTA.

LIKE all native vocations in India, the sweepers' is a distinct one, and this distinction is, perhaps, more strongly marked in their case than in most others, the Mehtah caste being the lowest of all, and so socially isolated are the men and women who form it that the lowest menial of other castes would consider himself contaminated by the touch of a sweeper, or by contact with anything belonging to him. The sweeper, nevertheless, is a useful member of the community, for, as in all tropical countries so in India, unsightly accumulations are not only excessive, but detrimental to health.

In Calcutta the road-sweepers belong to a Government department. Their operations are directed by a sirdar, with something of military precision, and the cleansing effect is perfect. Their peculiar switch-like brooms are used with a degree of expertness really astonishing, and with so much regularity that the roads, after being swept, present very much the appearance of the lines on an engine-turned watch-case.

MEHTARS, OR STREET-SWEEPERS IN CALCUTTA.

The Mehtah, although ignored by other castes as one in whose touch is contamination, has no mean opinion of himself, and his self-esteem is plainly observable in the care with which he arranges his dress, which, though scanty, is usually of the brighest colours; and his jet-black, curly hair, oiled and combed with such scrupulous pains, is usually crowned by a very small tinsel-bordered skull-cap of fine muslin, which he sticks on jauntily much on one side. In cold weather he may sometimes be seen bu toned up in a cast-off dress-coat of the smartest cut, which some English sahib has presented him with out of compassion for the inconvenient bareness of his attire at such a season, the effect of which grotesque blending of costumes is irresistibly ludicrous.

CALENDAR FOR THE WEEK.

SUNDAY, March 18.—Fourth Sunday in Lent.
MONDAY, 19.—Capture of Lucknow, 1858.
TUESDAY, 20.—Hogan died, 1858.
WEDNESDAY, 21.—Benedict. Parliament dissolved, 1857.
THURSDAY, 22.—New Moon, 1h. 56m., p m.
FRIDAY, 23.—Carl Maria Von Weber died, 1829.
SATURDAY, 24.—Overseers appointed.

TIMES OF HIGH WATER AT LONDON-BRIDGE, FOR THE WEEK ENDING MARCH 24, 1860.

Sunday		Monday.		Tuesday.		Wednesday.		Thursday		Friday.		Saturday.
M	A	M	A	M	A	M	A	M	A	M	A	M	A
h m	h m	h m	h m	h m	h m	h m	h m	h m	h m	h m	h m	h m	h m
11 46	—	0 20	0 46	1 7	1 27	1 46	2 2	2 17	2 30	2 43	2 57	3 11	3 26

ROYAL ENGLISH OPERA, COVENT-GARDEN.—Under the Management of Miss LOUISA PYNE and Mr. W. HARRISON.—Special Notice.—The applications at the Box-office daily for places being far greater than the limits of the Theatre can possibly supply, the Management (in accordance with public wishes) have the gratification of announcing NINE Additional Performances of the Popular Opera of LURLINE, commencing Monday, the 19th, and continuing until Wednesday, the 28th, the last being for the Benefit of Miss Louisa Pyne (Manageress).—On Monday, and during the Week, the performances will commence with Henry Leslie's Operetta ROMANCE, OR DICK TURPIN at Seven o'clock. To meet the wishes of their patrons the Management have so regulated the Entertainment that Wallace's Popular Opera of LURLINE will commence at a Quarter-past Eight each evening. Mr. W. Harrison, Santley, and Miss Louisa Pyne Conductor—Alfred Mellon. Doors open at Half-past Six. Commence at Seven.

THEATRE ROYAL, HAYMARKET.—THE OVERLAND ROUTE Every Evening.—Monday and Tuesday: THE HAPPIEST DAY OF MY LIFE; after which, at Eight, THE OVERLAND ROUTE—C. Mathews, Chippendale, Compton, Buckstone, Mrs. C. Mathews, &c.; with HE WOULD BE AN ACTOR—Motley, Mr. C. Mathews; and a Farce. Wednesday: FOUNDED ON FACTS, THE OVERLAND ROUTE (at Eight), THE BOARDING SCHOOL, and a Ballet. Thursday: By desire, at Seven, THE OVERLAND ROUTE, with THE CRITIC—Puff and Sir Fretful, Mr. C. Mathews. Friday and Saturday: THE BOARDING SCHOOL, THE OVERLAND ROUTE (at Eight), HOW TO MAKE HOME HAPPY, and a Ballet.

THEATRE ROYAL, HAYMARKET.—THE PATRIOTIC CONCERT, under the patronage of the Duchess of Sutherland, Lady Constance Grosvenor, and the Countess of Yarborough, and in honour of the loyal Volunteers of the United Kingdom, WEDNESDAY MORNING, MARCH 21. Revival of the Naval and Military Ballads of the Georgian era. See full Programme. Tickets and Places to be secured of Mr. TURPIN, at the Box-office. Commence at Two o'clock.

THEATRE ROYAL, LYCEUM.—Sole Lessee, Madame CELESTE.—Every Evening during the Week a New Drama entitled THE ABBE VAUDREUIL. Monday, Tuesday, and Wednesday, LUCKY STARS. Thursday, Friday, and Saturday, 17, ARUNDEL-STREET, STRAND; with Callcott's Transformation Scene. And conclude with A TALE OF TWO CITIES.

NEW ROYAL ADELPHI.—Monday and during the Week, ICI ON PARLE FRANCAIS: Mr. J. L. Toole. A new Comedy, PAPER WINGS: Messrs. A. Wigan, Fisher, Toole, Bedford, Billington; Mrs. A. Wigan, Miss K. Kelly, Miss H. Simms; and DINORAH UNDER DIFFICULTIES. Doors open at Half-past Six; Commence at Seven.

ROYAL ST. JAMES'S THEATRE.—Directress, Miss WYNDHAM.—On Monday, for the BENEFIT OF Miss CLARA ST. CASSE a variety of Entertainments. On Thursday, for the BENEFIT of Mr. CHARLES YOUNG, BLACK-EYED SUSAN; and other Entertainments.

SURREY THEATRE.—Miss Amy Sedgwick as Julia.—On Monday, MACBETH. Macbeth, Mr. Creswick; Lady Macbeth, Miss Marriott. Tuesday and Friday, ROMEO AND JULIET. Romeo, Miss Marriott; Mercutio, Mr. Creswick. Wednesday, LADY OF LYONS. Claude Melnotte, Mr. Creswick; Pauline, Miss Marriott. Thursday, THE HUNCHBACK. Julia, Miss Amy Sedgwick. To conclude each evening with A BLOW IN THE DARK. Mr. Shepherd and Miss Marriott. And TWO HEADS BETTER THAN ONE.

MASTER HORTON CLARIDGE ALLISON, Pupil of Mr. W. H. Holmes, begs to announce that, at the FIRST of his PIANOFORTE PERFORMANCES at WILLIS'S ROOMS, King-street, St. James's, on TUESDAY, MARCH 27, he will have the honour of playing a Selection from the Works of S. Bach, Handel, Haydn, Beethoven, Mozart, Mendelssohn, Chopin, Herz. Vocalists: Miss Ransford, Miss Fanny Rowland, Mr. Allan Irving. Instrumentalists: Mr. H. Blagrove, Mr. R. Blagrove, Mr. Aylward. Accompanyist, Mr. Hammond. Tickets for the Series, One Guinea; for a Single Performance, 10s. 6d. To be had of Master H. C. Allison, 143, Marylebone road, N.W. All seats reserved.

BEETHOVEN NIGHT at the MONDAY POPULAR CONCERTS, ST. JAMES'S HALL, on Monday Evening, March 26, on which occasion the programme will include (by particular desire) the Grand Septet and the Kreutzer Sonata. Principal Performers—Herr Becker, Sig. Piatti, and Miss Arabella Goddard. Vocalists—Miss Fanny Rowland and Mr. Tennant. Conductor, Mr. Benedict. Sofa Stalls, 5s; Balcony 3s.; Unreserved Seats, 1s.

MR. and MRS. GERMAN REED.—Every Evening (except Saturday) at Eight; Thursday and Saturday afternoons at Three, in their POPULAR ILLUSTRATIONS: OUR HOME CIRCUIT and SEASIDE STUDIES, introducing a variety of amusing and interesting SKETCHES FROM REAL LIFE, with Characteristic Songs, at the ROYAL GALLERY OF ILLUSTRATION, 14, Regent street. Admission, 1s., 2s.; Stalls 3s.; secured at the Gallery; and at Cramer, Beale, and Co's, 201, Regent-st.

MR. and Mrs. HOWARD PAUL on Monday at Greenwich; on Thursday and Friday, March 22 and 23, at Myddleton Hall, Islington. Their popular Entertainment, with new Songs and Characters, will be resumed at the St James's Hall, Piccadilly, on Monday, April 2, for a brief farewell season.

THE SISTERS "SOPHIA AND ANNIE" will have the honour of appearing in an entirely new Entertainment (written expressly for them by an eminent author), entitled MERRY MEETINGS, at CARLISLE, MARCH 19; PENRITH, 20; KENDALL, 21; KIRBY LONSDALE, 22; ULVERSTONE, 23.

CHRISTY'S MINSTRELS.—Polygraphic Hall, King William-street, Strand.—Farewell Season in London. Every Evening at Eight, and Every Saturday Morning at Three o'Clock. Tickets and places may be secured at the Hall from Eleven till Four, and at Mr Austin's, West-end Box office, St. James's Hall, Piccadilly. Sole Proprietor and Manager, Mr. J. W. Raynor. Secretary, H. Montague.

THE COLOURED OPERA TROUPE.—Albain's Coloured Choir and Orchestra's incomparable Concerts of Refined Negro Music, in full Court Costume, thus:—For the week ending March 24, Aberdeen, Forfar, and Edinburgh.—Address, Wm. Albain, 21, Newington-crescent, London, S.

FRENCH EXHIBITION, 120, Pall mall.—The Seventh Annual EXHIBITION of PICTURES, the contributions of Artists of the French and Flemish Schools, will open on MONDAY, the 19th inst. Admission, One Shilling; Catalogues, Sixpence. Open from Nine till Six daily.

INSTITUTION OF FINE ARTS, Portland Gallery, 316, Regent street, W., opposite the Polytechnic. The Thirteenth Annual Exhibition of the Works of Modern Artists is now open from Nine till Dusk. Admission, One Shilling. Catalogue, Sixpence. BELL SMITH, Secretary.

PHOTOGRAPHIC EXHIBITION.—The Seventh Annual Exhibition of the PHOTOGRAPHIC SOCIETY of LONDON is now OPEN DAILY, at the Gallery, No. 5 Pall-mall East: also, in the Evening, from Seven to Ten, except on Saturdays. Will close on the 24th inst.

EXHIBITION.—CROMWELL REFUSING THE CROWN OF ENGLAND.—Maguire's Grand Picture: 30 life-size Portraits. On VIEW at LEGGATT, HAYWARD, and LEGGATT'S, 79, Cornhill. Admission on presentation of private address card.

CRYSTAL PALACE.—Arrangements for Week ending Saturday, MARCH 24.—Monday, open at Nine. Tuesday to Friday, open at Ten. Admission, One Shilling; Children under Twelve Sixpence. Orchestral Band, Great Organ and Pianoforte performances daily. Beautiful display of camellias, hyacinths, and other flowers round the fountain basins, and throughout the Palace. Saturday: Vocal and Instrumental Concert. Admission, by Season Tickets, 10s. 6d. each, or on payment of 2s. 6d.; Children 1s.; reserved seats, 2s 6d. extra. Sunday: Open at half-past One to Shareholders gratuitously by Tickets.

CRYSTAL PALACE.—Passion Week and Easter Week.—Mdlle. PICCOLOMINI will sing in a DAILY CONCERT. Admission, as usual, One Shilling; except on Saturdays, Half-a-Crown. Transferable Reserved Seats, Half-a-Crown each, for either day; or for the series of twelve concerts, One Guinea may be secured, on and after Monday next, at the Crystal Palace; or at 2, Exeter Hall; or by order through the usual agents. The programme will be varied each day, and will comprise the most popular pieces in Mdlle. Piccolomini's extensive répertoire.

SACRED HARMONIC SOCIETY, Exeter Hall.—Conductor, Mr. Costa.—On FRIDAY NEXT, Subscription Concert, HAYDN'S SEASONS. Principal Vocalists, Miss Parepa, Mr Sims Reeves, Mr. Wilbye Cooper, and Mr. Weiss.—Tickets, 3s., 5s., and 10s. 6d. each, at the Society's office, 6, in Exeter Hall.

ST. MARTIN'S HALL.—HANDEL'S JUDAS MACCABÆUS, WEDNESDAY, MARCH 21, at Eight, under the direction of Mr. JOHN HULLAH. Principal Vocalists—Miss Banks, Miss Martin, Miss Mina Poole, Miss Palmer; Mr. Sims Reeves, Mr. W. Evans, Mr. Lewis Thomas. Tickets 1s., 2s. 6d.; Stalls, 5s.

MADAME CLARA NOVELLO'S FAREWELL.—Madame Clara Novello respectfully acquaints her Friends and the Public that she will Revisit England in the Autumn to sing at a few Oratorios and Concerts in London and the Provinces, being her last appearance in public. Communications from Musical Societies to be addressed to CRAMER and CO., 201, Regent-street.

MR. ALBERT SMITH has the honour to announce that his CHINA will TERMINATE with the 400th and Last Representation on THURSDAY, APRIL 5. It will be given until then as usual every Night (except Saturday) at Eight, and Tuesday and Saturday Afternoons at Three o'Clock. Stalls, 3s., which can be taken at the Box-office, Egyptian Hall, daily, from Eleven till Five. Area, 2s.; Gallery, 1s.

THE FOLKESTONE WEST CLIFF HOTEL COMPANY (LIMITED).
Registered pursuant to the Joint-stock Companies Acts, 1856-7, by which the liability of Shareholders is strictly limited to their Subscriptions.
Capital, £60,000, in 60,000 Shares of £1 each.
Deposit, 10s. per Share on Application, and 10s. on Allotment.
DIRECTORS.
J. Challice, Esq., M.D., Chairman of the London-bridge Hotel Company, Southwark, Chairman.
Benjamin J. Armstrong, Esq., Deputy Lieutenant for Middlesex, Elmfield Lodge, Southall.
J. A. Bicknell, Esq., Cork-street, Burlington-gardens.
E. Gough, Esq. (E. Gough and Co.), Bush-lane and Greenwich.
Captain Gilbert Kennicott, R.N., Mayor of Folkestone.
G. Sheward, Esq., Director of the Sambre and Meuse Railway, Randolph-road, Maida-vale.
(With power to add to their number.)
BANKERS.
Messrs. Smith, Payne, and Smiths, Lombard-street, London.
The National Provincial Bank of England, Folkestone.
SOLICITORS.
Messrs. Tucker, Greville, and Tucker, 28, Saint Swithin's-lane, London.
Richard Hart, Esq. Folkestone.
BROKERS.—Messrs. Mackie, North, and Brown, 29, Threadneedle-street, London.
CONSULTING ARCHITECT—Sydney Smirke, Esq., R.A., F.G.S., Grosvenor-street, London.
ARCHITECT AND SURVEYOR—Joseph Messenger, Esq., Spring-gardens and Folkestone.
MANAGER OF THE HOTEL—Mr. G. Giovannini.
SECRETARY—R. T. Alison, Esq.
OFFICES—20, Walbrook, City.
This Company is formed for the purpose of purchasing and enlarging the premises well known as the West Cliff Hotel, Folkestone, and advantageous arrangements have been made with the proprietor, who has agreed to sell to the company the whole of this property by Mr. Woodthorpe's valuation, and to take a large portion of the purchase-money in paid-up shares. Possession of the property will be given to the company on Lady-day, when completion of the purchase will be effected.
From careful calculations made, the profits are estimated from 18 to 20 per cent, and the shareholders will have the benefit of the forthcoming season, as the proposed alterations, extensions, and improvements will be carried out without interfering with the present establishment.

FOLKESTONE WEST CLIFF HOTEL COMPANY.—No further APPLICATIONS for SHARES will be received after TUESDAY, the 20th inst., from residents in London, and WEDNESDAY, the 21st, from the country. After which the allotment will immediately take place. By order, R. T. ALISON, Secretary.
March 13, 1860.
Applications for Shares (not later than the 20th inst.), with a deposit of 10s per share, to be addressed to the Secretary, 20, Walbrook; or to the Brokers, 29, Threadneedle-street; where detailed prospectuses can also be obtained.

FIVE PER CENT PREFERENCE STOCK.—THE SCOTTISH AUSTRALIAN INVESTMENT COMPANY (Limited). Established 1840.
The directors of this company are prepared to receive applications for allotments of this stock which will be inscribed on the books of the company in the names of the allottees, free of stamp duty or other charge.
The dividends are payable on the 1st of January and the 1st of July, by warrants on the company's bankers, transmitted to the proprietors. They constitute a first charge on all the profits of the company, and will begin to accrue from the day the stock is paid for.
The preference stock in this company will carry any arrear of dividend that may at any time arise, and such arrear will be paid prior to payment of any dividend on the ordinary stock.
The present paid-up capital of the company is £200,000.
The dividends paid since the commencement have averaged ten per cent per annum, and the present amount of reserve fund is £15,399 19s. 11d.
Further particulars and forms of application may be obtained at the Office of the Company, 24, Gresham-street, E.C. By order of the directors,
No. 24, Gresham-street, E.C., London, March 16, 1860. C. GRAINGER, Secretary.

THE NEW BREAD MANUFACTURE (Dr. DAUGLISH'S PROCESS).—Applications for information respecting Licenses may be made to Messrs. PEEK, FREAN, and CO., Dockhead, S.E., London; and, respecting machinery, to Messrs. BARRET, EXALL, and ANDREWES, Reading.

MONEY ADVANCED Without Securities.—National Loan Fund, 9, Adam-street, Adelphi, Strand, London. Loans from £5 to £300 with Sureties. Loans from £5 to £200 without Sureties, at extra-risk premium. Bills discounted. Strictest secrecy can be relied on. Forms 2d. G. LAWRENCE, Manager.

DENT'S CHRONOMETERS, WATCHES, and CLOCKS. M. F. DENT, 33, Cockspur-street, Charing-cross, Watch, Clock, and Chronometer Maker by special appointment to her Majesty the Queen.—33, Cockspur-street, Charing-cross.

TO PARENTS AND GUARDIANS.—A Lady desires to RECOMMEND an Establishment for YOUNG LADIES, at Brighton, conducted by a Lady who devotes her whole time to her pupils, assisted by resident teachers. The highest references given. The house large, facing the sea, and possessing comforts rarely met with. Address F. H., Messrs. Treacher, Booksellers, Brighton.

OPERA, RACE, and FIELD GLASSES, in every variety of style and mounting, at CALLAGHAN'S, 23A, New Bond-street (corner of Conduit-street). Prices from 30s. N.B. Sole agent for the celebrated Opera Glasses and Photographic Lenses made by Voigtländer, Vienna.

FURNITURE.—Gratis, a New and elaborately Illustrated CATALOGUE, containing over 300 Designs of Furniture, Iron Bedsteads, Bedding, &c., with Prices and Estimates for all classes of houses. Country orders carriage-free. LEWIN CRAWCOUR and CO., House Furnishers, 22 and 23, Queen's-buildings, Knightsbridge, London.—N.B. A very elegant and complete WALNUT DRAWING ROOM SUITE TO BE SOLD for 33 guineas, recently cost 60 guineas; Dining-room ditto, in Spanish Mahogany, 28 guineas; and Two handsome and complete Bedroom Suites, in fine Mahogany and Birch, with Winged Wardrobes and Marble-top Washstands, 25 guineas. The whole of the above are decided bargains.

COUNTRY RESIDENTS should send to PARKINS and GOTTO for their Guinea Case of Stationery. They undertake to send it, carriage paid to any part of England, upon a receipt of a Post-office order. It contains 50 quires of thick Note Paper, 1000 Envelopes, 6 dozen P. and G.'s Elastic Post office Pens, 6 Holders, and a Note Blotting-book. No charge for case. Cheapest guinea's worth in England. N.B. 24 and 25, Oxford-street.

WEDDING STATIONERY.—Patterns free by post.—The Newest and most Fashionable Designs, and Latest Alterations, including specimens, of Card Engraving, Envelopes, "At Homes," Breakfast Invitations, &c. Crest-dies cut for 5s. PARKINS and GOTTO, 24 and 25, Oxford-street, London.

PRESENTS at PARKINS and GOTTO'S.
250 Reticules, from 5s. 6d.
250 Writing-cases, from 2s. 6d.
Envelopes and Stationery Cases.
180 Desks, from 7s. 6d.
Scales for Letters and Parcels.
200 Inkstands, from 5s.
Chess and Draught Boards and Men.
120 Despatch-boxes, from 21s.
Fans of every kind.
500 Portemonnaies, from 1s.
Pearl and Ivory Goods.
200 Ladies' Dressing-cases, 21s.
250 Pearl Card-cases, from 5s. 6d.
Albums, Scraps, and Portfolios.
150 Dressing-bags, from 35s.
Glove-boxes and Letter-boxes.
150 Elegant Book-slides, 8s. 6d.
Tortoiseshell Goods; Pearl ditto.
250 Pocket-books, from 2s. 6d.
Jewel-cases and Key-boxes.
(My Books)s in Lock-cases.
Tea-caddies and Tea-trays.
Illustrated Catalogues sent post-free.
Papier-mâché Goods of every description.
Parkins and Gotto, Manufacturers, 24 and 25, Oxford-street.

PRIZE WRITING-CASE, 2s. fitted, or free by post for 28 stamps. The Society of Arts have awarded 20 Guineas and their Silver Medal to PARKINS and GOTTO for this case, for its durability, simplicity, and cheapness. Parkins and Gotto, 24 and 25, Oxford-street, London. Trade supplied.

NO CHARGE at PARKINS and GOTTO'S for Embossing Crest, Initials, or Address upon Note Paper and Envelopes, and the carriage paid to any part of England on orders over 20s.—added to these advantages, their prices will be found, upon comparison, full 6s in the £1 lower than any other house. 60 samples sent by post for 4 stamps; Crest-dies cut for 5s.; Address-dies from 3s. 6d. Price list post-free.—Parkins and Gotto, Manufacturing Stationers, 24 and 25, Oxford-street.

TESTIMONIALS Designed and Emblazoned on Vellum; and Caskets for ditto, for Presentations. Mediæval Monumental Brasses (Ecclesiastic, Notarial). Seals, Dies, Presses, Book Plates, &c.—H. SALT, Heraldic Office, Turnstile, Lincoln's-inn.

A CAUTION on HERALDRY.—The Nobility and Gentry constantly complain of the Errors committed in Armorial Bearings by Stationers, Jewellers, Engravers, and others, that Bachelors are represented Married, the Married Bachelors, and the Maiden Widowed: the Public, for their own protection, and to prevent being censured, are solicited to consult her Majesty's Heralds, or the Lincoln's-inn Heraldic Office, who now execute Engraving, &c.—Observe, H. SALT, Great Turnstile, Lincoln's-inn.

FOR FAMILY ARMS, send to the LINCOLN'S-INN HERALDIC OFFICE Name and County. Arms Painted, Empaled, and Quartered Sketch, 3s 6d., or stamps. Pedigrees of Families, 21s.—H. SALT, Great Turnstile, Lincoln's-inn.

LINCOLN'S INN HERALDIC OFFICE.—The established office for authority in England, which for many years has furnished Arms, Crests, &c., with that authenticity known throughout Europe.—H. SALT, Great Turnstile, Lincoln's-inn.

HERALDIC STUDIO and Index of the Heralds' Visitations. THE LINCOLN'S-INN MANUAL OF HERALDRY; a description of the Science, upwards of 400 Engravings, 3s., or stamps.—H. SALT, Heraldic Office, Great Turnstile, Lincoln's-inn.

LINCOLN'S INN HERALDIC OFFICE.—Engraving on Stone, Steel, Silver, and Emblazoning on Vellum, in accordance only with the laws of Garter King of Arms. Crest on Seals or Rings, 8s. 6d.—H. SALT, Great Turnstile, Lincoln's-inn.

REV. J. M. BELLEW has consented to give his new LECTURE on MILTON, in Aid of the Printers' Pension Society, at ST. MARTIN'S HALL, Long acre, on MONDAY Evening, APRIL 2.—Prices: Stalls, 4s.; Area and Balcony, 2s.; Back Seats, 1s. Of Messrs. D. and P. Colnaghi, Pall-mall East; of Messrs. Dorrell and Son, 15, Charing-cross; and of Mr. Headland, St. Martin's Hall.

VOLUNTEER CORPS.
To the Editor of the ILLUSTRATED LONDON NEWS.
Sir,—I am anxious to carry out my project of forming some permanent record of this great national movement, and would beg you kindly to give publicity to my invitation to Officers of Volunteer Corps who had the honour of attending her Majesty's Levee on the 7th of March, to present themselves at my studio, in uniform, at any time convenient to themselves, that they may be photographed (gratis) for the commemoration, which I am anxious should be as perfect and complete as possible—his Royal Highness the Duke of Cambridge having graciously been pleased to accept it. I am, your obedient servant,
222, Regent-street, Argyll-place. W. E. KILBURN, Photographer to the Queen.

THE ILLUSTRATED LONDON NEWS.

LONDON, SATURDAY, MARCH 17, 1860.

As consistent advocates of the repeal of the paper duty, on the broad ground of the effect of such a remission on a trade the extent of the development of which it is not easy to calculate, we necessarily feel some satisfaction in the circumstance that the second reading of the bill for the abolition of the impost has been carried by a large majority. At one time there were appearances of faltering on this point on the part of the Government, and of a disposition on the part of some Liberal members of Parliament who are pledged to the policy of remission of duties, and excise duties especially, to yield this particular feature of the Budget, which, coupled with a somewhat adroit movement on the part of the opponents of that policy, seemed to put the removal of the paper duty in some peril. The course taken by the Chancellor of the Exchequer, however, proved that he was sincere in his intention, and unshaken in his resolve not to cede this one of the cardinal points of his financial scheme, and the result has been a direct checkmate to Sir William Miles's move. A good deal of the argument which was used against the assertion that the paper duty was an oppressive tax on knowledge, and which in a great measure turned on the consideration that the raw material for making that kind of paper which alone can be used for literary and educational purposes, has been disposed of by the circumstance that France has consented to a modification of her prohibitory duty on rags, and of the assurance of the Government that they are not without hope that the efforts they are making will induce other countries to take a similar course. This would go a considerable way to settle that part of the question.

But apart from that which is after all but a section of the main question, the discussion in the House of Commons seems to us conclusive that there is everything to hope from a large increase in the manufacture of an article which it is the most egregious of mistakes to suppose does not enter immensely into what may be termed the imperceptible consumption of the people in general. It is clear that the excise duty has operated to create a monopoly of the trade in paper in its most extended sense in the hands of a few capitalists; while it has quenched the zeal of scientific research and experiment which might otherwise have been exerted in the direction of the supply of raw material. It is hardly to be supposed that, whereas numerous substances have been found to be capable of being made available for the purposes of papermaking up to a certain point, chemical science will not be brought to bear on those substances with a view to their being made perfect as appliances for this particular manufacture. However this may be, in a short time any excuse connected with the repressive effect of an excise duty will become null and void, and a trade and manufacture, which, as was well put by Mr. Gladstone, looking to the peculiar use of the article produced, is inseparably connected with each and every other trade and manufacture, will be open to the skill and enterprise of any one who chooses to embark in it.

PARLIAMENT'S smaller topics during the week have not been of a very interesting character. There was, however, an exception on Wednesday, when a bill introduced by Mr. Locke King, for the purpose of allowing clergymen to preach in any building they might choose, without reference or deference to their ecclesiastical superiors, was debated, and ultimately rejected, though not by a large majority. In the course of the discussion Lord Robert Cecil went off at a tangent to the question whether a Parliament, in which Hebrews sit, can, without offence to them, entertain measures for Christian education. His theory of the un-Christianised character of the House was severely assailed by Mr. Gladstone as representing the Church of England, and Sir G. C. Lewis as representing the opinion of society. But a still more marked expression of feeling was given. Sir Francis Goldsmid, as a Jew, repudiated the idea that he was not to take part in such discussions, and distinctly declared that enlightened Jews believed it their duty to aid in the education of Christians in their own creed. Doubtless this is the common-sense view of the duties of an English legislator, and it is this advance on the part of the Jews from bigotry to rationality that gives the most conclusive answer to the advocates of exclusion. Theoretically it may be difficult to erect that edifice of sound sense upon the received traditions of Judaism; and it is, therefore, very satisfactory to find an able and educated Hebrew like Sir Francis Goldsmid at once repudiating the fanaticism of which certain Protestants felt apprehensions. Another curious thing in the debate was a speech from Lord Ashley (son of Lord Shaftesbury, the energetic upholder of theatre-sermons) deriding the position of clergymen on the stage surrounded by a scenic garden and forbidden fruit. It is a decided case of non sequitur patrem. Mr. Padmore has been elected without a contest for Worcester, Mr. Cubitt sits in the seat of Mr. Henry Drummond, Lord Bury has been ejected from Norwich as disqualified, and Colonel Luke White has been turned out of Clare for bribery and treating practised at his election.

The melancholy death of one of our Judges, Mr. Justice Watson, almost upon the judgment-seat, has occurred, strangely, on the anniversary of the day on which Mr. Justice Talfourd expired on the bench, and in the same act—namely, that of charging the grand jury. Mr. Justice Watson's history is remarkable from the fact that he was educated for the Army, entered it, fought under the Duke in Spain, and afterwards in the campaign that struck down Napoleon; and the soldier did not turn lawyer until the peace. That under such circumstances he should attain one of the prizes of his new profession would seem to be a proof that he "bore a mounting mind." His successor has not been fixed upon; but the Solicitor-General has the right of refusal.

From the Registrar-General the report for 1859 is of a satisfactory character, and shows that the energetic exertions of science in a sanatory direction are telling upon the causes of unnecessary mortality. The percentage of death is diminishing. We regret to add, though the information occasioned us no surprise, that the unfortunate strike of last year worked, as we anticipated, upon the helpless—the children of the masses led astray by foolish and interested agitators. Deprivation of food and of other comforts brought a large additional number of children to the grave, and testified to the miserable mischief which obstinacy and craftiness brought into the poor man's household. In this same week the notorious Mr. Potter, on behalf of the association he represents, congratulates the working men on having gained what he calls a victory, and urges them to continue the organisation which has done so much. The end of the campaign against sound economical principles is that the demand on which the strike was originally based is utterly abandoned; and all that is "gained" is that a demand by the masters, brought forward in consequence of the first tyrannical movement, has not been everywhere insisted on. And for this "gain" idleness and semi-starvation were endured for months, and children have been destroyed in the most cruel manner. Truly, what Mr. Potter calls his "field of organisation" may be termed "Potter's field—to bury children in."

Shall we ever get at the rights and wrongs of the Cork county election, or is it that the Ultramontanists wish to efface the memory of their signal defeat in the petty squabble as to the persons responsible for getting up the unprincipled opposition to Mr. Deasy? Lord Campden declares that he was nominated without his leave, and this statement brings a burst of indignation from the agents who conducted the canvass. Then Mr. Pope Hennessy, who was so intent upon beating Mr. Deasy that he rushed away from his duties as a railway committeeman and put the unfortunate parties to a great expense for nothing, comes in and explains to Lord Campden that he really must be mistaken in his explanation of his own meaning, but that such mistakes may be pardonable in the hurry of an election contest. And poor Lord Campden seems driven to accept this version of a story of which it is not very unreasonable to suppose that he should know more than anybody else. And all has been in vain, the Ultramontanists being almost more signally beaten in Cork than in the Romagna.

The Literary Fund has met, and our great novelist, Mr. Thackeray, has been elected into the general committee, and the Bishop of St. David's (Dr. Thirlwall, the distinguished scholar and historian) has been chosen a vice-president in the room of the late Lord Macaulay. It is intimated that the Bishop will take the chair at the next dinner,—a new and interesting office for an illustrious ecclesiastic. The committee finally decline the proposed gift of books—an offer which was encumbered with conditions involving important alterations in the administration of the fund, and which may now rest in peace, in company with the equally unacceptable offer made by Mr. Dodd to the Dramatic College. We are sorry to learn that thirty-five gentlemen and fourteen ladies have had to seek aid from the fund, but glad that in such need there was a fund out of which £1640 could be, and was, advanced to the applicants.

THE COURT.

The Queen has presented a copy of the portrait of Signor Lablache, executed for her Majesty by Winterhalter, to the surviving relatives of that great singer, with the suggestion that the picture should remain an heirloom to the family.

The Prince of Wales is about to pay a visit to the Principality from which he takes his title.

The Prince of Orange reached the Hague on Wednesday week, having been absent from Holland since September.

The Queen and the Prince Consort, with the junior members of the Royal family, walked in the grounds of Osborne on the morning of their arrival from London (the 8th inst). On the following day the Prince and Princess of Leiningen visited her Majesty.

On Sunday the Queen and the Prince Consort, with Prince Alfred, Princess Alice, Princess Helena, Princess Louisa, and Prince Arthur attended Divine service at Whippingham Church. The Rev. G. Prothero performed the service.

On Monday the Queen and the Prince Consort walked out. During the day the Prince and Princess of Leiningen arrived on a visit.

On Tuesday the Queen and the Prince Consort, accompanied by Princess Alice and the Prince and Princess of Leiningen, drove out. Lord Alfred Paget attended on horseback.

On Wednesday the Queen and the Prince Consort again drove out. The Prince and Princess of Leiningen took their departure.

His Royal Highness Prince Frederick of the Netherlands arrived at Claridge's Hotel last week from Torquay, where the Princess Frederick and her family are remaining for the benefit of their health. The Prince dined with her Majesty at Buckingham Palace, and on Sunday last embarked in the Batavio steam-ship, on his return to Holland.

His Royal Highness the Duc de Montpensier landed on Tuesday, at Plymouth, from the Spanish war-steamer Alava, in which his Royal Highness sailed a few days since from Corunna. His Royal Highness comes to England to visit his mother, the ex-Queen of the French, at Claremont.

The Duke and Duchess of Sutherland have left Stafford House for Cliefden, near Maidenhead, where the Right Hon. W. E. and Mrs. Gladstone and a select circle assembled on Saturday.

The Countess of Warwick was delivered of a daughter on Tuesday, at the noble Earl's residence in the Stable-yard, St. James's. Her Ladyship and infant are progressing favourably.

The Countess of Antrim gave birth to a daughter on Friday last at Glenavon Castle, county Antrim.

Viscount and Viscountess Palmerston gave a grand entertainment on Saturday evening, at Cambridge House, to his Royal Highness Prince Frederick of the Netherlands and his Royal Highness the Duke of Cambridge.

Lord and Lady John Russell entertained his Excellency the Saxon Minister, the Earl of Carnarvon, Count Strzelecki, Count Brandenburg, Count Corti, Count de Flahault and the Hon. Miss E. de Flahault, Lady Katherine Valletort, the Dean of St. Paul's and Mrs. Milman at dinner on Wednesday evening, at their residence in Chesham-place.

The Right Hon. B. Disraeli and Mrs. Disraeli entertained at dinner on Wednesday, at their residence, Grosvenor Gate, the Marquis and Marchioness of Salisbury, the Duchess of Montrose, Lord and Lady Burghley, Lady Ulrica Thynne, Viscount and Viscountess Campden, Baron Rothschild and Miss Rothschild, Sir James and Lady Edith Fergusson, Sir Stafford and Lady Northcote, Sir William Jolliffe, Lord Robert Montagu, and Mr. Alexander Baring.

Earl Fitzwilliam gave a dinner at his Lordship's residence in Grosvenor-square on Thursday se'nnight to more than 100 of the officers of the Yorkshire West Riding Volunteer Corps.

On Wednesday se'nnight a grand amateur performance by the officers of Chatham garrison took place in the theatre which has been erected by the Government at the Royal Marine Barracks. The theatre was crowded by officers and ladies, Generals Eyre and Eden being among the audience. The pieces performed were "Charles II." and "Lend me Five Shillings."

METROPOLITAN NEWS.

ALLEGED DESECRATION OF CAMDEN-TOWN CEMETERY.—In the Consistory Court, on Tuesday, Dr. Twiss delivered judgment upon this long-pending question. He decided that the Vicar and Churchwardens must re-inter the dead bodies in the consecrated ground, and admonished them that for the future the dead bodies and coffins must not be removed or disturbed.

BIRTHS AND DEATHS.—Last week the births of 919 boys and 867 girls (in all 1786 children) were registered in London. In the ten corresponding weeks of the years 1850-59 the average number was 1768.—The mortality has declined, and the deaths have fallen in three weeks from 1500 to 1397. The corrected average number of deaths of the corresponding week of the ten previous years is 1365; so the deaths of the week that ended on Saturday last were thirty-two more than the estimated number.

THE LATE BUILDERS' STRIKE.—The Conference of the Building Trades have addressed the working classes of the United Kingdom, intimating that in order that the whole available energies and resources of the working classes might be concentrated on a single point—namely, the defeat of the odious document, it was deemed expedient that the nine hours' movement should be for a time suspended. They then ask the question: Are you of opinion that this movement should now be revived? And if so, what steps are you prepared to take for giving effect to this opinion? and suggest whether the experience of the last six months is to be thrown away by the dissolution of the organisation; or whether by your continued support, in the shape of a small weekly subscription, it shall persevere in the prosecution of the work for which it was called into existence.

BANK OF ENGLAND.—On Thursday morning a half-yearly meeting of the governor, deputy-governor, and directors of the Bank of England, was held in the Bank Parlour, Threadneedle-street—Mr. Bonamy Dobree, the governor, in the chair. The governor said he had to acquaint the proprietors, that this was a half-yearly court for the declaration of a dividend. The net profits for the half-year ending the 29th of February, amounted to £646,737, making the amount of Rest on that day £3,686,876. After payment of a dividend of £4 10s. per cent for the half-year, the Rest would remain at £3,025,991. The court of directors, therefore, recommended a dividend on interest and profits, on the 5th of April, at the rate of £4 10s. per cent for the half year, without deduction on account of income tax. A vote carrying the dividend was unanimously adopted, as was also a vote of thanks to the directors.

THE BUDGET AND THE CUSTOMS' ACT.—On Thursday last a numerously-attended meeting of the commercial community was held at the London Tavern, to consider the new taxes and changes in resolutions Nos. 16, 17, and 18 of the Customs Act now before the House of Commons; R. W. Crawford, Esq., M.P., one of the members for the city of London, presided. The chairman and other gentlemen having addressed the meeting with the view of showing that the new taxes and changes would throw serious obstacles in the way of the trade and commerce of Great Britain, a series of resolutions were adopted expressive of the feelings of the merchants and traders of London on the subject, and declaring that the proposed modification of the Chancellor of the Exchequer in respect to new changes would not meet the difficulty of the case. It was also agreed to present a petition to the House of Commons, embodying the resolutions, which was to be presented by the chairman. The meeting then separated.

ST. GEORGE'S-IN-THE-EAST.—At eight o'clock last Saturday evening, Mr. Thompson, the senior churchwarden, entered the church, "acting upon imperative orders he had received from the Bishop of London," with three carpenters, who, upon his instructions, removed the crosses from the altar, and also the drapery, and took away the choristers' seats. Against this measure Mr. King simply protested, and on Sunday morning his curate and choristers took up places within the rails of the communion table, the rev. Rector himself ascending the reading-desk, which for years past had been disused. At the close of the afternoon service, as usual, a large body of persons remained in the church, with a view to creating the same disgraceful scene and as much contention as on the previous Sunday; but Mr. Thompson, the churchwarden, ordered them to leave, threatening to give them into custody if they refused. Thus the church was cleared. As in the morning, the priests and choristers were obliged to take refuge in the evening within the altar-rails. The disturbance was chiefly confined to loud coughing during the sermon, which was preached by the Rev. J. H. A. Gibson, M.A. After the service the congregation, who were evidently bent on stopping, struck up the Doxology, and the organist played with tremendous vigour in order to drown their voices. This sort of contest was kept up nearly an hour, till a large body of extra policemen entered the church and effected a clearance.——Several assault cases in relation to proceedings in St. George's Church on the previous Sunday were heard in the Thames Police Court, on Thursday week. The Rev. Bryan King, the Rector, was fined 5s.; the Rev. Mr. Dove, his Curate, 40s.; and Mr. Coleman, £3; the other defendants being discharged, with an admonition.——Mr. King has commenced an action against Herbert, the constable of the parish, in the Court of Common Pleas, for tresspass. He has also caused five other persons to be served with writs.

ANNIVERSARIES OF BENEVOLENT INSTITUTIONS.

The second anniversary of the Railway Benevolent Institution was celebrated on Wednesday evening at the London Tavern, when about 120 gentlemen, more or less connected with the railway interest, sat down to dinner. The chair was taken by the Right Hon. the Earl of Shelburne, chairman of the Great Western Railway Company; who, in advocating the claims of the institution, said it might be said to be fairly on its legs, and already had had all its objects fully ventilated. He found that in March, 1860, the annual income was £654; donations, £2121 14s. 2d.; and at present they had seventy-seven life subscribers; and, in stating this, he stated the entire amount of their funds at the present moment. That was a good amount for a start, but was not sufficient to sit down satisfied with. He had proposed to his proprietary to submit to a rate in support of their institution. So vast were the revenues of railway property, that a rate of one halfpenny in the pound on the railways of the United Kingdom would produce £10,000 a year—an income which he need not say would be amply sufficient for their present purpose. He should be most happy to promote such a scheme, and to place it on a permanent basis of utility. The sum collected during the evening reached nearly £600.

The annual meeting of the friends of the Architects' Benevolent Society was held on Wednesday in the board-room of the Royal Institute of British Architects, Conduit-street—Sydney Smirke, Esq., the president, in the chair. The report, as read by J. Turner, Esq., the hon. secretary, congratulated the assemblage on the society having completed the tenth year of its existence, but at the same time expressed regret at the loss sustained by the decease of their late noble patron, as well as of several warm friends, subscribers and donors to the funds. The society had, however, advanced at a steady and unflagging pace, each year adding to its numbers and improving its means. The balance-sheet showed that the receipts of the year, including a previous balance of £180 13s. 8d., amounted to £417 13s. 9d., and that after defraying the necessary expenses there remained a balance of £147 8s. 11d., in addition to a funded stock of £904 9s. 6d.

On Thursday the annual general meeting of the friends and supporters of the Royal National Life-boat Institution was held at the London Tavern—in the absence of Admiral the Duke of Northumberland, its president, Admiral the Earl of Shrewsbury and Talbot, C.B., V.P., in the chair. Mr. Lewis, the secretary, read the annual report. It began by stating that the total number of life-boats, including those in course of construction, belonging to the institution amounted to one hundred and one. The life-boats of the Royal National Life-boat Institution had, at various points on our coast, been actively called into operation on sixty-one occasions during the past year. Two hundred and eighteen lives had been saved from thirty-nine wrecks, and five vessels had been assisted safely into port. For these valuable exertions the total sum paid to life-boat's crews was £733 18s. 9d. On these occasions, and on those of quarterly exercise, the life-boats were manned by about 4000 persons. The number of wrecks in the seas and on the coasts of the British isles, and the consequent loss of life therefrom had been unprecedently large during the year, no less than 1646 of our fellow-creatures having met a watery grave. It was, however, consoling to find that the exertions which had been made during the past year to rescue life from shipwreck had been attended with great and encouraging success, as was shown by the official return of the Board of Trade, 2332 having been thus saved. The total number of persons saved from shipwreck since the first establishment of the National Life-boat Institution, and for rescuing whom the committee had granted honorary and pecuniary rewards, was 11,401. During the past-year one gold medal, twenty silver medals, thirteen votes of thanks inscribed on vellum, and £1108 15s. 8d. have been granted for saving the lives of 499 persons on the coasts and outlying banks of the United Kingdom. Many of these services had been of the most gallant and noble character. Since the formation of the institution it had expended on life-boat establishments £36,948 5s. 8d., and has voted 82 gold and 658 silver medals, for distinguished services in saving life, besides pecuniary awards amounting together to £12,759 15s. 8d. During the past year expenses had been incurred on either additional new life-boat stations, or the replacing of old boats, transporting carriages and houses; by new ones, repairs, stores, and alterations of boats, carriages, and houses, and for exercising the crews of life-boats, amounting altogether to £11,120, 18s. 8d. This great and national work had however only been accomplished by the society incurring liabilities to the extent of a further sum of £3834. The receipts of the institution from all sources amounted last year to £11,652 11s. 6d. Amongst the interesting incidents connected therewith the committee gratefully acknowledged various gifts, specially appropriated, at the request of the donors themselves, to the cost of different life-boats. During the preceding year legacies had been left to the institution by the late Miss Church, £100; George Biggs, Esq., Strand, £100; Edwin Cuthbert, Esq., Denmark-hill, £50; and from Mrs. Ann Thompson, £100. The report having been moved and unanimously adopted, various other resolutions pledging the meeting to renewed exertions on behalf of the truly benevolent and national objects of the institution, and the usual complimentary vote of thanks having been given to the chairman, the proceedings, which were of a very interesting character, terminated.

The 112th anniversary of the Lock Hospital Charity was held on Wednesday last, at Willis's Rooms—the Duke of Cambridge in the chair, supported by a large and influential body of the governors. This charity is well known, and at its chief establishment, Westbourne-green, Paddington, receives annually a large number of patients, both male and female. The chief object put forward at this anniversary was the scheme of forming a male department in some central position, so as at once to secure a larger space for the female patients at Westbourne, and also to afford room for the proper classification of the inmates. To the female department of the Lock there is associated an asylum or penitentiary, into which thirty-six young women tired of their life of sin, or won through the ministration of the Chaplain, entered during the past year. From this penitentiary these young women get into situations, or are restored to their friends, raised both physically and morally; very often, says the report of the institution for the past year, "becoming most respectable and well-behaved persons." The contributions announced during the evening exceeded £600, and further subscriptions were promised.

The twenty-second anniversary festival of the Benevolent Institution for the Aged and Infirm Journeymen Tailors was celebrated on Tuesday evening, at the Freemasons' Tavern, Great Queen-street—Lord Ashley, M.P., in the chair. His Lordship was supported by nearly three hundred of the most influential members of the trade. Excellent practical speeches in furtherance of the objects of the charity were made by the chairman and others, and subscriptions amounting to £700 were announced.

COUNTRY NEWS.

The tailors' "lock-out" at Darlington continues, and there seems no prospect at present of its being satisfactorily arranged.

HALF-HOLIDAY MOVEMENT.—Last week forty of the leading manufacturers in Nottingham commenced closing their establishments on Saturdays at one o'clock.

The foundation-stone of a Ragged School at the junction of Lincoln-lane and Station-street—one of the most densely populated parts of Boston—was laid on Monday week by Mr. R. Hubbert.

At Bedford, on Wednesday, Joseph Castle was found guilty of the wilful murder of his wife at Laton on the 9th of August last, and sentence of death was passed upon him.

Joseph Jones, reputed to be a person of independent means, has been committed to prison for one month, with hard labour, for stealing newspapers from the Free Library at Manchester.

The inquest on the body of Mr. Spencer, who was murdered last week, near Gainsborough, was brought to a conclusion on Wednesday; the jury returning a verdict of "Wilful murder" against John Fenton.

The annual meeting of proprietors of the Royal Exchange, Manchester, was held on Wednesday, at which they refused to sanction a vote by the committee of £200 to the rifle fund. A dividend was declared at the rate of 6½ per cent.

At Lincoln, on Tuesday, Samuel Moody, fisherman, charged with the wilful murder of Elijah Lynn, at Skegness, in the county of Lincoln, on the 4th of February, was found guilty of manslaughter, and sentenced to fifteen years' transportation.

The next annual meeting of the Yorkshire Union of Mechanics' Institutes is fixed to take place at Otley on the 30th of May. Lord Ashburton has consented to preside on the occasion, and several noblemen and gentlemen of distinction will also be present.

At the Lincoln Assizes, on Wednesday, Thomas Peel, farmer, who was charged with the wilful murder of Mark Brewer, was found not guilty. It was alleged that deceased had been beaten violently by Peel, his master, and that he died from the illtreatment to which he had been subjected.

DESTRUCTION OF A SPINNING-MILL BY FIRE.—Yesterday week the cotton-spinning mill of Messrs. J. and J. Haslam, Parker-street, Preston, was totally destroyed by fire. The mill was four stories high, and about forty yards long by thirty yards in breadth, and contained 20,000 spindles, with preparation. The building and its contents were insured for upwards of £20,000, which it is thought will barely cover the damage sustained.

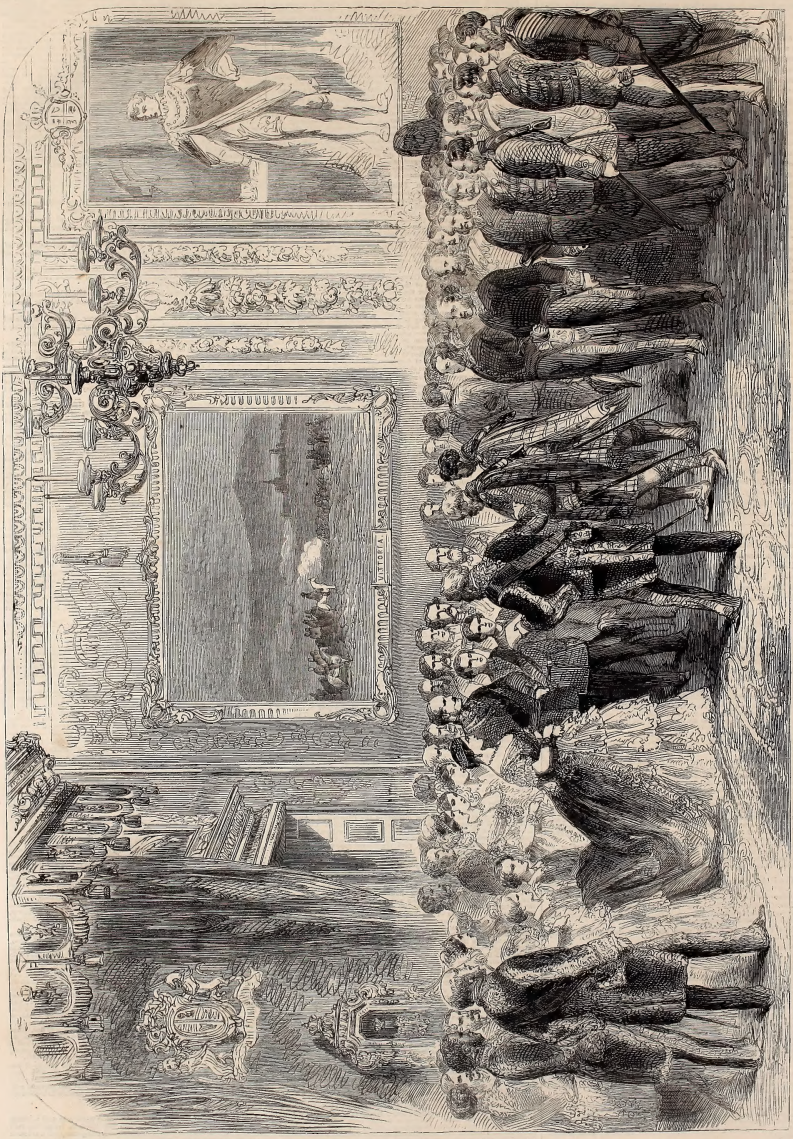
A great Reform meeting was held at Huddersfield on Tuesday. The principal speaker was Mr. Leatham, the member for the borough, who analysed the Government Reform Bill, and expressed his dissatisfaction at its limited character. Resolutions were adopted accepting the bill as an instalment, but expressing regret that it does not repeal the ratepaying clauses, and propose a more satisfactory redistribution of seats.

MURDER OF A CHILD.—Last Saturday night, at Wednesfield, near Wolverhampton, the wife of a shoemaker, named Titley, inflicted a frightful wound on the throat of her child, three years of age, with her husband's razor, almost cutting off the child's head. She afterwards declared her intention to commit suicide, but was at once secured. On Monday the Coroner's jury returned a verdict of "Wilful murder," and the unhappy woman was committed for trial. There seems, however, little doubt but that she is insane.

MISSIONARY CONFERENCE IN LIVERPOOL.—The officials of the various missionary societies have made arrangements to hold a conference in Liverpool, in the Hope Hall, commencing on Monday, the 19th instant, and terminating on Friday, the 23rd. The conference will discuss the whole missionary work at home and abroad; and each discussion will be conversational, and introduced by a paper or address not exceeding ten minutes in length. Shorthand writers will be present to take down all that is said, with a view to a revised publication of the proceedings.

BRITISH ASSOCIATION FOR THE ADVANCEMENT OF SCIENCE.—The thirtieth annual meeting of this association will take place at Oxford. The first general meeting will be held in the Sheldonian Theatre, at three o'clock, on Wednesday, July the 27th, when it is expected that his Royal Highness the Prince Consort will resign the presidency, and Lord Wrottesley, M.A., of All Soul's College, V.P.R.S., F.R.A.S., the president elect, will take the chair and deliver an address. The meeting, under the direction of the noble president and a number of distinguished vice-presidents and officers, is expected to be a most brilliant one.

ALLEGED MURDER OF THE CAPTAIN AND CHIEF MATE OF THE "ACCRINGTON."—At Southampton, on Monday last, Casman, a man of colour, was re-examined before the Southampton magistrates, on a charge of having poisoned the captain and chief mate of the troop-ship Accrington, from Calcutta. The two deceased persons are represented to have behaved with the greatest brutality towards the crew, and even the women on board did not escape violence at their hands. The magistrates, after a careful consideration, decided that there was no case against the prisoner, and he was consequently dismissed. They noticed in severe terms the gross brutality of the ship's officers.



WILLS AND BEQUESTS.

Hon. H. FitzRoy, P.C., M.P.: The will of the late Right Hon. Henry FitzRoy, of Upper Grosvenor-street, London, and of Sussex-square, Brighton, was proved in the London Court of Probate, on the 8th instant, by Mrs. FitzRoy, the relict and sole executrix. The personalty was sworn under £40,000. Sir Anthony de Rothschild, Bart., was nominated as executor in case Mrs. FitzRoy had not survived her husband. Mr. FitzRoy has bequeathed his estates, real and personal, to his wife, for the use of herself and their daughter. The will is concisely drawn, bears date the 11th of November, 1858, and was attested by W. M. Fladgate, solicitor, Craven-street, Strand, and John Wilkins, butler to Mr. FitzRoy. The deceased was one of her Majesty's Privy Councillors, M.P. for the borough of Lewes, Chairman of the Committee of the House of Commons, and Chief Commissioner of the Board of Works.

Lady Charlotte Proby: The will of the late Right Honourable Charlottte Proby, of Elton Hall, Huntingdonshire, and of Berkeley-square, London, was proved in the principal Registry on the 6th of March, by Admiral, the Right Hon. Granville Levison, Earl of Carysfort, the brother and sole executor. The personalty in England was estimated for probate duty at £45,000. Her Ladyship has left liberal legacies to her nephews, nieces, and cousins, and has bequeathed to her nieces, the Ladies Frances, Isabella, and Theodosia Proby, the residence in Eaton-place, together with the furniture and effects (excepting some specific articles) for their own use and to the last survivor of them. To her nephew, the Hon. William Proby, she has left a legacy of £85,000, and the plate, linen, and little open carriage; and to her nephew, Granville Grenville Wells, a legacy of £13,000, and her library; appointing her brother, the Earl of Carysfort, residuary legatee of her estates, real and personal. To her servants she has left liberal legacies, : to her butler, housekeeper, and maid-servant, each an annuity of £30, to her late coachman, and another domestic, lately in her service, to each an annuity of £20, and to all her other servants a legacy of of £10, and half a year's wages. There is a legacy of £1000 to the Right Rev. P. C. Claughton, D.D., Bishop of St. Helena. The will bears date the 23rd of June, 1859.

Lieut.-Colonel J. Laurie: The late Lieut-Colonel John Laurie of her Majesty's Indian Army, and a retired Major of Artillery of the Hon. East India Company, who died on the 25th of January last, had made his will a few days previous thereto, leaving all his property, real and personal railway shares or other securities, with all arrears of pay, to his wife absolutely, appointing her sole executor and universal legatee.

Last Saturday night, during a blinding snowstorm and a heavy gale, the Wagoola, bound for China, and the Woodcote, bound for Port Adelaide, went on shore between Folkestone and Dungeness, and it is feared that both will become total wrecks.

HER MAJESTY'S RECEPTION OF THE OFFICERS OF THE VOLUNTEER RIFLE CORPS ON WEDNESDAY WEEK.—SEE SUPPLEMENT, PAGE 257.

THE VOLUNTEERS' BALL, FLORAL HALL, ROYAL ITALIAN OPERA, COVENT GARDEN.

SEE SUPPLEMENT, PAGE 267.

SKETCHES IN PARLIAMENT.

It is impossible, in attempting a slight review of the Parliamentary week, not to recur to a fact which we have already noticed—namely, the admirable development of the speaking power of the House of Commons. It is very easy to trace the source of this inspiration. When the prominent genius of the House for the time being is a cold, languid, and hesitating, or a brusque, curt, haw-haw speaker, there is nothing to stimulate the occult capabilities which may exist in the ruck of members, or to bring out the known powers of the special debaters; but when every evening the leading spirit who invokes the discussion of the hour is an impassioned orator, a master of rhetoric, an eager and impulsive but at the same time a profound statesman, steeped to the very lips in the knowledge of his vocation, mediate and immediate—whose mental organisation is so akin to the physical construction of the elephant that he can overturn with equal ease a forest-tree of any dimensions, and pick the smallest needle out of the densest bottle of hay—then it is not surprising that the electric fire which he develops should run rapidly through all the correlative and sympathetic points of the atmosphere by which he is surrounded with the inevitable result. It is to Mr. Gladstone that we owe the best exhibition of Parliamentary eloquence and energy, as witnessed in the debates of this short Session, that has occurred for many a long day. His earnestness and energy have been infectious, and excellent speaking has become epidemic in the House.

Take the debate on the treaty with France. It is true that Mr. Byng suffered a good deal by the interposition of a gentleman, a disciple of the lady who was so immersed in the wrongs of the dark-hued natives of Boriabaloo that he could not postpone a motion on behalf of some very distant men and brothers, and consequently took nothing by it. The philanthropist, out of season, having emptied the House, and caused Mr. Byng's effervescence to subside, owing to his having lost the moment of projection, that gentleman had to move the address under circumstances peculiarly chilling and discouraging. Nevertheless, he delivered a speech admirably composed and excellently arranged, but which the dulness that pervaded the House, probably, induced him involuntarily to utter, with his eyes half closed and with an absence of that energy which, no doubt, he would have displayed if he had been warmed by the presence of a full and appreciatory audience. Passing over the dii majores, it is to be noted that on this, as on a subsequent occasion, Mr. Maguire came out with speeches, one of which at least was evidently impromptu, which have taken him right out of the narrow circle of impracticable Irish members, and placed him in a position in the House which, if he chooses, will enable him to prove that he is willing to do something for mankind as distinguished from an exceedingly small party. He almost acknowledged a direct inspiration from Mr. Gladstone.

Not less direct, and certainly more directly avowed, was an inspiration from that same source which brought Mr. Haliburton (Sam Slick to wit) in direct collision with the Chancellor of the Exchequer. The honourable gentleman's anger and bitterness were not suggestive either of his judicial training or of that geniality which pervades his famous works; but he was of service in producing a specimen of Mr. Gladstone's versatility in the shape of a miraculous retort courteous. By a parity of ideas one reverts to the attitude which Mr. Horsman has assumed in the recent debates. In the first place, it is to be observed that his speeches of late deserve to be placed in the category of orations. They are careful compositions; every sentence balanced with almost finical nicety; and if they have a fault it is a certain precision which gives them more the appearance of efforts of memory in connection with written essays than as the ebullition of words from carefully-prepared matter. If this be so, one cannot but wonder at the concentration of spleen and bitterness which finds vent, not in the heat of debate, but in the quiet of the study and the calm seclusion of the desk. To this probably it is owing that the humour which here and there was sprinkled over the speeches was a failure, not so much because it was not characteristic of the man, but because it was attenuated and drawn out with the persistence of an argument. Again, elaborate and probably written preparation was to be traced in the circumstance that, instead of stopping at points where success culminated, as a practised and impromptu speaker would have done, he went on from a new point of departure, the result being that he wearied even the delighted Opposition, who, on one occasion, waited till eight o'clock (dinner time, notwithstanding,) to listen to him, when they perforce went; and on another, when he had the House gathered for a division, he elicited marks of satiety, even from the most excited of those gentlemen opposite who were rejoicing over the manner in which he was doing their work on the man and the Minister whom they had themselves found to be impregnable to their best assaults. These gall-like and systematic attacks on the Government by Mr. Horsman have been met with great tact. In the debate on the treaty the Government put up no one of oratorical distinction to reply to his mass of rhetorical invective, but set a practical man, Mr. Vivian, to demolish so much of his speech as was devoted to his amendment on the 11th article, by an overwhelming array of statistics on the subject of coal. Mr. Vivian must have been pleased to see how thoroughly the House appreciates a man who speaks with knowledge and gives information. Nevertheless, Mr. Gladstone had a note mental and written of Mr. Horsman, and his denunciation of him was withering, and reached its climax when it was scornfully intimated that his motives in assailing the Ministry "had better remain inscrutable." It should be noted that in the course of this speech of Mr. Gladstone—so spirit-stirring did it become—the strangers in the gallery more than once rose from their seats as by an irresistible impulse. This of course set the member for Stroud to work again; and on the discussion of the paper duty he got the favourable opportunity to which allusion has been above made, and long, too long, and heavily did he pound his immediate opponent and critic. Mr. Gladstone fidgeted in his seat, and every now and then put himself into the attitude of a greyhound in the slips; but, although worked up to a white heat of passion, that wonderful self-command and determination to avoid the dangerous impatience and petulance which was overcoming him a fortnight ago, which he has since assumed, enabled him to treat the powerful but over-wrought attack made on him with a tact which, if it was disappointing to the excited audience, was peculiarly and happily directed to the requirements of the coming division. He rose with as much coolness and calmness as if he was about to start for a pleasant morning walk, and, with a few good-humoured and laughing but sarcastic sentences, passed from Mr. Horsman to a close and argumentative dealing with the question before the House. If we were compelled to give an opinion we should say that Mr. Horsman felt himself more decidedly foiled by this half-contemptuous course than when his antagonist put out his strength in a direct wrestling match with him.

Pursuing the main theme of this lucubration—namely, the display of good speaking in the House—it may be said that Mr. Milner Gibson, who, as a Minister, has hitherto appeared as if he feared that he had not caught the official art of talking without committing himself, came out on the subject of the paper duty quite in his old manner, and was effective in his peculiar way. Even Mr. Bentinck's everlasting partridge has been flavoured with a sauce which is not without piquancy. Sir Robert Peel has ably pursued the course he had begun of effacing all memory of a remarkable Parliamentary "escapade;" and, in short, every one seems to have partaken of the laughing-gas which somehow has pervaded the atmosphere of the House, and which has brought out whatever characteristic and capability happened to be in any member who has taken part in the discussions, with two remarkable exceptions. Lord John Russell, notwithstanding that he has by his conduct of foreign affairs, so far as is to be gathered from his published despatches, done a great deal to rescue himself from the obscurity as a public man into which he was fast sinking, if he had not sunk down to a considerable depth already, has been, as it seems to us, colder and more unsympathising than ever, and he speaks as if he were weary of the life which he is leading, only perforce of his determination to afford materials for his association with contemporary history during the utmost period of his natural life. Again, it is almost universally admitted that Mr. Disraeli has never been tamer, more ineffective, more irresolute, more hesitating than during this Session. It is no use disguising the fact, which is palpable in the very attitude he assumes when he is speaking, that Mr. Gladstone does not, as he has done almost every one else, inspire the leader of the Opposition into oratory and effectiveness; but, contrariwise, has very considerably cowed him. Nothing could prove this more than the circumstance of Mr. Disraeli not only addressing the whole of his speech in the debate on the treaty to Lord John Russell, but directly appealing to the Foreign Secretary to follow him, seeing, as he did, that Mr. Gladstone was preparing to close the discussion. So evident was this that Mr. Gladstone absolutely offered to give way to Lord John, and only rose on his offer being declined.

Apart from this general dissertation on the tone and spirit of the House in the period to which these remarks extend, the most noticeable occurrence has been the debate on foreign affairs on Tuesday. It was noticeable not so much for anything new or striking it developed—except, perhaps, that Lord Palmerston was induced to break that mysterious and oracular silence on which we observed last week, and on which Mr. Whiteside made some very pungent remarks—as for the fact that it would probably have died out by six o'clock, if Count de Persigny, the Ambassador of France, had not continued to stay in the gallery, even after the advent of Mr. Monckton Milnes had emptied the House. It soon seemed to be understood that his Excellency meant to sit out as much of the debate as he could endure; and the consequence was that, in a House which did not reach to the aggregate of fifty members, all the great guns successively discharged themselves as if they were desirous of firing a salute in honour of the Envoy of the Emperor of the French. Curiously enough, M. de Persigny ran away just as Mr. Kinglake rose, which was the more odd, inasmuch as the Paris papers have been erecting that gentleman into such importance as to declare that his movement on the Savoy question has positively affected the delicate pulses of the Bourse. By his departure his Excellency missed the opportunity of witnessing Mr. Seymour Fitzgerald's reduction of himself to the more or less froglike dimensions which he enjoyed before his recent efforts to swell himself up to the size of the largest of John Bulls.

The first "count out" of the Session ought to be noticed on account of the way in which it was conducted. In the anaxandronic times of Mr. Shaw Lefevre the Speaker's attention used to be called altâ voce to the fact that forty members were not present, and that model of chairmen boldly signified the same in his haughtiest tones, while his counting of those present was still more decidedly pronounced. Now a timid gentleman whispers to the Speaker, who still more timidly breathes out that he has been informed that there is not a House; while recalcitrant members are allowed to break in after the three-minute glass has run out, and the process of enumeration begun, that process being carried on in so low a voice that it augurs something like fear of offending on the part of the high official in the chair, reminding one of the lady reduced to sell watercresses, and who, as she cried her wares, hoped that no one would hear her. A count out, which is a consolation, ought not be treated as if it was a misdemeanour.

IMPERIAL PARLIAMENT.

HOUSE OF LORDS.—MONDAY.

NICE AND SAVOY.—The Marquis of NORMANBY referred to a letter on the affairs of Italy, and Tuscany in particular, which had been commented on in a previous debate by the Marquis of Clanricarde, and contended for its authenticity. He criticised the circumstance of Lord Clanricarde taking part in a banquet at Milan in the interest of the discontented inhabitants of Italy, and claimed for himself a more intimate knowledge of Italy and the Italian people than that noble Lord had had any opportunity of acquiring.—The Marquis of CLANRICARDE said that he had lately visited Italy, and had made himself acquainted with the feeling of the people, and he was sure that the return of the Grand Dukes was impossible, if the wishes of the people were consulted. He did not attend the banquet in question at Milan; for, although he sympathised with its object, he was unwilling that the fact of his presence should be misconstrued.

THE TREATY WITH FRANCE.—A conference having taken place with the Commons on the subject of the address to the Crown approving of the treaty with France, Lord TAUNTON gave notice that he would on Thursday move a similar address to the Crown.—After a conversation on the subject of the article relating to shipping, which the Earl of ELLENBOROUGH complained was not sufficiently clear, the subject dropped.

MISCELLANEOUS.

At the early part of the sitting the Royal assent was given by commission to the Consolidated Fund Bill and the Marriages (Rydal Mount) Bill.

A bill to restrict the forfeiture of policies of insurance was introduced by Lord WENSLEYDALE.—The LORD CHANCELLOR approved of the bill, which was read a first time.

The Administration of Poisons Bill passed through Committee, and the Medical Acts Amendment Bill was read a second time.

HOUSE OF COMMONS.—MONDAY.

Mr. Cubitt took his seat for West Surrey.

The Norwich Election Committee reported that the election of Viscount Bury was void.

EXPORT DUTY ON FOREIGN RAGS.—In answer to Mr. Puller, Lord J. RUSSELL said that it was probable that there would be an export duty on rags in France as soon as the prohibitory duty was removed; but it was not fixed what the amount of duty would be. Steps would be taken by the Government to obtain a free export of rags from Belgium, Holland, Germany, Spain, and Portugal, whence the export was prohibited or restricted by heavy duties.

THE REFORM BILL.—In answer to Mr. Disraeli, Lord J. RUSSELL said he should move the second reading of the Reform Bill on Monday next, no arrangement having been made by the Government to allow Mr. Kinglake's motion with regard to Savoy for that evening.

LORD ELGIN'S MISSION TO CHINA.—Mr. B. COCHRANE urged that there should be a discussion on the subject of China before Lord Elgin left England as our Plenipotentiary.—Sir G GREY said Lord J. Russell would make a statement on this subject on Friday. Lord Elgin was going to Paris, but not to China immediately.

Mr. BYNG brought up the address to the Throne on the treaty with France.

SAVOY AND NICE.

Mr. A. KINGLAKE appealed to the Government to give him an evening for that discussion.

Lord J. RUSSELL said that there had been a discussion which showed pretty plainly the feeling of the House on this subject; and he deprecated any definite motion, as being detrimental to the public interests. If any member thought that, if the annexation of Savoy took place with the consent of Sardinia and the assent of the people of Savoy, we ought to go to war on the question, let a motion be made to that effect.

After some observations from Mr. Disraeli, Lord Palmerston, and Sir J. Pakington,

Mr. HORSMAN said that the remarks of Lord John Russell were calculated to alarm the House and the country with regard to this subject. A great responsibility rested on the House, for it had allowed itself to be left in unprecedented ignorance on foreign affairs, and especially as regarded Savoy. Not a word had been said on the subject of the communications made to Russia, Austria, and Prussia. He should like to know to which of the two parties holding the opinions on this question which the noble Lord had sketched the Ministry belonged. Might there not be differences in this respect in the Cabinet itself? Mr. Kinglake must decide on his course, and must not be deterred from doing so by any fear of being left in a minority.

Mr. GLADSTONE denied that the Government had been chary of information on their foreign policy, for they afforded it as rapidly as they received it. As to difference in the Cabinet, he could only ascribe this notion of Mr. Horsman on this point to the friendly interest which he must feel for them all. That point would easily be tested when any motion was brought forward questioning their conduct. He objected, also, to continuous but purposeless discussion on the subject of Savoy; but to any motion pointing at the conduct of the Government they would be ready to give every opportunity for discussion; and, indeed, Lord J. Russell would on the next day present papers relating to Italy, and make a statement on the general subject.

After a few word from Mr. S. FITZGERALD the discussion dropped.

REPEAL OF THE PAPER DUTY.

On the second reading of the Bill for the Repeal of the Duty on Paper,

Sir W. MILES, who had given notice of a motion that it be read a second time that day six months, said by the course he had at first taken he meant to discuss the question of the income tax and the paper duty together. If the duty on tea and sugar had been removed, and there had been no deficiency, he would have been very ready to have agreed to the repeal of the paper duty; but he contended that this was not the proper time for the removal of that duty. If it was suffered to remain the country might have a 9d. instead of a 10d. income tax. He contended, first, that the paper duty had shown great elasticity as a branch of the revenue; while there was little or no interference with its manufacture by the levying of the tax. He contrasted certain reports of the Board of Inland Revenue before 1858 and two since the condemnation of the duty by the House, and which gave different accounts of the inconvenience attending the tax. It was true that a paper could be made of fibre, but that required for printing could only be made from rags; and no great increase of manufacture would follow the repeal of the duty; while as to its being a tax on knowledge, no one would benefit by its removal but the maker and the publishers of books and newspapers. The exportation of paper had greatly increased in proportion to the manufacture, which had also largely increased. The number of paper-mills had decreased, and it required large capital to set up and keep up such establishments. He concluded by pointing out the pressure of the income tax, and moved as an amendment a resolution that, as the repeal of the paper duty caused an addition of 1d. in the pound to the income tax, it was at this moment inexpedient to adopt it, which he preferred to moving the rejection of the bill.

Mr. B. STANHOPE seconded the amendment in a very lengthened and elaborate argument.

Mr. NORRIS, with some minuteness and much point, argued in favour of the repeal of the duty.

Mr. A. MILLS supported the amendment.

Mr. BLACK contended that the extra penny of income tax was a more ready and economical mode of obtaining a million or so of revenue than the paper duty. It was absolutely certain that the repeal of the duty would cause a decrease in the price of books. It often happened that an unsuccessful author who was at the expense of publishing his own work paid some £30 to the Excise.

Mr. MAGUIRE said that Sir W. Miles's statement that a number of paper-mills had stopped was the strongest argument against this duty, as it proved that only monopolists and very large capitalists could stand against it. It was most unfair to argue that the additional penny to the income tax was referable to the repeal of the paper duty alone, and without regard to the general scheme of the Budget. In Ireland, a country peculiarly adapted by its streams, and by an abundance of the raw material—(Laughter)—for the manufacture of paper, this tax had pressed ruinously on the trade; out of seven mills in a district near Cork, existing within a recent period, only one now remained. There was a large smuggling trade going on, and especially in the inferior sorts of paper, the trade in which would be materially benefited by the remission of the duty.

Lord R. CECIL having spoken, taking a very comprehensive view of the question,

Mr. M. GIBSON said that the paper duty must be considered in connection with the decisions by which the House had already adopted the Budget and the treaty with France. By one of the articles of the treaty foreign paper was to be admitted at no higher duty than the excise levied on the article of this country. By this all protection was gone for the manufacture of paper, and the question was whether it would not be better to have no excise duty on that article. The House had declared that in this year the remission of indirect taxation was to be the financial policy of the country. After providing for all other remissions, in reference to the two millions and a half of revenue which was available, there remained more than a million applicable to remission of indirect taxation, and the question was whether applying this sum to the paper duty was not a proper course. There was no connection between the additional penny to the income tax and this remission of the paper duty. If the repeal of the paper duty was refused, the sum available might be applied to the tea or sugar duties, but it would certainly not be devoted to reducing the tenpenny income tax. For twenty-five years commissions and committees had condemned this duty, and opportunity had been sought to put an end to it as an ordinary branch of revenue by members of all political parties. This view had been supported by Mr. Disraeli and Lord Derby, while the Commissioners of Inland Revenue reported that the paper duty was so universally considered to be a doomed tax that they found it difficult to make arrangements for its collection. All this, combined with the solemn resolution of the House condemnatory of the tax, rendered it impossible for the Government to overlook it when they were proposing the remission of indirect taxation. With regard to the influence of the tax, its being an impediment to the diffusion of knowledge was only a part of the question. As a matter of trade, it was the fact that in the United States a far larger quantity of paper was manufactured than in this country.

Mr. HORSMAN said that Mr. M. Gibson had carefully avoided touching the principle of the bill, but argued that, as the Budget had carried the treaty, and the treaty had carried the Budget, the two combined were to carry the repeal of the paper duty. He did not object to this remission of taxation as a question of detail, but he protested against the principle on which it was founded, for the repeal of this duty made a deficit of a million after the income and expenditure of the country were balanced by a 9d. income tax, and he supplied that deficit by adding another penny to the income tax; thus remitting a tax for the benefit of the manufacturing class at the expense of all the others, and, in fact, creating monopoly, protection, and favouritism. Unlike the remission of the duty on tea and sugar, which had been promised, this repeal was for the benefit of the trader instead of the labouring classes. He urged that this tax, which was condemned for its inequality, could not compare with the inequality of the income tax—to which a tenth was added; but to which much more than a tenth of its costs were added. It was said that the income tax might be considered next year; but it was made impossible to reconsider it next year, and it was in fact the beginning of the entire substitution of direct for indirect taxation, and that without a word of inquiry or explanation. In fact, this was not the Budget of the Government, but of Mr. Bright. The right hon. gentleman concluded with a strong personal stricture on Mr. Gladstone in reference to his immediate policy and his past political conduct, and an assertion that he had deviated entirely from the policy of Sir R. Peel.

The CHANCELLOR of the EXCHEQUER characterised Mr. Horsman's speech, both as regarded its personality and its argument on the question, as so extravagant as to require no reply or confutation, except the opinion that must be formed of its absurdity. The argument was not directed to the motion, but raised the question between the paper duty and the tea and sugar duties. The repeal of the paper duty was recommended by peculiar and remarkable incidents; and the article with which it dealt was one of large consumption by the poorer class, and which was taxed to the extent of thirty to forty per cent, while it was a large element of consumption in trade and manufacture. He produced a specimen of corrugated paper which was admirably adapted for roofing houses; and pointed out this as one of the many uses to which paper might and would be put but for the excise duty. He showed that the policy of Sir R. Peel was to repeal and not merely to reduce duties, and excise duties in particular. He pointed out that this was peculiarly the moment at which the pledge of the House for the repeal of this duty might be fulfilled. The increase in the amount of duty was caused by the increase in trade, to which paper, in the shape of wrappers, was a considerable accessory. Having entered into a statement of the effect of the duty on books, newspapers, and literature, which assisted in the monopoly of printers, which, among other things, excluded women from that calling, he vindicated the Board of Inland Revenue from the imputation cast upon them that they had issued a report made to order, and stated that that opinion had greatly influenced him in his proposal to repeal the duty. He dealt with the subject of the demand for labour which the proposed change would cause; he argued the question whether the remission of indirect taxation should or should not be carried further; and urged that the only question now was to what object the remission of a million should be applied, and he contended that the case for the paper duty was the strongest.

Sir J. PAKINGTON supported the amendment on the ground that to repeal a tax producing so large and important a source of revenue in order to confer a signal benefit on a class was unwise and unstatesmanlike.

On a division the amendment was negatived by 245 to 192.

The bill was then read a second time.

HOUSE OF LORDS.—TUESDAY.

SUNDAY TRADING.—Lord CHELMSFORD introduced a bill for the prevention of Sunday trading, the main provision of which was to compel the closing of all shops after nine o'clock on Sunday mornings. The noble and learned Lord said that the great incentive to Sunday trading was the payment of wages at a late hour on Saturday evening or night, a practice which could not be too strongly condemned. The bill was read a first time.

MISCELLANEOUS.

The Attorneys, Solicitors, Proctors, and Certified Conveyancers Bill, and the Medical Acts Amendment Bill, passed through Committee.

The Benefit Societies Rules Amendment Bill, the Valuation of Rateable Property (Ireland) Bill, and the Packet Service (Transfer of Contracts) Bill were read a second time.

The Administering of Poisons Bill was read a third time.

HOUSE OF COMMONS.—TUESDAY.

COMMERCIAL TREATY WITH FRANCE.—The ATTORNEY-GENERAL, in reply to Mr. Newdegate, said that article 5 of the commercial treaty would admit to this country goods not only the produce of France and Algeria, but of all countries.

THE STATE OF DHAR.—Lord STANLEY asked what steps had been taken by Lord Canning for the restoration of the State of Dhar to its native rulers?—Sir C. WOOD stated that, notwithstanding the remonstrances of Lord Canning, the Indian Government had determined to adhere substantially to Lord Stanley's decision to restore the State to its rulers, and had sent a despatch to the Governor-General desiring him to carry their orders into effect.

AFFAIRS OF ITALY.

Lord J. RUSSELL availed himself of the opportunity of laying on the table further papers on the state of Italy to make an explanation in answer to some of the questions addressed to him during the last few days. The noble Lord commenced by stating that Lord Malmesbury had obtained no satisfactory assurance that France had no designs on Savoy. Lord Malmesbury had, it was true, been assured that there was no treaty; but it did not follow that there was no understanding between the two Governments. It had been objected to his own policy that, in advocating the annexation of Tuscany to Piedmont, he had laid the basis of the cession of Savoy to France. But that was founded on a complete misunderstanding of his policy, which was not any annexation in particular, but the right of the Italians to manage their own affairs. As a proof of his good faith in this respect, the noble Lord gave an account of an interview he had with a Tuscan agent, whom he endeavoured to persuade into an acceptance of the son of the Grand Duke at the future Tuscan Sovereign; but the agent replied that that paragraph had so completely identified himself with the Austrians during the war as to render his reign impossible. Other combinations were tried, and all in turn rejected in favour of annexation. When, therefore, he found that the people of the Duchies would neither take back their Sovereigns nor form a separate kingdom, and when they heard that the French Emperor had declared over and over again that no force should be employed against the Italians, there was no alternative but to recommend that the Italians should have their own way. Another objection raised to his policy was, that while he kept us at peace he offended the French, that the contrary course was contemplated in the summer, he had made no remonstrance until December. He had, however, received on a occasion the strongest of the despatches would show that his strongest remonstrance was made in the month of July. After noticing the declaration of Count Walewski that he had nothing informed the other European Courts that, if Tuscany were annexed to Piedmont, Savoy might be claimed by France, he (Lord Russell) forcibly to the business of the English Government, and to the duty which Majesty's Government had declared it to be, to maintain the peace of Europe; but if in doing this they had incurred, in the opinion of Lord Derby, the censure of Parliament, he should be entitled to the indemnity. Some oppressed, into a great and powerful nation, Intellect, when the cause of such a work, it would be to the advantage of her from being afterwards called to account.

Mr. Whiteside defended the policy of the Government with reference to the Italian question, and described the popes which had been laid upon the table as declined and unsatisfactory. It was, he said, the right of a minority to ask for explanations, and the duty of the Administration to give them. The right hon. and learned gentleman concluded by saying that with desiring to carry out in Italy a description of policy which he would not tolerate in the Ionian Islands, leaving it to the people of those States to decide, by universal suffrage, what should be their particular form of government.

After a few remarks from Mr. M. Milnes and Mr. B. Cochrane,

Mr. Hennessy announced his regret that he should not be the "shrewd tone" of the Secretary for Foreign Affairs, as it seemed to say that Ireland was a convenient bolt upon war or silent acquiescence. He was aware that there were many difficulties in the way of the Government; but he, for one, was prepared to support that alternative, as he thought it was not too late to dissuade the Government from adopting such a course. He did not wish that there was a single member of the House who would commend going to war to prevent the annexation of Savoy; but he considered that a policy of inaction would be a course of the most fatal and unworthy policy, and that the noble Lord the Secretary for Foreign Affairs would have done well if he had frowned down at once the first attempt of the French by reminding him that in years gone by the aggressive policy of France had led to the European Confederation, and that any such aggression might provoke further alliances against her.

Lord J. Russell said he had given a positive which had passed in reference to this subject, and said that he hoped that the practice would not be continued. He had a recent opportunity of going to the Foreign Office by which the House of Commons could gather what was the real position of affairs with reference to the cession of Savoy and Nice.

Mr. Kinglake inquired whether any security had been obtained for the neutrality of Switzerland.

Lord Palmerston said that when the idea of the Congress was abandoned the only course which remained open to her Majesty's Government was to state their objections to the proposed measure, and to communicate those objections to the other Powers of Europe. That was precisely what the Government had done, and it was the duty of every Power to communicate the object in view without wounding the dignity of France, and placing her Government in a false light with their people. They did not wish to make the sacrifice of honour and dignity. He entirely agreed in the opinions which had been expressed by Lord John Russell, and he thought that the approval of every word contained in the despatches which had been laid upon the table of the House. He considered the same applied to that which he expressed on former occasions, that it would be a great mistake of the French Government to persist in the annexation of Savoy; but he would never, he remembered that the ruler of France had promised that he would not take military possession of Savoy, and that he would not annex it, without the consent of the Sovereign and people, or without consulting the Powers of Europe. He (Lord Palmerston) was prepared to move by preserving the good opinion and confidence of Europe than by any additional accession of territory at the expense of the King of Sardinia. As to Switzerland, he was persuaded that it was not only the interest of Europe, but that of Switzerland, that the independence of Switzerland in all circumstances be preserved.

Mr. Disraeli said that the late Government were at all blamable for any of the complications which had arisen out of the Italian question. He even if no fault had been alleged against it. Parliamentary had failed to get a satisfactory answer from France, and had therefore been compelled to express upon the subject. The necessity of taking immediate action in this matter. It seemed to him that the French Government had not been fully informed, at the commencement of their intentions, and that her Majesty's Government had treated them unnecessarily with reserve. Austria and had pursued a policy in Italy which could scarcely fail to lead to the results which all parties in the House now deplored.

Mr. Kinglake replied the sec sation this in protesting against the annexation of Savoy, he acted in the interest of the people as well as of the with France. What he desired was, full explanation and discussion, and some more decided assurance than that given by the noble Lord that the Crown that the Emperor of the French would not persevere in his project to abolish the independence of the great Powers of Europe. The noble Lord at the head of the Foreign Office had, it was true, written strong letters; but they seemed to have been sent forth without effect upon the French Government, neither producing reply, irritation, nor counter argument.

Mr. Serjeant Sullivan expressed a hope that the annexation of Savoy and Nice would be accomplished long before an opportunity would be afforded for Mr. Kinglake bringing on his motion.

Mr. Gaveney thought the Emperor of the French stood acquitted of all deceit in the matter, and that, if any deceit or underhand policy were used throughout the negotiations, it was to be traced to our good friend the Minister of Austria and Prussia. He saw no reason why we should complain of the annexation of Savoy to France.

After a few words from Lord J. Russell, in explanation, the subject dropped, and the papers were laid on the table.

HOUSE OF COMMONS.—WEDNESDAY.

RELIGIOUS WORSHIP BILL.

Mr. Locke King moved the second reading of this bill, the object of the measure being to enable persons to worship in the Established Church in the held religious services, according to the forms of the Church, in places not consecrated for that purpose.

After considerable discussion,

Mr. Bouverie said his bill should be read a second time that day six months.

Sir S. Lewis supported the amendment.

After some further discussion the House divided, and rejected the second reading of the bill by 105 to 111.

ADULTERATION OF FOOD OR DRINK.

The House went into Committee on the Adulteration of Food or Drink Bill, considered in clauses 4, which was agreed to, as were also clauses 5 to 10.

Mr. Kirk moved that clause 11, limiting the operation of the bill to England, should be struck out.

On a division the motion was negatived by 101 to 85; majority, 13. So the clause was retained.

A division took place on clause 2, the consideration of which had been postponed, and which was adopted by 123 to 16—majority, 107.

The House then rose.

MISCELLANEOUS.

The Marriage (England and Ireland) Bill, the Prisons Act Amendment Bill, and the Consolidated Fund (£4,500,000) Bill passed through Committee. The Military Bill was read a second time, and the Marine Mutiny Bill the first time.

HOUSE OF LORDS.—THURSDAY.

FOREIGN POLICY—ITALY AND FRANCE.

Lord Talbot moved that their Lordships agree with the House of Commons in assuring her Majesty of their confidence in the negotiations with France, and to fill up the blank in that address with the words "Lords spiritual and temporal." The noble Lord, having referred to the speech of Mr. Pitt, which was in favour of an enlarged intercourse with France, said he thought it had been proved that the treaty of 1786 had led to a most increased activity in our commercial transactions with France. A short time since the relations between this country and the French Empire were in such a condition that at one time war seemed imminent; but that calamity was averted, to his first sure, by the influence of our commercial intercourse with America. This would show their Lordships the importance of promoting by every means in their power a friendly feeling between the heads of the treaty. he expressed his belief that the relations which would arise between the two countries would be such as to confer the most permanent advantages on both.

The Earl of Carnarvon seconded the address.

Earl Ganey regretted that he could not concur with the address which his noble friend had moved. It was far from his intention to offer any obstacle to the treaty coming into operation. Much as he disapproved of it, it was now too late to prevent it from coming into effect. Matters had gone too far to allow their Lordships to interfere prudently with its further progress. But no address was required to give validity to the treaty, and the only effect of the address was to call upon their Lordships to express in the most solemn and formal manner their complete approval of the treaty, both in reference to its general policy and its details. The question their Lordships had now to consider was not only whether they were to abstain from offering any opposition to the treaty, but whether they were to come forward and declare their approval, and whether they were to express their readiness to take upon themselves a share of the responsibility which at present attached to the members of the Crown and the House of Commons for the agreement which had been made with France and whether they were to declare that, so far as their opinions were concerned, the Government had acted wisely in the course they had taken. Entertaining a directly contrary opinion, it was utterly impossible for him to give his vote for the address which had been moved, or to remain silent expressed the approbation of the treaty. He thought the treaty could not be considered by itself alone, but that it must be taken as one of the general financial arrangements of the Government, for it was impossible to sever it from the budget. Lord Derby supposed upon Parliament the necessity of submitting to a great sacrifice of revenue; and in order to judge how they were to meet that sacrifice, they must look to the whole measure by which it was to be met, and what the general arrangements of the Government were. Lord Derby agreed with Lord Malmesbury that the changes in the scheme of the Chancellor of the Exchequer as an unworthy, ambitious and, he would add, unpatriotic act. The principle was that there was more than two millions of taxes this year, because £3,000,000 of Long Annuities had to be paid off, and £1,000,000 of Exchequer bills. Parliament had not heard such a reason given for a great measure which was purely financial, and which involved a deficit of £5,000,000, and rendered a taxation which pressed lightly upon the people generally. In doing so, Lord Derby had not wished to impose upon Parliament the responsibility. He could upon it as being probable that they would have a deficit of £5,000,000 to meet. He considered it most unwise to leave such a state of things to be dealt with by a new Parliament. He felt satisfied that the budget of the Government was a dangerous measure, and that the treaty was also dangerous. The former was dangerous in the sense that it was unwise to submit to the effect that it was not expedient for the House to express an opinion on the treaty at present.

Lord Granville, following, contended that the Government had adopted the same policy as the Earl of Derby would have adopted under a financial deficit, had entered a treaty with France which had been approved by Parliament.

Earl Stanhope expressed some objection to the terms of the address.

Lord Overstone had always been desirous of avoiding party. He thought that if this country confined its attention to her own fiscal arrangements, and, by diminishing the duties on articles of food, to the financial emancipation established between all nations, which would be productive of advantages to all, the Government would be relieved from the necessity of using as of that freedom of action which he believed to be essential to our welfare and happiness. He would, therefore, vote against the motion, in regret at being obliged to withhold his assent from the address.

The Duke of Newcastle said he could not but have regretted against the commercial treaty and the financial measures of the Government, and proceeded, at some length, to express his opinions upon those subjects, which he contended, was lulled upon the soundest principles of free trade, and was calculated to be of the greatest benefit to the country, notwithstanding the course of England and every other nation of Europe.

The Earl of Malmesbury supported the motion. The tone and temper of the debate which indicated that the question had been made one of party. In the country, however, it was considered entirely free from party, and from true noble Lords who generally supported the Government. The sole question before their Lordships was whether they were capable of expending our commercial relations with France, but whether they should take the unusual course of refusing to thank the Queen for the treaties approved of a treaty which they might have been willing to pass over with silent acquiescence. He thought that the Chancellor of the Exchequer must affect the rejection of the address would have upon the treaty itself; because, if the rejection of the address did not affect the treaty, he thought that their Lordships might well pause before they took a step that would cause much imperfect misunderstanding. The real question was, that the address was unnecessary, and that it neither involved the acceptance nor the rejection of the treaty. Lord Malmesbury, in conclusion, said he condemn the large remissions of duty that had been made upon articles of luxury, and declared that he would rather see a moderate income-tax than a remission of the income-tax—a tax which he said he could not help thinking would be augmented before the next year. He was sure that the country was growing into immense proportions in consequence of the unwise an impolitic measures which had been adopted.

The Lord Chancellor, Lord Chelmsford, Earl of Hardwicke, Lord Cranworth, and Lord Wodehouse also supported the address.

Earl Grey having replied, their Lordships divided, when the address was carried by a majority of 100 to 31.

HOUSE OF COMMONS.—THURSDAY.

REGISTRATION OF VOTERS—Lord J. RUSSELL, in reply to Mr. T. Duncombe, said that Ministers had not yet decided upon a measure for the more frequent registration of voters.

THE BANKRUPTCY AND INSOLVENCY.

The Attorney-General applied for leave to introduce a bill to amend and consolidate the laws relating to bankruptcy and insolvency in England, a measure which he said had been long imperatively demanded. Our bankruptcy laws were in a worse state than those of any commercial nation in Europe, as was to a great extent evidenced by the fact that the expense of administering bankruptcy in this country was frequently found from fifty per cent of the value of the property involved. He would have proposed the entire abolition of the commissioners, but he felt that in doing so he doing he should have aroused too formidable an opposition; therefore he should only propose that the office of the future be filled up as it deemed desirable, at some future time. He, however, proposed to abolish all distinction between bankruptcy and insolvency, establishing one court for all such cases, and removing all motive to the part of debtors to prefer the one to the other. Under the present system the property of his bill any person would be empowered to present a petition for adjudication of bankruptcy or insolvency, upon giving up all the property in his possession. Any property which he might afterwards acquire would be liable to be seized for the benefit of his creditors previously contracted. A mode of proceeding in the case of partnerships was also provided for. The power of granting protection was given to bring up insolvents who did not wish to make a statement of their property, but refused to do so. The power of making a distinction between traders and non traders was to be swept away. The mode of administering the law was to be changed. Appeals were transferred from judicial functions. The London Commissioners of Bankruptcy would be abolished, and deputed but local commissioners would be allowed to them. They would be replaced by a single judge with the position and salary of a Vice-Chancellor. With regard to the future, no change would be made as to the commissioners for the present; but by a proviso in the bill it would be empowered upon the death of commissioners, to transfer the business of their courts to the county courts in the districts where bankruptcy arose. A further provision of the bill gave power to the creditors to take an assignment of their property, and to appoint trustees to manage it, a result which they might deem more to their advantage. He proposed to abolish the necessity of a public meeting altogether, and to substituting their duties to the official assignee, who would call the creditors together, hold the estates until the debtor had passed his last examination. Appeals would come from the judge in chambers to every on the trading or otherwise meanwhile, in the case of a trader, the assignee would have the power, of course, to change would be made as to the commissioners for the present; but by a proviso in the bill it would be empowered upon the death of commissioners, to transfer the business of their courts to the county courts in the districts where bankruptcy arose. A further provision of the bill gave power to the creditors to take an assignment of their property, and to appoint trustees to manage it, a result which they might deem more to their advantage. He proposed to abolish the necessity of a public meeting altogether, and to substituting their duties to the official assignee, who would call the creditors together, hold the estates until the debtor had passed his last examination. Appeals would come from the judge in chambers to every on the trading or otherwise meanwhile, in the case of a trader, the assignee would have the power, of districts to be delegated to the county courts at the desire of a majority of the creditors; and, with regard to the future, no change would be made as to the commissioners for the present; but cases of fraud would be tested in the judge and the commissioners; but cases of fraud would be tried before the judge and jury alone. The Attorney-General then moved for leave to bring in the bill.

After some conversation leave was given to bring in the bill.

THE CUSTOMS ACTS.

The House went into Committee on the Customs Acts.

The Chancellor of the Exchequer moved the amended resolution, reducing the duty on hops until the 1st of January, 1863, to 20*s.*, and after that date to 10*s.* per cwt.

Mr. Dodson moved an amendment to the effect that the amount of duty, after the 1st of January, 1863, should be not more than 10*s.* per cwt.

Sir R. Bethell seconded the amendment.

After a few words from Mr. Whitbread, when the amendment was defeated by a majority of 138 to 104. The original proposition was then agreed to. The Chairman soon afterwards reported progress.

ELECTION INTELLIGENCE.

Mr. Padmore, an extensive brewer, died a few years ago, entered Worcester as a mechanic, was on Monday elected, with out opposition, to succeed Mr. Lindsay (who has been appointed Master in Lunacy), as one of the members for that city. Mr. Palmore is an advanced Liberal.

The election of a member for West Surrey, in the place of Mr. Henry Drummond, took place last Saturday. No candidate appeared to oppose the return of Mr. George Cubitt. That gentleman, after he had been declared duly elected, delivered a brief speech, in which he stated that, although he was a Conservative, he should give no factious opposition to the present Government.

The Dover election inquiry terminated on Thursday week, and the decision was favourable to the two sitting members, Sir J. Loaks and Mr. W. Nicol. The committee, however, declared it had been proved that certain persons, whose names are mentioned, had been bribed, although it had not been proved that such bribery had been committed with the knowledge or consent of the sitting members. They further declared that the allegations contained in the petition, that certain Ministers or servants of the Crown had interfered with the election, were not proved to the satisfaction of the committee. Costs were applied for on the part of the sitting members, but refused.

The committee appointed to investigate the last election for the city of Norwich have resolved that Viscount Bury was not duly elected, and that the election was void.

The Peterborough Election Committee, on Tuesday, declared Mr. Whalley duly elected. Certain acts of bribery had been committed, but not by agents of the sitting member.

The Clare County Election Committee came to a conclusion on Wednesday. They were unanimously of opinion that Colonel Wallis was not duly elected as a knight of the shire at the last election for the county, and that, as no one is entitled, Colonel Wallis, sitting member.

The General Committee of Elections met on Tuesday, and selected the following members to try the petitions against the seats of petitions for Beverley and Berwick—Beverley: The Right Hon. F. Peel (chairman), Mr. B. Cook, Mr. W. Hodgkinson, Mr. R. J. Long, and Sir J. Shelley. Beverley: Mr. T. W. Evans (chairman), Mr. Du Cane, Hon. F. Lovesou Gower, Mr. J. A. Hardcastle, and Sir E. Hoppus.

CHURCH, UNIVERSITIES, &c.

The Bishop of Labuan is on his way to England, and may be expected to arrive in April.

The Scotch Bishops have resolved to condemn, but not to suspend, the Bishop of Brechin.

An address of sympathy, numerously signed by undergraduates of Oxford, has been presented to the Rev. Bryan King, of St. George's-in-the-East.

On Saturday week the Bishop of London laid the first stone of the new National Schools at St. Giles-in-the-Fields, situated at the northwest corner of Endell-street and Broad-street.

On Thursday week the grace for conferring the title of Associate of Cambridge (A.C.) on the successful senior candidates in the middle-class examinations was rejected by a majority of sixty-nine to thirty-seven.

A beautiful reredos has been recently presented to St. Alban's Church, Holborn, as a memorial to the late Queen Adelaide, in Caen and Corsican marbles in the shafts, and alabaster for the figure sculpture.

The Rev. William Wilkinson, Rector of Wangford, and Vicar of Reydon, Suffolk, has committed suicide by taking prussic acid while in a state of temporary insanity. An inquest was held, and the jury returned a verdict of "Temporary insanity."

The trustees of St. John's Vicarage, Leeds, valued at £700 a year, have elected the Rev. Thomas Hincks, of Harrow Weald, Middlesex, vacated by the Rev. F. Cookson. The Vicar of Leeds, with the Mayor and three aldermen, constitute the patron.

Notice has been given at All Saints' Church, Margaret-street, that, should the members of the congregation feel the evening service on Sundays to be long and wearisome, it is proposed for the future to read the Litany, which will be the service of the day.

A munificent donation of £550 to the restoration fund of Waltham Abbey Church has been paid into the bank of Messrs. Round, Gosling, and Co., of Lombard-street, anonymously. The communication was accompanied by the motto, "In hoc signo vinces."

The Rev. Thomas Pelham Dale is about to resign the rectory of Whitechapel, after having for nearly twenty-three years indefatigably discharged the office of his ministerial duties, which have been responsible to him and Mrs. Champneys by the Scripture-readers, district visitors, Sunday-school teachers, and others in connection with the parish church, as marks of their cordial esteem and attachment.

PREFERMENTS AND APPOINTMENTS.—The Rev. C. Hatchard, Rector of St. Nicholas', Guildford, to be Canon and Dean; Rev. J. Benson to be Rector of Wallington, Yorkshire; Rev. M. W. Biggs to be Chaplain on his Codrington estate in the island of Barbadoes; Rev. J. Cousins Jones to be Archdeacon of Barbadoes; Rev. J. C. A. Clarkson to be Incumbent of Kirby Ravensworth, near Richmond; Rev. J. Cooper, M.A., to be Rector of Bourne in Lincolnshire; Rev. F. Newington to Combe Keynes, with the Perpetual Curacy of Wool, Dorset; Rev. J. G. Bellamy, Incumbent of Christ Church, Hoxton, to be Rector of Spencer to Howton, Calcutta; Rev. C. E. Yeo to be H.M.'s Consular Chaplain at Pernambuco; Rev. H. B. Hutton to be District Church, Warminster; Rev. H. Townson to Claydig, Westmoreland. Curacies: The Rev. J. T. Brown to Holy Trinity, Hastings; Rev. J. Bell to St. Mary's, Bryanston-square; Rev. J. Bell to St. Mary's, St. George's-in-the-East. Rev. R. Hutton to Christ Church, Warminster; Rev. B. Yolland to Earle-Colne, Halstead, Essex; Rev. J. Yolland to St.

NAVAL AND MILITARY INTELLIGENCE.

The Duke of Somerset held his first levee at the court as the Admiralty this afternoon.

His Royal Highness the Prince Consort has been graciously pleased to appoint himself Colonel of the National Rifle Association.

The Royal East Middlesex Militia, under the command of Lieutenant-Colonel Lord Abinger, have been assembled for twenty-seven days' training at Hempstead on Monday, the 26th of April.

A circular has been issued from the War Office ordering that no officers of volunteer corps are to appear in uniform unless, as it forms no part of the dress of either artillery or rifle corps in the Army.

The Duke of Somerset, on his arrival at the War Office, received the heads of departments of Woolwich Arsenal from the Secretary of State for War to the Admiralty, and the officers presenting themselves in uniform may be permitted to see the Arsenal

Major-General Bloomfield, late Commandant of the camp at Colchester, has left that town for Ireland to assume the duties of his new appointment at Dublin. Colonel Wood, C.B., of the 97th Regiment, has been elected the Mayor of Colchester, Colonel Cokehurst, late in the command of the troops in camp.

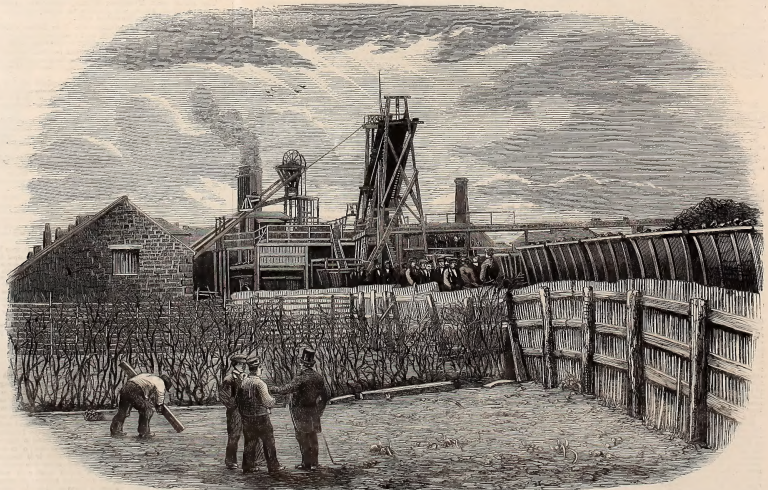
General Sir George Brown, G.C.B., arrived in town late yesterday week from Paris, and on Saturday paid a visit to the Duke of Cambridge at Cambridge House. The gallant General, it is said, does not go to Dublin till the 1st proximo, when he will relieve General Lord Seaton in the command of the forces in Ireland.

John Williams, belonging to her Majesty's ship Trafalgar, was tried by court-martial at Plymouth on Wednesday week, for refusing to obey orders and striking his superior officer, a sergeant of marines. He was sentenced to receive forty-eight lashes, be imprisoned twelve months, and undergo hard labour during that period.

A memorandum has just been issued from the Horse Guards, in which the General Commanding-in-Chief calls the attention of commanding officers to prohibit, as a breach of good order, the reprehensible and unsoldierly practice of borrowing money and running into debt to such an that in all cases contracts a clause may be inserted, rendering nugatory all such transactions, and binding the contracting parties with persons in the service of the rule."

THE FORCES.—The Horse sawyer liner, of 121 guns, was launched on Wednesday week at Pembroke Dockyard. Her principal dimensions are as follows:—Length of keel, 201 feet; length between perpendiculars, 205 feet; length of keel for tonnage, 175 feet; breadth extreme, 54 feet 4 inches; depth in hold, 23 feet 6 inches. Her contract will consist of 121 guns. Her complement of officers and men will be 1150; and her engines are 700-horse power. The Hermione screw-frigate was launched at Woolwich Dockyard last Saturday. The following are her dimensions:—Length between perpendiculars, 225 feet; length of keel for tonnage, 179 feet 7 inches; extreme width, 40 feet 8 inches; ditto for tonnage, 40 feet 4 inches; depth in hold, 25 feet 6 inches; burden in tons, 3,063 54-94. Her armament, which will be composed of 14 guns, will consist of nine 95 cwt. pivot-guns, 10 feet long, and twenty 66 cwt. 8-inch guns, 9 feet long.

NEW PROCESS OF BREAD-MAKING.



It has long been known in the medical profession that the fermented bread usually eaten is very apt to disagree with persons of delicate health—a fermentation still going on in the stomach after it is eaten. Impressed with this difficulty as regards ordinary bread, Dr. Dauglish has succeeded in making by machinery a very pure unfermented bread, the constituents of which are flour, flour and salt, with the addition of what may be termed soda-water. In the production of this article, which is perhaps familiar to the reader under the term of aerated bread, the hand of the workman never touches the material during the whole process of manufacture. The mixing is performed in a hollow air-tight iron receptacle, by the rapid revolution of iron arms fixed upon a central spindle, very much in the same manner in which mortier is mixed in a pug-mill. In ordinary bread the vesicular texture is given by the addition of yeast, which causes a fermentation in the dough's mass, ending in the production of carbonic said gas which fills the tenacious substance with air-bubbles, and thus lightens it. In the new process, however, the carbonic acid gas is supplied direct to the flour in conjunction with the water, and the lightening process is thus performed without any decomposition whatever. The aerated water is pumped into the mixing receptacle at a very high pressure, and when the kneading is finished—a process which is completed in as many minutes as it formerly took hours—a valve is opened in the bottom of the mixer, and the dough is forced out by the elasticity of its contained carbonic acid gas. A boy in attendance receives it as it flows, and cuts off, with marvellous exactness, just enough to fill a 2lb. 4oz. tin. It is as much as he can do to keep time with the stream of dough as it issues from the machine, and cut off sufficient portions to fill up the little army of tins that are supplied to his hand. The loaves, now ready for baking, are placed upon what is termed a traversing oven, the platform of which is composed of an endless chain working upon two rollers. By this contrivance the dough is taken in at one end, and, after travelling, and baking meanwhile, for the space of one hour, is taken out at the other extremity as bread.

The advantages of the new process are—1st. Its cleanliness. Instead of the dough being mixed with naked arms or feet, the bread, from the wetting of the flour to the completion of the baking, is not, and scarcely can be, touched by any one. 2nd. Its rapidity. An hour and a half serves for the entire conversion of a sack of flour into baked loaves; whereas, in the ordinary process, four or five hours are occupied in the formation of the sponge, and a further time in the kneading, raising, and baking of the dough. 3rd. Its preventing deterioration of the flour. In making fermented bread from certain varieties of flour, not in themselves unwholesome, the prolonged action of warmth and moisture induces a change of the starchy matter of the flour into dextrine, whereby the bread becomes sodden and dark-coloured. This change is usually prevented by the addition of alum, which is, indeed, an almost necessary ingredient in the manufacture of bread from glucogenic flour. But, in operating by the new process, there is no time for the glucogenic change to take place, and, consequently, no advantage in the use of alum, even with any description of flour. 4th. Its certainty and uniformity. Owing to differences in the character and rapidity of the fermentation, dependent on variations of temperature, quality of yeast, &c., the manufacture of fermented bread frequently presents certain vagaries and irregularities from which the new process is entirely free. 5th. The character of the bread. Chemical analysis shows that the flour has undergone less deterioration in bread made by the new than in that made by the fermented process. In other words, the percentage of extractive matters is smaller. The new bread has been tried dietetically at Guy's Hospital, and by many London physicians, and has been highly approved of. It is well known that for some years past the use of fermented bread in dyspeptic cases has been objected to by members of the medical profession, the débris of the yeast being considered unwholesome, and liable to induce acidity. 6th. Its economy. The cost of carbonic acid is alleged to be less than the cost of yeast. Moreover, in making fermented bread there is a small but necessary waste of the saccharine constituents, which is avoided in the new process. 7th. The saving of labour and health. It substitutes machine labour for manual labour of a very exhausting kind. The sanitary condition of journeymen bakers was investigated some time ago by Dr. Guy, and found to be most lamentable, from their constant nightwork, and from the fatiguing and unwholesome character of their labour, particularly the kneading. In a politico-economical point of view, the process is as important as removing bread-making from a domestic manual work to a manufacturing machine work. From the character of the apparatus, the process can only be used profitably on a large scale, and not in small bakeries.

DR. DAUGLISH'S BREAD-MAKING MACHINE.

BURRADON COLLIERY, NEAR NEWCASTLE-ON-TYNE, THE SCENE OF THE RECENT FATAL EXPLOSION.—SEE SUPPLEMENT, PAGE 256.

STATE OF THE THAMES AT GREENWICH DURING THE HIGH TIDE OF THURSDAY WEEK.—SEE SUPPLEMENT, PAGE 266.

CAVERN SCENE IN "THE FORTY THIEVES," LYCEUM.

The recent performance of the Savage Club merits remembrance; and, for the purpose of preserving a fitting record of so interesting an experiment, we present our readers with an Illustration of a scene from the new burlesque. The groups in this situation were all, it must be recollected, composed of amateurs—and those not nameless gentlemen, but men of mark, who have placed and will leave their stamp on the age. Here are the Broughs, the Talfourds, Lester Buckingham, young Byron, Halliday, Hollingshead, Moy Thomas, Julian Portch, E. Landells, E. Draper, Frank Vinstelly, J. K. Courtenay, Thornbury, J. Kenney, G. Turner, Dr. Strauss, Harrison Weir, Ottley, Horace St. John, and others of high merit, whose names we omit simply from the length of the list. It may be stated that the unquestionable success of this extraordinary burlesque was not at all due to the scenery, which was unsuited to the occasion, and had not been prepared for it. The burlesque stood upon its own merit, and triumphed in its strength alone. It may therefore be reasonably expected that on its repetition, which is probable, with regular actors and proper accessories, the new and original burlesque, by eight of our caricature-writers, will prove one of the greatest triumphs of the sort ever witnessed on the stage. It is stated that the profits of the performance amount to upward of £300 which will be divided between the two families for whom the members of the Savage Club so generously exerted themselves.

THE CAVERN SCENE IN THE BURLESQUE OF "THE FORTY THIEVES," PERFORMED AT THE LYCEUM LAST WEEK BY THE SAVAGE CLUB.

THE FARM.

MR. PHILIP HOWARD FRERE, the Bursar of Downing College, Cambridge, has been elected from among twenty-five candidates as editor of the Royal Society's Journal. It is no use concealing the fact that the appointment has not given general satisfaction to the members at large. They consider the claims of Mr. J. C. Morton, who has for some time past not only contributed, but, we believe, helped to edit the journal, and is quite at the top of the tree as a general writer on agriculture, to have been quite paramount to those of every other candidate. The society's meeting will be held in Yorkshire this year, and a keen struggle for the honour is expected between Hull and Leeds, to which towns rumour at present points. As, however, the Yorkshire meeting has been held at the former place so recently, Leeds will not improbably carry the day. The North Lonsdale Agricultural Society are determined to be behind none of their neighbours; and, in addition to the ten Challenge Cups of last year (two of which were won by Royal Butterfly and Duchess 77th), another, of 100 guineas' value, will be added for the best shorthorned animal in the yard, male or female. Oxford 15th and Countess of Oxford 2nd have each dropped roan heifer calves to Bolden's Third Grand Duke. This makes three roan heifers from "the three Oxfords" sent to him from the Holker Herd. With such fine "Herd Book" prospects within itself the Ulverston District may well launch out with prizes "open to all the world." We also hear of three more Prince Talleyrand bull-calves at Mr. Ambler's—to wit, Gamester, Gipsey Prince, and Prince George, from Grizelda, Gipsey, and Alice.

NATIONAL SPORTS.

THE steady advance of Buccaneer, both to the head of the Two Thousand and the Derby betting, has made the present week rather an interesting one at the Corner; and for the latter stake 8 to 1 is all that is obtainable against him. The more genial turn which the weather has taken augurs well for the racing at Warwick on Tuesday, Wednesday, and Thursday next. Promised Land, Gaspard, and Lifeboat are three out of the eight in the Trial Stakes on the first day; and Zodiac, the clever little Cure winner at Shrewsbury, is among the twenty-eight two-year-olds in "the three-furlong gallop" on the next. The Grand National Hunt Steeplechase will be on the Thursday. Old Birdcatcher has been shot at last, as he was a sadly wasted, and paralysed object; and we hear that a joint-stock society, composed of one hundred shareholders at 5 gs. each, for the purchase of a hunter sire, has been formed by the spirited farmers near Ulverston, and that they have fixed their choice on Schuloff by the Cossack from a Melbourne mare.

The first day of the Ashdown Champion produced some of the most unsatisfactory trials that have been seen there for some years, owing to the nature of the ground selected. Things looked bad for the Altcar Club, as, after the first courses for the Craven Challenge Cup were run off, they had only six standing to "The World's" ten. Both of Mr. Borron's, Bold Enterprise and Bloody Heart, were beaten, and so were Skittles and Wild Wave, the latter of whom showed none of her wonted brilliancy with Refulgent. The odds against the Altcar Club were considerably reduced on Wednesday; and when we left Ashdown that afternoon they had Rosy Morn, Bapta, Sweetbriar, and Barbelle standing; while Little Wonder, Manolo, Veronica, and Patience were the remaining champions on the other side. Some of the trials out of the far-famed Compton Bottom were worthy of its palmiest days. Little Wonder and Greek Fire had a very good one, which the former won in spite of being ridden over; Rosy Morn also gave Glengarry, the Middleham crack, scarcely a ghost of a chance from end to end; but the course of the day was that between Patience and Refulgent. It was, according to the judge's calculation, of about three miles in length, and full of such severe work that at last the two blacks lay down quite exhausted, near the Rubbing House, while the hare scampered off towards the Bottom again. Owing to the wood-cutting that has been going on the hares did not show their wonted disposition to fly to cover at once. The meeting was very well attended, especially on the first day. Altcar Club and "Hornby, Bainesse, and Catterick" stand for Tuesday and Wednesday; and with them and Biggar (Open Champion), the following week, the English and Scotch coursing ends; while the eccentric Irish lovers of the leash carry on their fun for fully a month more.

The Quorn have had some capital sport since the frost. On Monday, the 5th, a good day from Barkley, killing two foxes, and a very good 45 mins. with the third; on Tuesday, the 6th, a capital day's sport from Gotham, killing one fox; on Thursday, the 8th, a brilliant 40 minutes in the afternoon, at a racing pace to ground; on Friday from Ella's Gorse, a very good 37 minutes, and lost; and a capital hunting run of an hour and ten minutes from The Curate's, the hounds bringing their fox back to it, where he was left, hounds and horses having had enough. Two accidents occurred during the day. J. Holden, Esq., of Ruddington, was ridden over and very severely injured; and another person broke his collar-bone. Monday, the 12th, Great Dalby, found a good fox at Gartree Hill; but there was no possibility of the hounds settling to him, the field being quite unmanageable. A second fox was found at Cream Gorse, but, the afternoon being so wet and stormy, there was no scent. Tuesday, the 13th, Copt Oak, found four or five foxes at Bardon Hill, ran one to ground after a good 40 minutes; then 15 minutes, as hard as hounds could race, to ground with a second; a good 30 minutes to ground with a third; and a capital run of 45 minutes at a tremendous pace with a fourth from Whittle Hill, near Loughborough, losing the fox close to Groby Pool, within half a mile of Bradgate House.

BIRMINGHAM STEEPLECHASES.—MONDAY.

Erdington Plate.—The Premier, 1. Hazard, 2.
Hunters' Stakes.—Prima Donna, 1. Barbara Allen, 2.
Sutton Steeplechase.—Queen Bess, 1. Rosa, 2.
Eleventh Hussars' Challenge Cup.—Clear-the-way, 1. Pineapple, 2.
Hunt Cup Steeplechase.—Harry, 1. Hornsea, 2.

TUESDAY.

Berwood Handicap Plate.—The Curate, 1. Hazard, 2.
Grand Annual Steeplechase.—Joe Maley, 1. Emperor, 2.
Military Steeplechase.—Premier, 1. Sir Bertram, 2.
Scurry Handicap Steeplechase.—Congreve, 1. Bannockburn, 2.
Selling Hunters' Steeplechase.—Jack Barber, 1. Profile, 2.

COVENTRY RACES.—WEDNESDAY.

Coventry Handicap.—Joskin, 1. Dreadnought, 2.
City Handicap Plate.—The Poet, 1. Miss Eleanor, 2.
Handicap Plate of 30 sovs.—Soothsayer, 1. Dreadnought, 2.
Craven Steeplechase.—Huntsman, 1, Topsy, 2.
Stoneleigh Steeplechase Plate.—Tumbler, 1.
Handicap Hurdle Race of 30 sovs.—Pyrrhus the Second, 1. Caliph, 2.

LATEST BETTING AT TATTERSALL'S.—THURSDAY EVENING.

NORTHAMPTON STAKES.—12 to 1 agst Rattlebone (t); 15 to 1 agst Claire (t); 20 to 1 agst Sam Fp de (t); 40 to 1 agst Old Robert (t); 20 to 1 agst Tommy Noble (t); 20 to 1 agst Philomel (t).

CITY AND SUBURBAN HANDICAP.—10 to 1 agst Chere Amie (off); 15 to 1 agst Homeward Bound (off); taken 100 to 6; 40 to 1 agst Nucleus.

CHESTER CUP.—15 to 1 agst Viatka (off), 20 to 1 agst Tame Deer (t and off), 25 to 1 agst Satalette (t), 1000 to 10 agst Blue Jacket (t).

TWO THOUSAND GUINEAS.—5 to 2 agst Buccaneer (t), 9 to 2 agst Wizard (t).

DERBY.—8 to 1 agst Buccaneer (t), 12 to 1 agst Umpire (t), 35 to 1 agst Cramond (t), 1000 to 15 agst Loiterer (t).

GIGANTIC SALAMANDER.—The Zoological Society have just received an important addition to their menagerie—a fine living specimen of the gigantic salamander of Japan. This singular creature, which somewhat resembles a monstrous water-newt, inhabits the lakes of the basaltic mountains of Japan, where it was discovered by the Dutch naturalist Dr. von Siebold; but even there it is considered a scarce animal. The society's specimen is at present about three feet in length, and it is the first of the sort which has been brought alive to this country.

SOUTH KENSINGTON MUSEUM.—During last week the visitors were as follows:—On Monday, Tuesday, and Saturday (free days), 5401; on Monday and Tuesday (free evenings), 4908. On the three students' days (admission to the public, 6d.), 1227; one students' evening (Wednesday), 495: total, 12,031.——On Wednesday week a presentation of prizes to art students and art workmen, offered by the committee of the Architectural Museum by the Ecclesiological Society, and Mr. Beresford Hope, M.P., was held in the theatre of the South Kensington Museum. There was a large attendance of artist workmen, and a series of prizes, ranging in value from three to five guineas, were presented by Mr. Hope, who presided, and who delivered them to the successful competitors accompanied by some graceful critical dissertations on their merits.

THE WEATHER.

RESULTS OF METEOROLOGICAL OBSERVATIONS AT THE KEW OBSERVATORY OF THE BRITISH ASSOCIATION.

Lat. 51° 28′ 6″ N.; Long. 0° 18′ 47″ W.; Height above sea 34 feet.

DAY.	DAILY MEANS OF: Barometer Corrected.	Temperature of the Air.	Dew Point.	Relative Humidity.	Amount of Cloud.	THERMOMETER: Minimum read at 10 A.M.	Maximum read at 10 P.M.	WIND: General Direction.	Movement in 24 hours.	Rain in 24 hours. Read at 10 A.M.
	Inches	°	°	°	°	°	°		Miles.	Inches
March 7	30·223	32·5	29·4	·89	10	35·8	38·8	NE. NNE.	581	·155
„ 8	30·239	33·5	26·5	·78	6	32·5	40·8	N.	455	·010
„ 9	30·139	30·6	26·7	·84	7	29·8	40·8	N. NE. N.	157	·000
„ 10	29·887	30·7	29·8	·97	10	23·7	38·6	S. SW.	130	·008
„ 11	29·631	—	—	—	10	27·1	42·2	SSE.	172	—
„ 12	29·489	38·6	32·9	·82	10	28·9	42·9	SE. S. SSW.	174	·040
„ 13	29·578	40·7	30·2	·69	5	33·8	45·3	W. NW.	244	·213

The following are the readings of the meteorological instruments for the above days, in order, at half-past nine a.m.:—

Barometer (in inches), corrected	30·120	30·269	30·229	29·997	29·646	29·537	29·514
Temperature of Air	36·0°	37·6°	33·6°	30·3°	29·4°	37·3°	40·3°
Temperature of Evaporation ..	34·9°	34·1°	31·9°	30·0°	—	34·4°	37·2°
Direction of Wind	NE.	N.	NE.	S.	SW.	ESE.	NW.

The Countess of Granville died on Wednesday morning at Brighton.

Sir Robert Ferguson, Bart., M.P. for the city of Londonderry, died in Dublin on Tuesday.

A Parliamentary return just issued states that the total expense of the Gloucester inquiry was £1924 18s. 6d., and of the Wakefield inquiry, £1485 19s. Each commissioner received £5 5s. a day, and the secretary £3 3s.

The sum of £50 has been placed by Lord Palmerston, the dispenser of the Royal Bounty Fund, at the disposal of Mr. Samuel Bamford, the veteran Radical leader.

THE WRECK OF THE "ROYAL CHARTER."—The underwriters have recently sold the wreck of the Royal Charter for £1000 to the owners. It is understood that no effort will be made to recover the remainder of the gold until the fine weather has set in. The underwriters represent that the amount of gold recovered was £40,000 short of the amount on freight, and which they paid. It is computed that the wreck contains property to the value of £120,000, exclusive of the amount recovered. More than £500 has been collected for the family of the Rev. C. Hodge, who was lost in the vessel. The Bath papers mention the death, from grief, of a sister of Mr. Maule, who was lost in the Royal Charter. Operations are about to be commenced for the purpose of raising the wreck. A steam-tug and several flats have been moored near the spot, and a large number of casks and spars have been brought from Liverpool to assist in weighing up the remains of the unfortunate vessel. A labouring man has picked up a bar of gold of the value of £400 off the rocks. Two more bodies were picked up on Wednesday week in the bay.

MONETARY TRANSACTIONS OF THE WEEK.

(From our City Correspondent.)

COMPARATIVELY speaking, a fair average amount of business has been transacted in the English Stock Market during the present week; and, in some instances, prices have had an upward tendency. The supply of stock absorbed by the public, however, has not been to say extensive. A telegram having arrived from India to the effect that the Council consider it unnecessary to raise a new loan, there has been an increased demand for nearly all Indian securities, the value of which has steadily improved—the Five per Cent Enfaced Paper having touched 99⅝, and the Five-and-a-Half per Cent, 105⅝.

For Money the demand has become active; and the rates of discount—notwithstanding that the supply of capital is still large—have somewhat advanced. In Lombard-street the best short bills have been done at 3⅞ to 4; three months', at 4; four months', at 4 to 4½; and six months', at 4½ to 5 per cent. The directors of the Bank of England have made no change in their minimum and the quotations out of doors are expected to rule lower when the dividend payments are made. In the Stock Exchange money is worth 3 to 3½ per cent.

The proposal to establish a new Bank of Issue in India, based upon one-third bullion, has led to a meeting of merchants and others, in order, if possible, to secure Government patronage for a similar institution.

The shares of the newly-formed companies have been in somewhat improved request, at full quotations. Ocean Marine Insurance have sold at 3 5-16 to 3 7-16 prem.; Universal Marine, 13-16 to 15-16 prem.; London and Provincial Marine, 5-16 to 7-16 prem.; Buenos Ayres and San Fernando Railway, ⅝ to ¾ prem.; Bank of Turkey, 1⅜ to 1⅛ dis.; Ango-Luso-Brazilian Steam, ⅜ to ½ prem.; and Great Northern Palace, par to ¼ prem. The shares in the Buenos Ayres Railway have been allotted.

We understand that the Vice-Chancellor will shortly make a call of £5000 upon each of the contributaries of the British and Foreign Reliance Marine Company, the affairs of which are being wound up.

A meeting of the proprietors of the Ottoman Bank has been held, when a dividend of 16s. and a bonus of 12s. per share were declared. The reserve fund (£40,000) has been invested in Consols. The Directors of the Bank of Australasia have declared a dividend at the reduced rate of 15 per cent per annum free of income tax.

The total imports of bullion have been under £100,000. The whole of the gold has been taken for export; but very few parcels have been withdrawn from the Bank of England. The bullion at hand from Australia was partly insured at Lloyd's as high as 25 guineas per cent!

Home Stocks were steady in price on Monday:—Consols, for Money, sold at 94½ ⅝; for Account, 94¾ ⅝; the Reduced Three per Cents were specially transferred at 94½; and the New Three per Cents, at 94½ ⅝; Exchequer Bills marked 16s. to 22s. prem.; Indian Securities were firm, as follows:—India Stock, 221½ to 219; Ditto Five per Cents, 104¼; Ditto Debentures, 1858, 97¼; Ditto, Five per Cent. Paper, 99½ ¾ Ditto Five-and-a-Half per Cent, 105½ ¾; Ditto Bonds, 4s. prem. On Tuesday very little change took place in the quotations, but the market continued steady:—The Reduced and the New Three per Cents were dealt in, by special transfer, at 94⅝; Consols, for Money, 94⅛ ½ ⅝; Ditto, for Account, 94¾; India Five per Cents, 104¼ ⅛; Ditto Debentures, 1858, 97¼ ⅜; Ditto Bonds, 4s. prem.; India Five per Cent Paper was 99¾ ½; and the Five-and-a-Half per Cent, 105⅛; Exchequer Bills realised 17s to 21s. prem. The funds were steady on Wednesday:—Consols, for Money, realised 94½ ⅝ ¾; for the Account, 94⅞ 95; India Stock left off at 218 to 221; Ditto Five per Cents, 104½; Ditto Bonds, par to 3s. prem.; and Exchequer Bills, 18s. to 21s. prem. On Thursday Consols for Money, sold at 84¾ ⅞ and 94½ ⅝; Ditto, for Account, 95 95⅛ and 94¾ ⅞; and Exchequer Bills, 18s. to 21s. prem. Indian Securities were firm, at 104¾ for the Five per Cents; the Enfaced Five per Cent Paper realised 99½; Ditto, Five-and-a-Half per Cent, 105⅝; the Debentures marked 97⅛.

For nearly all Foreign Bonds the market has been in a healthy state. Compared with last week, very little change has taken place in the quotations; but, generally speaking, they have continued firm. Brazilian Five per Cents have realised 103¼; Brazilian Four-and-a-Half per Cents, 1858, 93⅞; Buenos Ayres Six per Cents, 85½; Ditto, Deferred, 23½; Dutch Four per Cents, 102¼; Ditto Two-and-a-Half per Cents, 66⅝; Chilian Four-and-a-Half per Cents, 86¾; Mexican Three per Cents, 22¼; Peruvian Four-and-a-Half per Cents (Uribarren), 84⅛; Portuguese Three per Cents, 44; Russian Five per Cents, 108½; Russian Four-and-a-Half per Cents, 98⅜; Russian Three per Cents, 65; Sardinian Five per Cents, 83½; Spanish Three per Cents, 45⅜; Ditto, New Deferred, 34¼ ⅜; Ditto, Passive, 13¼; Turkish Six per Cents, 79¾; Ditto, New, 62¾ ex div.; Peruvian Four-and-a-Half per Cent Dollar Bonds, 81½.

The market for Joint-stock Bank Shares has ruled firm, and prices have been well supported. City have marked 69¼; London and County, 33½; London Joint-stock, 31; London and Westminster, 55½; Oriental, 43; Ottoman, 19¼.

Colonial Government Securities exhibit very little change as regards their value, but the business doing in them had been somewhat restricted. Canada Government Six per Cents have sold at 115⅛; New South Wales Five per Cents, 1871 to 1876, 99⅞; and Victoria Six per Cents, 111¾.

Miscellaneous Securities have been dealt in to a fair extent, as follows:—Anglo-Mexican Shares, 15; Australian Agricultural, 32½; Canada Land, 124½; Channel Islands Telegraph, 7⅞; Crystal Palace, Preference, 101¼; English and Australian Copper-smelting Company, 2¼ ex div.; Great Ship, ½; Madras Irrigation and Canal, 3; National Discount, 4⅛; Peel River Land and Mineral, 50; Peninsular and Oriental Steam, 80½; Rhymney Iron, 22½; Royal Mail Steam, 52; Scottish Australian Investment, 125; Van Diemen's Land, 11; Victoria Docks, 102.

Although the settlement has been in progress the Railway Share Market has ruled somewhat active, and prices, almost generally, have been on the advance. The supply of stock is small, and the rates of "continuation" are light. Annexed are Thursday's official closing quotations for Money:—

ORDINARY SHARES AND STOCKS.—Ambergate, Nottingham, Boston and Eastern Junction, 6⅛; Bristol and Exeter, 104; Caledonian, 93½; East Anglian, 15; Eastern Counties, 55½; Edinburgh, Perth, and Dundee, 28½; Lancashire and Yorkshire, 100; London and Blackwall, 69; London, Chatham, and Dover, 12¾; London and North-Western, 98½; Ditto, Eighths, 9⅝; London and South-Western, 92½; Manchester, Sheffield, and Lincolnshire, 42; Midland, 110½; North British, 60¾; North-Eastern—Berwick, 93; Ditto, York, 76; Scottish North-Eastern—Aberdeen Stock, 30½; South-Eastern, 90½; Stockton and Darlington, 17⅞.

LINE LEASED AT A FIXED RENTAL.—Chester and Holyhead, 51.

PREFERENCE SHARES.—Great Northern Four-and-a-Half per Cent, 103; Great Western, Five per Cent, 101½; Midland—Bristol and Birmingham, 139½; North British Five per Cent, 112½; Oxford, Worcester, and Wolverhampton, Irredeemable, ex all arrears, 118; Waterford and Kilkenny, 50.

BRITISH POSSESSIONS.—Ceylon, 6⅜; Eastern Bengal, 4⅝; East Indian, 102¼; Ditto, Jubbulpore, 10½; Ditto, Five per Cent Debentures, 1864, 102¾; Grand Trunk of Canada, 34½; Ditto, Six per Cent Preference, 93½; Ditto, Six per Cent Debenture, 73; Ditto, Seven per Cent, 1862, 85½; Great Indian Peninsula, 99⅝; Punjaub, 4½.

FOREIGN.—Dutch Rhenish, 9⅜; Great Luxembourg, 6⅝; Sambre and Meuse, 5⅝; West Flanders, 5⅜.

THE MARKETS.

CORN EXCHANGE, March 12.—The supply of English wheat on offer in to-day's market was very moderate. For all kinds the demand ruled steady, at, in some instances, an advance in the quotations of 1s. per quarter. In foreign wheat, the show of which was tolerably extensive, only a limited business was passing, on former terms. There was a good consumptive inquiry for barley, at extreme rates, but malt met a dull sale, at last week's currency. The transactions in oats were much restricted; prices, however, were firm. Beans moved off slowly, and the quotations had a drooping tendency. Peas and flour commanded full prices.

March 14.—Most kinds of wheat and barley, as well as oats, were firm in price. Other produce moved off slowly, at late rates.

English.—Wheat, Essex and Kent, red, 42s. to 49s.; ditto, white, 44s. to 54s.; Norfolk and Suffolk, red, 37s. to 47s.; rye, 30s. to 31s.; grinding barley, 25s. to 27s.; distilling ditto, 28s. to 30s.; malting ditto, 30s. to 44s.; Lincoln and Norfolk malt 49s. to 69s.; brown ditto, 48s. to 49s.; Kingston and Ware, 54s. to 69s.; Chevalier, 70s. to 72s.; Yorkshire and Lincolnshire feed oats, 20s. to 25s.; potato ditto, 26s. to 30s.; Youghal and Cork, black, 20s. to 25s.; ditto, white, 20s. to 28s.; tick beans, 31s. to 36s.; grey peas, 32s. to 35s.; maple, 37s. to 38s.; white, 36s. to 39s.; boilers, 36s. to 40s. per quarter. Town-made flour, 41s. to 43s.; town households, 37s. to —; country marks, 30s. to 36s. per 280lb.; American flour, 22s. to 27s. per barrel; French ditto, 29s. to 36s. per sack.

Seeds.—The demand, generally speaking, is inactive; prices, however, are well supported. Cakes command full quotations.

Linseed, English, crushing, 48s. to 52s.; Calcutta, 49s. to 51s.; hempseed, 34s. to 36s. per quarter; coriander, 14s. to 16s. per. cwt.; brown mustard seed, 12s. to 14s.; ditto, white, 18s to 15s.; tares, 7s. to 7s. 6d. per bushel. English rapeseed, 56s. to 60s. per quarter Linseed cakes, English, £9 5s. to £10 0s.; ditto foreign, £9 0s. to £10 15s.; rape cakes, £5 5s. to £6 per ton; canary, 50s. to 53s. per quar Red clover 40s. to 60s.; white ditto, 88s. to 94s. per cwt.

Bread.—The prices of wheaten bread in the metropolis are from 7d. to 7½d.; of household ditto, 5d. to 6½d. per 4-lb. loaf.

Imperial Weekly Averages.—Wheat, 45s. 0d.; barley, 36s. 3d.; oats, 22s. 9d.; rye, 30s. 5d.; beans, 39s. 6d.; peas, 37s. 3d.

The Six Weeks' Averages.—Wheat, 44s. 2d.; barley, 35s. 6d.; oats, 22s. 2d.; rye, 31s. 8d.; beans, 38s. 9d.; peas, 36s. 7d.

English Grain Sold last Week.—Wheat, 122,346; barley, 54,031; oats, 17,019; rye, 220; beans, 7 87; peas, 2214 quarters.

Tea.—The demand for all kinds is still very inactive, nevertheless prices are supported. Common sound congou is quoted at 1s. 5½d. per lb. The show of samples is moderate.

Sugar.—Most kinds of raw sugar have sold steadily, at, in some instances, an advance in the quotations of 6d. per cwt. Refined goods are in improved request, at 51s. to 51s. 6d. for common brown lumps. Crushed and pieces are firm in price.

Coffee.—Privately, as well as at public sale, the demand has ruled steady, at extreme rates.

Rice.—Rather large quantities have found buyers, at fully last week's prices. The stock is now considerably reduced when compared with last year.

Provisions.—We have no change to notice in the value of any kind of butter, and the demand is by no means active. The bacon market is firm, at very full prices. Other provisions rule about stationary.

Tallow.—The market is very inactive, on easier terms. P.Y.C., on the spot, is quoted at 58s. 6d. to 58s. 9d; and for delivery during the last three months, 53s. per cwt.

Oils.—Linseed oil moves off steadily, at 28s. per cwt, on the spot. All other oils support previous rates. Spirits of turpentine, 36s., net cash.

Spirits.—We have to report a very inactive inquiry for rum. Proof Leeward is selling at 1s. 8d. to 1s. 9d; and proof East India, 1s. 7d. to 1s. 8d. per gallon. Brandy supports the late advance; but the inquiry is much restricted. Grain spirits are steady.

Hay and Straw.—Meadow hay, £2 16s. to £4 10s.; clover ditto, £4 0s. to £5 8s.; and straw £1 6s. to £1 10s. per load. Trade firm.

Coals.—Best house coals, 19s. 9d. to 20s. 6d.; seconds, 17s. to 18s. 8d; Hartley's, 14s. to 15s.; and manufacturers', 13s. 6d. to 14s. 9d. per ton.

Hops.—Our market is very inactive; but, compared with last week, no change has taken place in the quotations.

Wool.—The public sales are still progressing steadily, at very full prices. By private contract, only a limited business is doing.

Potatoes.—The supplies continue moderate, and the demand is steady, at from 80s. to 150s. per ton.

Metropolitan Cattle Market.—(Thursday, March 15).—The supply of beasts on offer in to-day's market was only moderate; nevertheless all breeds moved off slowly, at Monday's currency. The extreme value of the best lots was 4s. 10d. per 8lbs. Sheep—the show of which was rather limited—wore a dull inquiry. Prime Downs and half-bred supported late rates, but all other qualities, including clipped sheep, declined in value 2d. per 8lbs. We have to report a dull sale for lambs, at 2d. per 8lbs. less money. Calves were heavy, and 4d. per 8lbs. lower than on Monday. The top price was 7s 8d. per 8lbs. In pigs and milch cows only a limited business was transacted, at barely late rates. Per 8lb. to sink the offal:—Coarse and inferior beasts, 3s. 4d. to 3s. 6d.; second quality ditto, 3s. 8d. to 4s. 2d.; prime large oxen, 4s. 4d. to 4s. 6d.; prime Scots, &c., 4s. 8d. to 4s. 10d.; coarse and inferior sheep, 3s. 6d. to 4s. 0d.; second quality ditto, 4s. 2d. to 4s. 8d.; prime coarse-woolled ditto, 4s. 8d. to 5s. 2d.; prime Southdown ditto, 5s. 6d. to 5s. 8d.; large coarse calves, 4s. 10d. to 5s. 2d.; prime small ditto, 5s. 4d. to 5s. 8d.; large hogs, 3s. 6d. to 3s. 10d.; neat small porkers, 4s. 2d. to 4s. 10d.; lambs, 5s. 10d. to 6s. 8d.; suckling calves, 18s. to 22s.; and quarter-old store pigs, 23s. to 30s. each. Total supply: Beasts, 949; cows, 124; sheep and lambs, 2522; calves, 120; pigs, 312. Foreign: Beasts, 150; sheep, 450; calves, 76.

Newgate and Leadenhall.—The supplies of meat are seasonably good, and the trade rules somewhat heavy, as follows:—Beef, from 2s. 6d. to 4s. 4d.; mutton, 3s. 4d. to 4s. 6d.; veal, 4s. 4d. to 4s. 10d.; pork, 3s. 6d. to 5s. 0d. per 8lb. by the carcase.

ROBERT HERBERT.

THE LONDON GAZETTE.

FRIDAY, MARCH 9.

WAR OFFICE.

6th Dragoon Guards: J. Fryer to be Cornet.

5th Light Dragoons: F. J. R. Thackwell to be Cornet. 7th: Brevet Lieut.-Col. W. D. Bushe to be Lieutenant-Colonel; Brevet Major the Hon. I. de V. T. W. Fiennes to be Major; Capt. R. Shaw to be Captain; Lieut the Hon. C. C Molyneux to be Captain. 9th: Capt C. W. Paulet to be Captain. 15th: G. Walker to be Cornet.

Military Train: Adj. T Mitchell to be Quartermaster.

Coldstream Guards: Lieut. and Capt. H. Tower to be Captain and Lieutenant Colonel; Ensign and Lieut. F. H. A. Seymour to be Lieutenant and Captain; E. Chaplin to be Ensign and Lieutenant.

4th Foot: Lieut. R. A Law to be Captain; Ensign and Adjutant C. F. Brockman to be Lieutenant. 10th: W. E Rendle to be Ensign. 18th: O. R. Lawson to be Ensign; F. N. V. Burton to be Ensign 19th: W. Irvine to be Ensign; J. G. Moir to be Ensign. 20th: F. W. Barlow to be Ensign; F. Dawson to be Ensign. 21st: H. J. Henley to be Ensign. 22nd: J. T. Garwood to be Ensign. 23rd: W. H. Adams to be Ensign. 24th: Brevet Lieut-Col. E. Wodehouse to be Lieutenant-Colonel; Capt F. C Skurray to be Major; Lieut R J. L Crutchley to be Captain. 25th: H. B. P. Praed to be Ensign. 26th: Hon G G. Craven to be Ensign. 31st: A. A. Yeo to be Ensign. 33rd: C. C. Goring to be Ensign. 39th: H. F. Gaubert to be Ensign. 41st: Lieut. J. Baird to be Captain; Ensign E. Younghusband to be Lieutenant; W. R. M. Wynne to be Ensign. 47th: J. Birney and W. R. Jervis to be Ensigns. 51st: R. R. Drought to be Ensign. 52nd: H. L. Powys to be Ensign. 55th: A. J. Clark to be Ensign. 63rd: T. Colville to be Ensign. 76th: Brevet Lieut.-Col. C. Fenwick to be Major; Lieut. C. T. Caldecott to be Captain; Ensign G. T. Faussett to be Lieutenant. 83th: H. C. Wilmer to be Ensign. 86th: Brevet Major H. W. P. Welman to be Major; Lieut. A. N. Wilson to be Captain; Ensign W. Saunders to be Lieutenant; Serg.-Major J. F. Stephens to be Ensign. 93rd: J. St. Clair Drysdale to be Ensign. 94th: A. C. G. Leman to be Ensign.

Rifle Brigade: Lieut. L. V. Williams to be Adjutant.

BREVET.—Brevet Col A. G. Blachford to be Major-General, the rank being honorary only. Brevet Lieut.-Col. G Keane to be Colonel in the Army, the rank being honorary only. The appointment of Lieut.-Col. W. H. Miller as Aide-de-Camp to the Queen, with the rank of Colonel in the Army, to be antedated to the 26th of April, 1859. Quartermaster A. M'Bride to have the honorary rank of Captain. The undermentioned promotions to take place consequent on the death of Major-General R. W. Brough:—Brevet Col. C. Ashmore to be Major-General; Lieut.-Col. W. T. Layard to be Colonel; Brevet Maj. F. B. Russell to be Lieutenant-Colonel; Capt. S. Cleaveland to be Major.

BANKRUPTS.

N. SYMONS, Cambridge-street, St. Pancras, Middlesex, ironfounder.—C. M. CHEETHAM, Worksop, Nottinghamshire, linen and woollen draper.—T. W. HOPKINS, King's-road, Chelsea, hosier.—S. BOTHWEL, Dorking, builder.—C. MARSON, sen., Leominster, innkeeper.—W. M. BELL, Liverpool, draper.—R. GOODACRE, Nottingham, grocer.—J. G. LEEMAN Ilkeston, Derbyshire, draper.

SCOTCH SEQUESTRATIONS.

R. THOMPSON, Portobello, innkeeper.—MARY LADE, or MORRIS, Largs, Ayrshire.

TUESDAY, MARCH 13.

WAR OFFICE.

BREVET.—Brevet Col. D. Russell, C.B., to have the temporary rank of Brigadier-General while in command of a brigade; Capt. H. M. Clogstoun to be Major in the Army.

BANKRUPTS.

W. ELLIS, Pennyfields, Poplar, ship joiner.—E. WEISSE, Piccadilly, milliner.—S. STEVENSON, Leicester, dealer in yarns.—J. HASELL, Bristol, soap manufacturer.—T LOFTHOUSE, Sheffield, coal dealer.—D. GREEN, Sheffield, joiner.

SCOTCH SEQUESTRATIONS.

A. CAMERON, Frenchie, manufacturer.—J. STEWART, Aberdeen, fancy trimming warehouseman.

⁎ The charges for the insertion of Births, Marriages, and Deaths is Five Shillings for each Announcement.

BIRTHS.

On March 10, the wife of Mr. Alfred Groves, of 5, Spring-street, Sussex-gardens, Hyde Park, of a daughter.

On the 11th inst., at Rutherford, Norwood, the wife of Alexander R. Lawson, Esq., of Boondooma, Queen's Land, Australia, of a son.

On the 2nd ult., at the Bridge of Allan, N.B., the lady of Alexander Paterson, Esq., M.D., of a son.

MARRIAGES.

On the 17th of December, 1859, at St. John's Church, New Town, Tasmania, by the Rev. T. J. Ewing, Edwin Cradock Nowell, Esq., to Caroline, youngest daughter of the late John Hunt Butcher, Esq., of Lowlands, Tasmania, and formerly of Park Hatch, in the county of Surrey, England.

On the 5th of December last, at Auckland, New Zealand, by the Venerable Archdeacon Kissling, the Hon. Edward William Stafford, of Mayne, county Louth First Minister of the Crown in New Zealand, to Mary, third daughter of the Hon. Thomas Houghton Bartley, Speaker of the Legislative Council.

On the 10th of December last, at the residence of her father, Exford, near Melbourne, Victoria, Mary Susan, eldest daughter of Simon Staughton, Esq., to Frederick W. Armytage, Esq., of the Hermitage, Station Peak, near Geelong.

DEATHS.

On the 7th inst., at his residence, Woolwich, Major-General Henry Charles Russell, Royal Artillery, only son of the late William Rawstorn Russell, Esq., and Anna Maria Vassall, his wife, of Swaffham Hall, Norfolk, aged 75.

On the 7th inst, at Heath House, near Farnham, Surrey, after twenty four hours' illness, Frances Vic, relict of Major-General Sir George Wood, K.C.B., late of Ottershaw, and Potters Park, Surrey, and the dearly beloved mother of George Wood, Esq., of 2, Queen's gate-terrace, Kensington-gore, aged 73.

On the 12th inst., at Harewood, Herefordshire, Sarah, wife of Sir Hungerford Hoskyns, Bart., deeply lamented, aged 82.

On the 3rd inst. Eliza, the wife of Mr. Serjeant Ballantine, aged 37.

On the 6th inst., Charles Robert, youngest son of Frederick Dawson, Esq., of the Middle Temple, and Upper Grove-lane, Camberwell, in the 23rd year of his age.

On the 10th inst., at Bill Quay, deeply regretted, Mary, relict of the late Mr. William Boutland, shipbuilder of that place, aged 65.

On the 10th inst. at Pruzame the Rev. Henry Batten aged 47.

NEW BOOKS, &c.

With upwards of 200 Engravings, price 2s. 6d., cloth,
THE GIRL'S OWN TOYMAKER, and Book of Recreation. By E. and A. LANDELLS.
"A perfect magazine of information upon subjects in which all girls are deeply interested."—Illustrated News of the World.
"One of those suggestive little books that become perfect treasures to industrious children."—Art Journal.
"We can cordially recommend this book to all little girls old enough to be trusted with penknife and scissors."—Economist.
GRIFFITH and FARRAN, Corner of St. Paul's Churchyard.

The Twentieth Thousand of SAY AND SEAL. Cheap, popular Edition, crown 8vo, with an Illustration, Three Shillings, is now ready; also, a Library Edition, in crown 8vo, with Illustrations, 7s. 6d.
London: RICHARD BENTLEY, New Burlington-street.

NOW READY,
INDIAN SPICES FOR ENGLISH TABLES; or, a Rare Relish of Fun from the Far East, being the Adventures of "Our Special Correspondent" in India. Illustrated in a series of upwards of 120 Humorous Sketches, and exhibiting in all its phases the peculiarity of life in that country. By Captain G. F. ATKINSON, Bengal Engineers, Author of "Curry and Rice," "Campaign in India," "Pictures from the North," &c. The 120 Sketches will be grouped on 28 imperial 4to plates, printed on tinted paper, and will be bound in boards, with illustrated paper cover. Price 16s.—London: DAY and SON, Lithographers to the Queen, 6, Gate-street, Lincoln's-inn-fields.

THE ART of ILLUMINATING, as Practised in Europe from the Earliest Times. Illustrated by INITIAL LETTERS and ALPHABETS, selected from the British Museum, South Kensington Museum, and other valuable collections. By W. R. TYMMS; with an Essay on the Practice of the Art at the Present Day, by M. DIGBY WYATT, Architect. Publishing in Parts of 8 or 9 Plates, price 5s.—London: DAY and SON, Lithographers to the Queen.

Price 1s. on Outline; 2s. Colouring commenced; 8s. Finished.
FOR ILLUMINATING. The BEATITUDES, a Series of Eight Designs by ALBERT LUDOVICI.
London: J. BARNARD and SON, 339, Oxford-street, W.

FARADAY ON THE ELECTRIC LIGHT AND LIGHTHOUSE ILLUMINATION.—This important Lecture, just delivered at the Royal Institution, will appear, copiously illustrated, in extenso in the CHEMICAL NEWS (edited by William Crookes). Price 3d. weekly. Order of any Bookseller or News-agent. Office: Red Lion-court, Fleet-street, London, E.C.

THE AQUARIUM.—LLOYD'S DESCRIPTIVE LIST, 128 pages, and 88 cuts, for 14 stamps. Apply direct to W. Alford Lloyd, Portland road, W.

FIELD'S GUINEA FAMILY BIBLE.—Large type, best binding, beautiful plates, and 50,000 references—a matchless volume. The largest Stock of Bibles, Prayer books, and Church Services in the world, from 1s. to 20 guineas, at JOHN FIELD'S Great Bible Warehouse, 65, Regent's-quadrant.

THREE HUNDRED BIBLE STORIES, with nearly 300 Bible Pictures, a Pictorial Sunday-book for the Young, handsomely bound, price 4s. 6d., originally published at 12s. Sent post free from FIELD'S Great Bible Warehouse, 65, Regent's-quadrant. Every family should have this pretty book.

25,000 BIBLES, Prayer-books, and Church Services, in every description of binding and type, being the cheapest, largest, and best-bound Stock in the Kingdom, at PARKINS and GOTTO'S Bible Warehouse, 24 and 25, Oxford-street.

BULL'S LIBRARY, 19, Holles-street, Cavendish-square, London, W., for the best ENGLISH AND FOREIGN LITERATURE, including the best Religious Books.
Prospectuses forwarded post-free.

GOLD or COPPER PAINTS.—JOHNSON'S METALLIC PAINTS are the simplest to use, cheapest, and best for all kinds of decorative work. Sold in boxes 1s. 6d. each, by all Artists' Colourmen, &c.
J. BARNARD and SON, Proprietors, 339, Oxford-street, London.

THE STAUNTON CHESSMEN, 15s., 17s. 6d.; loaded, 21s.; in casket, 36s.; club size, 45s.; ivory, £1 18s. 6d. To guard against fraudulent imitations each set bears Mr. Staunton's signature.—Wholesale, JAQUES and SON, Hatton-garden.

SCIENTIFIC PRESENTS.—Collections of Minerals, Rocks, recent Shells, and Fossils to illustrate the study of Geology and Mineralogy, can be had at 2, 5, 10, 20, 50, to 100 guineas each, of J. TENNANT, Geologist, 149, Strand, London.

ORNAMENTS for the DRAWING-ROOM, LIBRARY, &c.—An extensive assortment of ALABASTER, MARBLE, BRONZE, and DERBYSHIRE SPAR ORNAMENTS.—Manufacturer and Importer by J. TENNANT, 149, Strand, London.

FRODSHAM and BAKER, 31, Gracechurch-street, City, established 1800, Chronometer-makers to the Admiralty. Clockmakers to the Queen.—POCKET CHRONOMETERS, Duplex and Lever Watches, of the most improved construction, at moderate prices. Astronomical and other Clocks.

DRESSING-CASES, DRESSING-BAGS, and highly-finished Elegances for Presentation, in great variety. Ivory-handled Table Cutlery. Every requisite for the Toilet and Work-table.—MECHI and BAZIN, 112, Regent-street; 4, Leadenhall-street; and Crystal Palace, Sydenham.

SUPERB FLOWER SEEDS, post-free, at the annexed prices:—100 fine hardy annuals 5s.; 50 ditto, 3s.; 36 ditto, 2s. 6d.; 12 ditto, 1s. 2d. Catalogues, with sample packet, 2d.—From B. W. KNIGHT, Florist, 67, High-street, Battle, Sussex.

FLOWER SEEDS.—Twelve Varieties, judiciously assorted, with hints for their successful management, post-free for fourteen stamps; thirty sorts for 2s. 6d.—Address, W. H. REYNOLDS, 8, Packington-street, Islington, N.

FLOWERS for PRESENT SOWING.—Sent, post-paid 30 packets of beautiful annuals for 5s., 21 for 3s. 6d., 15 for 2s. 6d.: 25 packets of beautiful biennials and perennials for 5s., 18 for 3s. 6d., 14 for 2s. 6d.; 30 packets of ornamental grasses for 7s. 6d., 20 for 5s., 12 for 2s. 6d.; 30 packets of ornamental gourds for 7s. 6d., 20 for 5s. 6d., 12 for 3s. 6d.—BUTLER and M'CULLOCH, Seedsmen, Covent-Garden Market, W.C.

GREEN'S PRIZE LAWN-MOWER.—Thomas Green, Smithfield Ironworks, Leeds; and 2, Victoria-street, Holborn-hill, London, has for the last three years at all the Agricultural and Horticultural Shows in the Kingdom carried off every prize. His New PATENT NOISELESS MACHINE for 1860 is perfection itself. Illustrated price-lists can be had on application to either establishment.

BLIGHTS, MILDEW, BED-BUGS.—GISHURST COMPOUND, patented for preventing and destroying these and other pests—see "Gardener's Chronicle," "Cottage Gardener," and "Field." In boxes, 1s., 3s., 10s 6d. Retail of all Nursery and Seeds Men; wholesale of Price's Patent Candle Company.

BROUGHAM BAROUCHE, and STANHOPE PHAETON, the property of a Gentleman, for SALE. May be seen at No. 4, Tenterden-street, Hanover-square.

REDUCTION OF THE WINE DUTIES.
ROYAL VICTORIA SHERRY (the Standard of Excellence), 27s. per dozen, Bottles and Cases included.
EUROPEAN AND COLONIAL WINE COMPANY,
122, Pall-mall, London, S.W.
WM. REID TIPPING, Manager.

COGNAC.—SCHIEDAM.—BORDEAUX.—French Brandy, pale or brown, Martell's and other first shippers, 24s. per gallon; ditto, in cases (bottled in France), 54s. per dozen; very old and rare, 32s. per gallon, 63s. per dozen case. We refrain from giving lower quotations, knowing that no genuine old Foreign Brandy can be obtained for less than the above. Hollands, the finest imported from Rotterdam, 14s. per gallon, or in original cases and bottles, 32s. per dozen. St. Julien Claret, 24s. per dozen. "Cadiz," a pure pale Sherry, 34s. per dozen. Our revised Prices Current forwarded on application. Terms Cash.—HENRY BRETT and CO., Importers, Holborn Bars, E.C.

EXPORT PALE ALE.—BASS, RATCLIFF, and GRETTON'S for PALE ALE, brewed expressly for exportation now in the finest condition to bottle shipment.—ROBERT MILLER, Agent, 6, Cross-street, Finsbury-square, E.C.

COALS.—BEST COALS ONLY.—COCKERELL and CO.'S price is now 26s. per ton, cash, for the best screened coals, as supplied by them to her Majesty. 13, Cornhill; Purfleet Wharf, Earl-street, Blackfriars, E.C.; Eaton Wharf, Pimlico S.W. and Sunderland Wharf, Peckham, S.E.

BENZINE COLLAS CLEANS GLOVES, &c. It is in constant use at the Palace for removing grease and dirt from the Hangings. Of all Chemists and Perfumers. Dépôt, 114, Great Russell-street, Bloomsbury.

NEW MUSIC, &c.

BALFE'S NEW BALLAD, "I Wandered by the Brook Side." 2s., post-free.
London: BREWER and Co., 23, Bishopsgate-street Within.

STEPHEN GLOVER'S NEW BALLAD, "Violets." Words by Miss Kate Wilkinson. 2s. 6d., post-free.
London: BREWER and Co., 23, Bishopsgate-street Within.

WALLACE'S NEW BALLAD, "The Prairie Flower." Words by Fitzball. 2s., post-free.
London: BREWER and Co., 23, Bishopsgate-street Within.

DON PASQUALE. Arranged by G. F. HARRIS. 2s., post-free. "A most brilliant and effective fantasia on airs in this favourite opera."
London: BREWER and Co., 23, Bishopsgate-street Within.

J. L. HATTON'S NEW BALLAD, "As I'd Nothing Else to do," rapturously encored when sung by Mr. Montem Smith. 2s., post-free.
London: BREWER and Co., 23, Bishopsgate-street Within.

OH! KEEP ME IN YOUR MEMORY. New Ballad. Words by J. E. CARPENTER; music by STEPHEN GLOVER. 2s., post-free.
London: BREWER and Co., 23, Bishopsgate-street Within.

EVANS and CO.'S HALF-PRICE MUSIC WAREHOUSE, 77, Baker-street, Portman-square, W. Country Orders executed by return of post. Payment taken in postage-stamps. Catalogues gratis.

BEAUTIFUL DOVE, THOU ART WELCOME AGAIN. By CHARLES MACKAY, Esq. Music by WEST. Price 2s.; and for two voices, 3s. Acknowledged to be a most exquisite melody.—H. TOLKIEN, 27, King William-street, City.

PRETTY LITTLE CHANGES for PRETTY LITTLE FINGERS. A Collection of Popular Airs for the Pianoforte. In 12 Parts, 2s. each, containing four or five beautiful Melodies in each Part. Also, as Duets, in 12 Parts, each Part containing four Choice Melodies.—H. TOLKIEN, 27, King William-street, City.

NOT A MINUTE TO SPARE.—A Sacred Song. By TOPLIFF. One of this popular Composer's best productions; this is a song that every lover of harmony and good poetry will admire. Price 2s.—H. TOLKIEN, 27, King William-st., City.

TOLKIEN'S INDIAN PIANOFORTE.—This Piano, with its resisting power, concave bracings, and perpendicular bolts, is found, after severe trials in the EAST and WEST INDIES, to be the only Pianoforte ever manufactured capable of resisting the heats and damps of these climates. Height 4 feet. In elegant designs, including cases, 40 guineas. Illustrated Catalogues gratis.—27, King William-street, London-bridge, E.C.

TOLKIEN'S PIANOS.—Public Attention is called to a large assortment of the best Pianofortes in England, Rosewood and Walnut-tree Cottages and Piccolos, 6¾ octaves, with all the latest improvements, some a little used, from 19 to 30 guineas. May be purchased on easy terms, at 27, King William-street, London-bridge. Pianofortes for hire. Illustrated Catalogues gratis.

TOLKIEN'S 25-GUINEA PIANOFORTE, with easy terms of purchase, elegant designs, and various woods, 6¾ octaves, is superior to any English or Foreign Piano at the price. Twenty-five years' test has proved the truth of this. Illustrated Catalogues gratis.—27, King William-street, London-bridge, E.C.

MUSICAL-BOX DEPOT, 32, Ludgate-street, NICOLE'S celebrated Large Musical-boxes, at £1 per Air. Operatic, National, or Sacred. Snuff-boxes, 14s. 6d. to 40s. each. Catalogues of Tunes and Prices gratis and post-free on application to WALES and M'CULLOCH, as above.

WILLIAM S. BURTON'S GENERAL FURNISHING IRONMONGERY CATALOGUE may be had gratis and free by post. It contains upwards of 400 Illustrations of his illimited Stock of Electro and Sheffield Plate, Nickel Silver, and Britannia Metal Goods, Dish covers and Hot-water Dishes, Stoves, Fenders, Marble Chimneypieces, Kitchen Ranges, Lamps, Gaseliers, Tea Urns and Kettles, Tea-trays, Clocks, Table Cutlery, Baths, and Toilet Ware, Turnery, Iron and Brass Bedsteads, Bedding, Bedroom Furniture, &c., with Lists of Prices and Plans of the Sixteen Large Show-rooms, at 39, Oxford, W.; 1, 1A, 2, and 3, Newman street; and 4, 5, and 6, Perry's-place, London. Established 1820.

FAMILIES FURNISHING will find SLACK'S IRONMONGERY WAREHOUSE the most economical consistent with quality. Iron fenders, 3s. 6d.; bronzed fenders, 10s. to 45s.; fireirons, 3s. to 25s.; patent dish-covers, 18s., set of six. Catalogues, with 350 drawings and prices, gratis or post-free. Orders above £2 carriage-free.—Richard and John Slack, 336, Strand.

SPOONS and FORKS.—SLACK'S SILVER ELECTRO-PLATE is a coating of sterling silver over nickel; the fact of 20 years' test is ample proof of its durability. Table spoons or forks, 30s. and 38s. per dozen; dessert, 20s. and 30s.; tea, 12s. and 18s.—Books of Engravings gratis. Orders above £2 carriage-free.—Richard and John Slack, 336, Strand. Established 50 years.

DO YOU DOUBLE UP YOUR PERAMBULATORS? See T. TROTMAN'S New Patent Perambulator adapted for the SAFETY, HEALTH, and COMFORT of Infants and Invalids. All kinds on view. High-street (Gate), Camden-town, N.W.

PAPERHANGINGS.—The Largest and Best Stock in London of French and English Designs, commencing at 12 yards for 6d., is at CROSS'S, 70, Great Portland-street. Oxford-street. House Painting and Decorating in every style. Estimates.

SPECTACLES.—Important Improvement in the construction of LENSES for SPECTACLES.—The improved method of grinding and polishing these glasses renders them so brilliantly transparent that aged or young persons, suffering from most defective vision, are by their aid enabled to see clearly and distinctly for any length of time without the eyes becoming fatigued. They do not require the frequent changing to stronger magnifying powers, which is so injurious to the sight. The most eminent members of the medical faculty approve and recommend them. Illustrated catalogues, containing prices of spectacles, opera or field glasses, telescopes, &c., post free on receipt of two stamps.—KEYZOR and BENDON, Opticians (successors to Harris and Son), 50 High Holborn.

YOUTH, BEAUTY, and ARTICULATION.
Mr. EDWARD DAVIESON
(for many years Dentist to the Court of Spain)
begs to inform the British public that he has taken up his permanent residence at 443, Strand, adjoining the Electric Telegraph Office, where he is prepared to supply ARTIFICIAL TEETH of a manufacture superior in beauty and durability to any known in this country, at Ten Shillings per Tooth, which price can only be exceeded by expensive mountings.
Among the wonderful discoveries he made during his residence in the South of Europe none exceeds the LIQUID ENAMEL, which not only imparts a pearly whiteness to natural and artificial Teeth, but renders them impossible to discolour or decay. Sold, with full directions for use, in cases at 10s. 6d. and 21s.
Mr. Edward Davieson has to announce that he is now perfecting a discovery the FLEUR DE L'AGE or Bloom of Youth—that will add Youth and Beauty to any complexion. It will be ready on and after the 31st March, 1862, and sold in cases at 11s., 22s., and four quantities in one for 33s.
As the first supply will be limited, an early application had better be made. Can be sent by post.

INFANTS' NEW FEEDING-BOTTLES.—From the "Lancet"—"We have seldom seen anything so beautiful as the Feeding-bottles introduced by Mr. ELAM, 196, Oxford-street. They are quite unrivalled." 7s. 6d. each.

PRICHARD'S AROMATIC STEEL PILLS, for General Debility, giving energy to the muscles and nerves, and invigorating the most shattered constitutions. Prepared by Wm. Prichard, 65, Charing-cross, S.W., in boxes 2s. 9d., 4s. 6d., and 11s. Sent free by post.

PRICHARD'S DANDELION, CAMOMILE, RHUBARB, and GINGER PILLS, for Indigestion; mild in action, and certain in effect. Prepared by Wm. Prichard, 65, Charing-cross in bottles, 2s. 9d. and 4s. 6d. Of all medicine vendors.

DR. DE JONGH'S
(Knight of the Order of Leopold of Belgium)
LIGHT-BROWN COD LIVER OIL, prescribed, in consequence of its immeasurable superiority over every other kind, as the safest, speediest, and most effectual remedy for CONSUMPTION, BRONCHITIS, ASTHMA, COUGHS, RHEUMATISM, GOUT, GENERAL DEBILITY, DISEASES OF THE SKIN, RICKETS, INFANTILE WASTING, AND ALL SCROFULOUS AFFECTIONS.

OPINION OF
EDGAR SHEPPARD, Esq., M.D., M.R.C.S.,
Translator of "Gibert on Diseases of the Skin," &c., &c.
"Dr. Sheppard has made extensive use of De Jongh's Light Brown Cod Liver Oil and has great pleasure in testifying to its superiority over every other preparation to be met with in this country. It has the rare excellence of being well borne and assimilated by stomachs which reject the ordinary oils."

Sold ONLY in IMPERIAL Half Pints, 2s. 6d.; Pints, 4s. 9d.; Quarts, 9s.—capsuled and labelled with DR. DE JONGH'S signature, WITHOUT WHICH NONE CAN POSSIBLY BE GENUINE—by respectable Chemists.
SOLE AGENTS,
ANSAR, HARFORD, and CO., 77, STRAND, LONDON, W.C.

MONUMENT TO THE MEMORY OF THE LATE ADMIRAL LORD LYONS. A Meeting of the Subscribers and Friends of the late Admiral will take place at BRIDGEWATER HOUSE on SATURDAY, MARCH 24, at 3 P.M., for the purpose of inspecting a Model of the Monument proposed to be erected in St. Paul's Cathedral, and of hearing a statement of the condition of the fund.
J. EGERTON, Hon. Sec.

QUEEN ANNE'S BOUNTY.—The Half-Year's Dividends and Interest on appropriated Bank Annuities and Money, which will become DUE on the 5th, and PAYABLE on the 11th, of APRIL next, to Incumbents of Livings, are subject to the deduction of 5d. in the pound for income tax, as was the case with those respectively due on the 10th of October, 1858, and the 5th of April, 1859. Therefore the same Form of Receipt as was in my Circular Letter dated the 23rd of September, 1858, proposed to be used by Incumbents, is to be adopted on their application for the Half-Year's Dividends and Interest due in April next.
CHRIS. HODGSON,
Treasurer to the Governors of Queen Anne's Bounty.
Bounty Office, Dean's yard, Westminster, S.W.
March 10, 1860.

BRIGHTON.—EDUCATION.—Two Ladies who receive a limited number of Pupils, have Vacancies for Three Young Ladies. The educational advantages are of the highest order, and domestic comfort is much considered. Terms moderate. Address Z. Z., Mr. Forster, Chemist, King's-road, Brighton.

DANCING.—Mr. BLAND and DAUGHTERS give Lessons DAILY to Adults in the Valse, Galop, Lancers, &c., the Misses Bland officiating as partners. 33, Brewer-street, Regent-street, W.

LONDON and NORTH-WESTERN RAILWAY.—WARWICK RACES.—RETURN TICKETS from London to Warwick and Leamington issued at Euston Station on the 20th, 21st, and 22nd of March will be available for return up to and including the 23rd of March. The Trains between London, Leamington, and Warwick, see Time-bills. By order, Euston Station, London, March, 1860. W. CAWKWELL.

MINES.—Mr. LELEAN continues to BUY and SELL DIVIDEND MINE SHARES for Cash. He has also for sale Shares that are paying upwards of 20 per cent. Reliable information given to capitalists desirous of investing in progressive or speculative Mines (these latter, when judiciously selected, frequently advance 500 per cent. on the outlay in a few months). Railway, Bank, or other Shares bought, sold, or exchanged at a moderate charge.—Mr. LELEAN, Stock and Share Dealer, 4, Cushion-court, Old Broad-street, E.C.; Bankers, Sir J. W. Lubbock and Co., Mansion House-street.

TO INVESTORS.—CONSOLS CAPITAL STOCK is a medium for employing and improving Large or Small Sums of Money in connection with Government Securities. The Stock is issued by the Consols Insurance Association, 429, Strand, London. Incorporated pursuant to Act of Parliament. Investments bear Five per Cent per Annum Interest, receivable monthly, if desired. Full particulars may be obtained on application at the Chief Offices, 429, Strand, London, to
THOMAS H. BAYLIS, Managing Director.

NOTICE TO BANKERS, ENGRAVERS, and OTHERS.—BAILDON'S PATENT BANK DRAFTS, for PREVENTING FORGERY, &c.
The Patentee recently had his attention called to a Scotch Banking House using Drafts and Ink in imitation of "Baildon's Patent;" and, having put a stop to this illegal proceeding, he now gives notice, to Bankers, Engravers, Printers, Stationers, and others, that any person hereafter committing an Infringement of his Patent will be prosecuted.
73, Princes-street, Edinburgh. March, 1860.

MONUMENTS, TOMBS, CHIMNEY-PIECES, &c.—The largest STOCK of MANUFACTURED MARBLE in Europe on view at the British and Foreign Marble Galleries, 17, Newman-street. Manufactories—Carrara, Brussels, and 17, Newman-street, Oxford-street.
EDWARDES, EDWARDS, and Co., Proprietors.

NEW ART-UNION.—Limited to 5000 Subscribers.—For a Subscription of one guinea will be given a Set of SEVEN of the finest large LINE ENGRAVINGS ever issued, the proof impressions of which were published at 70 guineas. They are of world-wide celebrity and undying interest. Each of the seven given for the guinea subscription is of more value than the single print usually given by Art-Unions for the same sum. The plates will be destroyed so soon as the 5000 sets are absorbed, so that each subscriber will thereupon hold a property worth at least 10s. 6d. an impression, or £3 13s. 6d. for the set of seven; and, as no more copies can be produced, it may be relied upon that, before long, the set will be worth £7 7s., or more. Upon application a set of the engravings will be sent for inspection anywhere in London. Specimens may be seen, and prospectuses obtained, at DAY and SON'S, Lithographers to the Queen, 6, Gate-street, Lincoln's-inn-fields, London.

CHRIST BLESSING LITTLE CHILDREN. Proposals for the publication, upon an entirely new plan, of the marvellous line Engraving by J. H. WATT, after the well-known Picture by Sir CHARLES EASTLAKE, P.R.A., of "Christ Blessing Little Children;" an arrangement which will enable every subscriber for a 15-guinea artist's proof, to obtain this first and most intrinsically valuable state of the plate, virtually free of cost.—Particulars on application to DAY and SON, Lithographers to the Queen, 6, Gate-street, Lincoln's Inn Fields, London.

DAY and SON, Lithographers to the Queen, execute in the best style, on the most reasonable terms, and with dispatch, every description of LITHOGRAPHY, Chromo-Lithography, and Steel and Copper plate Printing, artistic or commercial. Estimates prepared with promptness.—Gate-street, Lincoln's-inn-fields.

WHAT WILL THIS COST TO PRINT? is a thought often occurring to literary minds, public characters, and persons of benevolent intentions. An immediate answer to the inquiry may be obtained, with a Specimen Book of Types, and information for Authors, on application to RICHARD BARRETT, 13, Mark-lane, London.

WRITING, BOOK-KEEPING, &c.—Persons of any age, however bad their Writing, may, in EIGHT LESSONS, acquire permanently an elegant and flowing style of penmanship, adapted either to professional pursuits or private correspondence. Arithmetic on a method requiring only one third the time usually requisite. Book-keeping, as practised in the Government, Banking, and Merchants' Offices. Short-hand, &c. For terms, &c., apply to Mr. SMART, at the Institution, 97B, Quadrant, Regent-street, corner of Swallow-street, removed from 5, Piccadilly.

CAUTION to LADIES.—The only genuine KALYDOR is ROWLAND'S, so universally esteemed for its improving and beautifying effects on the Complexion and Skin. All other preparations under the title of "Kalydor," "Kalydor Soap," "Kalydor Lotion," &c., are impositions, and contain not a particle of the ingredients of the genuine article, the preparation of which is confined solely to the knowledge and practice of
A. ROWLAND and SONS, 20, Hatton-garden, London.

KALYDOR SOAP.—This soap needs but a trial to prove its softening and beautifying effects upon the skin. Made by the inventor, J. THOMPSON, Factory, 6, King-street, Holborn, London. 3d., 4d., and 6d each Tablet.

DUTY OFF FRENCH PERFUMERY.—ED. PINAUD'S Choice Perfumes, Fancy Soaps, Pomades, Philocomes, Aromatic and Oriental Vinegar, Cosmetics, Elixir, Dentifrice, &c., to be had of all Chemists and Perfumers throughout the country. Wholesale Dépôt, and for export, 27, Cannon street west, London.

THOMAS D. MARSHALL'S ELASTIC BOOTS.—Ladies' Elastic House Boots, 5s. 6d.; Paris Kid military-heeled Boots, elastic, 14s. 6d.; to lace, 11s. 6d. Gentlemen's first-class Elastic Boots, 22s.
THOMAS D. MARSHALL, 192, OXFORD-STREET.

RIFLE CORPS.—W. TENT begs to inform those Gentlemen who have joined the different corps that he has had made for them expressly the BLACK BUCK REGULATION GLOVE that is being worn by the 7th Surrey and other corps. To be had only of
W. Tent, Shirtmaker, &c., 4, Birchin-lane, Cornhill, E.C.
N.B. The Dress of the 7th Surrey to be seen on application.

LADIES' ORNAMENTAL HAIR.—STACEY and CO. have always ready for wear the new GRECIAN FRIZZETTES, in every colour; also, the Frizzettes on Combs, for giving fulness to the Bandeaux. A large assortment of real Hair Plaits, from 2s 6d. upwards; transparent fronts, from 5s. 6d.; and every other description of manufactured hair equally moderate. can be forwarded by post to any part on receipt of colour. List of Prices on application to Stacey and Co., Hairdressers and Perfumers, 44 and 45, Cranbourn street, London, W.C.

MRS. ROBERTSHAW, 100, Oxford-street.
Ladies' Ready-made Linen;
Wedding and India Outfits;
Silk, Lisle, and Balbriggan Stockings;
Dressing Gowns;
Trimmed Petticoats, 16s. 6d.

MANTLE CLOTHS. We are now selling the cheapest Mantle Cloths in the trade, viz.:—
Brown Ladies' Cloths, from 1s. 11½d. per yard.
Undressed Meltons „ 1s. 8½d. „ „
Black Ladies' Cloths „ 2s. 8d. „ „
All qualities equally cheap. Patterns free.
CHARLES MEEKING and CO.'S
Woollen Warehouse,
111, Holborn-hill, London, E.C.

FORD'S ZOUAVE JACKETS for Dinner or Evening Dress, of Lyons Velvet or Cachmere, embroidered with gold, worn open from the throat à la Zouave, displaying a White Silk or Muslin Vest underneath. Price 21s. Illustrations free.

FORD'S ZOUAVE JACKETS, beautifully fitting and elegantly embroidered. Superfine Cloth, black or coloured, with military braiding, 21s. Directions for self-measurement post-free.—T. Ford's Mantle Rooms, 42, Oxford-st.

FORD'S ZOUAVE JACKETS, in Lyons Velvet, black as well as every colour, lined throughout, 42s., 63s., and 84s., all sizes, ready. Choice ad infinitum Cachmere Jackets, beautifully braided, 21s.

FORD'S AIXA JACKETS.—The new "Adeline," a very pretty Zouave, half-fitting in front and tight at the back, terminating in a very stylish and coquettish little basque about two inches deep, with a lacework of braid at the hips, similar to that shown on the sleeve.—Price, plain, 15s; beautifully braided and ornamented, 21s. Illustrations free.

FORD'S HALF-GUINEA CLOTH JACKET of superfine Cloth, Tight or Loose, for in or out door Wear. All sizes ready. Some too large even for the stoutest persons. Two Jackets sent carriage-free.—Thos. Ford, 42, Oxford-street, London.

FORD'S ZOUAVE JACKETS, in Muslin and Lace with novel and beautiful Trimmings. Price 21s. Ford's Zouave Marcella Jackets, white or buff, with Vest, complete, One Guinea. Illustrations free.

FORD'S ZOUAVE JACKETS, for morning wear, of mixed fabrics, braided in scroll and pine patterns, made with Vest to match, from 23s. Patterns and Illustrations free.—Thomas Ford, Mantle Rooms, 42, Oxford-street, London, W.

FORD'S ZOUAVE JACKETS.—Ladies who are desirous of obtaining Jackets of choice and elegant styles, and distinguised for superior fit and quality, are invited to inspect an immense assortment of beautiful patterns, made in various materials, and kept ready in all sizes. Illustrations and Directions for Self-measurement, perfectly plain and simple, post-free.

FORD'S SELECT MANTLES.—Ladies are informed that Illustrations of the new and graceful shapes just received from Paris are being executed for country circulation, and will be sent post-free. They are altogether different from those hitherto worn, and announce a total change of fashion.

FORD'S SELECT OPERA MANTLES, of new and tasteful styles, distingué, and quite unique, at 1½, 2, and 3 guineas. Illustrations, &c., free.
Thomas Ford, Mantle Rooms, 42, Oxford-street, London, W.

NOTICE TO LADIES.—KING and CO., Silkmercers, &c., 243, Regent-street, beg to announce that, in consequence of their system of sending patterns post-free having been adopted by several London firms, in future, if ladies should by chance prefer the patterns sent by other houses, King and Co. will supply the same goods 15 per cent less in price.

PATTERNS of SILKS, &c., sent post-free
to any part of Europe,
Asia,
Africa,
America,
and the Colonies.
Address to KING and CO., Regent-street, London.

NEW CAMBRICS and BRILLIANTS at KING'S, 243, Regent street.
Swiss Cambrics .. .. .. 3s. 9d. Full Dress.
French Brilliants .. .. .. 5s. 6d. „
Double-skirt Cambrics .. .. .. 7s. 6d. „
New Corded Cambrics .. .. .. 8s. 6d. „
Flounced Brilliants .. .. .. 10s. 6d. „
Patterns sent post-free.—Address to King and Co., Regent st., London.

BLACK SILKS, DUTY FREE,
at KING'S, 243, Regent-street.
French Glacé Silks,
£1 1s. the Full Dress.
Ducapes,
£1 15s.
Gros Royals,
£1 15s.
Widows' Silks,
£1 17s. 6d.
Flounced Silks,
£2 10s.
Moire Antiques,
£3 3s.
Patterns sent post-free. King and Co., Regent-street, London.

NEW SPRING SILKS at KING'S,
243, Regent-street,
all duty free.
French Foulard Silks,
17s. 6d. the Full Dress of 19 yards.
Shepherd's Plaid Silks,
£1 1s. 0d.
New Striped and Checked Glacé Silks,
£1 5s. 0d.
New Crossover Silks,
£1 10s. 6d.
New Satin Cannellé Silks,
£1 12s. 6d.
Shaded Glacé Silks,
£1 15s. 6d.
Plain French Silks,
£1 15s. 6d.
New Striped Poult de Soies,
£1 17s. 6d.
Brocaded Poult de Soies,
£1 19s. 6d.
Flounced Silks,
£2 2s.
Double Skirt Silks,
£2 18s. 6d.
Moire Antiques,
£3 3s.
Patterns sent post-free.—Address to King and Co., Regent-st., London.

SILKS DUTY FREE!!!
New Spring Patterns.
Shepherd's Check Silks,
£1 1s., Full Dress.
Piccolomini Bars,
£1 4s. 6d.
The New Rifle Stripes,
£1 5s. 6d.
Striped, Checked, and Crossover Poult de Soies,
£1 7s. 6d.
Jaspar Bar and Bayadère Glacés,
£1 9s 6d.
Rich Reps, Taffetas,
£1 11s. 6d.
Real Silk Droguets,
£1 15s. 6d.
Novelties in French Silks,
£1 17s. 6d.
Rich Brocaded Silks,
£1 19s. 6d.
Black and Coloured Flounced Silks,
£2 2s.
Extra Rich Bayadère Flounced Silks,
2½ Guineas.
Rich Moire Antiques,
£3 3s.
Household and Family Linens! Mohairs! the New Reps! Droguets!! and other Spring Piece Fabrics for Dresses! Ribbons! Lace! Gloves!! Hosiery! &c., equally cheap! Patterns post-free, with Engravings of the New Jackets and Mantles.
AMOTT BROTHERS, 61 and 62, St. Paul's-churchyard.

COMMERCIAL TREATY WITH FRANCE.
REDUCTION IN PRICE OF NEW SPRING SILKS.
JAMES SPENCE and CO., 77 and 78, St. Paul's Churchyard, beg to state that, in consequence of the Abolition of Duty on French Silks, and the competition already begun to be exhibited in the Home Markets, they have succeeded in securing several large lots of NEW SPRING SILKS, at 6d., 9d., any 1s. per yard under the regular prices.

No. 1. Fancy Checks, 21s. the Dress	ALL WIDE WIDTH.
No. 2. New Crossover Cannellé Stripes, 28s. 11d. the Dress.
No. 3. Choice Patterns, various, 29s. 6d. the Dress.	PATTERNS SENT POST-FREE.
No. 4. Black Ducapes, from 2s. 6d. to 4s. 6d. per yard.
No. 5. Black Glacés, from 2s. 9d. to 6s. 6d. per yard.	ALL WIDE WIDTH.

Also, rich Moiré Antiques, from 55s. to Six Guineas; Flounced Robes, Poult de Soies, Baratheas, Ottomans, Watered Silks, &c.
Patterns sent post-free.
Address—JAMES SPENCE and CO., 77 and 78, ST. PAUL'S CHURCHYARD, E.C.
Shut on Saturdays at Five o'clock p.m.

COMMERCIAL TREATY with FRANCE!!
(SPRING SILKS DUTY FREE!!)
Just received from the Custom House, Two Cases of the above Goods, which are now on Sale, at the following Reduced Prices:—
12,000 yards new Fancy Silks (various), wide width, 2s. 2½d. per yd.
Rich Striped and Checked do., 23s. 9d. to 29s. 6d. the Dress.
Elegant Cannellé and Crossbar do., 31s. 6d. to 52s. 6d. the Dress.
Flounced Silks in great variety, 39s. 6d. to 4½ guineas.
Patterns for inspection postage-free.
Observe the Address, BEECH and BERRALL.
The BEEHIVE, 63 and 64, Edgware-road, London, W.
N.B. All Silks left over from 1859 have undergone a great alteration in price, to effect an immediate clearance.

NEW MUSIC, &c.

D'ALBERT'S KATHLEEN MAVOURNEEN WALTZ. "One of the loveliest waltzes ever written, founded on the favourite song of 'Kathleen Mavourneen.'" Beautifully Illustrated 4s.—CHAPPELL and Co., 50, New Bond-street.

D'ALBERT'S NEW VALSE, PEREA NENA. Just out. Beautifully illustrated in Colours. Price 4s. CHAPPELL and Co., 50, New Bond-street.

D'ALBERT'S NEW QUADRILLE, MADRID. Just out. Beautifully illustrated in Colours. Price 4s. CHAPPELL and Co., 50, New Bond-street.

D'ALBERT'S NEW VALSE, SULTANA. Just out. Beautifully illustrated in Colours. Price 4s. CHAPPELL and Co., 50, New Bond-street.

D'ALBERT'S NEW POLKA, THE BIG SHIP, OR GREAT EASTERN POLKA. Splendidly illustrated in Colours. Price 3s. CHAPPELL and Co., 50, New Bond-street.

D'ALBERT'S RIFLE CORPS POLKA. Just published, splendidly Illustrated with Sketches from some of the celebrated Rifle Corps. Price 3s. CHAPPELL and Co., 50, New Bond-street.

D'ALBERT'S RIFLE CORPS WALTZES. By this celebrated Composer. Price 4s. Just out. CHAPPELL and Co., 50, New Bond-street.

ROYAL VOLUNTEER BALL at the FLORAL HALL.—COOTE and TINNEY'S BAND performed with the greatest success—
D'Albert's Rifle Corps Polka three times.
D'Albert's Italian Campaign Quadrilles.
D'Albert's Nelly Gray Valse.
D'Albert's Soldier's Polka.
D'Albert's Macbeth Quadrilles.
D'Albert's Erin go Bragh Quadrilles.
D'Albert's St. James's Galop.
P lished by CHAPPELL and Co., 50, New Bond-street.

FLORAL HALL, COVENT GARDEN.—The BAND of the COLDSTREAM GUARDS performed during the week with the greatest success—
D'Albert's Nelly Gray Valse.
D'Albert's Campbell Minstrel Quadrilles.
D'Albert's Rifle Corps Polka.
D'Albert's Charlestown Quadrilles.
D'Albert's West-end Polka.
D'Albert's Reigning Beauty Valses.
CHAPPELL and Co., 50, New Bond-street.

NEW SONGS, &c., by VINCENT WALLACE (Composer of "Lurline"), just published:—
SWEET EVENING STAR. Price 2s. 6d.
THE BELL-RINGER. Price 2s. 6d. Sung by Miss Palmer at the Monday Popular Concerts with the greatest success, and redemanded.
PRETTY THINGS YOUNG LOVERS SAY. Price 2s.
VOICES, LINGERING VOICES. Duet. Price 2s. 6d.
CHAPPELL and Co., 50, New Bond-street.

BRILLIANT PIANOFORTE DUETS.

Wilhelm Ganz's	Grand Duo	Oberon	5s.
"	"	Gazza Ladra	5s.
A. Cunio's	"	Ballo in Maschiera	4s.
"	"	Rigoletto	5s.
"	"	Macbeth (Verdi)	5s.

CHAPPELL and Co., 50, New Bond-street.

BRINLEY RICHARDS' NELLY GRAY, the popular one, as sung by Campbell's Minstrels, arranged for the Pianoforte. Price 3s. Order the Campbell's "Nelly Gray." CHAPPELL and Co., 50, New Bond-street.

BRINLEY RICHARDS' LUCIA DI LAMMERMOOR, a brilliant Fantasia for the Pianoforte, performed by the Author during his provincial tour with the greatest success. Price 4s., post free. CHAPPELL and Co., 50, New Bond-street.

KUHE'S EVENING WITH THE CAMPBELL MINSTRELS. Fantasia for the Pianoforte, introducing the most popular Airs sung by them. Price 4s. CHAPPELL and Co., 50, New Bond-street.

CHAPPELL'S 100 COUNTRY DANCES, HORNPIPES, REELS, and STRATHSPEYS for the VIOLIN, containing all the old English favourites. Undoubtedly the best collection ever published in one book. Price Eighteenpence, post-free. CHAPPELL and Co., 50, New Bond-street.

CHAPPELL'S EIGHTEEN AIRS, with VARIATIONS, arranged as easy SOLOS for the VIOLIN, price 1s. 6d. CHAPPELL and Co., 50, New Bond-street.

BRINLEY RICHARDS' MARAQUITA. Portuguese Love Song. Composed by the Hon. Mrs. NORTON. Transcribed for the Pianoforte. Price 2s. 6d. CHAPPELL and Co., 50, New Bond-street.

SISTER ELVES.—Vocal Duet for two Ladies' Voices. By STEPHEN GLOVER. "One of the prettiest duets by this popular Composer, and sure to become a great favourite." Price 3s. CHAPPELL and Co., 50, New Bond-street.

CHAPPELL'S FOREIGN MODEL PIANOFORTE, price Fifty Guineas. This instrument has (unlike the ordinary Cottage Pianoforte) Three Strings and the fullest Grand Compass of Seven Octaves. It is strengthened by every possible means to endure the greatest amount of wear, and to stand perfectly in any climate. The workmanship is of the best description; the tone is round, full, and rich; and the power equal to that of a Bichord Grand. The case is of the most elegant description, in rosewood; the touch elastic, and the repetition very rapid. Every possible precaution has been taken to ensure its standing well in tune. Chappell and Co. especially invite the attention of the public, the profession, and merchants, to the Foreign Model, feeling assured that no Pianoforte, in all respects comparable, has hitherto been made in England at the same price. Every instrument will be warranted, and if desired) exchanged within twelve months of the purchase.—50, New Bond-street, London.

HARMONIUMS at CHAPPELL'S.—The HARMONIUM by ALEXANDRE is the only instrument of the kind that remains in tune; from the simplicity of its construction is but slightly affected by changes of weather, and is alike calculated for the Church, Chapel, School, or Drawing-room.
No. 1. In oak case. one stop, 5 octaves, 10 guineas.
2. In mahogany case, one stop, 12 guineas.
3. In oak case, 3 stops, 15 guineas; rosewood, 16 guineas.
4. With five stops—oak, 22 guineas; rosewood, 23 guineas.
5. Eight stops—oak, 25 guineas; rosewood, 26 guineas.
6. Twelve stops, oak or rosewood, 35 guineas.
7. One stop, and percussion action, in oak, 16 guineas
8. Three stops, and percussion action, in rosewood, 20 guineas.
9. Eight stops, percussion action, oak or rosewood, 32 guineas.
10. Twelve stops, percussion action, in oak, 40 guineas.
11. Twelve stops, percussion action, large size, in rosewood, 45 guineas.
12. The new patent model—15 stops, percussion action, expression à la main, &c.; the most perfect Harmonium that can be made, in handsome oak or rosewood case, 55 guineas.
Full descriptive lists on application.
CHAPPELL, 50, New Bond-street.

THE ALEXANDRE HARMONIUM at Six Guineas, perfect for Class Singing, Private Use, or for the School-room.—CHAPPELL and Co., 50, New Bond-street.

THE PATENT DRAWING-ROOM MODEL HARMONIUM, the best that can be made, price 60 guineas. Illustrated Catalogues of Pianofortes and Harmoniums upon application to CHAPPELL and Co., New Bond-street; or 13, George-street, Hanover-square.

LANGTON WILLIAMS' most admired SONGS:—
I'VE ALWAYS A WELCOME FOR THEE. 12th Edition. "One of the sweetest ballads of the day." Price 2s.
ADELE, I MISS THY KIND AND GENTLE VOICE. 4th Edition. Sung by Miss Lascelles. Price 2s.
EFFIE SUNSHINE. 6th Edition. Sung by Miss Poole. Price 2s. 6d.
YOU'LL SOON FORGET KATHLEEN. Irish Ballad. New Edition. Price 2s.
CLARINE, 'TIS A FORM THAT REMINDS ME OF THEE. 3rd Edition. Sung by Miss Lascelles. Price 2s.
All post-free for stamps.
W. WILLIAMS and Co., 221, Tottenham-court-road.
All New Music Half-price.

ROYAL VOLUNTEER BALL.—COOTE and TINNEY'S BAND performed the following NEW MUSIC:— Valses: Undine and Flowers of the Sea. Quadrilles: Kenilworth and Lurline (Coote). Galops: Muleteer and Avalanche. Polka: Great Eastern (Coote). Published by COOTE, 64, Conduit street.

MUSIC HALF PRICE and Postage-free.—The High Price of Music.—All full-price Music forwarded to any part of the kingdom on receipt of Postage-stamps to the amount of half the published price. Catalogues gratis and postage-free. OETZMANN and Co., 32, Wigmore-street, Cavendish-square, W.

NEW MUSIC, &c.

24 CHRISTY'S MINSTRELS' SONGS for 2s. 6d.—A New Edition of BOOSEYS' CHRISTY'S MINSTRELS' ALBUM is published this day, double the former size, containing in one book, music size, price 2s. 6d. (post-free), Christy's Minstrels' twenty-four best Songs, with Choruses and Pianoforte Accompaniments, and all the words under the music. This is the best edition published of these songs, and the cheapest collection of vocal music ever offered to the public. BOOSEY and SONS, Holles-street.

BRINLEY RICHARDS' RIFLEMEN FORM MARCH, performed by the Band of the Royal Horse Guards. Arranged for Pianoforte by Brinley Richards. Price 2s. 6d. BOOSEY and SONS, Holles-street.

KUHE'S DOMINO NOIR, new brilliant Fantasia for Pianoforte. Price 3s.—Published this day by BOOSEY and SONS, Holles-street.

KUHE'S ZAMPA, brilliant Fantasia for the Pianoforte. Price 3s.—BOOSEY and SONS, Holles-street.

SCHLOESSER'S NEW GRAND DUETS on "Martha," "Traviata," and "Dinorah," for Pianoforte. Price 5s. each. Published this day by BOOSEY and SONS, Holles street.

AN EVENING WITH BALFE. By RUDOLF NORDMANN. Mélange for the Pianoforte. Price, Solo, 4s.; Duet, 5s.
Also, by NORDMANN, AN EVENING WITH THE CHRISTY MINSTRELS. Solo, 4s.; Duet, 5s.—BOOSEY and SONS, Holles-street.

LAURENT'S NEW ALBUM, reduced price, 5s. (post-free), containing twelve new and popular sets of Dance Music, forming a complete programme for a ball, in an elegant volume, gilt edges, with illustrated Titlepage. Notice.—Early application is necessary to secure the few copies remaining of this favourite annual. BOOSEY and SONS, Holles-street.

LAURENT'S DONNA JULIA VALSE. Illustrated in Colours. Price 4s. The best original composition of this favourite author. BOOSEY and SONS, Holles-street.

LAURENT'S BELOVED STAR WALTZ, founded on Reichardt's celebrated song, "Thou art so near" (Companion to the Maud Valse). Illustrated in Colours. Price 4s. BOOSEY and SONS, Holles-street.

JUVENILE DANCE MUSIC, price 1s. each Set. Satanella Quadrille (complete), 1s.; Maud Valse, 1s.; Pantomime Galop, 1s.; Konigsberg Polka, 1s. BOOSEY and SONS, Holles-street.

IT WAS FIFTY YEARS AGO. New Song, by LONGFELLOW; composed by HATTON. Price 2s. "Longfellow has often inspired our musicians, but never with a happier result than in this instance."—Musical World. BOOSEY and SONS, Holles-street.

BIRD OF SONG. By J. L. HATTON. An exquisite melody, equal to the most popular compositions of this favourite Author. Price 2s. BOOSEY and SONS, Holles-street.

GOLLMICK—DRIPPING WELL, Morceaux Fantastique for the Pianoforte. Third Edition. Price 3s. One of the most popular original pieces of the day. BOOSEY and SONS, Holles-street.

ASCHER.—THOU ART SO NEAR, AND YET SO FAR. REICHARDT'S celebrated Song, arranged for the Pianoforte by ASCHER. Price 3s. BOOSEY and SONS, Holles-street.

DUETS.—BRINLEY RICHARDS' SHADOW AIR, from "Dinorah," as a Pianoforte Duet, price 3s. Brinley Richards' Power of Love, as a Pianofore Duet, price 3s. Published this day by BOOSEY and SONS, Holles-street.

THE JUVENILE PIANOFORTE ALBUM, reduced price, 3s. 6d., handsomely bound, with two coloured Illustrations, containing:—

Shadow Air	from	Dinorah.	Ring de Banjo	from	Christy's.
Santa Maria	"	Dinoran.	Konigsberg Polka
Power of Love	"	Satanella.	Maud Valse	"	Laurent.
Slave Chorus	"	Satanella.	Violet Mazurka	"	Duchesne.
Air	"	Martha.	Satanella Quadrilles		(Complete).
Beautiful Star	"	(Christy's).

All arranged for the youngest performers on the Pianoforte. BOOSEY and SONS, Holles-street.

BOOSEYS' 100 GERMAN WALTZES, by Strauss, Lanner, and Labitzky, for the Violin, price One Shilling. Also, BOOSEYS' 500 AIRS and DANCES for the VIOLIN, in cloth, 6s. BOOSEY and SONS, Holles-street.

THE CROWN DIAMONDS. New and Complete Edition for the Pianoforte. Price 6s. in cloth, forming the 20th Volume of Boosey and Sons' Series of Complete Operas. Also, lately published, in the same Series, SATANELLA, 5s.; DINORAH, 7s. 6d. BOOSEY and SONS, Holles-street.

PART I. of DINORAH for Voice and Pianoforte, with English and Italian Words, price 1s., is now ready. To be completed in eight Monthly Parts, 1s. each, post-free. From BOOSEY and SONS, Holles-street.

GLUCK'S IPHIGENIA IN TAURIS.—Now ready, the three following favourite Songs with English Words. Price 2s. each. The Opera complete, with English and French Words, price 6s.
Ever linked from early childhood.
O Greece! thou that mourns thy hapless daughter.
O! thou that wert of life the source.
BOOSEY and SONS, Holles-street.

CHEAP EDITION of DE BERIOT'S AIRS, Nos. 1 to 7, complete, with all the Variations, for the Violin, price 1s. Also, the Pianoforte Accompaniment (ad. lib.) to the same, price 3s. 6d.—BOOSEY and SONS, Holles-street.

ROSSINI'S STABAT MATER.—New and complete Edition. Arranged for the Pianoforte by HENRY SMART. Price 3s.; or, handsomely bound in cloth, 5s. Also, MOZART'S TWELFTH MASS, in the same form. BOOSEY and SONS, Holles-street.

EVANS'S ENGLISH HARMONIUMS.—Full particulars of these unrivalled Instruments to be had of the Manufacturers, BOOSEY and SONS, 24 and 28, Holles-street, London (Manufactories at Wells-street and Davies-street).

ENGEL'S HARMONIUM OPERATIC ALBUM, price 7s. 6d., containing 60 Airs from the newest Operas. Arranged for the Harmonium by Louis Engel. The same in cloth, 10s. 6d.—BOOSEY and SONS, Holles-street.

THE HARMONIUM MUSEUM, price 7s. 6d. in cloth, containing 100 Sacred and Secular Subjects, by the greatest masters. Arranged for the Harmonium, with instructions for performing on the instrument, by HENRY SMART. Post-free, from BOOSEY and SONS, Holles-street.

CASE'S PATENT CONCERTINAS, as used by Signor Regondi and Mr. George Case, are remarkable for their superior tone, and being less liable to get out of tune than any other English Concertinas. Prices from four to twelve guineas each. Manufactured by BOOSEY and SONS, Holles-street, where may be had a Catalogue of the newest Music for Concertina.

NEW POLKA.—THE LADIES' RIFLE CORPS POLKA. Price 3s. By L. BERNARD, Author of the Johnny Sands Quadrilles, The Break of Day Schottische, The Very Last Polka, &c. The popular song of "The Ladies' Rifle Corps" forms the subject of this attractive Polka, which may be pronounced as one of the best that has appeared for a long time. DUFF and HODGSON, 65, Oxford-street.

NEW VOCAL DUET, FAIRY DREAMS. Price 2s. 6d.—Mr. Stephen Glover, the composer of "What are the wild waves saying?" "Two Merry Minstrels," &c., has just published "Fairy Dreams," duet, for soprano and contralto, which will equal in popularity any of his former compositions. DUFF and HODGSON, 65, Oxford-street.

NEW SONG.—OLD FRIENDS AND OTHER DAYS. Composed by W. VINCENT WALLACE. Price 2s. 6d. This is the last production of the distinguished composer of the highly-successful Opera of "Lurline." It is written for Miss Fanny Huddart, and will be found a perfect gem by all contralto voices.—DUFF and HODGSON, 65, Oxford-street.

SOON AND FOR EVER. New Sacred Song. By R. T. HARVEY.—"A beautiful subject treated with pathos and effect."—Review. Published at 2s., sent free for 12 stamps. D'ALCORN, 8, Rathbone-place, W.

CHEAPEST MUSIC REPOSITORY in England.—All the New Music Half-price. Catalogues, one stamp. Country orders sent per return of post.—H. D'ALCORN (removed to), 8, Rathbone-place (eight doors from Oxford-street), W.

NEW MUSIC, &c.

HANDEL'S MESSIAH, Complete. Arranged from Mozart's Score, by JOHN BISHOP. 1s. 4d., 2s., 3s. 6d., 6s. 6d., 15s., and 18s. HAYDN'S CREATION. 2s., 3s., 4s. 6d., and 15s. Published by ROBERT COCKS and Co.

CZERNY'S GREAT PIANOFORTE SCHOOL (under the patronage of her Majesty the Queen). 4 vols., large folio, each 31s. 6d. Supplement, 15s. London: ROBERT COCKS and Co.

CLARE'S PSALMODY. 12 Books, 3s. each; or in 4 vols., 9s. each. WARREN'S PSALMODY, 4 vols., 2s. each; or in 1 vol., half-bound in morocco, 8s. BEALE AND WRIGHTON'S NEW PSALMODY, 6s. London: ROBERT COCKS and Co.

EVERY STUDENT of MUSIC should provide himself with a little PAMPHLET on THE THEORY OF MUSIC, printed for gratuitous circulation. London: ROBERT COCKS and Co.

MY MOTHER'S GENTLE WORD. Ballad. By W. T. WRIGHTON; Poetry by J. E. CARPENTER, Esq. 2s. 6d. London: ROBERT COCKS and Co.

VOCAL DUETS for PARTIES and Trios for Ladies' Voices.—What are the Wild Waves Saying? 2s. 6d.; Consuelo and Haydn (the poetry by J. E. Carpenter, Esq., founded on an incident in George Sands' "Consuelo"), 3s; The Flower Gatherers, 3s.; A Voice from the Waves, 2s. 6d.; The Gipsy Countess, 2s. 6d.; Light in the East is Glowing, 3s.; The Merry Bells, 3s., &c. Trios, viz.—The Mermaids' Evening Song, Down among the Lilies, The Distant Chimes, each 3s; all the above by Stephen Glover.—N.B. Thematique Index of Sixty Duets by Stephen Glover, gratis and postage-free. London: ROBERT COCKS and Co.

CLARKE'S CATECHISM of the RUDIMENTS of MUSIC, 60th Edition, 1s; Clarke's Alphabet of Music, 6d. London: ROBERT COCKS and Co.

TWENTY-FOUR PRELUDES, in all the major and minor keys, for the Piano. By LEDUC. Op. 169, price 5s. London: ROBERT COCKS and Co.

THE DREAM OF THE WANDERER. By BRINLEY RICHARDS. Romance for Piano, 2s. 6d. London: ROBERT COCKS and Co.

THE ADORATION. Favourite Sacred Melodies. Arranged by W. H. CALLCOTT, with ad lib. accts. for Flute, Violin, or Violoncello, 2 series. each price 5s. London: ROBERT COCKS and Co.

DAV. ALBERT'S WOOD VIOLETS. Valse, price 4s.; Duetts, 4s.; Full Band, 5s. The public and music trade are respectfully requested to forward their orders direct to the Publishers.—VENN and Co., 65, Baker-street, W.

THE RIFLE POLKA MILITAIRE, price 3s. By THEODORE OUESTMAN. Duetts, 3s.; Full Band, 5s. As played at the celebrated Rifle Corps Ball, and received with the greatest enthusiasm.—VENN and Co., 65, Baker-street.

GASTON DE LILLE'S SNOWDRIFT GALOP. "The dance music of this composer is becoming very popular." Illustrated in Colours. Price 3s. post-free. METZLER and Co., 37, 38, and 35, Great Marlborough-street, W.

FOUR-IN-HAND GALOP. T. BROWNE. The latest and best by this popular dance writer. Illustrated in Colours. Price 3s. post-free. METZLER and Co., 37, 38, and 35, Great Marlborough-street, W.

GERALDINE. New Song. Introduced by Mrs. Howard Paul in her impersonation of Sims Reeves. By WALLERSTEIN. Illustrated in Colours. Price 2s. 6d. post-free. METZLER and Co., 37, 38, and 35, Great Marlborough-street, W.

THE LADIES' OPPORTUNITY. The New Song for Leap Year. By CARLO MINASI. "One of the best drawing-room comic songs published." Illustrated in Colours. Price 2s. 6d., post-free. METZLER and Co., 37, 38, and 35, Great Marlborough-street, W.

THE BROOK. Song, by DOLORES. Seventh Edition, post-free, 2s. 6d. Complete Lists of the Songs by this distinguished Composer may be had gratis. London: CHARLES JEFFERYS, No. 21, Soho-square.

LURLINE.—The Quadrilles, and "The Troubadour's Waltz," from W. V. Wallace's New Grand Opera, "Lurline," performed at Buckingham Palace and the Volunteer Rifles Ball, for the Pianoforte. By C. COOTE. CRAMER, BEALE, and Co., 201, Regent-street.

LURLINE.—WALLACE'S NEW GRAND OPERA, for the Pianoforte, as Solos and Duets. By W. H. CALLCOTT. Also, Fantasias and Rondos from "Lurline," by Wallace, Favarger, and other eminent composers. Valses and Quadrilles from "Lurline." CRAMER, BEALE, and Co., 201, Regent-street.

LURLINE.—The following are the favourite Pieces in WALLACE'S new and successful Opera, LURLINE:—"Under a Spreading Coral," "Take this Cup of Sparkling Wine," "Flow on, oh, Silver Rhine," "When the Night Winds;" "Sweet Spirit, hear my Prayer," sung by Miss Pyne; "Gentle Troubadour," sung by Miss Pilling; "Our Bark in Moonlight Beaming," "Sweet form, that on my dreamy gaze;" "The Chimes of Home," sung by Mr. Harrison; "A Father's Love;" "Love, Transient Passion," sung by Mr. Santley. CRAMER, BEALE, and Co., 201, Regent-street.

THE RIFLEMAN'S MARCH, performed by the Military Bands. Composed by A. MANNS, Conductor of the Band at the Crystal Palace. For Pianoforte Solo and Duet, 2s. 6d. CRAMER, BEALE, and Co., 201, Regent-street.

PIANOFORTES.—CRAMER, BEALE, and CO.—NEW MODEL OBLIQUE GRAND PIANO, and every description, warranted. Lists of Prices and Terms for Hire, post-free. 201, Regent-street.

HARMONIUMS.—CRAMER, BEALE, and CO.—Description and List of Prices, post-free. Also, SECONDHAND HARMONIUMS in great variety. 201, Regent-street.

FOR FAMILY ARMS send Name and County to the HERALDIC OFFICE, 44, High Holborn, W.C. Sketch and Description, 2s. 6d.; in Colour, 5s.; on Vellum, 21s. Official Seals, Dies, and Diploma Plates in Mediæval and Modern Styles.

STAINED GLASS.—Your Arms, Crest, and Motto, size 18 in. by 11 in., 30s. Designs and Estimates for Memorial Windows, Monumental Brasses, Monograms, &c. Illustrated Price-lists post-free.—MORING, Heraldic Artist, High Holborn.

SOLID GOLD, 18-carat, Hall-marked, Sardonyx or Bloodstone RING, Engraved Crest, Two Guineas. Larger size Engraved Arms, Crest, and Motto, 75s. Desk-seals, Pencil-cases, &c.—MORING, 44, High Holborn, W.C.

A SMALL POWERFUL DAY and NIGHT WAISTCOAT-POCKET PERSPECTIVE GLASS, the size of a walnut, to discern minute objects at the distance of from five to six miles. Price 30s. MAGIC LANTERNS, with Dissolving Views and the Oxycalcium brilliant Light, with newly-invented German lenses and reflector. Compound Microscopes, in endless variety. Every description of Optical, Mathematical, and Philosophical Instruments. S. and B. SOLOMONS, Opticians, 39, Albemarle-street, Piccadilly.

TELESCOPES, Opera, Race-course, Field, and general Out-door Day and Night Perspective GLASSES, very small, for the waistcoat-pocket, each containing twelve and eighteen lenses constructed of German glass. Will show distinctly a person to know them at two-and-a-half and three miles, and an object from eight to ten miles distant. They are preferred for deerstalking by sportsmen, gentlemen, and gamekeepers. Telescopes, 3½ inches long, by which a person may be clearly seen and known at 3¼ miles, and an object at 12 to 14 miles distance; and, with an extra astronomical eye-piece, Jupiter's moons, Saturn's rings, and the double stars are distinctly seen. All the above can be had of larger and all sizes, with increasing powers, and are secured by her Majesty's Royal letters patent, Messrs. SOLOMONS, Opticians, 39, Albemarle-street, Piccadilly, W.

SPECTACLES.—Optical Improvements, to enable persons at an advanced age to read with ease, and to distinguish objects with perfect distinctness.—Messrs. SOLOMONS have invented SPECTACLE LENSES of the greatest transparent power. The valuable advantage derived from this invention is that vision becoming impaired is preserved and strengthened; very aged persons are enabled to employ their sight at the most minute occupation; can see with these lenses of a much less magnifying power, and they do not require the frequent changes, to the dangerous effects of further powerful assistance.—39, Albemarle-street, Piccadilly.

DEAFNESS.—A newly-invented Instrument for extreme cases of Deafness, called the Sound Magnifier, Organic Vibrator, and Invisible Voice Conductor. It fits into the ear so as not to be in the least perceptible: the unpleasant sensation of singing noises in the head is entirely removed. It affords instant relief to deaf persons, and enables them to hear distinctly at church and at public assemblies. Every other kind of hearing instrument, Messrs. SOLOMONS Opticians, 39, Albemarle-street, Piccadilly W.

PLATE.—A. B. SAVORY and SONS, Manufacturing Silversmiths, 11 and 12, Cornhill, London, opposite the Bank. The best wrought SILVER SPOONS and FORKS, fiddle pattern, 7s. 4d. per ounce; Queen's pattern, 7s. 6d. per ounce. Many other patterns recently finished, plain or highly ornamented.

Fiddle Pattern.	Oz.	£	s.	d.	Queen's Pattern.	Oz.	£	s.	d.
12 Table Spoons	30	11	0	0	12 Table Spoons	40	15	0	0
12 Dessert ditto	20	7	6	8	12 Dessert ditto	25	9	7	6
12 Table Forks	30	11	0	0	12 Table Forks	40	15	0	0
12 Dessert ditto	20	7	6	8	12 Dessert ditto	25	9	7	6
2 Gravy Spoons	10	3	13	4	2 Gravy Spoons	12	4	0	0
1 Soup Ladle	10	3	13	4	1 Soup Ladle	11	4	2	6
4 Sauce ditto	10	3	18	4	4 Sauce ditto	12	4	16	0
4 Salt Spoons (gilt)		1	0	0	4 Salt Spoons (gilt)		2	2	0
1 Fish Slice (pierced)		2	10	0	1 Fish Slice (pierced)		3	5	0
12 Tea Spoons	10	3	18	4	12 Tea Spoons	14	5	12	0
1 Pair Sugar Tongs		0	15	0	1 Pair Sugar Tongs		1	5	0

A pamphlet, with 260 Pictorial Illustrations, is published as a guide to the stock of silver, electro-silver, and Sheffield plate in the show-rooms. It contains the weights and prices of silver spoons and forks, silver tea and coffee services, and every article required in a family. Gratis and post free to any part of the British dominions.

J. MAPLE and CO.'S FIRST-CLASS FURNITURE.—Mahogany wing wardrobes, 9 guineas; ditto with plate-glass doors, 11 guineas; ditto, in painted wood, with plate glass doors, 5½ guineas. Bedsteads of every description in wood, iron, and brass, fitted with drapery and bedding complete. Several suites of drawing-room furniture, from 12 to 20 guineas. The Eugénie easy-chair, 25s.; couch to correspond, 3 guineas; many chiffoniers with plate-glass and marble, from £5 to £25. Marqueterie cabinets, from 2 guineas; very large ditto, in buhl, from £12 to £25; bookcases from 4½ guineas; dining-tables, both in mahogany and oak, from 3 to 30 guineas.
J. MAPLE and CO., entrance 145, Tottenham-court-road, the most convenient furnishing establishment in the world. Families furnishing should visit these warehouses before giving their orders: it will save them much time, trouble, and expense. Established 20 years.

J. MAPLE and CO. for CARPETS. Magnificent Brussels, 2s. 9d. to 3s. the yard. 145, 146, 147, Tottenham-court-road

P. and S. BEYFUS' £28 DINING-ROOM SUITE consists of Six mahogany chairs in morocco and hair.
One easy do., spring stuffed do.
Cabriole couch do. do.
Set telescope dining tables to dine 12 persons.
Superior sideboard, fitted with trays and cellaret-drawer.
City Furniture Warehouses, 91, 93, 95, City-road.

P. and S. BEYFUS' £35 DRAWING-ROOM SUITE consists of
Rosewood or Walnut Loo-table on pillar and claw;
Chiffonier, with marble top, plate-glass back and doors
Cabriole couch, covered in silk velvet or damask
Easy-chair en suite;
Six handsome chairs, ditto
Chimney-glass in gilt frame
Two papier-mâché chairs;
Handsome whatnot;
Elegant work-table, fitted
Occasional table.
City Furniture Warehouses, 91, 93, 95, City-road.

P. and S. BEYFUS' £26 BEDROOM SUITE consists of Superior mahogany bedstead, with rich damask furniture,
Palliasse and wool mattress;
Goose-feather bed, bolster, and pillows
Washstand, with marble top
Dressing-table, with ditto
British plate toilet-glass;
Mahogany towel-horse;
Four cane chairs;
Superior winged wardrobe
£4 servants' bedroom complete.
£7 Bachelor's bedroom complete.

P. and S. BEYFUS Pay the Carriage for Goods to any part of the Kingdom.
P. and S. BEYFUS warrant and exchange any article not approved.
P. and S. BEYFUS forward their complete Catalogue, Illustrated by 300 Engravings, gratis and post-free.—P. and S. Beyfus, City Furniture Warehouses, 91, 93, and 95, City-road.

ALFRED GREEN invites attention to his STOCK of HOUSEHOLD FURNITURE, French and English Chintzes, Damasks, Carpets, &c., one of the most extensive in England, and for variety of style and excellence of quality unsurpassed. This establishment is unique in the advantages it affords to all who study economy and good taste.—Upholstery and General Furnishing Warehouse, 25, Baker-street, London, W.

BEDSTEADS and BEDDING.—The best selection of Wood, Brass, and Iron Bedsteads, furnished complete, and fixed ready for inspection, is at ALFRED GREEN'S Upholstery and General Furnishing Warehouse, 25, Baker-street, W. N.B. A servant's bedroom furnished throughout for five guineas. Lists free by post. Every article warranted.

BEDROOM FURNITURE.—The best kind is that manufactured by ALFRED GREEN of French-polished and japanned DEAL. It is lighter than mahogany, equally durable, and one-half the price.—Alfred Green's Upholstery and General Furnishing Warehouse, 25, Baker-street, W.

HEAL and SON'S NEW ILLUSTRATED CATALOGUE contains designs and prices of 150 articles of BEDROOM FURNITURE, as well as of 100 Bedsteads, and prices of every description of Bedding. Sent free by post.—Heal and Son, Bedstead, Bedding, and Bedroom Furniture Manufacturers, 196, Tottenham-court-road, W.

HANDSOME BRASS and IRON BEDSTEADS.—HEAL and SON'S Show Rooms contain a large assortment of Brass Bedsteads, suitable both for Home use and for Tropical Climates; handsome Iron Bedsteads with Brass Mountings and elegantly Japanned; Plain Iron Bedsteads for Servants; every description of Wood Bedsteads that is manufactured, in Mahogany, Birch, Walnut-tree woods, Polished Deal and Japanned, all fitted with Bedding and Furniture complete, as well as every description of Bedroom Furniture.—Heal and Son, Bedstead, Bedding, and Bedroom Furniture Manufacturers, 196, Tottenham-court-road, W.

CHUBB'S WROUGHT-IRON FIREPROOF SAFES—all secured by their Gunpowder Proof Steel-plated Detector Locks, and Patent Drill Preventive. Illustrated Priced-Lists post-free.—CHUBB and SON, 57, St. Paul's Churchyard, E.C.

ABERDEEN TONGUES from the HIGHLAND BULLOCKS.—These Tongues, though less in size, are much superior in quality to any others. Price 4s. House and Grass Lamb, at per quarter. Clun Forest Mutton, four years old, small, of high character, saddles 9d. per lb., legs 10d. LIDSTONE and CO., Butchers, 110, New Bond-street, W.

SAUSAGES—GENUINE HOME MADE.—Pork, 11d.; Beef, 7d, per lb.—DOSSETOR and SON, Butchers, 5, Russell-street, Covent-garden, W.C.

EAU-DE-VIE.—This pure PALE BRANDY, though only 16s. per gallon, is demonstrated, upon analysis, to be peculiarly free from acidity, and very superior to recent importations of veritable Cognac. In French bottles, 34s. per dozen; or securely packed in a case for the country, 35s.—HENRY BRETT and CO., Old Furnival's Distillery, Holborn

BROWN AND POLSON'S
PATENT CORN FLOUR.
The "Lancet" states
"This is superior to anything of the kind known."
The most wholesome part of the best Indian Corn, prepared by a process patented for the three Kingdoms and France, and wherever it becomes known obtains great favour for Puddings, Custards, and Blancmange; all the uses of the finest arrowroot, and especially suited to the delicacy of Children and Invalids.—Brown and Polson, Manufacturers to her Majesty the Queen, Ironmonger-lane, London.

EPPS'S HOMŒOPATHIC COCOA.—Its delicious aroma, grateful smoothness, and invigorating power render it a desirable beverage for Breakfast, Luncheon, or Supper. Sold in 1lb., ½lb., and ¼lb. packets, at 1s. 6d. per lb., by Grocers. Each packet is labelled "James Epps, Homœopathic Chemist, London."

COCOA.—TAYLOR BROTHERS' PATENT LENTILIZED COCOA is pronounced by Professor Letheby and Dr. Hassall to be superior in nutritious element to all others. See their Reports Printed on the Labels of each Canister. Sold by all Grocers at 1s. 6d. per lb.

ROBINSON'S PATENT BARLEY, for making quickly and at small cost superior Barley Water, cooling in fevers, or for mothers nursing, and eminently nutritious as Infants' Food.
ROBINSON'S PATENT GROATS, the most esteemed and best-known preparation for making pure gruel; persons of weak digestion or constipative habit would derive benefit from its use.
ROBINSON'S PURE SCOTCH OATMEAL for porridge and oat-cake, especially recommended as a strengthening food for youth.
ROBINSON, BELLVILLE, and CO., Purveyors to the Queen, 64, Red Lion-street, Holborn, London. Established 1764.

£10,000 DAMAGES.—The Proprietors of the GLENFIELD PATENT STARCH hereby caution Grocers, Druggists, Chandlers, &c., against selling any imitation of their Starch, as by a decision, in Chancery, of the Master of the Rolls, Wotherspoon v. Turner (see "Times," and other London daily papers, of the 26th of November, 1859), they are equally liable to the above penalty with the makers of the spurious article.

"CROSS-PURPOSES."

BY MISS KATE SWIFT.

THIS is one of those little quiet interiors in which we acknowledge the female artist to excel: so full of sympathy for all, even the smallest, incidents of home life; so observant of the minor points of character; so rich and accurate in detail. We understand the story of "Cross-purposes" at a glance. A little barefooted urchin, full of fun, has been employed to hold a skein of worsted which his mother, honest, industrious woman, has spun, and is now winding, to be afterwards used by her in knitting a pair of stockings for her husband. Master Jack, instead of plying his hands to the thread as it "pays out," mischievously holds down the right one, and so stops the supply. His mother, with amiable smile, endeavours to humour him into compliance, but as yet unsuccessfully. Pussy washing her face, the smoking basin of broth, the well-stored basket of vegetables, and other accessories, complete the idea of a homely but very comfortable ménage. This little picture is one of the most successful and agreeable productions in this year's exhibition of the Society of Female Artists.

"CROSS-PURPOSES."—BY MISS KATE SWIFT.—IN THE EXHIBITION OF THE SOCIETY OF FEMALE ARTISTS.

LAYING THE SUBMARINE CABLE BETWEEN KURRACHEE AND ADEN.

THE squadron engaged in laying the submarine cable between Kurrachee and Aden—composed of her Majesty's ships Retribution, Commodore Edgell, Cyclops, Captain Pullen, with the screw steam-ship Imperador, Captain Atkins, having on board Mr. Newall, the contractor—being joined on the 11th of January last by the Imperatriz, Capt. Sharp, from Galle, began their operations. On the 13th of January the Imperador moved in shore, a short distance to the westward of Minora Point, and, with the assistance of the boats from the Retribution and a party of her seamen to haul the telegraph cable up the beach to the station-house, the shore end was landed, and at two p.m. on Friday, notwithstanding the sailors' superstition connected with the day, the great undertaking of uniting by almost immediate communication our valuable possessions in the East with England was commenced. The Imperador, with the cable, and Imperatriz, led by the Retribution, left Kurrachee, and steamed along the coast of Beloochistan to Ras Gurwan, where the vessels anchored on a bank about ten miles off shore, while a consultation was held as to the best route thence to Muscat, on account of the great depth of water. Here the Cyclops joined, having been dispatched from Kurrachee on the 4th to run a second line of soundings to Muscat, the result of which was rather disadvantageous to the laying of the cable, as the greatest depth ascertained this time reached only 1907 fathoms, or two nautical miles; therefore Mr. Newall, the owner, decided to take his course between the two lines of soundings, and the expedition started again at eight o'clock the following morning. From Ras Gurwan to Muscat the cable was most successfully payed out at the rate of seven miles an hour; and in the deepest water the strain was so great on the drum-wheel, which had five turns of cable on it, that not a single spoke was sound when the Imperador anchored at Muscat at noon on the 17th, showing the risks that attend these enormous outlays of money. The shore end of the cable was landed at Jillio Allie, a small cove between two high hills at the west end of the town; and the boats from her Majesty's ships Retribution and Cyclops, and the Indian Navy men-of-war Semiramis, Falk- land, and Elphinstone, attended on the occasion, and gave three hearty cheers when the end was safely lodged in the station-house. While at the anchorage the squadron had a strong northerly breeze and a heavy sea running into the harbour, which obliged the Retribution to slip and put to sea. The Imperador, lying outside, was partly sheltered from the wind and in tolerably smooth water, but, owing to the course of testing the cable to ensure perfection, they had not yet spliced the sheer end to the sea part, and the necessary swerving of the ship's cable and letting go of both hawsers in a limited space had drawn the shore end of the wire from the beach; therefore a second procession of the boats of the squadron was took place at nine o'clock on Sunday evening, the 22nd, and the cable was again placed in position, and made a shore of rocket and firing of guns announced that the Imperador and Imperatriz.

MEDIADOR. IMPERATRIZ.

LAYING THE SUBMARINE CABLE BETWEEN KURRACHEE AND ADEN.—LANDING THE CABLE AT MUSCAT COVE.

At an interview with the Imaum of Muscat his Highness expressed himself well pleased with having the cable laid in his dominions, and also the benefit that they would derive from being in immediate communication with India; and that he would give every protection to the safety of the wire, and regard it as part of his own body.

The Cyclops parted company on the 19th, leaving Mr. Forde, civil engineer, attached to the Red Sea Company, to Hiliani, for the purpose of deciding which part of the island was best suited for landing the cable, and also to see that the huts in readiness for the reception of the instruments and the electricians.

All arrangements having been concluded, and the shore end of the cable for the next station landed, the Retribution left Muscat at daylight on the 24th, with the Imperatriz this time paying out the cable. After running about twenty miles she hove to, and the Imperatriz stopped on account of some slight defect in the cable, and, after a series of hailings, the Imperatriz ran on with miles more cable without a satisfactory result, it was resolved to cut the cable and return sight miles or so to the last buoy, when the end part was cut and buoyed to the Imperador, which had joined the squadron from Muskat to pick up. When the cable was spliced and the communication pronounced perfect the Imperador proceeded ahead, and the Retribution again started on their course to Hiliani, where they anchored on the 28th.

Hiliani, one of the Kooria Moria group, is a barren island, composed of granite and limestone, situated twenty miles south of the coast of Arabia and distant 480 from Muscat, and is a most desolate spot for any European to be stationed at. There are a few natives living on the island, who only manage to subsist upon fish, and they are glad to beg a trifling quantity of bread or biscuit from the crews of the boats who frequently come there for water from some vessels which visit the neighbouring island Jibilla during the guano season. A guard of nine marines was landed from the Cyclops until a detachment of sepoys could be sent from Aden. After perfect the shore end belonging to the Red Sea Company from the attacks of any of the Arabs from the mainland, which is reported to be very treacherous, fishing and pleasuring excursion to these islands.

The cable was landed on the 30th in N.W. Bay, and the Imperatriz joined on the 1st of February from Muscat. The Imperatriz was engaged on the 2nd and 3rd in coiling on board from the Imperador sufficient cable to complete the line to the junction of the 324 and 325 miles east of Aden; and on the morning of the 5th, the servants of the contracting company being safely stowed on board the Cyclops and abode, the squadron commenced to lay the last line of cable, steaming along the shore of Arabia to Ras-el-Hammar at the speed of seven and a half knots an hour.

The Imperador proceeded to pick up the Aden end ready for the Imperatriz to receive on board and test, and on her arrival at three p.m. on the 8th it was placed in connection with the batteries, and a reply to the message immediately received from Aden.

The whole of the following day the testing of the cable was continued, to endeavour to ascertain as near as possible the position of a slight defect which existed on the shore line; and on the early morning of the 10th the Imperador left to cut and test the cable at twenty miles from which portion it was intended to splice it, and was once buoyed the end and picked up the effective part, joining again on the following morning. In the meantime the Imperatriz and Retribution left Aden, which they anchored on the night of the 13th; and the next day, at eight o'clock, the inhabitants of the town, fortress, and the shipping in the harbour saw the vessels of the squadron drawn with flags, and, with the battery on shore, as well as his Imperial Majesty's frigate Cordiliere, joined in a salutation of twenty-one guns in announcement of the successful termination of the great work in these seas.

The distance of the line of cable from Kurrachee to Muscat is about 490 miles, from Muscat to Hiliani 480, and those to the termination of the cable at Ras-Khelb 480, making a total of about 1720 miles to Aden, through which a message of forty words can at present be sent, and an answer received in about an hour.

A message was received from Alexandria on Wednesday reporting that telegraphic communication is now complete between that place and Kurrachee.

ALL SAINTS' CHURCH, PRAHRAN, DIOCESE OF MELBOURNE VICTORIA.

THIS church is now in course of erection, and it is proposed at present to raise the western half of it, which, it will seat about 250 persons, at an expense of about £4000. The whole building when complete will accommodate 1100 persons, and will cost £8000. The incumbent is the Rev. G. H. Gregory. The body of the church consists of a nave and two aisles, which are together 107 feet 6 inches long, and 64 feet 6 inches wide, the nave being 30 feet wide, the aisles by frestoline pillars having moulded capitals and bases. At the east end the nave is 56 feet 6 inches long by 24 feet long, with the organ chamber and the vestry, attached to the side walls. There are three public entrances to the church, on the west side in the principal entrance; and on the north and south sides are porches, which are on each side, as in ancient churches. The western elevation has three gables, of which the centre one will be finally mounted by a stone belcrote for temporary use until the completion of the bell tower and spire. The principal windows are respectively four and three lights; the side windows are double lights, the upper parts pierced with trefoiled and quatrefoiled openings; and the east or chancel window contains five lights. The tower, with the spire, will be 135 feet high, and sufficiently solid to contain a peal of bells. The design is chaste, simple, and in the early pointed style, superfluous ornamentation; the style of architecture being Gothic of the thirteenth century (11), with numerous special modifications to the altered climate. Ample provision has been made for ventilation by means of large gratings inserted in the plinth, admitting air as required beneath the floor of the church. Large ventilators are also placed in the gables and windows and in the roofs. The floors of the church will be laid with encaustic patterns in tiles. Mr. Nathanial Billing, of Melbourne, is the architect.

HIGH TIDES IN THE THAMES.

ON Wednesday and Thursday last week the River Thames rose to an unusual height. The low-lying places were completely flooded. The Lower Pimlico Gardens were inundated to the depth of several feet; the Adelphi wharves were under water, the tide overflowing the Adelphi arches, and up Try Bun-lane, nearly halfway up to the Strand, washing over the basement of Rymperton Market, and inundating the pleasure-grounds attached to the mansions in Privy Gardens, Whitehall. Similar was the way up the sewers from the Metropolitan Police Station, Scotland-yard, and penetrating into the basements of the houses in Parliament-street, Cannon-row, and Milbank-street. In the Horseferry-road, Westminster, the tide flowed to a considerable depth, completely stopping all thoroughfare, and persons proceeding that way had to be ferried in boats along the street. Bishop's-walk, Lambeth, and the open space in front of the Archbishop of Canterbury's, were a sheet of water, the tide rushing furiously down Upper Fore-street into the houses of the poor inhabitants, setting their furniture and bedding afloat, and doing a great amount of mischief. The tide rose over Bankside; and along the south shore, Bermondsey, Rotherhithe, and Deptford, there was great destruction of property, as also at Limehouse, Blackwall, Shadwell, and Wapping, on the north bank. The tide washed over the Custom House quay and entered the extensive cellarages near London-bridge. The Essex, Woolwich, Greenwich, and Battersea marshes were sheets of water. At all the steam-boat piers extra means were required to land and embark passengers; at the half-penny steam-boat pier and several others the traffic was entirely stopped. A large amount of property was destroyed in granaries and warehouses.

On the whole, however, the threatened high tides of last week, viewing the matter spectacularly, may be looked upon in the light of a failure, their chartered effects having been happily, for less than we expected. Places on the English coast have not suffered much; such accounts from Hayre, Nantes, Bordeaux, and other places on the French coast, as we have at this side, but without anything very remarkable attending it. In the Seine, however, the rising of the tide manifested itself in an extraordinary manner. At Quillebeuf, where the river narrows considerably, the people on the quays "were warned of the approaching tide by a distant roar, by a rumbling noise, which was soon followed by a mass of water forming a kind of rolling cascade completely across the river, and about four metres in height; being succeeded by a less concentrated wave, which, striking against the dikes and banks, sometimes rose as high as the tops of the trees, and broke on them." Letters from Ostend and Antwerp mention that, as on the French coasts, the tide was unusually high by a strong north wind, which prevented its arriving at any extraordinary height.

PALACE OF THE PEOPLE, MUSWELL-HILL.

IN the present Number we give a view of the Palace of the People about to be erected at Muswell-hill by the Great Northern Palace Company, from the designs of Mr Owen Jones. In former numbers we gave a view of the ground plan of the building, and from with the winter garden which it is proposed to form in the centre of the building. The site is 200 metres in length, by 150 metres external diameter, springing 36 feet from the floor of the dome and rising to an elevation of 144 feet. It rises on four towers, connected by galleries of the square block thus formed to 276 by 276, and is flanked by two naves, each with a clear area of 330 by 120. The aisles and the nave will be 72 feet wide, and will be 65 feet by 45 feet. In continuation are two semicular colonnades, 296 feet in circumference, which will communicate with the most beautiful views of the neighbourhood, and have therefore been devoted to refreshment rooms.

The entrance to the hall of the building is 1296 feet, its greatest width 492; the total area covered is, on the ground floor, 511,038 feet; on the gallery floor, 318,816 feet; making a total of 829,854 feet. Galleries 48 feet wide, run round the dome and naves and at the two extremities of the building. The floor of the ground contains an additional story, 48 feet wide, to be placed in the basement on the south side, which corresponds with the level of the railway station on the north.

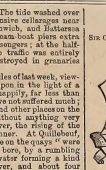
In the centre of the building on the north side is a concert-room, 192 feet in circumference, capable of containing 12,000 persons, communicating with three floors of the building. This theatre would contain 10,000 people, and from its form the architect is confident that every person in it would hear distinctly. The remainder of the building around the theatre would enable large numbers to obtain without inconvenience a view of the performances. On the ground floor, the platform on which the lecture theatre stands is the railway station, in which the passengers will arrive and depart, and ascend to the ground floor of the building by only forty-eight steps. A similar provision is made for those who arrive in carriages, which will run over the railway station, and ascend by means of a paved corridor extending along the north side of the buildings, on a level with the ground floor. The basement story would also contain a portion of an elevated terrace, from which magnificent views of the surrounding scenery will be obtained—the level of the rail at this point being nearly 200 feet above the ground floor. The terrace would be 1000 feet at the Wood-green station.

In the centre of the building, as before mentioned, will be the winter garden, under the great dome. The eastern nave will be devoted to the fine arts, and the western to the industrial and useful schools of art may be fully illustrated; and in the galleries divisions devoted to illustrations of English history, astronomy, geology, and the habits and customs of the inhabitants of the globe. Courts will also be devoted to the formation of a permanent exhibition of the works of industry of all nations, to a naturalised collection of the finest machinery in motion, which formed so attractive a feature in the Exhibition of 1851. On either side fixed mechanics, agricultural implements, and those of the useful arts, and in the centre courts the precious metals, textile fabrics, &c.

Viewed in connection with the forthcoming Exhibition of the Works of Industry of all Nations in 1862, this portion of the scheme of the proposed Palace of the People would appear to be most successful. The mere overflow from the Exhibition building of the Royal Commission on the Gore estate would more than suffice to fill the industrial nave, and the directors of the Palace of the People the opportunity of rendering permanent the attractive features of the Exhibition of 1851, and to add immensely to the value of the collection in illustration of the arts and sciences which they wish to establish in connection with it.

BURRADON COLLIERY EXPLOSION.

A TERRIBLE colliery accident (recorded in our last Number) took place on Friday night, the 2nd inst., at the Burradon Colliery, within six miles of Newcastle-upon-Tyne. The explosion took place on Friday morning about 100 men and boys went down the pit on the dayshift, all of them being back-men. At half-past two o'clock, according to the testimony of the overman, Thomas Hall, and George Alien, the pit fired in their immediate vicinity. The first explosion must have been of a not very serious character, as the boys were enabled to take to their heels and run out of danger. After the fire had got quenched, the overman and George Allen, after a second time, but they managed to escape to the bottom of the shaft, and were saved. The alarm having now been given, about a hundred other men and boys were quickly brought to the pit's station at some distance from the spot on which the pit fired, and also to the bottom of the shaft, were simultaneously brought to the bank safe. The Coroner held an inquest on Monday afternoon upon a number of the bodies. The jury returned a verdict of "Died by an explosion of fire damp," but how the accident originated there was no evidence to show." On Tuesday the melancholy obsequies of the unfortunate miners were performed in the parish church of Ponteland, nearly the whole of the bodies recovered up to Monday night having been interred in the course of the day. The plan was adopted on Tuesday of sending the coffins down the pit, and inclosing the bodies within them before they were sent up—a better arrangement than that of placing them in blankets, as some of the bodies first recovered were very much mutilated. The colliery has been accordingly closed, and the men and boys employed being under the extensive falls of coals and stone that occurred in the pit at the time of the explosion. There has been considerable amount of confusion as to the exact number of victims by the fearful catastrophe. The number, it has been ascertained by careful comparison of lists, is seventy-six. From the fact that many of the lads fled to the shaft before the second and most terrible explosion occurred, and so escaped, the number of deaths has been limited to that extent. The greater number of them have left widows and children, or aged mothers and sisters, who were depending on their support. Public subscriptions on behalf of the sufferers promise to be most munificent. The coal trade has subscribed £1000, and money is flowing in from all parts of Northumberland and Durham.



Our Engraving of the pit's mouth shortly after the terrible accident is from a photograph taken from the waggon way by Mr. Frew, of North Shields.

A number of witnesses, selected from the principal officers at each of the large garrison towns, have been under examination for several days past by the board of officers now sitting at the Horse Guards to inquire into the present system of recruiting for the Army, with the view to some important alterations being made in that department of the service.

OBITUARY OF EMINENT PERSONS.

SIR G. L. TEMPLE, BART.

SIR GRENVILLE LEOFRIC TEMPLE, the fourth Baronet, of Stowe, in the county of Buckingham, was the son of Lieutenant-Colonel Sir Grenville Temple, the fourth Baronet, by his wife, Mary, daughter of George Bubb, Esq., and niece of Lord Melcombe, and was born at Florence on the 5th of February, 1830, and was for some time in the Royal Navy. He succeeded his father on eleventh Baronet in 1847. He married, on the 1st of May, 1851, Marie, second daughter of M. Aron von Botzen, late Minister of Finance for Transylvania, and has had an only child, Grenville Louis John. Sir Grenville died on the 2nd inst., at Tunbridge, Cheltenham, Grand Duchy of Baden, and is succeeded by his son, now the infant Louis John Temple, the twelfth Baronet, an infant only a few days old. The ancient family of Temple springs from those celebrated personages of the seventeenth century, popular remembrance, Lord Cobham's sixth without issue, and by his heir, the Earl of Chester, and his wife, the devoted Lady Godiva, who, by her singular piety, secured the emancipation of the town of Coventry from her husband. Their direct ascendant, Sir Thomas Temple, Knight, of Stowe, was created a Baronet on the 29th of June, 1611, almost at the institution of the order. He had thirteen children, and Peter, elder that his wife, Esther, Lady Temple, lived to see seven hundred of her own descendants. From Sir Thomas the line passed through a goodly series of Temples, Knights, Baronets, and Peers, to Richard, a celebrated commander under Marlborough, was created Viscount and Baron Cobham; and his sister and successor in the Cobham Peerage, Anne, daughter and ancestress of the present Duke of Buckingham. This baronetcy, after Lord Cobham's death without issue, descended to his nearest kinsman of the male branch, which is now represented by the present infant Baronet.

SIR J. JUDKIN FITZGERALD, BART.

SIR JOHN JUDKIN FITZGERALD, second Baronet, of Lisheen, in the county of Tipperary, was the eldest son of Sir Thomas Judkin Fitzgerald, Bart., by Lady Fitzgerald (to whom he succeeded in 1841), and his wife, Elizabeth, second daughter and coheir of Joseph Quyd, Esq. He was born on the 27th of August, 1787, and was educated at Trinity College, Dublin, where he graduated M.A. He was for some time in the Army. He married, first, before he succeeded Baronet on the 26th of September, 1810, and married, first, on the 16th of April, 1812, Mary Ann, daughter of Richard Pennefather, Esq., of New Park, in the county of Tipperary, and sister of Major Andrew Barnes, of Curragh, in the county of Tipperary, and by her (who died on the 8th of April, 1819) had issue Sir John married, secondly, on the 10th of November, 1825, Elizabeth, daughter of Bryan Fitzgerald, Esq., and by her (who died on the 11th of February, 1859) had issue Fitzgerald, who died unmarried. Sir John married, thirdly, on the 27th of April, 1854, Margaret, daughter of Thomas Warner, Esq., of Westcastorshire, a lady who had also twice previously married, being the widow, first, of Robert Gardiner, Esq., and, secondly, of Samuel Banks, Esq., of Rugeley, Staffordshire. Sir John Judkin Fitzgerald was a magistrate for the county Sligo, which he served the Hansard steamer, which sank on its passage from Liverpool to Cork. He is succeeded by his son, now Sir Thomas Judkin Fitzgerald, the third Baronet, who married, on the 25th of January, 1843, Emma Maunsell, youngest daughter of Henry Pim, Esq., of Golden Hills, in the county of Tipperary, and has two sons and three daughters. This family of Fitzgerald, originally Judkin, is to be distinguished from the Fitzgeralds of Tipperary. The first Baronet took an active part against the insurgents in the Irish rebellion of 1798.

GENERAL DEVEREUX.

GENERAL JOHN DEVEREUX, of Colombian service, was a scion of the ancient and honourable Irish family of Devereux, of Carriganean, in the county of Wexford, and was born in 1778. His military career was of no little distinction, under the famous Simon Bolivar, in the armed struggle which freed New Granada from the dominion of Spain, and led to the rule of old Spain, and made them the Republic of Columbia. Devereux commanded a division of the Colombian army in Venezuela, which he raised for Bolivar's service, and it was the gallantry of this force that mainly contributed to the signal and decisive victory of Carabobo, which secured General La Torre, in 1821, at the battle of Carabobo, near Valencia, an event which rendered the name of General John Devereux, in his native land, one who afforted with a deprivation of sight. He died on the 25th ult., at his residence, 17, Hertford-street, Mayfair.

T. S. STAVELEY, ESQ.

THOMAS Hitchingman Staveley, Esq., J.P., died at his seat, Old Shuningford Hall, Ripon, on the 19th inst. He was the eldest son of the Rev. Hope Hitchinson) succeeded to the property and estates of the late General Miles Staveley in 1814, on the death of his uncle, a name of Staveley in pursuance of the will of the General, the last male heir of an old and honoured Yorkshire family, who died in 1814. Mr. Staveley was Captain of the Royal Engineers, having entered in 1808, and retired when he succeeded to the General's property. He was appointed to his profession. His services were principally confined during the war to Sicily, the shores of the Mediterranean, and the expedition to Walcheren; and he contributed to the papers published by the Royal Engineers several valuable reports and plans connected with the operations of those periods. Mr. Staveley's taste for constructing models of towns and fortifications was of a superior order. A beautiful specimen of his skill at that time he gave to the Royal Exhibition of 1841; and most of the gentry of the North Riding are familiar with the model of the country over which the battle of the Standard was fought, and to be tested. This model was presented by Mr Staveley to Mark Milbanke, Esq., of Thorpe Perrow. Mr. Staveley was M.P. for Ripon in the first Reformed Parliament from 1832 to 1835. He was a magistrate for the North Riding and Liberty of Ripon, and a governor of the Free Grammar School—a trust which has been filled, in regular succession, by one of the same name and family from a period of the foundation and endowment, by Philip and Mary, in 1558. A portion of Mr Staveley's property has in mind—North Bierley—and he was the liberality the erection of the present neat little church and parsonage, and the adjoining handsome school. The church was opened in 1846. The school soon after, and its parsonage a few years ago. Mr Staveley resided for the most part on his estate at Old Shuningford Hall, where he was highly rich and prior to the latter his charities were constant and extensive. He married, first, Mary, daughter of the late Sir Thomas Pilkington, Bart., by whom she died in May, 1831, without issue; and, secondly, Annie (only daughter of the late Hall Sargood, Esq., of Ripon), which lady, with a son and two daughter, survives to himself his loss.

 A notice will be given next week of Mr. Baron Watson, whose sudden and lamented death occurred after he had addressed the grand jury in court at Welshpool, on the 13th inst.

THE RECEPTION BY HER MAJESTY OF OFFICERS OF THE VOLUNTEER CORPS.

THE Queen held a Court on Wednesday week in St. James's Palace for the reception and presentation of the volunteer officers. We supplement the account given in this Journal last week of the presentation ceremony by the following lively narrative, written by the London correspondent of the Manchester Guardian:—

I have just returned from the Volunteer Court. The progress of the ceremony, up to the time of my leaving, was all that could be wished, when once the line of volunteers was set in motion. There was a good deal of unnecessary bustle and confusion as different counties could be got into the waiting-rooms assigned to them, and some grumbling at what seemed a needless delay before the procession was set in motion. But the grumblers only knew that they were rubbing elbows in the unventilated rooms in which the facade and velvet dresses of the Court functionaries and Georges had waited before them. They did not know what considerations and scruples may have interposed to the delay hereafter.

The volunteers were received at half-past twelve, under a spacious marquee, erected on the space between Marlborough House and the Palace, and giving access to the square in front of the private state apartments of St. James's are approached from that side. The groups formed of the volunteers in their many garbs were extremely picturesque. Dark greys and rifle-greens predominated, but many of these dark uniforms were enlivened with facings of red, and the silver badges and chains of the belts and pouches, or in some cases the belts themselves, of brown leather, relieved what would otherwise have been the sombreness of such masses of sad colours. But dark greys and green did not prevail exclusively. There were the light grey coats of your own Manchester corps, and of the Queen's with their enrichments of vermilion and silver cord; the reddish greys of the Icns of Court; the Scottish rifles and the Oxford corps, with their blue facings; the purples of the lilted corps of Edinburgh and Glasgow; and, conspicuous alike by the red of the tunic, and the blues and sinews of the wearers, were the three sons of Anak, who represented the St. George's six-foot Guards, and who, not satisfied with their natural inches, had added more than a cubit to their stature in the shape of tall and black helmets, with towering clusters of white plumage.

There was little variety to note in the cut of the uniforms. Shako, tunic, and trousers as the rule, knickerbockers as the exception. Here and there an eccentric-looking wideawake, or a Robinson-Crusoe like, slightly conical and comical thatch of fur—belonging, I believe, to a Liverpool corps—cross and waist belts, in most cases black, in some brown morocco or russia. There was great variety in the way of feathering: horsehair, cocks' feathers, blackcocks' tails, pompons. On the whole, the effect of the uniforms was decidedly becoming and workmanlike. Whatever extravagance of material or overdoing of ornament there might be in some few cases, it was decidedly not enough to leaven the lump. And, to the credit of English looks, I am bound to add that the faces, figures, and bearings of the mass were such as to make one proud of one's countrymen.

So much for those to whom the Court was meant to do honour. Now for the Court itself.

From the squalid entrance-passage, which looks like the approach to the back premises of a second-rate hotel, we pass up a staircase, to which the Yeomen of the Guard, partisans in hand, in their Tudor dresses, posted in pairs on each landing, and crimson draperies disposed about the entries give a certain stateliness of aspect, despite the poverty of the architectural proportions of everything. The staircase gives access to a series of apartments, hung with old Flemish tapestry, or adorned with arms and armour, arranged in patterns against the oak paneling. The doorways of these rooms are kept by the Gentlemen at Arms in their costume, which looks like a cross between a footman's livery and a life guard's uniform, and which is quite out of keeping with the State partisans they carry. The Gold and Silver Sticks, in blue and gold, are plying their vocation, calming, counseling, and marshaling; and imposing janitors are urgent in their requests. "Pray, don't push, gentlemen;" "No squeezing, pray—you are approaching the presence;" and other hints to over-eager volunteers, who, with Devonshire, Middlesex, or Lancashire on their cards, find themselves struggling with the contingents of such rearward counties as Carnarvonshire, Durham, Westmorland, and Fifeshire. To the three leading counties above named, which happen also to include the greatest number of corps, has been assigned Queen Anne's room, the most spacious in the Palace, next to the throne-room. And here, for an hour and a half, the volunteers of the three leading counties rub shoulders, chat, study the portraits of Queen Anne and the two Georges, or the two huge battle pieces of Tournay and Lille, which record the rare—in the sense of infrequent—prowess of the house of Brunswick. The air is heavy and unbreathable; the buzz of voices increasing. We are thankful for the opening of a couple of windows, for the atmosphere was becoming Calcutta-ish—of the Black Hole order.

There is an effort to get corps into something like order, against the defiling shall begin. It is half-past two. At last there is a movement. The Artillery pass first, and then a cry for the 1st Devonshire announces that the stream of riflemen has begun to set towards the Sovereign. Once the tide set in motion, there is no pause. The numbers of the successive regiments are called out by one of the Gold Sticks; and in fours deep, or threes, we defile through an intervening room, the passage through which is lined with Lords Lieutenant, who at this point take the head of their respective county corps; and then we are in the throne-room—an oblong apartment, lined with Ministers and high officers of the household. At the end facing the door by which we enter stands the Queen, the Prince Consort, and their suite. The cards with the name of our corps are handed as we approach to the Lord Chamberlain. He reads, in a loud voice, our county regimental number, and our names. The Queen bows as we defile before her, bowing each as we pass the presence, and thence on through a series of passage-rooms or passages,—the cordon which keeps our pathway clear lined with volunteers, who, less fortunate than ourselves, stand low down on the country list, and will have to bide their turn for going through the ceremonial from which we are making our escape—full of loyalty, but thankful once more to breathe even the air of London streets.

The following officers, in the order of their respective counties, were introduced to the presence of the Queen at the Levee:—

ARTILLERY.

NORTHUMBERLAND—1st Comp: Capt Com Potter; Lts Pilter, Laws; Hon Surg Dr Emerson. 2nd: Capt Young, Lt Hansell.

DEVON—2nd: Capt Smith. 4th: Capt Vivian; Lts Hooper, Hay. Teignmouth Comp: Capt Sir W Hele Tonkin; Lts English, Coleman. 6th: Capt Cleland; Lts Davy, Lidstone.

SUSSEX.—1st: Lt-Col Estridge, Capt Dalbiac, Lt Johnstone.

EDINBURGH (CITY)—1st: Capts Paton, Bell, Boyd, Harrison; Lts Campbell, M'Nab, Miller.

CORNWALL.—1st: Capt Brune; Lts Tredwen, Pearce. 2nd: Hon Assist Surg Box. 3rd: Capt Essell; Lts Sobey, Hicks; Hon Surg Davis. 4th: Lts Banks, Kernick. 7th: Lt Scott.

MIDLOTHIAN—Maj Com Sir J G Baird; Capts Parker, Craig, Roland, Fell; Lts Bentley, Richard, Riddock, Edmonston, Spence, Livingstone, Gregor, W Watson, Hutchinson, L Watson.

NORFOLK—1st: Capts Marsh, Freeman; Lt Moiant, Dr Stephenson.

BANFFSHIRE—Capt Cruickshank.

KENT—1st: Capt Gladdish; Lts Sharland, Hilder; Hon Surg Young. 2nd: Capt Hall; Lts Munn, Crookes; Hon Surg Hoare. 3rd: Capt Kennicott, R N; Lts Tyssen, Scholey. 4th: Capt Magnus. 9th: Lts Tongue, Braund. 10th (Royal Arsenal): Col Com Col Tulloch; Capts Ellis, Manifold, Hare; Lts Tapp, Kellow, Butter, Rees; Capt Deare. 11th: Lts Taylor, Howard. 12th: Capt Beveridge.

FORFARSHIRE—4th: Capt Buist; Lts Leadbetter, Thomson. 5th: Lts James, Caird.

ESSEX—Lts Daniels, Barker.

LANCASHIRE.—1st: Lt-Col Brown; Lts Brown, Ratcliff; Capts M'Culloch, Grayson, Hastings; Lts Gill, Halhead, Watson, Kearney. 2nd: Capt Sharman; Lts Bright, Houghton. 4th: Lt-Col Com Bourne, Maj Walter; Capts Barton-Wigley, Bushby, Hornby, Robinson, Turner, Campbell, Langton; Lts Bright, Lowe, Robinson, Gardner, Homan, Drinkwater, Rotherham, Sparrow, Boteler, Radcliffe, Kelley, Poole, Bean, Duckworth, Watson. 5th: Capt Com Jackson, Capt Sturdy; Lts Walmsley, Whewell, Coulthard. 7th: Capt Hamilton. 8th: Capt W Clay; Lts Swainson, Clay. 11th (Liverpool): Capts Currie, Thomson, Macalister, Morison, M'Ivor: Lts Todd, Crawford. 12th: Maj Wieland; Capts Thomson, Brice, Wilson; Lts Stubbs, Clarke, Bartlett, Wilson, Roydon, Jones, Bancroft.

CINQUE PORTS—1st: Capts Wallaston, Hon G Waldegrave; Lts Astley, Court, Andrews Crake. 2nd: Capt Maj Thomson, Lt M'Rae. 4th: Capts Harcourt; Lts Scrivens, Gibbs, Hon Assist Surg Ticehurst, En Rock.

RENFREW—1st: Capt Scott. 2nd: Lt Cuthbert.

DORSET—Capt Hinton. 2nd: Capt Leather, Lt Powell. 3rd: Capt Gundry; Lts Swain, Gundry.

FIFE—1st: Lt Pryde. 2nd: Capt Walker, Lt Russell. 6th: Capt Young.

GLAMORGAN—Capt Francis; Lts Eaton, Brown; Surg Williams.

LANARKSHIRE—4th: Capt M'Ewan; Lts Dick, Watson. 6th: Capt Holmes; Lts M'Farlane, Ralt. 7th: Capt Robertson; Lts Ramsay, M'Knight. 8th: Lts Field, Gilchrist; Major Houldsworth; Capts Wilkie, Matheson, Wright, Morison, Stewart, Dick; Lts Whitelaw, Baird, M'Douall, Bullock, Stewart, Kirkwood; Surg Leishman.

YORKSHIRE (EAST RIDING)—1st: Capt Haworth; Lt Crowe; Surg Brett. 2nd: Capt Cortes; Lts Simpson, Watson; Chap Rev R M Taylor, Surg Jenner. 4th: Capt Samuelson; Lts Dobson, Smith. 5th: Capt Pearson.

AYRSHIRE—1st: Lts Blair, Stewart. 3rd: Lts Barr, Fraser.

GLOUCESTERSHIRE—1st Major Com Savile, RA. 1st: Lt Bean. 2nd: Lts Hare, Garrard. 3rd: Lts Savage, Gore-Langton. 4th: Capt Baillie; Lts Cave, Ames; Surg Power. 2nd: Lts Goold, Carter.

PEMBROKESHIRE—Capt Sutton, Lt Gwynne.

NORTH RIDING OF YORK—1st: Capt Thompson; Lts Hopkins, Brewster. 2nd: Capt Vaughan, Lt Lloyd. 3rd and 4th: Lts Bolckow, Gilbert.

CHESHIRE—2nd: Lt Evans, Hon Assist Surg Bowen. 3rd: Capt Reynolds; Lts Roberts, Pooley. 4th: Capt Grey, Lt Briggs. 5th: Capt Laird.

LINCOLNSHIRE—1st: Capt White; Lts Wilkinson, Smyth. 2nd: Capt Smith, Lt Whitford.

ABERDEENSHIRE—Capt Blaikie.

KIRKCUDBRIGHT—Capt Shand.

INVERNESS—Capts Fraser-Tytler, Mackintosh; Lts Davidson, Falconer, Carruthers; Hendrie.

DUMBARTON—1st: Capt Galbraith. 2nd: Capt Walker, Lt Anderson.

BERWICK-ON-TWEED—Capt Renton; Lts Allan, A T J Purves, A Purves.

CUMBERLAND—2nd: Lt Mounsey.

DURHAM—Maj Com Earl Vane; Capts Rutherford, D Mann, P C Mann; Lts Thorman, Brough, Pallister, Candlish, Lindsay. 1st: Capt Com Young; Lts Hamilton, Alcock; Assist Surg Welford. 2nd: Capt Williamson; Lts Moon, Ritson. 3rd: Capt Stevenson; Lts Barker, Thompson. 4th: Capt Jackson: Lts Belk, Jobson, Mackenzie.

ENGINEERS.

1st Middlesex—Capt Com Macleod.

1st Lanarkshire—Capt Johnstone, Lt Maclure.

MOUNTED RIFLES.

Devon (Clyst Vale)—Capt Acland.

ST HELENA VOLUNTEERS.

Capt Moss, Lt Baker.

VOLUNTEER RIFLE CORPS.

The following officers of Volunteer Rifle Corps were then introduced as follows:—

DEVON—2nd: Capt Dupe ier, Lt Novington; Ens Butcher, Hawker. 3rd: Capts Beer, Cutliffe, Lt Clark, En Gibbard. 4th: Capt Vye. 6th: Lt Saville. 9th: Lt Tucker. 11th: Capt Grylls. 16th: Capt Visct Valletort, Lt Dunn, En Rodd. Tavistock: Lt and Com Perry, En Mathews. Exeter and South Devon: Lt-Col Sir E Prideaux, Maj Chichester; Capts Moore, Rodway, Peters, Holman, Gordon; Lts Kitson, Vallance, Harris, Fox; Ens Clarke, Cumming, Rivington; Surgs De la Garde, Awliscombe, Buckerell, Feniton; Capt Porter, Lt Hon C Lindsey, En Neumann.

MIDDLESEX—1st: Lt-Col the Duke of Wellington, Maj Clifford; Capts Clarkson, Trew, Greenhill; Lts Busk, Dickenson, Collins, Lord J Hay, Bonsar, Haworth; Surg Croft. 3rd: Capt M Innes, Lt Field, En Kolford. 4th: Capt Alexander, Lt Cummins, En Docwra. 5th: Capt Childs, Lt Gade. 7th: Capt Elsworthy, Lt Reynolds, En Wagstaff. 12th: Capt Taylor, Lt Hanbury. 13th: Lt Bird, En Fletcher. 14th: Capt Com Wilkinson, Capt Langdale; Lts Barclay, Donaldson; Ens Lake, Thomas; Assist Surg Moger. 18th: Capt Templer, Lt Elliott, En Mackenzie, Hon Surg Bridgwater. 20th: Capt Bigge; Lts Houghton, Barrow; Ens Tims, Phair; Assist Surg S'llifant. 21st: Capt Taylor, Lt Dewar, En Dumeldenger. 2nd: Capt Harrington, Lt Angell, En Yates. 1st: Capt Hawker, Lt Vine, En Campbell. 24th: Lt Hilliard, En De Salis. 26th: Capt Ogilvie, Lt Maclean, En Jones. 26th (H. M. Customs): Capt Wybrow, Lt Pickford, En Lilley, Major Grey, Capts Hamell, Dobell; Lts Bernard, Cobham; Ens Hamel, Eden; Surg M'William. 27th: Capt Com Ennis, Capt Ennis; Lts H. E. A. Dalbiac, W. W. Dalbiac; En Garnett, Assist Surg Bunnett. 29th: Capt Ross, En Lemmon. 31st: Capt Taylor, Lt Mills, En Kirby. 32nd: Capt Hon Bruce, Lt Thomson, En Walshe. 33rd: Capt Goss. 34th: Capt Willis, Lt Fox, En Gripper. 36th: Capt Com Major Gen Dowling. 39th: Capt Com Colvill. Inns of Court: Maj Brewster; Capts Bulwer, King, Chitty, Roupell, Johnson; Lts Griffith, Turner, Brandram, Babington, Bagot, Lonsdall; Ens Lloyd, Sheil, Russell, Hon G. Pepys, Potts, Holgate. London Scottish: Lt, Col Lord Elcho; Capts Mackenzie, the Marquis of Abercorn, Riach, M'Gregor, Conway, Carlisle; Lts Hill, Pender, Scott, Forrest; Ens Fisher, Notman, Macnab, Shepherd; Surg Ure, Assist Surg Westmacott. West Middlesex: Major Com Lord Radstock; Capts Ogilvy, Compton, Oliphant; Lts Kinnebrock, Bridgman; Ens Richardson, Williamson; Surg Thomson. South-West Middlesex: Capt Donnithorne, Lt Cooper, Assist Surg Chapman. 16th: Capt Com Murray, Lt Lawes, En Watson. South Middlesex: Col Com Viscount Ranelagh, Maj Macpherson; Capts Hon Lt Col Vereker, Majs Atherley, Wylde, Clarke, Appleyard, Hawker Hammersley; Lts Parratt, Lammin, Cox, March, Langley, Murdock, Fernside, Hon R Bourke; Ens Diplock, Gaskoin, Gilby; Dr Ree, Surg; Hon Surgs Dr Ward, Goodwin. Queen's (Westminster): Lt-Col Earl Grosvenor, Chap the Dean of Westminster; Capts Dowling, Wood, Vacher, Corscaden, Russell, Oldershaw, Twining, Elliot, Schoolbred, Bushby, Worms; Lts Worms, Cutler, Bidgood, Fowler, Stilwell, Thomas, Robertson, Alston, Lewin, Cundy, Homfray, Jarvis, Jaffray; Ens Curtis, Turner, Thorns, Scott, Lawrence, Hankey, Smith, Stephens, Scrivener, Swift, Gullick, Schoolbred; Surg Davies, Assist Surg Buzzard. St. George's, 1st: Maj Com Lt-Col Hon C H Lindsay; Capts Ives, Knox; Lt Savory; Ens Bennet, Surg Stevens. 2nd: Capt Sir J E Harrington, Bart; Lt Brown, En Cocks. 4th: Capt Elliott, Chap Rev W B Hawkins.

SURREY—1st: Lt-Col Boucher; Capts Rouse, Stephenson, Irvine, Rogers, Durnford; Lts Phare, Clipperton, Kimber, Bristowe, Wire, Robottom; Ens Doulton, Cottrell, Cunningham, Gudgeon; Surg Dr Griffiths, Assist Surg Brunton. 2nd: Capt Campbell, Lt Stewart, En Hyde, Hon Assist Surg Carpenter. 4th: Capt Com Eman, Capt Sims, Lt Carpmael, En Clarke, Surg Galton. 5th: Lt Beamont, En Lanison, Hon Surg Sisson. 6th: Capt Sir H. Fletcher, Bart, Lt Higginbotham, En Few. 7th: Maj Com Beresford; Capts Roberts, Crowe, Brander; Lts Moseley, jun., Boys, Clutton, Cox, Vogan, jun; Ens. Jackson, Barry, Smithies, Renneck, Moseley; Hon Surg Illiff. 8th: Capt Hastie, Lt Hay, En Bickards, Hon Surg Jones. 9th. 1st: Capt-Com Yeatman, Lt Belfour, En Engelback. 2nd: Capt Ommanney, Lt Lyster, En Merriman. 10th: Capt Com Sharpe, En Darnell, Hon Surg Dixon. 11th: Capt Lt-Col Oliphant, Lt Richardson, En Oliphant, Hon Surg Love. 12th: Capt Cochrane, Lt Arnold, En Browne. 13th: Lt Mangles, En Molyneux. 14th: Lt Com Kerrick, Lt Barclay. 15th: En Dowling. 16th: Capt Glover, Lt Hersee, En Richmond. 19th: Maj Com Roupell, M P.

GLOUCESTERSHIRE—Field Officers, Hon Col Bates, Lt-Col Bush, Major Payne, Capt Jones; Adj county bat, Lt-Col Parnell, Maj Noel. Bristol. 1st: Capt Taylor; Lts Pool, Burgess; En Hassall, Surg Hore, Asst Surg Leonard. 2nd: Lt Britten, En Gibbins. 3rd: Lt Fox. 4th: Capt Lucas, Lt Findge, En King. 5th: Capt Lighton, Lt Hammond, En Harwood. 6th: Capt Ringer, Lt Miller, En Whitwell. 7th: Capt Goodeve, Lt Pritchard, En Aiken. 8th: Capt Pattenson, Lt Alexander, En Bevan. 9th: Capt Ford, Lt Elton, En Gruning. County bat, 2nd: Capt Gulser, Lt Jones. 3rd: Capt De Winton, Lt Dowling, En Smith. 4th: Lt Freston, En Woolright. 5th: Capt Hallewell, Lt Dickinson, En Biddell. 6th: Capt Hunt, En Playne. 7th: Capt Gibney. 8th: Lt Sargeaunt, En Banaster. 9th: En Dewe. 10th: Capt Col Wood, Lt Capt Swiney, En Speer, Hon Assist Surg Eves.

BRECKNOCKSHIRE—1st: En Lloyd, Hon Surg Williams. 2nd: Capt Maund, Lt Bevan, En Bailey. 3rd: Lt Gwynne, En Hotchkis.

SUFFOLK—1st: Lt Haward, En Westhorp. 2nd: Lt Flerston. 3rd: En Brooke. 4th: Capt Margitson, Lt Man, En Millard. 6th: Capt Tyrell, Lt Oakes, En Golding. 8th: Capt Long, Lt Bates, En Wade.

STIRLINGSHIRE—1st: Capt Moir, En Wilson. 2nd: Capts Mackison (Lennox), Peareth; Lt King.

BUCKS—1st: En Wethered. 2nd: Lt Williams.

GLAMORGAN—Glamorgan: Capt Clark, Lt Monclaus, En Martin, Assist Surg White. 1st: Lts Talbot, Llewellyn; Ens Felton, Flowers; Assist Surg Pritchard. 3rd (Swansea): Capt Dilwynn, MP, Lt Richardson, En Richards, Assist Surg Hall. 4th: Capt Vivian, MP; Lts Thomas, Herman; Ens Strick, Bath, Hon Assist Surg Essery. 5th (Pen Hergare): En Edmond. 6th: Capt Grenfell, En Mancarrow. 8th: Capt Bruce, Lt Powell, En Partridge. 9th: Lt Struvé, En Young. 10th (Cardiff): Capt Bassett, Lt Greenhill; Ens Williams, Watkins: Assist Surg Taylor. 12th (Glamorganshire): Capt Russell, Lt Jones, En Collins, Hon Assist Surg Davies. 13th (Llandaff): Lt David. 14th (Aberdare): Capt Powell, Lt Davies, En Davis, Surg Sloper. 15th: Capt Rowland, Lt Jones, En Rowland. 16th: Capt David; Lts Waldron, Stockdale.

PEMBROKESHIRE—Capt Hon R F Greville.

DERBYSHIRE—1st: Capt Bagshawe, Lt Bright, En Barker (High Peak Rifles), Capt Neild, Lt Bennett, En Welch (High Peak Rifles), Capt Newton, 1st Lt Turpie, 2nd Lt Jessopp. 2nd: Capt Hon E Cope: Lts Hon A Vernon, Bott; En Bootheby. 3rd: Capt Halliwell, Lt White; En Clarke, Dr Booth. 4th: Capt Curzon, 1st Lt Boden, 2nd Lt Lewis. 5th: Capt Cox, Lt Henley, En Buchanan. 13th: Capt Holmes, Lt Statham; Ens Wilkinson, Walters; Hon Surg (Bakewell Corps). Capt Com Okeover, Lt Sleigh, En Dyke, Hon Surg Goodwin.

OXFORDSHIRE—2nd: Capt Bowyer, Lt Parsons, jun., En Mallam. University: Capts Warre, Lane, Warner, Parker, Holding; Lts Harvey, Hussey, Coney, Gepp, Hale, Visct Adare; Ens Luck, Westcar, Russell.

CHESHIRE—1st: Capt Cadell, Lt Ward, En Conway. 2nd: Capt King, Lt Horner, En Cunningham. 3rd: Capt Chambers, Lt Harrison, En Lance. 5th: Capt Sir C W Shakerley, Lt Wilbraham, En Selley, Hon Assist Surg Dr Beales. 6th: Capt Brooke, Lt French, En Barker. 7th: Capt Brooke, Lt Whiteway, En Brundrit. 8th: Capt Pearson, En Adshead, Hon Assist Surg Mayer. 9th: Lt Bayley, jun., En West. 11th: Capt Edwards, Lt Craig, En Lloyd, Hon Assist Surg Russell. 12th: Capt Fleming, 1st Lt Nield, En Robinson. 13th: Capt Astley, 1st Lt Ashton, 2nd Lt Hall, Hon Assist Surg Aspland. 14th: Capt Jones, Lt Dixon, En Glen, Hon Assist Surg Lingard. 15th: Capt Leigh, Lt Davies, En Jackson. 17th: Capt Coppock, Lt M'Clure, En M'Clure. 18th: Capt Emmerson, Lt Eskrigge, En Thorneley. 19th: Capt Wilkinson, Lt Fernley, En Smith. 20th: Capt Sykes, Lt Barnsley, En Hill. 21st: Capt Howard, Lt Hyde, En Turton. 25th: Capt Watkin, Lt Cunliffe (Sandbach), Capt Tipping, Lt Howard (Timperley), Capt Lyon, Lt Gardiner, En Gardiner (Rock Ferry), Capt Jones (Frodsham), Capt Hitchen, Lt Jackson.

WILTSHIRE—1st: Capt Jacob, Lt Robinson, Hon Assist Surg Cardell. 2nd: Capt Clark, Lt Clark, En Foley. 3rd: Capts W T Keene, P Keene; Lt Luce, En Handy. 5th: En Hayward. 7th: Capt Taylor, Lt Hitchcock, En Wheeler. 10th: Lt Davis, En Scott, Hon Assist Surg Bleeck. (Westbury) Capt Ludlow, Lt Ward, En Pinniger, Hon Assist Surg Gibbs. (Melksham) Capt Lopes, Lt Yockney, En Awdry.

SUSSEX—1st: Lt-Col Moorsom. 2nd: Capt Meek, Lt Sergison, En Hankey. 4th: Capt Hunt, Lt Gell, En Beard. 5th: Capt Margary, Lt Ramsden, En Head. 6th: Capt Bartelot, En Visct Turnour. 7th: Lt Pipon, En Sir J H Pelly.

EDINBURGH CITY—Lt Col Moncrieff, Maj Davidson; Capts Gordon, Anstruther, Dalzell, Webster, M'Callum, Gorrie, Shand, Primrose, Sir G Home, Macdonald, Ballantyne, Cowan; Lts Black, Murray, Coulson, Carment, Dakers, Blackwood, Fullarton, Morison, Kenmore, Macgibbon, Lawson; Ens Mackenzie, Lees, Howden, Reid, Paterson, Smith, Ballantyne, Simson, Mellons, Turnbull; Lt Act Adjt Boyle.

ESSEX.—1st: Capt Hamilton, Lt Holmes, En Gladding. 2nd: Capt Davis, Lt Clifton, En Harvey. 3rd: Capt Cooper, Lt Gonne, En Ind. 4th: Capt Tuffnell, Lt Bringhurst, En Hardcastle. 5th: Maj Com Capper, Capt Birt, Lt Drew, En Barnett, Surg Banks; Capts Gandon, Hawke, Corby; Lts Banes, Chalmers, Buckle; Ens Anderson, Stewart, Thurgood. 6th: Capt Sir C C de Crespigny; Lts Bishop, Green; Surg Nunn. 7th: Lt Tawke. En Barnard. 9th: Capt Com Silver; Lts Crouch, Bailey; Assist Surg Morriss. 10th: First Lt Capt Lugard, RN; En Wood.

LANCASHIRE.—2nd: Capts Lund, Harrison, Robinson; Lts Johnson, Porter, Hornby; Ens Paterson, Yates, Parkinson, Eccles; Surg Shepherd. 4th: Capt Munn, Lt Aitkin, Hon Surg Whitaker. 5th: Capts Com Gladstone, Tinley; Lt Crosbie, En Busby. 6th: Lt-Col Visct Grey de Wilton, Maj Ashton; Capts Heywood, Peel, Westhead, Pearce, Richards, Sawyers, Knowles, Bleackley, Dugdale; Lts Mangnall, Ede, Westhead, Glover, Bleakley, Bagshaw, Goldsmith, Ford, Moore, Bridgford; Ens Bradshaw, Gleave, Mardesley, Bellhouse, Ashton, Dickens, Jervis, Nelson; Lt Act Paymaster Mawson, Capt and Act Adj Lathbury, Assist Surg Mann. 7th: Capt Hargreaves. 8th: Capt Com Hutchinson, Capt Price. 9th: Capt Greenall, Lt Plckmere, En Reynolds. 10th: Capt Saunders, Lt Gregson, En Sutterthwaite, Hon Surg Allen, MD. 11th: Capt Com Pedder; Capts Goodair, Eatham; Lts Gordan, Calvert; En Dawson. 13th: Lt Barron, En Robinson. 14th: Capt Com Bright, Capt Brady; Lts Jones, Jeoj; Ens Brevell, Brough. 15th: Maj Bourne; Capts Hamilton, Tucker, Eaton; Lts Heap, Rogerson, Slack; Ens Clare, Baron, Bentley, Molyneux; Surg Willans. 17th: Capt Com Dugdale, Capt Moore; Lts Slater, Dugdale; Ens Waddington, Roberts; Hon Surg Briggs, MD. 19th: Capt Com Mackenzie; Capts Maxwell, Dowie; Lts Ryrie, Cumming; Ens Fraser, Greenshields, Perkins. 21st: Capts Eckersley, Wright; Lts Gunning, Marshall; Ens Scott, Rowbottom; Assist Surg Heaton. 22nd: Capts Bright, Parr; Lt Mozley. 23rd: Capts Lees, Andrews; Lts Mellor, Clementson; Ens Nield, Garforth. 24th: Capt Fenton, Lt Fishwick, En Phillippi. 25th: Capt M'Neile, Lt Campbell, En Horsfall. 26th: Capts Thompson, Burrows; Lts Wood, Birley; Ens Maskell, Peace; Assist Surg Mackenzie. 27th: Capts Kearsley, Bridson, Bailey; Lts Knowles, Ormrod; Ens Caldwell, Bayley; Assist Surg Settle, MD. 28th: Lt-Col Deakin, Maj Barlow; Capts Turner, Willock, Hadfield, Scott, Porteous, D'Orville, Heath, Bathurst, Lavery; Lts Muir, Reid, Hall, Grey, L'Estrange, Dale, Leeming, Weston; Ens Sharp, Langton, Beattie, Moseley, Holmes, Souchay, Williams, Statham; Surg Bent, Assist Surg Birch. 29th: Lt Fair, En Stevenson. 30th: Capt Blackburne, Lt Greaves, Hon Surg Armitage, MD. 31st: Capt Walker. 33rd: Capt Com Preston; Capts Cunliffe, Mawson; Lts Ferguson, Kirk, Fisher; Ens Kirkman, Blair, Chantler; Surg Kirkman. 36th: Capt Green, Lt Watson. 37th: Capts Ainslie, Ramsden, Hannay, Beck; Lts Schneider, Kennedy, Heelis; Ens Hannay, Whittaker. 38th: Lt Martin. 39th: Capt Griffith, En Gibson. 40th: Maj Com Henry; Capts Ross, Brocks, Ellis, Noton; Lts Williams, Hall, Hilkirk, Walmsley, Noton, Knowles; Ens Wainwright, Foulkes, Pocknell, Tarr; Surg Winterbottom, Assist Surg Ward. 41st: Capt Patchett, Lt Tyson. 42nd: En Lucy. 43rd: Capt Slingsby, Lt Stagg, En Earle. 44th: Capt Naylor, Lt M'Kean. 46th: Capt Bowers, Lt Dorning, En Beckton, Hon Surg Dorning. 47th: Capts Gamble, Cross, Crossley, Pilkington, Gaskell; Lts Pilkington, West; Ens M Gill, Brock, Blinkhorn, Windus. 49th: Capt Birley, Lt Bailey, En Stephenson. 51st: Lt De Bentley. 55th: Lt Jeo, En Kirkpatrick. 56th: Capt Hill, Lt Fletcher; Ens Sharratt, Lakeman. 59th: Lt Morrell, En Morrell. 1st: Capt Com Bousfield; Capts Taylor, Robertson; Lts Howard, Hushall; Assist Surg Lodge, MD. Clitheroe: Capt Garnett, Lt Leach, En Grimshaw. Atherton: Capt Fletcher, Lt Selby.

LEICESTERSHIRE—1st: Lt Donisthorpe, En Harris. 3rd: Capt Clarke, Lt Marriott, En Oldham, Hon Assist Surg Whitchurch. 4th: Capt Hodges. 5th: Capt Brewin, Lt Wordsworth, En Smith.

MIDLOTHIAN—1st: Capt Macgregor, Lt Gavin. 2nd: Capt Marjoribanks, Surg Struthers, MD. 3rd: Capt Gellon, Lt Todd. (Leith): Capt Kedslie, Lt Henry, En Kidd.

NORTHUMBERLAND—Capt Com Potter, Capt Bell; Lts Fawcus, Stevenson; En Adamson, Dr Bourne. 2nd: Lt Gibson, En Ridley, Hon Assist Surg Nicholson.

RENFREWSHIRE—1st: Capt Lowndes. 3rd: Capt Fullarton. 10th: En Rennie. 11th: Capt Campbell, Lt Ballantine. 14th: Capt Carlile, En Peacock. 17th: Capt Harvey, Lt Barvey, En M'Nab. 19th: Capt King. 6th: Capt Mackean, Lt Brown, En Coats. 20th: Capt Henderson, En Robin, Capt Crum.

NORTHAMPTONSHIRE—1st: Lt Beasley. 2nd: Capt Earl of Pomfret. 4th: Capt Barr, Lt Hollis, En Wetton. 6th: Capt Hon G Fitzwilliam, Lt Deacon.

DORSET—1st: Capt Com Templer; Lts Edwards, Hormsell; Ens Gundry, Loggin; Surg Hormsell. 2nd: Capt Farrer, Lt Lacey. 3rd: Capt Kindersley, Lt Coombs, En Devenish, Hon Assist Surg, Panton. 4th: Capt Parr, Lt Cox, En Aldridge. 6th: Capt Coventry, Lt Rawlins, En Robinson, Hon Surg Rowe. 8th: Capt Mansel, Lt Farquharson, En Johns. 9th: En Bennett.

NORFOLK.—1st: Maj Com Brett; Capts Middleton, Patteson, Gurney, Foster, Reeve; Lts Seaman, Croker, Barwell, Keith; Ens Creswell, Master, Gurney, Jolly, Godwin. 4th: Capt Orde, Lt Youell, En Tomlinson; Hon Assist Surg Palmer. 5th: Capt Brev Col Swatman, Lt Creswell, En Gurney, Hon Assist Surg Dr Lowe. 6th: Lt Com Scott, En Ernnin. 7th: Capt Matlock, En Chaston. 8th: Lt Frere, En Salmon. 9th: Lt Beauchamp, En Gilbert. 10th: Lt Com Sir W Jones, En Hamond. 14th: Lt Hollway, En Blyth.

STAFFORDSHIRE—1st: Capt Elwell, Lt Sir F E Scott, En Mole, Hon Surg Hopkins. 2nd: Capt Harvey, Lt Clarke, En Goddard, Surg Dr Goddard. 3rd: Capt Westhead, Lt Bourne, En Dimmock, Hon Surg Fother. 4th: Capt Darwell, Lt Newman, En Clarke, Hon Assist Surg Edwards. 5th: Lt-Col Vernon, Lt Walton, En Underhill, Hon Assist Surg Dr Newnham. 6th: Capt Edwards; Lts Elliott, Baker; Hon Surg Walker. 7th: Lt Wardle, En Ratcliff. 8th: Capt Bass, Lt Gretton, jun, En Anderson, 9th: Capt Adams, Lt Peake, En Bull. 10th: Capt Hollins, Lt Copeland, Assist Surg Ashwell. 11th: Capt Burrows, Lt Hall, En Homfray, Hon Assist Surg Underhill. 12th: Capt Bagnall, Lt Whitehouse, En Waterhouse, Hon Assist Surg Hancox. 13th: Capt Williamson, Lt Williamson, En Brindley. 14th: Lt Strongi'th'arm, En Stanley. 15th: Capt Smith, Lt Firmstone, En Cochrane. 16th: Capt Knight, Lt Dutton, En Mayer, Assist Surg Turner. 17th: Capt Aston, Lt Sparrow, En Aston. 18th: Capt Mathews, Lt Burrows, En Pearson. 19th: Capt Willington, Lt Neville, En Mayow. 20th: Capt Bagnall, jun., Lt Williams, En Hooper, Hon Assist Surg Kite. 21st: Lt Spode, En Landor. 23rd: Capt Gough, Lt Tudor, En Ironmonger. 25th: Capt Visct Sandon, En Lea, Hon Chap Rev C Dew. 26th: Capt Gough, Lt Deakin (Brownhill), Capt Harrison, Lt Harrison, En Boyd.

BERKSHIRE—Maj Com Lt-Col L Lindsay. 1st: Capt Sir C P Hunter, Lt Blandy, En Atkins, Hon Assist Surg May, Capt Stephens, En Simonds. 2nd: Capt Hon L Ruthven, Lt Evans, En Couper. 3rd: Lt Eyre, En Cherry. 4th: Lt Jenkins. 5th: Lt-Col Vansittart, Lt Sawyer, En Micklem.

INVERNESS-SHIRE—1st: Capt Mackenzie, En Macandrew.

KENT—1st: Capt Maj Scott, Lt Moore; En Wigan, Hon Chap Rev W Hill. 2nd: Capt Young, Lt Burgess; Ens Owen, Daniel; Hon Surg Hillier. 3rd: Capt Farnall, Lt Drury, En Barnett, Hon Surg Carr, Chap Rev Selwyn. 4th: Capt Thorold (Col) Lt Carter, En Butler. 5th: Capt Plummer, Lt Austin, En Saukey, Hon Surg Holtrum. 6th: Capt Austin, Lt Fielding, En Dilmar. 7th: Lt Morris, En Walmesley. 9th: Capt Russell, Lt Crossman, En Morphew. 9th: En Stevens. 11th: Capt Lubbock. 12th: Capt Fleet, Lt Rashleigh; En Butler, Surg Tippets. 15th: Capt Harris, Lt Bristow, En Marchant, Hon Assist Surg Scott. 16th: Capt Dyke, Lt Baring, En Gascoigne. 17th: Capt Fisher, Lt Wigg, En Lutwidge. 18th: Capt Bowden, Lt Satterthwaite, En Norman. 19th: Lt Smith, En Marsh. 21st: Lt Parker, En Newman. 23rd: Capt Wells, En Turner. 25th: Lt Rogers, En Barnes. 27th: Capt Wilkinson, Lt Pembroke, En Stubbing, Hon Assist Surg Downing. 28th: Capt Col Congdon, Lt Graham, En Caryl. Royal Arsenal, Woolwich: Col Com Col Tulloh; Capts Oram, Piper, Thorpe, Forrest, Toms, Tozer, Hay; Lts Pilman, Smith, Rennell, Campbell, Henry, Butters, Liddell; Ens Smith, Rowe, Brown, Bell, Keeble, Horne, Shackles.

YORKSHIRE (WEST RIDING)—1st: Capt Com Maj Briggs, Lt Lloyd, En Severne, Hon Surg Paley. 2nd: Capt Meek, Lt Sutton, En Wood. 10th Corps, 1st Com: Capt Com Beaumont, Lt Butler, En Harrison, Hon Surg Bottomley. 2nd: Capt Crosland, Lt Brook, En Brooke. 3rd: Lt Learoyd, En Day. 3rd Corps: Maj Com Lister; Capts Foster, Smith, Farrar. 7th: Maj Akroyd; Capts Kirk, Holdsworth, Ingram; Lts Emmet, Franklin, Holroyde, Fuller, Haigh; Ens Sowerby, Holdsworth, Barstow, Appleyard. 11th: Maj Com Armitage; Capts Horsfall, Wilkinson, Kinnear; Lts D'Arcy, Blackburne, Kitson, Piper, Marklands, Atkinson; Ens Appleton, Smith, Hudson; Surg Dr Smith. Hallamshire Corps: Maj Com Overend; Capts Brown, N Creswick, J G A Creswick, Vickers, Bragge; Lts Ellis, Vickers, Prest, Webster, Waterall; Ens Wood, Marshall, Smith, Flocton, Brown. 9th: Capt Holdsworth, Lt Charlesworth, En Alder. 15th: En Ingleby. 16th: Capt Harrison, Lt Holt, En Dury. 17th: Capt Brown, Lt Radcliffe, En Hodgson. 18th: Capt Lee, Lt Temple, En Robeson, Hon Surg Simpson. 19th: Capt Chambers, Lt Hirst, En Hirst. 21st: Capt Pilkington, Lt Smith, En Collinson. 22nd: Capt Robinson, Lt Cousins, En Irwin. 27th: Capt Shaw. 30th: Lt Farrer, En Yerdall.

WARWICKSHIRE—1st: Lt-Col Com Scott, Capt Sanders, Lt Gem, En Burt, Surg Hill. 2nd: Capt Hartopp, Lt Rooins, En Caldicott. 4th: Capt Atty, Lt Benn, En Wratislaw. 5th: Capt Machen, Lt Heath, En Muntz. 6th: Capt Attwood, Lt Reeves, En Cheshire. 7th: Capt Perrott, Lt Flower, En Hunt. 8th: Capt Lloyd, Lt Dixon, En Barclay. 9th: Capt Elkington, Lt Williams, En Scholefield. 10th: Capt Everitt, En Kimberley. 11th: Capt Ratcliff, En Staney. 12th: Capt Richards, Lt Hollis, Capt Mason, Lt Briggs, En Edwards.

LINCOLNSHIRE—2nd: Capt Smyth, Lt Chaplain. 4th: Capt Hopkins, Lt Wright, En Gee, Hon Surg Tuxford. 5th: Capt Lt-Col Cautley, Lt Newcomb, En Phillips. 13th: Capt Hilliam, Lt Selby, En Maples, jun; Hon Chap Rev Moore, Hon Assist Surg Dr Ball. 14th: Hon Assist Surg Roberts. 1st: Capt Com Amcotts, Capt Trollope; Lts Shuttleworth, Cailine, Clayton; Surg Walsh, En Stephenson.

DENBIGH—Capt Sir W Wynn; Lts M'Corquodale, Pugh, Roberts; En Napier.

HAMPSHIRE—1st: Col Faunce, Capt Simeon, En Godwin, Hon Surg La Croix. 4th: Capt Davison, Lt Longcroft, En Birt, Hon Assist Surg Stedman, Capt Barry, Lt St Barbe, En Wilson.

SOMERSET—3rd: Lt Allen, En Easton. 4th: Capt Allen, Lt Allen, En Mais. 6th: Capt Law, Lt Baker, En Whitting. 7th: Capt Ireland, Lt Simmons, En Lyne. 8th: Capt Borridge, Lt Thomas, En Bridge. 9th: Lt Halliday, En Blommark. 10th: Capt Lovell, Lt Foster, En Berryman. 12th: Assist Surg Dr Nicholls, En Boucher. 17th: Lt Robertson, En Falkner. 18th: Capt Holme, Lt Weston, En Cook (Bath), Capt Ford, Lt Inman, En Inman, Hon Assist Surg Bartrum (Bridgewater and Polden-hill), Lt Bate (Bathwick), Capt Austey, Lt Burne, Hon Assist Surg Bagshawe.

FORFARSHIRE—1st: Capt Alison, Lt Jack, En Stephen. 2nd: Capt Anderson, En Bell. 3rd: Capts Pitcairn, Dickson; En Walker. 4th: Capts Low, Muir; Lt Small, Anderson. 5th: Lt Smart. 6th: Capt Cox, Lt Johnstone, En Marshall. 7th: Capt Miller, Lt Barrie, En Kay. 8th: En Thain.

CAMBRIDGESHIRE—2nd: Capt Fryer, Lt Jackson, En Young, Hon. Surg Fawssett. 4th: Lt Loomes, En Bowker. Cambridge Volunteer Rifle Corps: Capt Prest, Lt Barlow, En Claydon, Surg Hall. University Volunteers: Maj Baker, Capts Holland, Burn, Hughes, Newberry, Sturges; Lts Royds, Boulnois, Smith, Willis, Darroch, Northey, Mortlock, Hardy; Ens Harvey, Ingham, Bayford, Hankey, Scriven, Oakeley; Surg Haviland; Rev Emery, chaplain.

SHROPSHIRE—1st: Lt Bayley, En Chandler, Surg Clement. 2nd: Lt Wilkinson, En Warren, Hon Assist Surg Sandford. 3rd: Lt Brookes, En Clay, Surg Groome. 4th: Capt Lloyd, Lt Smith, En Bacho, Hon Assist Surg Mathias. 5th: Capt Edwardes. 6th: Capt Lowndes, Lt Blakeway, En Anslice. 9th: Capt Field, Lt Patchett, En Peele, Chap Rev F W Kittermaster, Surg Burd, M.D. Wellington: Capt Eyton, En Anslow.

LONDON—London Rifle Brigade: Lt-Col Hicks, Maj Eastwick, Adj Ewens, Surg May, Assist-Surg Propert. 1st: Capt Rose, Lt Carter, En Hanson. 2nd: Capt Allen, Lt Sewell, En Kinnaird. 3rd: Capt Gardner, Lt Simms, En Pinkney. 4th: Capt Poole, Lt Finch, En Hopkinson. 5th: Lt Dollond, En Stretton. 6th: Capt Pawson, Lt Hopkinson, En Worth. 7th: Lt M'Lachlan, En Towse. 8th: Lt Bainbridge, En Curson. 9th: Lt Haywood, En Vallance. 10th: En Frodsham.

EAST YORK—1st: Maj Pease, Capt Cooke, Lt Parker, En Brodrick, Hon Assist-Surg Ardan. 2nd: Capt Bannister, Lt Ayre, En Winkley. 3rd: Lt Clarke, En Carter. 4th: Capt Norwood, En Ringrose, Hon Assist Surg Holden. 5th: Capt Prickett, Lt Harland, En Barugh, Hon Chap Rev H Barnes, Hon Assist Surg Allison. 6th: Lt Hodgson, En Bainton. 7th: Capt White, Lt Blyth, En Glover, Hon Assist Surg Gibson.

WORCESTER—Capt Knight, Lt Hancocks, En Handcocks. 3rd: Capt Talbot, Lt Dixon, En Brinton. 4th: Capt Knapp, Lt Bird, En Motteram. 5th: Capt Marcy, Lt Bury, En Biddle. 7th: Capt Wainwright, Lt Sandars, En Howitt. 8th: Capt Rogers, Lt Harrison, En Danks. 11th (Worcestershire): Lt-Com Sir H E T Lambert. 11th (Evesham): Capt Workmen, Lt Smythe, En Foster. Pershore: Capt Scobell, Lt Shekell, En Ball. Stourbridge: Capt Foster, Lt Grazebrock, En Evers. Capt Lowe, Lt Norris, En M'Laughlin.

HERTFORDSHIRE—1st: Capt Earl Cowper, Lts Baker, Hon H Cowper. 2nd: Lt Hon R Capel, En Humbert. 4th: Capt Cust, Lt Paxton.

PERTHSHIRE—1st: Capt Moncrieff, Lt Duncan, En Greig. 2nd: Lt Walker, En Sandeman.

KINCARDINESHIRE—2nd: Lt Ferguson.

HAVERFORDWEST—1st: Capt Peel, Lt Carrow.

HADDINGTON—Capt Roughead.

CARMARTHEN—Capt Visct Emlyn, Lt Thomas. 2nd: Capt Edwardes, Lt Norton, En Lewis, Surg Watkins.

LANARK—1st: En Morrison. 2nd: Capt Rankins, Lt M'Ghie. 3rd: Capt Dreghorn, Lt Cochran, En Maclean. 4th: Maj Jamieson, Capts Taylor, Murray, Galbraith, J G Anderson, G Anderson, Muir; Lts Rankin, Fulton; Ens Winton, Murray, Pollock, Hamilton, Hendry. 8th: Capt Anderson, Lt Wilson, En Wilson. 9th: Capt Robertson, En Cowan. 10th: Capt Dixon, Lt Neil, En London. 11th: Lt Leadbitter, En Brown. 14th: Capt Gunniss, Lt Kerr, En Black. 15th: Capt M'Gregor, En Wright. 18th: Capt Simpson, En Muirhead. 17th: Capt Auld, Lt Guild, En Menteith. 18th: En Lockhead, jun. 19th: Maj Reid; Capts Law, Thomson, Mitchell; Lts Arnott, Dick, Mather, Stewart; En Rodger. 22nd: Capt Cogan. 29th: Capt Jackson. 31st: Capt Mackintosh, Lt Elgin, En M'Gregor. 32nd: Capt Neilson, Lt Lang. 33rd: Capt Wingate, En Howit. 34th: Capt Crawford, Lt Russell, En Wilson. 35th: Capt Clark, En Russell, jun. 38th: Capt Bousted. 39th: Capt Burns, Lt Skeoch, En Graham. 40th: Capt Rigby. 44th: Capt Reid, Lt Watkins, En Reid, jun. 45th: Capt Gowland, Lt Forbes, En M'Culloch. 46th: Capt Henderson, En Johnstone. 47th: Capt Mowat, Lt Smith. 48th: Capt Kidd, 2nd Lt Addie. 51st: Capt Buchanan. 52nd: Capt Nisbet, Lt Forrest, jun; En Dykes. 54th: Capt Steel, Lt Morier. 55th: Capt Bertram, Lt Gilroy. 56th: Capt Turner, Lt Bain. 58th: Capt Thomson, Lt Colquhoun, En M'Callum. 59th: En Robertson. 60th: Capt M'Farlan, Lt Campbell, En Whyte, jun, Hon Assist Surg Buchanan, M D. 61st: Capt Reid, Lt Kerr, En M'Gregor. 66th: En Stewart. 67th: Capt Laidlaw, Lt Kennedy. 68th: En Graham. 74th: Lt Cumming, En Sword. 75th: Capt Wilson.

LANARKSHIRE—Capt Kerr, En Wilson.

LANARK—Capt Boag.

NOTTINGHAMSHIRE—1st: Lt-Col Crawfurd; Maj Patchitt; Capts Starey, R. Birkin, T Birkin, Parsons, Smith, Mundella, Hadden, Morley; Lts R Patterson, J Patterson, Lambert, Evans, Wright, Allcock, Farmer, Felkin; Ens Bradley, Baker, Miller, Bond, Johnson, Samuels; En and Adj White, Hon Surg Robertson, Surg Wright. 2nd: Capt Burnaby, Lt Wagstaff, En Smith, Hon Surg Pritchard. 3rd: Lt Newton, En Betts, Hon Assist Surg Job. 5th: En Flukinson. 6th: Lt Woolley. Mansfield: Capt Salmond, Lt Paget, En Seely, Surg Sparke. Worksop: Capt Mason.

ABERDEENSHIRE—6th: Capts Robinson, Abernethy; Lts Grant, Duthie, Adamson; En Clark. Aberdeen: Capts Stevenson, Jopp, Espin; Lt Skene; Ens Scott, Cooper.

CINQUE PORTS—1st: Capt Waldegrave, Lt Crake; Ens Rock, Watts, jun. 2nd: Capt Mackinnon, MP; Lt Saunders, En Bellingham, Dr Davis. 7th: Capt Cox, Lt Standring, En Price, Hon Assist Surg Thornton.

MONMOUTHSHIRE—1st: Capt Baldwyn, Lt Evans, En Carruthers. 2nd: Capt Roden, Lt Hawkins, Hon Assist Surg Essex. 3rd: Ens Homfray, Cartwright. 4th: Capt Homfray, Lt Coates, En Waters. 5th: Lt Steel, En Conway. 6th: Capt King, Lt Evans, En Isaacson, Hon Surg Prosser. 7th: Capt Cathcart, Lt Phillpots, En Wilmett.

MERIONETHSHIRE—1st: Capt Richardson, Lt Glegg.

AYR—1st: Capt Picken, Lt Railton, En Andrews. 2nd: Capt Smith, Lt Paterson, En Gilmour. 3rd: Lt Paton. 4th: Lt Elder, En Blair. 5th: Capt Browne, Lt Murray. 7th: Capt Barbour.

DUMFRIES—1st: Capt Dudgeon, Lt Sloan, En Gordon. Upper Nithsdale: Capt Kennedy, Lt Hyslop, En Macqueen.

ELGIN—Capt Culbard, Lt Squire, En Cumming.

ARGYLL—1st: Lt Browne.

CARDIGAN—2nd: Capt Com Richardes, En Morgan (Aberbank), Lt Lloyd, Commandant.

DURHAM—1st: Capt Thompson; Lts Watson, Close; En Mills. 3rd: Capt Com Chapman; Capts Gourley, Harrison, Burn; Lts Potts, Huntley, Dixon, Baron; Ens Iliff, Reed, Smurthwaite; Surg Johnson (Gateshead); Capt Com Hawks, Capt Hawks, Lt Bigger, En Leckman, Surg Robinson, M.D. (South Shields); Capt Williamson, Lt Anderson, En Young, Hon Assist Surg Redley.

BUTE—1st: Capt Mackirdy, Lt Macbeth, En Maclachlan.

NORTH YORKSHIRE—Capt Copperthwaite, Lt Walker, Surg Jones. 3rd: Capt Worsley, Lt Stevens. 12th: Capt Other, Lt Chapman.

YORKSHIRE (WEST RIDING)—25th: Capt Thompson, Lt Baker, En White. 27th: En Greenwood, Hon Assist Surg Greenwood, Capt Wilson. 1st: Lt Robinson. 2nd: Lt Alcock.

MONTGOMERY—1st: Capt Drew, 1st Lt Jones, 2nd Lt Lloyd.

CARNARVON—Capts Cazzey, Mathew, Williams; Lts Hughes, Owen, Poole, Francis, Roberts; Ens Pugh, Jones, Rees.

CORNWALL—1st: Capt Tremenheere, Lt Dobree. 2nd: Capt Bickford, Lt Hutchinson, En Pike. 4th: Capt Hawker, Lt Childs, En Sobey. 5th: Capt Kempthorne, Lt Snell. 7th: Capt Tyacke, Lt Hill, En Read. 8th: Lt Gilbert. 9th: Lt Carlyon. 10th: Lt Hawley, En Wallis. 11th: Lt Cock, En Parkyn. 12th: Capt Collins, Lt Henderson. 13th: Lt Hanson.

ROSS-SHIRE.—1st: Capt Macleod, Lt Munro. 2nd: Capt Mackenzie. 3rd: Lt Mackenzie.

RADNORSHIRE.—1st: Capt Mynors, Lt Bearan, En Jones, Chap Rev C Blackburn, Surg Aduey.

SELKIRKSHIRE (GALA FOREST)—En Cochrane.

ISLE OF WIGHT.—1st: Lt Oglander, Bart; En Leeds, Surg Allard. 2nd: Capt Sir J Simeon, Lt Estcourt, En Tooke. 3rd: Lt Rendall, En Edwards. 5th: Lt Com Hambrough, En Fisher.

BEDFORDSHIRE.—1st: Lt Jackson, En Howard, Hon Surg Evans.

DUMBARTONSHIRE—1st: Lt Wilson. 8th: Lt Com Cabbell. East Kilpatrick: Capt Colquhoun, Lt Ewing, En Kirkwood.

KIRKCUDBRIGHTSHIRE—1st: Capt Lawrie. 2nd: Capt Mackie, M P, Lt Bell.

FIFE.—1st: Capt Com Beveridge, Lt Mathewson, En Dobie. 2nd: Capt Mathieson, L Laudale.

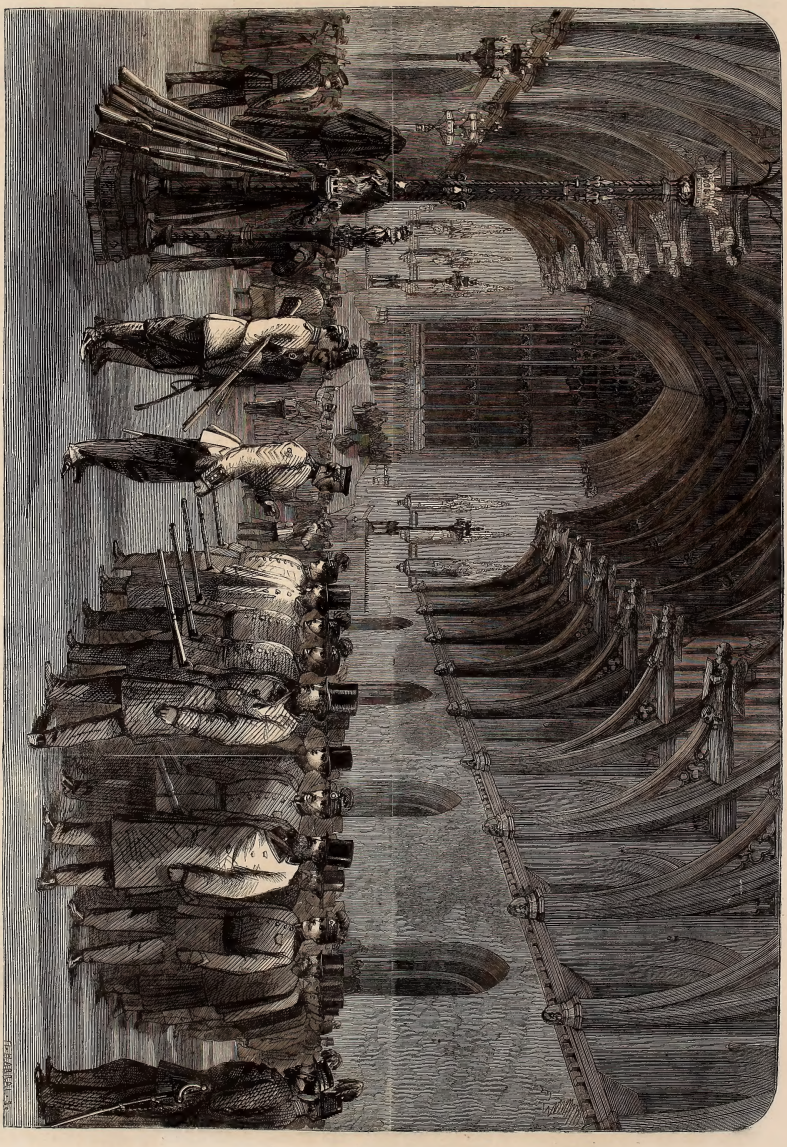
NEWCASTLE-UPON-TYNE—1st: Lt-Col Com Sir J Fife, Maj Redmayne; Lts Green, Gray, En Crighton, Surg Angus. 2nd: Capt Mather, Lt Nesham, En Dunn. 3rd: Capt Scott, Lt Welford, En Burnup. 4th: Capt Pattinson, Lt Laing, En Laing. 5th: Capt Cruddas, Lt Cruddas, En Jobling. 6th: Capt Tove, Lt Smith, En Morden. 8th: Capt Bousfield.

THE VOLUNTEERS' BALL AT THE FLORAL HALL, COVENT-GARDEN THEATRE.

THE Floral Hall was first opened to the public on Wednesday, the 7th of March, on the occasion of the Volunteers' Ball, of which we now give an Illustration. Since the erection of the Crystal Palace many structures have been erected of iron and glass, most of which, having served their temporary purposes, have now passed away. The Floral Hall, having more pretensions to permanency and architectural effect than the majority of its predecessors, is, we trust, destined for a longer existence. As our readers may remember, the Floral Hall adjoins the new Covent-garden Opera House, and is connected with it—the whole having been erected from the designs of Mr. Edward M. Barry, of Old Palace-yard. The Floral Hall may be described as a gigantic conservatory, 220 feet long, 75 feet wide, and 55 feet high. There are entrances from Bow-street, and from the Piazza in Covent-garden Market; and the latter, being at right angles to the former, causes the building to take the form of the letter L. The roof is arched; and at the point of intersection—that is to say, where the small arm of the L joins the large one—a lofty dome rises above the other roofs. The dome is 50 feet wide, and is more than 100 feet high from the pavement of the Piazza to the top of the terminal. The building is, as we have said, 75 feet wide, and is divided longitudinally into what may be called nave and aisles. The nave is 50 feet wide, and is covered by a semicircular roof of the same dimensions. The aisles are each 12½ feet wide, and have flat, sloping roofs. Light cast-iron arches filled with tracery separate the nave and aisles; and above the arches, and running entirely round the building, is a perforated cornice of great elaboration and delicacy. Each point in the cornice is composed of a gas jet; and when these are all lighted the effect is very beautiful. The side walls are decorated with arches and panels, which on the Wednesday were ornamented with flowers. Openings for ventilation were provided in the top of the roof running the whole length of the building, and also at the springing and the top of the dome. The whole of the ironwork is painted white, and relieved by gilding. There are extensive cellars, eighteen feet high, under the whole of the building; the floor above being supported by iron columns, which are made available for purposes of ventilation,

"UNDER THE VINES—ITALY."—BY HARRY JOHNSON.—IN THE EXHIBITION OF THE BRITISH INSTITUTION.

These cellars were used as the supper-room on the occasion of the ball; the special decorations for which were very tasteful. Roses, connected by gilt stalks, were hung from the semicircular vault in such abundance as to give the notion of a floral bower. The arches were decorated with similar ornaments of various hues, and festoons hung upon every projection available for the purpose. The shape of the building was made out by lines of fire, in consequence of the adoption of the mode of lighting above described. In addition to this, however, chandeliers hung from the main roofs, and from every arch, and rows of wax candles were placed against the side walls. The floor was covered with a dark crimson druggot. A temporary gallery, tastefully decorated, was erected at the Bow-street end for the lady patronesses; and a similar erection, but of smaller dimensions, placed at the further end and under the dome, accommodated the musicians. There were several entrances to the theatre, which was open and lighted as if for an evening performance, and thus became available as part of the ballroom.



As regards the ball itself a few particulars from the Morning Post, in addition to the account which we gave last week, must suffice:—At half-past nine the doors were opened for the admission of company. Already a long line of carriages was in waiting, but such were the admirable arrangements of the authorities that nine parties were enabled to alight at once beneath the colonnade of the Opera House, whence, passing up the grand staircase, the visitors were introduced into the ballroom. This went on for half an hour, at the expiration of which time the hall became thickly dotted with different parties, which soon accumulated into a crowd. At ten o'clock the orchestra, consisting of fifty musicians, under the conduct of Messrs. Coote and Tuney, struck up the opening quadrille. The company at once responded with all the ease of a private ballroom, and arranged themselves for the dance, thus giving a most agreeable index of what the evening promised. Presently the lady patronesses began to enter the gallery set apart for them. Amongst the earliest arrivals were the Duchess of Wellington and the Duchess of Somerset, followed by the Duchess of Montrose, the Countess Craven, the Countess of Fife, the Countess Frances Waldegrave and Lady Saltoun, the Hon. Mrs. Sidney Herbert, and many other ladies of distinction. This gallery was a source of great attraction during the evening, not only from the exceeding beauty of many of its fair occupants, but from the illustrious names they bore, and the pleasure which their presence on such an occasion imparted throughout the assembly. The hall now becoming more full, two lines of dancers were formed, and all went merrily, gossips reporting among the promenaders that the line of carriages outside the building even now extended to Hyde Park, which made those who had arrived earlier congratulate themselves on their foresight. When the ball was well filled the coup d'œil was very striking, in consequence of the unusual brightness imparted to the scene by the almost universal adoption of uniform. After a few dances the earlier arrivals began to retire into the Opera House, on the stage of which refreshment-tables were arranged for the service of ices and other light refreshments by Messrs. Gunter. From these tables the company strolled into the body of the house, the boxes and stalls of which became gradually filled, presenting a scene of unusual animation and variety. Viewed from the boxes the stage itself had all the semblance of a magnificent banquet scene, and the grouping was occasionally of a striking and picturesque character. The complete ease, says one account, with which five thousand guests were entertained was really wonderful, and reflected great credit on all the persons engaged in the planning and in the conduct of the entertainment. Perhaps the highest compliment that could be paid to the perfection of the arrangement was the descent, in a body, about one o'clock, of the ladies patronesses from their gallery into the supper saloon, where they shared with the guests, and partook of the general enjoyment.

RIFLE VOLUNTEERS DRILLING IN WESTMINSTER HALL.

This drill, which previous to the opening of Parliament took place in the hall every evening, is now confined to Wednesdays and Saturdays, on which evenings there are present from five to seven hundred volunteers of the different metropolitan corps. The London Scottish, who muster generally from three to four hundred; the South Middlesex, the Irish, and the Civil Service Brigade, each have their "squads" in various stages of progress, from the "awkward" (a name mentioned in the Volunteer Drill Manual) to the "efficient." The drill commences at five o'clock, and continues with little intermission till nine, each company working at it for two hours. A few members appear in uniform, the majority preferring their ordinary dress. The drill sergeants are selected from the Guards, the Scotch Fusileers apparently supplying the greater number.

"UNDER THE VINES—ITALY."—BY HARRY JOHNSON.

BELLA ITALIA! So richly endowed with every gift of nature, with bright skies and bounteous soil, 'tis man alone that prevents your beauteous land from becoming a perfect paradise. Mr. Johnson's picture, "Under the Vines—Italy," in the British Institution this year, conjures up a fairylike vision of the beautiful scenery of an Italian mountain district, the vines trained high up over head in extensive plantations ripening in the sun, and themselves producing an agreeable shade beneath; the placid lake stretching out to the distant mountain range, and cooling the breeze as it skims along its surface; goats and various birds completing the pastoral scene. In a pictorial sense Mr. Johnson's work is one of the most striking amongst the numerous landscapes which stud the walls of the gallery, being so bright and risant in character, with just sufficient of life and action to prevent the calmness of the scene degenerating into monotony. And yet it is but a true transcript of Nature as she appears on all hands in this favoured land of poetry and beauty.

RIFLE CORPS PRACTICE IN WESTMINSTER HALL.—SEE PRECEDING PAGE.

EPITOME OF NEWS—FOREIGN AND DOMESTIC.

The Speaker of the House of Commons held his last levee on Wednesday.

Her Majesty's Theatre will be opened by Mr. Smith on Easter Tuesday.

The Ulster, of which we gave an engraving last week, is of 2000 tons burden.

The Earl of Southesk has returned from his hunting expedition in the Rocky Mountains.

The subscriptions towards the Papal tribute from Ireland will probably swell to something like £50,000

Miss Burdett Coutts has established an evening school for young fishermen and apprentices at Torquay.

The schooner-brig Youth, about 156 tons burden, belonging to Jersey, was lost off St. Vincent, Cape de Verd, on the 20th ult.

The Right Rev. Dr. Blake, titular Bishop of Dromore, died on Thursday week, in Newry, at the patriarchal age of eighty-five years.

The date fixed for the performance of the Orphéonists of France in the Crystal Palace at Sydenham is from the 24th to the 30th of June.

The deliveries of tea in London estimated for last week were 1,170,625lb., an increase of 575,776lb. compared with the previous statement.

One of the residents at Sebastopol has rebuilt, at his own expense, the church in the cemetery, which was destroyed during the siege.

The Queen has approved of Mr. John Ogilvy Hay as Consul at Akyab for his Royal Highness the Grand Duke of Oldenburg.

Mr. Frere, who has been Bursar of Downing College, Cambridge, has been appointed to the editorship of the Journal of the Royal Agricultural Society of England.

The mail steamer Pera, which arrived at Southampton last Sunday, has brought home a hippopotamus calf, and two rare and curious tchou birds from Upper Egypt.

The pictures are being hung for the Seventh Annual Exhibition of French and Flemish Artists at the gallery in Pall mall. A private view will be given on Saturday (to-day).

At the colliery of Messrs. Smith and Co., Stainbrough, near Barnsley, on Thursday se'nnight, two men were killed by the falling upon them of a large portion of the roof.

Within the last few days two drinking fountains, of bronze, have been opened to the public—one in the crowded locality of Brewer-street, Somers Town; the other in Cromer-street.

A committee of gentlemen has been formed for the erection of a portrait-statue of Dr. Priestley among the distinguished men of science in the corridor of the new Museum at Oxford.

Intelligence has just reached this country that the Portuguese man-of-war Mindego has foundered near the Island of Reunion, in the Eastern Ocean, and forty of her crew had been drowned.

Mr. James Grignon, now Consul at Portland, United States, is appointed Consul at Teneriffe; and Mr. Henry J. Murray, now Consul at the Canary Islands, is appointed Consul at Portland.

The usual notice has been given to artists proposing to send their pictures to the Royal Academy for exhibition. This year the latest day for sending in pictures will be Tuesday, April the 10th.

The Massilia, a new paddle-wheel steamer, 1700 tons burden and 400-horse power, built for the Peninsular and Oriental Company, is appointed to take out the Bombay mail of the 27th inst.

Arrangements are in progress for erecting a telegraph-office on the racecourse at Newmarket, and uniting it, by a subterranean wire, with the existing telegraphic establishment at the railway station.

Lord Dufferin has been excavating on the banks of the Nile, and we understand (says the Builder) that a small temple, with the columns in situ, and a number of inscriptions, have rewarded the search.

The Rev. Father Kelly, who was committed by Mr. Justice Hill on Monday week, at the Durham Assizes, for contempt of court, was, by his Lordship's order, liberated on the following Wednesday.

There was an explosion of an engine-boiler at Totnes on Tuesday. The roof of a shed was partially blown off, and one man in the employ of the South Devon Railway was killed.

The extensive premises of Mr. Ishmael Fisher, wine-merchant, known as Fisher's Betting-house, Victoria-street, Holborn, were, on Tuesday morning, destroyed by fire.

The electric telegraph is about to be extended to the Wells and Burnham branch railway, in Somersetshire, so as to connect Bridgewater Bay, in the Bristol Channel, with London.

The keel of a new iron-sheathed line-of-battle ship is about to be laid down at Cherbourg. She will be 328 feet in length, with an iron prow thirty feet long, and be called the Napoleon I.

The dividends received by the Commissioners on account of the investments made for savings banks amounted, during the year 1859, to £1,694,955, and the interest paid and credited to trustees to £1,210,474.

Viscount Dillon met with a severe accident while hunting with Lord Redesdale's hounds on Saturday last, by which his Lordship dislocated his collar-bone.

Forty-one French papermakers have addressed a petition to the Emperor praying him not to remove the prohibition against the exportation of rags from France.

The steamer Sultan, which broke down in the Channel last week, with the Peninsular mail on board, arrived at Southampton on Tuesday, having been towed up the Channel by one of the Dublin and London steamers.

Dartmouth-row Chapel, Blackheath, belonging to the Earl of Dartmouth, which has been closed as a place of religious worship for some time, has been let as a place for drill for the Greenwich and Blackheath company of artillery volunteers, and as a store room.

The next examination of candidates for the appointment of Assistant Surgeon in her Majesty's Indian Military Forces will be held on Monday, July 9, and the probable number of vacancies to be then filled up will be twenty-five.

At the Liverpool Coroner's Court, on Tuesday, an inquest was held on the body of Sarah Dyke, a woman of intemperate habits, who was strangled by the sash of a window falling on her neck as she was entering her house in the middle of the night.

The Carlisle Journal says that the report of a fatal accident, near Langholm, to Mr. A. L. Tod, master of the Eskdale hounds, "has created considerable amusement in the neighbourhood of Langholm, where the circumstances were quite unknown."

Dr. Lindner, Professor in the University of Leipsic, has been convicted of the crime of stealing and mutilating some of the books and MSS. in the public library, and sentenced to six years' imprisonment, with hard labour.

The African and Sierra Leone Weekly Advertiser states that the latest intelligence of war operations confirm the reports of the total defeat of the Susus by the Timnehs, the slaughter of the former having been fearful.

A market has just been established at Gillingham, the present terminus of the Salisbury and Yeovil Railway, for fat beasts, cows, calves, pigs, fat sheep, corn, cheese, and butter. Gillingham is on the border of the famous vale of Blackmoor.

A subscription is on foot for the erection of a memorial window to Mrs. Hemans, to be placed in the church where she lies buried—that of St. Anne, Dublin. The estimated cost is £250, of which about one-fifth has been already promised to load the subscription.

The Mersey Dock Trust have decided to grant an allowance of £200 per annum to Mr. Gilbert Cummins, chief clerk to the engineer, who, after serving the trust for upwards of thirty-four years, has been compelled by declining health and advancing age to retire.

Last Saturday the steam-ship Otho, one of a fleet of sixty vessels intended to be built for the Greek Steam Navigation Company, was launched from the yard of Messrs. Langley, of Deptford. The Otho is a vessel of 800 tons, 224 feet in length, and 27 feet in breadth.

Some experiments have been made in cotton-growing in the Sandwich Islands. The produce of the native seed has been found to be almost valueless. The produce of New Orleans seed has turned out to be worth about 5½d. per lb., and of Sea Island seed about 17½d. per lb.

Mr. Cobden has addressed a letter to the Town Clerk of Rochdale, acknowledging the highly complimentary resolutions recently adopted by the Town Council of that borough. Mr. Cobden states that he shall resume his Parliamentary duties during the first week in April.

The Rev. H. L. Bickerstaffe, formerly of Leeds, was on Monday sentenced, at the York Assizes, to three years' penal servitude for bigamy; and Thomas Moore, who was found guilty of the manslaughter of his son, a boy eight years of age, at Barnsley, was sentenced to ten years' penal servitude.

CHESS.

TO CORRESPONDENTS.

T. N., SUBSCRIBER, and Others.—We know nothing of the arrangements of the London Chess Club tourney, or why it hangs fire.

W. S. PAVILL, DIABOLUS, W. KNIGHT, W. NICKLIN.—They shall be examined.

G. W.—Your opponent can persist in checking with the Queen while you adhere to the same train of defensive moves; and the game is then a drawn battle.

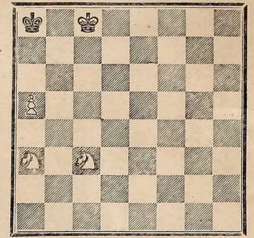
C. W. CLULOW.—What is the difficulty? The solution appears perfectly correct, with the exception of a trifling misprint of Q for R in the variation.

H. A. NISBETT.—1. There is no misprint or error of any kind in either the problem or solution mentioned that we can see. 2. Your solution of enigma No. 1142 is imperfect; that of No. 1143 is correct.

D. C. L., Oxford.—1. The article on chess in the seventh edition of the "Encyclopædia Britannica" was written by Mr James Donaldson, a famous Scottish player, who mainly conducted the games on the side of Edinburgh, in the match between London and Edinburgh, some thirty-five years ago. 2. A reprint of Caxton's "Game and Playe of the Chess, 1474," has been published lately, and we believe copies may be obtained of Russell Smith, Soho-square.

SOLUTIONS OF PROBLEM No. 838 by Jenkin, L. S. D., P. D., I. H., Meurice, B. S., R. M. T., W. G., Derevon, Old Salt, S. N. F.; R. S., Malines; Box and Cox, D. D., Miranda, I. F. P., H. W., G. R., T. J. of Hanworth, M. P., L. O., B. G. S., N. C., Harry, Major H. G., Travellers' Club, Fanny, C. W., T. H. E., S. P. L., A. L., German, F. Q., Joan Baunockburn, Schoolboy, P. G., Oliver, Stella, I. B., Manchester; S., Military College, Addiscomb; G. E. F. M. A., R. H., F. R. S., Thomas, Corporal Trim, Peregrine, O. P. Q., Herbert, I. M. of Sherburn, 1860, Peterkin, Kalaf, Willy, R. B., O'Keefe, Benjamin, R. A., Cantab, Larry, Mrs. Partington, Alpha, D. F. W., Medicus, Piebald, Phiz, Captain, Cormorant, S. T. P., W. W., J. D., B. E. W., R. H. I., Crab, H. M., Little Dorrit, E. F., T. H. H., Miles Czar, I. A. P., C. V., Clericus, C. S., A. T. S., E. S. P., Secretary, E. R., R. W. L., G. S., R. O. N., Delta, H. K. B., Leon, F. W. F., Yeoman, Antony, A Lady, Banjo, F. W. W., Dover, Rory O'More, T. Galway, Great Eastern, H. Sharpe, Œdipus, B. Divan, are correct. All others are wrong.

REYNARD.—The new Parisian chess organ, La Régence may be obtained in London, we learn, from Messrs. Bossange and Co., Great Marlborough-street, Oxford street.



L. D.; DELTA.—"Chess Praxis" is published by Bohn, York-street, Covent-garden.

HAROLD.—A letter inclosed to our office will suffice.

PROBLEM No. 839.

By an AMATEUR.

BLACK.

WHITE.

White to play, and mate in four moves.

CHESS IN SCOTLAND.

The two following games, between Mr. G. B. FRASER and an Amateur, are of interest, as illustrating what appears to be a valid replication to the ingenious defence introduced by Mr. Knight, M.P., to the old form of the "Allgaier Gambit."

(Allgaier Gambit.)

WHITE (Mr. F.)	BLACK (Mr. S.)	WHITE (Mr. F.)	BLACK (Mr. S.)
1. P to K 4th	P to K 4th	16. Kt to Q B 3rd	Q to K Kt 2nd (c)
2. P to K B 4th	P takes P	17. Kt to K 4th	B to K 2nd (d)
3. Kt to K B 3rd	P to K Kt 4th	18. P to Q 6th	B to Q sq
4. P to K R 4th	P to K Kt 5th	19. Kt to K B 6th (ch)	B takes Kt
5. Kt to K 5th	P to K R 4th	20. P takes B	Q takes P
6. B to Q B 4th	Kt to K R 3rd	21. B to K 5th	Q to Q sq (e)
7. P to Q 4th	P to Q 3rd	22. B takes R	Q takes P
8. Kt to Q 3rd	P to K B 6th	23. R to K sq (ch)	K to B sq
9. P to K Kt 3rd	P to Q 4th	24. B to K 5th	Q takes Q (ch)
10. P takes P	Kt to K B 4th	25. B takes Q	P to Q B 3rd (f)
11. B to K B 4th (a)	B to Q 3rd	26. B takes K Kt	B takes B
12. Kt to K 5th	P to K B 3rd	27. B to Q 6th (ch)	K to Kt 2nd
13. Q to Q 3rd	Q to K 2nd (b)	28. R to K 7th (ch)	K to B 3rd
14. K to Q sq	P takes Kt	29. R to K 8th	K to B 2nd
15. P takes P	B to Q B 4th	30. R takes Kt, and wins.

NOTES BY G. B. FRASER.

(a) By this rejoinder I propose to neutralise the effects of Black's 9th and 10th move.

(b) This seems much better than taking the Kt off at once, as it gives a wider range to the Black Queen.

(c) It seems necessary to remove the Queen from the King's 2nd sq.

(d) B to Q Kt 3rd appears a preferable move.

(e) If, 21. Q to K R 3rd, then

WHITE.	BLACK.	WHITE.	BLACK.
22. B takes R	Kt to K 6th (ch)	24. Q takes Kt	Q takes B
23. K to K sq	Kt takes B	25. K to B 2nd, and wins.

(f) If, 25. Kt to Q 3rd, then, 26. B to K Kt 6th, &c.

BETWEEN THE SAME PLAYERS.

(Allgaier Gambit.)

WHITE (Mr. F.)	BLACK (Mr. S.)	WHITE (Mr. F.)	BLACK (Mr. S.)
1. P to K 4th	P to K 4th	14. P takes P	B to Q B 4th
2. P to K B 4th	P takes P	15. Q to Q 3rd	Q to K 2nd
3. Kt to K B 3rd	P to K Kt 4th	16. Kt to Q B 3rd	Q to K Kt 2nd
4. P to K R 4th	P to K Kt 5th	17. Kt to K 4th	B to K 2nd
5. Kt to K 5th	P to K R 4th	18. P to Q 6th	B to Q sq
6. B to Q B 4th	Kt to K R 3rd	19. P takes P	Q takes P
7. P to Q 4th	P to Q 3rd	20. Kt to Q 6th (ch)	Kt takes Kt
8. Kt to Q 3rd	P to K B 6th	21. P takes Kt	Q to K R 2nd
9. P to K Kt 3rd	P to Q 4th	22. Q R to K sq (ch)	K to B sq
10. P takes P	Kt to K B 4th	23. Q to Q 5th	Q to K Kt 3rd
11. B to K B 4th	B to Q 3rd (a)	24. R to K 7th	B takes R
12. Kt to K 5th	P to K B 3rd	25. P takes B (ch)	K takes P
13. K to B sq	P takes Kt	26. B to K Kt 5th (ch), and wins.

(a) This appears the best reply.

CHESS IN BELGIUM.

Game played at Bruges; Mr. F. DEACON giving the Q Kt to Mr. LOUIS BLACHIERE, an accomplished Flemish amateur.

(Remove White's Q Kt from the board.)

WHITE (Mr. F. D.)	BLACK (Mr. L. B.)
1. P to K 4th	P to K 4th
2. P to K B 4th	P takes P
3. Kt to K B 3rd	P to K Kt 4th
4. B to Q B 4th	B to Q B 4th
5. P to Q 4th	B to Q Kt 3rd
6. P to Q B 3rd	P to Q 3rd
7. Castles	P to Q B 3rd
8. Q to Q Kt 3rd	Q to K 2nd
9. Kt takes K Kt P	Q takes Kt
10. K B tks K B P (ch)	K to Q sq
11. Q B takes P	Q to K Kt 2nd
12. Q B takes Q P	B to K R 6th

(The opening of this game is not well played by Black, but he makes a gallant fight afterwards. At this juncture it would not have been prudent for him to have captured the Q P—e.g.:—

12.	B takes Q P (ch)
13. P takes B	Q takes Q P (ch)
14. K to R sq	Q takes Q B
15. Q R to Q sq, winning the Q)

WHITE (Mr. F. D.)	BLACK (Mr. L. B.)
13. B to K Kt 3rd	P to K R 4th
14. K B takes Kt	R takes B
15. K R to K B 7th	Q to K Kt 4th
16. Q R to K B sq	Kt to Q 2nd
17. Q R to K B 4th

(Threatening to win the Q by playing B to K R 4th.)

17.	K to K sq
18. P takes B	Kt to Q B 4th

(Very ingeniously conceived.)

19. Q to Q B 4th

If, 19. P takes Kt	Q takes Q B P (ch)
20. R to K B 2nd	Q to K 4th
21. K to R sq	B takes R

And Black ought at least to draw the game.

19.	P to K R 5th
20. R to K Kt 4th	Q to K 6th (ch)
21. B to K B 2nd	R takes R (ch)
22. P takes R	Q takes K P
23. R to K Kt 7th	Q to Q Kt 8th (ch)
24. K to Kt 2nd	Q to K 5th (ch)
25. K to R 3rd	Q to K B 6th (ch)
26. B to K Kt 3rd	P takes B
27. Q to K Kt 8th (ch)	Q to K B sq
28. P takes Kt	B takes P
29. Q to K 6th (ch)	B to K 2nd
30. R to K Kt 8th

And Black resigned.

CHESS ENIGMAS.

No. 1145.—By an AMATEUR.

White: K at K R sq, Q at K B 6th, Rs at K Kt sq and K 5th, Bs at Q 8th and Q R 2nd, Kt at Q 5th, Ps at K R 6th, K Kt 2nd and 7th, and K 2nd.
Black: K at K Kt sq, Q at Q R 2nd, Rs at Q B 7th and Q Kt 5th, B at Q B 3rd, Ps at K R 2nd, K B 2nd, and Q 3rd.
White, playing first, to mate in three moves

No. 1146.—By C. W., of Sunbury,
White: K at K Kt 2nd, Q at K B 3rd, Kts at K 3rd and Q R 4th.
Black: K at Q R 6th, Ps at K 5th, Q B 7th, Q Kt 4th, 5th, and 6th.
White, playing first, mates in three moves.

FROM OUR CORRESPONDENT IN ITALY.

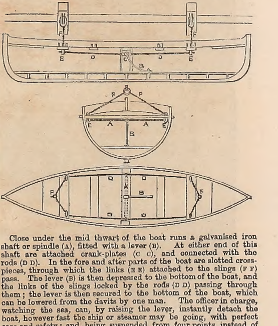
TURIN.

THE Emperor of the French has spoken, and, however enigmatically, has declared that Tuscany is not to become part of Piedmont! The consternation his words have caused is only second to the shock occasioned by the first tidings of the treaty of Villafranca. The shrewdest and craftiest of Italian politicians have long since abandoned as utterly hopeless the task of endeavouring to trace the Imperial motives through acts. The one solitary explanation of his present policy is that, by maintaining Italy still unsettled and uncertain, he must himself be the arbiter of her fate. Were he, on the contrary, to constitute Piedmont into a kingdom of twelve millions by the annexation of all the Duchies and the Romagna, such a State would have naturally that amount of influence in the peninsula which would form a barrier against French preponderance, and in time become the nucleus of a great Italian kingdom.

Against a strong Piedmont France has decidedly pronounced; she has even gone further, and declared that, by constituting Sardinia into a State of the third order, such a danger is incurred to France that nothing but the annexation of Savoy and Nice can counterbalance. While our Ministry in England have, therefore, been drawing closer the alliance by a commercial treaty, the Emperor has shown that the projects of France are not to be made subservient to any plans of mere peaceful interests. France is to "resume"—this is the word—what she possessed "as an essential element of self-defence."

The Northern Powers are fully alive to the peril of this declaration; and, though I have not the slightest faith in the assertion of the Morning Chronicle as to the "treaty," I believe firmly that negotiations are on foot to concert measures for the future protection of Europe from changes at once wilful and arbitrary. That England will be left with her faithful ally, France, or consigned to perfect isolation, may not seem to you at home the perilous alternative that we Continentalised Britons imagine. It is not impossible that you as much underrate the danger as we are disposed to exaggerate it.

As to Italy, the question is growing one of European proportions; and, were we only to pronounce from its present aspect, seems hourly to tend towards war. The four corps-d'armée of Piedmont are to be on a full war footing by the 1st of April. Officers are recalled from leave already by peremptory order, and the greatest activity is displayed in all the arsenals. At Ancona ammunition and war supplies are pouring in daily; and on the fortifications of Mantua and Verona large numbers are employed. By the vote of universal suffrage Tuscany is to declare her wishes for annexation or independence: but, if for the former, the French Emperor has already pronounced it impossible; if the latter, what does it mean? independent of what? a State of less than two millions—without a fortress, and with a people the least warlike in all the peninsula—of what or of whom could they be independent?



Can Downing-street see its way through this complication? I suspect not. Cavour, I am told, is of opinion that the only course is to "go on; annex, arm, and prepare for the coming struggle." There is this to be said: France would scarcely permit the Emperor to leave Italy to be overrun by the Austrians; and, however he may threaten to withdraw his troops, the measure would be too great an outrage on national pride to be possible.

It may be the last time I shall have the opportunity of predicting, but I cannot omit the occasion to warn you that the peace of Europe was never more precariously situated, and that if events do not take some turn of a favourable aspect—of which at this writing I see no prospect—the renewal of the war is almost inevitable.

NEW SYSTEM OF LOWERING AND DETACHING SHIPS' BOATS.

EVERY novelty that can facilitate the successful lowering and instant disengagement of ships' boats from the davit-tackles when the vessel herself is moving at speed through the water must be hailed with great interest and satisfaction by all connected with nautical affairs. Hundreds of valuable lives have been lost, year after year, from nothing but the simple fact that vessels, though well furnished with sound and worthy boats, were at the same time unprovided with the means of safely lowering them to the water, and clearing them of the fall-tackle when there; and it is not till very lately that the merits of Clifford's admirable system of carrying out this long-required desideratum has met with that countenance from the shipping interest it so worthily deserves.

We have much pleasure this week in illustrating another novel and ingenious plan for the furtherance of this object, which has lately been tried, with the most perfect success, by order of the Lords of the Admiralty, the invention of Messrs. Wood and Rogers, of Blackwall.

Close under the mid thwart of the boat runs a galvanised iron shaft or spindle (A), fitted with a lever (B). At either end of this shaft are attached crank-plates (C C), and connected with the rods (D D). In the fore and after parts of the boat are slotted cross-pieces, through which the links (E E) attached to the slings (F F) pass. The lever (B) is then depressed to the bottom of the boat, and the links of the slings locked by the rods (D D) passing through them; the lever is then secured to the bottom of the boat, which can be lowered from the davits by one man. The officer in charge, watching the sea, can, by raising the lever, instantly detach the boat, however fast the ship or steamer may be going, with perfect ease and safety; and, being suspended from four points, instead of two, as usual, it hangs easily, and has great stability while the people are getting in; and if, during the process of lowering, the persons should get all on one side, the boat cannot cant.

The system has been tried on the Trinity steamer Irene, Mithridates, Compass, and several others, with the greatest success, whilst the vessels were going eight or nine knots an hour—the boat taking the water evenly when disengaged at a height of six feet from the water.

THEATRICALS IN SCOTLAND.—The Aberdeen Herald says:—"The visit here of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Kean, whose third performance was given yesterday (last Friday) evening, has been a complete success—complete alike in regard to the enthusiastic reception these eminent performers have received, and the marked appreciation of their efforts by the large, fashionable, and intelligent audiences who have nightly been drawn to Marischal-street."

From the Quincy Herald (America) we learn that a most terrible calamity has occurred near the town of Hardin, Illinois, on the Illinois River. Fifty school children, in attendance at a university at that place, went out upon the ice to play; the ice gave way, and, with one exception, all were lost.

NEW BOOKS, &c.

Now ready, price 2s. 6d.,

WHO'S WHO FOR 1860. PEERAGE, BARONETAGE, KNIGHTAGE, PARLIAMENTARY COMPANIONAGE.

"Who's Who" is a mine of the handy knowledge of the personnel of the public life of the country which every one requires to refer to."—Illustrated News.

London: BATH, SAUNDERS, Cornhill.

Just published, a New and Revised Edition of THE NATURAL HISTORY OF SELBORNE By the Rev. GILBERT WHITE, A.M. Arranged for Young Persons, with numerous Engravings from Wood.

Society for Promoting Christian Knowledge.—Depositories, 77, Great Queen-street; 4, Royal Exchange; 16, Royal Exchange; 136, Hanover-street, Hanover-square; and by all Booksellers.

This day, in crown 8vo.,

RELIGIOUS OPINIONS IN THEATRES. Being a Letter delivered by the Earl of SHAFTESBURY in the House of Lords, on the 10th of May, 1859. Corrected by Himself. With a Preface.

On Monday, in crown 8vo.

POEMS FOR THE CONGRESS. By R. B. BROWNING.

Just published, price 6d., the Fourth Number of

ONE OF THEM. By CHARLES LEVER. With Illustrations by "Phiz." Cornhill and Bradbury, 191, Piccadilly.

Just published, Second Edition, with Illustrative Map, price One Shilling,

AMERICAN SECURITIES.—PRACTICAL HINTS ON THE TRUE OBJECTS OF INVESTMENT, FREE TO the Guidance and Warning of British Investors. By "AN ANGLO-AMERICAN."

Owing to the rapid sale of this pamphlet, a Second Edition, revised and corrected, has been immediately called for, and is now ready for the principal Railways in America, the Eastern and Western States. In this edition the author will endeavour to answer every objection which has been made to his views, and to advise, and to offer public writers, in commenting on the first edition; and, it being his intention to publish a Third Edition, with a Map, showing the number of miles of railroad, and their productiveness, he authorly views will be addressed not only to the British public, but to those whose connection with railroad property enables it to be regarded by public works in America, deserves honourable mention. Besides twenty-four pages of letterpress, the pamphlet contains a coloured map of new railways, and other important acquisitions of capital and information seeking, are either under construction or projected. This information will show the significance of British capitalists looking specially to the existence of reliable guarantees for safety and profit. Published by Effingham Wilson, Royal Exchange. Sold also by all for the guidance of Capitalists. "Progress in America. 24, Fenchurch, Pamphleteers, &c.; 19, Dividends and Interest on Securities, &c.; Commercial Buildings, &c.

London: Published by Hall Sawyer, 27, Cornhill; W. Kent and Co., Paternoster-row; Simpkin, Marshall, and Co., Stationers'-hall-court; Strahan, Paul, and Bates, 56, Ludgate-hill; Gamling-place, Liverpool.

NEW BOY'S BOOK—TOO LATE FOR THE TRAIN; or, The Autobiography of Reginald Beresford, Esq.

NEW GIRLS BOOK.—PAGES OF CHILD-LIFE. With Coloured Plates and Woodcuts.

Both: Bevan and Greenland; Orr and Co.; Bell and Daldy; and Hall and Co., London; and by Marlborough and Co., Paternoster-row.

Just ready, price 6s. cloth gilt,

ECHOES FROM DREAMLAND: a Selection of New and Popular Songs by FRANK MORLAN. "Pure, fresh, elegant."—London: Ware and Lucas.

Just published, price 6s. cloth, or 10s. 6d. bound in calf, by post, 6s. 6d.,

THE EAR IN HEALTH AND DISEASE; with Directions for Self-Examination and Domestic Treatment. By WILLIAM HARVEY PEARCE, Surgeon to the Royal Dispensary for Diseases of the Ear, 9, Old Cavendish-street, Cavendish-square.

Fourth Edition, just published, price 6d.; or by post 10 stamps,

DISEASES OF THE SKIN: a Guide to their Treatment, with Formulæ; illustrated by Cases. By THOMAS HUNT, F.R.C.S., Surgeon to the Western Dispensary for Diseases of the Skin, Golden-square, Piccadilly. Plimpy-square. "Mr. Hunt has transferred these diseases from the miserable case to the light of day."—Medical Times and Gazette, 25, Great Queen-street.

NOW PUBLISHED, A PURE MIND IN A PURE BODY; or, THE CAUSE OF HEALTH. Post free, 14 stamps. Also, a sixteen stamps. A New Edition of Dr. HOLLICK'S Treatise on Diet, Regimen, and Hygiene. 376, Strand, London, W.C.

ON the 20th of MARCH will be published THE ROYAL REVIEW OF FASHION, containing Beautiful Fine Engravings of the Newest Spring MANTLES, COLOURS, and DRESSES. Will be sent post-free, on receipt of Six Stamps, by the Publishers, JAMES HOGG and SONS, 29, Paternoster-row; Hulls Warehouses, 171, 173, and 175, Regent-street, W.

FOR FAMILY ARMS send to the Royal Heraldic Office and receive Arms sketched and painted, Plain Sketch, 3s. 6d.; in Colours, 5s.; Family Pedigree Traced, 40s.; Crest on Seal or Ring, 7s.; Creat and Motto on Seal or Ring, 12s. Manuscript or Sketches at the Mechanics' Institute, 66, Chancery-street, Corner of Fetter-lane, Fleet-street, W.C. The Science of Heraldry taught.

CREST DIES cut, 5s.: Book Plate engraved with Arms, 10s.; Ditto Matching Paste, 5s.; Crest engraved on Rose or Ring, 5s.; Creat and Motto on Seal, 5s.; per letter; Livery Button Die, 10s. per pair; Embossing Press for Stamping Paper with Crest or Name, 10s. 6d.; Arms Painted and Quartered for Carriage, 2 Guineas. H. R. the Duke of Cambridge, K.G., has honoured the Undersigned with Sale of April 1859, and Disclaimer to the Board of Trade, 23, Cranbourn-street, Corner of St. Martin's-lane, W.C.

WEDDING CARDS.—For Lady and Gentleman.—50 each, 50 Embossed Enamelled Envelopes, Copper Plate Engraved in the Latest Style. Best Wax for Sealing. Copper Plate Engraved, 5s. 6d. and 50 Visiting Cards for 2s. Post-free. T. CULLETON, 32, New Bond-street, Manufacturer and Inventor of the Registered Despatch Box.

THE PEN SUPERSEDED.—MARK YOUR LINEN—The best and only method of marking linen, silk, &c., without preparation, with any pen, and the ink washing out. A wife. CULLETON'S PATENT ELECTRO-SILVER PLATED. By means of this novel invention, Electro-Silver is deposited on the Nickel by means of the Electric Battery, in a few minutes. Consult, or Coral; with directions for use. Sent post-free for stamps. Initial Plate, 1s.; Crest, 2s.; Name, 3s. 6d.; Crest, 5s.; Crest and Motto, 7s. 6d. T. CULLETON, 32, New Bond-street, Manufacturer and Inventor of the Registered Despatch Box.

NO CHARGE MADE FOR STAMPING PAPER and ENVELOPES with a NAME, CREST, or INITIALS. RODRIGUES' Crown-lined Adhesive ENVELOPES, 4d. per 100. Crown-lined Full-size Note Paper for 4s.; Gilt-edged Ditto, five gilt-edged for 1s.; Packings, 2s. per ream. At 34, RODRIGUES', 42, Piccadilly.

WEDDING AND BIRTHDAY PRESENTS.—Dressing Cases, Travelling Dressing Bags, Despatch Boxes, Work-boxes, Writing and Desks, Ladies' Reticules and Carriage Bags, Stationery, Envelope Cases, Blotting Books, and Ironmongery of every description, at WILLIAM S. BURTON'S, a Catalogue containing prices and sketches of his stock-in-trade may be had at 39, RODRIGUES' well-known Establishment, 42, Piccadilly.

GRIFFIN ANTIQUARIAN.—The new handsome Gothic Frame, 3 in. wide, 4 in. deep, stamp, brush, and 4 yard gilt, 2s. 6d. Large, stout, 3s. Full Sheet, 12 by 10, 1s. Catalogue, 1s. 6d. Griffin, Bookseller of Antiquities, 10, Whitefriars-street, Fleet-street, London.

FLUID BLACK WRITING INK.—Never thickens in the inkstand, permanently jet black, and flows equally well from the finest pen to the broad quill, and is adapted to dilution of extreme heat or cold—in short holds all the qualities of a perfect ink. Sold by all Stationers, and wholesale by the Patentees, HEATHER and SMITH, 2, Duke-street, Lincoln's-inn-fields, W.C. Sample bottle, by post, 24 stamps.

STEEL and FARBER, Patentees of Steel Pens, Makers, Manufacturing and Exporting Stationers, 65, Black-lion, London.

DON'T MARK YOUR LINEN with anything but HARDLOW'S PATENT LINEN MARKER, which is a recent invention, and the only one that will stand washing and bleaching. Names are sent ready, and marking perfectly with any good marking ink. Initials, 3s.; name, 5s. 6d.; set of numbers, 2s. 6d.; sentpaid. HARDLOW, 7, cook, &c.; cutlers, arms, &c., in quantities, Birmingham.

BIJOU NEEDLE-CASE, containing 100 of PEARSE'S PATENT DRILLED-EYED NEEDLES, for 1s. This wonderful, and almost impossible-to-be-lost article, will be forwarded post-free to any part of the United Kingdom, on receipt of 14 stamps, by PEARSE and CO., Lead-in-Lodge, Hull. Established A.D. 1760.

NEW MUSIC, &c.

HENRY FARMER'S NEW PIANOFORTE TUTOR.—"The most useful and best instruction book we have seen."—Vide &c.—London: JOHN WILLIAMS, 123, Cheapside.

HENRY FARMER'S RIFLE GALOP. Splendidly Illustrated by BRANDARD. Solo, 4s.; Duets, 5s.; Septets 8s. 6d.; Orchestra, 3s.—London: JOHN WILLIAMS, 123, Cheapside; Wholesale, 24, Hill-street, W.C.

HENRY FARMER'S GEMS OF CHRISTY MINSTRELS, nightly arranged for the Pianoforte. Price 3s. post-free.—London: JOHN WILLIAMS, 123, Cheapside.

THE SWISS VARSOVIANA. By HUGH SEYMOUR. Beautifully Illustrated with a View of Lucerne, by BRANDARD. Price 3s. post-free.—London: JOHN WILLIAMS, 123, Cheapside, and 6, Mill-street.

HENRY FARMER'S NEW LE BIJOU POLKA. Beautifully Illustrated in Colours by BRANDARD. Price 3s. post-free.—London: JOHN WILLIAMS, 123, Cheapside, and 6, Mill-street.

HENRY FARMER'S DUCHESS OF ILLUSTRATED QUADRILLE. Illustrated by BRANDARD. Solo and Duet, 4s.; Septets, 8s. 6d.; Orchestra, 3s. London: JOHN WILLIAMS, 123, Cheapside, and 6, Mill-street.

HENRY FARMER'S L'ETOILE D'AMOUR VALSE. Beautifully Illustrated in Colours by BRANDARD. Solo, 4s.; Duet, 5s.; Septets, 8s. 6d.; Orchestra, 3s. London: JOHN WILLIAMS, 123, Cheapside, and 6, Mill-street.

HENRY FARMER'S NEPTUNE GALOP. Splendidly Illustrated by BRANDARD. Solo and Duet, 4s.; Septett, 8s. 6d.; Orchestra, 3s. London: JOHN WILLIAMS, 123, Cheapside, and 6, Mill-street.

HENRY FARMER'S PRINCESS MARY QUADRILLE. Beautifully Illustrated by BRANDARD. Dedicated by Permission to Her Royal Highness the Princess Mary of Cambridge by BRANDARD. Solo and Duet, 4s. each; Septett, 8s. 6d.; Orchestra, 3s. London: JOHN WILLIAMS, 123, Cheapside, and 6, Mill-street.

HENRY FARMER'S NEW SONG, THE MAID REPLIED, by Hurrah for the Green and the Grey. Sung by Mr. SIMS REEVES. Price 2s. 6d. post-free.—London: JOHN WILLIAMS, 123, Cheapside, and 6, Mill-street.

HENRY FARMER'S BIJOU of DANCE MUSIC for 1860. Illustrated by BRANDARD. Containing the Maid of Athens Waltz, Bijou Polka, Bijou Quadrille, Rancho Valse, and Rifle Galop. Price 10s. 6d., post-free.

London: JOHN WILLIAMS, 123, Cheapside, and 6, Mill-street, E.C.

HENRY FARMER'S CHRISTMAS QUADRILLE. Solo and Duet, 4s.; Septett, 8s. 6d.; Orchestra, 3s. These beautiful Quadrilles are Illustrated in Colours by BRANDARD. London: JOHN WILLIAMS, 123, Cheapside, and 6, Mill-street, E.C.

HENRY FARMER'S PSALMODY.—A Collection of Standard Psalm and Hymn Tunes, Chants, &c., in Old-fashioned Harmony, for Congregations of Four Voices, with Organ or Piano Accompaniment. Price 10s.

London: JOHN WILLIAMS, 123, Cheapside.

HENRY FARMER'S JUPITER QUADRILLE. Solo and Duet, 4s. each. Illustrated in Colours by BRANDARD. Septett, 8s. 6d.; Orchestra, 3s. London: JOHN WILLIAMS, 123, Cheapside, and 6, Mill-street, E.C.

LANGOLLEN QUADRILLE on WELSH AIRS. By J. T. STONE. Illustrated by BRANDARD. Price 4s. post-free. London: JOHN WILLIAMS, 123, Cheapside, and 6, Mill-street, E.C.

TURIN QUADRILLES on ITALIAN AIRS. By J. T. STONE. Illustrated by BRANDARD. Price 4s. post-free; Duet, 5s. London: JOHN WILLIAMS, 123, Cheapside, and 6, Mill-street, E.C.

C. W. GLOVER'S NEW SONGS (Words by CHARLES MACKAY), BORN OF MY CHILDHOOD, and DAYLIGHT AND DARKNESS. Price 2s. 6d. each, post-free. London: JOHN WILLIAMS, 123, Cheapside, and 6, Mill-street, E.C.

WILL YOU LEAVE THE LAND, JESSIE? New Song, written and Composed by J. W. CHERRY. Price 2s., post-free. London: JOHN WILLIAMS, 123, Cheapside, and 6, Mill-street, E.C.

VOLUNTEER RIFLE CORPS' GRAND QUADRILLE. Solo and Duet, 4s. each. Illustrated by BRANDARD. Price 8s., post-free. London: JOHN WILLIAMS, 123, Cheapside, and 6, Mill-street, E.C.

THE MODERN SINGING-MASTER ON THE ART OF SINGING. Illustrated with 156 Exercises. Translated by J. A. HAMILTON. Price 10s. 6d., post-free. London: JOHN WILLIAMS, 123, Cheapside, and 6, Mill-street, E.C.

THE FRIEND'S GIFT: a Collection of the most Popular Tunes, arranged in a very easy and simple manner, adapted for Young Performers. By IVORY. In Twelve Books (from twelve to sixteen tunes in each). Price 1s. each; complete Volumes, 12s. London: JOHN WILLIAMS, 123, Cheapside, and 6, Mill-street, E.C.

CHARLES W. GLOVER'S NEW SONGS— THE LAND OF SONG, sung and "A Song of Waiters," Written by Miss ADEY. 2s. each, post-free. London: JOHN WILLIAMS, 123, Cheapside, and 6, Mill-street, E.C.

NEW VOCAL DUET, SING, MAIDEN, SING. Written by J. R. CARPENTER; composed by CHARLES GLOVER. Price 3s., post-free. London: JOHN WILLIAMS, 123, Cheapside, E.C.

NEW VOCAL DUET, THE FISHER'S EVENING SONG, for Tenor and Baritone. Written by J. R. CARPENTER; composed by C. W. GLOVER. Price 3s. 6d., post-free. London: JOHN WILLIAMS, 123, Cheapside, E.C.

RICARDO LINTER'S QUEBEC QUADRILLE, on Airs of the City of Quebec, in Colours, by BRANDARD. Price 4s. London: JOHN WILLIAMS, 123, Cheapside, and 6, Mill-street, E.C.

FADING LEAVES. Words by MRS. BOUCHER. Music by G. A. MACFARREN. "This inclodious and touching Song will become a favourite."—Vide Critics. Price 2s. London: JOHN WILLIAMS, 123, Cheapside, and 6, Mill-street.

THE CHRISTY'S MINSTRELS' New Song, THE CLOCK AND THE BELLS. Illustrated with a Portrait in Character (from a photograph of Mr. W. Pell), by BRANDARD. Price 2s. post-free. London: JOHN WILLIAMS, 123, Cheapside, and 6, Mill-street.

SONGS by CLARIBEL.—Janet's Bridal, 2s. 6d. Sung by Miss. Poyser; Mother's Farewell, 2s.; The Knock, 2s.; Blossom Darling, 2s. 6d. Duff and Hodgson, 65, Oxford-street.

SARI and SONS, 17 and 18, Cornhill, respectfully solicit a visit to their magnificent Establishment, the Grand Feature of which is the Noble Hall, 100 feet long, 40 feet wide, and 50 feet high, with Walls and Roof entirely of Plate Glass. The Silver Plate Department is in the Gallery of the Building, and contains a most extensive assortment of Electro-Plated Goods of the newest patterns, and warranty is displayed a large and beautiful stock of Argentine Plate, Nickel Silver, Britannia Metal, and Sheffield Plate. Cutlery, Dressing Cases, Despatch Boxes, Writing Desks, and Envelope Cases, Stationery for the display of Drawing and Dining Room Requisites, Bronzes, Lamps, Chandeliers, Gasaliers, Books containing Drawings and Prices may be had on application. SARI and SONS, 17 and 18, Cornhill.

GARDNERS' 22 2s. DINNER SERVICES of CHOICEST DESIGN, Fish, Game, Tea, and Toilet Services equally low. Cut Wines, 3s. 6d. per dozen. Glass Dessert Services, 21s. Glass Tea Services (gilt and enamelled), 7s. per Magnificent 108 piece, 6l. Strand, Charing-cross, W.C.

GARDNERS' LAMPS are the BEST.—The Patent Moderator Lamps are unrivalled, and cheapest assortment in London. Pure Colza Oil, 4s. per gallon. Lamps cleaned, repaired, and restored equal to new. Lamps and Chandeliers to be had Magnificent 108 piece, 6l. Strand, Charing-cross, W.C.

FURNISH your HOUSE with the BEST ARTICLES; they are the cheapest in the end.—DEANE and CO.'S EVERLASTING LIST may be had on application, or by post free. The List is arranged to facilitate purchasers in the selection of their Furnishing Ironmongery, and contains Bronzes, Clocks, Baths, Fenders, Fire-irons, Stoves, Kitchen Ranges, Lamps, Metal, Copper, Tin, and Iron Goods; Culinary Utensils, Turnery, Brushes, Mats, &c.—Deane and Co. (opening to the Monument), London-bridge. Established A.D. 1700.

DUTY OFF FRENCH SILKS. PETER ROBINSON begs to announce that, in consequence of the Budget remitting the duty on French Silks, he has bought, through his agent at Lyons, several cases of very rich Fancy French silks, which he has now imported duty-free.

Checks, Stripes, and Plaids	at £1 2s. 6d.	the Full Dress.
Plaid Satin de Suèdes	at £1 5s.	ditto.
Rich Glacés	at £1 8s. 6d.	ditto.
The New Serpentry Check	at £1 11s. 6d.	ditto.
The New Satin Check	at £1 17s. 6d.	ditto.
Royale à Raie	at £2 2s. 6d.	ditto.
The Matelassé Stripe	at £2 5s. 6d.	ditto.
The Rich Brocaded French Fancy Silks	at £1 17s. 6d.	ditto.
Gros de Tours, in all Colours	at £1 19s. 6d.	ditto.
The Silk Bar	at £2 2s. 6d.	ditto.
Brocades	at £2 19s. 6d.	ditto.

Cheap Figured and Plain Satins.

Rich Foreign Fancy Silks from Two Guineas to Twenty Guineas.

Peter Robinson, 103, 105, 108, 107, 108, Oxford-street, W.

LADIES' CHINELLE NETS, 1s. 3½d., 1s. 6¼d., 2s. 6d., 3s. 6d., thirteen Yards Long, Full Width, with gilt Grenadine, Ringe, Stars, Sizes, Arrow, Acorn, &c., 6d. to 10s. 6d. each. Gold and Silver Nets, 2s. 6d. to 10s. 6d. each. With Gilt Chaplins, 10s. 6d., 12s. 6d., 15s. 6d., 18s. 6d., 21s. 6d., 25s. 6d. each. Patterns for Comparison of Wedding Materials.

To 30, Sts. 6d., 3s. 6d., 4s. 6d., 5s. 6d., and 7s. 6d. the Full Dress.

Peter Robinson's Black Silk Warehouse.

103 to 107 yards each. 18s. 6d. to 2s. 6d., trimming included.

PETER ROBINSON'S, 103, 105, 108, 107, 108, Oxford-street, W.

RICH SILK POPLINETTES (in brilliant colours), 41 6d. the Full Dress.

A CHOICE ASSORTMENT of FRENCH CHINTZES and CRETONNES, in fast colours, in every variety of pattern, suitable for Curtains or Furniture.

FINE FRENCH ORGANDIE MUSLINS, in Checks, Stripes, and Figures. Patterns of all the above post-free.

PETER ROBINSON'S, 103, 105, 108, 107, and 108, Oxford-street, W.

FAMILY MOURNING.—At PETER ROBINSON'S FAMILY and GENERAL MOURNING WAREHOUSE.

The Warehouse is the largest and most convenient of its kind in London, and offers the best advantages to Families requiring Mourning. Dresses, &c., are made on the premises, and, if kept for a short time only, are re-dyed at the most reasonable rates.

PETER ROBINSON'S Mourning is ready for immediate wear, including Bonnets, Millinery, and Mantles; or may be purchased by the yard. Morning sent to any part of the country, with Dressmakers and Milliners (if required), free of charge, and with the least possible delay.

Address as above, 103, Oxford-street, London.

(N.B.—Closed on Saturdays at 4 o'clock.)

BLACK SILKS.—The richest, best, and cheapest in London. Black Checks, from 4s. to 8s. 6d. per Dress. Black Brocades, from 4s. to 7s. 6d. per Dress. Black Royales, 5s. to 10s. 6d. per Dress. Black Glacés, from 2 Guineas to 6s. 6d. per Dress. Patterns free.

Mode Antiques and Flounced Silks, from 2 Guineas to ten guineas.

Rich Silk Skirts, elegantly trimmed, with or without crape, from 21s. each.

At PETER ROBINSON'S FAMILY and GENERAL MOURNING WAREHOUSE, 103, Oxford-street. Patterns free.

MOURNING MANTLES and BONNETS, at PETER ROBINSON'S FAMILY and GENERAL MOURNING WAREHOUSE, 103, Oxford-street.

BLACK and HALF-MOURNING FABRICS. The New Materials are ready for the present season. Patterns free.

Address, PETER ROBINSON'S, Family Mourning Warehouse, 103, Oxford-street, London.

VALENCIENNES LACE, made with genuine Lace Thread, manufactured direct from the raw French Cambric, on entire one-tenth of the price. Bampde post-free. BAKER and CRISP, Regent-street (entrance Maddox-street).

2s. 6d. LADIES' 2s. 9d. GENTLEMEN'S!! Hemstitched Cambric Handkerchiefs, Patterns Stitched, 2s. 6d. Ladies', 2s. 6d. Gentlemen's, best Alpine Kid—DAKER and CRISP, Regent-street (entrance Maddox-street), Cheap Silks, Shawls, Lace, Dresses.

LAST YEAR'S MUSLINS!—BAREGES!! Bobarine, Mohaire, &c. all half the original cost. BAKER and CRISP, 221, Regent-street (entrance Maddox-street).

MOIRE ANTIQUE.—Patterns post-free!!! The Best Quality Cheap Silk ever introduced. 25s. the Full Dress. BLACK SILKS.—Rich Black Brocades, 2s. 6d. Full Robe. BAKER and CRISP, Regent-street (entrance Maddox-street).

25 PER CENT CHEAPER! Than any House in the World. Patterns sent free. BAKER and CRISP, Regent-street (entrance Maddox-street). Brilliants, Cashmere, Muslins, &c. &c. BAKER and CRISP, Regent-street (entrance Maddox-street).

SLIGHTLY SOILED FINE FRENCH CAMBRIC HANDKERCHIEFS at less than half-prices. Ladies' and Gentlemen's, 1s. 6d. per dozen; worth 3s. 6d. and 4s. 6d. Hemstitched and Embroidered Cambric, 2s. 6d. per dozen. BAKER and CRISP, Regent-street (entrance Maddox-street).

OUR READY-MADE DRESSES!!! Patterns post-free. BAKER and CRISP, Regent-street (entrance Maddox-street).

THE TIME TO BUY MUSLINS CHEAP. Last Year's Muslins cheaply out. Bétiste Grenadines, 1s. 6d. per yard, were luminously. THE FRENCH MUSLIN COMPANY, 16, Oxford-street.

NEW FRENCH BREAKFAST DRESS, in all the New Colours, Checks, and Stripes, 21s. the Dress. The Two-Guinea three-flounced Silk made with material for Bodice. The Five-Guinea Black Lyons Velvet Mantle, richly trimmed with Fringe.

VELVET JACKETS Embroidered in Gold. Choice assortment of Patterns. The Guinea Velvet Jacket, in Black and Colours. Address, 103, Oxford-street.

THE HALF-GUINEA CLOTH JACKET. With Military Jackets, 2s. 1024. Hood, 1s. 6d. The Military Braided Cloth Jacket, 15s. 9d. Patterns free. THE FRENCH MUSLIN COMPANY, 16, Oxford-street.

FAMILY MOURNING.—GRANT and GASK (late Widmore and Co.), Milliners, Dressmakers, Drapers, Mantle Makers, and Furriers, have also now in stock a very large and every description of FAMILY and COMPLIMENTARY MOURNING for Ladies, Children, Gentlemen, and Servants, which they are prepared to execute with the utmost taste, and at most moderate prices. The Dressmaking and Millinery Departments are under the superintendence of Mrs. GRANT and Miss GASK, who have had many years' experience in the Mourning Trade.

IMPORTANT to LADIES.—A Single Stay Carriage free on receipt of a post-office order.

The Elastic Bodice ..... 10s. 6d.
The fast adjusting Corset ..... 12s. 6d.

A Book with Illustrations and prices sent on receipt of a postage-stamp. Observe the only address—

GRANT and GASK, 214, Regent-street, W., 2, Blackfriars-road; 5, Stockwell-street, Greenwich; and Crystal Palace.

RICHARD WILLEY and SON are now at 31, opening the whole of their STOCK of FANCY SILKS, SHAWLS, MANTLES, RIBBONS, LACE, DRAPERY, &c., at greatly reduced prices, preparatory to their annual clearance prior to the commencement of Spring Purchases. As every visit is reciprocally solicited.—10 and 31, Langham-street, London.

HOUSEHOLD LINEN DEPARTMENT.—MR. JOHN HARVEY, SON, and CO., of 8, Ludgate-hill, established upwards of fifty years, will send patterns of sundries free, for inspection, of their manufacture of Linen Sheeting, Diaper, Huckaback, Damask, Quilts, Counterpanes, Table Cloths, and Napkins, Glass and Furniture Cloths, by the yard, 6-4, 7-4, 8-4, and 10-4 wide; sheetings in width from 1 to 3½ yards; cloth in shooting from 1 to 3 yards wide; Dunfermline, Scotland, Modern Baden, and breakfast, glass and knife cloths, dusters, &c. Also, Linen Sheets, Pillow Cases, Shirts, Collars, Cuffs, Dressing Gowns, and Ladies' Linen, sent to any part of the world, on receipt of a letter with check of cloth.—JOHN HARVEY, SON, and CO., 8, Ludgate-hill. Established upwards of 50 years. Carriage paid upon amounts above £2.

FRENCH GLACE and other rich Silks. Velvets, Velveteens, &c.—Manufacturers are invited to send tracings or patterns, and prices, for immediate sale, to JOHN and JAMES DAVIS, 1, Bridge-street, Blackfriars, London, S.E.

MOIRES ANTIQUES.—SEWELL and CO. MR. SEWELL and CO. are NOW SELLING the richest MOIRES ANTIQUES in every variety of pattern, at 2 Guineas the Full Dress. Patterns free. Address, 103, Oxford-street.

NEW SPRING DRESSES!!!

A lot of Check Muslins, 6d. per Yard, 9d. per Yard, 10d. per Yard, 1s. 6d. per Yard, 2s. per Yard.
The New Broché Dress, 2s. 6d. and 3s. 6d.
The New Barege Dress, 2s. 6d. and 3s. 6d.
KNIGHT and SON, 67, Ludgate-hill, 117, Regent-street.

THE COSTUME DEPARTMENT is now Ready for Ladies' Morning Wear, at 1 Guinea, 1½ Guinea, and 2 Guineas. The New Polish, beautifully trimmed, 1os. 9d. to 2 guineas. The newest shape and Bonnet Silks in the Rainbow.
KNIGHT and COMPANY, 67, Ludgate-hill, 117, Regent-street.

NEW FRENCH TARIFF!!! REDUCTION of DUTY on SILKS.—KNIGHT and COMPANY having cleared, at an immense discount, the whole of their Stock of Rich Silks, have received, by the last Steamer from Lyons, a large assortment of Checks, Stripes, and Cords, Brocaded, Striped, and Figured Silks, the same will be offered to the Public at the following prices, viz., 1 Guinea the Full Dress, at half the original cost. Remarks: sets specially sold at this, now 2 Guineas the Full Dress. KNIGHT and COMPANY, 67, Ludgate-hill, 117, Regent-street.

LINENDRAPERS TO THE QUEEN BY APPOINTMENT. Established in 1760.

BABIES' BASSINETS, ready for use, and sent home free of carriage. Descriptive Lists sent free by post. Manufactured and Furnished by CAPPER, SON, and CO., 69, Groscenor-street, London, E.C. Descriptive Lists sent free by post.

Sent post-free, Descriptive Lists of COMPLETE SETS of BABY LINEN, Complete Outfits for Home and Abroad, throughout the kingdom free of carriage.
UNDESCRIBABLE BASSINETS, SPECIAL, 21s. 42s. 63s. 84s. 105s. 126s. 147s. 168s. 189s. 210s. COLOURED for Ladies and Children at all ages.

LINENDRAPERS TO THE QUEEN BY APPOINTMENT. Established in 1760.

LADIES' WEDDING OUTFITS, sent home free of carriage. Descriptive Lists sent free by post.
CAPPER, SON, and CO., 69, Groscenor-street, London, E.C.

CHRISTENING ROBES, 2½ Guineas, Ladies' Cloaks, Habits, Riding Skirts, 21s. Baby-linen, 42s. Mrs. W. A. TAYLOR, 214, Regent-street, W.

BABIES' BERCEAUNETTES, 2 Guineas. Baskets to Match, 2 Guineas. Mrs. W. A. TAYLOR, 214, Regent-street, W.

MARRIAGE OUTFITS. Cotton Hosiery, 9s. 6d. White Cambric Sewing Cotton, 2s. 6d. Real Bellington Hosiery. Mrs. W. A. TAYLOR, 214, Regent-street, W.

LINSEY RIDING HABITS for LITTLE GIRLS, 21 Guineas. Ladies' Habits, 3 Guineas. Mrs. W. A. TAYLOR, 214, Regent-street, W.

LADIES' RIDING TROUSERS, Chamois Leather, with black feet. Mrs. W. A. TAYLOR, 214, Regent-street, W.

DO YOU WISH YOUR CHILDREN WELL DRESSED? ROBERT HEATH, 24, NICHOLAS-LANE, CITY, E.C., and 10, Poultry-chambers. The largest stock of Infants' and Children's Clothing in London. Every article for Infants' Wear. Caps, Hats, Frocks, Pelisses, Cloaks, Trousers, Tunics, Knickerbockers, &c. Price Lists free.

BOYS' DRESSES, for SCHOOL or WALKING. The Eaklenbrook Suit complete, from 15s. The Cambridge Suit complete, from 18s. Competent assistance in Measuring, Cutting, or a Packed-Trunk Parcel, made in all the New Styles and Richest Cloths adapted to Boys' Dress, sent to any part of the country and Colonies, carriage paid. D. NICHOLSON and COMPANY, 114, 115, and 116, Regent-street, W.

Complete suits for children of every age sent to any part of the kingdom on receipt of a letter.

BERDOE'S WATERPROOF CAPES.—The extensive sale of these first-class garments is their best recommendation. 25, New Bond-street; and 69, Cornhill (second-door).

DUNN'S TAILORS' LABOUR AGENCY, 4, Princes-street, Hanover-square, supplies the most skilful sympathy—It supplies Cutting Adult and Juvenile, as Cheap as any. Workmen sent out. Trade Orders executed. Price Lists.

OUTFITS for INDIA and CHINA supplied by THRESHER and GLENNY, 152, Strand, London.

THE PLUMBA NEW FRISSETTES, for CURLING HAIR without Heat. Is the best invention for producing natural and elastic curls by W. WITHERS, 2, Bedford-row, London.

WREATHS and HEADDRESSES, in choice and delicate Flowers, for Dress and Bridal Wear. JONES, 170, Oxford-street, corner of Portland-street, near the Circus.

LEAP YEAR.—PIESSE and LUBIN'S New Perfume, "Gift of the Season." "In Leap Year they have power to choose, And take the man they fancy for their spouse." This and a thousand other new scents for choice in bottles 5s. 6d. each. 2, New Bond-street, W.

WANTED, LEFT-OFF CLOTHES, Uniforms, Cloth, Miscellaneous Property, &c. The highest price given. Ladies or Gentlemen waited upon at their own Residence. Letters to MR. EDWARDS, Strand, W.C. Parcels sent, the utmost value in Cash remitted. Established 1806.

WANTED to PURCHASE LEFT-OFF Clothing, Jewellery, Plate, Books, &c. for Cash, of all descriptions. Ladies and Gentlemen attended by Mr. and Mrs. ISAACS, from any part of the Country. 16, Hungerford-market, Strand, W. Parcels sent. P. O. orders remitted. Established 1804.

WANTED LEFT-OFF CLOTHES for AUSTRALIA.—Mr. and Mrs. PHILLIPS, 24, Thayer-street, opposite Somerset House, W.C., continue giving highest prices for Ladies' and Gentlemen's Wardrobes, Jewellery, Plate, Miscellaneous Property, Books, Scales, and Musical Boxes. Letters attended to. Parcels from the country, the utmost value returned same day. Bedroom, Lavatory and Washing-stand Basin.

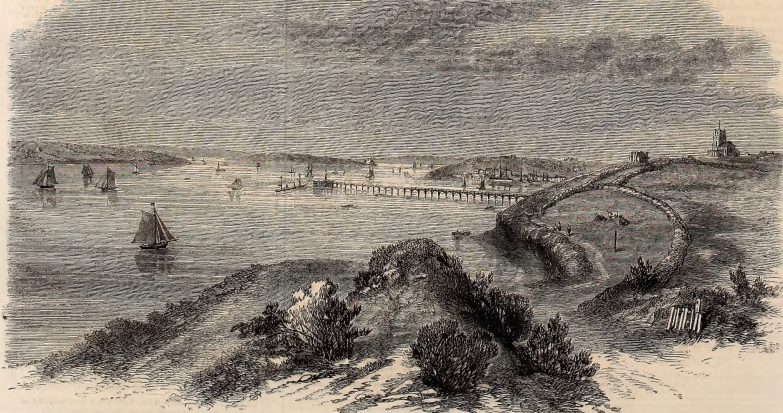
WANTED LEFT-OFF CLOTHES, Uniforms Furniture, &c.—Mr. and Mrs. PHILLIPS, 24, Thayer-street, Manchester-square, W., are giving twenty-five per cent more than any other house for the above. Ladies and gentlemen waited on. Letters and parcels will meet with prompt attention. Terms cash. Established 1820.

WANTED, LEFT-OFF CLOTHING, Uniforms, Furniture, &c.—Mr. and Mrs. PHILLIPS, 24, Thayer-street, Manchester-square, W., are giving twenty-five per cent more than any other house for the above. Ladies and gentlemen waited on. Letters and parcels will meet with prompt attention. Terms cash. Established 1820.

A NEW OVERBOARD—NEW MEANS OF LOWERING AND DETACHING ITS BOATS.—See page 276

London: Printed and Published at the Office, 198, Strand, in the Parish of St. Clement Danes, in the County of Middlesex, by George O. Leighton, 198, Strand, aforesaid.—Saturday, March 17, 1860.

THE ILLUSTRATED LONDON NEWS.



No. 1023.—VOL. XXXVI.] SATURDAY, MARCH 24, 1860 [WITH A SUPPLEMENT, FIVEPENCE

LAW REFORM.

Out of the midst of the rushing sound of Mr. Gladstone's financial measures there has at length been heard the calm voice of her Majesty's Attorney-General, enunciating the first intentions of the Government in the way of Law Reform. It is simple justice to say that the first step has been successful, and is fruitful in promise. It was no light task to grapple with an enormous evil like our system of bankruptcy law, and it required some moral courage to descend into the doubtful atmosphere which hangs about those (we may be excused for using the only apt word) seedy courts wherein the sad and squalid affairs of untrading insolvency are administered. In truth, notwithstanding a good deal that has been done, and a vast deal more that has been talked of late years, about the amendment of the law, it also requires some steadfastness to encounter that section of the House of Commons which, of course, bristles up at every mention of things legal, and which consists of a phalanx more or less compact of some 120 or 130 lawyers, all of them labouring under the very obvious difficulty of being unable to distinguish between law as it is and law as it ought to be. Here is constantly to be encountered that fallacy which pervades the legal mind, and which consists in the notion that professional lawyers are always seeking after the attainment of truth, whereas the fact is that there is in their acquired organisation something hostile to the accurate perception of truth. It is impossible to believe in the desire of mere lawyers (few of whom expand into the comprehensiveness of legislators) for law reform in their collective capacity. A single lawyer may read his book as it is, but a collection of them will invariably read it, like witches, backwards. Few of them have escaped from the necessity of their situation, which induces them to be always illogically taking consequences and putting them amongst causes. Among such a class of men, whatever their abstract professions may be, a man like Sir Richard Bethell is certain to be unpopular, because he has, with a singular disregard of personal interest, by word and deed evinced a desire to break down a system in which his brethren have so long burrowed and grubbed for mere money. In the hands of a man actuated by such motives, even though he possessed far less ability and less experience than he possesses, he is confessedly master of, the subject of law reform may be deemed to be well placed.

In considering the single question of the amendment of the law of bankruptcy and insolvency with which the Attorney-General has started, we are struck at the outset with what seems a proof of his sincerity. He begins by acknowledging that he has not had—we will not say the courage, but the audacity—to attempt too much. He acknowledges that he has shrunk from asking for the entire abolition of imprisonment for debt contracted without that species of fraud which brings it within the category of a criminal offence. Of the impolicy, of the inutility, and of the melancholy absurdity of that system, no man is more thoroughly convinced than he but he tacitly prefers to get rid of it by a gradual process of sapping rather than of direct assault. No want of energy or determination, however, is shown in the mode in which the monstrous anomaly of a court like that which is said, by a ridiculous misnomer, to administer the estates of bankrupts is dealt with. If ever there was a system invented and perfected to cause confusion and conflict of decision, irregularity and want of finality in administration, it is to be found in that dingy and inconvenient building in Basinghall-street which, built something on the plan of an Eastern caravanseral, seems to have acquired a great deal of the moral and physical uncleanness of its prototype. Without going further into detail, it is only necessary to confess satisfaction at the prospect of the sweeping away of the knot of remarkable gentlemen entitled Commissioners, whose fantastic tricks would be comic if they were not accompanied by the gnashings of teeth of tantalised creditors, and the sighs and groans of bewildered bankrupts; and the substitution in their place of a single Judge, whose position shall be equal in every respect to that of a Vice-Chancellor, or a Puisne Judge of the Common-Law Courts. This change, accompanied as it is by a corresponding establishment for the administrative as compared with the judicial functions of the Court, will strike at the very root of the costs of the existing system. As far, too, as we have been evils to form an opinion, the machinery for the administration of bankrupts' estates will go far towards the removal of that fearful system of expense which has simply converted the present

MILFORD HAVEN, FROM THE CAMP NEAR CASTLE FILL—LOOKING WEST.—FROM A DRAWING BY MR. WEHNERT.—SEE PAGE 295.

Court of Bankrupcy into a den of ravenous officials, who devour at the least thirty per cent of the proceeds of the estates which they profess to collect for the benefit of creditors. Imagine the cost of bankruptcy, with a given time, of a sum of two millions reaching to the amount of £600,000. The enactments by which it is proposed to give facilities for the arrangement of the affairs of bankrupts for the benefit of their creditors under the sanction of the Court would seem to have the merit of simplicity and comparative inexpensiveness, and will probably go far to save a vast deal of available money from that waste and loss which the existing condition of the bankrupt law and its miserable system of administration has caused, insomuch as a considerable quantity of what might be good and fair estates, which are now held from the sordid precincts of Basinghall-street, would readily find their way into a court presperly constituted for dealing with the claims of creditors. The contemplated abolition of the distinction which now obtains between bankruptcy and insolvency seems to be not only just but wise. As the law now stands it appears to contemplate dishonesty as a necessary adjunct of insolvency, by no means an inevitable state of things; and to a great extent treating insolvents as persons who are to be criminally punished for incurring debt does not appear to have taken creditors and their rights into consideration at all. In the present state of things a fraudulent debtor may absolutely possess an estate which he can, by a little management, enjoy under the insolvent law, in defiance of his creditors; while the unfortunate but poor insolvent, who has not the means of running away, has his future earning clogged with liability, is unable with safety even to make such a provision for his family as his circumstances admit, and, in short, has his exertions paralysed by the feeling that at any time he may be stripped of any property he may have acquired, only because he has not been what is technically called a bankrupt. The measures proposed for removing these anomalies seem to be calculated to produce benefit at once to creditors and debtors.

An examination of the details of this measure will probably go a great way to show that there is less of tinkering about this important branch of the law than usually characterises that which is dignified with the name of legal reform. A very near approach seems to have been made towards codification as distinguished from that which has hitherto been called consolidation. It is earnestly to be hoped that more of this spirit and object will be infused into those legal alterations and improvements which are understood to be ready to be introduced in Parliament. Some time ago the House of Commons sanctioned an address to the Crown praying for the establishment of a department of the State which should be designated the Ministry of Justice, to the charge of which should be committed the amendment of the law and the technical administration of legislation, as contained in the framing of Acts of Parliament. We cannot help expressing a wish that such an arrangement should be made, and that Sir Richard Bethell, if he could be induced to forge the labours and emoluments of his present professional life, and the ambition of a more ostensible social rank and position, as typified by the custody of the Great Seal, to which he is clearly entitled, should be placed at the head of such a department. As things are the Lord Chancellor can be nothing more than the Chief Judge in Equity and the President of the House of Peers, functions quite enough for his personal attention for six days in every week, and leave him no leisure, if it does not neutralise his inclination, for the revision and reconstruction of the law. This anomaly, not to say absurdity, of trusting the superintendence of the legal department of the Government to an overworked official of this kind is to be traced in the attempts which Lord Campbell, in common with other Chancellors, has made to introduce bills for the amendment of the law. Those which he has produced are specimens of that tinkering to which we have previously alluded. The unsatisfactory nature of which they linger through the Session, only to be hurled into limbo in August, is quite enough to prove the necessity of beginning reforms in this direction by the erection of a new and, so to speak, individualised branch of the State.

It is only those who, from time to time, have passed through the crucial process which, in our equity and law courts, is termed the administration of justice, that can understand, though even they can with difficulty describe, the anomalies of the system, in every grade, except the bleeding of the pocket of the suitor—system which pervades our Courts. There are times when, free and self-governing (save the mark!) Englishmen as we are, we cannot but long for an hour of that thorough dealing with abuses which characterised Cromwell when he sent a Parliament packing, and threatened to shut up, if he did not actually close, a corrupt and inefficient Court of Chancery. It is just possible that with a Minister of Justice well chosen and capable, and whose tenure of office should not depend on those changes of Government which promise to be, if not exactly annual, at least occurrences every year and a half, some effort might be made to begin with the beginning, in the task of law reform, to establish a prin ciple which, once made the compulsory test of every bill or code, would effectually put an end to the system of Parliamentary control, as a sum is annually drawn which counts by millions for the expenses of law and justice. Ought not the period to arrive, as the phrase goes, when something like an adequate return should be obtained for this expenditure of public money; and at the same time may we venture to insinuate, in a whisper, that perhaps the period ought also to arrive when individuals should be able to assert their rights and obtain redress for their wrongs without the necessity of a cost which ranges in particular cases from hundreds to thousands, and in the aggregate reaches to the doubtful dignity of tens of millions?

Mr. SHIRLEY BROOKS delivered, on Monday last, before the Leicester Literary Society, a lecture upon the House of Commons. He described the place itself, the mode of proceeding with legislation, and the various kinds of debates, and gave sketches of leading or remarkable orators. The lecture was received with continuous applause by a densely-crowded audience, and, on the motion of the Mayor of Leicester, thanks were voted by Mr. Brooks.

FOREIGN AND COLONIAL NEWS.

FRANCE.

The Emperor received a deputation, on Wednesday afternoon, of those Savoyards who are favourable to the annexation to France, and who are mostly from the district of Chambery. They were headed by the well-known Conservative speaker in the Sardinian Chambers, the Marquis of Beauregard. The deputation presented the address. The Emperor expressed his pleasure in receiving the deputation, and the following is a report of the speech of his Majesty:—"The union of Savoy and Nice to France has been received upon in principle. The assent of Piedmont and the populations has been obtained to this ratification of the treaties. The negotiations with the Powers who signed the Treaty of 1815 permit the hope of a favourable examination of the question by the greater part of them. Friendship for Switzerland had almost caused a cession of territory to be proposed to her. I believed would not be contrary to the interests of Savoy; but, as soon as it was known that the population refused that Savoy should be dismembered, France renounced this cession, although, perhaps, it would be useful to Switzerland. On Saturday (to-day) the deputation will dine at the Tuileries.

The Emperor has received the Duke de Persigny, Minister, at which the question of exempting sugars from duty was considered. The Moniteur of Tuesday contains a list of persons to whom decorations of the Legion of Honour are given for services rendered to the army in India.

M. Michel Chevalier has been nominated a senator.

The Moniteur contains a report of the Minister of War, Marshal Randon, relative to the idea of re-organising the militia, and the more effective of the battalions of Chasseurs from eight to six companies, the force which existed before 1855. The report is followed by a decree of the Emperor approving the Ministerial proposal.

Letters from Toulon state that the French fleet has been recalled from Algeria.

The trial of the Bishop of Orleans for defamation, at the suit of the Sœurs de la Providence de Nantes, in the Correctional Court, began on Thursday, the 15th, and continued throughout the week. Judgment was given in the case on Monday, the 19th, when the Court fined the prelate in the ground of its being unfounded. The complaint made by the heirs of Rousseau was also rejected, the laws not making the defamation of a dead person punishable.

SPAIN AND MOROCCO.

A semi-official journal of Madrid declares that the war between Spain and Morocco will continue until the demands of Spain will not purchase peace by a cession of territory, although they are willing to make pecuniary sacrifices in order to obtain it.

The Duke of Rivas, Generals Prim, Rios, and Echague have been raised to the dignity of Grandees of Spain of the first class.

ITALY.

SAVOY AND NICE.

The treaty relative to the cession of Savoy and Nice was signed at Turin before M. Thouvenel addressed his circular note of the 14th to the foreign Courts, and the object of the act of the 24th of March of this note is to disengage from the question of the cession of Savoy spontaneously agreed to by the King of Sardinia) not only the question of the unsolicited neutrality of Switzerland, but also the principle of natural boundaries. M. Thouvenel explains the reasons which reduce the cession to a mere modification of frontiers. He expresses, therefore, in the name of the French Government, a hope that the Powers will not refuse to the Emperor Napoleon a favour so undeniably just as that set forth in his note with the same friendly feelings with which the communication of the new territorial arrangements was accompanied by the Government of France.

The Swiss Government has made a formal protest against the annexation of Savoy to France. The protest says that Switzerland has required the King of Sardinia to observe the treaty stipulations which relate to any cession of Savoy, and that the Swiss Government would oppose by force the annexation of Chablais, Faucigny, and the Genevese to France as a breach of the treaties of 1815. It consequently declares that it will not acknowledge the act of the Powers of Europe, to which the imperial Government has itself declared that it would submit the question, should they assent to it.

Two despatches from M. de Thouvenel on the subject of the annexation of Savoy and Nice to France were published in Paris on the 19th inst., one addressed to the French Minister at the English Court, and the other to M. Tillos, Chargé d'Affaires at Berne. There is little in the latter despatch that is new to the public of these despatches. The annexation of Savoy and of the county of Nice to France is declared to be necessary to the safety of the latter, now that Sardinia has so greatly enlarged her territories; but the cession will be made free from all violence and from all constraint—a declaration which is made by the French Government on the average it, as far as the territories of Savoy, subject to an eventual neutralisation, are concerned, so as not to injure the Swiss Government right, and not to affect any legitimate interest. In the despatch to M. Tillos surprise is expressed that the Government of Switzerland should have protested against the annexation of Savoy to France, instead of relying on the justice of the Emperor Napoleon, from whom Switzerland has received so many proofs of his sincere and friendship. The conventions and treaties with respect to Savoy, referred into a despatch, are declared to be analysed. But when it comes to the conclusion that the Federal Council has no foundation for invoking them in opposing the cession of Savoy to France, it is said that the latter has interposed without legitimate grounds in the arrangements which the Governments of the Emperor and the King of Sardinia proposed to make between themselves. It does, however, that the French Government is disposed to adopt any commissions or guarantees for the general interests of Switzerland.

The Paris papers publish the following piece of intelligence, dated Turin, March 1:—"The Nice Contingent of the Italian army of reserve has left by steamer for Genoa." The soldiers were shouting "Vive la France!" "Vive l'Empereur!" "Vive Napoléon!" and impatiently awaits the annexation." Per contra, we learn that the Municipal Council of Nice have made a declaration against the annexation to France; and that the wish of the people of Nice is that, if they are not to remain under the King of Sardinia's rule, they should be erected into a free and independent state, under the independent State.

PIEDMONT AND CENTRAL ITALY.

The official act of the annexation of the Æmilian provinces (the Romagna, Modena, and Parma) to Sardinia took place on Sunday at Turin, when the Minister Farini laid before the King, in public audience, the legal document containing the returns of the votes by universal suffrage of the people of the Æmilia; and the King, in receiving it, delivered a speech to the effect that he thoroughly would feel proud to call the people of the Æmilian provinces his brothers, and that he accepted the offer made by the people of the Romagna, without, however, failing in his devotedness to the head of the Church, to whose sovereignty he is ready to pay homage, and to whose exchequer he was ready to contribute. The King reserved the assent of his Parliament to the step taken by him, but this did not prevent the decree of annexation being published at once in the official Gazette. The city of Milan was fête on Sunday evening. A Royal decree convokes the Electoral Assemblies of the Æmilian provinces for the 25th of March. Another decree appoints fifteen new senators.

The prise de possession by Sardinia of the annexed provinces, as far as the Papal territories are concerned, and Umbria are concerned, has taken place, for on the morning of the 17th an express train carried to Bologna the 9th Regiment of the Sardinian line. On Sunday evening a Royal decree convokes the Electoral Assemblies of the Æmilian provinces for the 25th of March. Another decree appoints fifteen new senators.

The prise de possession by Sardinia of the annexed provinces, as far as the Papal territories are concerned, and Umbria are concerned, has taken place, for on the morning of the 17th an express train carried to Bologna the 9th Regiment of the Sardinian line. The troops were immensely cheered on their way from the station to the barracks.

At Florence, on Sunday, the publication of the result of the vote in Tuscany was celebrated by a solemn religious ceremony, the Archbishop himself intoning the "Te Deum." A decree has been published convoking the Electoral Assemblies for the 25th of March, in order to proceed to the election of deputies to the Parliament. A message of the Government to the Assembly on Tuesday explained the political situation of the country, the past dangers, and the results of the popular vote, gave an historical outline of the acts of the Government, and concluded by saying:—"The Government has to convey the public vote to the King, and the Assembly to declare its work accomplished." This message was received with applause. The President proposed the dissolution of the Assembly, and a vote of thanks to the Government for having supported Italian unity. Signori Montanelli and Mauquini spoke against the proposal of the President. The former accepts the result of the universal suffrage, but said that the Assembly must already be looked upon as dead. The latter refused to vote the thanks of the Assembly to the Government, who, he said, had not done all it could have done to accomplish the union. Signor Pinatesi energetically defended the Government; and the Assembly, almost unanimously, and amid shouts of "Viva il Re!" voted the proposal of the President. A note from the Government of Tuscany addressed to Europe explains the reasons why the vote by universal suffrage rendered annexation to Piedmont a necessity. The Tuscan Moniteur states that a first instalment of one and two franc pieces, with the effigy of King Victor Emmanuel, has been issued by the Mint of Florence, and that a large quantity of decimal copper money coined in England for Tuscany will soon be issued.

The Patrie of Tuesday evening says:—"50,000 men are about to be levied in Tuscany and the Æmilian provinces, and which will increase the Sardinian army to nearly 300,000 men. It is asserted that Piedmont will contract a loan of 150 millions of francs."

On Wednesday the French army commenced the return movement to France—the 50th Regiment of the line by way of Susa, one company per day; the 2nd Regiment of the line by way of Nice, one battalion departing daily.

ROME.

Yesterday week a great manifestation in favour of the Pope took place at the Vatican. This provoked a counter-demonstration on Monday, which was, however, immediately repressed.

The French Cabinet's last despatch to the Papal Government has elicited from Cardinal Antonelli only a reply so slight have been expected. The Cardinal declares that the overthrow of the Papal authority in the Romagna is attributable solely to Sardinia, and he can see no reason why the Pope should not suppress a revolt whose present success is due to foreign assistance. The Pope cannot say will not cede any portion of the territory which belongs to the whole Catholic Church; and the Government of the Romagna, by a by view, nominally entrusted to Prince Carignan, but in reality vassal to a cession of the province. The Pope cannot grant any reforms until his subjects shall have submitted to his authority. In short, the Pope will not negotiate, and will unceasingly protest, relying on "the assistance of God."

NAPLES.

The state of Naples is represented as most deplorable. Arrests are made daily, and the nobles and princes of the land exiled till scarcely one is left suspected of caring to breathe the air of Italy. Government is preparing a general mobilisation of the rural guards. General Filangieri and Signor Cumbo have resigned. Prince Cassaro has been appointed President of the Council. Signor Comitini enters the Cabinet without a portfolio. The Court of Vienna has disapproved of the severe measures adopted. An extraordinary Austrian General has arrived at Naples. The Ambassadors of the Western Powers have given advice to the King.

AUSTRIA.

The Court of Austria considers the annexation of Central Italy to Piedmont as a flagrant violation of the Treaty of Zurich, which formally reserved the rights of the deposed Princes, and has resolved to ignore the arrangement of other Powers with the Court of Turin. In consequence of this resolve, Baron de Brenier, who was to fulfil the function of representative of Austria at Turin, has returned to his former post at Athens.

The French Ambassador, the Marquis de Moustier, informed the Austrian Government a few days ago of the approaching Annexation of Lombardy by the French troops, and in the name of his Government expressed a wish that, after the departure of the French troops, Austria, in accordance with the principles contained in Count Rechberg's despatch of the 19th of January, would abstain from any counter-intervention in the affairs of Central Italy. The Austrian Government has dispatched its reply direct to Paris. The Austrian note says that no interview has taken place between the Emperor Francis Joseph has made too many sacrifices for the maintenance of peace to be able to commence a struggle which would soon become a European war. But, although keeping a merely observant attitude, Austria believes nevertheless that she must draw the attention of France to the secret intrigues of Sardinian agents in Venetia, as well as to the continued provocations of the Piedmontese Government, and at least must distinctly that the Emperor Francis Joseph would not hesitate to make the greatest sacrifices in defence of the rights of his crown.

M. Steiger, the Swiss Chargé d'Affaires at Vienna, has presented a circular note to Count Rechberg, in which the Federal Council protests to the Powers of Europe against the treaties of Turin, without any measure having for its object the incorporation of Chablais and Faucigny with the Swiss Confederation. Count Rechberg replied that Austria reserves her definitive reply until she has ascertained the disposition of Europe; but he declared M. Steiger that the Swiss cause to when the French troops were conveyed by railroad from Culoz to Chambery, the Austrian Cabinet in vain represented to Switzerland, as well as to the great Powers, that the neutrality and the rights of Savoy should be respected. By the passage of the French troops that neutrality was violated, contrary to the treaties of 1815. On the 15th inst. about two hundred students attempted a demonstration in the church of the Barnabyarts of Pavia. Several of them were arrested. On an attempt being made to rescue them the police resorted to their weapons, and wounded several persons. The population did not in any way take part in this demonstration.

PRUSSIA.

A letter from Berlin in the Borsenhalle says:—

Our Cabinet has forwarded to Paris, relative to the Savoy question, a declaration which differs essentially from that of the other Great Powers, its objections on the subject of the incorporation of Savoy and Nice with the provisions of the Vienna Treaties refer principally and particularly to material facts. As regards principles, Prussia points out how dangerous appear to her the theories of "natural frontiers," "universal suffrage," &c. As regards the fact itself, Prussia declare especially that the cession of Savoy to France seriously endangers the peace and security of the frontiers of Switzerland and Germany. Of course, this communication, which, like that addressed by any other Power, is couched in very moderate terms; it cannot be looked upon as a protest against the annexation.

The Prussian Chamber of Deputies has adopted, by a majority of 201 to 105, the bill for increasing the oil duty by law. A letter states that the Chamber of Nobles will probably reject the bill. The nobles, as landowners, fear that it will cause a rise in the price of labour, and render the borrowing of money on mortgage more difficult.

HOLLAND.

The Communal Council of Amsterdam has resolved to raise a loan of three millions of florins for the purpose of making a canal to connect Amsterdam directly with the Northern Sea.

UNITED STATES.

In the Senate Mr. Sumner has introduced a resolution calling for copies of all correspondence relative to the seizure of American rights which may have passed between the American and any foreign Government since the Congress of Paris.

The House of Representatives elected the Rev. Thomas H. Stockton, of Philadelphia, as their Chaplain, and they have passed a bill reducing the mileage of members of Congress. A resolution has been adopted providing for a Committee to investigate charges heretofore made against the President of an attempt to bribe certain members of the House.

A resolution was pending to place five millions of dollars at the disposal of the President to pay the expenses of volunteers sent to the Rio Grande.

The Senate of Virginia have rejected the minority report favouring a southern conference, and agreed to the majority report, which is adverse to such a conference.

A large number of persons have been killed and wounded at Easton, Pennsylvania, by the explosion of a steam-boat boiler.

LATEST NEWS FROM ABROAD.

The following telegrams were received through Mr. Reuter's office yesterday (Friday) morning :—

TURIN, Thursday.—Baron Ricasoli arrived here to-day, and was received by the King at four o'clock. His Majesty, in reply to a congratulatory speech of Baron Ricasoli, said :—"I accept the vote of Tuscany, which, after having been expressed by the National Assembly, is now confirmed by the unanimity of the popular suffrages. Tuscany, in associating her destinies with those of Piedmont, far from renouncing, continues her glorious traditions, and augments their importance by uniting them to those of the other parties of the State. The Parliament in which the representatives of Tuscany will take their seats, beside those of Piedmont, Lombardy, and the Æmilia, will bring the laws of the country into conformity with the fruitful principle of liberty. Thus Tuscany will enjoy the blessings of administrative autonomy without weakening the union of power and the national will, upon which the prosperity and independence of the country are principally dependent." The King then signed the decree annexing Tuscany to Sardinia.

PARIS, Thursday.—The Patrie of this evening says :—"The Sardinian troops have commenced the evacuation of Savoy. The first detachment of the French troops returning from Lombardy will arrive in Savoy on the 25th inst."

LEGHORN, Thursday.—Count de Mosbourg, who (a titre officieux) occupied the post of French Chargé d'Affaires in Tuscany, has engaged a suite of apartments in this city. As soon as the annexation of Tuscany to Piedmont shall have been promulgated, the French Legation at Florence will be dissolved, and its employés will in the meantime retire to Leghorn in accordance with the last instructions received from Paris.

RUSSIA.

The following speech was addressed by the Emperor, on the 4th inst., to the members of the committees from the twenty-four governments of the Second Convocation :—

Gentlemen,—I begin by renewing the expression of my gratitude to the nobility of the three governments of Lithuania, who have first set the example, and have laboured on the common work.

Then addressing all the members of the committee collectively :—

As for you, gentlemen, I will say to you what I have already said to your Government-Marshals. I shall say to you that a holy work is in hand, and that it closely affects my heart. I am convinced that you also will regard it as a holy work. I have two objects, or rather I ought to say I have only one, the good of the country, and I have no doubt you have the same object.

I desire that the improvement of the lot of the peasantry should not be merely nominal, but a reality, and that the transition should be effected peaceably and without a shock.

That cannot be effected without some sacrifices on your part. I wish these sacrifices to be as little onerous to the nobility as possible.

A programme is in existence, drawn up for your labours, which defines your direct duties. You have to answer questions that will be put to you. For the rest, if you find it necessary to add any considerations of your own, you can express them in special memorials that will be examined and laid before me. Act unanimously with the general welfare in view.

I know that absurd rumours have been in circulation. Doubtless they have reached your ears. It has been said that my confidence in the nobility has been impaired ; that is a falsehood and a calumny. Pay no attention to them, and trust in me. From the beginning I addressed myself to the nobility with full confidence ; it is with the same confidence I address you now. I depend on your justifying my expectation by your acts.

My Minister of the Interior and Count Panine, whom I have created President of the Examining Committee in the place of General Rostovtoff, are acquainted with my intentions and my views on this question. They will be able to communicate them to you in detail. You must assist us, gentlemen. Therefore, gentlemen, with God's help, set to work.

Turning to Count Panine, the Emperor added :—

Count Panine, I recommend to you your colleagues in the work. I am convinced they will conscientiously perform their work. Monsieur le Ministre, I beg you to conduct with prudence and reflection this affair to the end proposed ; I do not wish it to be procrastinated.

INDIA.

The Overland Bombay mail brings good news. On the 11th of February notification was made that the Five-and-a-Half per Cent Loan was open, and was limited to £5,000,000. There was a rush in the capital of each of the three Presidencies to obtain a share of the loan. It was all taken up in two hours, and when the mail left the stock was being quoted at a premium of 2½ to 3. An income tax of two and four per cent, and a State paper currency, are announced. The income tax will be two per cent on incomes of twenty to fifty pounds, and above that four per cent. No class will be exempt. The License Bill has been modified, and the scale reduced to one rupee, four rupees, and ten rupees. Important alterations are to be made in the tariff. The duty on twist and yarn is to be raised to ten per cent. Saltpetre is to be subject to a duty of two rupees per maund of eighty-two pounds. Hemp, jute, hides, wool flax, tea, and coffee, are to be free of duty. Twenty per cent duties are to be lowered to ten per cent. Every one in India seems to think that the worst of the financial difficulties are over, that India has seen the last of an annual deficit, and that the path is clear for a glorious development of the resources of that great empire.

As a contrast to this gratifying picture a very painful piece of news comes from Calcutta. On the 7th of last month a telegram was received in that city from Chittagong to the effect that the Kookies were up in arms against Government. This was followed by another, saying that they had fled before the police battalion. The insurgents must have been very close to the station, as the time was very brief between the announcement of the rising and the account of their meeting with the troops, dated from Kareem Haut. Upwards of a thousand persons, according to another report, were said to have been massacred by the Kookies in two days ; but there is every reason to consider this an exaggeration, if it have even any foundation in fact. With this exception tranquillity prevailed throughout the peninsula ; but preparations were active for the dispatch of troops to China.

A committee for the erection in Berlin of a statue to Goethe has been formed under the presidency of Jacov Grimm, the great philologist.

SERVIA.—The Porte has recognised Michael Obrenowich as successor to his father, Milosh, Prince of Servia.

The Portuguese Cortes has authorised the free exportation of wheat and barley until the 30th of June. The Minister of Marine is dead.

Advices from St. Petersburg state that Prince Gortschakoff's health has greatly improved of late. The Prince is now rapidly recovering.

The length of the land wires and submarine telegraph cables which connect the eastern end of Java with Morton Bay, in Eastern Australia, will be about 3500 miles.

A fresh aggression on the British territory, at a place named Langley, is reported from British Columbia. Much excitement on the subject prevails at Victoria.

The Turkish Ministers remain in office, the Grand Vizier adopting the programme of his predecessors, who are reconciled with him. He has also undertaken the reorganisation of the law courts.

Ericsson's caloric engine, which was supposed to have been an entire failure, is now alleged to be coming rapidly into use, two hundred and fifty of them being in daily operation in various New York establishments.

The wife and her paramour, the murderers of Ferik Ibrahim Pacha, have been executed at Stamboul ; the former was hung, the latter beheaded. Singular to say, there was great difficulty in procuring an executioner, but a gipsy undertook the office for five hundred piasters.

HESSE-CASSEL.—The question of the suspended Constitution of 1831 of Hesse-Cassel, for which another Constitution was illegally introduced in 1852, has at last come before the German Federal Diet. The proposition of Prussia to re-establish the Constitution of 1831 has been rejected by the majority, on the ground of the incompetency of the Diet in the matter.

CONSULAR APPOINTMENTS.—The Queen has appointed Arundel Mackenzie, Esq., to be her Majesty's Consul at Geneva ; Sir Robert Fraser Turing, Bart., at Rotterdam ; Charles John Calvert, Esq., at Monastir ; Richard Wilkinson, jun., Esq., at Salonica ; James Grignon, Esq., to the Canary Islands ; and Henry John Murray, at Portland.——The Queen has approved of Don Eduardo San Just as Consul at Sydney for the Queen of Spain.

METROPOLITAN NEWS.

The Earl of Shrewsbury and Talbot is to preside at the anniversary festival of the Hospital for Diseases of the Chest, Victoria Park, which will take place at the London Tavern on the 17th of April.

At the Surrey Sessions, on Tuesday, four women were convicted of shoplifting, and sentenced to four years' penal servitude. The prisoners, who cried, or appeared to do so, before the sentence was passed, now commenced blaspheming, singing, and dancing.

The Highland Society of London held its anniversary festival on Wednesday evening, at the Freemasons' Tavern, to commemorate the battle of Alexandria—Lord Elcho in the chair. The guests numbered about one hundred, and the dinner and wines were of the usually excellent kind obtained at this tavern.

The Royal Botanic Society held the first of its spring exhibitions on Wednesday at the Gardens in Regent's Park. The exhibition consisted chiefly of cinerarias, azaleas, hyacinths, and tulips. Some of the specimens of the former were singularly fine—in fact, far superior to any hitherto shown at this period of the year.

BRUNEL MEMORIAL.—A meeting is to be held at the King's Arms Hotel, New Palace-yard, Westminster, on Friday, the 30th inst., at half-past four, to decide upon the nature of the memorial to be erected to memory of the late Mr. Brunel. Subscriptions amounting to about £2000 have already been promised in aid of the above object.

BIRTHS AND DEATHS.—Last week the births of 1046 boys and 977 girls—in all 2023 children—were registed in London. In the ten corresponding weeks of the years 1850-59 the average number was 1724.—— The deaths, which had declined to 1397, rose again to 1563 in the week that ended last Saturday. In the ten years 1850-59 the average number of deaths in the weeks corresponding with last week, corrected for increase of population, is 1362. The deaths of last week were therefore in excess of the estimated number by 201.

MARINE SOCIETY.—On Wednesday evening the anniversary festival of this establishment, for the equipment, maintenance, and instruction of destitute boys for the Royal Navy and merchant service, was held at the London Tavern. The Duke of Somerset took the chair ; and there were also present the Earl of Romney, the Lord Mayor, Admirals Sir George and Michael Seymour, Admirals Sartorius, Gordon, and Marsham ; Captain Frederick, R.N. ; General Sir C. Pasley, and Colonel Stransham, R.M. Subscriptions to the amount of nearly £600 were announced before the close.

THE BENEVOLENT SOCIETY OF ST. PATRICK.—The annual festival of this society was held last Saturday at the Freemasons' Tavern. About 150 of its friends and supporters assembled on that occasion. Viscount Massareene and Ferrard occupied the chair. The Chairman having given the usual loyal and national toasts, proposed that of the evening—"Prosperity to the St. Patrick's Benevolent Society," and, in doing so, took occasion to say that 500 children were clothed and partially fed by means of the charity. The Chairman subsequently proposed "The Bar of Ireland," which was acknowledged by Mr. Deasy. The amount of subscriptions obtained for the charity was, in the course of the evening, announced to be about £920, inclusive of a subscription of 100 guineas from her Majesty.

ARTISTS' BENEVOLENT FUND.—The annual meeting of this society, which was established in 1810, for the relief of the widows and orphans of artists, was held on Tuesday at the Freemasons' Tavern—Mr. Dimond in the chair. Since the formation of the fund the sum of £22,000 has been distributed in relieving widows and orphans of British artists. During the past year fifty-four widows received sums amounting in the total to £801, and seventeen orphans received amongst them £76. Contributions and subscriptions continue to be received from the patrons of the fine arts, and from the members of the Artists' Fund ; the institution also continues to receive the patronage and liberal support of her Majesty. The statement of accounts showed that the ordinary income amounted to £877, and the extraordinary income to £247, which included the annual donation of £105 from her Majesty—the total income amounting to £1385, and the expenditure to £1120, leaving a balance of £265. Lord Stanley has consented to preside at the annual dinner on the 12th of May.

BUNYAN MONUMENT.—On Monday evening a meeting was held at the Freemasons' Tavern, under the presidency of the Right Hon. the Earl of Shaftesbury, to take into consideration the most appropiate means for raising by public subscription a metropolitan monument to John Bunyan. The meeting was attended by many gentlemen of influence in the Established Church and dissenting congregations, and the following resolution was agreed to unanimously :—"That, in the opinion of this meeting, the absence of any public record for a period of nearly two hundred years to the memory of so distinguished a man as John Bunyan is a matter deeply to be regretted, and that his eminent services in the cause of religion, and his untiring zeal for the welfare of his fellow-men, demand the lasting gratitude of Christendom. It is therefore considered by this meeting to be very desirable that a statue to his memory be erected by public subscription in one of the leading and most public thoroughfares in the metropolis."

FIGHT WITH BURGLARS.—Early on Sunday morning a desperate struggle took place between three burglars and a butler at No. 30, York-place, Portman-square. It appears that the thieves had entered the housekeeper's room, which communicates with the butler's pantry, and having succeeded in obtaining possession of the plate they had it packed up ready for removal ; but, imagining that they might carry off other valuables, a search commenced, the noise of which awoke the housekeeper, who screaming violently brought the butler to her assistance, armed with a dagger ; on his approach the light was extinguished, and an onslaught was made by the ruffians, who stabbed and cut the defender of his master's property. In the meantime the butler was not idle, but on stabbing one of the ruffians the dagger broke, and he was felled to the ground by a severe blow from a life-preserver. The most stringent investigation into the circumstances connected with the affair is now being made by the police, and the constable who was on duty on the beat has been suspended.

THE FEMALE SCHOOL OF ART, GOWER-STREET.—An appeal for assistance is being circulated on behalf of this school. It was established by Government in the year 1842, at Somerset House ; but, from want of accommodation, it was afterwards removed to adjacent premises in the Strand, and then to Gower-street, in February, 1852. Its objects are to enable young women of the middle class to obtain an honourable and profitable employment, and to improve ornamental design in manufacture by cultivating the taste of the designer. Since 1852 690 students have entered at the school, and the present number is 118, of whom 77 are studying with a view of ultimately maintaining themselves. It is now stated that, in spite of the success which has hitherto attended the school, the Committee of Council on Education have intimated their intention of withdrawing their special assistance (amounting to £500 per annum) unless it can be placed on a self-supporting basis. The appeal then quotes a letter from Mr. Redgrave, testifying to the value of the school ; and it is then stated that, to purchase suitable premises and to make them thoroughly complete, at least £2000 is required, which sum the public is invited to supply.

HOSPITAL FOR THE PARALYTIC AND EPILEPTIC.—On Monday the opening of an institution for the reception of paralytic and epileptic patients took place at No. 24, Queen-square, Bloomsbury. The chair was taken by Mr. Alderman Wire. The proceedings having been opened by prayer, the Chairman, after explaining the objects of the meeting, stated that the subscriptions received amounted to £1300, and the board of management had consequently taken spacious and airy premises, which met fully the approval of their medical officers, and were exactly the place they required. From the vast number of persons attacked by these fearful maladies there would be an ample field for their labours. The report read by Mr. J. Parker gave a statement of the donations, receipts, and expenditure, and stated that £300 had been placed out at interest. The Chairman announced that Miss Burdett Coutts had become an annual subscriber of £50. The report was adopted, as were the rules of the institution. On the motion of Mr. Clarke, the hospital was formally opened for the reception of patients. A resolution to form a ladies' committee, under the auspices of Miss Chandler, was then proposed and carried, after which a vote of thanks was passed to the chairman, and the proceedings terminated.

THE ZOOLOGICAL SOCIETY'S GARDENS.—Following close upon the great salamander of Japan, the arrival of which we reported last week, a second novelty of no less singular aspect, but belonging to a different class of beings, has just arrived at the Zoological Society's Gardens. This consists of two living specimens of the celebrated bird of the White Nile, first made known to naturalists in 1851 through the exertions of the Abyssinian traveller, Mansfield Parkyns, and named by Mr. Gould balæniceps rex. The whale-head, as its name imports, is a large stork, provided with an enormous pelican-like bill, and further resembling the latter bird in its capacity for devouring fish. Mr. Petherick, her Britannic Majesty's Vice-Consul at Chartoum, at the junction of the White and Blue Niles, has the credit of first introducing this extraordinary creature into Europe in a living state. In the month of June of last year Mr. Petherick assembled at Chartoum two elephants, two rhinoceroses, four hippopotami, and nine rare birds for conveyance to Europe. Of this noble collection the present pair of the balæniceps and one young male hippopotamus alone have survived the nine months' journey to London. The balæniceps inhabits the reedy marshes on the banks of the White Nile, beyond the fourth degree of north latitude, where it was obtained by Mr. Petherick during his arduous explorations into those regions, of which he has lately given an account before the Royal Geographical Society. The Zoological Society's specimens are suffering from the rough usage they met with during the bad passage from Alexandria to Southampton, but there is a prospect of their speedy recovery.

The last published number of the Postal Guide gives, as an instance of miscarriage owing to the want of legibility, that badly-directed letters intended for Belgravia have not unfrequently been sent to Belgrade.

COUNTRY NEWS.

The first stone of a new Roman Catholic chapel was laid at Bolton, on Tuesday, by Bishop Turner, in the presence of a large concourse of people.

Sir Joseph Copley, Bart., has forwarded a donation of £100 to the National Life-boat Institution in aid of the cost of two life-boat establishments at the back of the Isle of Wight.

Martin Macdonagh, a native of Ennis, was interred on Sunday, after having attained the extraordinary age of 108 years. The deceased enjoyed excellent health up to a short time previous to his death.

A marble tablet has been erected on one of the walls of the Old Church, Ayr, by Mrs. Neill, of Swinridgemuir, and her daughters, in memory of the late Colonel Neill and his three sons, the latter of whom all died in the service of their country.

The Lord Lieutenant of Ireland gave the usual ball in honour of the patron saint of Ireland, at the Castle, Dublin, on Tuesday evening, but his Excellency was not present, owing to the demise of Lady Dover. There was an excellent attendance.

George Solloway has been committed to Reading gaol, charged with having caused the death of a paralytic idiot, William Vicars, in the Windsor Union workhouse, by pouring several buckets of cold water over him as a punishment for uncleanly habits.

As two men, named King and Naylor, were wrestling in play at Warrington, last week, they fell, King undermost, when he was found to have sustained a severe injury of the spinal marrow, and expired the next day. At the inquest Naylor was present, and appeared to be suffering from great anguish of mind. Verdict—"Homicide by misadventure."

DEATH FROM THE USE OF TALLOW AS A SALVE.—A young lady, living near Ludlow, recently met her death from the following incident :—Finding her lip chapped from the wind, she applied tallow to it, which is supposed to have contained some poisonous matter or fat that had been much decomposed. Her lip shortly afterwards began to swell, and increased every day for a week, when she expired in great agony.

The verdict of the jury on the accident at the Tottenham station of the Eastern Counties Railway, from the effects of which seven persons have died, was as follows :—"We find that the deceased men met with their deaths from the breaking of the tire of one of the leading wheels of the engine, in consequence of the defective weld ; and we are of opinion that, had proper caution and vigilance been used, the same might have been detected."

ACCIDENTAL POISONING.—A melancholy case of accidental poisoning has occurred in the Isle of Man. A Prussian brig got upon one of the banks in Ramsay harbour and become a total wreck. The stores were therefore sent on shore, and on Friday se'nnight the cook, in preparing the men's supper, used by mistake a quantity of arsenic instead of arrowroot. Seven persons partook of the deadly meal, and in twenty minutes one of them, the captain's son, was a corpse. Two others expired in the course of the night, while a fourth remains in a dangerous condition.

A PAUPER KILLED BY A COLD BATH.—The Coroner for Berkshire has held an inquest on the body of William Vicars, a pauper inmate of the Old Windsor Union Workhouse. It was stated in evidence that the deceased had been put into a cold-water bath before and since Christmas by George Solloway, who had care of him, and who had fetched seven or eight pails of cold water from a rain-waterbut, and poured it upon deceased the week before last. His death had, medical witnesses thought, been immediately caused by this proceeding. The jury, after a short consultation, returned a verdict of "Manslaughter" against Solloway, and the Coroner issued his warrant for the committal of the prisoner to Reading gaol to take his trial at the next assizes.

FIRE AND LOSS OF LIFE.—Early on Tuesday morning a fire broke out on the premises of Mr. Dick, grocer, Market-place, Preston. Originating in a room immediately over the shop, the flames spread with terrific rapidity, and one of the servants and Mr. Dick found themselves compelled, the latter with an infant in his arms, to leap from a window in the third story ; while Mrs. Dick, much scorched and bruised, escaped, almost miraculously, by one of the back windows. In the top story slept a servant girl and one of Mr. Dick's children, a boy of four years of age : the fire did not enter the room they occupied, but they fell victims to the ascending smoke and heat. Mr. and Mrs. Dick, the infant, and the girl who leaped through the window, sustained very serious injuries, but fatal results are not anticipated.

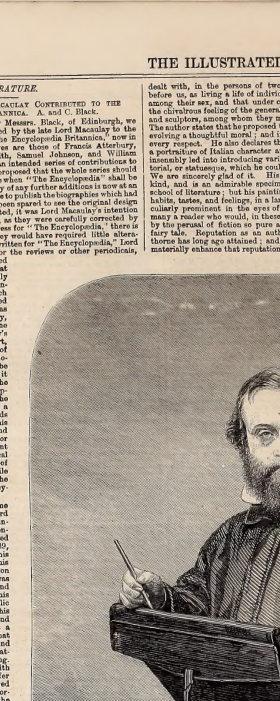
SKELETON FOUND IN THE GROUNDS OF KNOCKLEER CASTLE, KILDARE.—A singular discovery was made last week on the estate of Mr. John De Montmorency, in the county of Kildare. As some workmen were opening an intrenchment near the ruins of an old castle (many of which are in that neighbourhood) they came upon a vault in which was found the remains of a skeleton in a recumbent position. In his hand was found a sword with a jewelled hilt, and beside him was a breastplate and helmet, also a drinking-cup. A box was found in the vault containing some coins of the reign of King John, with a small ruby cross, and some parchments, which were transmitted to Dublin. The whole is in the possession of the Hon. Michael Walsh, Newtown House, who has devoted much time and attention to antiquarian pursuits.

THE MURDER OF A CHILD BY ITS LUNATIC MOTHER.—Mary Titley, a married woman, was arraigned at the Stafford Assizes yesterday week for the murder of her child, a boy about three years old, on the 10th instant, at Wednesfield, near Wolverhampton. The dreadful act was perpetrated with a razor, with which the child's head was nearly severed from its body. Some time ago the prisoner was in the County Asylum, but in May was liberated, cured. When called upon to plead she looked very vacant at the Judge and said, "I certainly did murder the child." Mr. Scotland, who appeared for the defence, suggested that the prisoner was not in a fit state to plead ; and Mr. Justice Keating ordered the jury to be empanneled to try whether she was now in a state of mind which enabled her to understand the meaning of a plea. Mr. Hughes, surgeon, deposed that, from conversations which he had had with the prisoner, he was of opinion that she was labouring under delusions, but that she was competent to plead. Dr. Bower, the chief medical superintendent of the Staffordshire Lunatic Asylum, believed that the prisoner was unable to understand the difference between "guilty" and "not guilty." The jury returned a verdict of "Insanity ;" and Mr. Justice Keating ordered her to be kept in confinement during her Majesty's pleasure.

THE CASE OF THE BISHOP OF BRECHIN.—A Synod of the Bishops of the Scottish Episcopal Church was held at Edinburgh, on Thursday week, to give judgment in the case of the Bishop of Brechin. The episcopal judges present were the Bishop of Edinburgh (primus), and the Bishops of Moray, St. Andrews, Aberdeen, and Glasgow. The Bishop of Brechin was accompanied by the Rev. Mr. Keble and other gentlemen. The "presentment," or charge, against the Bishop of Brechin was his having taught in a primary charge delivered to his clergy in August, 1857, 1st, that the sacrifice of the Eucharist is incidental with the sacrifice of the cross ; 2nd, that adoration is due to Christ, as in or under the consecrated elements of blood and wine ; and, 3rd, that there is a reception of Christ by the wicked ; and by said teaching he was charged with depraving the articles of religion, the Scotch communion office, and other formularies of the Church. The Bishops gave their opinions at great length, and concluded as follows :—"We shall best discharge our duty in this painful case by limiting our sentence to a declaration of censure and admonition ; and we do now solemnly admonish, and in all brotherly love entreat, the Bishop of Brechin to be more careful for the future, so that no fresh occasion may be given for trouble and offence such as has arisen from the delivery and publication of the primary charge to his clergy complained of in the presentment."

GREAT MORTALITY ON BOARD A TRANSPORT-SHIP.—The Great Tasmania arrived at Liverpool on Thursday week with discharged soldiers from India. Out of 1000 embarked, sixty died during the passage from dysentery and scurvy, and 100 were landed in such a state that they were obliged to be taken in cars to the workhouse, when it was found that one of the poor fellows had died on the way. The men complain loudly of bad treatment, and attribute their condition to the want of hammocks and proper provisions. Four more men have since died. The ship is one of the Black Ball line clippers, belonging to Messrs. Baines. It has been a subject of inquiry in the House of Commons, and Sir C. Wood has stated that a searching investigation will be instituted by the Indian authorities. An inquest on the unhappy victims has been opened at Liverpool. The disclosures were of a most painful nature, and proved that, somewhere, there must have been the grossest dereliction of duty. Four days after the vessel left Calcutta the beef was found to be in a putrid state, smelling so offensively when cooked that it had to be thrown overboard ; the beer was sour and undrinkable ; the vinegar and limejuice —important preservatives against scurvy—were diluted and adulterated ; the preserved vegetables were sodden and pulpy, and emitted a disgusting odour ; the suet stank ; the water was black and rusty ; and the biscuit was so utterly unfit for human food, being not only mouldy but maggoty, that 36,000lbs. were condemned, the greater portion being thrown into the sea, while that which was retained was kept only to serve as ballast. The Great Tasmania's stores have been examined since her arrival in the Mersey, and two naval officers and other competent witnesses declared the bread and beef, in particular, to be extremely bad. The hospital stores were deficient, and, notwithstanding that the ship had on board about one thousand men, the hospital contained only thirty-six beds. Ten per cent of the men, it appears, were ill when they left India ; but, said Dr. Gee, "had proper food been supplied to them, they would not have been so bad as they were at present ; bad food, bad accommodation, and deficient ventilation were the principal causes of disease and death on board."

LITERATURE.



BIOGRAPHIES BY LORD MACAULAY CONTRIBUTED TO THE ENCYCLOPÆDIA BRITANNICA. A. and C. Black.

In a volume just published by Messrs. Black, of Edinburgh, we have five biographies contributed by the late Lord Macaulay to the pages of the new edition of "The Encyclopædia Britannica," now in course of publication. The lives are those of Francis Atterbury, John Bunyan, Oliver Goldsmith, Samuel Johnson, and William Pitt. They are only parts of an identical series of contributions to the work in question. It was proposed that the whole series should be published in a separate volume when "The Encyclopædia" shall be completed, but, as the possibility of any further additions is now at an end, it has been deemed advisable to publish the biographies which had been written at once. Had he been spared to see the original design of separate publication completed, it was Lord Macaulay's intention to revise them as a whole; but, as they were carefully corrected by him when passing through the press for "The Encyclopædia," there is every reason to suppose that they would have received little alteration. When these articles were written for "The Encyclopædia," Lord Macaulay had ceased to write for the reviews or other periodicals, though often earnestly solicited to do so; and it is stated that it was entirely to his friendly feeling that Mr. Black was indebted for contributions which could not have been purchased for money. It is also stated, as an act of justice to his memory, and as a record of one of the many instances of Lord Macaulay's kindness and generosity of heart, that he made it a stipulation of his contributing to "The Encyclopædia" that money should not be so much as mentioned; whilst it was his full intention, had he enjoyed sufficient health and opportunity, to have increased the number of his essays. Such a statement as this naturally adds to the interest with which this publication will be received, and few of us but will be grateful for the production in their present form of a number of biographical papers which ran a great risk of being lost to many readers while they continued imbedded in the pages of a work like "The Encyclopædia."

There is appended to the volume before us under "Notes on Lord Macaulay's Connection with Edinburgh," by Mr. Black, who mentions that he was first introduced to him in the summer of 1839, and had the honour of his uninterrupted friendship till his death. During his connection with Edinburgh Mr. Black was his frequent correspondent, and had opportunities of learning his views on many of the public questions of the time, and his opinions were so instructive and so eloquently expressed that a very reasonable belief is felt that extracts from his letters and from his speeches on public matters would not be uninteresting. The extracts commence with Macaulay's answer to the offer from the Liberal party, conveyed by Mr. Black, to bring him forward as a candidate for the representation of the city of Edinburgh. It contains a striking picture of the tastes and feelings of the man, which in after life he indulged to a greater extent than he was enabled to do at that period, and which turned towards a combination of the pursuits of an independent member of Parliament, unfettered by the restraints of official life, with those of literary leisure. A very noticeable letter is one in which he declines to contribute towards the plates for the Edinburgh annual, which had been a custom with the members for that city. Nothing can be more manly and straightforward than the mode in which he stated his refusal—a course which he was prepared to justify to the extent of resigning his seat. Not less creditable are the expressions of his anxiety and regret with regard to his growing inability, owing to ill-health, actively to discharge his duties as a member of Parliament for so important a constituency as that of Edinburgh, and which resulted in his resignation in January, 1856. On the whole, these brief notes, put together in an unpretending but effective form, constitute a valuable collection of cabinet pictures of the mind and thoughts of a man whose less obtrusive but most admirable qualities were, perhaps, too much thrown into the shade by the brilliancy of his literary reputation. In a recent notice of the biography of William Pitt we endeavoured in this Journal to give some idea of the manner in which the narrative of a long and remarkable public life of a statesman of that calibre was brought into the compass of a few pages. This difficulty would probably be less felt in the case of Bunyan or Goldsmith; but, nevertheless, one cannot too much admire the skill with which the salient points are caught and presented with all the charm of the writer's style to the reader. The biographies of Atterbury and Johnson are necessarily more elaborate, but they are not, therefore, more deficient in the simplicity and easy grace which characterise the others. It cannot be doubted that this small volume is as welcome for what it contains as it is creditable to the impulse and the feeling which dictated its publication.

TRANSFORMATION; or, the Romance of Monte Beni. By NATHANIEL HAWTHORNE. Smith and Elder.

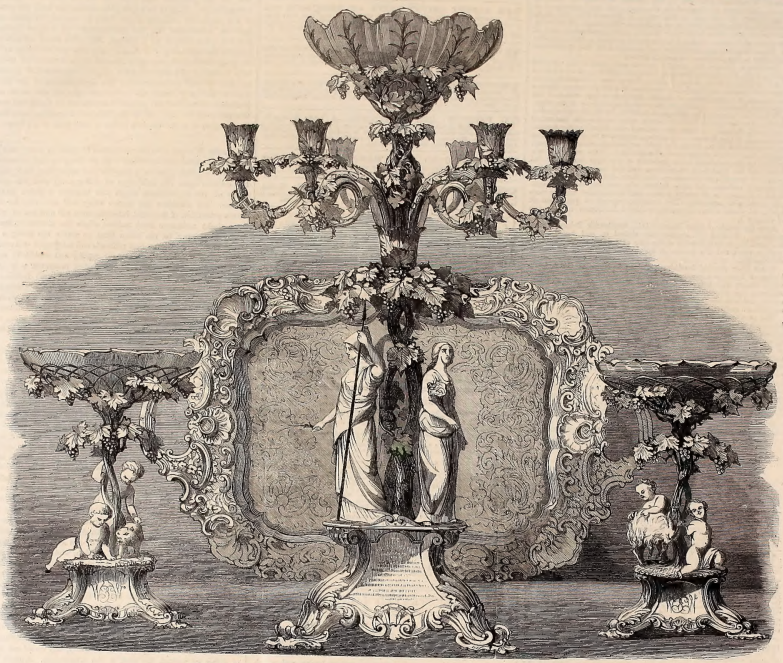
The author of this romance has established so complete a reputation in this country as well as in his own that the only introduction a new tale from his pen needs is a congratulation. The interval of seven or eight years during which Mr. Hawthorne has allowed his literary field to lie fallow has, to our mind, resulted in a corresponding richness of production. The story before us is, in every sense, a romance, founded on a most poetical idea; and all through it runs a vein of mythological fancy, mixed, however, with a vivid series of pictures of modern Italian life, and a vast deal of information both on the practical and the esthetic in art, as it exists in Rome. Not among the least interesting of the descriptions of artist life which are interwoven with the events of the story is the insight which we gain into that section of it to which Mr. Hawthorne's countrymen belong. Several of the fictitious personages here presented to us are in a certain sense sketched from life; and perhaps the healthiest characteristic of a book which is a model of purity and good taste is the delicate mode in which the female artists are dealt with, in the persons of two of that class who are brought before us, as living a life of individuality and independence unusual among their sex, and that under circumstances highly creditable to the chivalrous feeling of the general members of the order of painters and sculptors, among whom they move in all security and honour. The author states that he proposed to himself to write a fanciful story enclosing a thoughtful moral; and in that object he has succeeded in every respect. He also declares that he did not purpose attempting a portraiture of Italian character and manners, but that he has been insensibly led into introducing various Italian objects, antique, pictorial, or statuesque, which he could not find in his heart to cancel. We are sincerely glad of it. His romance is essentially true to its kind, and is an admirable specimen of the writer's powers in that school of literature; but his painting of men, cities, and country, of habits, tastes, and feelings, in a land which is at this moment so peculiarly prominent in the eyes of the world, will have a charm for many a reader who would, in these work-a-day times, not be caught by the perusal of fiction so pure as to verge almost on the region of fairy tale. Reputation as an author in his peculiar line Mr. Hawthorne has long ago attained; and this work will, as we think, very materially enhance that reputation.

JAMES CLARKE HOOK, ESQ., R.A.—FROM A PHOTOGRAPH BY JOHN WATKINS.—SEE PAGE 281.

THE VOYAGE OF "THE LADY." Hurst and Blackett.

The Lady whose voyage is chronicled in these volumes is a clipper-ship of exquisite proportions and wonderful sailing qualities, which is conveying to India a number of passengers, whose distinctive peculiarities are made the basis of a drama on the ocean, which is chronicled in the pages of a journal kept by a young gentleman who is on his way to join the civil service in our Eastern dominions. It seems tolerably obvious that in a vessel of this kind the human freight is necessarily varied enough, that much opportunity may be afforded for the study of character, but it is to be doubted whether many persons would find it easy to bring together as skilfully as has been done in these volumes a group of persons, each of whom contributes to a series of circumstances and occurrences any one of which might very well have come to pass in such a microcosm as is represented by the passengers collected in a large ship on a long voyage, but which, nevertheless, form a very romantic story, and one full of incident. The groundwork of the tale is evidently founded on broad facts which are probably inseparable from a narrative of occurrences on shipboard, but the writer's fancy has been exercised with great effect. Nothing can be more agreeable than the descriptions of every-day life on board the Lady, few things better than the way in which the relative qualities and distinctive characters of the personages of the story are drawn, while the interest is heightened by the introduction of events which, though not exactly common, are quite probable and very far from impossible. We may conscientiously congratulate the author, who, we are given to understand, is Mr. H. Schutze Wilson, on the production of a work which is every way creditable to his ingenuity and good taste.

THE JAPANESE EMPIRE. By S. B. KEMISH. Partridge and Co.



At this particular juncture a work which treats of the empire of Japan—its physical, political, and social condition and history—is opportune. Mr. Kemish professes a desire to produce a condensed, portable, and cheap handbook on the people and country of Japan, and to confine himself to those subjects that are peculiarly Japanese and well authenticated. He informs us that, as the social state of the peculiar people of that still somewhat mystical region of the earth has not much changed since the Portuguese and Romanists were driven out in 1637, it is principally from old German and Dutch writers that intelligence concerning them is to be acquired. Among these that of Kæmpfer is said by a recent writer to have been written by one Campbay, Governor-General of the Dutch East Indies, and at one time the superintendent of the Dutch trade in Japan. The manuscript was only given to Kæmpfer to bring home, and to place it in the archives of the Dutch East India Company at Amsterdam; but, instead of complying with the trust, he took the work with him to Germany, and kept it until his died, when a friend of his, named Scheuchzer, residing in London, went thither immediately, procured the manuscript, and it was first published in 1728 in Great Britain and in English, under the patronage of Sir Hans Sloane and the Royal Society, and subsequently translated into other languages. It is, however, considered the best and the most genuine. Few travellers have equalled Kæmpfer in picturesque power. His descriptions have the completeness of truth, and at the same time the naturalness and absence of affectation, with much of the quiet humour, characteristic of Defoe, in their pictures. This, together with the narrative of Von Siebold, who was sent out in 1823, commissioned by the Dutch Government to make all possible investigations, as well as many literary treasures and institutions as into the natural history of the country, and who, therefore, pursued his inquiries under circumstances more favourable than have been enjoyed by any European since 1640, and the narrative of the expedition of the United States' squadron to Japan in 1853-4, forms the basis of the great portion of the present work. A brief mention is made of the British expedition under Sir James Stirling in the autumn of 1854; a short statement of the circumstances of Lord Elgin's mission in August, 1858, and an outline of the treaty concluded by him are also appended. Passing, it may be mentioned that it is stated that, on the arrival of Mr. Alcock, the Englishman Consul-General, the wife of that gentleman gained the attention of the Japanese more than all the rest of the party, she being the first European lady that had ever set foot on the soil of Jeddo, and to them, with her crinoline spread out and her gaily-trimmed bonnet, she was an object of considerable attraction and some curiosity, and was eyed by all the crowd, many of whom ran ahead of her, so as to look her in the face; while some of them took hold of parts of her dress, which freedom she vigorously resented by giving the offenders some smart blows over their heads with her parasol. Mrs. Alcock had been a long time in Canton before she went to Japan, and was, therefore, not unprepared to meet the Japanese. A statement that increasing confidence exists between foreigners and the Japanese Government will probably be received with satisfaction; and it is argued that, if Europeans, and Englishmen especially, pursue a just and moderate line of conduct, the Japanese will respond to the efforts made to promote the cause of trade and free intercourse; but it is equally certain that they will resent anything like a want of faith or a breach of promise. Mr. Kemish, without fear, predicts that, after the ordeal of the first intercourse with Western nations has been passed, the people of Japan will advance rapidly in the scale of nations, and, probably favoured by their insular position and peculiar characteristics, become the leaders of Eastern civilisation. It is quite certain that the mass of information contained in his book will do a great deal towards advancing the end which is in view by our recent attempt at establishing an intercourse with that country.

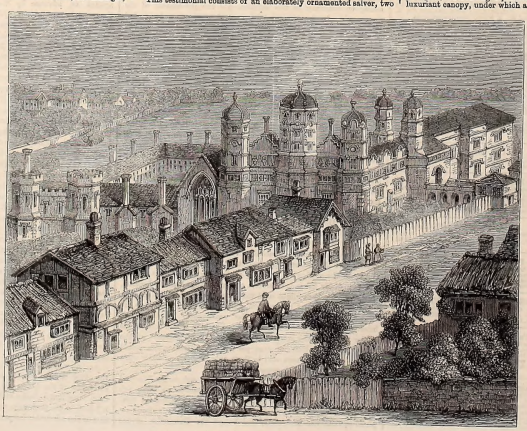
ENCYCLOPÆDIA BRITANNICA. A. and C. Black.

The seventh volume of the eighth edition of this stupendous dictionary of arts, sciences, and general literature, which is in course of issue by the Messrs. Black, has reached us. The last under the head of "Dictionary" and among the noticeable papers is a biography of Defoe. The pains taken to bring the treatises down to the latest phase of the information they profess to convey is as prominent in this as in the preceding volumes.

A DICTIONARY OF DATES FOR UNIVERSAL REFERENCE. By JOSEPH HAYDN. Ninth Edition. Revised and greatly enlarged by BENJAMIN VINCENT, Keeper of the Library of the Royal Institution. Edward Moxon.

It is, we believe, about fifteen or sixteen years since the first edition of Haydn's "Dictionary of Dates" was published, and it is admitted that it was very imperfect, and contained many sins of inaccuracy. These the original author, a very industrious and hardworking man, had, we believe, endeavoured to remove, but hitherto, as a whole, the book was open to the flagrant objection that, assuming to be a guide, it in numerous instances misled those who referred to it wrongly. The latest edition has been produced under the care of a gentleman every qualified for the task of bringing as near perfection as possible a work which might be very valuable in its peculiar way. Mr. Vincent has at his command all the materials necessary for the performance of the duty he has undertaken; and he has not only corrected abundantly and satisfactorily, but he has added considerably to the completeness of the book, bringing its contents down to the present time. Of the amount of patient labour necessarily expended in the preparation of the present edition a single glance at the pages of the work will at once give an idea. If there had been no need whatever of emendation, the labour connected with mere addition would have been sufficient to deter most persons from undertaking the functions of an editor of a work of this kind. In this edition the chronological tables have been revised and continued: about five hundred new articles have been inserted and a large number of others rewritten; the dates have been compared with recognised authorities; and much biographical, geographical, literary, and scientific information has been supplied. If the dictionary is still not free from defects, which, perhaps, may be the case, in the hands of the present editor it is in a fair way of getting rid of them in due time.

TESTIMONIAL TO MR. W. EWINGS, THE NEW MANAGER OF THE LONDON AND WESTMINSTER BANK.



TESTIMONIAL TO MR. EWINGS, OF THE LONDON AND WESTMINSTER BANK.

At the last half-yearly meeting of the London and Westminster Bank proprietors it was announced that Mr. Gilbart, the manager, who had conducted the affairs of the institution from its foundation, and contributed so largely to its extraordinary success, had resigned his onerous and laborious position; and that Mr. William Ewings, who had with almost equal success conducted the branch establishment in Holborn from its beginning, nearly a quarter of a century ago, had been appointed to succeed him. The principles of banking pursued by Mr. Ewings at Bloomsbury were such as not only brought a large amount of profitable business to the bank, but secured amongst the customers a large number of personal friends. These friends, and other customers, who appreciated the courtesy and attention of Mr. Ewings, considered that his elevation to a more important sphere in the bank he had served so well was a fitting occasion for them to express their feelings in his favour in a substantial and permanent form. A subscription list was accordingly opened, and in a short time the sum of 500 guineas was collected, with which a handsome set of dinner plate was purchased. The ceremony of presentation took place on Friday, the 9th inst., when one hundred and fifty of the gentlemen who had subscribed assembled together at dinner at the Albion Tavern. Joseph Turnley, Esq., was in the chair, supported by Mr. Ewings as the guest of the evening, by Mr. Commissioner Murphy, Mr. Taylor, and others. The Chairman, in presenting the plate to Mr. Ewings, said he believed that no testimonial had ever been got up as that one had. There was no beating of drums, no flourish of trumpets. One friend had told another what was proposed, and a creditable sum had been raised without any display or trouble. Mr. Ewings returned thanks in a manly speech; and, the health of the chairman, of Mr. Commissioner Murphy, and other complimentary toasts having been given, the company separated.

This testimonial consists of an elaborately ornamented salver, two dessert-stands, emblematic of the "Golden Age" and a centre candelabrum of elegant design, from the richly-chased triangular base of which rises a clustering vine, dividing at the top to receive six lights, surrounding a perforated basket for fruit, and forming a luxuriant canopy, under which are three beautifully-modeled figures of Minerva, Astræa, and Fortuna. The execution of the work fully maintains the well-known reputation of the artists employed, Messrs. Widdowson and Veale, 73, Strand.

Mr. Reeves, who was first clerk of Mr. Ewings, succeeds that gentleman in the management of the Bloomsbury branch.

The officers of the London and Westminster Bank presented, on Saturday, the 10th inst., a testimonial of plate to Mr. Gilbart, on his retirement from the office of general manager.

LONDON ANTIQUITIES.—THE PALACE OF SOUTHWARK.

SOUTHWARK PALACE.

The aspect of London is so continually changing by the accumulation of buildings, the alteration of public thoroughfares, and the removal of ancient edifices, that it is presumed a brief record of the alterations, with pictorial representations of remarkable structures that have been removed, will, in many cases, be useful to the antiquary, the chronologist, and to architects; and will doubtless prove interesting to a large class of the readers of the Illustrated London News. We do not intend to repeat the remarks that have been made by the authors of the numerous descriptions of London that have appeared at various periods, or to copy views that can be easily procured, but to give graphic and historical descriptions of places that have hitherto obtained but little notice.

The antiquary of the present time cannot but regret that the art of drawing was so little known during the dynasty of the Tudors, or even up to the time of the Great Fire of London. For nearly all the illustrations of the British metropolis before that period we are indebted to foreign artists. The View of Southwark Palace which we now place before our readers was taken by a Flemish artist, named Wyngerde, who was in the service of Philip II., King of Spain. He came to England in the year 1541, and continued in this country till the end of the reign of Edward VI. He made drawings of the Royal Palaces of Oatlands, Richmond, Greenwich, Southwark, and other buildings; he also made drawings of most of the cities of Europe. Subject to his Royal master, a great number of these sketches and drawings are preserved in the Sutherland collection in the Bodleian Library in Oxford.

Southwark Palace was erected in the early part of the reign of Henry VIII. for Charles Brandon, Duke of Suffolk; at that period it was called "Suffolk House." King Henry was a frequent visitor here, and became so attached to the place that he expressed a desire to possess it: the Duke, of course, acceded to the wishes of the imperious Monarch. Henry, in the twenty-eighth year of his reign, granted the Palace of the Bishops of Norwich, in St. Martin's-in-the-Fields, in exchange for Suffolk House, which after that time was called Southwark Palace. A mint for coinage was subsequently erected at the back of the Palace. Both palace and mint, during the Civil War, were protected from arrest for debt or imprisonment for felony, without the consent of the Lord Chamberlain. The privilege was exchanged by residents in the precincts of the Mint long after the Palace and the Mint were taken down, and for many years was the refuge for fraudulent characters, who here defied the creditors. Disorderly ruffians, and even thieves who congregated here, combined to oppose the officers of justice, and conflicts frequently took place of a most serious character. The nuisance became so great that all privileged places were suppressed by Act of Parliament in the reign of George I.

After the death of King Henry VIII., Southwark Palace became neglected. Edward VI. occasionally visited it, and there were here the Lord Mayor and Sheriffs of the city of London—on which occasion he conferred the honour of knighthood on John York, one of the Sheriffs.

Queen Mary granted Southwark Palace to Nicholas Heth, Archbishop of York, as a recompense for York House, at Westminster, which Henry had taken from Cardinal Wolsey. Archbishop Heth, disliking the situation of the place, sold the building and the site, estate, and with the money thus obtained purchased Norwich House as the town residence of the Archbishop of York.

The remains of Southwark Palace had a great part of the buildings taken down, sold the materials, and a number of small houses were erected on the site. That part of the building still standing was purchased by Edward Broomfield, Esq., Lord Mayor of London. He was succeeded by his son, John Broomfield, and his residence was called Suffolk-place. This gentleman was created a Baronet in 1661. He married the daughter of Thomas Lant, Esq., an eminent merchant of London, and by this marriage Suffolk-place and the whole of the estate devolved to the Lant family, who sold the whole of the property, in about the year 1781, to Hill, Suffolk-street, Lant-street, the Mint, and other places in the borough of Southwark that obtained their names from the owners or occupiers of Suffolk-place, mark the site of Southwark Palace and its extensive park.

CALENDAR FOR THE WEEK.

SUNDAY, March 25.—Fifth Sunday in Lent.
MONDAY, 26.—Mohammedan captured, 1857.
TUESDAY, 27.—Great Fire at Hamburgh, 1842.
WEDNESDAY, 28.—Chelsea Bridge opened, 1858. [1852.
THURSDAY, 29.—Institution of the French Legislative Chambers,
FRIDAY, 30.—Cambridge Lent Term ends. Moon's last quarter.
SATURDAY, 31.—Oxford Lent Term ends. [6h. 53m., a.m.

TIMES OF HIGH WATER AT LONDON-BRIDGE,
FOR THE WEEK ENDING SATURDAY, MARCH 31, 1860.

Sunday	Monday.	Tuesday.	Wednesday	Thursday.	Friday.	Saturday.
M. | A. M.	M. | A. M.	M. | A. M.	M. | A. M.	M. | A. M.	M. | A. M.	M. | A. M.
5 | 10	5 | 46	6 | 22	6 | 58	7 | 34	8 | 10	8 | 46
P. M. | P. M.	P. M. | P. M.	P. M. | P. M.	P. M. | P. M.	P. M. | P. M.	P. M. | P. M.	P. M. | P. M.
5 | 32	6 | 8	6 | 44	7 | 20	7 | 56	8 | 32	9 | 7

ROYAL ENGLISH OPERA, COVENT-GARDEN.—Under the management of MISS LOUISA PYNE and MR. W. HARRISON.—Last THREE Performances of the Season. This Evening (Saturday), March 24, will be performed (for the 100th time) Balfe's Popular Opera, THE ROSE OF CASTILLE. Monday next, the performances will commence with Henry Leslie's Operetta ROMANCE; OR, DONE FOR A WAGER. To which will be added (for the last time this season) Balfe's Opera, as acted during the last season, THE ROSE OF CASTILLE. Good Friday as usual, Miss Louisa Pyne will give Readings from the Dramatic Poets.

NEW THEATRE ROYAL, ADELPHI.—Sole Proprietor and Manager, MR. B WEBSTER.—Monday and during the Week, THE STAR OF THE SEASON! MISS KATE KEMBLE. THIS EVENING, and every Evening, at Seven precisely, THE MODEL OF A WIFE: Mr. and Mrs. A. Wigan. Commence at Seven.

THEATRE ROYAL, LYCEUM.—Sole Lessee, Mdme. LUCIA VESTRIS.—Every Evening during the Week (Saturday excepted), the Burlesque of "1?, ARUNDEL STREET, STRAND;" after which, THE ABBE VATURDEUIL; followed by (for the last time) PLANCHETTE; and concludes with THE SERGEANT'S WIFE. Saturday, Mdme. CELESTE'S BENEFIT.

ROYAL ST. JAMES'S THEATRE.—Lessee, Mr. F. B. CHATTERTON.—Doors open at Half-past Six, to commence at Seven. This Evening, and EVERY EVENING during the Week (Saturdays excepted), at 7?, ARUNDEL STREET, STRAND; after which, THE ABBE VATURDEUIL; followed by (for the last time) PLANCHETTE; and concludes with THE SERGEANT'S WIFE. Saturday, Mdme. CELESTE'S BENEFIT.

ROYAL ST. JAMES'S THEATRE.—Lessee, Mr. F. B. CHATTERTON.—Doors open at Half-past Six, to commence at Seven. This Evening, and EVERY EVENING during the Week, the eminent tragedian MR. CHARLES KEAN in the Romance of MILLE DES ANGES. Commence at Seven.

ST. JAMES'S HALL.—WEDNESDAY EVENING, MARCH 28.—Mistress Sainton-Dolby, Miss Sainton, Miss Fanny Holland, Miss Eleanor Ward, Mr. Cole, Mr. Lawler, and Mr. Sims Reeves. Pianoforte, Mr. Benedict. Conductor, Mr. Alfred Mellon. Tickets, 5s., 3s., and 2s. each, at Mr. Hall, Cornhill; and 9, Grosvenor-gallery.

MR. and MRS. HOWARD PAUL will RESUME their ENTERTAINMENT, with new Scenes and Characters, at the ST. JAMES'S HALL, on MONDAY, April 2, for a brief Farewell Season.

MR. and MRS. GERMAN REED.—Every Evening (except Saturday) at Eight; Thursday and Saturday afternoons at Three, in their POPULAR ILLUSTRATIONS OF OUR HOME AMUSEMENTS. Mr. and Mrs. German Reed will appear in their New Entertainment, entitled SERIOUS FROM HOME LIFE, with characteristic Songs, at the ROYAL GALLERY OF ILLUSTRATION, 14, Regent-street, Admission, 1s., 2s., 3s. Stalls may be secured at the Gallery, and at Cramer, Beale, & Chappell, 201, Regent-street.

THE SISTERS "SOPHIA AND ANNIE" will have the honour of appearing in an entirely new Entertainment (written expressly for them by an eminent Author), entitled MERRY MEETINGS, at LANCASTER, MARCH 26; PRESTON, 27; SOUTHPORT, 28.

CHRISTY'S MINSTRELS.—Polygraphic Hall, King William-street, Strand.—Every Evening at Eight, Wednesday and Saturday Morning at Three o'Clock. Tickets and places may be secured at the Hall from Eleven to Five daily, and at Mr. Austin's, Ticket-office, St. James's Hall, Piccadilly, Hats Proprietor and Manager, Mr. J. W. Raynes. Secretary, H. Monkman.

ALBAIN'S CHOIR and ORCHESTRA.—The COLOURED MINSTRELS' FAVOURITE incomparable CONCERTS and ENTERTAINMENT MUSIC. Court costume, thus:—Monday March 26, and all the Week, NEWCASTLE-ON-TYNE. Address, W. Albain, Nicholson-terrace, Leeds. 3.

CRYSTAL PALACE.—Passion Week and Easter Week.—MDME. PICCOLOMINI will sing in a DAILY CONCERT. Admission, as usual, One Shilling; except on Saturday, when the Admission is Half-a-Crown. Season Tickets, Half-a-Guinea, admitting for the series of twelve consecutive Concerts, may be had at the Crystal Palace; or of, C. Rockr Hall; or by order through the usual agents. The programme will be varied each day, and will comprise the most popular pieces in MDME. PICCOLOMINI'S extensive repertoire.

CRYSTAL PALACE.—Arrangements for Week ending Saturday, March 31.—Monday, open at 9am. Tuesday to Friday, open at 10. Admission, One Shilling; Children under Twelve, Sixpence. Gymnastic Seat, Great Organ, and Fountains. Concert Daily. Beautiful display of Camellias, Rhododendrons, and Azaleas in the Exotic Nurseries, and throughout the Palace. Saturday, Vocal and Instrumental Concert. Season Tickets, Half-a-Guinea, each, or on payment of 2s. 6d.; Children, 1s.; Admission Gratis, 2s. 6d. each. Sunday, open at 9am; Last Day in Shrubberies, gratuitously, by tickets.

MUSICAL UNION.—Members' Tickets are All Used. Nominations are received and all particulars obtained by letters addressed to J. ELLA, Director, 9?, Hanley-street.

MR. ALBERT SMITH'S CHINA will TERMINATE with the 69TH REPRESENTATION, April 5. It will be given until then Every Night (except Saturday) at Eight, and Tuesday and Saturday Afternoons at Three o'clock. Stalls, 3s., which can be taken at the Box Office, Egyptian Hall; Area 2s.; Gallery, 1s.—MR. ALBERT SMITH'S NEW ENTERTAINMENT on CHINA and the CHINESE.

WILL CLOSE on the 31st instant, PHOTOGRAPHIC EXHIBITION.—The SEVENTH ANNUAL EXHIBITION of the PHOTOGRAPHIC SOCIETY OF LONDON is now OPEN DAILY, at the Gallery, No. 5, Pall-mall East; also, in the Evening, from Seven to Ten, except on Saturdays.

FRENCH EXHIBITION, 120, Pall mall.—The Seventh Annual EXHIBITION of PAINTINGS, the works chiefly of Artists of the French Schools, will open on MONDAY, the 19th inst. Admission, One Shilling; Catalogue, Sixpence. Open from 9 till Six.

TO PARENTS AND GUARDIANS.—A Lady desires to RECOMMEND an Establishment for YOUNG LADIES, at Brighton, conducted by a Lady whose parents for several years have had their children under their own immediate care. The house large, facing the sea, and possessing comforts rarely met with. Address, L. L., 3, Cambridge-terrace, Brighton.

THOROUGH GOOD COOK WANTED.—Apply by letter, stating age, wages, qualifications, any objection to a few miles from town, and length of service, to R. F., Messrs. Reeks and Co.'s, Fountain Merchants, Queen-street, E.C.

SCIENTIFIC PRESENTS.—Collections of Minerals, Rocks, Recent Shells and Fossils, to Illustrate the study of Geology and Mineralogy, can be had at 3, 5, 10, 20, 30, 40, 50, 60, 70, 80, 90, 100, 120, 150, 200, 250, 300, 400, 500 guineas.

ORNAMENTS for the DRAWING-ROOM, LIBRARY, &c.—An extensive assortment of ALABASTER, BRONZE, and DERBYSHIRE SPAR ORNAMENTS, manufactured and imported by J. TENNANT, 149, Strand.

FREDERICK DENT, Chronometer, Watch, and Clock Maker to the Queen and Prince Consort, and maker of the Great Clock for the Houses of Parliament, 61, Strand, and 34, Cockspur-street.
No connection with 82, Cockspur-street.

WHAT WILL THIS COST TO PRINT? is a thought often suggested to Advertisers. Those who desire to obtain this information, and an immediate answer to the inquiry may be obtained, with a Specimen Book of Types, and every facility for Authors, on application to MESSRS. CLARK, Machine Printers, Bread-street-hill, Cheapside.

NEW ART-UNION.—Limited to 5000 Subscribers.—For a Subscription of One Guinea will be given a Set of Seven of the finest large Line Engravings ever produced, from great pictures now in the Royal Academy Exhibition. Any of these are well-worth celebrity and undying interest. Each of the seven given for the Subscription of One Guinea will be worth Fifty Guineas. Each Set will be worth Fifty Guineas. Each subscriber will thereupon hold a property worth at least 10s. 6d. on impression, or 21s. on India paper proofs, and, as no more copies can be printed, each Set will be worth more than before long the set will be worth £7 7s., or more. Upon application a set of the Engravings may be seen at the Publishers'.
Subscriptions received till Day and Son's, Lithographers to the Queen, 6, Gate-street, Lincoln's-inn-fields, London.

NEW BOOKS RECEIVED.

A Dictionary of Dates for Universal Reference. By J. Haydn. Ninth Edition, revised and corrected throughout. By B. Vincent. Moxon. Advice to a Mother on the Management of her Offspring. By F. H. Chavasse. Fifth Edition. Churchill.
Biography and Criticism: a Second Series of Essays. By Alexander Smith. Edmonston and Douglas.
The Prose Works of Jonathan Swift. Edited by the Rev. Francis Russell. Bell and Daldy.
Guyscraft: a Story of Country Life. The Author of "Margaret Maitland." Hall, Virtue, and Co.
Hookham's Guide to Switzerland. Hookham.
M.D. Hall and Co.
Harry Hamilton; or, the Story of a Man who Helped Himself. By the Author of "Rena Hall." Hall, Virtue, and Co.
Lyra Germanica. Translated from the German by C. Winkworth. Longman and Co.
Lyra Eucharistica. Hymns and Verses on the Holy Communion, Ancient and Modern. Longman and Co.
The Pope's Dream. By T. Plummer. Judd and Glass.
Practical Treatise on the Diseases of Women. By R. Hawkhorne. Three volumes. Smith, Elder, and Co.
Twelve Years in China. By a British Resident. Second Edition. Edinburgh. Ad-dy, Douglas.
Which is Which? or, Miss Cuddy's Contrast. A Story. By S. B. Hemyng. Two volumes. Kent and Co.
What Will to 1860. Baily Brothers.

THE ILLUSTRATED LONDON NEWS.

LONDON, SATURDAY, MARCH 24, 1860.

SINCE the beginning of the Session there has been floating about the notice-paper of the House of Commons a bill for the amendment of the present system of savings-banks, and which, standing for a second reading, has been necessarily swamped by the other financial measures which have intervened. In connection with that legislative intention we have had our mind directed towards the state of the savings-bank system which on former occasions we have dealt with in this Journal, advocating an extension of the facilities for the investment of the poor man's mite by the establishment of what were designated Post Office savings banks. In the speech which Mr. Gladstone on the Budget Mr. Crossley introduced this subject, and his doing so has induced us once more to take up the subject. In treating of the matter it would be unjust not to place in the foreground the name of Mr. Scholefield, the Birmingham member, whose attention has been fixed for many years on the establishment of a plan which would obviate the serious obstacles arising from the limited number of savings-banks, and the very short time during which they are open for the receipts and deposits which stand in the way of that sort of investment by the generality of the humbler classes. It has been, therefore, suggested that a part of the machinery of the Post Office might be brought into play for the furthering of the savings-banks system, and that the money-order office might be made available for the purpose. There are four times as many money-order offices in the United Kingdom as there are savings-banks: the former are open every day of the week (except Sunday) five or six hours, whilst the latter are usually open for an hour, or an hour and a half, one day of the week. It is apparent that there is not sufficient facility in the management of the savings-banks to encourage the poor man to seek them out for the purpose of depositing his little store, and that the system is comparatively the very small dependent on the present organisation of these banks is proved, we think, by the setting up of penny savings-banks to some extent. The plan of Mr. Sikes is to erect a central savings-bank in London, to which depositors might send their money through the money-order office, and that the central establishment should issue, in return or acknowledgment of the remittance, "savings-bank interest notes" to the amount remitted, which would entitle the holder to receive the amount of his deposit, with interest at the rate of two-and-a-half per cent per annum. These notes would be payable to the owners, and to them only, at a money-order office on their complying with some simple form.

This plan, we understand, has been submitted to Sir Rowland Hill, who approved of it at once, and on consultation with the officials of the money-order department it was ascertained that the scheme might be worked with ease and simplicity. The proposed system was afterwards laid before the Chancellor of the Exchequer, who signified his approval of it also; and, therefore we are led to believe that it may form some part of the measure that he has prepared with reference to the general subject of savings-banks. It is to be hoped that, amidst the flush and fever of the important business of the Session—amidst the hurry and pressure consequent on the management of a great Budget and the manipulation of a Reform Bill—this small instalment towards the well-being of a class of men who are not likely to be too immediately and personally affected by a commercial treaty with France or with any extension of our representative system, but who do need conveniences for the appropriation of the small fruits of their providence, will not be lost sight of; and we do not hesitate to assert that no greater inducement to thrift and forethought could be held out to the industrious working man than the bringing of a savings-bank within a short walk of his home.

MR. JAMES WILSON, who was accredited to India in order that he might undertake the hazardous task of developing the financial resources of that gigantic peninsula into something like order, has decided upon the bold step of doing away with the great cause of the expenditure which has hitherto crippled Indian finance. He abolishes the native army, and relies for the future protection of Imperial interests upon our own troops, with some slight assistance from natives where the climate makes it evidently cheaper to use them than to waste the energies of Europeans. He believes that railroads and telegraphs will enable us to bring British troops to bear rapidly and decisively upon any point where danger may arise, and that, inasmuch as a large part of the duty of the white soldier at present consists in watching the brown one, there will be a manifest advantage in relieving the former of the task. With this great reduction in expenditure on one hand, and with a general and just taxation on the other, Mr. Wilson hopes to redeem the credit of India, and render her once more a diamond in the crown of England instead of a millstone round her neck.

On the other side of the world another grand dependency of England has been gratified by the announcement that the Prince of Wales will shortly visit Canada. Her Majesty had been solicited by that region of icy snows and vast forests to send her heir-apparent the noblest engineering work in the world, but "sundry weighty reasons" prevent this, and the Heir Apparent will represent his illustrious mother. We cordially join in the hope that it will be possible for his Royal Highness also to become the guest of the President of the United States. It is impossible to say how much good feeling, "available" in days to come, may not be generated by a pleasant sojourn on the part of the English Prince in the home of the Republicans. There will be no attack too violent, no thought to any interchange of courtesies between great folks, or, indeed, small ones, having a remembrance of the exuberant affection displayed towards our Queen by a Monarch just then plotting Spanish marriages, and thereby involving how the Gulf of Mexico in Hyde Park was to make all European war impossible for the future. But our relations with the Americans are another matter; we are excellent people on both sides of the Atlantic—talking the same language, holding the same religion, and believing in the same theories of government; but we cannot shut our eyes to the fact that we are a class of men who are not likely to be too immediately and personally affected by a commercial treaty with France or with any extension of our representative system, but who do need conveniences for the appropriation of the small fruits of their providence, will not be lost sight of; and we do not hesitate to assert that no greater inducement to thrift and forethought could be held out to the industrious working man than the bringing of a savings-bank within a short walk of his home.

MR. JAMES WILSON, who was accredited to India in order that he might undertake the hazardous task of developing the financial resources of that gigantic peninsula into something like order, has decided upon the bold step of doing away with the great cause of the expenditure which has hitherto crippled Indian finance. He abolishes the native army, and relies for the future protection of Imperial interests upon our own troops, with some slight assistance from natives where the climate makes it evidently cheaper to use them than to waste the energies of Europeans. He believes that railroads and telegraphs will enable us to bring British troops to bear rapidly and decisively upon any point where danger may arise, and that, inasmuch as a large part of the duty of the white soldier at present consists in watching the brown one, there will be a manifest advantage in relieving the former of the task. With this great reduction in expenditure on one hand, and with a general and just taxation on the other, Mr. Wilson hopes to redeem the credit of India, and render her once more a diamond in the crown of England instead of a millstone round her neck.

On the other side of the world another grand dependency of England has been gratified by the announcement that the Prince of Wales will shortly visit Canada. Her Majesty had been solicited by that region of icy snows and vast forests to send her heir-apparent the noblest engineering work in the world, but "sundry weighty reasons" prevent this, and the Heir Apparent will represent his illustrious mother. We cordially join in the hope that it will be possible for his Royal Highness also to become the guest of the President of the United States. It is impossible to say how much good feeling, "available" in days to come, may not be generated by a pleasant sojourn on the part of the English Prince in the home of the Republicans. There will be no attack too violent, no thought to any interchange of courtesies between great folks, or, indeed, small ones, having a remembrance of the exuberant affection displayed towards our Queen by a Monarch just then plotting Spanish marriages, and thereby involving how the Gulf of Mexico in Hyde Park was to make all European war impossible for the future. But our relations with the Americans are another matter; we are excellent people on both sides of the Atlantic—talking the same language, holding the same religion, and believing in the same theories of government; but we cannot shut our eyes to the fact that we are a class of men who are not likely to be too immediately and personally affected by a commercial treaty with France or with any extension of our representative system, but who do need conveniences for the appropriation of the small fruits of their providence, will not be lost sight of; and we do not hesitate to assert that no greater inducement to thrift and forethought could be held out to the industrious working man than the bringing of a savings-bank within a short walk of his home.

MR. JAMES WILSON, who was accredited to India in order that he might undertake the hazardous task of developing the financial resources of that gigantic peninsula into something like order, has decided upon the bold step of doing away with the great cause of the expenditure which has hitherto crippled Indian finance. He abolishes the native army, and relies for the future protection of Imperial interests upon our own troops, with some slight assistance from natives where the climate makes it evidently cheaper to use them than to waste the energies of Europeans. He believes that railroads and telegraphs will enable us to bring British troops to bear rapidly and decisively upon any point where danger may arise, and that, inasmuch as a large part of the duty of the white soldier at present consists in watching the brown one, there will be a manifest advantage in relieving the former of the task. With this great reduction in expenditure on one hand, and with a general and just taxation on the other, Mr. Wilson hopes to redeem the credit of India, and render her once more a diamond in the crown of England instead of a millstone round her neck.

Q.C., for the former office; that the Chancellor has given a living to the second son of the late Mr. Justice Talfourd; that the subscription for the family of poor M. Jullien is open, and should be increased by the donations of the thousands to whom that once diverting person has given pleasant evenings and good-natured amusement; and that there is talk of a grand Rifle Review, by the Sovereign, in Hyde Park, when we shall all have a lustrous opportunity of emulating the mythological deities, and "Exulting in the valour of the British Volunteers."

THE COURT.

The Queen and the Royal family, after passing the week in comparative retirement at Osborne, returned to Buckingham Palace on Wednesday. Her Majesty embarked at Osborne pier in the Fairy, Royal steam-yacht, crossed to Portsmouth Dockyard, and travelled to town by a special train on the Direct Portsmouth Railway. The Royal party proceeded from the private station at Vauxhall in several of the Queen's carriages, and escorted by a detachment of light dragoons to Buckingham Palace, where the Queen and Prince arrived at twenty-five minutes before three o'clock. In the afternoon her Majesty held a Court, at which Vice-Admiral van Dockum had an audience, and delivered to her Majesty his letters of recall as the Danish Minister at the British Court. Mr. Thorben de Bille had his first audience of the Queen, and delivered to her Majesty his credentials as Envoy Extraordinary and Minister Plenipotentiary from the King of Denmark.

On Thursday the Duke de Montpensier visited the Queen at Buckingham Palace. In the afternoon her Majesty honoured the Duchess of Sutherland with a visit at Stafford House. The Prince Consort and Prince Alfred rode out on horseback. In the evening the Royal dinner party included Princess Alice, Prince Alfred, the Lord Chancellor, the Earl and Countess of Derby, Earl and Countess Delawarr, Lady Alfred Paget, Lady Cremorne, Lord Panmure, and Sir Hamilton and Lady Seymour.

This day (Saturday) the Queen will hold her first Drawingroom this season at St. James's Palace.

Lord Cremorne and Lieutenant-Colonel Kingscote have succeeded Viscount Torrington and Sir Edward Bowater as Lord and Groom in Waiting to her Majesty.

His Royal Highness the Duke of Cambridge honoured Baron and Baronness Lionel de Rothschild by his company to dinner on Wednesday evening, at Kingston House, Knightsbridge. A distinguished party were invited to meet the Commander-in-Chief.

His Excellency the Austrian Minister and the Countess Apponyi gave a grand entertainment on Wednesday evening to their Royal Highnesses the Duchess of Cambridge and Princess Mary.

The Duchess of Wellington has issued cards for assemblies this evening (Saturday) and on Wednesday next.

The Marchioness (Frances Anne) of Londonderry has arrived at Holdernesse House, Park-lane, from Wynyard Park, Stockton-on-Tees.

The Marquis of Lansdowne had a select patry on Wednesday evening at Lansdowne House.

Viscountess Palmerston had an assembly on Saturday evening at Cambridge House. The réunion was most numerously and fashionably attended.

Field Marshal Viscount Combermere and Viscountess Combermere have arrived in Belgrave-square from Bath.

NAVAL AND MILITARY INTELLIGENCE.

Orders have been received from the War Office for the commencement at Hartlepool of barracks to accommodate 800 men.

The various militia regiments in the eastern district are to assemble in the course of the ensuing month for twenty-seven days' training and exercise.

It is stated that Vice-Admiral of the Blue William Fanshawe Martin is about to relieve Vice-Admiral of the White Arthur Fanshawe, C.B., in the command of the Mediterranean fleet.

Lieutenant-General Sir George Wetherall has resigned the office of Adjutant-General, and the duties are carried on by Major-General Forster until Sir James Scarlett takes up his post, on the 1st proximo.

Lord Clarence Paget, the Secretary of the Admiralty, has placed at the disposal of the council of the Royal Naval School, New-cross, a naval cadetship for competition amongst the sons and grandsons of naval and marine officers.

General Eyre, the Commandant of Chatham garrison, has received the first supply of Indian medals for distribution among a portion of the troops belonging to the Indian dépôts. They were presented to the men for whom they were sent by the commanding officer of the dépôt.

Major-General Pringle Taylor, an old and distinguished officer, will assume the command of the troops in Jamaica, in succession to Major-General E. W. Bell, whose command expires. Colonel Whitmore, of the Walmer dépôt battalion, goes to Ireland as military secretary to Sir G. Brown.

The floating battery Trusty, 14 guns, which was so severely handled on the recent occasion of the experiments made on her at Shoeburyness with the Armstrong guns, is being thoroughly repaired at Chatham. As soon as the defects have been made good, some further experiments are to be made against the Trusty with the long-range Whitworth guns.

Lord Clarence Paget, the Secretary of the Admiralty, promulgated her Majesty's order in Council of the 22nd ult. to establish certain regulations with regard to the pay and half-pay, &c., of Masters, &c., Paymasters, Engineers, &c., and of Chaplains in the Royal Navy, in a series of four circulars dated the 23rd ultimo. The several circulars, which are addressed to all Commanders-in-Chief, Captains, Commanders, and commanding officers of her Majesty's ships and vessels were issued last Saturday.

The Secretary of State for War has issued a circular by which it appears that the Royal warrant of the 1st of July, 1848, prescribing the periods of service to entitle the well-conducted soldier to obtain the different rates of good-conduct pay, is revised, and that from the 1st of this month the period of service to entitle such soldier to the first grant of good-conduct pay will be three years instead of five years, and that the successive additions will be as heretofore, after every further period of service of five years, subject, however, to the conditions prescribed by the Royal warrant above specified.

The Visit of the Prince of Wales to Canada.—The squadron ordered to assemble at Spithead for the purpose of conveying the Prince of Wales across the Atlantic, on his visit to Canada, will consist of the Hero, 91, screw, 600-horse power, Captain George H. Seymour, who will hoist his broad pendant as Commodore of the squadron; the Ariadne, 36, screw, 800-horse power, Captain E. W. Vansittart; the Flyingfish, 6, screw, 350-horse power, Commander Charles W. Hope; and the Royal paddle-yacht Osborne. His Royal Highness will take his passage out and home in the Hero, one of the finest 91-gun ships in her Majesty's Navy. The Osborne will be retained for services on the coasts and rivers of Canada during the stay of his Royal Highness in that colony.

The Royal "Middy."—The United Service Gazette says that Prince Alfred is being brought up in the service precisely the same as if he were the son of a private gentleman. "He messes with the midshipmen, keeps his regular watch, dines occasionally in the wardroom, and takes his turn to dine with the Captain. He is treated by his messmates as, in all respects, one of themselves—is called to order by the caterer, and runs the same risk of being made the subject of a practical joke as any other young gentleman—himself, however, being generally pretty forward in the business of playful mischief. Upon one question, that of smoking, the young Prince is sternly denied the privilege indulged in by other officers. On one occasion, we believe, his Royal Highness had his leave stopped for a fortnight for being detected in the act of 'blowing a cloud.'"

Affairs of Naples.—An interesting correspondence respecting the affairs of Naples was laid on Monday night upon the table of the House of Commons. It extends from June 22, 1859, to March 19, 1860, and consists of letters which have passed between Lord John Russell and Mr. Elliot, chiefly with reference to the various arbitrary arrests which have been made by the Neapolitan Government, and the generally prevalent abuses of its internal administration. These documents clearly show that, without in any case exceeding the limits of friendly expostulation, the British Cabinet has earnestly striven, and, we are pleased to find in some instances with success, to procure a relaxation of the excessive rigours of arbitrary rule. On the other hand, we perceive with regret that its remonstrances, though they have been efficacious in individual cases, have produced but little change in the policy of the Court of Naples, since, at the latest period to which the correspondence comes down, we find M. Carafa maintaining the perfect justice of arresting, and imprisoning without trial, citizens against whom the Crown fancies that it has grounds of suspicion, though these would confessedly be insufficient to secure a conviction in a court of justice.

FINE ARTS.

THE FRENCH GALLERY.

To what cause to attribute the fact we will not pretend to say; but certain it is that the seventh exhibition of pictures by French and Flemish artists, just opened in Pall-mall, displays a falling off from many that have preceded it, and will do little to enhance the renown of the schools it is supposed to represent. Perhaps to some extent this decline may be attributable to the recent war and the unsettled aspect of public affairs—a cause, as will be recollected, which last year deterred our artists from sending their pictures to the Paris Exhibition; perhaps to the limited size of the gallery, which is inapplicable for the display of pictures of very large dimensions; or, perhaps, and more likely still, to a reaction which sometimes follows upon an extraordinary demand and popular movement in favour of any particular source of supply. When the project of establishing a French exhibition was first attempted, six years ago, French art was very little known in this country, and the works exhibited being some of the choicest specimens of the best men in particular (though not the highest) walks of art, instant recognition of superior merit was the result. Ready purchases followed, and a market was established. In the time which has elapsed since little attempt has been made at these exhibitions to show what France can do in the higher departments of art; whilst, of works exhibited of a more humble class, too many have borne indications of having been painted "for the market." In the historical line we have had scarcely an example worthy of the school; genre—often of the most trivial character, with still life and landscape and cattle pieces (the last of which we paint much better, and from much better models, than our neighbours)—forming almost the entire staple of supply. We are sorry for this state of things, and hope one day to see it altered. As we have opened improved commercial relations with our neighbours across the Channel we should be glad to see the interchange of products extended to works of fine art, as a means of establishing a sympathy between the genius and intellect of the two nations.

Passing in review the genre subjects which abound in the present exhibition, we find a large proportion of them to consist of little studies in domestic life, which the French artist always treats with a peculiar finesse and the very slightest suggestion of something akin to sentiment. For instance, a boy eating porridge, or playing on a flageolet, which our English Hunt would have treated in the purely comic vein, in the hands of M. Frère becomes an object of poetic interest. And in the same artist's group of boys sliding—in admirable keeping under trying conditions of colour—there is a pale cast of thought in many of the faces which acts as a sort of foil to the boisterous mirth enacted. His "Morning Prayer in Brittany," consisting of a group of peasant boys kneeling on a bench in an humble interior, is a touch above the rest in character and feeling, and is impressively treated in a rich chiaroscuro.

Theophile Duverger has two very agreeable family groups—"Visit to the Dairy," and "Visit to the Nurse;" and a pleasant little study of a child "Dressing the Doll." A deeper sentiment is evoked in the "Invalide" of Patrois, where we have two young girls, with faces full of quiet solicitude, attending upon an elder sister, the "Invalide," who sits in an easy-chair. The portrait of a dashing young gentleman hanging overhead indicates, perhaps, that her affliction is more of the mind than the body. Tassaert exhibits "A Sick Child," painted in sickly hues, the effect of which is anything but pleasing; nor is it artistic. The execution, moreover, is not such as to redeem the offence. In his "Reverie of a Young Bride" he indulges in a droll extravagance, the sleeping bride being surrounded by nude cupids, &c., bearing away her "double" fully equipped in white lace, and surrounded by wreaths of roses, in a sort of apotheosis. In this and various other subjects, as "The Toilet," a favourite subject with Plassan, Baugniet, and others, "Pet Bird" scenes, and other bits of purely French sentiment, à la Greuze, the décolté style of dress is indulged rather too freely.

Henrietta Browne, whose large picture of the "Sisters of Mercy" attracted so much deserved attention and admiration last year, contributes a small and highly-finished picture of one of the same sisterhood writing, which may be pronounced a gem of its kind. Baugniet has not got over his coldness and dryness of penciling in his, in other respects, clever pictures, "The Decision of the Flower" and "The Toilet." Meissonier has two of his highly-finished furniture-interiors, "Rembrandt in his Studio" and "Vandermeulen at his Easel," which require almost the aid of a magnifying-glass adequately to examine their delicate details.

In landscape and cattle subjects Mdlle. Rosa Bonheur contributes two cabinet pictures, one of which—"Mare and Foal"—displays all that peculiarity of character and handling by which she is so eminently distinguishsd. "Fawns in a Cover" is a smaller picture and of less pretension, but very pleasing and masterly to the extent it goes. Passing from small to large, we light upon Troyon's "Cattle Returning to the Farm," which nearly fills the upper end of the room. Looking upon this picture as one of great pretension, by an artist held to be of the highest eminence by his countrymen, we must pronounce it a failure, and its evidence, as far as it goes, as adverse to the claims of the school to which it belongs. As a composition the landscape is wanting in suggestive beauty and awkward in construction, broken as it is into two parts by the rude, heavy clump of foliage and roadway in the centre. The prevailing hue also is dark, not with the darkness of the shade of trees, but with that of lead mine; and there is no play of air throughout the vast dreary expanse—no glimpse of the chiaro to temper the prevailing oscuro. The cattle and sheep are ingeniously studied, but a little too artificial, both in their grouping and gait, whilst the textural treatment of their coats is a long way off from the silky softness of a Landseer. We must defer noticing some other works in the same class by this artist, and by Veyrassat, Lamorinière, Lambinet, and Paris, till a future occasion.

Amongst the larger figure subjects are one or two which call for especial notice. Debon exhibits a picture of "Christopher Columbus showing his Detractors how to make an Egg Stand," which is full of dramatic expression, and displays some admirable drawing. But he has treated the subject a little too much in the comic vein—so inconsistent with our notions of the gravity of the Spanish character.

Dubufe has some charming painting in his companion pictures, "The Departure of the Conscript" and "The Return of the Soldier," which are pleasing, in spite of a certain insipidity of sentiment in the female, particularly in the first-named picture.

Jules Noel commemorates the visit of her Majesty Queen Victoria on board of La Bretagne, during her memorable visit to Cherbourg, in a spirited picture, which is full of bustling incident and forcibly coloured.

THE PORTLAND GALLERY.

The Institution of Fine Arts come out this year with their usual extensive and varied display at the Portland Gallery, Regent-street. The collection comprises much that is good, much that is indifferent; some few objects which are——but no!—we will not say it. A reason for the very mixed character of this exhibition may be found in the fact that it is to a great extent free to all who choose to pay for the wall-space, subject to a very slight discretionary veto, exercised in extreme cases, by the committee. What the ultimate fruits of this free trade in art may be is yet a problem. For our own part, we apprehend that the large and increasing demand of the public for works of painting, often as a mere means of decoration, is daily calling into employment many men who have no taste for art, and who would be more suitably employed in other departments of industry, and that the competition created by these experimentalists must, to a certain extent, injure the immediate prospects of the artist of merit. But this is a contingency which will be superseded when the public taste is educated to a fitting point, and not before.

As is usually the case with the contributors to this exhibition, a very large proportion of their works are in landscape—English landscape; and in this department we meet with several really admirable examples.

J. Adam has a large picture of the rocky bed of a mountain stream (24), the mysterious gloom of which is most effectively realised. Another work, of a somewhat similar class and equally successful, by the same artist, is one entitled "The Haunt of the Kingfisher" (358). For the rest he diversifies his subjects with bits from the Irish coast and the Thames.

James Peel has a fine, bright expansive view of "St. Brelade's Bay, Jersey" (37), and another equally-truthful panorama, but more varied in effect, of "St. Aubins" (226). His "Ardroirloch Bridge, near Loch Lomond" (69), is picturesque in its ruggedness.

G. A. Williams, in his view of "Hastings" (243), taken from the overhanging cliff, produces a more than usually striking mixture of atmospheric effects—the thin air in shade below, burdened with the curling smoke from the houses, and the last glimpse of the setting sun in the distance. His "Gleaners' Return" (132), also, a mountain scene, with dark mists gathering round, is clever, and somewhat original in character.

There is something beyond ordinary merit in Henry Moore's large landscape, entitled "Sleighing Ferns" (266). The spot represented is the side of a heath, the broken surface of which is covered with ferns and other stunted vegetation, the hues of which are blended in a delicious warmth, under a bright but somewhat hard sky. Some horses are introduced, which are admirably painted.

"An English Farmyard, Summer-time" (1349), by A. F. Rolfe, the cattle by T. F. Herring, introduces a cheerful ideal picture of our national domestic scenery, well supplied with every description of live stock. The composition has been carefully and skilfully studied, and abounds in pleasing incidents.

In the historical and fancy department R. S. Lauder stands conspicuously forward from among the rest. Few artists of the present day render scriptural subjects with so much appropriate dignity and solemnity of design, which is heightened by the rich chiaroscuro in which it is bathed. We may point particularly to "The Breaking of Bread" (232) and "Christ Denied by Peter" (263) as most satisfactory efforts in this, the sublimest, walk of art.

Dicksee has four little pictures, which display his tasteful treatment of the human face and character. "The Bashful Boy" (7) is an unmistakable episode from the nursery. "Begging his Bread" (289) is an amusing little scene between a dog and a young boy who is feeding him. In "Ladybird, fly away home" (357), we have a charming little study of a bright-eyed girl apostrophising a lady-bird which is perched on a flower which she holds in her hand. We have seen "Kate" (380)—the gentler Kate—before at the British Institution. She is here seen in small, but none the less imposing in aspect.

Two very telling little bits by Haynes King display no ordinary amount of promise. The one is entitled "Keeping Tryste" (385), and consists simply of a young girl in a secluded spot waiting for her lover; the other, "An Interesting Topic" (395), represents a young man, in Highland costume, speaking earnestly to a girl at a cottage door. Unpretending in material, they yet exhibit an amount of power in the expression that we do not every day meet with.

"The Dancing Lesson" (56), by C. Rossiter—the pupil being a dog, the scene of action the nursery—is depicted with considerable humour. A similar remark will apply to Mr. Robinson's "Too Clever by Half" (61), where we find a young urchin hard at work adding some touches to his father's unfinished picture on the easel, to the great amazement of the latter worthy gentleman, who is just entering the room.

"Rough Hands and Warm Hearts" (280), by J. G. Naish, is one of these scenes involving the expression of the domestic affections amongst the humbler classes which always meet with sympathy from the public. No. 346, by the same, the subject being a rough, weatherbeaten sailor, seated in the stern of a boat, and holding the sheets as she scuds before the wind, is a forcible bit of painting; but the artist's obligations to the celebrated "Luff, Boy," of J. C. Hook, exhibited last year at the Royal Academy, are too palpable to be overlooked.

We have many more contributions to remark upon in a future notice.

We have much pleasure in announcing that M. Beaucé has received the Emperor Napoleon's commands to paint a large picture of the battle of Solferino, after the sketch recently submitted to his Majesty. This canvas, 16 feet by 8 feet, is destined for the Historical Gallery at Versailles, but will be previously exhibited at the Grand Exposition of Painting to take place in Paris in 1861.

CHURCH, UNIVERSITIES, &c.

Preparations have been made for resuming the restoration of Wakefield Church, which was abandoned during the winter.

The Vicar of Batheaston has announced his intention of undertaking the restoration of the church in that parish; and the Vicar of Widcombe proposes to restore Widcombe Old Church, both in the neighbourhood of Bath.

The alterations in Bristol Cathedral will be commenced on the Monday after Easter week, and while they are going on the choir will meet once a day for Divine service at the Mayor's Chapel, the use of which has been granted by the Mayor.

The Rev. A. Veitch, Curate of Tetney, Lincolnshire, has been presented by the labourers and cottagers of that parish (which he is about to leave) with a coffee-pot and cake-basket; and the scholars and teachers of the Tetney Sunday-school have presented to Mrs. Veitch a handsome silver cream-jug.

The fiftieth anniversary of the Bristol auxiliary of the British and Foreign Bible Society was celebrated at the Victoria Rooms, Bristol, on Thursday week. The Right Rev. the Lord Bishop of Gloucester and Bristol presided, and was supported by a large number of clergy and dissenting ministers of the city and neighbourhood.

New Church at Knightsbridge.—The old building near the residence of the French Ambassador at Knightsbridge has been destroyed, and upon its site there will forthwith be reared a more commodious church, which will have an ecclesiastical district assigned to it out of the parish of St. George, Hanover-square. The Rev. Dr. Wilson, late head master of St. Peter's Collegiate School, Pimlico, will be the first Incumbent of the new church and district.

Preferments and Appointments.—The Rev. F. R. Vallings to be Secretary to the Society for the Propagation of the Gospel at Calcutta; Rev. D. Williams, Rector of Nannerch, to be Organising Secretary to the Society for the Propagation of the Gospel, diocese of Bangor; Rev. R. J. Francis to be Rector of Rollesby, Norfolk; Rev. R. Kirwan to be Rector of Gittisham, Devon; Rev. T. Pearson to be Vicar of East Lavington, Wilts; Rev. W. H. Parker to be Chaplain to the Marquis Townshend; Rev. M. W. Mayow to be incumbent of St. Mary's, West Brompton. Perpetual Curacies: The Rev. C. Hodgson to Culpho; Rev. G. S. Jellicoe to Chorley, Lancashire; Rev. J. H. H. M'Swiney to Lowestoft, Suffolk; Rev. J. H. Ransome to Lindale-in-Cartmel; Rev. W. S. Thorpe to Thompson, Norfolk. Curacies: The Rev. C. E. Bowden to Wyre and Throckmorton, Worcestershire; Rev. T. T. Daye to St. Clement's, Bristol; Rev. S. Hague to All Saints', Chorton-upon-Medlock; Rev. W. Ketchley to Ruswarp, Whitby; Rev. C. H. Straford to Marshfield, Gloucestershire.

The Rev. J. C. M. Bellew will deliver a lecture on Milton, his Times and Works, at St. Martin's Hall, on Monday evening, the 2nd of April next; and the proceeds arising therefrom will be devoted to the support of an aged and infirm member of the printing trade, as the "Caxton Pensioner" of the Printers' Pension Society.

Madame Sainton-Dolby and M. Sainton will appear at the performance of the Vocal Association, St. James's Hall, on Wednesday evening next, March 28. The choir of 300 voices, under the direction of M. Benedict, will perform some popular madrigals and part-songs.

The wreck of the Vistula was announced at Lloyd's last Saturday. She left the Thames last week with a full cargo of stores (provisions) for the Spanish Government, for Cadiz and Gibraltar, and it would appear that she had nearly cleared the Channel when she met with bad weather, which caused her loss on the French coast, near Abrevach, to the westward of Brest. The officers and crew are reported to be saved.

The Weekly Register announces the receipt of a donation of £1000 from the Dowager Duchess of Leeds in aid of the necessities of the Pope. The same paper announces the inauguration of a general collection in England, similar to that in Ireland, and states that a pastoral from Cardinal Wiseman (whose health is improving) is about to be issued in aid of the movement.

By order of the War Department a series of experiments with the Whitworth gun will be carried out at the Government practice range, Shoeburyness, under the superintendence of Colonel J. W. Mitchell, R.A., Commandant of the School of Gunnery, and the Ordnance Select Committee—comprising Colonel M. George, C.B., president; Capt. Sir W. Wiseman, R.N.; Cols Robinson, R.E.; Greathead, C.B.; and Smythe, R.A.

VIEW OF MILFORD HAVEN FROM HAKIN.—FROM A PAINTING BY MR. WEHNART.—SEE PAGE 285

"CRITICISM."—BY T. P. HALL.—IN THE EXHIBITION OF THE BRITISH INSTITUTION.

"CRITICISM." BY T. P. HALL.

In this sprightly scene Mr. Hall, we cannot help thinking, indulges in a little covert satire upon the airs and graces too often assumed by the cognoscenti class when engaged as volunteers in the arduous duty of "criticism." It might not inaptly be entitled "High Art Below Stairs," the court of review being self-elected from the servants' hall. Being conceived in the spirit of caricature, a little allowable exaggeration enters into the attitudes and the expression of the faces, which are true in principle, if not in degree. Mary, supporting her chin on the top of her broomstick, looks down upon the picture beneath half-closed eyelids with an air of complete self-complacency and profound discrimination; Anne, more supercilliously, tosses back her head, whilst, with dustpan in one hand and mauletick in the other, she points out the weak points of the picture. Footman John contents himself with imbibing the critical remarks of the ladies as he lolls back in an easy-chair, taking a scientific survey of the picture, after the most approved fashion, through a roll of paper. The unhappy author of the work who is undergoing this trying ordeal peers through between the hinges of the door, more amused than annoyed. Whilst Mr. Hall has wrought the fun of the situation up to the highest point of drollery, he has finished the accessories of the picture with an amount of completeness and care which may stand the test of the most exacting "criticism."

J. C. HOOK, ESQ., R.A.

Mr. Hook, the last elected Royal Academician, is another of the young school of art which has recently been forcing itself into prominent positions—and his career to fame and honour has been rapid and striking. Though not exactly belonging to the brotherhood styled pre-Raphaelites, and eschewing many of their absurdities, he agrees with them in aiming at strong and marked expression, powerful colouring, scrupulous detail, and, above all, in the adoption of a subjective mode of treatment in the commonest subjects of landscape or domestic life which, whilst it imbues every work with the tone of his own thought, elevates his art to a creative power.

The incidents of his life within our knowledge are few, so that our memoir must amount to little more than a dry catalogue of dates. James Clarke Hook was born in London on the 21st of November, 1819. His father, James Hook, was the Judge in the Mixed Commission Courts, Sierra Leone; and his mother the second daughter of Dr. Adam Clarke, the Bible Commentator. The future artist was entered a student of the Royal Academy in 1839, and his progress from the outset was marked and encouraging. He took the first medals in the life and painting schools in 1842, and the gold medal for historical painting in 1844. Up to this time Mr. Hook had chiefly confined himself to subjects from English history, and occasionally portraits. In 1846 he obtained the travelling pension of the Royal Academy for three years; and in the same year married the third daughter of Mr. James Burton, solicitor, and went to Italy. After eighteen months' absence, which he improved by study in the principal galleries in the home of classic art, he gave up half his pension, and returned to England. He now commenced painting subjects from Italian and French history and poetry, and occasionally from Scripture, in which he displayed taste and judgment, combined with great freedom and power in execution, and a fine eye for colour. Of this class may be mentioned the following, all exhibited at the Royal Academy. In 1849, "The Chevalier Bayard, Wounded;" in 1850, "A Dream of Venice;" in 1851, "R... ..e of Venetian Bride" (in the possession of Mr. Newsham, of Preston); in 1852, "The Story of Torrello," from Boccaccio; in 1853, "Isabella of Castile and the Idle Nuns" (the property of Mr. Bonen, of Birkenhead); in 1854, "Incidents in the Protestant Persecutions in France;" and in 1855, "Gratitude of the Mother of Moses" (the property of Mr. Kay, of Manchester). In 1851 his merit was recognised by the Royal Academy in his election as an Associate. He shortly afterwards adopted a new style of subject, more suited to the genius of his age, and consisting, mainly, of scenes of pastoral or nautical life, having more or less reference to our especial national industries, or the great national struggles going forward upon the wide empire protected by our flag, and upon which the sun never sets. And even when he did not aim at great moral themes there was always a little suggestive poetry in his simplest landscape subjects which set the mind thinking, and gave life and individuality to every touch of his pencil. For instance, in 1855, he produced "The Market Morning" and "The Shepherd's Boy;" in 1856, "The Brambles in the Way," "The Passing Cloud" (a little domestic episode), and "The Fisherman's Good Night" (the property of Mr. Miller, of Preston; in 1857, "A Signal in the Horizon" (belonging to Mr. Pocock, of London), and "The Ship-boy's Letter" (an expressive little passage in humble life); in 1858 a Rustic Group, with the inscription "Children's children are the crown of old men, and the glory of children are their fathers" (Proverbs xvii. 6), (purchased by Mr. Hodgson, banker, of London); "A Pastoral," rather quaint in character, with the quaint inscription from Spenser—

> Then blow your pypes, shepherds, till you be at home,
> The night highest fast, yts time to be gone, and "The Coast-boy Gathering Eggs," remarkable alike for daring suggestion and intensity of local colour (both these the property of Mr. Burnett, of London). Last year he exhibited four others, amongst which we well remember a charming pastoral idyl, the philosophy of which is sufficiently explained in the lines—

> And out again I curve and flow,
> To join the brimming river;
> For men may come, and men may go,
> But I go on for ever.

and the sturdy bit of sea-life entitled "Luff Bay." The remaining two are also scenes illustrative of our coast populations—"A Cornish Gift" represents a sailor-boy handing a live lobster over the side of a boat to a young girl, who half hesitates to receive it, and "The Skipper Ashore," a young middy lounging in the stern of a boat, awaiting the return of his captain.

We look forward with some interest to what this admirable and creative hand may produce for the coming season.

THE WEATHER.

RESULTS OF METEOROLOGICAL OBSERVATIONS AT THE KEW OBSERVATORY OF THE BRITISH ASSOCIATION.

Lat. 51° 28′ 6″ N.; Long. 0° 18′ 47″ W.; Height above sea, 84 feet.

DAY.	Daily Means of: Barometer Corrected	Temperature of the Air	Dew Point	Relative Humidity	Amount of Cloud	Thermometer: Minimum read at 10 A.M.	Maximum read at 10 P.M.	Wind: General Direction	Movement in 24 hours	Rain in 24 hours. Read at 10 A.M.
	Inches.	°	°		0-10	°	°		Miles	Inches.
March 14	29·456	39·7	34·1	·82	9	34·9	45·5	SW. SE.	194	·006
„ 15	29·861	39·6	30·1	·72	7	30·6	46·7	W. SW.	259	·000
„ 16	30·019	43·7	31·9	·66	7	37·9	50·0	N. NW. W.	300	·000
„ 17	30·075	48·9	45·4	·89	10	40·6	55·1	W. NW.	317	·271
„ 18	30·018	46·0	43·7	·93	10	45·8	54·8	WNW.	368	—
„ 19	30·136	44·9	38·7	·81	7	37·4	52·2	SW.	360	·005
„ 20	29·866	45·7	40·0	·85	9	42·7	51·1	SW. WSW.	667	·000

The following are the readings of the meteorological instruments for the above days, in order, at half-past nine a.m.:—

Barometer (in inches), corrected	29·519	29·867	29·943	30·083	30·033	30·173	29·951
Temperature of Air	42·0°	38·1°	44·4°	49·4°	48·0°	47·2°	48·1°
Temperature of Evaporation	39·3°	34·8°	39·5°	48·1°	41·9°	43·9°	44·9°
Direction of Wind	W.	W.	NNW.	W.	W.	SW.	SW.

WILLS AND BEQUESTS.

Dowager Countess of Orford: Special probate of the will of the late Right Hon. Mary, Countess of Orford, relict of the late Horatio, fourth Earl of Orford, was granted on the 16th of March by the principal registry to the Hon. Henry Walpole, the son of one of the executors, limited to effects by virtue of a certain indenture of settlement made in 1828, and of all other powers enabling her thereto: the other executor, Francis Walpole, Esq., renounced. Her Ladyship's will bears date the 8th of March, 1857, whereby she disposes of her interest in £7000, leaving certain bequests to her sons, Henry and Frederick, and her daughter, Lady Dorothea Fanny, appointing her son, the Hon. Henry Walpole, residuary legatee.

Hon. Justice Rowe: The will of the Hon. Sir William Carpenter Rowe, late Chief Justice of the Island of Ceylon, has just been proved in London by his relict, Lady Rowe, the sole executrix, who had first obtained probate in the Supreme Court at Colombo in December last, the learned Judge having died at Galle, in that island, on the 9th of November, and had made his will on the 15th of October preceding, which was attested by five witnesses, all belonging to the Oriental Bank, Colombo. The personalty in this country was estimated for probate duty at £25,000. Sir William has bequeathed to his wife all his property and effects at Ceylon, and a legacy of £2000, and all the silver family plate, for her life; then to their eldest son; also leaves her Ladyship an annuity of £500 a year beyond the settlement of £15,000 on marriage. Sir William has provided for his two sons by leaving to each annuities increasing in amount with their age, commencing with £50 a year and rising to £250 a year till they respectively attain the age of twenty-four; then each to receive the sum of £5000, and another £5000 at the age of twenty-seven; and has appointed his eldest son reversionary residuary legatee. There are bequests to other members of his family. Sir William has bequeathed a sum of £500 in trust, when, after purchasing an annuity of £5 on a female life, the surplus is to be applied to charitable and educational purposes in the borough of Launceston, Cornwall. His law books he leaves to his nephew, William C. Gurney; his other books to his two sons.

A. M'Nab, Esq.: The will of Alexander M'Nab, Esq., of Argyle-street, London, who died on the 14th of December last, has been proved in the principal registry by the executors and trustees—namely, Herbert Williams, Esq., his son-in-law, and Mrs. Elizabeth Finch, his daughter. He has bequeathed all his Dutch and other foreign bonds and securities to his three children, Alexander M'Nab, Elizabeth Finch, wife of Francis Oliver Finch, Esq., and Mary Ann, wife of Herbert Williams, Esq.; and has bequeathed to his wife for her life his house in University-street, and after her decease to his children, his daughters' shares to be for their separate uses; and has appointed his wife residuary legatee. The will is dated the 23rd of November, 1859.

The Hampshire Independent says:—"Her Majesty honoured the Steam Ferry Bridge at Cowes for the first time on Tuesday week. The bridge was opportunely decorated with flags that day, not in anticipation of her Majesty's visit, but to celebrate the wedding of the toll-taker."

We are informed (says the Times) that the export duty upon rags which the Emperor Napoleon proposes to substitute for the absolute prohibition hitherto in force will amount to about 100 per cent on the price of common rags, and 50 per cent on the price of the best quality.

Miss Emily Faithfull has established and opened in Great Coram-street, Brunswick-square, a printing-office, in which the work is done wholly by women, and for the support of which the assistance of all who are interested in the extension of female employment is solicited.

The Beverley Election Committee met, for the last time, last Saturday, and agreed to its report, which declared that James Robert Walker, Esq., was duly elected, and that several persons had been bribed to vote, but it was not proved that such bribery had been committed with the consent of Mr Walker.

IMPERIAL PARLIAMENT.

[The accompanying report of the proceedings in both Houses of Parliament yesterday se'ennight appeared in our town edition last week.]

HOUSE OF LORDS.—Friday, March 16.

English Ships at Naples.—The Earl of Ellenborough asked a question of the First Lord of the Admiralty respecting the report that several English ships of war had entered the bay of Naples.—The Duke of Somerset was understood to say that the purpose of sending British ships to Naples was that of affording protection to persons persecuted by the Neapolitan Government.—Lord Redesdale asked for more definite information. He was sure that we should not tolerate any similar proceeding with regard to this country. We should not consider that a person guilty of treason to this Government could escape punishment by going on board a foreign ship in an English harbour.—The Earl of Malmesbury concurred with Lord Redesdale, and said that the officers of the ships in question would be placed in a most embarrassing situation.—The Duke of Newcastle said that the course adopted was entirely in accordance with precedent.—The Earl of Derby pointed out that in the case of Naples there was no insurrection or rebellion going on. There was no overt disagreement between the King of the Two Sicilies and his subjects.—Earl Grey defended the course adopted.—The subject then dropped.

SAVOY AND NICE.

The Earl of Carnarvon called attention to the telegram yesterday received from Turin, stating that arrangements had been made between the King of Sardinia and the Emperor Napoleon for the cession to the latter of Savoy and Nice. He pointed out the discrepancy between the telegram and the despatches which had been written at various times by M. de Thouvenel, and asked whether the Government were in possession of any information which would qualify or in any way throw light upon this extraordinary communication.

The Duke of Newcastle protested against the nature of this question. He appealed to the House whether it was the duty of the Government to reply to such an inquiry. If the noble Earl had been a member of the Sardinian Government he could scarcely have asked such a question of Count Cavour, but in the case of her Majesty's Government he thought the course inexplicable. The despatch to which the noble Earl more especially referred had only been received within twenty-four hours, and he must really be excused from entering then upon a discussion of its contents.

The Earl of Malmesbury thought the noble Duke was quite justified in declining to consider a despatch which had only come to hand so recently.

HOUSE OF COMMONS.—Friday, March 16.

Mr. Cobden and Mr. Newdegate.—Mr. Bright complained of a speech made by Mr. Newdegate, in which he charged Mr. Cobden with having become Napoleonised, approved of the principles of the Emperor of Russia, and deserted his liberal principles. He had, he said, received a letter from Mr. Cobden, requesting him to vindicate his character before the House.—Mr. Newdegate said he derived the information on which he grounded his statement upon a private letter in the Manchester Guardian. The hon. gentleman proceeded to trace Mr. Cobden's Parliamentary and political history, and he was frequently called to order by the Speaker. He persevered, amidst cries of "Oh, oh!" to revert to Mr. Cobden's letters and speeches.—Mr. Bright said he was not able to gather from what the hon. gentleman had said whether he persevered in his statement or retracted it. Mr. Cobden utterly denied the statement.—Mr. Newdegate said he did not retract his opinion, but he had endeavoured to state the grounds of it.—The subject then dropped.

Lightning-conductors.—Mr. Freeland asked the First Commissioner of Works whether his attention had been called to a despatch from our Minister at Brussels, dated the 24th of February last, stating that on the preceding Sunday a violent thunderstorm, accompanied by an unprecedented heavy fall of snow, had overspread Belgium; that twelve churches had been simultaneously struck by lightning, and that three of them had been totally destroyed, and the others much injured; whether he had seen a paragraph in the Times of August 17, 1857, stating that the flag-tower of Windsor Castle had been struck by lightning, and about four tons of the parapet been displaced; and whether any provision had been or was to be made for securing the public buildings of this country which are under the control of the Board of Public Works against such injuries or destruction by lightning as have occurred at Windsor Castle and in Belgium?—Mr. Cowper said his attention had been called to the facts alluded to, but he had not thought that the circumstances would justify the Government in departing from the course ordinarily adopted in this country. He was happy to say that the damage to Windsor Castle was repaired at an expense of thirty shillings.

Beer and Wine Licenses.—The Chancellor of the Exchequer, in reply to a question put to him on behalf of Mr. E. James, referring to the extension of those who had beer licenses, a refreshment license, and also a wine license, said he did not think that the effect of the proposed enactment was rightly understood. The bill had two principal objects—one related to refreshment-houses universally, and was intended to remedy an evil justly complained of, that they were entirely exempt from the supervision of the police. If the bill were approved of, the keepers of such houses would be compelled to take out a license at a low rate, and they would then come under the supervision of the police. The next point had reference to what were called eating-houses, a definition of which was given in the bill. Eating-house keepers might apply for a license to sell wine. As to beer-houses he did not propose to touch them. He supposed the question was whether a beer license disqualified the holder from obtaining a wine license? It was for the House to determine whether such persons should also have a wine license. It was not the intention of the bill to disqualify beer-license holders from also having a wine license.

ENCROACHMENTS OF THE FRENCH.

Mr. Haliburton called attention to the encroachments of the French in Newfoundland. The French had made extraordinary claims upon portions of Newfoundland under British sway, and had actually given two thousand British subjects notice to quit their dwellings and to go elsewhere. The French had also created a large fishing interest, which was now their nursery for seamen. The French had 40,000 seamen in this trade. This nursery of seamen was of more consequence to France than coal was to this country. He wished to know what steps had been taken to stop those encroachments? He also wished for information in reference to the fortifications erected by the French, recently, in the island of St. Pierre—an island in close neighbourhood of our Canadian possessions? The French had also established a naval station there, and had laid in a large supply of coals. Under pretence of receiving the mails, a large number of war-steamers were congregated at that island. He was of opinion that the French had no right to do what they had done; and, as it would in case of hostilities form a source of danger to this country, he wished to know whether the attention of the Government had been called to the matter?

Mr. Kinglake drew attention to the determination of the French Emperor to annex Savoy, and asked the Government for the latest information on the subject. He hoped the rumour that the French Emperor meant to annex Savoy and Nice, together with Chablais and Faucigny, without consulting the great Powers of Europe, would be contradicted by the Government.

Sir R. Peel called attention to the danger likely to follow from the proceedings of the Emperor of the French with reference to the countries about to be annexed to France. In the last despatch on the subject it was clear that the Cabinet of St. Petersburg had taken up a dignified attitude on the question, and he thought this and every other country in Europe ought to take the same attitude against this policy of annexation. If Savoy were annexed, the annexation of Belgium would not be long delayed. He believed that the King of Sardinia had been not only deceiving her Majesty's Government, but he had been acting with a mock dignity in this matter. He hoped that the Government would speak out boldly against the policy of France.

Lord J. Russell, in reference to the French movement at St. Pierre, said it was very doubtful whether they had been acting in violation of any treaty. In reference to Mr. Kinglake's question, he would say that Russia and Prussia entirely agreed with the views of England on the subject of the annexation question, and steps had been taken to submit these objections to the French Emperor. The noble Lord, who spoke in a very low tone of voice, was understood to say that the question was one of the greatest gravity, and required the most serious consideration of the Government.

CHINA.

On going into Committee of Supply,

Sir De Lacy Evans moved a series of resolutions condemnatory of our late attack upon the Peiho forts; in support of a peace and conciliatory policy towards China; and recommending the appointment of "a Plenipotentiary of experience and of conciliatory temper and judgment for the conduct of the important negotiation with the Emperor of China, and for directing and counselling the disposition of her Majesty's naval and military forces destined for this service."

Lord J. Russell said that the Government had taken a very moderate course in respect to China. They had instructed our Ambassador to demand an apology for the outrages committed, and to adopt such other measures as he might under the circumstances of the case think necessary. It was impossible to fetter the discretion of our Plenipotentiary by any positive instructions in consequence of the great distance of the country from the home country. Lord Elgin, who was at present in Paris, would proceed to China, where he would act in concert with Baron Gros. In the event of our negotiations with the Chinese Government failing, a demand would be made upon them for an indemnity for our armaments.

Sir J. Elphinstone expressed his regret at the unsatisfactory statement of the noble Lord, and warned the Government against persevering in a hostile expedition against China, which could not be carried out at a less expense than £10,000,000, and which it was utterly hopeless to expect back under the claim of an indemnity, inasmuch as the Chinese treasury was in a state of penury.

Mr. Bright was also greatly disappointed with the statement of Lord J. Russell, and thought that the Minister ought to be more explicit with the House when the Government were about to engage in a bloody and a costly war, which was one of the most unjust, cruel, and impolitic character

Mr. S. Herbert admitted he could not approve of the policy which had been adopted towards China; nevertheless, he justified the conduct of Mr. Bruce, on account of the duplicity practised upon him by the Chinese.

Sir J. Pakington referred to the policy of Lord Malmesbury, who had never counselled the forcing of the mouth of the Peiho.

After some further discussion, Lord Palmerston entered into a vindication of the policy of the Government, and defended the conduct of Mr. Bruce, who had only attempted to carry out his instructions.

Sir De Lacy Evans withdrew his propositions.

The House went into Committee of Supply, when a vote for £350,000 for the expedition to China was agreed to.

HOUSE OF LORDS—Monday.

The Consolidated Fund (£4,500,000) Bill and the Selling and Hawking Goods on Sunday Bill were read a second time.

The Attorneys and Solicitors Bill and the Valuation of Rateable Property (Ireland) Bill were read a third time and passed.

Ballot.—Lord Teynham, in a speech of some length, moved to resolve that it is expedient, in the election of members to serve in Parliament, that the votes of the electors be taken by secret voting.—He was briefly replied to by the Duke of Newcastle, and their Lordships divided; the numbers being—For the motion, 4; against it, 39.

HOUSE OF COMMONS.—Monday.

The report of the Beverley Election Committee was brought up, declaring the sitting member, J. R. Walker, Esq., duly elected.

Savoy and Nice.—Mr. A. Kinglake said that he had been informed that the Municipal Council of Nice had declared for remaining under Sardinia; and that if France declared that that state of things was dangerous to her frontier, then that Nice should be erected into an independent State. The Council had passed a vote of thanks to three members of the House, two of whom were Mr. Fitzgerald and Sir R. Peel. He asked Lord J. Russell whether the Government had received the appeal addressed by the Swiss Government to the Powers, and whether it would be considered before an answer was sent to M. Thouvenel, and whether the Government would put itself in communication with the Powers to which the Swiss note had been addressed?—Lord J. Russell said no note had been received from the Swiss Government. As to the course which the Government was to take, he appealed to the House for forbearance, to allow the Government to deliberate freely on the answer they were about to give.

THE REFORM BILL.

On the motion that the Reform Bill be read a second time,

Mr. Disraeli criticised the measure in a tone of subdued sarcasm. The right hon. gentleman said that the bill might have been drawn up four or five centuries ago, as far as any new qualifications were concerned. The measure was of a mediæval character, without the inspiration of the feudal system or the genius of the middle ages. He objected to it because it did not propose any new franchise; for he held that a representation by numbers only never could be a just one, because it excluded lodgers from a voice in the representation of the people—because it would disfranchise some classes in counties, while it perpetuated the exclusion of others who were entitled by conduct and intelligence to vote—and because he regarded the proposed redistribution of Parliamentary seats as most unsatisfactory. He could not understand upon what principle places like Manchester and Birmingham, which were already represented, were to have additional members, while other towns now unrepresented were to remain in that condition. The universal opinion in the country was that the bill was a very bad measure; in fact, the only persons who approved of it were Lord John Russell and Mr. Bright. The latter, with that candid audacity which in great part neutralised his pernicious opinions and advice, had already announced that no sooner would the bill be passed than he would begin agitating the country for another. But, although he was prepared to declare emphatically that the bill was a bad one, at the same time he was not prepared to undertake the responsibility of rejecting it on the second reading. Neither could he say whether he or his friends would move any amendments in Committee. The bill of the late Government was more liberal than the present, and would have done more to strengthen the Constitution. It was proposed at an opportune moment for an extensive political change, but the present prospect was very different. Europe was now prostrate and spiritless. A great military Power was building up a colossal empire by force of arms, and he asked whether this was a moment to interfere with that old aristocratic element of constitutional power under which England had attained to so great a measure of prosperity? Regard being had to the admitted fact that the bill had found no favour in the House, he ventured to hope that a measure so unnecessary, uncalled for, and mischievous, would be withdrawn.

Mr. Leatham supported the bill as an extension of the franchise, but did not think it dealt sufficiently with the arrangement of the constituencies.

Mr. H. J. Baillie was of opinion that of the present property franchises in boroughs he should prefer household suffrage. He was also in favour of the abolition of nomination boroughs. He objected to the diminution of the county franchise to £10.

Mr. Baxter having spoken on the whole in favour of the bill, but dwelling on its omissions,

Mr. Rolt looked on the measure as a great step in the direction of separating the representation from the property of the country, and from that point of view he considered it with dismay.

Mr. W. F. Campbell, as a member for one of the boroughs which will lose a representative, was understood to oppose the bill.

After some observations from Mr. Liddell,

Mr. Bright said he was prepared to discuss the measure with a desire to assist in the passing of a useful bill, and to make every allowance for the difficulties of the Government and the House in connection with this question. The bill had fulfilled the pledge given by the Government and Lord J. Russell. He was of opinion that reform in Parliament should go by steps; the question of the franchise being settled first, and afterwards that of the distribution. The bill, while it dealt with the franchise, only just touched, and did not settle, the subject of the distribution of seats, which was the very pith of Parliamentary reform. Was it satisfactory that there should be a million of voters to seven millions of men in the country? The present bill, while it would do something to remove the anomaly, did nothing to cause any of the alarm which had been expressed. It was said that there was no clamour for reform; but let Lord Derby and Mr. Disraeli say that there should be none, and there would soon be clamour enough. By the bill not more than 100,000 of the working-classes would be added to the franchise. As to the objection that the bill was not extensive, that was a more rational one; but, if the measure was one which had gained a large amount of acquiescence on the ground of its admitting a number of persons to the franchise, he wished that twice as many should enjoy it. The bill added perhaps 30 or 40 per cent of electors to the larger boroughs, but something below 25 per cent to the constituencies of the small boroughs, thus showing how little could be done for them by any extension of the franchise; while the disproportion of members was still more striking. Where the bill failed, even in that which the Government were pledged to accomplish, was to be found in the introduction of a ratepaying test into the county franchise ranging between £10 and £50, which did apply to occupations above £50. He also objected to the condition where in the case of £10 occupiers having no house on the land he occupied there should be a tenement of £5 value on it to give him a vote; but it should be so arranged as that the county franchise should be equivalent to the £6 house occupation in boroughs. He also objected to the ratepaying test in boroughs. He wished that the names of all tenants whose rates were paid by the landlord should be inserted in the rate-books, or else a large number of persons would be disfranchised. As to the ballot, it must not be supposed that because it was not in the bill that it would not very soon have to be considered and settled; for, when this bill passed, the necessity for it would be greater than ever. He concluded by advising the Opposition to accept this measure, lest something in a more decided shape should be demanded of them—a measure which, considering all the circumstances, was worthy of acceptance.

Mr. Knightley having spoken,

The debate, on the motion of Mr. Stansfeld, was adjourned.

THE VOTE FOR THE CHINESE EXPEDITION.

On the report of Supply on the vote for China,

General Peel urged that the sum estimated for the Army must be very largely exceeded. No provision was made in the Estimates for the proposed army of reserve, or for the extraordinary expenses of the force in China. A gross sum of at least £500,000 in excess would be required.

Mr. S. Herbert quoted statistics to show that the sum asked for would be quite sufficient for the required purposes.

After a discussion the report was received.

The other business was then disposed of.

HOUSE OF LORDS.—Tuesday.

The Packet Service and Contract Bill and the Consolidated Fund Bill passed through Committee.

The Militia.—In answer to the Earl of Shaftesbury, Earl De Grey and Ripon stated that it was intended to disembody four regiments of militia, of which the Forfarshire, the Edinburgh, and the Waterford would be three.

Savoy and Nice.—The Marquis of Normanby complained of having received an evasive answer from the Government to a question which he put at the beginning of the Session with regard to the annexation of Savoy and Nice to France, of which intention it now appeared the Foreign Secretary had long been aware. He should take an early opportunity of moving a resolution on the subject, and asserting the necessity of dealing with all such matters by official communications, instead of by private letters, between the Foreign Secretary and our Ministers at foreign Courts.—The Duke of Newcastle denied that any such evasive answer had been given, and urged that such an assertion was a reflection on Lord Granville, by whom the answer was given.

HOUSE OF COMMONS.—Tuesday.

Private Business.—The following bills were read a third time and passed:—The Glasgow Corporation Water and the North London Railway Bills. The South London Railway (No. 8) Bill was read a second time.

TOLLGATES.—Mr. T. DUNCOMBE asked the Secretary of State for the Home Department whether it was the intention of her Majesty's Government to introduce any measure, during the present Session, on the subject of the tollgates in the neighbourhood of the metropolis, in consequence of the Royal commission thereon?—Sir G. C. LEWIS was understood to say that no legislation on the subject would take place this Session.

JEWS' ACT AMENDMENT.—Mr. T. DUNCOMBE moved for leave to bring in a bill to amend the Act admitting Jews to Parliament, by doing away with the necessity of the passing of a resolution by the House on the election of each Jewish member, enabling him to be sworn according to his own belief.—Lord R. CECIL did not think this a matter of much importance, but it was a specimen of what were called settlements of questions in that House.—Sir G. GREY denied that any one who advocated the Jewish claims thought the existing arrangement a settlement; and it was only adopted in order to obtain the assent of the House of Lords to the admission of Jews to Parliament.—Mr. NEWDEGATE would oppose the bill on its second reading.—After a few words from Mr. ROEBUCK, leave was given to bring in the bill.

THE BALLOT.

Mr. H. BERKELEY moved for leave to bring in a bill to cause the votes of the electors of Great Britain and Ireland to be taken by way of ballot. He never felt more the necessity of such a measure than now, when a Reform Bill was introduced with no provision for the ballot. Recurring to the general election of 1852, he stated that the corruption was so great that a Committee was appointed to inquire, and the result was a measure called the Corrupt Practices at Elections Act, which was a fine specimen of "how not to do it," and which was satirised by the late Mr. Coppock from that point of view. It had turned out not only useless but positively mischievous. This bill was now before a Committee of the House, and what was to be done with it he did not know. He saw no hope of the ballot being treated with the consideration with which other questions were treated. He claimed the right which other members had to have his bill read a first time, though he doubted whether it would be granted him. The arguments of the distinguished men who had opposed him on this question reminded him of the argument of Sir F. Kelly in Tawell's case, when he tried to persuade the jury that a woman who had been poisoned with prussic acid had died from the effects of eating apple-pips. As to the ballot being un-English, it was used in every election in this country except in Parliamentary and municipal elections. In open voting electors were deterred by fear or favour from exercising the trust committed to them freely and indifferently, and many declined to be put on the register rather than be called on to exercise that trust. Having dissected certain speeches on the ballot of his opponents—especially Lord Palmerston and Lord J. Russell, the hon. gentleman combatted the arguments of the Times against it. He then quoted from a speech of Lord Macaulay, urging the ballot as a protection for the tenant against the landlord at elections. In Australia secret voting had worked a bloodless revolution, and changed anarchy and confusion into peace and tranquillity. He concluded by urging that he was asking that which was only a right of the electors of this country.

Lord HENLEY seconded the motion.

Mr. MARSH stated that he knew that great corruption still existed in New South Wales, notwithstanding the existence of the ballot. He knew an instance of a man in the capacity of a servant who was also a justice of the peace, a position he had attained because he had been an electioneering agent. The system of ballot there was very imperfect, and did not provide thoroughly for secrecy. Certainly the ballot had not prevented intimidation in Australia. He was on general grounds opposed to the system.

Mr. C. FORTESCUE had once given a vote in favour of the ballot, but since that time reflection had induced him to change his opinion, and he was now opposed to it; his Australian experience at the Colonial Office having strengthened his feeling against it.

Mr. LAWSON supported the motion.

Lord PALMERSTON said that Mr. Berkeley's less amusing and not more argumentative speech than his previous ones had not altered the opinions he entertained on this question. He still retained his opinion that the franchise was a trust, and every exercise of the trust ought to be open and public; while the doctrine that it was a right would go to legalise bribery, for a man could do what he liked with his vote and might sell it. He contended that even in clubs voting by ballot did not tend to procure secrecy. But in the exercise of a political function secrecy would tend to the degradation of electors, and would make them either law-breakers or hypocrites, while it would not here, any more than it did in Australia, prevent corruption and intimidation.

On a division the numbers were:—For the motion, 147; against it, 254.

HOUSE OF COMMONS.—WEDNESDAY.

THE EXPORT OF RAGS.—In answer to Mr. Puller, Lord J. RUSSELL said that he had no further information on the subject of the duty to be imposed on the export of rags from France. There was to be a modification of the present duty.

ENDOWED SCHOOLS BILL.

Mr. DILLWYN moved the second reading of the Endowed Schools Bill, the object of which was to remove the disqualification of Dissenters from acting as trustees of endowed schools in the trusts of which no mention was made of any particular religious teaching. The introduction of other bills on this subject by Lord Cranworth and Sir Hugh Cairns showed the necessity of some such measure. In the former bill no mention was made of allowing Dissenters to be trustees of these schools, but only made it compulsory in existing trustees to provide for the education of Dissenters' children.

Mr. LOWE hoped to induce the House to reject the bill. The decisions of the Courts of Equity—that in all cases where no mention was made of any special religious teaching, that teaching should be according to the tenets of the Church of England—had given rise to the bills on the subject. This bill, in the first clause, dealt with schools founded in the first year of Elizabeth, and in the second with schools endowed down to the time of William and Mary. This excluded the period of Edward VI., when so many schools were founded, and this on the pretext that the Reformation began with the reign of Elizabeth. All these schools, as well as those of the time of Henry VIII., were clearly founded in connection with the Church of England. The bill went on the principle of ignoring any intentions of founders in favour of the Church of England, while it swept away the authority of all legal decisions on the subject; and it took away property from the Church which was enjoyed by every possible right, not the least of which was the prescription and possession of hundreds of years. He thought that Lord Cranworth's bill was one which was worthy of acceptance by the House, for it was more calculated to attain the object which Mr. Dillwyn had in view, and which his own bill could not attain. He urged the withdrawal of the bill.

Mr. SELWYN formally moved the rejection of the bill.

Mr. LONGFIELD seconded the motion.

A discussion followed, in which Lord Fermoy and Mr. Baines supported, and Mr. A. Mills, Mr. Beecroft, Mr. Walter, Mr. Whiteside and Mr. Newdegate opposed, the bill.

Mr. ROEBUCK asked whether he understood Mr. Lowe that he was desirous that Dissenters should be trustees of schools, and the children of Dissenters admitted into the schools; and, if so, would the Government support such a proposition?

Mr. LOWE could not answer for the Government, but he should himself be disposed to support such a proposition, especially if it was provided for by a separate measure.

On a division the bill was rejected, the numbers being—For the second reading, 120; against it, 190.

BLEACHING AND DYEING WORKS BILL.

Mr. CROOK moved the second reading of this bill.

Mr. TURNER moved the rejection of the bill, urging that no case had been made out for a measure which meddled with an important branch of trade, and interfered between employer and employed, while a Select Committee had reported against the necessity and expediency of placing bleaching and dyeing works under the operation of the Factories Act, there being no analogy between the two cases. No women or children were employed in the actual operation of bleaching and dyeing, while the peculiar nature of the operation prevented the possibility of stopping the works at any particular time.

Mr. ROEBUCK said that he was originally opposed to the operation of the Factories Acts as far as they related to men, though in favour of their operation in reference to women and children; and on the same principle he supported the present measure. The hon. member was understood to admit that he was now of opinion that the application of the Factories Acts should extend to every class of workpeople. He drew a powerful picture of the sufferings of the operatives, especially children and women in factories working for thirty-seven hours, and he implored the House not to participate in the guilty cruelty which the hon. member for Manchester would induce it to sanction.

Mr. COBBETT, in supporting the bill, explained that from peculiar circumstances the Committee on bleaching and dyeing fell into the hands of the opponents of legislation on the subject, and the report was in reality that of persons interested in bleaching works and factories. The master bleachers were in favour of some measure which would limit the hours of labour, as it would relieve them from the pressure for the completion of orders in very short times which was put on them by merchants and shippers.

Lord J. MANNERS briefly supported the bill.

Sir H. CAIRNS said that a case was made out against bleach-working in England, but none against those in the north of Ireland, which was carried on by a very different process; nor was there in the latter any excess of work. If Ireland was excepted from the bill he would support the second reading.

After a few remarks from Mr. Richardson, Mr. Conolly, and Mr. A. Egerton, the House divided, the numbers being—For the second reading, 226; against it, 39: majority, 187.

MISCELLANEOUS.

The Lords' amendments to the Administration of Poisons Bill were considered and agreed to.

The Mutiny Bill was read a third time.

The Marine Mutiny Bill was read a third time.

The report of the Committee of Ways and Means, granting £350,000 on account of the China expedition, was brought up and agreed to.

The Municipal Corporations Mortgages Bill was read a third time and passed.

The Enclosure Bill was read a third time.

HOUSE OF LORDS.—THURSDAY.

THE TROOPS FOR CHINA.—The Duke of SOMERSET, in reply to the Earl of Ellenborough, said the Government were fully alive to the importance of providing adequate supplies for the troops that were leaving India for China, and were taking measures to carry out that object. The number of troops ordered upon that expedition was 10,000.

THE EASTER HOLIDAYS.—The Duke of NEWCASTLE, in reply to the Earl of Derby, said he was afraid it would be necessary for the House to sit on Monday and Tuesday in Passion Week, in order to consider certain bills coming up from the Commons. He proposed on Tuesday in that week to move that the House on its rising should adjourn to Tuesday, the 17th of April. If the business of Parliament proceeded more rapidly than he anticipated he would move the adjournment of the House on Monday.

QUALIFICATION FOR OFFICES ABOLITION BILL.—Lord TEYNHAM moved the second reading of this bill, the object of which was to relieve Dissenters from the necessity of making certain declarations on their appointment to municipal offices.—Lord CHELMSFORD opposed the bill as unnecessary and uncalled for, believing that the existing law imposed no grievance upon any religious sects or bodies. He moved that the bill be read a second time that day six months.—The Duke of NEWCASTLE supported the second reading, believing that those declarations were wholly inoperative for any good, and were most offensive to the feelings of Dissenters.—The Earl of DERBY viewed the bill under consideration as one of a series of measures that were supported by a certain party who avowed their hostility to the Church Establishment, and their determination to devote all their exertions to its overthrow. He should, therefore, oppose the second reading.—The Bishop of CHICHESTER also stated his objections to the bill.—The LORD CHANCELLOR supported it.—Upon a division the bill was rejected by a majority of 44 to 21.

The Medical Acts Amendment Bill, the Packet Service (Transfer of Contracts) Bill, and the Consolidated Fund (£4,500,000) Bill were severally read a third time and passed.

HOUSE OF COMMONS.—THURSDAY.

PRIVILEGED COMMUNICATIONS.—Mr. BOWYER gave notice of his intention on that day week to ask leave to introduce a bill to amend the law of evidence in regard to privileged communications in certain cases.

THE REFORM BILL.—Mr. GRIFFITH asked the Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs whether it was intended that the voters at £6 rent and upwards, whose rates are now compounded for by their landlords, should have the opportunity at the next registration of qualifying themselves as voters, by taking on themselves the payment of rates for the past year, or otherwise, as may be arranged, to effect such object?—Lord J. RUSSELL said he would consider the matter before going into Committee on the bill.

THE NEWSPAPER STAMP.—The CHANCELLOR of the EXCHEQUER, in reply to Mr. Western, said that on Monday next he hoped to present the bill upon the subject of the impressed stamp on newspapers, when he would explain to the House the intentions of the Government regarding it.

THE TIMBER DUTIES.—The CHANCELLOR of the EXCHEQUER, in reply to Mr. Adams, said it was not the intention of the Government to allow a drawback in respect to ships now in course of construction.

THE NEAPOLITAN QUESTION.—Mr. T. DUNCOMBE, in answer to an appeal from Lord J. Russell, consented to postpone his motion in reference to the state of Naples until after Easter.

THE COURSE OF BUSINESS ON THURSDAYS.—Mr. PAULL, pursuant to notice, moved that Government orders of the day should have precedence of notices of motion on Thursdays instead of Fridays. After some discussion, the motion was negatived without a division.

THE REFORM BILL.—ADJOURNED DEBATE.

Mr. STANSFELD opened the adjourned debate upon the Reform Bill, and, in a speech characterised by much ability and argument, gave his support to the measure.

Sir J. PAKINGTON remarked that, up to the present moment, he had waited in vain for any one on the Ministerial side of the House to stand up in defence of the bill upon its own intrinsic merits. All that its advocates could say in its favour was that it was a step in the right direction. The hon. member for Birmingham (Mr. Bright), who had become a kind of English O'Connell, said he merely accepted of the measure as a step in advance, because he knew that he could not obtain all his objects except upon the instalment principle. He (Sir J. Pakington) was not surprised at the cold reception the bill had met with, even from the strongest supporters of the Government, for it was a miserable measure. He could only account for its meagre character by the fact of its having been the project of a divided Cabinet, or the unwilling redemption of a pledge on the part of a Government whose attention was distracted by the unsettled position of foreign affairs. He was sorry that the noble Lord, who had been so long identified with this question of Reform, had not produced a measure more worthy of his name, and of the Government from which it proceeded.

Sir G. GREY defended the bill, and said that it was framed in a spirit conformable with the Constitution, and with a sincere desire to amend the representation of the people. If Sir J. Pakington and his friends were really hostile to the measure, why had they not adopted the fair and open course of joining issue with the Government upon the second reading?

Mr. ADDERLEY attributed the bill to the inspiration of Mr. Bright, and inquired how it happened that the hon. gentleman who professed to be so anxious to promote the welfare of the working classes had not attended in his place on Wednesday last to support the second reading of the bill to protect the interests of women and children employed in bleaching and dyeing works? He expressed a hope that when the bill went into Committee it would be so amended as to make it more acceptable to the country and more in unison with the principles of the British Constitution.

Mr. MASSEY said he was desirous of supporting a bill which would have the effect of settling the question of Reform and the constitution of that House for many years to come—a result which he could not anticipate from the present measure, although, no doubt, it would make a liberal addition to the constituencies. One great defect of it, in his opinion, was that it provided no adequate redistribution of seats; and, as a whole, he thought it must be regarded as a most imperfect measure, by no means consistent with itself, and but little likely to satisfy the hungry constituencies which it would create. He suggested the expediency of contracting the limits of electoral areas, if it could conveniently be done, as well as creating a lodger franchise. In conclusion, he advised Lord John Russell to revise the bill so as to make it one worthy of himself, of Parliament, and of the country.

Mr. STEUART objected to the bill because he believed it to be utterly and thoroughly defective. It fell immeasurably short of the promises and professions of the noble Lord, and was utterly deficient in the principle of extending the franchise to the educational classes of the community.

Mr. CROSSLEY thought the measure was too restrictive in its character, and suggested certain amendments with the view to a more liberal enlargement of the franchise.

Mr. KER SEYMER congratulated Sir G. Grey upon the fact of being the only member of the Government who had ventured to speak in favour of the bill. He proceeded to comment at some length upon its defects, and referred to the language used at public meetings by Mr. Bright in which he charged the country gentlemen with having robbed the people for the purpose of maintaining large military and naval establishments in order to obtain appointments for their own sons and relations. The hon. member for Birmingham dared not make such speeches in the presence of educated gentlemen, but uttered his libels before an ignorant multitude, who would naturally avail themselves of the first opportunity of revenging themselves upon those whom they were thus taught to regard as oppressors.

Mr. BAINES supported the bill in its entirety.

Mr. WHITESIDE alluded to the case of the recent strike and the pamphlets published in connection with that unfortunate movement, for the purpose of showing that the working classes were not capable of exercising the franchise in a wise or legitimate manner.

On the motion of Mr. E. JAMES, the debate was adjourned until Monday.

Prince Louis Lucien Bonaparte is now at Milan to complete his researches on the Italian dialects.

The additional sum required by the directors of the Great Ship Company (£100,000) has been subscribed, and it is confidently asserted that the Great Eastern will be ready to start for New York—her destination on her first voyage across the Atlantic—about the end of May or early in June.

An old and respected commercial traveller of one of the largest grocery establishments in Bristol having recently died, the principals made his widow a present of a policy of insurance for £3000, which they, with a kind and liberal care for his family, had effected on his life.

On Wednesday se'nnight, as a servant girl was walking in Middleton, she stumbled over a stone, and the child in her arms, aged nearly three years, was thrown into the road. One of the wheels of a cart passing at the time went over the child's head, and killed it on the spot.

Mr. Hugh M'Donald, a local poet of some celebrity, expired yesterday week at his residence in Bridgeton, Glasgow. The deceased gentleman, who began life as a calico-printer, had from time to time filled situations in the literary departments of several of the Glasgow journals.

THE SATURDAY HALF-HOLIDAY.—The London bankers resolved on Monday, in compliance with the general wish of the mercantile body, to close on Saturdays at three o'clock instead of four. The memorials addressed to them on the subject expressed a desire that two should be the hour, but it has been thought better in the first instance to fix an intermediate time. The concurrence of the Bank of England has yet to be obtained, but it is not expected that any objection will be raised by that establishment. The new system will come into operation on Saturday, the 19th of May.

MUSIC.

The second New Philharmonic Concert of the season took place on Monday last, in St. James's Hall, under the direction of Dr. Wylde. The orchestral pieces were Beethoven's "Pastoral Symphony," Mendelssohn's overture "Fingal's Cave," Auber's overture to "Masaniello," and Berlioz's "Hungarian March." Mozart's pianoforte concerto in E flat was superbly played by Miss Arabella Goddard. Madame Sainton-Dolby sang Stradella's air "O del mio dolce ardor," and Mendelssohn's ballad "The First Violet." Miss Augusta Thomson—a young singer who, after gaining the first prize at the Conservatoire of Paris and appearing with distinction at the Grand Opéra, strengthened her reputation by several excellent appearances at the Philharmonic and other London concerts of last season—sang Rossini's "Pensa alla patria" and Meyerbeer's "Robert, toi che j'aime,' in a style which showed her to be a highly-gifted and accomplished artist. The concert altogether was good, and well received by a crowded audience.

The concert of the Amateur Musical Society at the Hanover-square Rooms on Monday evening was one of the best which this association has given. The improvement of the orchestra, under the able direction of Mr. Henry Leslie, is very remarkable. Their performance of Mozart's "Jupiter" symphony, and several other pieces, would not have been discreditable to a veteran professional band. The young and rising pianist, Miss Fanny Howell, performed the barcarole and finale of Bennett's concerto in F minor with a brilliancy, finish, and expression which received the warmest applause. The singer was Miss Rose, a young lady who holds a high position in fashionable society. She is evidently an accomplished amateur, and sang very gracefully, but fell into the mistake, common among amateurs, of choosing music which would tax the powers of the greatest professional artist. The concert, as usual, was fully and fashionably attended.

Our fair and gifted countrywoman, Madame Sainton-Dolby, and her husband, are just returned from Paris, which they visited during their wedding trip. We have briefly mentioned the concert given by them there and its brilliant success; but we find an account of it in the Moniteur from the pen of the distinguished musical critic of that journal, which contains so pleasing a recognition of the merits of an English artist that we are sure our readers will peruse it with pleasure. "Miss Dolby," says the Moniteur, "now Madame Sainton, surprised and delighted the audience by her great style, her superb voice, her large and irreproachable method. I do not know any one (except Jenny Lind) comparable to her in the music of the old masters. She understands them thoroughly, is inspired by their thoughts and penetrated by their genius. Nothing escapes her—not an intention, not a nuance, not an accent: it is as if the author himself were there to prompt her. At the first phrases of 'The Spirit-Song' of Haydn a murmur of surprise ran through the whole room. The public did not expect that breadth, that charm, that simplicity, that perfect elegance, so remote from the petty ornament and unmeaning roulades with which vulgar singers load their performances. The same success attended 'The Irish Emigrant,' and the air from 'Samson.' Seldom has the public had such a treat. The music of Haydn and of Handel, so interpreted, is a compensation for many platitudes and many extravagances. As for M. Sainton, it was not the first time that we have admired that pure and correct method of playing, that marvellous truth of intonation, those harmonic sounds of such ineffable sweetness—all those rare and brilliant qualities which make a perfect ensemble. He performed a solo of his own composition, Beethoven's 'Kreutzer Sonata,' in which he was admirably seconded by Theodore Ritter on the piano; and, lastly, his own adagio and waltz, two masterly pieces magnificently executed, for which he was loudly applauded and recalled. We regret that M. and Mdme. Sainton have been recalled to England by indispensable engagements, but the distance happily is small, and the journey from London to Paris can be made in ten hours."

The London Glee and Madrigal Society have commenced, at St. James's Hall, a new series of their delightful and popular performances. The first took place on Monday evening last, and the present series is to terminate at the end of next week. We have already so fully described the nature and character of these entertainments, and, indeed, their merits are now so well known, that any further eulogy would be superfluous.

We observe with satisfaction that Mr. Henry Leslie's oratorio, "Immanuel," has recently been twice performed at Cambridge with the greatest success.

The death of M. Jullien will cause general regret in the musical world. It took place at Paris on Wednesday, the 14th inst., in consequence of an attack of brain fever, so violent that it was necessary to place him in a maison de santé. It is not true that he had previously attempted suicide. Jullien's career has been remarkable. He first became known in London, nearly twenty years ago, as the conductor of Promenade Concerts, a kind of entertainment which he raised from small beginnings to great magnitude and importance, and by means of which he succeeded in educating (as it were) the taste of a large portion of the English public, by gradually leading them to understand and enjoy the works of the greatest orchestral masters. Having gained great popularity, he conceived the idea of establishing a National English Opera, for which purpose he became lessee of Drury-lane Theatre, and commenced his enterprise with much spirit. But the speculation failed, and he became a bankrupt, having literally lost everything but his honour—for, as it will be remembered, he passed through the Court without a stain upon his name. He resumed his Promenade Concerts with energy, and in 1850 went to America, and gave his entertainments in all parts of the United States. On his return to England he embarked in another enterprise which turned out unfortunate—the Music Hall in the Surrey Gardens; and this calamity was followed by another, the conflagration of Covent-garden Theatre, in which he suffered an irreparable destruction of property. He next, under an arrangement with Mr. Lumley, gave concerts at her Majesty's Theatre, and afterwards at the Lyceum. But his efforts were no longer attended with their former success, and, finding it impossible to retrieve his fortunes in London, he went to Paris, where misfortune still followed him. He was arrested, and remained for several months in prison. On his release he began, with unabated energy, to organise a series of great performances in the French capital; and the excessive fatigue, anxiety, and excitement which he suffered brought on the malady under which he sank, before he had reached his fiftieth year. The English public owe much to Jullien for what he has done for the advancement of music in this country, and, we doubt not, will show their gratitude by contributing to the necessities of the relatives who survive him.

THE THEATRES, &c.

LYCEUM.—A new dream-piece was produced on Monday, entitled "The Abbé Vaudreuil," with deserved success. Without being so good a drama as "Victorine," it is more fanciful in its plot and structure, and better, perhaps, serves the purpose of spectacle. The main purpose is, in fact, to introduce a Court scene at Versailles in the reign of Louis XV., which, painted by Mr. W. Callcott, and illustrated by some Watteau-dancers and a gavotte between Madame Celeste and Miss Hudspeth, presents a living picture of the times of Madame Pompadour (Miss Kate Saville). The Abbé Vaudreuil (Madame Celeste) is a visionary personage, a fiend in the shape of an Abbé galant of the eighteenth century, who is supposed to appear to the sleeper, Lieutenant Henri Delcour (Mr. Villiers), who has contracted a bad habit of swearing, which stands in the way of his union with Mdlle. Marie de Rohan (Miss Hudspeth), and it is to correct this habit that the vision is granted. The Lieutenant signs a contract with the fiend that allows him five wishes, which, however, he soon runs through, his imprecations being interpreted as such. Accordingly, he says to a servant, "The devil take you!" and the devil forthwith does take him. On awaking, however, he finds his servant safe, and living, and the likeness of the terrible Abbé in Mdlle. Marie's brother, whose portrait he had been contemplating just before he fell asleep. The supernatural business was well managed, and the whole produced in that decorative form which is calculated to make the piece attractive.

BOTALLACK MINE, CORNWALL.

ON reaching the Land's End, 387 feet high, north-ward sweeps the magnificent crescent of Whitesand Bay, with its smooth, dazzling sands, on which have landed Athelstane from the Isles of Scilly ("the conger eels"), Stephen from France, King John from Ireland, and Perkin Warbeck, for his insane attempt on the crown of England. On the other side of Cape Cornwall, which is 280 feet high, is Botallack Mine, 425 feet deep, a work worthy of Virgil's Vulcan and his smiths of Lipari. The mine forms a picturesque sight, with its smoking chimney, rough platform scaffolding, busy men and descending mules, boarded houses at the pit's mouth; its clanking steam-pump and gush of the chain-pipe, rusting cables, conduits and wheels, and winding machinery, like the meshes of a gigantic spider's web. It needs a strong head and a sure foot to descend the dark shaft, stretched over bell-cranks and posts, down which ladders with uneven rounds afford the only access to its sunless galleries, which no eye but that of man has seen; with treasures of buried wealth—bands of pure copper—lining the walls, and waggons full of ruddy ore rolling over the tramways; while there is not a cranny in the metallic roof, green with the ocean ooze, but is echoing to the low mysterious muffled sound, with its mingled sadness and sublimity, of the surf beating on the shelf of rock 120 feet above the dimly-lighted recesses, and so unspeakably awful when the fierce roar of the waves in a storm booms overhead that the miners instinctively mount to upper ground. The visitor must don a flannel suit before he descends into the hot atmosphere below, with a candle fixed in a clay socket on the front of his hat to leave his hands at liberty. The miners work for eight hours in twenty-four; sometimes by contract, sometimes on tribute earning a percentage on the lode, or otherwise receiving wages varying from 40s. to 50s. by the month. The thermometer often stands at 85°; and consumption ensues, owing to the sudden exposure of a body fresh from that reeking heat to the bleak wind, sleet, and mists that spread out like a shroud over the dripping heath: strains and decline ordinarily break down the miner before he reaches fifty years of age. There was for a long time an old blind man in Botallack who, if the lights went out, was able to guide the miners through the intricate galleries. The sons of Louis Philippe visited Botallack in 1851; and in 1846 her Majesty descended Poltharo.

BOTALLACK MINE, CORNWALL.

Such a mine, so beautifully described by Job, is certainly no less wonderful than the pyramid of Egypt—which it equals in size—as an achievement of labour; but the one was built at the cost of human life for the tomb of a mummy, the other dug for the benefit of an entire country by voluntary labourers, who numbered in 1854 28,000. Incredible is the toil: twenty or thirty men could excavate only a few inches daily of the galleries and shafts which now extend over miles of ground. One mine is 1800 feet deep; another has produced 200 tons of metal daily. The dismal, smoky candlelight, the drip of water, the dust, the noise of hammers and picks, and the explosions when rocks are blasted confound eye and ear. It was only in the seventeenth century that gunpowder was employed. The heat and oppression in breathing are very trying.

The practical director of the Cornish mine is a superior workman (captain), who is denominated "underground," or "grass," according as the mine is subterranean, or consists of surface works. A chief captain, or manager, presides over the subordinate officials; the "purser" is the paymaster.

For the above particulars of Botallack Mine we are indebted to an interesting little work recently published by Mr. Stanford, entitled "A Guide to the Coasts of Devon and Cornwall," by Mackenzie Walcott. Subjoined are some further details respecting this mine from Murray's "Handbook of Devon and Cornwall":—The traveller, having reached the main object of his excursion, must betake himself to the cliff, and rest awhile in admiration of the scene which is there unfolded, and which exhibits one of the most singular combinations of the power of art and the sublimity of nature that can be imagined. Gloomy precipices of slate, which have successively defied the ocean itself, are here broken up by the operations of the miner, and are hung with all his complicated machinery. The Crown engine, well known for the wild exposure of its position, was lowered down a cliff of 200 feet to the ledge it now occupies for the purpose of enabling the miner to penetrate beneath the bed of the Atlantic. The first level of this mine is seventy fathoms from "grass," and extends upwards of 400 feet under the sea, and the traveller who should venture to descend into its dreary recesses may be gratified by hearing the booming of the waves and the grating of the stones as they rolled to and fro over his head. The lode, consisting of the grey and yellow sulphuret of copper, crops out in the Crown Rocks below the engine. The cliffs are composed of horriblende, alternating with clay slate, and contain a store of curious minerals, as jasper iron ore, arseniate of iron, sulphuret of bismuth, peach-blossomed cobalt, specular iron ore, hematitic iron, hydrous oxide of iron, veins of garnet rock (in the Crown Rocks), epidote, axinite, thallite, chlorite, tremolite, and a crystallised schorl. Beautiful specimens of arborescent native copper have been also found in them.

FIRST PROTESTANT CHURCH AT LUCERNE.

THE first Protestant church service at Lucerne was celebrated in 1827, when about 150 persons of this confession with great difficulty obtained permission from the Roman Catholic Government of that canton. English visitors of former years will remember the small and picturesque chapel in which the service of our Church was celebrated from 1845 till 1856, and which was willingly given over to the English ministers. The number of Protestants in Lucerne and its environs having increased to more than 500, this chapel became too small; and, though from 1856 the Roman Catholic church of Mariahilf was kindly granted by the Government for the English service, the Protestants at Lucerne could not obtain the same permission, and hence they were compelled to think of erecting a church of their own. A committee was therefore appointed, and, after having collected a considerable sum in their community, this committee asked for the assistance of their Protestant brethren in Switzerland and elsewhere; and £4500 has been collected, chiefly through the generous aid of the federal and cantonal Governments and of the Protestants in all the Swiss cantons—Zurich, Berne, and Basle standing foremost. The church now in course of erection is close to the Schweizerhof and the English Hotel, and will front the quay and the lake. As frequent complaints have been raised by English invalids, for whom the difficult access to the Roman Catholic church of Mariahilf (up some sixty steps) made it impossible to attend Divine worship, the community has granted the free use of this church for the service of their brethren of the English Church, which has often been attended by as many as 300 persons. The sum collected is some hundred pounds short of that required for the completion of this house of God; and it is intended shortly to make an appeal to English benevolence to make up the deficiency. The church was designed by Mr. Ferd Stadler, of Zurich.

PYRAMIDICAL STRUCTURE ON BOSWORTH FIELD.

THE curious pyramidical structure over "King Richard's Well," here represented, is situated, rather romantically, in a meadow on the southern slope of Bosworth Field, about two miles and a half south by south-west of the town of Market Bosworth, Leicestershire. It is 12 feet square, and about 10 feet high, and is built of roughhewn dark stone with wide mortar joints. Though absurd enough in itself, it permanently marks a spot of deep historical interest, being associated with an event of memorable and great national importance; for it covers a little pool of water, of which, according to tradition and the Latin inscription contained on a stone slab (2 feet 2 inches long by 1 foot 1 inch deep, built in the recess), both the unfortunate Monarch and his charger (and doubtless many other combatants) partook in the fight before making his last infuriated personal attack upon Henry, in which last dash of desperate bravery Richard III. fell, overpowered by numbers. This was doubtless his last draught.

PYRAMIDICAL STRUCTURE OVER KING RICHARD'S WELL, ON BOSWORTH FIELD.

The water, which tastes brackish, is only about a foot deep, reached by two steps, and does not appear to be a "well," either in the popular or scriptural sense, but may be simply a reservoir of rain water. If it is a spring, however, it never seems to overflow and run away, although near is certainly some indication of a former channel. The stone opposite the entrance may be ancient, and was probably used to put vessels to contain the water on, and as a seat.

On the ridge above the hedge shown fine views are obtained of the tower and spire of Bosworth Church and "Bosworth Hall," the seat of Sir Alex. R. C. Dixie, Bart., with its park of deer and magnificent forest of oak. At the hall, and in Leicester Museum, are still seen memorials of the celebrated struggle of which this somewhat eccentric-looking structure acts as an humble and lonely memorial. The SCENE FROM "CHRISTMAS EVE," AT DRURY-LANE THEATRE—THE DUEL IN THE SNOW.

Latin inscription, which is said to be the production of the pen of Dr. Parr, runs thus in capital letters:—

AQVÆ. ET. IGNI. TVTTO. HAVITA
DITIVS. SEDAVIT
RICHARDVS. TERTIVS. REX. ANGLIÆ
CVM. HENRICO. COMITE. DE. RICHMOND
ACERRIME. ATQVE. INFENSISSIME. PVGNANS
ET. VITA. PARITER. AC. SCEPTRO
ANTE. NOCTEM. CARITVRVS
XI. KAL. SEP. A. D. MCCCCLXXV.

which may be thus translated:—"With water drawn from this well Richard III., King of England, assuaged his thirst (when) fighting in the most desperate and hostile manner with Henry, Earl of Richmond, and about to lose before night his life, together with his sceptre, August 22, A.D. 1485.

With due deference to the writer and his elegant Latin, it may admit of a question whether "puteo" is quite the word here, unless in those days there actually was a well here; and from the fact of the King having literally worn a crown in the fight, might not corona be more pointed and expressive, taken both literally and figuratively!

GIGANTIC ROPEWALK IN THE INTERIOR OF RUSSIA.

WHEN the late Emperor Nicholas asked the American traveller Douglas what he thought of Russia, that gentleman replied that in the rest of Europe he had seen the past; in Russia he beheld the future. This must appear to be the case to any person who is in a position to watch the giant strides which Russia is making in industrial undertakings. One cannot, however, form a correct notion of Russia and the Russians by running from Petersburg to Astrachan, via Moscow, Nishny-Novgorod, Kasan, and Saratoff, performing the usual sight-seeing, and picking up, in a defective translation, a few legends and naïve (sometimes imported) anecdotes. This MM. Custine and Dumas have done; they have, to be sure, produced entertaining books, but they afford us very little real information. Among many other things which have escaped the notice of travellers in Russia may be mentioned the extensive chemical works of MM. Oshkoff and Malintine, situated in the middle of an almost impervious forest, forty versts from the district town of Yelabougra, on the Kama; and the immense ropewalk near the town of Ribinsk. This latter establishment was visited in the August of last year by a correspondent (P. S——d, of Kazan University), and he was struck, not only with the magnitude of the building, but also with the high finish of the machinery and the perfect working of its various parts, and the excellent quality of the articles produced. This enormous wooden edifice was erected in 1858. Its length is 310 sagenes or 2170 feet, by 56 feet in width. It is two stories high. In the two upper lofts the hemp yarn is spun by means of thirty spinning-wheels, at which two hundred and forty spinners are employed, the hemp being previously dressed and hackled for their use. Altogether about 500 men are occupied on the premises. The lower or ground floor contains four railways for hauling out the strands and laying ropes of any size, from one inch to twenty inches in circumference. The steam-engine, contained in a brick building at the northern extremity of the works, is of 60-horse power nominal; it was made at the St. Rollox Foundry, Glasgow, and the rope machinery by Messrs. R. and J. Jarvis, of the same city. Five thousand tons of cordage and cables can be turned out annually at this factory. The engine power is not confined to twisting the ropes; it also drives several steam saws and planes. One of the two managers of the concern is an Englishman, the other is a Scotchman. The annual consumption of cables and cordage on the Volga amounts to between 17,000 and 18,000 tons, all formerly made by hand, and badly made. These works are situated three versts from the left shore of the Volga, on the River Sheksna, famous for its sterlet, so much sought after by Moscow and Petersburg epicures, and which had the honour of being sung by the "Russian Nightingale," Dershavin, who is said to have been passionately fond of this really delicious fish. A few hundred yards from the ropewalk a pier is being constructed for the landing of corn, many thousand cargoes of which find their way every year into the granaries of Mr. Nicholas Mukhortitch Jurawleff, the hospitable proprietor, who is not only a very enterprising manufacturer but one of the most eminent corn-merchants in the interior of Russia, and the owner of numerous steam-boats and almost innumerable lighters on the Volga. The View which we engrave was taken by an amateur photographist.

MR. JURAVLEFF'S ROPEWALK, NEAR RIBINSK, RUSSIA.

THE DUEL IN THE SNOW.

WE this week present an Illustration of the scene from Mr. Fitzball's new piece, "Christmas Eve," at Drury-lane Theatre, founded on M. Gerome's celebrated picture, somewhat fantastically called "Tragedy and Comedy," which was exhibited about three years ago at the French Exhibition. It represented, as our readers will recollect, the result of a duel at daybreak in the Bois de Boulogne, in which the principals were a pierrot and a man dressed as an Indian masquerader; in fact, attired as such characters who had repaired to the spot in their festival costume to settle a quarrel which had occurred during the night at the bal masqué. We have already explained how Mr. Fitzball has interpreted this incident, and described the ingenious plot which he has invented in order to lead up to such a catastrophe. The approaching close of the season will not permit the piece to have a very long run; but we have no doubt that it will become as popular as most of the other productions of this remarkable playwright.

MILFORD HAVEN.

THE town of Milford is situated on the sloping banks of a bay on the north shore of Milford Haven, about six miles from the entrance, and lies between two inlets from the haven called Pills; the western one, across which the View on page 280 is taken, being called Hubberston Pill, and the eastern one Castle Pill.

Milford Haven was founded by Charles Greville, to whom the property was bequeathed by Sir Wm. Hamilton, during whose lifetime it was visited by Lord Nelson, who pronounced Milford Haven to be one of the finest harbours in the world. Mr. Charles Greville devoted many years to the object of developing its capabilities, and his successor, the late Colonel Greville, persevered in the same course, which was continued by his widow, the late Countess of Mansfield, during the minority of her son, the present proprietor. Here was first established the Government dockyard. Owing, however, to some difficulties in arranging about the property the Government moved their establishment to Pembroke Dock, four miles higher up the haven, where quays and warehouses were erected, and several shipbuilding-yards established.

The utter want of land communication to Milford, when railways were being constructed to every other available port, prevented its taking that place as a commercial town, for which its water facilities so eminently fitted it, and the Irish mails, which had for many years started from Bideford, were moved to more accessible points of departure. Many years after railway communication had established other routes, the South Wales Railway Company began by degrees to approach Milford Haven, but their progress was slow and circuitous, and it is only within comparatively a few years that the line to Neyland, opposite Pembroke Dock, has been opened.

The present proprietor of Milford, the Hon. Robert Fulke Greville—firm in the conviction that that town was the best site for commercial docks and the best point of departure for the whole of our western traffic—obtained an Act for a railway from Johnston station, on the South Wales line, to Milford; and this railway, executed by the Messrs. Lucas, is now nearly ready for being opened. In addition to this Colonel Greville obtained, in 1857, an "Improvement Act for the district, including the towns of Milford and Hakin," and constructed, at his own cost, viaducts and opening bridges across the two piers, as well as the pier (seen in the Views) extending upwards of 700 feet into the Haven. These latter works were executed by Colonel Greville's architect, Mr. F. Wehnert; but as, since the obtaining of the Railway Act, the enormous increase in the size of our steam-ships rendered it necessary to have deeper water than was attainable at the proposed terminus of the railway, Colonel Greville last year consulted Mr. Page, the engineer of Westminster-bridge, &c., who, after a careful survey, prepared an elaborate report, which has been published, and proposed works, for which a bill is in Parliament, for carrying out his recommendations.

The Illustration on the first page is taken from the embankment forming part of the projected works, which consist of a coaling and landing pier, where the largest steam ships of war can lie alongside and take in coals at the rate of 4000 tons in ten hours; the coals to be put on board from the railway waggons, and thus the breakage and deterioration by discharging into coal-hulks and afterwards hoisting into the steamers would be saved. In addition to the pier a dock is to be formed, so that the Transatlantic commercial steamships and others would be provided with all the facilities for unloading and shipping, even at low water, without delay, and at a reduced cost in coaling of thirty per cent below the cost at Southampton. This saving in coals, and the calculated saving of time by starting from Milford instead of Southampton, which amounts to eleven hours, the easy approach and entrance for large ships at all times of tide, will, it is anticipated, give Milford the pre-eminence for the Transatlantic, postal, and passenger traffic, while the completion of thirty-eight miles of railway will place it in direct communication with Manchester and the great manufacturing towns, and thus give them the advantage of another port besides Liverpool—a port free from the dangers of the St. George's Channel, the terrible Sam Badrig, and the rocky coast of Anglesea, so fatal to the Royal Charter and preceding wreck.

As the capital for the proposed works does not exceed £140,000, and the arrangements are based on economic principles, it may be anticipated that mercantile enterprise will secure the establishment of these works preliminary to the greater development of the resources of this celebrated haven.

Mr. Page, in his "Report on the Eligibility of Milford Haven for Ocean Steam-ships and for a Naval Arsenal," has enumerated all the conditions which would govern the value of a harbour for the fleet, the establishment of a grand arsenal and dockyard, and a safe port for the arrival and departure of the large mercantile steamers. He has traced the progress of artillery from the siege of Constantinople by Mohammed II. in 1453 to the production of Armstrong's gun, and has in a manner predicated the successful results of Whitworth's artillery; he has given a comparison of the English and French navies; reviewed the dockyards of both nations, and pointed out the facility with which the English dockyards and arsenals could be destroyed; and, having briefly described the artificial harbours of refuge commenced in 1847 at Dover, Alderney, Jersey, Portland, and Holyhead, their areas, their capabilities, and their cost, he concludes his report in the following paragraph:—

"The statements which have been made of the areas and depths of water of the several harbours compared with Milford Haven show that it contains as great an area of deep-water anchorage at low water as the aggregate of Plymouth, Portland, and Holyhead; that, when some millions have been expended on artificial harbours, Milford Haven, unaided by improvements, will stand out far superior to them all; that its easy access, at all times of tide, through an entrance which can be readily fortified with the most powerful ordnance; its great rise of tide—its connection with the local district—the nature of its shores, so well adapted for extending dockyard works in the most inexpensive manner, and on a site free from danger from attacks with shells—claim for it that pre-eminence which Lord Nelson predicted, in the consideration of the best means of extending most rapidly and economically the efficiency of that mercantile marine and those naval bulwarks which are the pride and safeguard of her Majesty's dominions."

NATIONAL SPORTS.

THE first day at Warwick was not a very brilliant one, but it is worthy of notice that Mr. Merry has made the experiment of 6st., as the lowest weight in his handicaps, and, considering that at present he stands by himself in the matter, he has not lacked success. Other handicappers will come in when they find that public opinion sets that way, though not to the extent which Lord Redesdale hopes and argues for. Ancient Briton, who has lost none of his ancient speed, won the £50 Handicap Plate under the new system; and in the £40 Plate next day Marmalade and Boundaway made a head-and-head finish. Gaspard and Promised Land did not show for the Trial Stakes, where Lifeboat, who has grown and thickened very much, made very light of his opponents. The most dangerous of them, Dartmouth, broke the cheek strap of his bridle, and his jockey, after several impromptu efforts to mend it, was compelled to remain at the post. Only five out of the dozen left in went for the Great Warwickshire, and William Day's two, Bevis and Chirp, were completely beaten off. Lady Clifden and Little Lady, each with 4lb. extra, confirmed their Liverpool running, and the former's turn of speed may be judged of by the fact that, although the course was only three furlongs, and she was shut in till the turn, she took it quite wide, and came out, and won by four lengths. About £200 was subscribed for the family of Ennis, the jockey, who was killed at the Coventry Races; and poor Bray's chapter of accidents began again, as Rajah Brooke kicked him so severely in the side during saddling that he was carried insensible into the stand.

The corporation bellman will open the Northampton Races with his solemn "Oyez, oyez!" on Tuesday next. About eleven horses are backed for the Northamptonshire Stakes, one of the light weights, Forager, 4st. 13lb., having the call; while Claire, 7st. 13lb., is rather fancied among the heavy weights. Madame Eglantine, Sir William, Hartley Wintney, and a dark brother to Rupee, are in the Whittlebury Stakes, thirty-nine; and Rattlebone and Paleface in the Racing Stakes; while the Althorp Park Stakes entries number thirty-one. Thursday and Friday will be pretty merrily occupied with the Northampton Grand Military and Open Steeplechases (whose committee are not likely to lower the fences, as did the North Wold's lately); and the latter day will also be devoted to the Croxton Park meeting, where the Granby Handicap still flourishes.

From a lengthy memoir of old Birdcatcher in the Life we learn that, like many other cracks, he was almost given up for dead as a two-year-old. He was purchased as a yearling by Mr. Disney for £100, and in 1841-59 he was the sire of 335 winners of 713½ races, of the value of £117,603. Joe Lovell, one of the very few remaining sons of Velocipede, has gone to Boston, to the owner of old Theon; and Mr. Ten Broek has purchased a sister to Underhand, and named her Curie. Count Batthyany's eight carriage horses were sold on Monday at Tattersall's, and averaged 146½ gs. each, one of them, Rapid Rhone, going as high as 360 gs., and The Unicorn for 210 gs. Taking the town chariot, barouche, and sociable (by Barker) into the calculation, the whole produced 1893 gs. The Rapid Rhone was even superior to those two rare browns The Unicorn and The Lion Rampant, which have so long been the admiration of the Park.

The last Ashdown Park meeting is said to have been the best ever held at "the Elysium of coursing-grounds," and the challenge thrown down by the Altcar Club to The World resulted in a double victory for the former, as after the fourth ties The World had not anything left in. Little Wonder and Veronica were their last standers, and they had to strike their colours before Rosy Morn and Sweetbriar. In the run up the rare daughter of Black Cloud and Old Riot won; and Lord Sefton, as in the Waterloo Cup, had to content himself with being second. But for her fearful Wednesday's course with Refulgent, Rosy Morn would not have got rid of her sister Patience as she did. Nearly every other stake, great or little, was won by southern dogs.

Mr. Percy Williams has not succeeded in getting a country, and his horses and hounds are to be brought to the hammer by Messrs. Tattersall, at the Rufford kennels, on Friday, April 13. He has kept hounds for nineteen seasons, and the pack is entirely composed of Belvoir, Yarborough, and Foljambe blood. There are fifty-two couples of entered and thirteen of unentered hounds, along with twenty-five horses, one of them an especial topsawyer, and two rare hacks, or rather "hunter-ponies."

Sir John Arnott's drag hunt came off near Cork on Wednesday, and thirty-nine horses from the three kingdoms went to the post. Monkstown, ridden by Mr. John Byrne, won it, and did the five miles in thirty minutes; and the gallant donor of the prize followed the chase al. the way.

WARWICK SPRING MEETING.—TUESDAY.

Sweepstakes of 20 sovs.—Little Lady w.o.
Racing Stakes.—Macbeth, 1. Joe Lovell, 2.
Trial Stakes.—Lifeboat, 1. Indifference, 2.
Stand Handicap.—Norton, 1. Volatore, 2.
Willoughby Handicap.—Worcester, 1. Brother to Fyefield, 2.
Handicap Plate.—Ancient Briton, 1. Codicil, 2.
Farmers' Plate.—Betty, 1. g. by Windhound, 2.

WEDNESDAY.

Handicap Plate of £40.—Marmalade, 1. Boundaway, 2.
Debdale Stakes.—Dispute, 1. Medora, 2.
Great Warwickshire Handicap of 20 sovs.—Danae, 1. Conductor, 2.
Two-Year-old Stakes.—Lady Clifden, 1. Little Lady, 2.
Welter Handicap of 10 sovs.—Diamant, 1. Harry, 2.
Walton Handicap of 5 sovs.—Maud, 1. Gift, 2.

THURSDAY.

Scurry Handicap.—Maud, 1. Norton, 2.
Hurdle Race.—Grillade, 1. Johnny, 2.
Hunt Cup.—Jack Barber, 1. Harry, 2.
Annual Steeplechase.—Joe Maley, 1. Johnny, 2.
National Steeplechase.—Emperor, 1. Medora, 2.

MONETARY TRANSACTIONS OF THE WEEK.

(From our City Correspondent.)

NOTWITHSTANDING that the market for Home Stocks has been very sensitive during nearly the whole of the week, owing, in some measure, to the policy of the Emperor of the French in reference to the annexation of Savoy and Nice, no change of importance has taken place in the quotations, and, on the whole, they have ruled tolerably firm. The purchases of Money Stock have not increased, but the supply in the hands of the jobbers is evidently small, in a comparative sense.

The demand for money has continued somewhat active, both at the Bank of England and in Lombard-street. The rates of discount have, consequently, been well supported. "Out of doors" first-class commercial bills have been done at 3¾ to 4; three months', at 4 to 4½; four months', at 4½ to 4¾; and six months', at 4½ to 5 per cent per annum. The supply of money, arising from the heavy payments lately made into the Exchequer, is only moderate; but, no doubt, when the dividend payments are commenced that it will increase considerably. In the Stock Exchange the rate for loans on Consols, for short periods, has advanced to four per cent.

The annexed return shows the state of the note circulation in the United Kingdom during the four weeks ending February 11:—

Bank of England	£21,735,965
Private Banks	3,504,381
Joint-stock Banks	2,977,034
Scotland	4,124,405
Ireland	7,353,744
Total	£39,695,030

Compared with the corresponding period in 1859, the above return exhibits an increase in the total circulation of £1,721,757.

A new Brazilian Loan for £1,373,103 has been announced. Of this amount £400,000 will be advanced to the Pernambuco Railway Company, to complete their line. It is to be in a four-and-a-half per cent stock, at 90, and the whole amount will be required by the 1st of August next. The applications have been numerous, and the scrip has been done at ¼ and ¾ premium.

The imports of bullion have been very moderate, and most of them have changed hands for export. From the Bank of England, however, scarcely any gold has been withdrawn for the Continent.

A new loan for Sardinia of £6,000 000 sterling will shortly be announced.

Throughout the Continent money is very low in price, arising from the stagnation in trade. At Hamburg and Frankfort accommodation may be had at 1½, and at Paris, at 2¾ per cent.

The intelligence at hand from India to the effect that the new Finance Minister has imposed a duty of 10 per cent on the importation of twist and yarn, and that the proposed Government issue of paper is wholly to supersede the notes of old-established institutions, has given rise to some unfavourable impressions amongst our cotton-dealers, and those interested in the maintenance of the present India banks.

At a meeting of the shareholders in the Chartered Mercantile Bank of India, London, and China, a dividend at the rate of 10 per cent per annum was declared.

The London bankers have come to the determination to close on Saturdays at three instead of four o'clock, after the 18th of May next.

Silver has ruled somewhat heavy, at 5s. 2d. per ounce, standard. The shipments by the next Bombay steamer are expected to be limited.

The transactions in the shares of the newly-formed companies have been only moderate:—Ocean Marine Insurance have sold at 3 3-16 to 3 5-16 prem.; Universal Marine, 13-16 to ⅞ prem.; London and Provincial Marine (the letters of allotment in which have been distributed), ⅜ to ½ prem.; Bank of Turkey, 1½ to 1¼ dis.; Buenos Ayres and San Fernando Railway, 1 to 1⅛ prem.; and City of London Brewery Preference, ½ to ¾ prem.

On Monday National Securities were flat; but Indian stocks ruled firm in price:—Consols, for Money, were 94⅜ ¼ ⅛; Ditto, for Account, 94⅜ ½; India Five per Cents, 104½ ¾; Ditto Bonds, 2s. dis.; Exchequer Bills, 17s. to 20s. prem.; India Five per Cent Enfaced Paper realised 99⅜ 99; and the Five-and-a-Half per Cent, 105⅜ 105. The dealings on Tuesday were only moderate:—Consols, for Money, left off at 94½ ¼; Ditto, for Account, 94⅝ ½; India Five per Cents, 104½; Ditto Four per Cent Enfaced Paper, 85; Ditto Five per Cent, 98¾; Ditto Five-and-a-Half per Cent, 105½; Ditto Debentures, 1858, 97; Ditto, 1859, 97⅜; Ditto Bonds, 2s. prem.; Exchequer Bills, 17s. to 20s. prem. There was rather an improved tone in the market on Wednesday:—Consols for Money left off at 94⅜; for the Account, 94½ ⅝. The Five per Cent Rupee Stock was 99; and the Five and a Half per Cent, 105. India Stock sold at 218 to 221. India Five per Cents realised 104½ to 104¾; India Bonds, 2s. dis. to 2s. prem; and Exchequer Bills, 17s. to 20s. prem. Stocks, generally, were inactive on Thursday:—Consols, for Money, sold at 94¼ ⅜ ½; for Account, 94½ ⅝; India Bonds, 3s. dis.; and Exchequer Bills, 16s. to 19s. prem.; India New Loan was 104½ ⅝; Ditto Five per Cent Enfaced Paper, 99½; and the Five-and-a-Half per Cent, 105½. The Debentures improved to 97½.

There has been a fair average business doing in nearly all Foreign Securities, and prices, almost generally, have continued steady. The market, however, has been far from active, and the leading quotations are as follows:—Brazilian Five per Cents, 102½; Brazilian Four-and-a-Half per Cents, 1852 and 1858, 92; Belgian Four-and-Half per Cents, 98¾; Danish Five per Cents, 100½ ex div.; Buenos Ayres Six per Cents, Deferred, 25; Mexican Three per Cents, 21⅝; Portuguese Three per Cents, 44; Russian Five per Cents, 108; Russian Four-and-a-Half per Cents, 98; Russian Three per Cents, 65; Sardinian Five per Cents, 83½; Spanish Three per Cents, 45⅝; Ditto, New Deferred, 34⅝; Ditto, Passive, 14½; Ditto, Committee's Certificates of Coupon, not Funded, 4⅞; Turkish Six per Cents, 79½; Ditto, New, 63; Turkish Four per Cents, 101⅜; and Peruvian Four-and-a-Half per Cent Dollar Bonds, 81⅜.

Joint-stock Bank Shares have been dealt in to a moderate extent, at full quotations. Australasia have realised 71 ex div.; Chartered of India, Australia, and China, 21; City, 69½; Colonial, 37½; Commercial of London, 20; London Chartered of Australia, 22⅝; London and County, 31½; London Joint-Stock, 56; Oriental, 46½; Ottoman, 18½ ex div.; South Australia, 30; Union of Australia, 44; and Union of London, 29.

The transactions in Colonial Government Securities have been limited; prices, however, have ruled tolerably firm, Canada Six per Cents having marked 115; New Brunswick Six per Cents, 109⅜; New South Wales Five per Cents, 1871 to 1876, 100½; and Victoria Six per Cents, 111⅝.

The Miscellaneous Market has continued steady, as follows:—Canada Land, 129; Crystal Palace, 27½; Electric Telegraph, 105¾; English and Australian Copper, 2⅛; Great Ship, ½ ex new; London Discount, 1⅜; London General Omnibus, 1½; National Discount, 4⅛; Madras Irrigation and Canal, 3½; Peninsula and Oriental Steam, 80½; Ditto, New, 29½; Red Sea and India Telegraph, 15⅝; Rhymney Iron, New, 6½; South Australian Land, 35½; Van Diemen's Land, 11½; Regent's Canal, 18½; Victoria Docks, 102.

The Railway Share Market has continued tolerably healthy, and, compared with last week, no change of importance has taken place in the quotations. The forthcoming dividend of the Great Western of Canada will be 2 per cent. The following are Thursday's official closing prices:—

ORDINARY SHARES AND STOCKS.—Ambergate, Nottingham, and Boston Junction, 6½; Caledonian, 90⅝ ex div.; Cornwall, 6½; East Anglian, 15⅝; Eastern Counties, 55⅝; Great Northern, 112; Ditto, A Stock, 112½; Great Western, 68⅝; Lancashire and Yorkshire, 101; London and Blackwall, 69; London and Brighton, 111; London and North Western, 98½; Ditto, Eighths, 9½; London and South-Western, 92½; Manchester, Sheffield, and Lincolnshire, 41⅞; Midland, 112½; Ditto, Birmingham, and Derby, 90; North British, 61½; North-Eastern—Berwick, 93½; Ditto, Leeds, 46½; Ditto, York, 76½; North London, 107; North Staffordshire, 14; Oxford, Worcester, and Wolverhampton, 40⅞; Scottish North-Eastern, Aberdeen Stock, 31; South Devon, 42⅜; South-Eastern, 88¾ ex div.; Victoria Station and Pimlico, 11.

LINE LEASED AT A FIXED RENTAL.—Hull and Selby, 54½.

PREFERENCE SHARES.—Eastern Counties Five per Cent, No. 2, 110 ex div.; Great Northern Five per Cent, 118; Ditto, redeemable at 10 per cent prem., 109½; Ditto, Four-and-a-Half per Cent, 103; Great Western Four-and-a-Half per Cent, 99; London, Chatham, and Dover, 22; Londonderry and Enniskillen, 11; Midland—Bristol and Birmingham, 139½; Newport, Abergavenny, and Hereford, Perpetual Six per Cent, 12; North British, Border Union, 1⅞; North-Eastern—Consolidated Four per Cent Stock, 91½; Stockton and Darlington, B, Six per Cent, 32½.

BRITISH POSSESSIONS.—Bombay, Baroda, and Central India, 97; Buffalo and Lake Huron, 5½; Buffalo, Brantford, and Goderich, 73; Cape Town and Dock, 1⅞; East Indian, 103; Ditto, Jubbulpore, 10½; Ditto Five per Cent Debentures, 1864, 103; Grand Trunk of Canada, 36½; Ditto, Six per Cent Preference, 93⅜; Ditto, Six per Cent Debenture, 73; Ditto, Seven per Cent, 1862, 86½; Ditto, 1867, 74; Ditto, 1872, 74; Great Indian Peninsula, New, 5¾; Great Western of Canada, 13½; Ditto, Five-and-a-Half per Cent Bonds, payable 1877, without option, 93; Scinde, 19¾; Punjaub, 4⅝.

FOREIGN.—Antwerp and Rotterdam, 4⅝; Bahia and San Francisco, 7; Carmeaux Mine and Rail, 2⅜; Great Luxembourg, 6½; Namur and Liège, 8½; Recife and San Francisco, 12; San Paulo, 1⅞.

Friday Afternoon.

We have very little change to notice in the value of Home Stocks to-day, but the market may be considered steady. Consols, for Money, have marked 94⅝ ½; for the Account, 94½ ⅝; India Five per Cents are 104½ ⅝. Most Foreign Bonds are inactive, but Railway Shares rule steady.

THE MARKETS.

CORN EXCHANGE (Friday).—The quantity of English wheat received fresh up to-day was only moderate. Although the attendance of millers was by no means numerous the trade ruled steady, and Monday's improvement in value was well supported in every instance. We were well supplied with foreign wheat, almost wholly ex. granary. Good and fine samples were held for more money, but the demand was somewhat restricted. Inferior parcels commanded very little attention. Very little barley, either English or foreign, was on the stands; and the demand ruled firm, at extreme currencies. Malt was in good supply and heavy request; prices, however, were supported. Oats were scarce and in steady request, at full quotations. Both beans and peas were firm in price, and the value of flour showed a tendency to advance.

Arrivals this Week.—English: wheat, 1420; barley, 1130; malt, 2210; flour, 1090. Irish: oats, 4230. Foreign: wheat, 2800; barley, 2710; flour, 40 sacks, 300 barrels.

English.—Wheat, Essex and Kent, red, 41s. to 49s.; ditto, white, 45s. to 55s.; Norfolk and Suffolk, red, 41s. to 47s.; rye, 30s. to 31s.; grinding barley, 25s. to 27s.; distilling ditto, 28s. to 30s; malting ditto, 30s. to 44s.; Lincoln and Norfolk malt, 49s. to 69s.; brown ditto, 48s. to 49s.; Kingston and Ware, 54s. to 69s.; Chevalier, 70s. to 72s.; Yorkshire and Lincolnshire feed oats, 20s to 25s; potato ditto, 26s. to 30s.; Youghal and Cork, black, 20s. to 25s.; ditto, white, 20s. to 28s.; tick beans, 34s. to 36s.; grey peas, 33s. to 35s.; maple, 37s. to 38s.; white, 36s. to 39s.; boilers, 36s. to 40s. per quarter. Town-made flour, 41s. to 43s.; town households, 37s. to —s.; country marks, 30s. to 36s. per 280 lb.; American, 22s. to 27s. per barrel; French, 29s. to 36s. per sack.

Seeds.—Rapeseed and tares have changed hands steadily, at very full prices. In other seeds only a limited business is doing, on former terms. Cakes continue steady.

Linseed, English, crushing, 48s. to 52s; Calcutta, 49s. to 51s.; hempseed, 31s. to 36s. per quarter; coriander, 14s. to 16s. per cwt.; brown mustard seed, 12s. to 14s.; ditto, white, 13s. to 15s.; tares, 7s. to 7s. 6d. per bushel. English rapeseed, 56s. to 60s. per quarter; linseed cakes, English, £9 5s. to £10 0s.; ditto, foreign, £9 0s. to £10 15s.; rape cakes, £5 5s. to £6 0s. per ton; canary, 50s. to 53s. per quarter; red clover seed, 40s. to 60s. white ditto, 88s. to 94s per cwt.

Bread.—The prices of wheaten bread in the metropolis are from 7d. to 7½d.; of household ditto, 5d. to 6½d. per 4-lb. loaf.

Imperial Weekly Averages.—Wheat, 45s. 2d.; barley, 36s. 5d.; oats, 23s. 1d.; rye, 34s. 10d; beans, 39s. 7d.; peas, 37s. 7d.

The Six Weeks' Averages.—Wheat, 44s. 5d.; barley, 35s. 9d.; oats 22s. 6d.; rye, 32s. 4d.; beans, 39s. 0d.; peas, 26s. 11d.

English Grain Sold last Week.—Wheat, 111,000; barley, 44,332; oats, 13,374; rye, 63; beans, 6236; peas, 1300 quarters.

Tea.—The public sales held this week have gone off steadily, at mostly full prices. Privately, the market is inactive.

Sugar.—For most raw qualities the demand is restricted to only moderate parcels; nevertheless, late rates are well supported. Refined goods move off steadily, at 51s. to 51s. 6d. per cwt for common brown lumps. Crushed and pieces are firm in price.

Coffee.—Our market generally is steady, but we have no change to notice in the quotations. The Dutch Company's sale of 331,000 bags has gone off briskly.

Rice.—About 30,000 bags have found buyers, at prices fully equal to last week. The stock is now much reduced when compared with last year.

Provisions.—For most kinds of butter the demand rules steady, and previous rates are well supported. Bacon has produced 2s per cwt. more money—sizeable sides having realised 60s. to 64s. per cwt. Lard is selling at 64s. to 74s. for bladdered, and 58s. to 64s. for keg.

Tallow.—Very little business has been passing in our market, and prices have had a drooping tendency. P.Y.C., on the spot, is selling at 57s. 9d. to 58s., and for delivery during the last three months, 53s. per cwt. Rough fat, 3s. 4d. per 8 lb.

Oils.—Linseed oil is in fair request, at 28s. per cwt on the spot. Other oils are a slow inquiry. Spirits of turpentine, 36s. to 37s. per cwt.

Spirits.—There is very little business doing in rum, and the quotations rule almost nominal. The brandy market is heavy, and prices are barely supported. Grain spirit is somewhat firm.

Hay and Straw.—Meadow hay, £2 15s. to £4 10s.; clover ditto, £4 0s. to £5 8s.; and straw, £1 6s. to £1 10s. per load.

Wool.—The public sales of colonial wool have been concluded. Privately the market is somewhat firm, at extreme rates.

Potatoes.—The supplies continue only moderate. On the whole, a fair amount of business is doing, at from 80s. to 150s. per ton.

Coals (Friday).—Best house coals, 20s. 9d. to 21s. 6d.; seconds, 18s. 3d. to 19s. 6d.; Hartley's, 14s. 6d. to 15s. 6d; manufacturers', 13s. 6d. to 14s. 9d. per ton.

Hops (Friday).—All good and fine hops are in steady, but by no means active, request, at late quotations. In all other kinds very little is doing, on former terms. The show of samples is only moderate. Mid and East Kent pockets, 84s. to 147s.; Weald of Kent ditto, 65s. to 84s.; Sussex ditto, 64s. to 86s. per cwt.

Metropolitan Cattle Market (Thursday, March 22).—Although only a moderate supply of beasts was on offer in to-day's market, the demand for all kinds ruled heavy, and, in some instances, prices gave way 2d. per 8 lb. compared with Monday. The show of sheep was tolerably good, and the mutton trade was very inactive. In the quotations, however, no change took place. We have to report a dull inquiry for lambs, at barely stationary prices; but for calves there was more inquiry, at extreme currencies. The pork trade was very dull, and milch cows commanded very little attention. Per 8 lb. to sink the offal:—Coarse and inferior beasts, 3s. 4d. to 3s. 6d.; second quality ditto, 3s. 8d. to 3s. 10d.; prime large oxen, 4s. 0d. to 4s. 4d.; prime Scots, &c., 4s. 6d. to 4s. 8d.; coarse and inferior sheep, 3s. 8d. to 4s. 0d.; second quality ditto, 4s. 2d. to 4s. 8d.; prime coarse-woolled sheep, 4s. 10d. to 5s. 2d.; prime Southdown ditto, 5s. 6d. to 5s. 8d.; large coarse calves, 4s. 8d. to 5s. 0d.; prime small ditto, 5s. 2d. to 5s. 6d.; large hogs, 3s. 6d. to 3s. 10d.; neat small porkers, 4s. 2d. to 4s. 10d.; lambs, 5s. 8d. to 6s 8d.; suckling calves, 19s. to 22s.; and quarter-old store pigs, 22s. to 29s. each. Total supply: Beasts, 957; cows, 115; sheep and lambs, 4300; calves, 170; pigs, 250. Foreign: Beasts, 110; sheep, 600; calves, 90.

Newgate and Leadenhall (Friday).—Our markets continue to be well supplied with meat. Generally speaking, the demand rules heavy, at the annexed quotations:—Inferior beef, 2s. 6d. to 2s. 10d.; middling ditto, 3s. 0d. to 3s. 4d.; prime large ditto, 3s. 6d. to 3s. 10d.; ditto small ditto, 4s. 0d. to 4s. 2d.; inferior mutton, 3s. 2d. to 3s. 6d.; middling ditto, 3s. 8d. to 4s. 0d.; prime ditto, 4s. 2d. to 4s. 4d.; veal, 4s. 0d. to 4s. 8d.; large pork, 3s. 6d. to 4s. 2d.; small pork, 4s. 6d. to 5s. 0d. per 8 lbs. by the carcase.

ROBERT HERBERT.

THE LONDON GAZETTE.

FRIDAY, MARCH 16.

WAR OFFICE.

6th Dragoon Guards: W. E. Dakin, A. Jones, to be Cornets.

1st Dragoons: C. L. Lane to be Cornet. 6th: Lieut. F. B. Chapman to be Captain; Cornet J. Baskerville to be Lieutenant.

16th Light Dragoons: C. C. Churchward to be Cornet.

Coldstream Guards: Captain the Hon. G. H. W. Windsor-Clive to be Lieutenant and Captain.

5th Foot: Assist. Surg. J. Wiles to be Assistant Surgeon. 11th: A. W. Ball to be Ensign. 13th: Assist. Surg. T. M. O'Brien to be Assistant Surgeon. 16th: G. R. A. Denne to be Ensign. 17th: Capt. J. Bellamy to be Captain. 25th: Ensign J. T. Coke, W. L. B. Coulson, to be Ensigns. 34th: J. O. Gage to be Ensign. 37th: Lieut. S. Hawkes to be Adjutant. 46th: Ensigns S. J. Carlow and C. B. C. Sneke to be Lieutenants. 49th: E. Roberts to be Ensign. 52nd: Lieut. and Capt. A. W. Adair to be Captain. 73rd: A. J. Ashmore to be Ensign. 75th: J. O. M. Vandeleur to be Ensign. 79th: Lieut.-Col. R. Grove to be Lieutenant-Colonel; Brevet Lieut.-Col. T. B. Butt to be Lieutenant-Colonel; Brevet Major K. R. Maitland to be Major; Lieut. J. R. Allen to be Captain; Ensign W. H. M'Causland to be Lieutenant. 87th: Assist. Surg. W. Armstrong to be Assistant Surgeon. 100th: A. F. Tanner to be Ensign.

2nd West India Regiment: Capt. F. A. Davidson to be Captain.

RECRUITING DISTRICT.—Lieut.-Col. and Brevet Col. A. H. Horsford, C.B., to be Inspecting Field Officer.

UNATTACHED.—Lieut. J. Evans to be Captain.

HOSPITAL STAFF.—Assist. Surg. C. J. Kirwan to be Assistant Surgeon; Assist. Surg. J. Collins, M.D., to be Assistant Surgeon.

BREVET.—Capt. and Brevet Major A. Bassano to be Lieutenant-Colonel; Capt. T. R. Snow to be Major; Capt. and Brevet Major J. Maycock to be Lieutenant Colonel.

BANKRUPTCIES ANNULLED.

W. Turner, Gravesend, butcher.—J. Hancock, Bristol, licensed victualler.

BANKRUPTS.

E. BLAND, Great Chapel-street, Westminster, linendraper.—D. FIELLER, Aldermanbury, clothier.—J. EVANS, Bristol, cattle dealer.—L. LOWNDES, Abergavenny, draper.—M. BOWDEN, Bristol, flint-glass manufacturer.—W. S. SPICER, Kingston-upon-Hull, tobacconist.—J. MERRIMAN, Hyson Green, Nottinghamshire, lace manufacturer.—J. HARRIS, Littledeans-hill, Gloucestershire, innkeeper.—W. BURGESS, Cambridge-street, Pimlico, candle dealer.—J. MOUNTFORD, Stoke-upon-Trent, parian manufacturer.—T. LILLEY, North Shields, merchant.—R. MILLAR, the younger, and E. L. MUNNS, Bishopsgate, City, wholesale and export oilmen.

SCOTCH SEQUESTRATIONS.

W. HOLDSWORTH, Glasgow, joiner.—J. ARROL, jun., Johnstone, Renfrewshire, ironmonger.—J. A. CAMPBELL, Edinburgh, saddler.—A. DICKIE and CO., Glasgow, boot and shoe makers.

TUESDAY, MARCH 20.

BANKRUPTS.

J. H. KEDSTONE, Cowes, Isle of Wight, fishmonger.—F. W. MILBURN, Westbourne Park-villas, boarding-house keeper.—G. RIDSDALE, Gower-place, Euston-square, surgeon.—J. B. JOHNSON, Aberdeen-mews, livery-stable keeper.—K. GOLDSMITH, Sutton, near Ely, Cambridgeshire, miller.—M. BENRIMO and J. PICCIOTTO, New Broad-street, City, merchants.—W. MARRIS, Nottingham, draper.—H. SMART, Gloucester, printer.—T. NICHOLSON, jun., and I. B. NICHOLSON, Gloucester, coal and slate merchants.—J. MELLING and R. CARR, Attercliffe-cum-Darnall, Yorkshire, glass manufacturers.

SCOTCH SEQUESTRATIONS.

G. CHISHOLM, Glasgow, commission agent.—P. BROWN, Dundee, tailor.—J. DOBSON, Paisley, clothier.—B. J. J. NORTH, Edinburgh.—A. SHACKLETON and A. KUSEL, Glasgow, wholesale jewellers.

⁎ The charge for the insertion of Births, Marriages, and Deaths Five Shillings for each Announcement.

BIRTHS.

On Monday, Lady Elcho, at her residence in St. James's Palace, of a son.

On the 4th of January, at Cape Town, the wife of Matthew Woodifield, Esq., Assistant Colonial Engineer, of a daughter.

On the 21st inst., at "The Straits House," near Dudley, Mrs. Wm. Barrows, of a daughter.

MARRIAGES.

On the 14th of February, at the Roman Catholic Church Soufrière, by the Rev. Abbé Fontaine, and at Trinity Church, Castries, St. Lucia, West Indies, by the Rev. E. J. Hawkins, his Worship the Hon. James Macfarlane, Mayor of Castries, and member of her Majesty's Legislative Council, to Anna Maria Flora, second daughter of James Macfarlane, senior, Esq., West India merchant, of Leadenhall-street, London.

On the 20th ult., in Canada, by the Rev. Vincent Clementi, A.B., Col. Trin., Cantab., father of the bridegroom, Theodore Boid Clementi, Esq., to Clarissa Margaret, elder daughter of the late George John Toker, Esq., of "The Oaks," Faversham, Kent, and granddaughter of Captain Charles Rubidge, R.N.

DEATH.

On the 20th ult., off Cape Sable, Nova Scotia, perished in the ill-fated steamer Hungarian, Mr. Charles Wyatt, late of Erith and Dowlais, aged 23.

NEW BOOKS, &c.

NOW READY,

INDIAN SPICES FOR ENGLISH TABLES; or, a Rare Relish of Fun from the Far East, being the Adventures of "Our Special Correspondent" in India. Illustrated in a series of upwards of 120 Humorous Sketches, and exhibiting in all its phases the peculiarity of life in that country. By Captain G. F. ATKINSON, Bengal Engineers, Author of "Curry and Rice," "Campaign in India," "Pictures from the North," &c. The 120 Sketches will be grouped on 28 imperial 4to plates, printed on tinted paper, and will be bound in boards, with illustrated paper cover. Price 16s.—London: DAY and SON, Lithographers to the Queen, 6, Gate-street, Lincoln's inn-fields.

THE ART of ILLUMINATING, as Practised in Europe from the Earliest Times. Illustrated by INITIAL LETTERS and ALPHABETS, selected from the British Museum, South Kensington Museum, and other valuable collections. By W. R. TYMMS; with an Essay on the Practice of the Art at the Present Day, by M. DIGBY WYATT, Architect. Publishing in Parts of 8 or 9 Plates, price 5s.—London: DAY and SON, Lithographers to the Queen.

NEW WORK ON SEAMANSHIP.
Now ready, in 8vo, with 150 Illustrations, price 10s. 6d.,

THE NAVAL CADET'S GUIDE AND SEAMAN'S COMPANION. Containing Practical Rules for Fitting and Placing Riggings, Managing Sails, &c.; also, complete Illustrations of all Standing Rigging, the Knots, Bends, and Hitches in Use; and a Catechism on Rigging Ships, Boat Sailing, Bending, Reefing, and Furling Sails, Working Anchor Gear, Manœuvring, &c. Used on Board H. M.'s Training Ship Britannia. By GEORGE S. NARES, Lieutenant Royal Navy.
Portsea: JAMES GRIFFIN. London: LONGMAN and Co.

On the 2nd of April, price 7s. 6d., crown 8vo, cloth,

THE COLLECTED WORKS of the late Rev. J. A. JAMES, Birmingham. Edited by his Son. Volume II., Sermons, some of which have been long out of print.
London: HAMILTON, ADAMS, and Co.

"A Guest that well becomes the Table."—Shakspeare.
This day, price 5s. 6d. cloth gilt, royal 8vo, pp. 532,

THE WELCOME GUEST, for 1860. Containing 200 entirely Original Tales, &c., by 41 eminent Authors. Illustrated with 123 Engravings, designed by 25 Artists.
Selection of Authors in this Volume:—

Blanchard, E. F.	Elwes, Alfred	Oxenford, John
Brough, Robert B.	Fonblanque, Albany	Redding, Cyrus
Brough, John C.	Greenwood, F.	Ritchie, Leitch
Brough, William	Halliday, Andrew	Sala, George A.
Byron, H. J.	Hannay, James	Thornbury, Walter
Carpenter, J. E.	Hollingshead, John	Turner, Godfrey
Draper, Edward	Lang, John	Wraxall, Lascelles
Edwards, H. Sutherland	Mayhew, Augustus	Yates, Edmund
	Meteyard, Miss

Artists Illustrating this Volume:—

Bennett, C. H.	McConnell, W.	Sargent, G. F.
Browne, H. K. (Phiz)	Meadows, Kenny	Skill, F. J.
Gilbert, John	Melville, H. S.	Warren, H.
Hine, H. G.	Portch, Julian	Weir, Harrison
Macquoid, T. R.

The "Welcome Guest" is published in Weekly Numbers, Monthly Parts, and Half-yearly Volumes.
London: HOULSTON and WRIGHT, 65, Paternoster-row.

34th Thousand, post 8vo, 7s. 6d. cloth,

SOYER'S MODERN HOUSEWIFE, containing Receipts for the Preparation of Every Meal of the Day, and for the Nursery and Sick Room. By the late ALEXIS SOYER. With Illustrations.
"All who have food to cook should buy it."—Morning Chronicle.
London: SIMPKIN, MARSHALL, and Co.

A FEW WORDS ABOUT NICE. Price 1s. 6d.
PIPER, STEPHENSON, and SPENCE, 23, Paternoster-row.

THE NATIONAL MAGAZINE for APRIL, price One Shilling, contains:—Right Hon. W. Gladstone, a Parliamentary Sketch, by J. Irving Richie; The Shadow in the House, by John Saunders, Author of "Love's Martyrdom;" Sundown, by Edward Copping; My First Love and my Last, Down Stockport Way; The Monotomy of Civilisation; The Bondage of the Bakehouse, &c. The plates are—The Crucifixion; The Herdsman of the Atlas (Linton); The Sleep of Argyle; Waller's Oak, &c. The half-yearly volume, handsomely bound, price 7s. 6d., will be ready for delivery with the Magazines.—London: W. KENT and Co.

Just published, cloth, 2s.,

CURE OF THE SICK: Not Homœopathy, not Allopathy, but Judgment. By JOHN SPURGIN, M.D., F.R.C.P., Senior Physician to the Foundling Hospital.
JOHN CHURCHILL, New Burlington-street.

Price 1s. each, Outline; 2s. Colouring commenced; 3s. Finished.

FOR ILLUMINATING. The BEATITUDES, a Series of Eight Designs by ALBERT LUDOVICI.
London: J. BARNARD and SON, 339, Oxford-street, W.

GOLD or COPPER PAINTS.—JOHNSON'S METALLIC PAINTS are the simplest to use, cheapest, and best for all kinds of decorative work. Sold in boxes, 1s. 6d. each.
J. BARNARD and SON, Proprietors, 339, Oxford-street, London.

CHRIST BLESSING LITTLE CHILDREN. Proposals for the publication, upon an entirely new plan, of the marvellous line Engraving by J. H. WATT, after the well-known Picture by Sir CHARLES EASTLAKE, P.R.A., of "Christ Blessing Little Children;" an arrangement which will enable every subscriber for a 15-guinea artist's proof, to obtain this first and most intrinsically valuable state of the plate, virtually free of cost.—Particulars on application to DAY and SON, Lithographers to the Queen, 6, Gate-street, Lincoln's Inn Fields, London.

DAY and SON, Lithographers to the Queen, execute in the best style, on the most reasonable terms, and with dispatch, every description of LITHOGRAPHY, Chromo-Lithography, and Steel and Copper plate Printing, artistic or commercial. Estimates prepared with promptness.—Gate-street, Lincoln's-inn-fields.

FOR FAMILY ARMS send to the Royal Heraldic Office name and county. Arms quartered and painted. Plain Sketch, 2s. 6d.; in Colours, 5s. Family Pedigrees traced, 21s. The Manual of Heraldry, 400 Engravings, 3s. By T. CULLETON, Lecturer on Heraldry at the Mechanics' Institute, 25, Cranbourn-street (corner of St. Martin's-lane), W.C. The Science of Heraldry taught.

CREST DIES cut, 5s.; Book Plate engraved with Arms, 10s.; ditto Marking Plate, 5s.; Crest engraved on Seals or Rings, 6s. 6d.; Initials, 1s. 6d. per letter; Livery Button Dies, 38s. per pair; Embossing Press for Stamping Paper with Crest or Address, 15s.—T. CULLETON, Heraldic Engraver to the Queen, H.R.H. the Duke of Cambridge, and Princess Mary, by appointment 30th of April, 1852, and Diesinker to the Board of Trade, 25, Cranbourn-street (corner of St. Martin's-lane), W.C.

WEDDING CARDS—For Lady and Gentleman—50 each. 50 Embossed Enamelled Envelopes, with Maiden Name printed inside, 13s. Sent free for stamps. A Copper Plate Engraved in any style and 50 Visiting Cards for 2s, Post-free. T. CULLETON, Seal Engraver, 25, Cranbourn-street, corner of St. Martin's-lane, W.C.

THE PEN SUPERSEDED.—MARK YOUR LINEN.—The best and only method of marking linen, silk, stockings, coarse towels, &c., so as to prevent the ink washing out, is with CULLETON'S PATENT ELECTRO-SILVER PLATES. By means of this novel invention a Thousand Pieces of Linen can be marked in one Hour, with Initials, Name, Coronet, or Crest, with directions for use. Sent post-free for stamps. Initial Plate, 1s.; Name, 2s. 6d.; Set of Movable Numbers, 2s. 6d.; Crest, 5s.
T. Culleton, Patentee, 25, Cranbourn-street, corner of St. Martin's-lane, W.C.

NOTICE.

THE GENUINE and ORIGINAL BOND'S PERMANENT MARKING INK bears the address on the label, 28, Long-lane, West Smithfield, City.

SEEDS, remarkable for the ORIENTAL APPEARANCE they impart to Flower Gardens, Lawns, &c. CAMAS (Indian Shot), the most picturesque of ornamental-foliaged plants. 30 magnificent species for 10s. 6d., 20 for 7s. 6d., 12 for 4s. 6d., 12 species, mixed, 1s.
RICINUS, stately plants, of rapid growth, and large, handsome foliage. 6 species, 2s. 6d.; 3 ditto, 1s. 6d.; mixed, 1s. per packet.
20 packets of the most beautiful, hardy, and showy ANNUALS for 5s., 21. for 3s. 6d., 15 for 2s. 6d.
30 packets of the most beautiful, half-hardy ANNUALS for 7s. 6d., 21 for 5s. 6d., 15 for 2s. 6d.
30 packets of the most beautiful BIENNIALS and PERENNIALS for 7s. 6d., 21 for 5s. 6d., 15 for 3s. 6d.
All Flower Seeds sent post-paid.
BUTLER and M'CULLOCH, Seedsmen, Covent Garden Market, W.C.

FLOWERS OF ALL HUES.—100 varieties of choice, hardy Annuals, sent post-free for 5s.; 50 ditto, 3s.; 25 ditto, 2s. 6d.; 12 ditto, 1s. 2d., with descriptions of height, colour, and general character to each. Sample packet and catalogue sent for two stamps.—From HENRY KNIGHT, Seedsman, High-street, Hastings.

BEAUTIFUL FLOWERS.—100 papers of flower seeds fit for present sowing for 5s.; 50 for 3s.; or 36 for 2s. 6d.; 12 for 1s. Extra fine camellia bloom, balsam, German asters, stock, double wallflowers, fine double sweet-william, and new custard marrow, 6d. a packet. All the above post-free. Messrs. GOLDING'S, Seedsmen, Hastings.

SUPERB FLOWER SEEDS, post-free, at the annexed prices:—100 fine hardy annuals 5s.; 50 ditto, 3s.; 33 ditto, 2s. 6d.; 12 ditto, 1s. 2d. Catalogues, with sample packet, 2d.—From B. W. KNIGHT, Florist, 67, High-street, Battle, Sussex.

NEW MUSIC, &c.

ROBERT COCKS and CO'S LIST OF MUSICAL PUBLICATIONS.

EVENINGS WITH THE CLASSICAL COMPOSERS, being Selections from Instrumental Works not generally known to Pianists. Arranged for the Pianoforte by EDGAR ADAMS. In Numbers, 3s. each.
No. 1. Haydn.—Adagio from 6th Quartet.
No. 2. Beethoven.—Minuet from Violin and Piano Sonata, Op. 30, No. 3.
No. 3. Mozart.—Minuet and Trio from 2nd Quartet in C major.
No. 4. Haydn.—Andante from 13th Symphony in C major.
No. 5. Handel.—Two Last Movements of 2nd Grand Orchestral Concerto.
No. 6. Beethoven.—Andante Grazioso in E flat, and Scherzo in C, Op. 33.
(To be continued.)
London: ROBERT COCKS and Co., New Burlington-street, W., Publishers to the Queen.

W. H. CALLCOTT'S HOLY FAMILY, admired Sacred Melodies of the Great Composers. Transcribed for Piano. Book I., the favourite book. Solo, 5s. Illustrated in Oils by Baxter. Piano Duet, 6s. Ad lib. Accompaniments for Flute, Violin, and Violoncello, each 1s. "He has culled his flowers from the choicest growth of musical intelligence, and has shown great taste and discrimination in his selection."—St. James's Chronicle.—London: ROBERT COCKS and Co.

THE ADORATION, Popular Sacred Melodies, arranged for Piano by W. H. CALLCOTT. Solo, with Illustration in Oil by Baxter, 5s.; Piano Duet, 6s. Ad lib. Accompaniments for Flute, Violin, and Violoncello, each 1s. So arranged as "that they can be effectively performed in the family circle by the aid of such instruments as are generally favourites in the hands of amateur musicians. We know of no better means of inculcating a refined taste for music."—St. James's Chronicle.
London: ROBERT COCKS and Co.

THE RIFLEMEN'S MARCH. By STEPHEN GLOVER. Inscribed to the patriotic Volunteers of Great Britain. Illustrated, 2s. 6d. The march of the day.
London: ROBERT COCKS and Co.

W. VINCENT WALLACE'S MARCH of the VOLUNTEER RIFLES (2s. 6d.), dedicated to Colonel the Hon. C. H. Lindsay, Commanding the St. George's Rifles.
London: ROBERT COCKS and Co.

CZERNY'S GREAT PIANOFORTE SCHOOL. Under the patronage of her Majesty the Queen. Four vols., large folio, each 31s. 6d. Supplement (64 brilliant and useful studies from the great masters, fingered by Czerny), 15s. "I have never before seen any elementary publication so surpassingly rich as this in both precepts and examples."—The late J. A. Hamilton.
London: ROBERT COCKS and Co.

MUSICAL WORKS PUBLISHED upon the AUTHOR'S OWN ACCOUNT, at moderate charges, with expedition, accuracy, and in a superior style. Estimates supplied by ROBERT COCKS and Co., Publishers to the Queen, New Burlington-street, Regent-street, W.

SOON AND FOR EVER. New Sacred Song. By R. T. HARVEY.—"A beautiful subject treated with pathos and effect."—Review. Published at 2s., sent free for 12 stamps.
D'ALCORN, 8, Rathbone-place, W.

CHEAPEST MUSIC REPOSITORY in England.—All the New Music Half-price. Catalogues, one stamp. Country orders sent per return of post.—H. D'ALCORN (removed to), 8, Rathbone-place (eight doors from Oxford-street), W.

THE latest NOVELTY in PIANOFORTES.— ROBERT COCKS and CO.'s UNIVERSAL PIANOFORTE, in rosewood and walnut-tree, admirably suited for presents, each £23. Its very elegant interior makes it ornamental in the drawing-room, while, from its extra strong construction, it resists the effects of wear and remains a long time in tune. Lists, with drawings (gratis and postage-free), of Robert Cocks and Co.'s admired Piccolos. Also, List of New and Secondhand Pianofortes for Sale or Hire.
London: Robert Cocks and Co., New Burlington-street, W.

SARL and SONS, 17 and 18, Cornhill, respectfully solicit a visit to their magnificent Establishment. The Ground Floor is more particularly devoted to the display of Fine Gold Jewellery, Gold and Silver Watches, and Fine Gold Chains. The Silver-Plate Department is in the Gallery of the Building, and consists of every article requisite for the table and sideboard. In the magnificent Showrooms is displayed a large and beautiful stock of Argentine Plate, the manufacture of which has stood the test of twenty years' experience. Sarl and Sons have also fitted up a separate Showroom for the display of Drawing and Dining Room Clocks of the most exquisite designs.
Books containing Drawings and Prices may be had on application.
Sarl and Sons, 17 and 18, Cornhill, London.

SPOONS and FORKS.—SLACK'S SILVER ELECTRO-PLATE is a coating of sterling silver over nickel; the fact of 20 years' test is ample proof of its durability. Table spoons or forks, 30s. and 38s. per dozen; dessert, 20s and 30s.; tea, 12s. and 18s.—Books of Engravings gratis. Orders above £2 carriage-free.—Richard and John Slack, 336, Strand. Established 50 years.

FURNISH YOUR HOUSE WITH THE BEST ARTICLES AT DEANE'S IRONMONGERY AND FURNISHING WAREHOUSES.
A Priced Furnishing List sent Post-free.
DEANE AND CO., LONDON-BRIDGE.
(Established A.D. 1700.)

DEANE'S—CELEBRATED TABLE CUTLERY—

	Table Knives.	Dessert Knives.	Carvers.
Finest Ivory Handles	33s.	28s.	11s.
Medium "	23s.	18s.	7s. 6d.
Good "	16s.	12s.	5s. 6d.

DEANE'S—Electro-plated Spoons and Forks—

	Table.	Dessert.	Tea.
Spoons, best plating	40s.	30s.	8s.
Forks "	38s.	29s.	—
Spoons, 2nd quality	33s.	24s.	14s. 6d.
Forks "	31s.	23s.	—

DEANE'S—Electro-plate Tea and Coffee Sets, Liqueur Stands, Cruets, Cake Baskets, &c.
DEANE'S—Dish Covers and Britannia Metal Goods.
Prices of Tin Dish Covers, in sets of six and seven, 18s., 30s., 40s., 63s., 78s.
DEANE'S—Papier Mâché Tea Trays, in sets, from 21s.; new and elegant patterns constantly introduced.
DEANE'S—Bronzed, Copper, and Brass Goods.
DEANE'S—Bronzed Tea Urns, 50s., 63s., 84s.
DEANE'S—Moderator Lamps, from 7s. to £6 6s.
DEANE'S—Drawing-room Stoves, Ranges, &c.
DEANE'S—Fenders and Fire Irons.
DEANE'S—Iron Bedsteads with Bedding. Priced Pamphlet, with drawings, post-free.
DEANE'S—Domestic Baths. See Illustrated Priced Pamphlet.
DEANE'S—Tin, Japan, and Iron Goods.
DEANE'S—Cornices and Cornice Poles.
DEANE'S—Horticultural Tools.
DEANE'S—Chandeliers and Gas Fittings.

FURNITURE.—Gratis, a New and elaborately Illustrated CATALOGUE, containing over 300 Designs of Furniture, Iron Bedsteads, Bedding, &c., with Prices and Estimates for all classes of houses. Country orders carriage-free. LEWIN CRAWCOUR and CO., House Furnishers, 22 and 23, Queen's-buildings, Knightsbridge, London.—N.B. A very elegant and complete WALNUT DRAWING ROOM SUITE TO BE SOLD for 33 guineas, recently cost 60 guineas; Dining-room ditto, in Spanish Mahogany, 28 guineas; and Two handsome and complete Bedroom Suites, in fine Mahogany and Birch, with Winged Wardrobes and Marble-top Washstands, 25 guineas. The whole of the above are decided bargains.

HEAL and SON'S NEW ILLUSTRATED CATALOGUE contains designs and prices of 150 articles of BEDROOM FURNITURE, as well as of 100 Bedsteads, and prices of every description of Bedding. Sent free by post.—Heal and Son, Bedstead, Bedding, and Bedroom Furniture Manufacturers, 196, Tottenham-court-road, W.

HANDSOME BRASS and IRON BED-STEADS.—HEAL and SON'S Show Rooms contain a large assortment of Brass Bedsteads, suitable both for Home use and for Tropical Climates; handsome Iron Bedsteads with Brass Mountings and elegantly Japanned; Plain Iron Bedsteads for Servants; every description of Wood Bedsteads that is manufactured, in Mahogany, Birch, Walnut-tree woods, Polished Deal and Japanned, all fitted with Bedding and Furniture complete, as well as every description of Bedroom Furniture.—Heal and Son, Bedstead, Bedding, and Bedroom Furniture Manufacturers, 196, Tottenham-court-road, W.

WASHING-MACHINE.—A New Patent. It washes on an entirely new principle, at less cost than by any other means, and cleanses so thoroughly that shirts or other linen require no hand-rubbing. Particulars free by post.—WILLIAMSON, Engineer, 123, High Holborn.

WINE NO LONGER AN EXPENSIVE LUXURY.—Reduced Duties.—European Wines: Ports, 24s per doz.; Sherries, 20s.; Clarets, 18s.; Champagne, 34s.; South African Ports and Sherries, 20s. Spirits—Cognac Brandy, 20s. per gallon; Hollands, 50s. per doz.; Colonial Brandy, 15s. per gallon. Terms Cash.—ANDREW and HUGHES, 27, Crutched-friars, Mark-lane.

COALS.—BEST COALS ONLY.— COCKERELL and CO.'S price is now 27s. per ton, cash, for the best screened coals, as supplied by them to her Majesty. 13, Cornhill; Purfleet Wharf, Earl-street, Blackfriars, E.C.; Eaton Wharf, Pimlico, S.W.; and Sunderland Wharf, Peckham, S.E.

ART-UNION OF LONDON.—Subscription One Guinea.—Prizeholders select from the public exhibitions. Every subscriber has a chance of a valuable prize, and in addition receives a volume of Thirty Engravings, by W. J. Linton, from celebrated pictures by Artists, together with an impression of a plate by F. Holl, after J. J. Jenkins, entitled "Come Along," now ready for delivery. Subscription lists close 31st inst.
GEORGE GODWIN, LEWIS POCOCK, } Hon. Secs.
444, West Strand, March.

THE AGRICULTURAL ENGINEERS' COMPANY (Limited), Swan-lane, Upper Thames-street, London. Established for the SALE of AGRICULTURAL IMPLEMENTS—Steam Engines—Railway and Contractors' Plant—Hydraulic Engines—Mining Machinery—Brick and Tile Machines—Sawing Machinery, and every description of Tools and Machines. Prices and full information upon application.

LONDON and NORTH-WESTERN RAILWAY.—Northampton Races and Steeplechase Spring Meeting.—A SPECIAL TRAIN will leave the Euston Station on Tuesday, Wednesday, and Thursday, March 27th, 28th, and 29th, at 9.15 a.m. Returning from NORTHAMPTON on the Evening of each Day at a Quarter before Seven o'clock.

FARES to NORTHAMPTON and BACK.

Covered Carriages.	First Class.
10s.	15s.

The Return Tickets to be available by any of the intervening trains.
By order, WM. CAWKWELL, General Manager.
Euston Station, March 16, 1860.

SMART'S WRITING INSTITUTION, 77B, Quadrant, Regent street (entrance in Swallow-street).—Removed from Piccadilly. Open from Ten till Nine daily. Persons of all ages received (privately), and taught at any time suiting their own convenience. Lessons one hour each. No classes. No extras. Improvement guaranteed in Eight to Twelve Easy Lessons. Separate rooms for Ladies, to which department (if preferred) Mrs. Smart will attend. For prospectuses, terms, &c., apply to Mr. Smart, as above.

HAIR JEWELLERY, Artists in Hair, Manufacturers, and Designers.—H. RUSHTON and CO., 213 Regent-street, W., beg to inform the nobility, clergy, and gentry that they beautifully WORK Ladies' or Gentlemen's own HAIR, and elegantly mount in fine gold hair bracelets, rings, pins, studs, brooches, necklaces, crosses, anchors, Albert chains, watch guards, &c., 30 per cent cheaper than any other house in the kingdom. A book of specimens sent, post-free, on application, to all parts of the United Kingdom. Manufactory, 48, Northampton-road, Clerkenwell.

NOTICE TO LADIES.—KING and CO., Silkmercers, &c., 243, Regent-street, respectfully beg to announce that, in consequence of their system of sending patterns post-free having been adopted by several London firms, in future, if ladies should by chance prefer the patterns sent by other houses, King and Co. will supply the same goods 15 per cent less in price.

PATTERNS of SILKS, &c., sent post-free to any part of Europe, Asia, Africa, America, and the Colonies.
Address to KING and CO., Regent-street, London.

17s. 6d. the Full Dress of 19 yards.

NEW CAMBRICS, DUTY-FREE, at KING'S, 243, Regent street.

Swiss Cambrics	3s. 9d. the Full Dress.
French Cambrics	5s 0d. "
Double-skirt Cambrics	7s. 6d. "
Corded Cambrics	8s. 6d. "

Patterns sent post-free.—Address to King and Co., Regent st., London.

NEW MUSLINS DUTY-FREE, at KING'S, 243, Regent-street.

Finest Organdie Muslins	5s. 0d. the Full Dress.
Finest Chintz Muslins	7s. 6d. "
New Striped Muslins	8s. 6d. "
New 5-Flounced Muslins	6s. 6d. "
New 7-Flounced Muslins	10s. 6d. "
Finest French Flounced Muslins	18s. 6d. "

Patterns sent post-free.—Address to King and Co., Regent-st., London.

SPRING FABRICS DUTY-FREE at KING'S, 243, Regent-street.

New Tarlatines	7s. 6d. the Full Dress.
Striped, Checked, and Chené Mohairs ..	10s. 6d. "
Double Skirt Mohairs	12s. 6d. "
New 5 and 7 Flounced Mohairs.. ..	15s 6d. "
New Grenadines	17s 6d. "
New Spring Reps	£1 2s. 6d. "

Patterns sent post-free.—Address to King and Co., 243, Regent-street London.

BLACK SILKS, DUTY-FREE, at KING'S, 243, Regent-street.
French Glacé Silks, £1 1s. the Full Dress.
Ducapes, £1 15s.
Gros Royals, £1 15s.
Widows' Silks, £1 19s. 6d.
Flounced Silks, £2 10s.
Moire Antiques, £3 3s.
Patterns sent post-free. Address to King and Co., Regent-st., London.

NEW SPRING SILKS at KING'S, 243, Regent-street, all duty free
French Foulard Silks, 15s. Full Dress.
Shepherd's Plaid Silks, £1 1s. 0d.
New Striped and Checked Glacé Silks, £1 5s. 0d.
New Crossover Silks, £1 10s. 6d.
New Satin Cannellé Silks, £1 12s. 6d.
Shaded Glacé Silks, £1 15s. 6d.
Plain French Silks, £1 15s. 6d.
New Striped Poult de Soies, £1 17s. 6d.
Brocaded Poult de Soies, £1 19s. 6d.
Flounced Silks, £2 2s.
Double-skirt Silks, £2 18s. 6d.
Moire Antiques, £3 3s.
Patterns post-free.—Address to King and Co., Regent-street, London.

FORD'S ZOUAVE JACKETS for Dinner or Evening Dress, of Lyons Velvet or Cachmere, embroidered with gold, worn open from the throat à la Zouave, displaying a White Silk or Muslin Vest underneath. Price 21s. Illustrations free.

FORD'S ZOUAVE JACKETS, beautifully fitting and elegantly embroidered. Superfine Cloth, black or coloured, with military braiding, 21s. Directions for self-measurement post-free.—T. Ford's Mantle Rooms, 42, Oxford-st.

FORD'S ZOUAVE JACKETS, in Lyons Velvet, black as well as every colour, lined throughout, 42s., 63s., and 84s., all sizes, ready. Choice ad infinitum. Cachmere Jackets, beautifully braided, 21s.

FORD'S AIXA JACKETS.—The new "Adeline," a very pretty Zouave, half-fitting in front and tight at the back, terminating in a very stylish and coquettish little basque about two inches deep, with a lacework of braid at the hips, similar to that shown on the sleeve.—Price, plain, 15s; beautifully braided and ornamented, 21s. Illustrations free.

FORD'S HALF-GUINEA CLOTH JACKET of superfine Cloth, Tight or Loose, for in or out door Wear. All sizes ready. Some too large even for the stoutest persons. Two Jackets sent carriage-free.—Thos. Ford, 42, Oxford-street, London.

FORD'S ZOUAVE JACKETS, in Muslin and Lace with novel and beautiful Trimmings. Price 21s. Ford's Zouave Marcella Jackets, white or buff, with Vest, complete, One Guinea. Illustrations free.

FORD'S ZOUAVE JACKETS, for morning wear, of mixed fabrics, braided in scroll and pine patterns, made with Vest to match, from 25s. Patterns and Illustrations free.—Thomas Ford, Mantle Rooms, 42, Oxford-street, London, W.

FORD'S ZOUAVE JACKETS.—Ladies who are desirous of obtaining Jackets of choice and elegant styles, and distinguished for superior fit and quality, are invited to inspect an immense assortment of beautiful patterns, made in various materials, and kept ready in all sizes. Illustrations and Directions for Self-measurement, perfectly plain and simple, post-free.
Thomas Ford, Mantle Rooms, 42, Oxford-street, London W.

RAMSAY'S BERLIN WOOL WAREHOUSE, 10, Brompton-row, Brompton, S.W. (near the South Kensington Museum). Every material for Fancy Work, Paper and Wax Flowers and Leather Work. Lists forwarded.

BERDOE'S WATERPROOF CAPES.— The extensive sale of these first-class garments is their best recommendation. 96, New Bond-street; and 69, Cornhill (north side).

COMMERCIAL TREATY WITH FRANCE.
REDUCTION IN PRICE OF NEW SPRING SILKS.

JAMES SPENCE and CO., 77 and 78, St. Paul's Churchyard, beg to state that, in consequence of the Abolition of Duty on French Silks, and the competition already begun to be exhibited in the Home Markets, they have succeeded in securing several large lots of NEW SPRING SILKS, at 6d., 9d., and 1s. per yard under the regular prices.

No. 1. Fancy Checks, 21s. the Dress	ALL WIDE WIDTH.
No. 2. New Crossover Cannellé Stripes, 26s. 11d. the Dress.
No. 3. Choice Patterns, various, 29s. 6d. the Dress.	PATTERNS SENT POST-FREE.
No. 4. Black Ducapes, from 2s. 6d. to 4s. 6d. per yard.
No. 5. Black Glacés, from 2s. 9d. to 6s. 6d. per yard.	ALL WIDE WIDTH.

Also, rich Moiré Antiques, from 55s to Six Guineas; Flounced Robes, Poult de Soies, Baratheas, Ottomans, Watered Silks, &c.
Patterns sent post-free.
Address—JAMES SPENCE and CO., 77 and 78, ST. PAUL'S CHURCHYARD, E.C.
Shut on Saturdays at Five o'clock p.m.

MANTLE CLOTHS. We are now selling the cheapest Mantle Cloths in the trade, viz.:—

Brown Ladies' Cloths, from	1s. 11½d. per yard.
Undressed Meltons "	1s. 8½d. " "
Black Ladies' Cloths "	2s. 8d. " "

All qualities equally cheap. Patterns free.
CHARLES MEEKING and CO.'S Woollen Warehouse,
111, Holborn-hill, London E.C.

THE TIME TO BUY MUSLINS CHEAP: Last Year's Muslins clearing out.
Retail Drapers, Shippers, and Families will save immensely.
Patterns post free.
THE FRENCH MUSLIN COMPANY, 16, Oxford-street.

NEW FRENCH BREAKFAST DRESS, 8s. 6d.; if made up ready for wear to the latest fashion, 10s. 6d. The Two-Guinea three-flounced Silk made with material for Bodice. The Five-Guinea Black Lyons Velvet Dress made with Bodice.

VELVET JACKETS Embroidered in Gold. Clearing out at half-price.
The Guinea-and-Half Velvet Jacket, tight and loose.
Cashmere Opera Jackets, 12s 9d.

THE HALF-GUINEA CLOTH JACKET. White Muslin Jackets, 9s. 10½d.
Black Lace Jackets, 12s. 9d.
The Military Braided Cloth Jacket, 13s. 9d.
Illustrations free.
THE FRENCH MUSLIN COMPANY, 16, Oxford-street.

LINENS EXTRAORDINARILY CHEAP. The Five Pound Sample Bale forwarded carriage-free to any part of the United Kingdom upon receipt of a remittance of Five Sovereigns, containing the following genuine articles:—One dozen Glass Cloths, one dozen Linen Dusters, one dozen Roller Towels, one Diaper Linen Tablecloth, one dozen Knifecloths, one real Hamburg Damask Tablecloth; one extra size ditto, very handsome, to seat sixteen persons; one dozen Damask Breakfast Napkins, one dozen fine Dinner Napkins; one pair magnificent Drawing room Curtains, exceedingly handsome patterns, standing out in bold relief; three Antimacassars; one pair real Dunfermline Bleached Sheets, made from pure flax, very wide, and wear guaranteed; one dozen fine Barnsley Huckaback Towels, one rich Double-quilted Bed Coverlet, magnificent in the extreme, elegant and costly, and of the largest dimensions; one pair real Whitney Blankets, extra size; six Welted Toilet Covers, one pair excellent Window Curtains. For detailed Catalogue, see Daily Papers.—AMOTT BROTHERS and CO., Linen Factors and Merchants, 61 and 62, St. Paul's-churchyard.

COMMERCIAL TREATY with FRANCE!! (SPRING SILKS DUTY FREE!!)
Just received from the Custom House, Two Cases of the above Goods, which are now on Sale, at the following Reduced Prices:—
12,000 yards new Fancy Silks (various), wide width, 2s. 2½d. per yd.
Rich Striped and Checked do., 23s. 9d. to 29s. 6d. the Dress.
Elegant Cannellé and Crossbar do., 31s. 6d. to 52s. 6d. the Dress.
Flounced Silks in great variety, 89s. 6d. to 4½ guineas.
Patterns for inspection postage-free.
Observe the Address, BEECH and BERRALL,
The BEEHIVE, 63 and 64, Edgware-road, London, W.
N.B. All Silks left over from 1859 have undergone a great alteration in price, to effect an immediate clearance.

TOWER OF BABEL (Maison Français), 84, Regent street, W.
The Stock of BEST PARIS KID GLOVES, at 2s. 6d. per pair, of this unrivalled establishment, is this year the largest, newest, and most superior ever submitted to its numerous patrons.

THE PLICATURA NEW FRISSETTES, for DRESSING LADIES' HAIR in the New Style, designed and made only by W. WINTER, 205, Oxford-street, W.

RIFLE CORPS.—The Materials recommended by Government may be seen at Messrs. NICOLL'S Army Dépôt, Regent street, London. As every suit of uniform will be made from measures taken by skilled foremen, gentlemen are requested to call there in preference to making appointments to be waited on at their own homes. Cash payments being required the best articles are produced for very moderate prices.—H. J. and D. Nicoll, 114, 116, 118, 120, 142, 144, Regent-street, W.; 22, Cornhill, E.C.; and 10, St. Anne's-square, Manchester.

THOMAS D. MARSHALL'S ELASTIC BOOTS.—Ladies' Elastic House Boots, 5s. 6d.; Paris Kid military-heeled Boots, elastic, 14s. 6d.; to lace, 11s. 6d. Gentlemen's first-class Elastic Boots, 22s.
THOMAS D. MARSHALL 192, OXFORD-STREET.

RIMMEL'S RIFLE VOLUNTEERS BOUQUET is the fashionable Perfume for this season. Price 2s. 6d. Entered at Stationers' Hall. Sold by all Perfumers and Chemists.—Rimmel, 96, Strand; 24, Cornhill; and Crystal Palace.

TO THOSE WHOSE HAIR IS TURNING GREY.—LE BRUN'S PERUVIAN HAIR-STAINING POMADE is permanent and used without trouble. To be had at 82, Gray's-inn-lane, London, and all Perfumers or Patent Medicine Vendors, in bottles 4s. and 2s.; by post, 10d. extra.

GALVANIC ANTI-RHEUMATIC CHAIN BANDS, price 5s., 10s. 6d., &c. Celebrated for their unequalled efficacy in Neuralgia and Paralysis, and especially in Nervous Diseases, Exhaustion, &c. For striking facts of cures read the Book "Pulvermacher's Medico-Galvanic System of Self-application," &c., 1s. 73, Oxford-street, London.

YOUTH, BEAUTY, and ARTICULATION. Mr. EDWARD DAVIESON (for many years Dentist to the Court of Spain) begs to inform the British public that he has taken up his permanent residence at 443, Strand, adjoining the Electric Telegraph Office, where he is prepared to supply ARTIFICIAL TEETH of a manufacture superior in beauty and durability to any known in this country, at Ten Shillings per Tooth, which price can only be exceeded by expensive mountings.
Among the wonderful discoveries he made during his residence in the South of Europe none exceeds the LIQUID ENAMEL, which not only imparts a pearly whiteness to natural and artificial Teeth, but renders them impossible to discolour or decay. Sold, with full directions for use, in cases at 10s. 6d. and 21s.
Mr. Edward Davieson has to announce that he is now perfecting a discovery—the FLEUR DE L'AGE or Bloom of Youth—that will add Youth and Beauty to any complexion. It will be ready on and after the 31st March, 1862, and sold in cases at 11s., 22s., and four quantities in one for 33s.
As the first supply will be limited, an early application had better be made. Can be sent by post.

PRICHARD'S AROMATIC STEEL PILLS, for General Debility, giving energy to the muscles and nerves, and invigorating the most shattered constitutions. Prepared by Wm. Prichard, 65, Charing-cross, S.W., in boxes 2s. 9d., 4s. 6d., and 11s.

PRICHARD'S DANDELION, CAMOMILE, RHUBARB, and GINGER PILLS, for Indigestion; mild in action, and certain in effect. Prepared by Wm. Prichard, 65, Charing-cross, in bottles, 2s. 9d. and 4s. 6d. Of all Medicine Vendors.

DR. DE JONGH'S
(Knight of the Order of Leopold of Belgium)

LIGHT-BROWN COD LIVER OIL, prescribed, in consequence of its immeasurable superiority over every other kind, as the safest, speediest, and most effectual remedy for CONSUMPTION, BRONCHITIS, ASTHMA, COUGHS, RHEUMATISM, GOUT, GENERAL DEBILITY, DISEASES OF THE SKIN, RICKETS, INFANTILE WASTING, AND ALL SCROFULOUS AFFECTIONS.

From "THE ASSOCIATION MEDICAL JOURNAL."
"No man has given so much attention to the analyses of Cod Liver Oil as DR. DE JONGH. He has now undertaken himself to ensure a constant supply of the most powerful and genuine Cod Liver Oil for medicinal purposes. Such an undertaking appears to have a strong claim on the encouragement of the profession, who are certainly much interested in obtaining a purer article than those which are now so marvellously cheap in the market."

Sold ONLY in IMPERIAL Half Pints, 2s. 6d.; Pints, 4s. 9d.; Quarts, 9s.—capsuled and labelled with DR. DE JONGH'S signature, WITHOUT WHICH NONE CAN POSSIBLY BE GENUINE—by respectable Chemists.
SOLE AGENTS,
ANSAR, HARFORD, and CO., 77, STRAND, LONDON, W.C.

PERFECT FREEDOM FROM COUGHS IS SECURED BY

DR. LOCOCK'S PULMONIC WAFERS. To Singers and Public Speakers they are invaluable for clearing and strengthening the voice. They have a pleasant taste. Price 1s. 1½d., 2s. 9d., and 11s. per box. Sold by all Medicine Vendors.

NEW MUSIC, &c.

D'ALBERT'S KATHLEEN MAVOURNEEN WALTZ. "One of the loveliest waltzes ever written, founded on the favourite song of 'Kathleen Mavourneen.'" Beautifully Illustrated in.—CHAPPELL and Co., 50, New Bond-street.

D'ALBERT'S NEW VALSE, PEREA NENA. Just out. Beautifully Illustrated in Colours. Price 4s. CHAPPELL and Co., 50, New Bond-street.

D'ALBERT'S NEW QUADRILLE, MADRID. Just out. Beautifully Illustrated in Colours. Price 4s. CHAPPELL and Co., 50, New Bond-street.

D'ALBERTS NEW VALSE, SULTANA. Just out. Beautifully Illustrated in Colours. Price 4s. CHAPPELL and Co., 50, New Bond-street.

D'ALBERT'S NEW POLKA, THE BIG DRUM. "A MASTER POLKA." Beautifully Illustrated in Colours. Price 3s.
CHAPPELL and Co., 50, New Bond-street.

D'ALBERT'S RIFLE CORPS POLKA. Just published, splendidly illustrated with Sketches from some of the celebrated Rifle Corps. Price 3s.
CHAPPELL and Co., 50, New Bond-street.

D'ALBERT'S RIFLE CORPS WALTZES. By the talented Composer. Price 4s. Just out.
CHAPPELL and Co., 50, New Bond-street.

ROYAL VOLUNTEER BALL at the ROYAL PRINCESS'S and TENNYSON BAND performed with the greatest success.
D'Albert's Rifle Corps Polka three times.
D'Albert's Kathleen Mavourneen Quadrille.
D'Albert's Nelly Gray Valse.
D'Albert's Sultana Polka.
D'Albert's Macbeth Quadrille.
D'Albert's Rifle Corps Quadrilles.
D'Albert's Fairy Queen Valse.
Published by CHAPPELL and Co., 50, New Bond-street.

FLORAL HALL, COVENT GARDEN.—The BAND of the HONOURABLE CORPS performed with the greatest success.
D'Albert's Nelly Gray Valse.
D'Albert's Campbell Minstrel Quadrille.
D'Albert's Rifle Corps Quadrilles.
D'Albert's Sultana Quadrille.
D'Albert's West-end Polka.
D'Albert's Big Bourny Valse
CHAPPELL and Co., 50, New Bond-street.

NEW SONGS, &c., by VINCENT WALLACE (Composer of "Lurline"), just published:—
SWEET EVENING STAR. Price 3s. 6d.
THE WANDERING BARD. Price 3s. 6d. Sung by Miss Palmer at the Hanover-square Rooms with the greatest success, and redemanded.
PRETTY THINGS YOU'VE SAID TO ME. Price 3s.
VOICES, LIFELESS VOICES. Duet. Price 4s. 6d.
CHAPPELL and Co., 50, New Bond-street.

NEW SONG, ALL THINGS ARE NOT AS THEY SEEM. Composed by C. GOUNOD. Poetry by LONGFELLOW. Price 3s. Sung with distinguished success by Mr. George Buckland.
CHAPPELL and Co., 50, New Bond-street.

MELLONI'S OPERA, VICTORINE. NEVER CAN FORGET. Price 3s. "A ballad which always elicits a hearty encore."
THIS FLOWER, DEAR MAID. 3s. "Melodious and graceful. The governing popularity of this ballad is not at all surprising when it is remembered how usually the tune is retained after being once heard."—Times.
LOVES DREAM SOFT. Price 3s. "Melodious and graceful."—Times.
CHAPPELL and Co., 50 New Bond-street.

CHAPPELL'S 100 COUNTRY DANCES, OF HOPKINS, KING, and HEARTHERLEY for the VIOLIN, containing all the old English Inventories. Undoubtedly the best collection ever published, and only 1s. Also Fifty Elementary, post-free.
CHAPPELL and Co., 50, New Bond-street.

CHAPPELL'S EIGHTEEN AIRS, with VARIATIONS, arranged as easy SOLOS for the VIOLIN, price 1s. 6d.
CHAPPELL and Co., 50, New Bond-street.

BRINLEY RICHARDS' NELLY GRAY, the popular Song, by Campbell's Minstrels, arranged for the Pianoforte. Price 3s. Order the Campbell's "Nelly Gray."
CHAPPELL and Co., 50, New Bond-street.

SISTER ELVES.—Vocal Duet for two Ladies' Voices. By STEPHEN GLOVER. "One of the prettiest duets for the popular drawing-room, and sure to become a great favourite."—Piano.
CHAPPELL and Co., 50, New Bond-street.

TO PURCHASERS of PIANOFORTES.—CHAPPELL and Co. have a large variety of SECONDHAND PIANOFORTES for Sale, by BROADWOOD, CLARK, STODART, &c., by all very eminent makers. Also, new instruments of every description.—CHAPPELL and Co., 50, New Bond street.

CHAPPELL'S FOREIGN MODEL PIANOFORTE, Fifty Guineas. This Instrument unites the ordinary College Pianoforte of Three Octaves and the Pillet Cottage Pianoforte of Six Octaves, and is constructed in the most perfect manner to meet the constant demand at most moderate terms for any climate. The workmanship is of the best description; the tone is musical, full, and sympathetic, and the power equal to that of a Richard Cobbett; the case is of the most elegant description, in rosewood; the touch is the most responsive that can be given to a Pianoforte, and the whole has been to ensure the standing well in tune. Chappell and Co. especially invite the attention of the public, the profession, and the trade to this Instrument, feeling assured that for finish, form, tone, and general comparison, has hitherto been made in England at the same price.—CHAPPELL and Co., 50, New Bond-street. Also a fashionable cottage model, twelve guineas of the purchase.—50, New Bond-street. London.

HARMONIUMS at CHAPPELL'S.—The ALEXANDER is the only Instrument of the kind that remains in tune; from the simplicity of its construction it is not liable to get out of order, and therefore is alike calculated for the Church, Chapel, or Drawing-room.
No. 1. In oak case, one stop, 5 octaves, 10 guineas.
No. 2. In mahogany case, two stop, 10 guineas.
3. In oak case, 3 stops, 12 guineas; rosewood, 13 guineas.
4. In oak case, 4 stops, 14 guineas; rosewood, 15 guineas.
5. Eight stops, in oak case; rosewood, 20 guineas.
6. Twelve stops, oak or rosewood, 25 guineas.
7. Ten stops, percussive action, in oak, 21 guineas.
8. Three stops, and percussive action, in rosewood, 25 guineas.
9. Twelve stops, percussive action, in oak, 30 guineas.
10. Twelve stops, percussive action, in oak, 36 guineas.
11. Twelve stops, percussive action, large size, in rosewood, 40 guineas.
The new patent models—13 stops, percussive action, expression pedal, &c., in oak case, 45 guineas; in rosewood, in the Gothic mode, in handsome oak or rosewood case, 52 guineas.
Full descriptive lists on application.
CHAPPELL and Co., 50, New Bond-street.

THE ALEXANDRE HARMONIUM at SIX Guineas, perfect for Class Singing, Private Use, or for the School-room.—CHAPPELL and Co., 50, New Bond-street.

THE PATENT DRAWING-ROOM MODEL HARMONIUM, the best that can be made, price 60 guineas. Illustrated Catalogues, with Testimonials, may be obtained gratis, or sent free by post.—CHAPPELL and Co., 50, New Bond-street; or 13, George-street, Hanover-square.

NEW POLKA.—THE LADIES' RIFLE CORPS POLKA. Price 3s. By L. BENEDICT, Author of the Johnny Jones Quadrilles, The Rosalie or Day Schottische, The Very Best Polka, &c. &c. &c. This Polka is dedicated to the Ladies' Rifle Corps, forms the 5th set of Quadrilles, &c., which may be procured as one of the best that has appeared for some time.
DUFF and HODGSON, 65, Oxford-street.

NEW VOCAL DUET, FAIRY DREAMS. Price 3s. 6d.—Mr. Stephen Glover, the composer of "What are the stars?" "Sister Elves," "Love's Dream Soft," &c., has just published "Fairy Dreams," a duet for soprano and contralto, which will equal in popularity any of his former compositions.
DUFF and HODGSON, 65, Oxford-street.

NEW SONG.—OLD FRIENDS AND OTHER DAYS. Composed by W. VINCENT WALLACE. Price 3s. 6d. This is the last production of the distinguished composer of the highly-successful Opera of "Lurline." It is written for Mr. Sims Reeves, and will be sung by that celebrated gem by all succeeding vocalists.—DUFF and HODGSON, 65, Oxford-street.

MUSIC HALF PRICE and Postage-free.—The High Price of Music.—All full-price Music forwarded to any part of the kingdom on receipt of Postage-stamps to the amount of half the published price. Catalogue gratis and postage-free.
NEWBERY and SON, 20, Wigmore-street, Cavendish-square, W.

NEW MUSIC, &c.

HENRY FARMER'S NEW PIANOFORTE TUTOR.—"The most useful and best instruction-book we have seen."—Vide ante.—London: JOSEPH WILLIAMS, 123, Cheapside.

HENRY FARMER'S RIFLE GALOP, splendidly illustrated by BRANDARD. Solos, 4s.; Duets, 5s.; Septets, 6s. 6d.; Orchestra, 1s.—London: JOSEPH WILLIAMS, 123, Cheapside; Whitehaste Warehouse, 8, Mile-street, E.C.

HENRY FARMER'S GEMS OF CHRISTY MINSTRELSY, arranged for the Pianoforte. Price 3s. post-free.—London: JOSEPH WILLIAMS, 123, Cheapside.

HENRY FARMER'S JUPITER QUADRILLE. Beautifully illustrated in Colours by BRANDARD. Solos, 4s.; Duets, 5s.; Septet, 6s. 6d.; Orchestra, 1s.—London: JOSEPH WILLIAMS, 123, Cheapside; Whitehaste Warehouse, 8, Mile-street, E.C.

HENRY FARMER'S BLANCHE VALSE. Illustrated in Colours by BRANDARD. Solos, 4s.; Duet, 5s.; Septet, 6s. 6d.; Orchestra, 1s.
London: JOSEPH WILLIAMS, 123, Cheapside; and 8, Mile-street, E.C.

VISIONS; or, They Rise Before Me One by One. English and German Words. English Version by MRS. J. BOUCHER. Music by F. GUMBERT. 3s., post-free.
London: JOSEPH WILLIAMS, 123, Cheapside; and 8, Mile-street, E.C.

C. W. GLOVER'S NEW Song. DO THEY, THINK OF ME AT HOME. Written by T. E. CARPENTER. Price 3s., post-free.
London: JOSEPH WILLIAMS, 123, Cheapside.

G. A. MACFARREN'S NEW Song, WHEN I'M AWAY. Sung by Miss Louisa Vinning. Is effective and touching—it has within a moderate compass. Price 3s., post-free.—London: JOSEPH WILLIAMS, 123, Cheapside.

G. A. MACFARREN'S LITTLE CLARINA'S LESSON-BOOK for the PIANOFORTE.
Part 1, 1s.; each No. 6d.; complete, 2s. 6d. "A publication of that is essential to instruct the youngest child."—Globe.
London: JOSEPH WILLIAMS, 123, Cheapside.

STEPHEN GLOVER'S New Song, THE CHILD'S GOOD NIGHT TO THE FLOWERS. Words by MRS. J. BOUCHER. Illustrated with Coloured Frontispiece. Price 3s., post-free.—London: JOSEPH WILLIAMS, 123, Cheapside.

NEW SONG.—WE MEET AGAIN, THOUGH MANY YEARS. Written by MRS. J. BOUCHER; Music by F. GUMBERT. Price 3s., post-free.
London: JOSEPH WILLIAMS, 123, Cheapside, E.C.

NEW SONG.—MAIDEN, ARISE. Written by Mrs. J. BOUCHER; Music by F. REWSON. Price 3s., post-free. Sung by Miss Poole at the Monday Popular Concerts.
London: JOSEPH WILLIAMS, 123, Cheapside, E.C.

C. W. GLOVER'S NEW SONGS (Words by MRS. J. BOUCHER), HOME OF MY CHILDHOOD, and DAYLIGHT IS DYING. Price 3s., post-free.
London: JOSEPH WILLIAMS, 123, Cheapside, E.C.

WILL YOU LEAVE THE LAND, JESSIE? New Song, written and Composed by J. W. OLDERY. Price 3s.
London: JOSEPH WILLIAMS, 123, Cheapside, and 8, Mile-street, E.C.

VOLUNTEER RIFLE CORPS' GRAND MARCH for the PIANOFORTE. By E. ANDREWS. Illustrated by BRANDARD. Price 3s., post-free.
London: JOSEPH WILLIAMS, 123, Cheapside, and 8, Mile-street, E.C.

THE MODERN SINGING-MASTER OR THE ART OF SINGING. By F. BUSSE. Illustrated with Portraits of Mario, Tamberlik, Lablache, and Tamburini. Price 2s. 6d.
London: JOSEPH WILLIAMS, 123 Cheapside and 8, Mile-street, City.

HE FRIEND'S GIFT: a Collection of the most Popular Airs, Original and Selected, Arranged and simple manner, and fingered for the Flute. By J. BRUNNER. In Twelve Books. Price 1s. each, or complete in Cloth, 12s. 6d.
London: JOSEPH WILLIAMS, 123, Cheapside, and 8, Mile-street, E.C.

CHARLES W. GLOVER'S NEW SONGS.— "The Dear Old Times." Words by MRS. J. BOUCHER. "Song of Welcome." Written by MRS. ABDY. 3s. each, post-free.
London: JOSEPH WILLIAMS, 123, Cheapside, E.C.

NEW VOCAL DUET, SING, MAIDEN, SING. Written by J. R. CARPENTER; composed by CHARLES GLOVER. Price 4s.
London: JOSEPH WILLIAMS, 123, Cheapside, E.C.

NEW VOCAL DUET, THE FISHER'S EVENING SONG. Written by MRS. J. BOUCHER; composed by F. GUMBERT. Price 4s. 6d., post-free. London: JOSEPH WILLIAMS, 123, Cheapside, E.C.

RICARDO LINTER'S QUEBEC QUADRILLES. Illustrated in View of Quebec, in Colours, by BRANDARD. Price 4s.
London: JOSEPH WILLIAMS, 123, Cheapside, and 8, Mile-street, E.C.

FADING LEAVES. Words by MRS. BOUCHER. Music by G. A. MACFARREN, "This ambitious song is one of the best of the composer's productions."—Morning Herald. Price 3s. post-free.
London: JOSEPH WILLIAMS, 123, Cheapside, and 8, Mile-street.

THE MOTHERLESS CHILD (They chide me for my Tears). Written by MRS. J. BOUCHER; composed by FRED. GUMBERT. Price 3s. post-free.—London: JOSEPH WILLIAMS, 123, Cheapside, E.C.

CASTON DE LILLE'S SNOWDRIFT GALOP. "The dance music of the composer is becoming very popular."—Vide ante. Price 4s.
METZLER and Co., 37, 38, and 39, Great Marlborough-street, W.

FOUR-IN-HAND GALOP. T. BROWNE. The popular Galop, as played by the Tennyson Band, in Colours. Price 3s. post-free.
METZLER and Co., 37, 38, and 39, Great Marlborough-street, W.

GERALDINE. New Song. Introduced by Mr. HOWARD PAUL in her impersonation of Miss Reeves. By CHARLES MINEAR. Price 3s. post-free. "Geraldine" is the best song in the new burlesque."—Vide ante.
METZLER and Co., 37, 38, and 39, Great Marlborough-street, W.

THE LADIES OPPORTUNITY. The New Song for Leap Year. By CARLO MINEAR. "Mr. Howard Paul's song, 'The Ladies' Opportunity,' is the best."—Vide ante. Price 3s. 6d., post-free.
METZLER and Co., 37, 38, and 39, Great Marlborough-street, W.

48 CHRISTY'S MINSTRELS' SONGS. Price 6s. in cloth, full music size, with Pianoforte Accompaniments, Choruses, and Symphonies complete.
LONDON: J. WILLIAMS, 11, Paternoster-row.

IMPORTANT to AMATEURS of MUSIC and SCHOOLS.—MUSIC sent on sale or return, a further reduction of terms for a quarter or a year, on application, by E. WILLIAMS, Music Publisher, 11, Paternoster-row.

NEW COMIC SONG, THE RIFLE FEVER. By the Author of "The Rifle Corps." Illustrated. Price 3s., postage-free.
London: J. WILLIAMS, 11, Paternoster-row.

TOPLIFF'S LAST NEW SACRED SONGS, price 2s. each.—HONOUR thy Father and Mother.—Blest are the Pure in Heart.—Lord, Remember me.—Hear me Merciful.—Blessed are the Dead.
London: J. WILLIAMS, 11, Paternoster-row.

C. H. R. MARRIOTT'S DANCE MUSIC. POLKA.—The Rifle Corps (Illustrated), 3s.; Prince, Fenwick, 3s.; Hallelbrog, 3s.; Adela, 3s.; Village, 3s.; Cosmopolitan, 3s.; Bellevue, 3s.
QUADRILLES.—The Rifle, Alpine, 3s.; Christy's Minstrels, 3s.; Cosmopolitan, 3s.; Bellevue, 3s.; Adela, 3s.; Village, 3s.; Prince, 3s. 6d.; Polka Up, 3s.; Polka Up, 3s.; New World, 3s. 6d.; Merry, 3s.
WALTZES.—Beautiful Star, Julia Gussie, Rosaud, Trevelyan, Tivoli, Vista, Sea-side, Lucie Milton, Water Lily, Autumn Leaves, each 3s.; Bertinini Schottische, 3s.; Eugenia Redowa, 3s.
London: R. WILLIAMS, 11, Paternoster-row.

WILL-O'-THE-WISP. Descriptive Song by CIRRET. Highly spoken of. Separate Editions may be had for a Bass or Tenor Voice. Each 3s. net.
London: J. WILLIAMS, 11, Paternoster-row.

NEW MUSIC, &c.

THE POPULAR SONGS of the SEASON. Sung by Madame Dolby, Madame Louisa Vinning, Wilbye Cooper, and Sims Reeves:—

Janet's Choice, by Claribel	2	6
Dew's Gems (Illustrated), by Hutton	2	6
Sweetheart, by Balfe	2	6
The Bird of Song, by Richards	2	6
The Art to Love, by Richards	2	6
O, Lips, are Not Me Dim, by Meyerbeer	3	0
The Happy Year Ago, by Balfe	3	0
Why Don't He Tell Me So? by Balfe	2	6
Better than the Brightest, by Balfe	2	6
Flight, by Berger	3	0

Boosey and Sons, Holles-street.

24 CHRISTY'S MINSTRELS' SONGS for the Million. Ed.—The Boosey and Sons' CHRISTY'S MINSTRELS' ALBUM is published this day, contains the former size, containing the whole of the Songs as sung by the Christy's Minstrels, with Pianoforte Accompaniments, and all the words under the music. This is the best edition, published of these songs, and the cheapest collection of vocal music ever offered to the public.
Boosey and Sons, Holles-street.

BRINLEY RICHARDS' RIFLEMEN FORM MARCH, performed by the Band of the Royal Horse Guards. Arranged for Pianoforte by BRINLEY RICHARDS. Price 3s. 6d.
Boosey and Sons, Holles-street.

KUHE'S DOMINO NOIR, new brilliant Fantasia for the Pianoforte on Auber's Opera.—Published this day by Boosey and Sons, Holles-street.

KUHE'S ZAMPA, brilliant Fantasia for the Pianoforte, on Herold's Opera.—Published this day by Boosey and Sons, Holles-street.

SCHLOESSER'S NEW GRAND DUETS on "Martha," "Traviata," and "Dinorah," for Pianoforte. Price 4s. each. Published this day by Boosey and Sons, Holles-street.

AN EVENING WITH BALFE. By RUDOLF NORDMANN. Mélange for the Pianoforte. Price, Solo, 4s.; Duet, 5s.
Also, by NORDMANN, AN EVENING WITH THE CHRISTY MINSTRELS. Solo, 4s.; Duet, 5s. Boosey and Sons, Holles-street.

ROSSINI'S STABAT MATER.—New and Cheap Edition. Price for the Pianoforte by HENRY SMART. Price for the Pianoforte Score, in cloth, 8s. Also, ROSARY'S TWELFTH MASS, in the same form.
Boosey and Sons, Holles-street.

SHILLING EDITION of DE BERIOT'S AIRS for the VIOLIN. In 7, 7, and 6, with Variations, in One Book, price 1s. Also, SONGS; 10 German Waltzes for the Violin; Airs, Dances, and Lullabys, price 1s. Pianoforte part to De Beriot's Airs, price 2s. 6d.
Boosey and Sons, Holles-street.

JUVENILE DANCE MUSIC, price 1s. each. Set. Schmoll's Quadrille (completed, 1s.) Maud Valse, 1s.; Juvenile Polka, 1s. Boosey and Sons, Holles-street.

GOLLMICK—DRIPPING WELL, Morceaux de Fantaisies for the Pianoforte. Third Edition. Price 4s. One of the most popular Pianoforte Pieces.
Boosey and Sons, Holles-street.

ASCHER.—THOU ART SO NEAR, AND YET SO FAR. ASCHER'S Celebrated Song, arranged for the Pianoforte by ASCHER. Price 3s.
Boosey and Sons, Holles-street.

THE CROWN DIAMONDS. New and Complete Edition for the Pianoforte. Price 6s. in cloth, or in 12 Books, 1s. each. Also, the Airs, Duets, and Trios, arranged for the Violin, Flute, Cornet, &c. In the same Series, SAVANELLA, 2s.; DINORAH, 7s. 6d.
Boosey and Sons, Holles-street.

LURLINE.—The Quadrilles, and "The Troubadour's Waltz," from W. V. Wallace's New Grand Opera, "Lurline," performed by the Orchestra and the Volunteer Rifle Corps Band, at the Royal Princess's Theatre.
CRAMER, BEALE and Co., 201, Regent-street.

THE RIFLEMAN'S MARCH, performed by the Orchestra and Military Band at the MASS Conductor of the Band at the Crystal Palace. For Pianoforte Solo and Duet, 3s. 6d.
CRAMER, BEALE and Co., 201, Regent-street.

PIANOFORTES—CRAMER, BEALE, and CO.—NEW MODEL COTTAGE GRAND PIANO, and every description, warranted. Lists of Prices and Terms for Hire, post-paid, free.

HARMONIUMS.—CRAMER, BEALE, and CO. have a large variety of Prices, post-free. Also, SECONDHAND HARMONIUMS in great variety.
CRAMER, BEALE and Co., 201, Regent-street.

FOR FAMILY ARMS send Name and County to the HERALDIC OFFICE, 44, High Hudson, W.C. Sketch and Estimate free. Plain Sketch, 2s. 6d. Arms Painted on Vellum, Seals, Dies, and Engraving Plates in Mediæval and Modern Style.

CAPTAIN CRAWLEY'S NEW ARMS, Crest, and Motto, size 12 in. by 11 in., 5s., Drawing and Emblazoning Heraldic Work.—T. CULLETON, Heraldic Artist and Engraver, Price-lists post-free.—MORING, Heraldic Artist, High Holborn.

SOLID GOLD, 18-carat, Hall-marked, Sardonyx or Cornelian SIGNET RINGS, engraved with Crest, Initials, or Engraved Arms, Crest, and Motto, 70s. Desk-seal, Pencil-case, Brooch, Bracelet, Studs, &c.—W. and S. JONES, 2, Holborn-hill.

FRODSHAM and BAKER, 31, Gracechurch- street, City, established 1760, Chronometer-makers to the Admiralty, Watch and Clock Makers to the Royal Observatories, Makers and Exporters of Watches for Home and Colonial construction, 44 modern prizes. Astronomical and other Clocks.

MECHI and BAZIN'S DESPATCH-BOX of WRITING-CASE, with every requisite, complete, are made in twenty different forms and sizes, fitted with real Bramah and Chubb Locks, and are recommended for their extreme portability. Also, the Portable Writing-desk, with Bramah and Chubb Locks, Dressing-bags, dressing cases, wicker hamper baskets, sporting knives, wine and tea cases, &c.—MECHI and BAZIN, 4, Leadenhall-street, London, E.C.

TELESCOPES, Opera, Race-course, Field, and general Out-door Day and Night Perspective GLASSES, very small, by the celebrated Manufacturing Twelve and eighteen lenses constructed of German glass. Will show distinctly a person to be seen at the distance of 10 miles, and are so extra astronomical power adapted to see minor objects at sea, and are recommended to all sportsmen, gentlemen, and gamekeepers. Telescopes, 24 inches long, for watch, 4 guineas; Telescopes, 30 inches, 45 by 2 inches, and adjust at 10 to 14 miles distance; and with an extra astronomical eyepiece, 5 guineas. Also, a large size, 3 feet long, 3 inches wide, 5 guineas. All the above are of large size and strong, and are of the amazing power, and are sensed by her Majesty's Royal letters patent, by ROBERTS, Manufacturing Optician, 63, Cornhill, Piccadilly, W.

SPECTACLES.—Optical Improvements, to enable persons at an advanced age to read with ease, and to prevent the necessity of using spectacles, are effected by the new SPECTACLES, a combination of the greatest improvement ever. The valuable advantages derived from the invention is that from becoming dim sighted, and the necessity of using spectacles, persons are rendered to employ their sight at the most minute scrupulous work, and to read the smallest print by candle-light, without the aid of spectacles. Every other kind of hearing Instrument.—MARSH, SOLOMONS Opticians, 38, Albemarle-street, Piccadilly W.

DEAFNESS.—A newly-invented Instrument for restoring perfect HEARING, called the Sound Magnifier, Organic Vibrator, and Invisible Voice Conductor. It fits into the ear entirely out of sight, and will enable the most extreme deaf to hear distinctly and to converse in the usual tone of voice. It affords instant relief to deaf persons, and enables them to hear distinctly at church and in public assemblies. Every other kind of hearing Instrument.—MARSH, SOLOMONS Opticians, 38, Albemarle-street, Piccadilly W.

TO LADIES NURSING.—KLAM'S NEW NIPPLE-SHIELD for taking away all pain whilst nursing, preventing and immediately curing cracked or sore nipples.—KENNARD HOUSE, 186, Oxford-street, W., 1s. 6d. per pair, sent free.

INFANTS' NEW FEEDING-BOTTLES.— From the "Lancet":—"We have seldom seen anything so graceful as the Feeding-bottles introduced by Mr. KLAM, 186, Oxford-street. They are quite unobjectionable." Fs. 6d. each.

DANCING.—Mr. BLAND and DAUGHTERS give Lessons DAILY to Adults in the Valse, Galop, Lancers, Polka, &c. Blandonia Blend softening as perfumes, 3d. Rowers-street, Regent-street, W.

MONUMENTS, TOMBS, CHIMNEY-PIECES, &c.—The largest STOCK of MANUFACTURED MARBLE in Europe on view at the British and Foreign Marble Galleries, 17, Newman-street. Manufactory, Carrara, Sicily, and Belgium. JAY, Newman-street, Oxford-street.

BROADBENT, BAROUCHE, and STANHOPE PHAETONS, Dog-carts, Pony-carriages, for SALE. May be viewed at 3, Gloucester-mews, Baker-street.

GREEN'S PRIZE LAWN-MOWER, 1860. Thomas Green, Smithfield Iron Works, Leeds; and 9, Victoria-chambers, Victoria-street, Westminster, for the two years past all the Agricultural and Horticultural Shows in the Kingdom, and every prize. Also, the New PATENT LAWN-MOWER for 1860 in perfection fixed. Illustrated prize-lists can be had on application to the above addresses.

FLOWER SEEDS.—Twelve Varieties, post-free, 1s. Also, Seed Lists, free for ever, containing many hundred, post-free for fourteen stamps.—THOMAS and JOHN GREEN, W. and R. BETTRIDGE, 6, Nottingham-terrace, York-gate, Regent's-park.

CURTAIN MATERIALS.—SEWELL and CO.'S New and Extensive PATTERNS of CHINTZES are now ready for inspection, and will be forwarded post-free on application. Just purchased a lot of magnificent Tapestries for Curtains, two yard wide, very rich, 2s. 6d. per yard. 8, 9, and 10, Ludgate-hill, and 1, Warwick-court, Holborn, Nos. 1 and 2 Complete closed, Sixth.

J. MAPLE and CO.'S FIRST-CLASS FURNITURE.—Mahogany wing wardrobe, 6 guineas; pillar-back parlour chairs, 11 guineas; ditto, in leather, 14 guineas; chiffonier, 5 guineas. Bedsteads of every description in wood, iron, and brass. Handsome mahogany telescope dining-tables, with set of dining-room furniture, from 12 to 20 guineas. The Regent chair, in leather, 2 guineas. Handsome mahogany sofa-tables, with patent sliding rule joint, 3 feet, from £2 to £3. Mahogany towel-horse, from 3 guineas; very large ditto, in teak, from £3 to £3; book-stands, from 1 guinea. Gilding, Glass, Looking-glass, and Picture-frame Warehouse.
J. MAPLE and CO., entrance 148, Tottenham-court-road, the most convenient House in London, Established in the year 1841. Everything should visit these warehouses before giving their orders: it will be to their interest. Bedding manufactured on the premises.

P. and S. BEYFUS' £23 DINING-ROOM SUITE consists of Rosewood or Mahogany Chiffonier, with pillar and claw;
Telescope Dining-table, to draw nine, plate-glass back and doors
Cabinets recess, covered in red velvet or damask
Easy-chair and Couch
Six handsome chairs, stuffed
Fender, fire-irons, and fittings
Two pair rich curtains;
Superior carpet and rug
44 servants' bedroom complete.
City Furniture Warehouses, 91, 92, 93, City-road.

P. and S. BEYFUS' £26 BEDROOM SUITE consists of Superior mahogany bedstead
Palliasse and mattress
Goose-feather bed, bolster, and pillows
Wardrobe, with marble top
Dressing-table, with glass
Washing-stand complete
Chest of drawers
Four cane chairs;
Superior carpet and rug
44 servants' bedroom complete.
City Furniture Warehouses, 91, 92, 93, City-road.

P. and S. BEYFUS Pay the Carriage for Purchases to any Railway Station in the Kingdom.
P. and S. BEYFUS warrant and exchange any article not approved. P. and S. BEYFUS' Illustrated Catalogue, containing 400 Designs, illustrated by 300 Engravings, grats and post-free.—P. and S. Beyfus, City Furniture Warehouses, 91, 92, 93, City-road.

GARDNERS' LAMPS are the BEST.—The largest, most patronised, and cheapest assortment in London, Moderator Lamps, Palmer's Candles, Portable Gas-stoves, Gas-fittings, Chandeliers, Glass, China, &c. Established 1751, removed to her Majesty's, established 108 years, 453, Strand, Charing-cross, W.C.

GARDNERS' £2 2s. DINNER SERVICES of Stone China, Richly Ornamented in Blue and Gold. Best Solid Sterling Silver Table Spoons and Forks, Fiddle Pattern, £1 10s. per dozen; Dessert, £1 1s. per dozen; Tea Spoons, 12s. per dozen.—WILLIAM and GEORGE GARDNER, 453, Strand, Charing-cross, W.C.

CHURCH and HOUSE FIREPROOF SAFES—all secured by their Chubb's Patent Fire-proof Locks. Illustrated Lists sent free.—CHUBB and SON, 57, St. Paul's Churchyard, E.C.

PURE WINES of PORTUGAL and SPAIN at moderate prices.—HEDGES and BUTLER, Purveyors to her Majesty, and Importers of Wines, Brandies, &c. Pale, golden, and full-bodied Sherries, 24s., 30s., 36s., 42s., 48s., 54s., and 60s. per dozen. Fine old Vintage Ports, 36s., 42s., 48s., 54s., and 60s. per dozen. Sparkling Champagnes, very fine, 48s. per dozen. Terms cash. Price-lists and Samples forwarded.—HEDGES and BUTLER, 155, REGENT-STREET, and 157, 158, 159, and 160, Regent-street, W.

REDUCTION OF THE WINE DUTIES.
ROYAL VICTORIA SHERRY (the Wellington).
5*l*s. per dozen. Bottles and Cases included.
EUROPEAN AND AUSTRALIAN WINE COMPANY, LIMITED, 122, Pall-mall, London, S.W.
WM. REID TURNER, Manager.

T. KINGSFORD and SON'S PATENT OXFORD ALE AND STOUT for Bottling, Cantocks, Blanc-Manges, Cakes, &c., is the Original Patent, Manufactured by T. KINGSFORD and SON, Oxford.
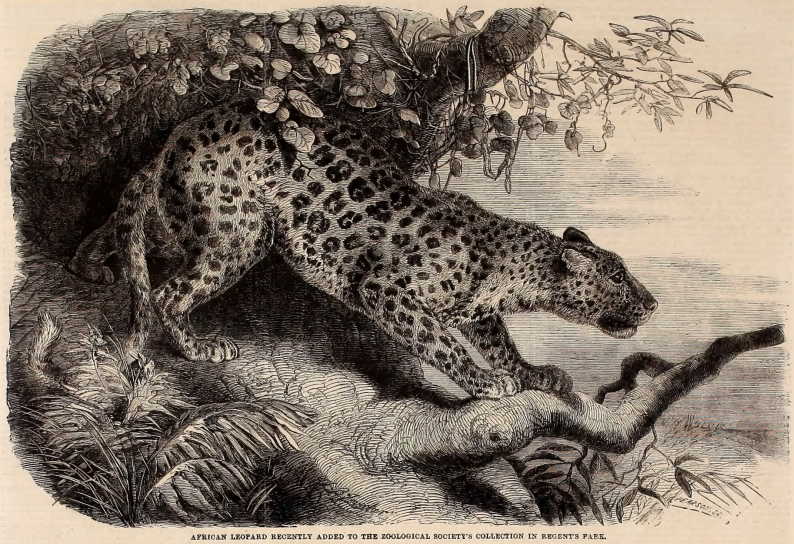
Wholesale Agents for New York, United States, Mackay; Boston, Borough. Horniman's Agents are to be trust in every town

ROBINSON'S PATENT GROATS, the most wholesome and best preparation for puddings, arrowroot. Persons of weak digestion or constipative habit would derive benefit from its use.
ROBINSON, BARLEY, and SONS, Purveyors to the Queen, 64, Red Lion-street, Holborn, London. Established 1764.

EPPS'S HOMŒOPATHIC COCOA.—Its active principle is a powerful agent in assisting nature to restore a proper nerve power in a paralytic brevetcy for Breakfast, Luncheon, or Supper, and Epps's Cocoa. Sold in 1lb. and ½lb. tin-lined packets, by grocers, each packet is labelled "James Epps, Homœopathic Chemist, London."



HOMŒOPATHIC COCOA.—HOLLOWAY BROTHERS' Homœopathic Cocoa is unsurpassed as an article of Nourishment, Strength-giving, Digestion, and Freedom of Self-cold Constitutions. Send by all Grocers, in packets, at 1s. 6d. per lb.

BENZINE COLLAS CLEANS GLOVES, &c. in a few minutes, without the slightest injury to the most delicate tint from the Hangings. Of all Chemists and Perfumers. Depôt, 114, Great Russell-street, Bloomsbury.

LEAP YEAR.—PIESSE and LUBIN'S NEW BOUQUET for the Season 1860.
"In Leap Year the Ladies may propose."—Old Saying.
The cause of many a Happy Marriage.
This and a thousand other sweet scents for choice in bottles 2s. 6d. each.
2, New Bond-street, W. (Copyright.)

KALYDOR SOAP.—This soap needs but a trial to prove its refreshing and beautifying effects upon the skin. Made by the inventor, J. TODD-JENNER, Factory, 6, Kingstreet, Holborn, London. 3d., 6d., and 8d. each Tablet.

SAUNDERS'S FACE POWDER, or BLOOM OF YOUTH, Emollient and Preservative of Beauty, and without nothing injurious. Packets, 6d. and 1s.; free for 8 or 16 stamps.
J. TODD-JENNER, 6, Oxford-street, W.

AFRICAN LEOPARD RECENTLY ADDED TO THE ZOOLOGICAL SOCIETY'S COLLECTION IN REGENT'S PARK.

SHOW OF CAMELLIAS.

AN exhibition of magnificent camellias has been held during the past week at Messrs. Milne and Co.'s (late Chandler's) nursery, in the Wandsworth-road, Vauxhall. The house in which they are exhibited is about 200 feet long, 18 wide, and 14 high. This nursery has been celebrated for the last fifty years for the great number of healthy and full-grown plants which it has produced. It was from this stock that some of the best varieties have been raised from seed—such as Chandleri, Elegans, Edimiæ, Formosa, Corallina, and others of that class. The main border of the house is planted with numerous large specimens from 10 to 12 feet high, some of them furnished with at least two thousand flowers and buds each, and those, on entering the house at one end, have a striking effect. Some of the flowers on the larger plants measure from 5 to 6 inches in diameter. On the front platform and interspaces of the large trees are thousands of fine, healthy plants in pots covered with flowers and buds, forming one brilliant mass from the ground to the top of the house. On walking round the nursery we observed numerous pots and nurse-houses filled with ten or twelve thousand young plants, all in fine health and coming forward in succession. This splendid show has been daily visited by numbers of the nobility and gentry, and the camellias will continue in fine bloom for another week.

THE AFRICAN LEOPARD.

THE Leopard which forms the subject of the accompanying illustration is the most recent of the numerous gifts of her Majesty the Queen to the Zoological Society of London, in whose gardens in the Regent's Park it is now exhibited to the public. It is a particularly fine example of the African variety of this animal, and makes a valuable addition to the fine series of the larger carnivora (or flesh-eating animals) which forms one of the great attractions of the society's menagerie. In no other spot in the world, certainly, can such a sight be seen as six lions, two tigers, seven leopards, four pumas, three jaguars, four hyenas, and nine bears of different sorts, grouped together side by side, furnishing the spectator at one glance with a view of several specimens of all the most noble and prominent members of the carnivorous order.

THE SHOW OF CAMELLIAS AT THE VAUXHALL NURSERY.

The carnivora belonging to the Zoological Society are fed on a judicious alternation of horseflesh, beef, and mutton—the amount of each kind of meat varying with the nature and peculiar condition of the animal. By keping them to a regular diet of fixed amount, and by great attention to cleanliness and ventilation, together with a sufficient amount of protection from the vicissitudes of the external atmosphere, the society have now attained to a system of treatment which seems highly conducive to the preservation of the health of these delicate animals, and deaths amongst them are a matter of quite unfrequent occurrence. Within a recent period the leopard, the lion, the puma, and the bear have all produced their young in the menagerie, than which there can be no more certain test of health and welldoing. At the present moment a pair of young leopards and a young puma may be seen in the gardens; and some young bears recently born there were only lost by an unfortunate accident, having been killed by another bear, which succeeded in forcing an entrance into their den during the momentary absence of the keeper.

The leopard (Felis leopardus), like others of the cat tribe, is common to Africa and India, extending as far as Sumatra, where the scarce black variety (the Felis melas of some authors) is known to occur. It resembles the rest of its kindred in haunting the woods and jungles, preying upon the deer and smaller animals. It lacks the courage of the lion or the tiger, though instances have been known of its attacking the natives when sleeping. Two striking varieties of this animal—the large one from Marossa and the black variety already noticed—are figured in Mr. Wolf's beautiful "Zoological Sketches" from individuals lately living in the Zoological Society's menagerie. The originals of these drawings are deposited in the society's library; but lithographs taken from them are now in course of publication by Messrs. Graves and Co., of Pall-mall, accompanied by explanatory letterpress, and are well worthy of notice as forming a series of pictures of animal life perhaps unequalled in truthfulness and artistic skill.

THE VOTING AT FLORENCE.

The Florence correspondent of the Times gives a graphic account of the scenes witnessed in Modena, Parma, and Bologna during the voting. He describes the train leaving Piacenza:—

It was just dawn when we left, and for the first few miles there was no sign of life in the snow-covered fields and solitary farmhouses; everything cold and immovable, the snow-capped Apennines in the distance, and even the high road to Bologna, the old Via Æmilia, which runs all the way to Bologna, parallel to and at a short distance from the railway line, was still as deserted as the rest.

This lasted for about an hour. Before we had arrived at Castèlguelfo, the last station before Parma, the world had awoke. The sun had come up and was wearing off the chill of the morning. The sound of bells made itself heard through the noise of the train. Solitary passengers and carriages could be perceived moving on the road. The farmhouses began to open their shutters and doors. In one word, with light returned life, and the great day for Central Italy had begun.

Scarcely had I pointed out these symptoms to my drowsy companion when we both heard distinctly through the noise of iron wheels and rails an unmistakable cheer repeated over and over again. We opened the carriage window, and not 200 yards from us on the great road we perceived a procession of country people, with the tricoloured flag in front of them, greeting the railway with "Viva l'Italia!" "Viva Vittorio Emmanuele!" They were the voting contingent of a neighbouring commune, who were on their way en masse to the chief place of the mandamento, which was precisely the station at which we had to stop next. It was little more than seven a.m., and the voting was not to begin till ten a.m. We had not yet completed more than one-fifth of our journey. And from this time up to the end of it, it seemed as if the whole population of the Duchies and of the Romagna was bent on a general hegira. The high road, which we were still skirting, was never empty. Smaller and larger detachments, with the indispensable tricolour, singing and cheering, were wending their way towards the larger towns. At every station, almost, where we stopped, similar groups were waiting or passing. As the hour of voting approached the tide seemed to swell more and more. It was a general picnicking excursion rather than a political act. The fine, bright day, no doubt, contributed its share to the general good-humour and readiness.

But both Parma and Reggio were always among the well-disposed; but how will it be at Modena, where the influence of money and landed interest has tried so systematically to work on the lower classes, especially the country people? Well, my doubts were solved in the most brilliant manner. Just at the station the main road from the Po district crosses the railway, and at this cross road a batch of several hundred country folks, with numbers of tricolour flags, bearing the cross of Savoy, and inscribed with patriotic devices, their sindacos and priests at their head, were waiting to cross, and for the first time I heard the Italian peasantry give a real hearty cheer as the train passed by.

The voting had thus in passing much more the character of a national triumph and holiday than of a contest. I scarcely saw a man on the whole road who did not exhibit on his hat the signal of annexation. Upper as well as lower classes were decorated with it. This impression was a hundredfold strengthened when we arrived at Bologna. There was not a house, not a shop, which had not its handbill with "Viva Vittorio Emmnuele, nostro legitimo Rè! Viva l'Annessione! Fedelta al nostro Rè!" As for the people of the town, as well as of the neighbourhood, the voting seemed altogether a matter of secondary form, the chief being crowding the streets, going about in procession with flags and music, singing, cheering, and rejoicing the chief part of the day. I had never seen a town capable of so much life, stir, and with such inexhaustible enthusiasm as Milan, and I can only say Bologna has to-day shown itself not less capable in this respect. The town is, if possible, even more adapted for the purpose, with those narrow streets flanked by those inimitable arcades, each of them capriciously different, but producing by their individual character a harmonious ensemble. As on all great days in Italy, windows and balconies were decorated with flags, carpets, and silk hangings, not a few with the arms of their owners embroidered thereon. Even the columns of the arcades had not escaped the adorning mania, and were clothed in red and green. The piazzas were the rendezvous for the processions, of which a number were parading through the town all day long. The students, the workmen, and the artisans of the different trades had all their processions, flags, and music, and went from one piazza and one polling-place to the other.

Church Rates.—The Lords' Committee on church rates have agreed upon their report, and it is published among the Parliamentary papers. Their Lordships deny that total abolition is desired even by Dissenters, as a body; and they recommend a scheme which consists mainly in the exemption of those who are willing also to resign their parochial rights in connection with the Church. It is also proposed to give legal facilities for enforcing the collection of the rate from those who do not claim exemption.

New Post Office Regulations.—A notice has been issued by the Post Office which mentions the alterations made in regard to the latest times for posting letters, &c., at the chief office, St. Martin's-le-Grand, for the provincial, colonial, and foreign mails. The time for posting letters by the morning mails is extended. Letters for the provinces by the evening mails may be posted up to 6 p.m. without a fee; till 7 p.m. if bearing an extra penny stamp, or until 7.30 p.m. with an extra 6d. stamp. Newspapers and book packets will be forwarded up to the same hours with extra fees, ranging from ½d., ¼d., and 1d. Letters can be registered at the chief office for the morning mails between 7 and 7.15 a.m., and for the evening mails till 5.30 p.m. Letters by the day mail to France may be posted without fee till 11.45 a.m. The notice includes an amended list of post towns to which letters and newspapers may be forwarded by the morning and day mails. Attention is directed to the necessity of depositing letters, &c., in the proper box.

Mock Suns.—A correspondent writes from Holbrook Farm, Trowbridge, Wilts, as follows:—"On Friday morning, the 16th instant, about twenty minutes after seven o'clock, my attention was directed to a remarkable appearance in the sky. The sun was shining with a subdued light through a thin, but long and narrow, band of cirrous cloud extending for some distance north and south of the sun on each side, and with a very slow motion, the upper and lower part of the sky being clear. On this band of cloud, on each side of the sun, and at the distance of about 18°, a portion of a ring was visible, extending to the edges of the cloud; and in the centre of these rings was a very brilliant parhelion, or mock sun, so bright as to dazzle the eyes. It was a beautiful sight, and appeared like three suns shining in the heavens. The phenomenon continued for about half an hour, when the cloud towards the south began by degrees to vanish, and with it the mock sun, the other remaining about ten minutes longer, when it also disappeared. The wind was throughout the day north-north-west, and a considerable fall of rain came on in the evening. It was the most beautiful sight I ever beheld."——A similar phenomenon was seen in the Isle of Wight, as we learn from the following paragraph in the Ventnor Times:—"An extraordinary appearance presented itself in the sky on Friday morning, the 16th instant, at about 8.30. The sun was shining brightly, and at a considerable distance, on each side of it, were reflections, having each the appearance of the sun itself. They seemingly emitted rays as the sun, and were too bright to look upon, in effect presenting three distinct suns. At the same time, to the northward, was a halo, having quite the appearance of a rainbow."

OBITUARY OF EMINENT PERSONS.

THE COUNTESS GRANVILLE.

The Right Hon. Marie Louise Pelline, Countess Granville, was the only child and heiress of Emeric Joseph, Duc de Dalberg, formerly Prime Minister to the King of Naples, and was born on the 6th of January, 1813. She was married, first, on the 9th of July, 1832, to Sir Ferdinand Richard Acton, Bart., who by her had an only child, Sir John Emerich Edward Dalberg-Acton, the present Baronet. Sir Ferdinand died on the 31st of January, 1837. He had, on the 20th of December, 1833, assumed, by sign manual, the surname of Dalberg before that of Acton. His only brother was the late Cardinal Acton. Lady Dalberg-Acton, the widow, was married, secondly, on the 25th of July, 1840, to the Right Hon. Sir Granville George Leveson Gower, K.G., second and present Earl Granville, Lord President of the Council. Her Ladyship, who held a distinguished position in the highest circles of the fashionable world, and who was beloved and respected by all who knew her, died on the 14th inst. at Brighton.

LADY DOVER.

The Right Hon. Georgiana, Baroness Dover, was the second daughter of George, sixth Earl of Carlisle, K.G., by his wife, Georgiana, eldest daughter and coheir of William, fifth Duke of Devonshire, and was sister of his Excellency the present Earl of Carlisle, of the late Lady Caroline Lascelles, of the Duchess of Sutherland, of the present Duchess of Devonshire, and of Lady Taunton. Lady Dover was born on the 16th of March, 1804, and was married, on the 7th of March, 1822, to the second Viscount Clifden's son, the Hon. George James Welbore Agar Ellis, who was created Baron Dover on the 20th of June, 1831, and who died in the lifetime of his father, on the 10th of July, 1833, leaving by her Ladyship's four sons, of whom three survive, and the eldest is the present Henry, third Viscount Clifden, and three daughters, of whom two survive—viz., Lady Bagot and the Hon. Mrs. Edward Coke. Lady Dover, to the deep grief of her family and numerous friends, died on the 17th inst., at the family mansion, Dover House, Whitehall.

SIR L. STAMER, BART.

Sir Lovelace Stamer, second Baronet, of Beauchamp, in the county of Dublin, was the eldest son (by his wife Martha, daughter of John Rawlins, Esq., of Finglass) of Sir William Stamer, the first Baronet, Sheriff, Alderman, and Lord Mayor of Dublin, an active and intrepid magistrate, and commander of one of the Dublin yeomanry regiments during the Irish rebellion, who obtained his baronetcy the 15th of December, 1809. His son, Sir Lovelace Stamer, the subject of this notice, was born the 29th of April, 1797, and was, early in life, in the Royal Navy: he served under Sir William Hoste, and was wounded at the battle of Lissa, for which, and the taking of Graon, he had a medal and two clasps. After the peace of 1815, Stamer entered the 4th Dragoon Guards, and retired a Captain in 1830. He succeeded his father as second Baronet the 14th of January, 1838. He married, the 25th of September, 1828, Caroline, only daughter of John Tomlinson, Esq., of Cliffe Ville, Staffordshire, by whom he leaves two sons. Sir Lovelace died on the 5th inst. at his seat, Beauchamp, near Dublin, and is succeeded by his elder son, now Sir Lovelace Tomlinson Stamer, who is in holy orders, and is a Rural Dean, and Rector of Stoke-upon-Trent; he was born the 10th of October, 1829, and married, the 16th of April, 1857, Isabel, only daughter of Joseph Dent, Esq., of Ribston Hall, Yorkshire, and has a daughter, Ellen Caroline. The only brother of the Baronet just deceased is the Rev. William Stamer, D.D., Rector of St. Saviour's, Bath, who married, first, in 1826, Anne Margaret, second daughter of Major Jeremy Lock, East India Service, by whom (who died in 1833) he has two daughters. Dr. Stamer married, secondly, in 1841, Eleanor Louisa, daughter of R. Houlditch, Esq., of Eldenham House, Hampstead. This family of Stamer, of Saxon origin, was long settled in Essex, whence the ancestor of the present Baronet accompanied Oliver Cromwell to Ireland, as a Lieutenant of Horse, and, selling his Essex estates, purchased large landed possessions, still held by his descendants, in the county of Clare.

SIR P. BUCKWORTH H. SOAME, BART.

Sir Peter Buckworth Herne-Soame, seventh Baronet, of Sheen, in the county of Surrey, who died, at his seat, Heydon House, Little Cheshill, Essex, on the 25th ult., was the eldest son (by his wife, Susan, daughter of —Simperingham, Esq.) of Sir Buckworth Buckworth-Herne, the sixth Baronet (who assumed, by Royal license, the additional surname of Soame). Sir Peter was born in 1793, and succeeded to the baronetcy at the decease of his father, in 1823. He married, on the 13th of October, 1830, Mary, daughter of William Bradshaw, Esq., but leaves no issue. Sir Peter had two brothers, John and Charles, the elder of whom was in holy orders, and was Vicar of West Hendred, Essex. This family of Buckworth Herne Soame springs from Sir John Buckworth, Knt., an Alderman of London, whose only son, John Buckworth, Sheriff of London, a celebrated linguist and traveller, was created a Baronet in 1697. His direct descendant was the Sir Peter Buckworth-Herne-Soame just deceased.

SIR R. A. FERGUSON, BART.

Sir Robert Alexander Ferguson, second Baronet, of the Farm, in the county of Londonderry, and Derg Lodge, in the county of Tyrone, M.P., was a scion of the Fergusons (originally Scottish), of Burt House, in the county of Donegal, and was the only son of Sir Andrew Ferguson, who was created a Baronet in 1801, and his wife, Elizabeth, daughter of Robert Alexander, of Boom Hall, in the county of Londonderry, and sister of Dr. Alexander, late Bishop of Meath. He was born the 26th of December, 1796, and succeeded his father as second Baronet in 1808. He was educated at Trinity College, Cambridge, of which University he was M.A. He was Lord Lieutenant of the county of Londonderry, and was M.P. for the city of Londonderry since 1830. He was in politics a moderate Whig. Sir Robert, who never married, died in Dublin, on the 13th inst., and, as he leaves sisters only, the baronetcy becomes extinct. Sir Robert's surviving sisters are:—Anne, wife of Lieut.-Colonel William Blacker; Sarah, wife of the Rev. William Knox, son of Dr. Knox, Bishop of Derry; Jane, wife of John Montgomery, Esq., of Benvardin, in the county of Antrim; and Eliza, wife of John George Smyly, Esq., Q.C., solicitor to the Board of Ireland Revenue in Ireland.

MR. BARON WATSON.

The Honourable Sir William Henry Watson, one of the Barons of the Exchequer, was descended from an old Northumberland family, to which belonged the celebrated Admiral Watson, who died in 1757, and to whom a magnificent monument was erected in Westminster Abbey, by the East India Company, for his valour and prudence while Commander-in-Chief of his Majesty's naval forces in the East Indies. It was this Admiral Watson who released the survivors from the Black Hole in Calcutta. The present head and representative of the family is the son of the elder brother of the deceased Baron's father, William Watson, Esq., formerly of Adderstone House, Northumberland, and of St. Osyth, in the county of Essex, whose eldest surviving son is J. Y. Watson, Esq., F.G.S., of Brixton, Surrey, and Thorpe Grange, near Colchester. Baron Watson was himself the son of Captain John Watson, of the 76th Foot, by his wife, who was a daughter of Henry Grey, Esq., of Bamburgh, Northumberland. Captain John Watson, who distinguished himself at the siege of Seringapatam, died suddenly when in command of the garrison at Nottingham, in 1797. He was seized somewhat similarly to his son the Baron. He was at the time at a garrison ball, and died almost immediately. He was about to retire from the army, and said, when dressing for the ball, he should never put on his uniform again. His son, Baron Watson, was born in 1796, and was educated at the Royal Military College, Marlow. He entered the British Army as a Cornet in the 1st Dragoons in 1811, became a Lieutenant in 1812, and was in Spain and France under the Duke of Wellington; he afterwards exchanged to the 6th Dragoons, with which regiment he served in Belgium and France in 1815. Retiring from the Army, he entered as a student at Lincoln's Inn, 1817, and was for several years an eminent special pleader, during which time many men since eminent in the legal profession were his pupils. He was called to the Bar by the Honourable Society of Lincoln's Inn on the 8th of June, 1832, and went the Northern Circuit, where, as well as in London, he obtained considerable practice, and was distinguished as an apt and able lawyer, and an advocate of sound judgment and fluent and eloquent diction. His amiable disposition, his lively and agreeable manners, and his high character and bearing, made him much respected and very popular among his fellow-barristers and with all who knew him. He became a Q.C. and Bencher of Lincoln's Inn in 1843, and was appointed a Baron of the Court of Exchequer in November, 1856, when he received the honour of knighthood. He was the author of two legal works—one upon Awards and the other on Sheriff Law. He sat in Parliament for Kinsale from 1841 to 1847, and for Hull from 1854 to 1856. Sir William Watson married, first, in 1826, Miss Armstrong, daughter of William Armstrong, Esq.; and, secondly, in 1831, Mary, second daughter of Anthony Capron, Esq., since Hollist, and sister of Hasler Hollist, Esq., J.P., D.L., of Lodsworth House, Sussex. The Baron leaves a family. His melancholy death occurred suddenly, on the 12th inst., just after he had, as Judge of Assize, charged the grand jury in the Court at Welsh pool, in Montgomeryshire. He had been ill for some time previously, and had, in his anxiety to fulfil his judicial duties, gone the circuit against the advice of his friends. His Lordship is most generally and deservedly regretted.

Mrs. Jameson, one of the most distinguished of English writers on the fine arts, died last Saturday night. We intend to give a Portrait of this celebrated authoress next week.

SCIENTIFIC NEWS.

Absorption and Digestion, with especial reference to the interesting tribes of zoophytes, infusoria, arachnides, &c., form the subject of the new volume of Milne-Edwards's valuable "Leçons de Physiologie."

Superheated Steam.—The new and extraordinary powers obtained by M. Testud de Beauregard in his mode of dealing with superheated or spheroidal steam are described by the Abbé Moigno in the Cosmos.

Photographic Collodion forms the subject of an important paper by Mr. Hardwich in the last number of the Photographic Society's journal, which contains also a letter by him respecting the collodion committee's report.

To Preserve Cords and Threads from destruction by damp M. Artus suggests that they should be plunged into a concentrated solution of gelatine for about half an hour, then suffered to become half-dry; afterwards soaked for several hours in a hot decoction of oak-bark, containing a small quantity of catechu. After drying, the cords are to be passed through an oily cloth, which covers them with a species of varnish and renders them more smooth and durable.—Répertoire de Chimie.

A New Artificial Illuminating Gas has been invented by M. Isoard. It is produced by the action of superheated steam on coal tar. Its analysis by M. E. Monier gives 1·8 of free oxygen, 5·8 carbonic acid, 3 carbonic oxide, 17·8 bi-carburetted hydrogen, and 71·9 proto-carburetted hydrogen. It thus possesses twice the illuminating power of the gas now in use, while it is free from sulphuretted hydrogen. It is said that an apparatus is in preparation for lighting a town with 30,000 inhabitants by means of this gas.—Cosmos.

The Baron Giovanni Plana, F.R.S., the Piedmontese Astronomer Royal, and President of the Royal Academy of Sciences of Turin, has been recently elected a Foreign Associate of the Academy of Sciences at Paris, in the room of M. Lejeune-Dirichlet, deceased. The value of the honour thus conferred may be estimated when it is known that his competitors (named by a commission composed of Liouville, Ch. Dupin, Flourens, Milne-Edwards, and Chasles) were Airy, Ehrenberg, Liebig, Murchison, Struve, and Wöhler.

Marine Illumination.—M. le Comte de Nettancourt has repeated lately his curious pyrotechnic experiment, which consists in illuminating the surface of the sea or a river by pouring on it the contents of a flask. The river was immediately covered with an intense flame which emitted bright sparks of various colours, and endured for about twenty minutes. A liquid employed for a similar purpose at Paris, by M. Niepce de St. Victor, consisted of highly-dehydrated benzine, combined with phosphorus.—Cosmos.

Green Colour of Leaves.—Many physiologists consider this to be due to an immediate principle named chlorophyl (green leaf); others attribute it to a mixture of different matters. Quite recently it has been found to be analogous to the colouring matter of blood, and to contain iron. M. Frémy has just laid before the French Academy of Sciences his researches on this subject, in continuation of his labours on the chemistry of vegetation. The result at which he arrives is, that the green colour is due to the mixture of two substances—one yellow, which he names phylloxanthine; the other, blue, termed phyllocyanine. He separated the former from an alcoholic solution of chlorophyl by means of hydrate of alumina. An account of the experiments appears in L'Institut.

The Chemical Society's Quarterly Journal (latest number) contains an account of experiments made by Professor Henry Buff, of Giessen, and Dr. A. W. Hofmann, "On the Decomposition of Gaseous Compounds by Electrical Incandescence." These experiments were undertaken in the hope that the slow decomposition of compound gases by the long-continued passage of electric sparks might be effected by the spark current of the induction-coil of Ruhmkorff, with such rapidity and precision as to furnish a simple experimental illustration of relations with difficulty attainable by other methods. Among the many gases examined, with various success, were ammonia, cyanogen, carbonic acid, atmospheric air, marsh gas, olefiant gas, sulphuretted and carburetted hydrogen, and hydrochloric acid. This number of the journal contains the exceedingly useful indexes of the titles of chemical papers in British and foreign journals published in 1859.

ROYAL INSTITUTION LECTURES.

Professor Owen's tenth lecture on Fossil Reptiles comprehended a description of the peculiar structure and dentition of the orders Crocodilia and Lacertilia (lizards). The former order is represented in our times by the gharrial or gavial of the Ganges (living mostly on fish), the crocodile, and the alligator, who dwell near rivers and marshes. The ancient crocodiles (Teleosauri, &c.) appear to have been more adapted for an oceanic life. Crocodilian remains abound in England, especially on the south coast—the Isles of Wight and Sheppey, &c. About two hundred years ago the remains of a huge crocodile were discovered at Whitby by a Quaker, who had travelled, and who recognised their similarity to the gharrial. They are now in the British Museum. Among the Lacertilia the professor especially dwelt upon the mosasaurus, a huge specimen of which, with a cranium five feet long, was discovered and excavated by a surgeon in the chalk of St. Peter's Mount, Maestricht, and which was claimed by the ecclesiastical authorities of the city, and eventually seized by the French in 1796, and conveyed to Paris. A cast of this cranium was liberally presented to the British Museum. The French, during the siege, abstained from firing on the quarter where the mosasaurus was located.

Professor Owen, in his eleventh lecture, on Tuesday last, after describing the peculiarities of the great lace-lizard of Australia, and other fossil remains of the order Lacertilia, entered upon the consideration of the order Chelonia (comprehending the tortoises of the land, and the marine and fresh-water turtles). The structure of the roof and flooring (as the professor termed them) of their remarkable portable habitation was fully described, with reference to both recent and fossil specimens; and the early traces of their footmarks in the triassic sandstones were adverted to. Chelonian remains abound in Britain; and more species of true turtle have left their remains in the London clay at the mouth of the Thames than now exist in the whole world. The remains of the largest tortoise known (about twenty feet in length) were found by Major Cautley and Dr. Falconer in the Sewalik Hills, in the Himalaya Mountains.

Professor Tyndall, in his tenth lecture on "Light," continued his lucid exposition and experimental illustrations of polarisation of light. In the first place, certain beautiful coloured rings of light were exhibited and explained. The polarising powers of various crystals were next discussed, and the lifelike process of the crystallising of certain salts was beautifully shown on the white screen, by the help of a microscope and the electric lamp. The chromatic phenomena of polarised light were well exhibited by skilfully-devised apparatus; and images of roses, tulips, &c., changed their hues to their complementary colours, becoming colourless in the interval. The lecture concluded with the exhibition of the remarkable crosses (alternately white and black) produced by a ray of light sent through a piece of Iceland spar placed between two plates of tourmaline.

Mr. Maxwell T. Masters delivered the Friday evening discourse "On the Relation between the Abnormal and Normal Relations of Plants"—Sir Benjamin Brodie, President R.S., in the chair. The object of the speaker was to show the difficulty, and in many cases the impossibility, of drawing any definite line between what is considered to be natural and what unnatural in plants. These difficulties depend on many circumstances, among which are—the very great powers of variation naturally possessed by plants; the fact that a condition which is unnatural or unusual in one species is the common condition in another; that irregularity of growth is by no means an abnormal condition; that a change may be abnormal in a physiological point of view, and may, nevertheless, be quite consistent with the assumed laws of morphology, &c. Numerous illustrations of these points were given, and allusions made to the great value of the study of the variations and malformations in plants, as affording the basis on which the now generally-accepted theory of vegetable morphology rests. The lecturer concluded with some remarks on the hypothesis of Mr. Darwin, and on the necessity of employing the utmost caution in making use of arguments derived from well-marked malformations, either for or against the doctrine.

Dr. Lankester, in his eighth lecture "On the Relations of the Animal Kingdom to Man" (on Saturday last), dwelt especially on the uses of bones (recent and fossil) as manures, and of gelatine and membranes. The modes of nutrition of plants, and the history of the application of manures (with especial reference to the labours of the great chemist Liebig), were adverted to. The nature and sources of the first mineral phosphates; the nodules, formerly called coprolites (now considered to be the ear-bones, &c., of fossil whales and sharks), found in the green sand and red crag, and their mode of preparation for agricultural purposes, were described. On the lecture-table were placed specimens (from Mr. J. B. Lawes) of manufactured superphosphate of lime. The importance of the discovery of vast quantities of native phosphate of lime in Spain by Dr. Daubeny, and by Mr. D. Forbes in Sweden, as sources of wealth to those countries, was specially noticed. The nature of gelatine, its sources (from bones, skins, fish skins and fish sounds, and similar substances), and their manufacture into glue, size, jellies, and isinglass, were next considered; and the innutritious nature of gelatine, and the danger of confining diet to that substance, were pointed out. The lecture was concluded by an account of the manufacture of gold-beaters' skin, catgut, and silkworm-gut, from the membranes of the stomach of the sheep, &c. Interesting specimens covered the tables.

SKETCHES IN PARLIAMENT.

EXCEPTING in the occasional though persistent efforts of the Marquis of Normanby to get up debates which he seems to think will tend to restore Toryism to the delicious status quo which that country has so cursed for the last quarter of a century, the House of Lords, during the present Session, has calmly awaited the advent of its duty of registration. In the conduct of the business of that House there is an air of decent domesticity which contrasts the wrangle with the habits of the Lower House, which in a private individual would be designated rakish, considering their fashion of turning night into day. If a boy were to detain their Lordships at half-past eight he spoke gives for obtruding himself at that late hour of the evening; and when, therefore, that House sat on the night of the debate on the treaty with France until past one o'clock, it will appear to be sitting in the Commons till, say, five in the morning. Nevertheless, when that House sits it is a full-dress debate it is set to work instantly to. Those who recollect Lord Taunton as Mr. Labouchere will recognise a marked improvement in his style in his maiden speech in the Upper House. In his Commoner days there was always a struggle between the most genuine level and efforts to be grand, which only ended in turgidity. His speech on the treaty was comparatively free from his old defects of manner, and was admirable as an exposition. Lord Grey is the Norman of the Lords, not only in the attitude he has assumed towards the present Government, but in the line of policy and argument he has adopted, and especially in the weariness which he has so unceremoniously thrown off. The most striking speech in this debate, however, was that of Lord Overstone, who rivalled in its tone the memorable Sir Robert Peel's style of speaking on trade, commerce, and tariff, has all the weight which attaches to the utterances of a man who has spent a lifetime as the chief adviser of Sir Robert Peel on these questions, and on currency to boot. It is hoped that it will not be a thing of one part, but we thought we detected symptoms of failure in Lord Derby's voice. It was occasionally shrill and husky, and did not fill the requirements of a house of the present dimensions which he pours out when he gets excited. On this occasion even the Emperor of the French would have thought that Lord Derby's scolding is magnificent. This debate, which deserved to be called great, began and ended like a great Roman road, in a bog, for the Lord Chancellor having been put down by a give a legal opinion, of course all those links between the peerage and the people who are known as the House of Commons were to the Lords must follow, and we had Lord Cathcart differing from the Chancellor, and Lord Carnarvon disagreeing with his leader, and Wensleydale doubting whether any of the others were right; and it was supposed that, in order to carry out that which the noble and learned Lord was to finish their education, an amendment would have been asked for to enable the absentee Lords—Lyndhurst, Brougham, and others—to come over and vote on the question.

There seems to be some reason why the question of the ballot should always be disposed of in Session of Lords' time. This year we had that subject before both Houses on consecutive evenings. What the Lords have to do with the matter, so far as its initiation is concerned, Lord Tyrnham, perhaps, may know; but, at any rate, their Lordships are entirely in accord with the Commons in the matter, and the answer of any member of the one House to be allowed to prance about on his hobby for an hour or so, then that member is to go back or laugh in the whole business, as the case may be, and then the inevitable adjourning of the division. Not that Lord Tyrnham "pranced," he is understood. Listening with a good deal to that noble Lord, one would say that that one was listening to a spiritual Peer, supposing that, say Bunyan, had been made a Bishop. But it is only justice to say that his matter was in admirable contrast to his manner. Does any one know reason why a Peer who is standing behind the woolsack, or, being a layman, is located on the Bishops' bench, when a question is put, is said to be technically out of the House, and his vote is disallowed? or why it is that when a Peer makes a discussion intervenes between the division and the declaration of the number Ayes and members noes, sitting, and the result of the vote? Both these circumstances occurred in the Lords the other night. The editor of Notes and Queries has reason to be acquainted with the practice of the Upper House will be happy to answer the queries of this custom!

Mr. Henry Berkeley is an accomplished joker of jokes, for he has the merit—a great one—of preserving the utmost gravity himself while he is entertaining the audience in a room. His pets, when discussing the ballot, however, are arguments, and there was a no doubting the earnestness, which, if even long attention to the question has rendered acquired, has not blunted the keenness of reality. In the present occasion, however, it seemed as if he was out of heart. It is true there was an evident disposition on the part of the members of the House to treat the matter more than ordinarily as a sham fight, but he was equal to the occasion. Mr. Berkeley's custom, owing to his lameness, when he delivers his speeches is to stand on the Opposition side of the table, at the place usually occupied by Disraeli, so as to be near the box in which the reports which stands there. On this occasion Mr. Disraeli was in this place, and, when Mr. Berkeley was called on, that gentleman turned round to the leader of the Opposition so suddenly that Mr. Disraeli, roused from his reverie (which, we assumed), started away with such a frightened gesture and countenance that a vote of censure was only inevitable. The tone of the debate was taken at once; and, as Mr. Berkeley was occasionally compelled to pause in order to allow him to laugh with him, they took it into their heads to laugh, not exactly at him, but at what he said; they grew impatient, as at the same time, were rude and intolerant of new members and maiden speeches, though, truth to say, there was something so tempting in the assumption and composure of one old-stager, accompanied as it was by a ludicrous lisp issuing from the folds of a thick beard, which conveyed to the ear the ravages of decay, that the most preposterous platitudes, that this once they might be excused for deviating from their usual gravity to appreciate. Lord Hartington was thoroughly caught the spirit of the hour, and played humorously enough with a topic which the general tone the debate had taken justified, the angry bowls of the Opposition notwithstanding. Two standing orders of the Session—Mawcroth and the Ballot—have now been disposed of, and both with unnecessary manner and warmth.

What is to be said about the Reform Bill? With pressure put on one, and squeezing passed out, we should say that, up to the time of this present writing, the debate has been a singularly fair specimen of taking a great theme. Nobody troubled themselves to be busy about petting places on Monday night, and nobody seemed to know, or cared to inquire, what course was to be taken with regard to the second reading; so that when Mr. Disraeli rose to open the debatethers was some surprise, and a supposition started up that he was to perform a Parliamentary coup. Of course, all the world knows that he did nothing of the kind; but it may be as well to early know that he made only good speech which he has delivered this Session. It was a masterpiece of ingenious, not to say sophistical, argument, and was delivered with a cool, sarcastic air which was wonderfully effective from its very quietness. He seemed to imply that the passing of the bill would amuse and please Lord John Russell, while it could not hurt anybody, for no one who heard him could suppose that all those terrible dangers which he stated to be lurking in the homogeneity of the new class of voters which the bill proposes to create were seriously believed in by himself. As he did not suppose that Mr. Gladstone would have anything to say to him in reply on this topic he was courageous and at his ease, and, as we have already said, made an excellent speech. Excepting, perhaps, Mr. Bright's only half-successful struggles to be moderate and the fact that the House positively listened to—no, not that—but allowed Mr. W. F. Campbell to speak for an hour and a half, and what that implies is not easy to express, the most noticeable incident of the debate on Monday was the speech of Mr. Bolt. The honourable and learned member quoted Hooker. Why did he not remember that that glorious old divine has come down to posterity with the epithet of "judicious" appended to his name? The panting, breathless state of shame into which Mr. Bolt has reduced the regret is the advance of the tide of democracy is positively distressing; but does he really believe that the deluge which he dreads will be postponed for a century by the rejection of Mr. Hodges's amendment? All we can say is that we sincerely trust that this able lawyer and amiable gentleman will not take his wife to diminish the horror of the spectacle which appears to be now before him, by the distance from it which elevation in the judicial bench will most likely create.

How easy about all the fuss with the subject of Parliamentary reform the House of Commons is may be judged from the proceedings on Thursday night, when the House counted out the orders for that day. The ballot was cleared off by half-past seven, and the only thing that really happened between the assumption of the discussion was a motion of a Cornish member about what are called "broadmen," on which no has twice before been counted out. On the wicked calculation, and the hope that the honourable gentleman with his pet subject required a large margin, this might have been disposed of by half-past nine. How often has not a debate on a great question been resumed at a later hour than that! November 5 has been early all the usual symptoms of a "count out," which was attempted in due time. The Government evidently were prepared to pay Lord John Russell back in a second coin for his defeat at keeping a House. The Treasury bench was full, quite full, when the motion was made that the members present be counted, and made, there was a show of bustle on the part of the Ministerial whippers-in. The Opposition benches were in a flutter and beckoned to imaginary members outside; and, at the last moment, when the Speaker rushed in with factitious breathlessness vigorously driving the usher of the black rod before him, it was clear that the count was for the time averted. But instantly all the members of the Government were counted out, and, disappearing in a few minutes more an audacious young senator repeated the cabalistic words, and the House was a second time counted out. On Monday Commons be said to be in a hurry to increase the franchise of the Lords. What significance in the fact of a Reform Bill counted out!

Perhaps the most amusing thing that has happened between the two Houses ought not to close without mention of one circumstance—we allude to the intelligence of Sir Richard Bethell. Apart from the merits of the question, the manner in which he has made a display of admiration at the mode in which the honourable and learned gentleman has conducted his scheme to the House. For clearness, precision, for that persuasive tone which, though it does not bring the hearer to the point of the accumulation of sound principles—for comprehensiveness of statement and for dealing with difficulties, Mr. Hodges's speech delivered in the House equal to Sir Richard's speech for many a long day. At least of the latter it is to be found in the fact that every one intended to it, though the subject was one of the most dry and intricate kind, though in reality an address that occupied some time, it was at its conclusion regretted that it have been given at greater length. We have been informed that a more romantic tribute has been paid to that speech than has been given to any one since the days of Beaumarchais some member of the fourth estate was heard to say that it was absolutely a pleasure to report it.

A VISIT TO THE ROYAL HOSPITAL OF BETHLEHEM.

ONE very gloomy Saturday afternoon in the October of the year last past a swift Hansom cab bore the prescript writer from the London railway terminus to the portals of Bethlehem Hospital. At Brighton, an hour and a half before, I had left beautiful sea, and bracing air; graceful seamews careering along the cliffs; pretty little yellow-haired children playing on the beach; and fashionable people, quaint and shingle, or staring at the porcelain sorcbats and indigenous donkeys. Here, in Bethlehem, all was dark, dismal, horrible. No delights were but a roar and a rattle, a few tunnels, and thirteen shillings to pay. Then the fog took possession of the train and its inmates. Then came Bethlehem, and I was ushered into the house of mountaineer: and we felt in all its severity the grim, uncompromising, narrow-minded, and unsympathetic character of Bethlehem. The fog, indeed, for a visit to Bethlehem.

We stood in a large courtyard before the great iron entrance-gates, looking on a vast smooth lawn of which the close-shavenness and perfect verdure suggested to my mind, of a rigidly-cropped madman's head. On my right hand was the long, dreary, monotonous façade and stately cupola familiar, as to its exterior, to most London people. Behind the gates and railings on the left were, I knew, the majority of dwellers in the great city as the inside of Temple Bar or New Bridge. Through the bars of the gates I wondered whether they kept the mad folks in that lofty dome—they must have the roof ring with their shrieks. Not, therefore, was it without an indefinite terror that I remembered that I was presently to cross the room on the gate-bell. An answer soon came, however; and scarcely without satisfaction that I found myself in the presence of another important lunatic asylum. We were permitted to pass along the carriage-road, with its fine lawn, and soon found ourselves beneath the peristyle of the hospital. Here we were met by a number of noble proportions, and remind one far more of the vestibule of a large theatre than of the entrance to a lunatic asylum. I had a look for Cibber's famous statues; but my companion informed me that, as a matter of fact, the lunatics in question were not. They had been banished the hospital, and removed, as mere relics, to the South Kensington Museum. In their stead I saw on the staircase a vigorous though unfinished work by Mr. Lucy Gaynor, a lady, I believe, the artist who has been for years a patient on the "Government side" of the house.

Pending the arrival of Dr. Hood, the skilful and benevolent physician to whom my introductions were addressed, I waited, and to whom we had sent our cards, we were ushered into a spacious apartment overlooking the lawn, and serving as a boardroom for the governors of the institution. Here I found myself in a geometrical-looking portrait—I should say a Hobbes, or an Archimedes—of Sir Peter Laurie, and in the middle of the room was a portrait of Sir Peter Laurie. Sir Peter is the beloved president of the hospital, and the governors have, in the usual affectionate way, placed on convex busses, with frames elaborately carved and gilt, the several presidents of the Royal hospitals, from the Tudors' time to Queen Victoria's accession. Lady Queen Anne is there, still some little time to wait, and there cannot be a better time than the present, I think, for a visit to Bethlehem, with its many interesting antecedents and actual organisation of this remarkable charity.

Simon Fitz-Mary, sheriff, gave, with certain lands in St. Botolph-without-Bishopsgate, for the foundation of a priory of canons, brethren, and sisters of the order of the Star of Bethlehem. Simon the Founder's tomb were on the south afterwards known as old Bedlam, now Liverpool street, Moorfields. It is described as an elegant Gothic building, and was destroyed in 1544. It was rebuilt in the same year Harry of the six wives, having in vain endeavoured to sell the hospital and the lands and tenements to the Corporation, made a virtue of necessity, and gave the property to the citizens, for a free gift for ever. Hence, I presume, the portrait of the obese benefactor over the marble mantel in Bethlehem's council chamber. The hospital had been an asylum for lunatics since 1402.

The present buildings were erected by Sir Robert Hooke, and cost £17,000. The portals of Hooke's Bedlam gates were surmounted by those stone figures sculptured by Gabriel Cibber of which I have already spoken. In George the Second's time two additional wings for incurable patients were erected. The average number of inmates was 150, and the hospital is described as consisting chiefly of two immense galleries, one above the other, divided in the centre by two iron gates—the male patients on one side, the females on the other. There were also some outpatients or pensioners, demented but not raving, and known as "Tom o' Bedlams," who were mutual plaies on their arms, and were suffered to wander about the streets and begs. Furthermore, to the shame of the eighteenth century be it confessed that Bedlam Hospital was, till the year 1770, one of the lions of London. The public were admitted for a wretched fee, which yet brought in a considerable annual revenue, to see the madmen "at all alive," just as they were enabled to see the wild beasts in Exeter Change, or, as a few years before, the bucks and men about town used to make up parties of pleasure to see the women dragged in and out of Westminster Bridewell."

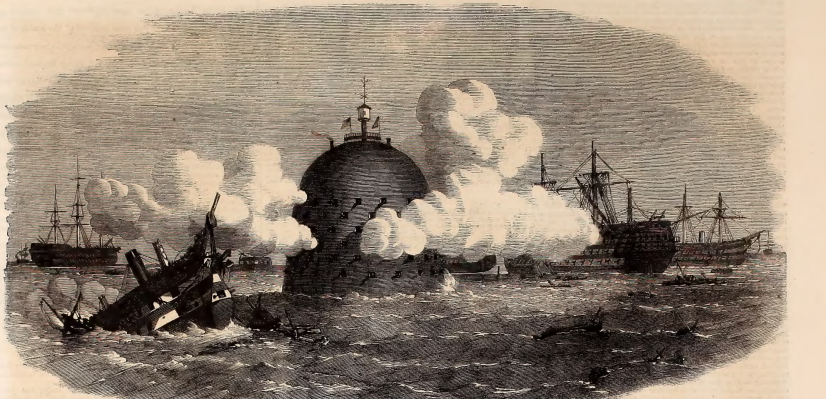
In 1799 the hospital (which had been built on the shifting rubbish from the City Ditch, and in the short space of sixteen months) was reported to be dangerously insecure. It tottered on, however, till 1810, when the site was exchanged for eleven acres in St. George's fields. The first stone of the present building was laid in 1812, and new Bedlam was completed in 1815. Two wings, of which the Government contributed £40,000, were built for the criminal lunatics, of whom the governors of the charity have had no welcome charge. More new buildings and the dome were added between 1838 and 1846; and the present structure is three stories high and 867 feet in length. The dome is 100 feet in height from the ground. The improved system of management was introduced in 1816; the system, indeed, mainly inaugurated at the Bicêtre and Charenton during the first Empire by the benevolent Pinel. The new system of management did not come before it was needed. The treatment of the insane up to the period named had been almost incredibly disgraceful. A narrative, even in outline, of the atrocities daily and hourly committed on the helpless patients in the Hospitals of Bedlam and St. Luke—outrages committed by the very hands whose duty it was by those wrested on the miserable wretches confined in private asylums would pollute this page. It is consoling to know that this new building is, as I have already said, the never the scene of horrors similar to those recorded in the dismal and obsolete chronicles. I am glad to be able to quit this theme, because so find myself once more in the boardroom with its evidence of the present, in its furniture and its pictures, of the new system, with Doctor Hood at our elbow, and ready, not to gratify an idle curiosity, but to assist in the performance of a steady and serious task. Quidnuncs and sightseers are by no means encouraged as visitors to the abode of the saddest sorrow with which the Almighty in His mysterious wisdom has visited this creature. Visitors admitted to inspect the establishment by favour of the governor, the president, treasurer, or physician, or by order of the Secretary of State, rarely exceed a yearly average of 500, and a large proportion of these consist of country gentlemen, clergymen, statesmen, scientific men, and the like. There must be, indeed, very worthy reasons for admitting any much from which hints may be taken in the present condition of Bethlehem for the new Lunatic Asylum statute of Regulation General tell us that here the average mortality is seven per cent. In other asylums the patients die at the rate of from thirteen to seventy-two per cent.

It is the home in mind that Bethlehem is not strictly a pauper-lunatic asylum. The criminal or criminal-lunatic, and the objects of a special care or of a special mercy; and, while the slightest recommend is given to the employment of patients, as will be met by the authorities, there does not seem to exist that feverish desire to utilise the patients—to make them "worth their salt," as it were, which is painfully palpable in the Lunatic Asylum Act. Bethlehem those who are able and willing are supplied with light and pleasant occupation about the house. There is nothing of the kind. Twenty years since all the world has heard is the celebrated system of "picking oakum" in the establishments of the "county" but no attempt is made to force the inclinations of the patients, or to set them irksome tasks; and a sedulous, though to them invisible, supervision takes place to prevent the occurrence of accidents in the dangerous tools and implements they may use while working at their trades or in the garden.

THE FEMALE GALLERY.

I have described this before the male gallery, as it is in many respects more interesting. The female side is a more cheerful degree the sexes derived from the absence of coercion and the substitution of amusements and light employments for a dull and rigorous restraint. The first female ward I visited was occupied principally by patients who were approaching convalescence, and it was easy to discern an approach to normality not only in the neatness and cheerfulness of the decorations, but also in the recreations and occupations of the inmates. The piano, which was now perfectly absolutely repulsive in the rooms devoted to the most refractory patients; but there is a marked and indispensable difference between their shoes and the polish of the floor which now appears. A large Illustration gives a faithful and graphic idea of the scene presented. The long room is covered with a carpet; chintz and cretonne fill little cribs and nicknacks of comfort and refinement. Flowers, artificial or natural, are scattered about the room. Further ornamentation has been resorted to in the way of climbing and trailing plants, and in the interval between each window is either a bust or a print neatly framed and glazed, or a coloured and illuminated text. The quantity of handsome busts and engravings distributed through the whole of the wards of the hospital is positively quite satisfactory. The engravings are the gift of the late Mr. Graves, the eminent publisher, of Pall-mall. The authorities of Bethlehem Hospital cannot be too highly commended for the wise introduction of an artistic element that mitigates and well-nigh nullifies the depressing influences of the place. Every where necessary for health and cleanliness is tempered to a cheerful hue, and polished oak takes the place of the dingy red or blue. Nowhere was the last place where I should have expected to have seen in beneficial operation the spiritual canons of Mr. Owen Jones. In the centre of the gallery will there is a cage—a large cage—full of the most enchanting birds; and, these little songsters seem to possess much power in soothing the sometimes savage breasts and in calming the troubled minds of the unhappy persons who dwell here. Heaven knows to what great extent the sweet singing of birds, when properly cherished brake and thicket the silver notes of the birds take back their poor wood-gathering mind! Heaven knows what dim and confused memories—reminiscences of childhood—is beguiled or an old perchance with a middle and no commencement or termination—are awakened by the sight of the feathered songsters!

From the side facing the line of windows lead at intervals the doors of sleeping-rooms. In each of these rooms are placed several beds, and in the interval between each window is either a bust or a print neatly framed and glazed, or a coloured and illuminated text. The quantity of handsome busts and engravings distributed through the whole of the wards of the hospital is positively quite satisfactory. The engravings are the gift of the late Mr. Graves, the eminent publisher, of Pall-mall. The authorities of Bethlehem Hospital cannot be too highly commended for the wise introduction of an artistic element that mitigates and well-nigh nullifies the depressing influences of the place. Every where necessary for health and cleanliness is tempered to a cheerful hue, and polished oak takes the place of the dingy red or blue. Nowhere was the last place where I should have expected to have seen in beneficial operation the spiritual canons of Mr. Owen Jones. In the centre of the gallery will there is a cage—a large cage—full of the most enchanting birds; and, these little songsters seem to possess much power in soothing the sometimes savage breasts and in calming the troubled minds of the unhappy persons who dwell here. Heaven knows to what great extent the sweet singing of birds, when properly cherished brake and thicket the silver notes of the birds take back their poor wood-gathering mind! Heaven knows what dim and confused memories—reminiscences of childhood—is beguiled or an old perchance with a middle and no commencement or termination—are awakened by the sight of the feathered songsters!



From the side facing the line of windows lead at intervals the doors of sleeping-rooms. In each of these rooms are placed several beds, during the day, in order that the patients may not be for one moment exempt from the kind and most strictly vigilance of the attendants.

I should entreat the reader to excuse me if the last Illustrations appended to this narrative are not set and studied pictures of Bethlehem in its holiday garb. I am merely transcribing memories of things taken as they came, and of the every-day aspect of the place. As artistic forms and effects they are not; simply they should be. Of the advancing figure in the immediate foreground of the female gallery it may not be impertinent to say a few words. She is a patient, and is hastening to the dining-room, for a breakfast a little delicacy of extra diet which has been ordered by the physician for one of her companions. At a glance the spectator will be impressed with the hurried and preoccupied aspect which characterises her, and with the anxiety and abstracted expression which disturbs her countenance. This poor young woman labours under the delusion that she is approaching the table of the Lord, that she will be too late, and that in consequence she will be shut out. Whenever she sees the physician, or a stranger, she assails him with questions and entreaties, all bewildered and incoherent, about the hastening the awful errand and that dreadful doubt. But I am bidden to forbear. And yet, of course, the most striking scene some strange characteristic trait might be given, some stranger anecdote related; but this reflection that almost every patient in Bethlehem Hospital will see this Journal and look on these pictures is sufficient to cause me to hold my hands and definitively to avoid personality. Let me hint, however, that the majority of the female patients have been either governesses or maid servants. Over-study with the former, religion—

* Not alone to us has the scandal attached of exhibiting madmen as a sight and show. It was with a party of Court dames that the Marquis of Worcester visited the Paris Bicêtre, and saw Salomon de Caux there; and, so late as 1851, Mr. N. P. Willis was enabled for a few pours to see the caged maniacs in the madhouse at Constantinople.

THE ROYAL HOSPITAL OF BETHLEHEM.—THE GALLERY FOR WOMEN.—SEE PRECEDING PAGE.

IMPREGNABLE IRON FORTRESS FOR THE COAST AND RIVER DEFENCE OF THE UNITED KINGDOM.

or rather religious hysteria and love—with the latter, have been the proximate causes of their malady. Seven years since the galleries of Bethlehem presented a very different appearance to that which they now do. There was kindness and there were comforts and necessaries; but there were none of those little luxuries and elegancies which are now so conspicuous and so beneficial in their influence. In this particular gallery, now so prettily painted, well carpeted, cheerfully lighted, and enlivened with prints and busts, with aviaries and pet animals, the walls were simply white-washed; the furniture was meagre; the windows were so highly pitched that the patient had only the dreary look out of the London sky. In those days there were no cheerful stoves nor ornamented chimneypieces; and the sleeping apartments were lighted only by small circular luceornes high above the reach of the occupant. In fact, that which was once a prison-cell has now become a cheery, domestic room. The sleeping apartment of a female female patient is furnished with a neat little bedstead with snowy drapery, a toilet-glass, a dressing-table, a cushioned easy-chair, and often much pretty decoration in the way of needlework d'oyleys and antimacassars. The reader will doubtless, and with some astonishment, contrast this description of Bethlehem with the accounts he has been accustomed to listen to.

(To be continued.)

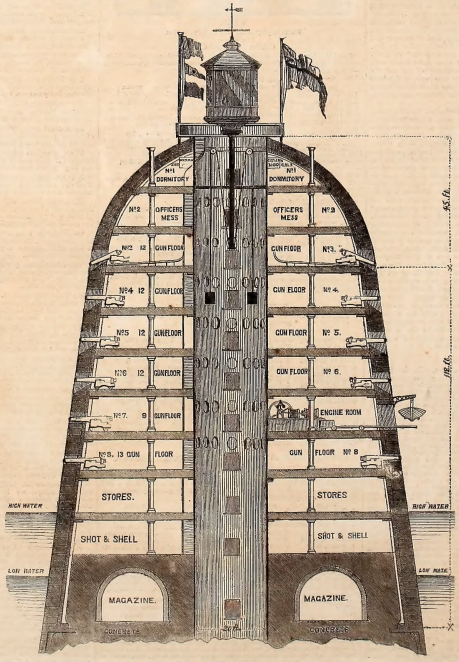
THE IMPREGNABLE IRON FORTRESS.

ABOUT a month since the attention of the public was called, at the London Tavern, to the defencelessness of the metropolitan port against the sudden attack of an enemy, by Mr. William John Hall, who upon that occasion propounded his scheme for protecting the Thames and London against any such hostile approach. The public-spirited inventor of the Impregnable Iron Fortress, assisted by his engineer, Mr. William Bush, demonstrated upon that occasion the fearful risk to which the commercial community would be subjected in the event supposed, and challenged for this plan the most rigid scrutiny. Subsequently the large model and sectional drawings of the proposed fortress were exhibited at one of the soirées of the Royal Society at Burlington House, where the details of the plan were submitted for the approbation of the Prince Consort and a large number of distinguished scientific visitors; and now, for about a fortnight, the subject has occupied the anxious attention of the élite of the Legislature in the tea-room of the House of Commons—Mr. Hall and Mr. Bush being in nightly attendance for the purpose of fully elucidating the merits of this original scheme. The general interest which has thus been excited among many of the most competent judges—including, as naturally would be the case, a very large proportion of officers in her Majesty's Army and Navy, is ample justification for our placing before the readers of the ILLUSTRATED LONDON NEWS pictorial and other means for forming an independent judgment upon the claims of Mr. Hall to the investigation and support he has invited.



In the voluminous pamphlet of Mr. Hall, entitled "London's Weak Point," it is made abundantly clear that the incalculable wealth of London is disgracefully imperiled by the absence of any proper means of defence against hostile attack. He also argues very forcibly that the erection of one of his impregnable iron fortresses on the Nore Sand, another on the Goodwin, and a third on the Maplin, would bid defiance to any attempt against London by fluvial invasion; and that the cost of these three fortresses, being under a million, is equivalent to an assurance of the wealth of the metropolis at something under three farthings in the pound, and therefore singularly economical.

There can be no doubt that the certainty of our being enabled to resist and repel an enemy is the very best security against any hostile attack being attempted. The Thames being the great highway of the nations of the earth to this world's emporium of commerce and trade, it reasonably occurred to Mr. Hall that the fulcrum of defence could be nowhere placed to greater advantage than at the embouchure of our metropolitan river. At that point the vast volume of its waters is divided by the Nore Sand into two nearly equal channels, and by one of which every vessel must needs enter. Upon that sand he therefore suggests the construction of his fortress, or of what might not inaptly be called his Turnpike of Peace. The nature of the proposed fortification may be readily understood from the accompanying Engravings. The diameter of the structure at high-water mark will be 120 feet, and its height from that line about 130 feet—the total elevation being 240 feet. There are portholes for seventy cannon, twenty-one of which can always be brought to bear upon a given point. The internal space will accommodate a garrison of fifteen hundred, whilst, upon the assumption that one-third of that number will suffice for all ordinary purposes, Mr. Hall suggests the propriety and social policy of training a thousand destitute lads from our streets into useful members of society, as sailors, engineers, or mechanics. The edifice will have for its base an enormous caisson, sunk through the sand to the solid substratum, and filled with concrete, whilst the exterior wall will be composed of cast-iron blocks, each of five tons weight, so dovetailed and amalgamated by fused metal as to form a homogeneous wall of iron, two feet in thickness, and absolutely impenetrable against all known projectiles.

The weight of the fortress will be, in iron, about 23,000 tons, making, with wood and concrete, a total weight of about 110,000 tons. Its magazines are to be formed in the solid concrete, and placed below low-water mark. It will be surmounted by a lighthouse, capable of being lowered into the capacious air-shaft, twenty feet in diameter from the base to the summit, and which will serve, among other important purposes, for pumping water by steam power from an artesian well, and raising powder, shot, and shell from the magnes, and stores of all kinds, from the lower to the upper floors. The entire building will be heated by steam passing through the hollow columns supporting the several floors.

Nor is the philanthropic provision of an ample supply of life-saving for the rescue of life in cases of shipwreck an immaterial adjunct to the valuable plan for the defence of our metropolitan wealth.

But what strikes us as the great peculiarity of the scheme is the utter absence of all minister or personal objects on the part of its promoter; for Mr. Hall puts forth the result of his gallant ingenuity and perseverance entirely at his own cost; seeks no patent; pretends to no infallibility; courts suggestions of improvement; desires only that Government shall do its duty efficiently and economically to the vast interests of British commerce; and, failing in that effort (if the possibility of failure in such an effort can be anticipated), offers to contribute largely towards a patriotic fund for accomplishing the great object of his laudable ambition.

SECTIONAL VIEW OF THE IMPREGNABLE FORTRESS.

THE FARM.

Mr. Mechi and his balance-sheet is still the agricultural topic of the day. The Alderman seems to have felt that it was hardly fair in him to answer one question by asking another, and that through the rather involved method of an "Agricultural Catechism;" and hence, in a second letter, he thus summed up his operations:—"My balance-sheet shows a gross return of £11 per acre, and a profit of nearly eleven per cent on the tenant's capital of £14 per acre, and a house to live in, rent-free, after paying the landlord's improved rental of 42s. per acre." On this "A Tradesman," who feels convinced that "neither Mr. Mechi nor his antagonists appear to know how to make out a balance-sheet," and that he has clearly a mission to make out one for them, remarks that the tenant's profit, from Mr. Mechi's own data, is only £135 16s. 8d., or a little over five per cent. Then Mr. Samuel Jonas tries his hand on the Alderman, and, after pointing out that the statement of annual produce in his Catechism and the Times' letter differs by £77 10s., and that nothing is charged for the corn and food consumed by the farm horses, he adds—"I know him to be a real, good, kind-hearted fellow; but, unfortunately, he is of an extremely sanguine temperament, and, not having in early life ever kept farming accounts, you must take no heed of his present statements." It is pleasing to be able to state that the Alderman is alive after this satire, and, good-humouredly, engaged in catching on his capacious Tiptree shield all the fiery rural darts that may be hurled at him.

The subject of over-preservation of game has been brought forward by Mr Corbet, the secretary of the London Farmers' Club, in an able and elaborate paper. He mentioned that the tenantry of a nobleman had been ordered, from game considerations, not to employ a reaping-machine, but that they had nobly resisted this dictation. Such an exposure is most timely; but, even supposing that game-preserving was not the most delicate of agricultural subjects, we doubt the policy of using such slang terms about preserving landlords as "Earl Wholesale and Retail," "at his Lordship's magnificent seat, The Slaughterhouse," &c. There can be no surer mode of "setting them" in a body, and defeating the very object for which the paper was designed. Mr. Alderman Mechi disputed the dicta of the lecturer that hares and rabbits were acting by day as well as by night, and that game did more harm on highly-cultivated than poorly-cultivated farms. His advice to farmers was to farm twice as high round the wood as they did anywhere else, so that "the vermin" might get a sweet bite near home, and not be tempted to wander afield. Mr. Hudson, the great cattle grazier, of Castle Acre, Norfolk, told of Southacre, the plaguespot of his district, where every fox gets his toes nipped, while five hundred hares are shot down on a battue day, and rabbits are sent to Sheffield by a ton at a time. His energetic English motto is, "Preservation to the game, pheasants, and partridges; and destruction to the vermin,—rats, rabbits, and hares." A strong feeling was also expressed respecting the letting of the shooting on farms, and one speaker described it as "a grievance which paralysed all energy, and extinguished all hope." Let us hope that the farmers have not been so outspoken in vain.

The sale of the late Mr. John Hall's (of Kiveton Park) shorthorn stock took place last Thursday; but the sixty-two lots did not quite average £21 each, a result which the local paper attributes to "the want of liberal feeding in the early stages of maturity." Mr. Hall's dealings had been principally with the American market. The first-class dairy herd of Mr. Adkins, of Milcote, near Stratford-on-Avon, will be disposed of by Mr. Strafford next Wednesday. The catalogue includes thirty-nine cow and heifer and fifteen bull and bull-calf lots. The main portion of the Milcote herd is directly descended from the Collings's purest blood, and thirty of the lots are in direct descent from Mr. Arbuthnot's Charmer, who was a granddaughter of Sylph. Londonderry (13169) and Mameluke (13289), the principal bulls, are from Sir Charles Knightley's best tribes. Among the females are Queen Anne and Welfare, by Baron Warlaby, and Wanderer and Festoon, by Kirklevington IV. We observe from a letter by Mr. Duckham, the editor of "The Hereford Herd Book," in Bell's Weekly Messenger, that the Herefords have been introduced with great success into Jamaica; and that the purchaser of the bull Sir Oliver (1732), which took the head prize there this year, as the best imported bull of any breed, won seventy-five pounds' worth of prizes at the same show with crossbred animals of the Hereford and native breed.

The Cumberland and Westmorland Ornithological Society have been holding a very successful meeting at Carlisle, which mustered strongest in the pigeon department, while Kendal quite carried the palm in canaries, of which there were ten classes. Fanciers from Lancaster, Sheffield, Liverpool, Birmingham, Bradford, Beds, "The Prebendal Farm, Aylesbury," &c., all sent pens of poultry, and the latter named was twice over successful with the first prize for ducks. Still the head prize of all—a handsome £8 service of plate representing the Four Seasons—for the best gamecock of any age or colour was not wrested from the Cumbrians; and a cock, the property of a very successful breeder and judge, Mr. William Toppin, of Warwick Bridge, in the neighbourhood of this "merrie citie" of eternal Blue and Yellow renown, was the champion from among thirty-six entries. At this season a warning from America, which is always great on egg questions, is worthy of attention, although many fowl-fanciers will, no doubt, consider it in a great measure fallacious. "It does not appear to be so generally known as it should be," says a paper, "that railroad transportation destroys the vitality of eggs. Pack them as you will, if they are carried any considerable distance, say one hundred miles, the continual shaking will shake life out of them. Travelling on the Haarlem road the other day, we met an acquaintance carefully carrying a small basket in his hands. We remarked that he handled his basket as carefully as though he was carrying eggs. 'And so I am,' he replied; 'I am taking them about one hundred miles to a friend, and will ensure every one to hatch out a chicken, so far as transportation may affect them. But I learned this by experience. I had a lot sent up the road only twenty-five miles in the ordinary way, and did not get one chicken to fifty eggs, while out of another lot carried in my hands in this way not one missed.'"

Visit of the Prince of Wales to Canada.—In the Lower House of the Legislative Assembly (February 29), after routine proceedings consequent upon the opening of the Session, the following despatch was read:—"Downing street, January 30. Sir,—As the two Houses of the Canadian Legislature will soon reassemble for the dispatch of business, it becomes my duty to inform you that the joint address to which they agreed at the close of their last Session was fully presented to the Queen, and was most graciously received by her Majesty. In that address the Legislative Council and Commons of Canada earnestly pray the Queen to receive in person the tribute of their unwavering attachment to her rule, and to honour with her presence her subjects in British North America, upon the occasion of the opening of the great Victoria Bridge, accompanied by the Prince Consort and such member of the Royal family as it may please her Majesty to attend her on the occasion. Her Majesty values deeply the attachment to her person and the loyalty to her Crown which have induced this address; and I am commanded to assure the Legislature, through you, how lively an interest is felt by the Queen in the growing prosperity of Canada, in the welfare and contentment of her subjects in that important province of her empire, and in the completion of the gigantic work which is a fitting type of the successful industry of the people. It is, therefore, with sincere regret that her Majesty is compelled to decline compliance with this loyal invitation. Her Majesty feels that her duties at the seat of the empire prevent so long an absence, and at so great a distance, as a visit to Canada would necessarily require. Impressed, however, with an earnest desire to testify to the utmost of her power her warm appreciation of the affectionate loyalty of her Canadian subjects, the Queen commands me to express her hope that, when the time for the opening of the Victoria Bridge is fixed, it may be possible for his Royal Highness the Prince of Wales to attend the ceremony in her Majesty's name, and to witness those gratifying scenes in which the Queen herself is unable to participate. The Queen trusts that nothing may interfere with this arrangement; for it is her Majesty's sincere desire that the young Prince on whom the crown of this empire will devolve may have the opportunity of visiting that portion of her dominions from which that address has proceeded, and may become acquainted with a people in whose rapid progress towards greatness her Majesty, in common with her subjects in Great Britain, feels a lively and enduring sympathy. I have the honour to be, Sir, your obedient humble servant, Newcastle. To Governor Right Hon. Sir E. W. Head, Bart."

A deputation from the Academical Society of Troyes waited on the Emperor Napoleon a few days ago to express their thanks for the donation which he had been pleased to make to the museum of that place of some valuable Merovingian remains found near the village of Ponan.

CHESS.

TO CORRESPONDENTS.

S. E. H.—If a player touch one of his men he must play it, unless, before touching it, he announce by saying "Jadoube," or words to the same effect, that he intends only to adjust its position on the board.

F. G.—No; it will not avail you; having given up the game, you cannot recall it.

, Chess Tourney at Boulogne.—A chess contest between eight of the best players belonging to the Boulogne Chess Club, English and French, has just terminated, the winner being Mr. Wood, an amateur, of Plymouth, who scored all the games he played.

Problem No. 839, in our last Number.—The conditions of this stratagem should be, "White to play and mate in five moves." Mate in four moves is not practicable.

C. Chambers, Dublin.—White then makes a Kt, giving check, &c.

W. Manners, Berwick.—It shall be examined.

G. B. F.—The variation is of interest, and we hope you will pursue it; but we should prefer seeing a stronger defence to your attack.

C. W. B.—1. Assuredly he can; but replies to such elementary questions should be sought from some friend or chess treatise for beginners. 2. The former, 5s.; the latter, 6s.

T. B. W. D., Rheys.—With the rival Pawns placed as you describe, if White play his Pawn to Q 4th, Black may or may not, at his option, capture that Pawn; but he can only take it on the following move, not afterwards.

Derevon.—They are right.

I. W. A., Bond-street.—Apply to the Secretary of the St. George's Chess Club, 20, King-street, St. James's, any hour between two and six.

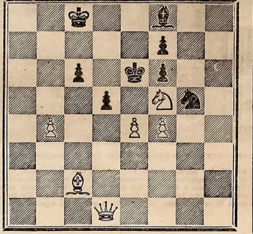
W. M. C.—We shall probably know next week.

N. T., G. M., and others.—Problem No. 839 cannot be solved in four moves. Mate is to be given in five moves. We shall reserve the solution for a week.

Solutions of Problem No. 839, by Ernest, L. D., M. P., I. H. W., Philip, Box and Cox, F. G., N. C., Harry, D. P. F., Omicron, B. G., H. C. W., D. H., T. F. T., Miranda, Derevon, P. U. B., F. R. S., Czar, Cynic, L. B., Schoolboy, Gregory, I. M. L., Gallia, S. A., C. R. T., Æneas, F. N., Delta, F. G. H. S., Lucio, R. S. S., C. W. B., Nora, C. T., Dover, Bridgworth, Medicus, W. P., Gemini, Autwerpean, C. Schnitzler, I. Dalkeith, Semper Eadem, Fanny, W. W. B., L. S. D., Felix, T. J., I. M., Peterkin, R. S., Jeames Plush, F. S. A., Little Dorrit, Max, Iota, C. L. N., R. H., Mynheer, Dred, Mrs. Partington, W. M. C., are correct; all others are wrong.

Solution of Problem No. 838.

WHITE.	BLACK.
1. Kt to Q R 5th (ch)	K to Q 3rd



(If K to Q Kt 4th, then follows 2. B to K 8th (ch), and mate next move.)

WHITE.	BLACK.
2. B to K B 7th	P to Q B 5th (best)
3. B takes P	Any move
4. Kt mates

PROBLEM No. 840.

By C. W., of Sunbury.

BLACK.

WHITE.

White to play, and mate in three moves.

CHESS IN SCOTLAND.

The following game is entitled to consideration, not on account of its intrinsic cleverness, but because it exhibits an unusual method of conducting the attack in a very favourite opening:—

(Scotch Gambit.)

WHITE (Mr. G. B. Fraser).	BLACK (Mr. G.)
1. P to K 4th	P to K 4th
2. Kt to K B 3rd	Kt to Q B 3rd
3. P to Q 4th	P takes P
4. K B to Q B 4th	K B to Q B 4th
5. Castles	P to Q 3rd
6. P to Q Kt 4th

(This is the novelty alluded to above, and the move, it will be seen, changes at once the form of attack, by converting the opening into a "Scotch Evans.")

WHITE	BLACK
6.	B takes P
7. P to Q B 3rd	P takes P

(If the Bishop takes the Pawn, then follows:—8. Kt takes B, and 9. Q to Q Kt 3rd, &c.)

WHITE	BLACK
8. Q to Q Kt 3rd	Q to K 2nd
9. B to Q Kt 5th	K B to Q B 4th
10. Q Kt takes P	Q B to K 3rd
11. Kt to Q 5th	Q to Q sq
12. B to Q Kt 2nd	K to B sq
13. Q to Q B 3rd	P to K B 3rd
14. K Kt to K Kt 5th	B to K B 2nd
15. Kt takes B	K takes Kt
16. B to Q B 4th	K to K sq
17. Q to K Kt 3rd	Q to Q 2nd
18. Kt to K B 4th

(This effectually prevents Black from bringing out his men, and, at the same time, leaves him in danger of losing a Pawn.)

WHITE (Mr. G. B. Fraser).	BLACK (Mr. G.)
18.	Q Kt to Q sq
19. Kt to K R 5th

(White prefers maintaining his powerful attack to winning the K B Pawn).

WHITE	BLACK
19.	P to Q 4th

(Cantabit vacuus. Black's game is at that happy pass he may do what he will without fear of making it much worse.)

WHITE	BLACK
20. B takes Q P	B to K B sq
21. Q R to Q sq

(He could evidently have won the K Kt for nothing.)

WHITE	BLACK
21.	Q to K 2nd
22. P to K 5th

(Again the Kt was winnable, but White loved better dallying with his prey than mercifully killing it outright.)

WHITE	BLACK
22.	P to K B 4th
23. Q B to Q R 3rd	P to Q B 4th

(By taking the proffered Bishop Black would have lost his Queen.)

WHITE	BLACK
24. Kt to K B 4th	Q to Q B 2nd
25. Kt to K Kt 6 (ch)	P takes Kt
26. Q takes P (ch)	Kt to K B 2nd
27. Q to K 6th (ch)	Q to K 2nd
28. B to Q B 6 (ch), and Black resigned.

CHESS IN THE METROPOLIS.

Game in the Tournament at the London Chess Club; Mr. F. Deacon giving the Q's Kt to Mr. Detmold.

(Remove White's Q's Knight from the board.)

WHITE (Mr. F. D.)	BLACK (Mr. W.)
1. P to K 4th	P to K 4th
2. P to K B 4th	P takes P
3. Kt to K B 3rd	P to Q 4th
4. P to K 5th	P to Q R 3rd
5. P to Q 4th	P to K Kt 4th
6. B to Q 3rd	P to K R 3rd
7. Castles	B to K 3rd
8. P to Q Kt 3rd	P to K Kt 5th
9. Q B takes P	P takes Kt
10. Q takes P	B to K 2nd
11. B to K Kt 3rd	P to K R 4th
12. B to K B 5th	Q to Q 2nd
13. Q to Q 3rd	B takes B
14. K R takes B	P to K R 5th
15. Q R to K B sq	R to K R 2nd
16. K R to K B 4th	R to K Kt 2nd
17. K R takes K B P	R takes R
18. Q to K Kt 6th	P takes B
19. Q takes R (ch)	K to Q sq
20. Q takes Kt (ch)	Q to K sq
21. Q takes Q P (ch)	K to B sq
22. P takes P	P to Q B 3rd
23. Q to K 6th (ch)	Q to Q 2nd
24. Q to K Kt 8th (ch)	K to B 2nd
25. P to Q B 3rd	Q to Q 4th
26. Q to K Kt 7th	K to Q 2nd
27. R to K B 7th	Q to K 3rd
28. P to Q B 4th	P to Q R 4th
29. R to K B 6th, and wins.

NEW VARIATION IN THE "STANLEY-SCHULTEN" BISHOP'S GAMBIT.

A correspondent favours us with the subjoined variation to prove that the attack in the K's Bishop's Gambit, invented by Messrs. Schulten and Stanley, which has latterly grown into disfavour, is perfectly sound and advantageous to the adopter:—

WHITE.	BLACK.
1. P to K 4th	P to K 4th
2. P to K B 4th	P takes P
3. K B to Q B 4th	Q to K R 5th (ch)
4. K to B sq	P to K Kt 4th
5. Kt to Q B 3rd	B to K Kt 2nd
6. P to Q 4th	P to Q 3rd
7. P to K 5th	P takes P
8. Kt to Q 5th	K to Q sq
9. P takes K P	B to Q 2nd
10. Kt to K B 3rd	Q to K R 4th
11. P to K R 4th	P to K R 3rd
12. Q B to Q 2nd

(This, it will be remembered, is the starting-point of Messrs. Schulten and Stanley's attack.)

WHITE.	BLACK.
12.	P to K Kt 5th

(A move which, by some players, has been thought to give the superiority to Black.)

WHITE.	BLACK.
13. Q Kt tks K B P	Q to K B 4th
14. B to Q 3rd	Q B to Q Kt 4th
15. B takes B	P takes Kt
16. Kt to K 6th (ch)	Q or P takes Kt

(If the King be moved, White can take the Bishop, winning a piece, as Black cannot safely attempt to gain the Kt in return. For example:—

16.	K to Q B sq (best)
17. Kt takes B	P takes P (double ch)
18. K takes P	Q to K Kt 3rd (ch)
19. B to K Kt 5th

And wins.)

WHITE.	BLACK.
17. B to K Kt 5th (double ch)
And Q mates next moves.

The section of the Bombay, Baroda, and Central India Railway from Amrolee to Poorwadi, thirty miles in length, was opened on the 7th of February, with great éclat, the Rajah of Baroda, the Resident, the civil and military officers, the Government native servants of rank, and most of the respectable people of the district being present.

EPITOME OF NEWS—FOREIGN AND DOMESTIC.

Mr. Henry Lockwood has been appointed paid Attaché at Constantinople.

Alarming accounts have just been received of the health of his Majesty the Shah of Persia.

Fires at Nagasaki and Jokuhama have destroyed a large amount of European property.

The restoration of the Red Sea telegraph brings England within six days' distance of India.

The corner-stone of a new United Methodist Free Church was laid at Scarborough last week.

The remains of the late Baron Watson were interred in Christ Church Burial-ground, Welshpool, last Saturday.

Two field-pieces captured in the Crimea have been forwarded to the estate of Lord Raglan, as a present from her Majesty.

The Emperor Napoleon has decided that a statue of the late Marshal Reille shall be placed in the Museum at Versailles.

Newstead Abbey is to be disposed of, under the hammer of Messrs. Pott and Neale, at the Auction Mart, on the 13th of June.

The deliveries of tea in London estimated for last week were 972,921lb., a decrease of 197,704lb., compared with the previous statement.

The Municipal Council of Algiers last week accepted the offers of Sir Morton Peto for the construction of the Rue du Rempart, in that city.

Edward Shepherd Creasy, Esq., has been appointed to be Chief Justice of the Island of Ceylon.

The Liverpool Law Society propose to establish a "Law Clearing House and Professional Exchange," of which any practising solicitor may become a member.

The bones of a human skeleton were found last week in an early Christian burial-place near West Lavington, in Wilts, and were pronounced to be those of a young Saxon female.

Great numbers of Bosnian rayahs are said to be crossing the frontier into Austria. The poor people say that the ferocious Beys intend to massacre all the Christians in the province of Bosnia.

A model floating washing establishment is now in course of erection on the Seine, opposite the Rue de Louvre. A steam-engine, four large boilers, water-pipes, and a drying-machine, are to be installed.

A screw ship of the line, called Massena, of 100 guns and 900-horse power, was launched a few days ago at Toulon. A vast crowd witnessed the operation, which perfectly succeeded.

The Lord Mayor's state barge is about to be sold by auction. The barge, which is built of British oak, is eighty-five feet in length and about thirteen in width.

The Weekly Register announces that a pilgrimage to Rome has been organised. A number of English Roman Catholics leave London on the 24th inst. (to-day).

Gatinelli, a distinguished dramatic artist of Italy, has just received the cross of the Order of Saint Maurice and Saint Lazarus from the King of Sardinia.

Baron Czoernig has been appointed as the representative of Austria at the fourth International Statistical Congress, to be held in London in July next.

It is rumoured that her Majesty intends, late in the summer, to have a grand inspection of the Volunteers in Hyde Park, when all will be "invited" to attend who can do so.

Mr. Albert Smith has announced that on the 5th of April his present entertainment will be closed. On that evening "China" will have been given four hundred times.

A printing-office and a lithographic establishment have recently been formed for the first time in Greenland, and a work published by it has just made its appearance.

Letters patent have passed the Great Seal granting the dignity of a Baron to William Brougham, Esq., and his heirs male, in default of heirs male of Henry Baron Brougham and Vaux.

The first journal ever published in Morocco has just appeared. It is printed at Tetuan, in the Spanish language, and is distributed gratuitously. It bears the name of the Echo of Tetuan.

The ballet-girl, Holke by name, of the Opera at Berlin, whose dress caught fire during a performance on the 24th of last month, and who was dreadfully burned, has just died in an hospital of that city.

We understand that the total sum realised by subscription for Sir James Brooke amounted to £9000. All efforts to induce the British Government to purchase the settlement are now relinquished.

An ancient usage, which dates from the times of Henry IV.—that of giving agricultural lectures on Sunday after mass—has lately been revived in some communes of France, under Government patronage.

The Queen has appointed James Walker, Esq., to be Lieutenant-Governor of the Island of Trinidad and its dependencies; and John Creighton, Esq., to be a member of the Legislative Council of Nova Scotia.

A testimonial, subscribed for by 664 workmen employed at the Woolwich Arsenal, has been presented to Mr. George Goldsack, on his retirement from the office of Examiner of Ordnance, after fifty years' service.

M. Louis Blanc will deliver a lecture, in English, at the St. John's-wood Literary Institute, on April the 3rd. The subject he intends to treat is, "The Mysterious Personages and Agencies in France towards the end of the eighteenth century."

On Monday a man named James Tiffin, a farrier, living in Bloxham's-place, Camberwell-road, committed suicide by hanging himself. A love affair appears to have preyed on his mind and induced him to commit the rash act.

The confectionery works of John Gray and Co., Adelphi-terrace and Commercial-road, Glasgow, were yesterday week destroyed by fire. Two firemen were much injured by the falling of a piece of stone out of one of the window lintels.

On Thursday week a congratulatory address was presented by the Royal Dublin Society to Captain Sir Leopold M'Clintock, the arctic voyager. The Lord Lieutenant of Ireland presided, and placed the address in the hands of the navigator.

Mr. Henry Stapylton having resigned his appointments as Recorder and Steward of Durham, in consequence of his duties as County Court Judge, the Town Council on Thursday week elected Mr. Bramwell as his successor in the Recordership.

A disastrous fire occurred at Barbadoes on the 14th of February. The greater part of Bridgetown, the capital of the island, was destroyed; and the loss is estimated to be £250,000, or even as much, according to some accounts, as £500,000.

A first enrolment of volunteer cavalry took place on Thursday week, and an inauguration dinner at the mansion of Walter Meller, Esq., Broadlands, Clapham, with whom the movement originated. The number enrolled is upwards of ninety sabres.

After seventeen years the commissioners appointed to compile a Dutch and Javanese dictionary have finished the first five letters of the Javanese alphabet—lo, no, tjo, ro, ko. The expense at this rate will amount to 816,000 florins (nearly £7000).

In order to preserve a photographic record of the Volunteer Levee, Mr. Kilburn, of Regent-street, has issued an invitation to all officers who attended the Levee to present themselves in uniform at his studio, in order that they may be photographed gratis.

Sir Francis H. Goldsmid, M.P., has sent to the University College a cheque for 100 guineas, as a donation, being Sir Francis Goldsmid's share of a testimonial voted by the proprietors of the Imperial Continental Gas Association to a committee of the directors.

The temperance orator, Mr. J. B. Gough, addressed an audience of 3000 persons in Exeter Hall on Thursday se'nnight, and at the close of the meeting a gentleman handed to him the sum of £90, to be applied to the purpose of furthering the interests of the movement.

A slight shock of earthquake, according to the Scotsman, has been felt in the valley of Upper Strathearn. The tremor of the earth was slight, but the shock was accompanied with a loud, rumbling noise, resembling that of distant thunder, and came from the south-west.

An obelisk, erected to the memory of the late Sir James M'Grigor, Bart., who was Director-General of the Army Medical Department for thirty-six years, and several times Lord Rector of Marischal College, Aberdeen, has been placed in the quadrangle of that college.

The visitors at the South Kensington Museum last week numbered 11,156. On Monday, Tuesday, and Saturday (free days), there were 5187; on Monday and Tuesday (free evenings), 3903; on the three students' days (admission to the public 6d.), 1494; one students' evening, 572.

Frederick Gye, Esq., has granted the free use of the Theatre Royal, Covent-garden, for a benefit in aid of the funds of the Royal Dramatic College, on Thursday next, the 29th inst. Most, if not all, of the principal members of the theatrical profession are to be brought together.

NEW BOOKS, &c.

Now ready, price 2s. 6d.,

WHO'S WHO? 1860. PEERAGE, BARONETAGE, KNIGHTAGE, PARLIAMENTARY GUIDE, &c.
"A complete epitome of that handy knowledge of the personnel of the public life of this country which every one requires to refer to."—Illustrated News.
London: Baily Brothers, Cornhill.

OLDEN TALES BY THE AUTHOR OF "MARY POWELL."
Cheap Edition, this day, price 2s. 6d. in boards,
THE COLLOQUIES OF EDWARD OSBORNE, Citizen and Clothworker of London.
Also,
THE HOUSEHOLD OF SIR THOMAS MORE.
Uniform. In preparation,
DEBORAH'S DIARY.
OLD CHELSEA BUNHOUSE.
Arthur Hall, Virtue, and Co., 25, Paternoster-row.

PERCY ANECDOTES.—New Edition, uniform with the First, at less than half the price. Twenty handsome vols, 2s. 6d. each, or forty Shilling Parts, forming an indispensable requisite to every library.
G. Berger, Holywell-street, Strand, W.C.

CASSELL'S HANDBOOK OF CHESS, containing a clear Exposition of the Game, Laws of Chess, Examples, &c., &c., just published, 12mo, cloth, price 1s.—Cassell, Petter, and Galpin, La Belle Sauvage-yard, London, E.C.; and all Booksellers.

Just ready, price 6s., cloth gilt,
ECHOES FROM DREAMLAND: a Selection of New and Original Poems by "FRANK NORMAN." Fcap 8vo, cloth, elegant.—London: Ward and Lock.

THE only correct SPRING FASHIONS in the LADIES' GAZETTE OF FASHION for APRIL. Price 1s.; post-free, 1s. 1d. 100 Paris Mantles, Dresses, Bonnets, and full-sized cut-out Patterns of New Dress (body and skirt) cut in one.
G. Berger, Holywell-street, Strand, W.C.

Fourth Edition, just published price 2s 6d; or by post, 32 stamps,
DISEASES OF THE SKIN: a Guide to their Treatment and Prevention; illustrated by Cases. By THOMAS HUNT, F.R.C.S., Surgeon to the Western Dispensary for Diseases of the Skin, 21A, Charlotte-street, Fitzroy-square. "Mr. Hunt has transferred these diseases from the incurable class to the curable."—Lancet.—London: T. Richards, 37, Great Queen-street.

PROFESSOR BENNETT ON CONSUMPTION.
The Second Edition, demy 8vo, price 7s. 6d., is now ready of
THE PATHOLOGY AND TREATMENT OF PULMONARY CONSUMPTION. By J. HUGHES BENNETT, M.D., Professor of the Institutes of Medicine, and Senior Professor of Clinical Medicine in the University of Edinburgh.
Edinburgh: A. and C. Black. London: Longman and Co.; and all Booksellers.

PARALYSIS, NEURALGIA, &c.: Their Curative Treatment with the Aid of Galvanism. By HARRY LOBB, M.R.C.S., &c. Cloth bound. Illustrated. Price 5s.
H. Baillière, 219, Regent-street.

NOW PUBLISHED, A PURE MIND IN A PURE BODY—THAT IS HEALTH. Sent post-free, 1s 6d., or eighteen stamps. A New System of Health and Medicine. The antiseptic treatment.—Baillière, 219, Regent-street, London.

FIELD'S GUINEA FAMILY BIBLE.—Large type, best binding, beautiful plates, and 50,000 references—a matchless volume. The largest Stock of Bibles, Prayer-books, and Church Services in the world, from 1s. to 20 guineas, at JOHN FIELD'S Great Bible Warehouse, 65, Regent's-quadrant.

THREE HUNDRED BIBLE STORIES, with nearly 300 Bible Pictures, a Pictorial Sunday-book for the Young, handsomely bound, price 4s. 6d., originally published at 12s. Sent post-free from FIELD'S Great Bible Warehouse, 65, Regent's-quadrant. Every family should have this pretty book.

25,000 BIBLES, Prayer-books, and Church Services, in every description of binding and type, being the cheapest, largest, and best-bound Stock in the Kingdom, at PARKINS and GOTTO'S Bible Warehouse, 24 and 25, Oxford-street.

WEDDING STATIONERY.—Patterns free by post.—The Newest and most Fashionable Designs, and Latest Alterations, including specimens of Card Engraving, Envelopes, "At Homes," Breakfast Invitations, &c. Crest-dies cut for 5s.
PARKINS and GOTTO, 24 and 25, Oxford-street, London.

NO CHARGE at PARKINS and GOTTO'S for Embossing Crest, Initials, or Address upon Note Paper and Envelopes, and the carriage paid to any part of England on orders over 20s.—added to these advantages, their prices will be found, upon comparison, full 6s in the £1 lower than any other house. 60 samples sent by post for 4 stamps; Crest-dies cut for 5s.; Address-dies from 3s. 6d. Price-list post-free.—Parkins and Gotto, Manufacturing Stationers, 24 and 25, Oxford-street.

COUNTRY RESIDENTS should send to PARKINS and GOTTO for their Guinea Case of Stationery. They undertake to send it, carriage paid, to any part of England, upon a receipt of a Post-office order. It contains 50 quires of thick Note Paper, 1000 Envelopes, 6 dozen P. and G.'s Elastic Post office Pens, 6 Holders, and a Note Blotting-book. No charge for case. Cheapest guinea's worth in England. N.B. 24 and 25, Oxford-street.

PRESENTS at PARKINS and GOTTO'S.

250 Reticules, from 5s. 6d.	200 Ladies' Dressing-cases. 21s.
350 Writing-cases, from 2s. 6d.	250 Pearl Card-cases, from 5s. 6d.
Envelopes and Stationery Cases.	Albums, Scraps, and Portfolios.
180 Desks, from 7s. 6d.	150 Dressing-bags, from 35s.
Scales for Letters and Parcels.	Glove-boxes and Letter-boxes.
300 Inkstands, from 5s.	150 Elegant Book-slides, 8s. 6d.
Chess and Draught Boards and Men	Tortoiseshell Goods. Pearl ditto.
120 Despatch-boxes, from 21s.	250 Pocket-books, from 2s. 6d.
Fans of every kind.	Jewel-cases and Key-boxes.
500 Portemonnaies, from 1s.	(My Books), in Lock-cases.
Pearl and Ivory Goods.	Tea-caddies and Tea-trays.

Illustrated Catalogues sent post free.
Papier-mâché Goods of every description.
Parkins and Gotto, Manufacturers, 24 and 25, Oxford-street.

PRIZE WRITING-CASE, 2s. fitted, or free by post for 28 stamps. The Society of Arts have awarded 20 Guineas and their Silver Medal to PARKINS and GOTTO for this case, for its durability, simplicity, and cheapness. Parkins and Gotto, 24 and 25, Oxford-street, London. Trade supplied.

NO CHARGE MADE for STAMPING PAPER and ENVELOPES with ARMS, CREST, or INITIALS. RODRIGUES' Cream-laid Adhesive ENVELOPES, 4d. per 100; Cream-laid Note, full size, five quires for 6d.; thick ditto, five quires for 1s.; Foolscap, 9s. per ream. At H. RODRIGUES', 42, Piccadilly.

WEDDING CARDS, WEDDING ENVELOPES, Invitations to the Ceremony, Déjeûner, and Ball, Printed and Stamped in Silver, with Arms or Crest, in the latest fashion. Card Plate elegantly Engraved and 100 superfine Cards Printed for 4s. 6d. At HENRY RODRIGUES', 42, Piccadilly.

WEDDING and BIRTHDAY PRESENTS.— Dressing Cases, Travelling Dressing Bags, Despatch Boxes, Writing Cases, Jewel Cases, Ladies' Reticule and Carriage Bags; Mediæval Mounted Envelope Cases, Blotting Books, and Inkstands en suite; the New Patent Self-closing Book-slide; also, a choice variety of Elegancies and Novelties suitable for Presentation; to be had at H. RODRIGUES' well-known Establishment, 42, Piccadilly.

ONE-GUINEA BOXES of ILLUMINATING COLOURS AND MATERIALS. Also, guinea-and-a-half, two-guinea, and three-guinea ditto. Fitted very complete.
WINSOR and NEWTON, 38, Rathbone-place, London, W.

TEETH WITHOUT SPRINGS.—GABRIEL'S TREATISE (gratis, or by post three stamps) explains their new system of self-adhesion and capillary attraction, combined by means of a soft, flexible substance with coralite, gum-coloured indiarubber (in lieu of bone or gold), which is warranted to remain pure and entirely free from taste or smell. They are fitted without springs or wires, and without any operation, with first-class materials and workmanship, at less than half the ordinary cost, by Messrs. Gabriel Dentists to the Prince d'Ottajana, Nos. 33 and 34 Ludgate-hill (particularly observe), entrance up the private passage, next Benson the Silversmith; also at 110, Regent-street; and 134, Duke street, Liverpool. Established 1815. See diploma.
Gabriel's Celebrated Preparations—the Patent White Enamel, 2s. 6d. per packet; the Gutta Percha Enamel, 1s. 6d.—may be obtained through any Chemist, or direct.
"'Gabriel's Treatise' should be read by all requiring a dentist. It will save much money and more annoyance, and, emanating from such a source, may be confidently relied on."—U.S. Gazette.
American Mineral Teeth from £4 4s. the set, warranted.

CAUTION to LADIES.—The only genuine KALYDOR is ROWLAND'S, so universally esteemed for its improving and beautifying effects on the Complexion and Skin. All other preparations under the title of "Kalydor," "Kalydor Soap," "Kalydor Lotion," &c., are impositions, and contain not a particle of the ingredients of the genuine article, the preparation of which is confined solely to the knowledge and practice of
A. ROWLAND and SONS, 20, Hatton-garden, London.

NEW MUSIC, &c.

DAV. ALBERT'S NEW VALSE, WOOD VIOLETS, price 4s; Duett, 4s.; Full Band 5s. The public and music trade are respectfully requested to forward their orders direct to the Publishers.—Venn and Co., 65, Baker-street, W.

THE RIFLE POLKA MILITAIRE, price 3s. By THEODORE OUESTMAN. Duetts, 3s; Full Band, 5s. As played at the celebrated Rifle Corps Ball, and received with the greatest enthusiasm.—Venn and Co., 65, Baker-street; sent for 18 stamps.

EVANS and CO.'S HALF-PRICE MUSIC WAREHOUSE, 77, Baker-street, Portman-square, W. Country Orders executed by return of post. Payment taken in postage-stamps. Catalogues gratis.

BEAUTIFUL DOVE, THOU ART WELCOME AGAIN. By CHARLES MACKAY, Esq. Music by WEST. Price 2s.; and for two voices, 3s. Acknowledged to be a most exquisite melody.—H. Tolkien, 27, King William-street, City.

PRETTY LITTLE CHANGES for PRETTY LITTLE FINGERS. A Collection of Popular Airs for the Pianoforte. In 12 Parts, 2s. each, containing four or five beautiful Melodies in each Part. Also, as Duets, in 12 Parts, each Part containing four Choice Melodies.—H. Tolkien, 27, King William-street, City.

NOT A MINUTE TO SPARE.—A Sacred Song. By TOPLIFF. One of this popular Composer's best productions; this is a song that every lover of harmony and good poetry will admire. Price 2s.—H. Tolkien, 27, King William-st., City.

TOLKIEN'S INDIAN PIANOFORTE.— This Piano, with its resisting power, concave bracings, and perpendicular bolts, is found, after severe trials in the EAST and WEST INDIES, to be the only Pianoforte ever manufactured capable of resisting the heats and damps of these climates. Height 4 feet. In elegant designs, including cases, 40 guineas. Illustrated Catalogues gratis.—27, King William-street, London-bridge, E.C.

TOLKIEN'S PIANOS. — Public Attention is called to a large assortment of the best Pianofortes in England, Rosewood and Walnut-tree Cottages and Piccolos, 6⅞ octaves, with all the latest improvements, some a little used, from 19 to 30 guineas. May be purchased on easy terms, at 27, King William-street London-bridge. Pianofortes for hire. Illustrated Catalogues gratis.

TOLKIEN'S 25-GUINEA PIANOFORTE, with easy terms of purchase, elegant designs, and various woods, 6⅞ octaves, is superior to any English or Foreign Piano at the price. Twenty-five years' test has proved the truth of this. Illustrated Catalogues gratis.—27, King William-street, London-bridge, E.C.

MUSICAL-BOX DEPOT, 32, Ludgate-street, NICOLE'S celebrated Large Musical-boxes, at £1 per Air. Operatic, National, or Sacred. Snuff-boxes, 14s. 6d. to 40s. each. Catalogues of Tunes and Prices gratis and post-free on application to WALES and M'CULLOCH, as above.

WATCHES.—A. B. SAVORY and SONS, Watchmakers, 11 and 12, Cornhill, London (opposite the Bank). First-class Patent Detached Lever Watches with the latest improvements and maintaining power, to continue going whilst being wound, recommended for accuracy and durability.

PRICES OF SILVER WATCHES.

	£	s.	d.
Patent Lever Watch, jewelled, enamel dial and seconds	4	14	6
Ditto, jewelled in four holes, and capped	6	6	0
Ditto, the finest quality, jewelled in six holes	8	8	0

Silver Watches, in Hunting Cases, 10s. 6d. extra.

GOLD WATCHES.—SIZE FOR LADIES.

	£	s.	d.
Patent Lever Watch, with gold dial, jewelled	11	11	0
Ditto, with richly-engraved case	12	12	0
Ditto, with very strong case, and jewelled in four holes	14	14	0

GOLD WATCHES.—SIZE FOR GENTLEMEN.

	£	s.	d.
Patent Lever Watch, jewelled, enamel dial, and seconds	10	10	0
Ditto, in stronger case, and capped	13	13	0
Ditto, jewelled in six holes, and gold balance	17	17	0

Gold Watches in Hunting Cases, £3 3s. extra.
List of prices with remarks on Watches, gratis and post-free.

DENT'S CHRONOMETERS, WATCHES, and CLOCKS.—M. F. Dent, 33, Cockspur-street, Charing-cross, Watch, Clock, and Chronometer Maker by special appointment to her Majesty the Queen.—33, Cockspur-street, Charing-cross.

BIJOU NEEDLE-CASE, containing 100 of DEANE'S DRILLED-EYED NEEDLES, for 1s. This neat, useful, and elegant appendage to a Lady's Work-table will be forwarded post free on receipt of twelve postage-stamps.—Address to DEANE and CO., London-bridge, E.C. Established A.D. 1700.

TO LADIES.—SEASON 1860.—Richly Perforated Tissue for Stove Aprons in an entirely Novel Style eight stamps per packet; six for forty stamps. White, coloured, or mixed.—ROBERT PETERS, Tovil, Maidstone.

LONDON CARPET WAREHOUSE. WAUGH and SONS, 3 and 4, Goodge-street, and 65 and 66, Tottenham-court-road, W.—Curtains, Portières, Chintzes, &c.

ALFRED GREEN invites attention to his STOCK of HOUSEHOLD FURNITURE, French and English Chintzes, Damasks, Carpets, &c., one of the most extensive in England, and for variety of style and excellence of quality unsurpassed. This establishment is unique in the advantages it affords to all who study economy and good taste.—Upholstery and General Furnishing Warehouse, 25, Baker-street, London, W.

BEDSTEADS and BEDDING.—The best selection of Wood, Brass, and Iron Bedsteads, furnished complete, and fixed ready for inspection, is at ALFRED GREEN'S Upholstery and General Furnishing Warehouse, 25, Baker-street, W. N.B. A servant's bedroom furnished throughout for five guineas. Lists free by post. Every article warranted.

BEDROOM FURNITURE.—The best kind is that manufactured by ALFRED GREEN of French-polished and japanned DEAL. It is lighter than mahogany, equally durable, and one-half the price.—Alfred Green's Upholstery and General Furnishing Warehouse, 25, Baker-street, W.

ROBT. GREEN and CO., late of 204, Oxford- street.—Cheap Polished Deal and Painted FURNITURE, at a third less than usually charged elsewhere, of beautiful finish and design, at their extensive Premises, 19, Langham-place, Regent-street, Portland Bazaar.

ROBT. GREEN and CO., 19, Langham-place, Regent-street.—Before buying FURNITURE elsewhere, you are solicited to inspect their unrivalled stock. A beautiful suite of dark OAK FURNITURE secondhand, at half its original value.

ROBT. GREEN and CO., 19, Langham-place, Regent-street, has also ON SALE a superior suite of second-hand MAHOGANY DINING-ROOM FURNITURE in morocco, a great bargain, and worthy of immediate attention.

THE NEW BREAD MANUFACTURE.— Applications for information respecting Licenses may be made to Messrs. PEEK, FREAN, and CO., Dockhead, S.E.; and, respecting Machinery and the Foreign Patents, to Messrs. BARRETT, EXALL, and ANDREWS, Reading.

OPERA, RACE, and FIELD GLASSES, in every variety of style and mounting, at CALLAGHAN'S, 23A, New Bond-street (corner of Conduit-street). Prices from 30s. N.B. Sole agent for the celebrated Opera Glasses and Photographic Lenses made by Voigtländer, Vienna.

BRITISH SHELLS.—Mr. R. DAMON, of Weymo, supplies Single Specimens and Named Collections. Priced Catalogue, 4d. FOREIGN SHELLS, a large stock. FOSSILS, ditto. Geological Collections. See list of prices.

NEW DWARF BEDDING TROPÆOLUMS. Tom Thumb, yellow, price per packet, 1s.; Tom Thumb, beauty-spotted, price per packet, 1s.; Tom Thumb, scarlet, per packet, 6d. For further particulars see Carter's "Gardener's Vade-Mecum," forwarded free of charge, on application to JAMES CARTER and CO., 237 and 238, High Holborn, London.

GRAND EXHIBITION.—6000 Camellias now in full Bloom at Messrs. MILNE and CO.'S, late Chandler's, Nursery, Wandsworth-road, near the Stag gate. Open every day, except Sunday, free. A priced and descriptive Catalogue sent upon application.

BROWN AND POLSON'S
PATENT CORN FLOUR.
The "Lancet" states
"This is superior to anything of the kind known."
The most wholesome part of the best Indian Corn, prepared by a process patented for the three Kingdoms and France, and wherever it becomes known obtains great favour for Puddings, Custards, and Blancmange; all the uses of the finest arrowroot, and especially suited to the delicacy of Children and Invalids.—Brown and Polson, Manufacturers to her Majesty the Queen, Ironmonger-lane, London.

BLIGHTS, MILDEW, BED-BUGS.— GISHURST COMPOUND, patented for preventing and destroying these and other pests—see "Gardener's Chronicle," "Cottage Gardener," and "Field." In boxes, 1s., 3s., 10s 6d. Retail of all Nursery and Seeds Men; wholesale of Price's Patent Candle Company.

CANCER HOSPITAL, London and Brompton. Special Appeal.—The Weekly Board desire respectfully to state that the expenses of maintaining the in-door patients at Brompton and the remedies supplied to upwards of 400 out-door cases very far exceed the present income. The benevolence of the affluent is earnestly entreated.
Subscriptions received by the Treasurer, William Loxham Farrer, Esq., 66, Lincoln's-inn-fields; Messrs. Coutts, the Bankers; Messrs. Hatchards, Messrs. Rivington, and Messrs. Nisbets, the Booksellers; and at the London Establishment and Secretary's Office, 167, Piccadilly.
By order, W. J. Cockerill, Secretary.

QUEEN ANNE'S BOUNTY.—The Half-Year's Dividends and Interest on appropriated Bank Annuities and Money, which will become DUE on the 5th, and PAYABLE on the 11th, of APRIL next, to Incumbents of Livings, are subject to the deduction of 5d. in the pound for income tax, as was the case with those respectively due on the 10th of October, 1858, and the 5th of April, 1859. Therefore the same Form of Receipt as was in my Circular Letter dated the 23rd of September, 1858, proposed to be used by Incumbents, is to be adopted on their application for the Half-Year's Dividends and Interest due in April next.
Chris. Hodgson,
Treasurer to the Governors of Queen Anne's Bounty.
Bounty Office, Dean's yard, Westminster, S.W.
March 10, 1860.

ART-UNION of ENGLAND.—Subscription, Half-a-Guinea. The entire funds of this Institution, less working expenses, will be devoted to the purchase of works of art to be selected by prizeholders from the public exhibitions in London. Prospectuses may be had on application.—Offices, 13, Regent-street, S.W., opposite the Gallery of Illustration.
Bell Smith, Secretary.

TO INVESTORS.—CONSOLS CAPITAL STOCK is a medium for employing and improving Large or Small Sums of Money in connection with Government Securities. The Stock is issued by the Consols Insurance Association, 429, Strand, London. Incorporated pursuant to Act of Parliament. Investments bear Five per Cent per Annum Interest, receivable monthly, if desired. Full particulars may be obtained on application at the Chief Offices, 429, Strand, London, to Thomas H. Baylis, Managing Director.

THE IRON BRIDGE ASSOCIATION, 58, Pall-mall, London, manufacture and erect Iron Bridges, Piers, and Wharfs of every description.
Agents wanted in California, Chili, Demerara, Jamaica, Peru, Trinidad, and Venezuela.

MONEY ADVANCED Without Securities.— National Loan Fund, 9, Adam street, Adelphi, Strand, London. Loans from £5 to £500 with Sureties. Loans from £5 to £200 without Sureties, at extra-risk premium. Bills discounted. Strictest secrecy can be relied on. Forms 2d. G. Lawrence, Manager.

DUTY OFF FRENCH SILKS. PETER ROBINSON, in anticipation of the Budget receiving the sanction of Parliament, bought, through his agent at Lyons, several cases of cheap French silks, which he has now imported duty-free.

NEW SPRING SILKS at One Guinea the Full Dress.
Patterns sent post-free.

Checks and Stripes	at £1 5s. 9d.	the Full Dress.
Plaid Gros de Naples	„ £1 7s. 9d.	„
New Jasper Silks	„ £1 9s. 6d.	„
Chené Silks	„ £1 9s. 6d.	„
Extra Rich Chené	„ £1 12s. 9d.	„
The Rifle Stripes	„ £1 15s. 9d.	„
Dorrity Check	„ £1 15s. 9d.	„
Gros de Paris	„ £1 17s. 9d.	„
Gros d'Afriques, in plain colours	„ £1 17s. 9d.	„
Brocades	„ £1 19s. 6d.	„

Several cases of rich French Silks, of the most elegant styles, from Two Guineas to Twenty Guineas.
Several lots of cheap Flounced Robes.
Cheap Moire Antiques.
Patterns sent post-free.
PETER ROBINSON, 103, 105, 106, 107, 108, Oxford-street, W.

NEW SPRING DRESSES.
Patterns post-free.
Now ready a great variety of New Fabrics suitable for the present and approaching season.
The "Jasper Droguet," a most distinguished novelty, £1 6s. 9d. the extra Full Dress.
The New Silk Challies, 16s. 9d., 18s. 9d., and 21s. the Full Dress.
Silk Poplinettes (in brilliant colours), £1 9s. 6d. the Full Dress.
An immense assortment of "Washing Mohairs," 7s. 9d., 8s. 9d., 9s. 9d., 11s. 9d., 12s. 6d., and 14s. 9d. the Full Dress.
Full Flounced Double Mohairs, (20 yards), 16s. 9d. the Robe, trimming included.
PETER ROBINSON, 103, 105, 106, 107, and 108, Oxford-street, W.

A CHOICE ASSORTMENT of FRENCH BRILLANTS, PIQUES, and CAMBRICS, fast colours, in every style of pattern, suitable for Ladies' Morning Wear.

A PRINTER'S STOCK OF FINE FRENCH ORGANDIE MUSLINS, now selling 25 per cent under value.

SEVERAL HUNDRED
RICH FLOUNCED BAREGE ROBES, suitable for Dinner, Evening, or Summer wear (20 to 22 yds.), 15s. 9d., 18s. 9d., 19s. 6d. the Robe, Trimming included, the usual price from 1½ to 2 guineas.
Patterns of all the above post-free.
PETER ROBINSON'S, 103, 105, 106, 107, 108, Oxford-street, W.

LADIES' CHENILLE NETS, 1s. 3½d., 1s. 6½d., 1s. 11½d., 2s. 6d.; thickest made, 2s. 11d.
With Gilt Ornaments, Stars, Rings, Roses, Arrows, Acorns, &c., 4s. 11d.
Silk Braid Nets, in all colours, 1s. 4½d. each.
Gold and Silver Nets, 1s. 3d.; with Tassels, 1s. 6d.; Coloured Beads, 2s. 6d.
Ladies' Purse-twist Hair Nets, with Solid Beads, 1s. 11½d. each.
Naples Cord Nets, with Steel Beads, 1s. 11½d., 2s. 3d. each.
Forwarded on receipt of stamps, and two extra for postage.
PETER ROBINSON, 103, 105, 106, 107, 108, Oxford-street, W.

FAMILY MOURNING.—At PETER ROBINSON'S FAMILY and GENERAL MOURNING ESTABLISHMENT.
This Warehouse is the most economical and convenient of its kind in London, and offers the best advantages to Families requiring Mourning Attire. The best articles only are supplied; and orders, large or small, are executed at the most reasonable rates.
Every article is kept ready made up for immediate wear, including Widows' and Childrens's Mourning; or may be purchased by the yard. Mourning sent to any part of the country free of carriage immediately on receipt of order, accompanied by a dressmaker or milliner if necessary.
Address as above, 103, Oxford-street, London.
(Established as a Mourning Warehouse in 1850.)

DUTY OFF FRENCH SILKS.
BLACK SILKS.—The richest, best, and cheapest Stock in London of Black Glacés, from 40s. to 80s. Dress.
Black Ducapes, from 20s. to 70s. Dress.
Black Royales, 50s. to 90s. Dress.
Black Figures and Stripes, from 42s. to 80s. Dress.
Patterns free.
Moire Antiques and Flounced Silk Robes, from 58s 6d. to ten guineas.
Rich Silk Skirts, elegantly trimmed, with or without crape, exceedingly cheap.
At PETER ROBINSON'S FAMILY MOURNING WAREHOUSE, 103, Oxford-street. Patterns free.

MOURNING MANTLES and BONNETS, the Newest and Prettiest Shapes, and the Largest Stock in London to select from at the most Moderate Prices, at PETER ROBINSON'S FAMILY and GENERAL MOURNING WAREHOUSE, 103, Oxford-street, London.

BLACK and HALF-MOURNING FABRICS. New Materials in beautiful textures for the present season.
Patterns free.
Address, PETER ROBINSON, Family Mourning Warehouse, 103, Oxford-street, London.

BLACK BAREGES that will not split, and GRENADINES of superior permanent dye, manufactured to order expressly for this Warehouse.
Also the CRAPE BALZARINE so universally admired, in new and improved makes.
Patterns of the various new makes free.
Address PETER ROBINSON, FAMILY MOURNING WAREHOUSE, 103, Oxford-street, London.

VALENCIENNES LACE, made with genuine linen thread, scarcely distinguishable from the real French, very durable, yet sold at one-tenth of the price. Samples post-free. BAKER and DOWDEN, Upper Eaton-street, Eaton-square, S.W.

DO YOU WISH YOUR CHILDREN WELL DRESSED? Take them to D. NICHOLSON and CO., 51 and 52, St. Paul's-churchyard. The largest stock of Infants' and Children's Dresses in London. Send for D. N. and Co.'s Plan of Juvenile Fashions for the Season. Contains 32 Engravings. Post-free.

2s. 6d. LADIES'! 2s. 9d. GENTLEMEN'S!! Very Best PARIS KID GLOVES.
1s. 6d. Ladies'. 1s. 6d. Gentlemen's, best Alpine Kid.—BAKER and CRISP, 221, Regent-street. Samples sent for two extra stamps.

LAST YEAR'S MUSLINS!—BARÈGES!! Balzarines, Mohairs, &c., at half the original cost.
Patterns sent free.
BAKER and CRISP, 221, Regent street (entrance Maddox-street).

MOIRE ANTIQUE.—Patterns post-free!!! The Royal Court Moire Antiques, worth £4, in every colour, for 2 guineas.
BLACK SILKS.—Rich Black Ducapes, £1 5s. 6d. full Robe.
BAKER and CRISP, 221, Regent-street (entrance Maddox-street).

---

25 PER CENT CHEAPER!! than any House in the World. Patterns sent free.
The New Mohairs, Barèges, Balzarines, Llamas, Grenadines, Brilliants, Cambrics, Muslins, &c., &c.
BAKER and CRISP, 221, Regent-street (only entrance Maddox-street).

SLIGHTLY SOILED FINE FRENCH CAMBRIC HANDKERCHIEFS at less than half-price.
Ladies' and Gentlemen's Goods that were 1, 2, 3 guineas the dozen, now selling for 10s. 6d., 15s., 21s. Hemmed stitched and bordered.
BAKER and CRISP, Regent-street (entrance Maddox-street).

OUR READY-MADE DRESSES!!! Engravings and Patterns post-free.
BAKER and CRISP, Regent-street (entrance Maddox-street).

NEW SPRING DRESSES.
Patterns post-free.
Every Novelty now ready.

New Pomilla	8s. 9d. and 10s. 9d.	Full Dress.
New Textores, in great variety	12s. 9d. to 21s.	„
New Castilla, a great novelty	25s. 6d.	„
A lot of Check and Stripe Mohairs	6s. 9d., 8s. 9d., 10s. 9d.	„

Last year's Muslins Half-price.
KNIGHT and COMPANY, SPONSALIA, 217, Regent-street.

READY-MADE DRESSES.
Designs and Patterns post-free.
New Cambrics, 8s. 9d. to 12s. 6d.
New Mohairs, beautifully trimmed, 14s. 9d. to 2 Guineas.
The largest assortment in the world.
KNIGHT and COMPANY, SPONSALIA, 217, Regent-street.

HOUSEHOLD LINEN DEPARTMENT.— JOHN HARVEY, SON, and CO., of 9, Ludgate-hill, established upwards of fifty years, will send pattern or samples free, for inspection or comparison, of their rich DOUBLE DAMASK TABLE CLOTHS, with Napkins and Slip-cloths to match, diaper and damask, by the yard, 6-4, 7-4, 8-4, and 10-4 wide; sheetings in width from 1 to 3½ yards; cotton sheeting from 1 to 3 yards wide; huckabacks, medical, Baden-Baden, roll towellings, glass and knife cloths, dusters, &c., made up and marked upon the shortest notice. Carriage paid upon amounts above £5. Families waited upon at home in London.

SILKS, Rich, Plain, Striped, and Checked Glacé, at 22s. 6d. per Dress of 12 yards, well worth the attention of families. Patterns sent free by post. Also patterns and prices of their rich stock of silks.—JOHN HARVEY, SON, and CO., 9, Ludgate-hill. Established upwards of 50 years. Carriage paid upon amounts above £5.

FRENCH GLACE and other rich Silks, Velvets, Gloves, &c., &c.—Manufacturers of France are invited to send samples or patterns, and prices, for immediate cash, to JOHN HARVEY, SON, and CO., 9, Ludgate-hill, London, to be delivered duty-free.

MOIRES ANTIQUES.—SEWELL and CO. are NOW SELLING the richest MOIRES ANTIQUES in London, at 4½ guineas the Dress, in all Colours.—COMPTON HOUSE, Frith-street, Soho. N.B. 500 Flounced Barège Robes, 16s. 6d.

FRENCH SILKS DUTY FREE. GRANT and GASK (late Williams and Co.) have just received a large importation of New French Silks, which they are enabled to sell at greatly-reduced prices in consequence of the abolition of the duty. Grant and Gask beg also to state that the whole of their extensive Stock of French Silks, Barèges, &c., have been reduced in price from 10 to 15 per cent. Orders for Wedding Trousseaux, Court Trains, and Family Mourning executed in the first style, under the superintendence of an experienced manager.
Patterns forwarded to the Country.
59, 60, 61, and 62, Oxford-street; and 3, 4, and 5, Wells-street.

IMPORTANT to LADIES requiring READY- MADE LINEN of first-rate material and sewing, at most moderate prices. Books of prices, &c., free by post, by addressing "Ladies Department," WHITELOCK and SON, Outfitters, 166, Strand.—N.B. Opposite the Church, near Somerset House.

CHRISTENING ROBES, 2½ Guineas.
Babies' Cloaks, 1 Guinea.
53, Baker-street.
Mrs. W. G. TAYLOR.

BABIES' BERCEAUNETTES,
2½ Guineas.
Baskets to match, 1 Guinea.
Mrs. W. G. TAYLOR, 53, Baker-street.

MARRIAGE OUTFITS.
Cotton Hoisery, 2s. 6d.
White Dressing Gowns, One Guinea.
Real Balbriggan Hoisery.
Mrs. W. G. TAYLOR, 53, Baker-street.

LINSEY RIDING HABITS for LITTLE GIRLS, 2½ Guineas.
Ladies' Riding Habits, 5½ to 8 Guineas.
W. G. TAYLOR, 53, Baker-street.

LADIES' RIDING TROUSERS,
Chamois Leather, with black feet.
53, Baker-street.
W. G. TAYLOR

LINENDRAPERS TO THE QUEEN BY APPOINTMENT.
Established in 1788.
BABIES' BASSINETS,
Trimmed and Furnished ready for use, and sent home free of carriage.
BABIES' BASKETS,
Trimmed and Furnished to correspond.
CAPPER, SON, and CO., 69, Gracechurch-street, London, E.C.
Descriptive Lists, with Prices, sent free by post.

Sent post-free, Descriptive Lists of
COMPLETE SETS of BABY LINEN, which are sent home throughout the kingdom free of carriage.
UNDERCLOTHING FOR HOME, INDIA, AND THE COLONIES for Ladies and Children of all ages.

LINENDRAPERS TO THE QUEEN BY APPOINTMENT.
Established in 1778.
LADIES' WEDDING OUTFITS, sent home free of carriage.
Descriptive Lists, with Prices, sent free by post.
CAPPER, SON, and CO., 69, Gracechurch-street, London, E.C.

BOYS' DRESSES, for SCHOOL or WALKING.
The Knickerbocker Suit complete, from 15s.
The Cambridge Suit complete, from 18s.
Comprising either an elegant Tunic and Trousers, or a Pocket-Vest and Trousers, made in all the new Melton and Heather Cloths adapted to the season, and allowed to be the prettiest and most serviceable costumes ever introduced for Boys
D. NICHOLSON and COMPANY,
51 and 52, St Paul's-churchyard,
E.C.
Complete suits for children of every age sent to any part of the kingdom at a moment's notice.

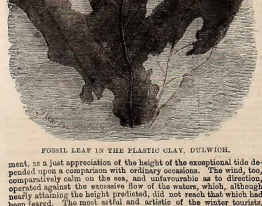
WREATHS and HEADDRESSES, in choice and extensive variety, at moderate prices. G. W. JONES, 101, Oxford-street, corner of Portland-street, near the Circus.

OUTFITS for INDIA and CHINA supplied by THRESHER and GLENNY, 152, Strand, London.

WANTED LEFT-OF CLOTHES, Uniforms Furniture, Miscellaneous Property, &c. The highest price given. Ladies or Gentlemen waited on by addressing to Mr. or Mrs. G. HYAM, 10, Beak-street, Regent-street, W.; or Parcels being sent, the utmost value in cash immediately remitted. Established 1820.

WANTED to PURCHASE LEFT-OFF CLOTHES, Regimentals, Jewellery, Plate, &c. for Cash, of all descriptions. Ladies and Gentlemen attended by Mr. or Mrs. DAVIS, 46A, Duke-street, and 48, Marylebone-lane, Manchester-square, W. Parcels sent. P. O. orders remitted. Established 1800.

WANTED LEFT-OFF CLOTHES for AUSTRALIA.—Mr. and Mrs. JOHN ISAACS, 319 and 320, Strand (opposite Somerset House), W.C., continue giving highest prices in cash for Ladies', Gentlemen's, and Children's Clothes. Regimentals, Underclothing, Boots, Books, and Miscellaneous Goods. Letters attended to. Parcels from the country, the utmost value returned same day. Reference, London and Westminster Bank.



THE HIGH TIDE IN THE SEINE AT TANCARVILLE POINT, OPPOSITE QUILLEBEUF, ON THE NIGHT OF THE 9TH OF MARCH.—FROM A SKETCH BY M. THORIGNY.

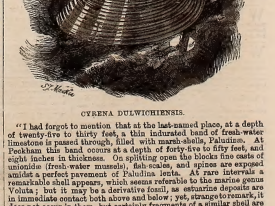
THE RECENT HIGH TIDE IN THE SEINE

A VERITABLE excitement was caused in all the localities washed by the Seine by the announcement of the high tides of the 8th and 9th instant; for some time beforehand, however, precautionary measures had been adopted for the prevention of accidents. In the neighbourhoods where the invasion of the waters was most to be feared the merchandize on the quays and on the ground floors of the houses was removed to places of safety; the cellars were hermetically closed, and, participating the general anxiety, the masters and mistresses of boarding schools profited by the great aqueous event to send their pupils home for a holiday. These precautions taken, people began to think of the grandeur of the spectacle, and, the French papers having got up the steam for the occasion by exciting the public curiosity to an extraordinary pitch, the different railway companies thought they might convert some of their sapeur into gold, and so advertised, at reduced fares, a series of "pleasure" trains to the different points from which the invasion of the waters might be seen to advantage. Notwithstanding the rigour of the weather, an immense number of persons responded to their invitation, and, in spite of snow, sleet, and severe cold, regarded their excursion as a sort of fête de voyage, rendered still more interesting by the possibility of danger. In this manner Cherbourg, Dieppe, Havre, and other favourite French seaports received a large influx of visitors, more or less frozen during their voyage, but rejoicing in the prospect of witnessing a grand spectacle. Many of these intrepid travellers, and especially those who had never before visited the Channel shores, were doomed to a great disappointment. The Seine narrows considerably, and for even ordinary tides it had been found necessary to erect a dike on the Quillebeuf shore to check the first impetuous rush of the watery element. Although of course expected, still the arrival of the Bores took many by surprise. A sudden and seemingly distant roar of the waters was immediately followed by the entrance into the narrower portion of the river of a vast wave, or rather series of waves, grandly mounting one over the other. Encroaching upon the calmly descending stream, which was almost without a ripple, on they came, rolling and foaming, frequently to the height of sixteen feet, and at the rate of half a mile a minute, staggering the astonished lookers-on with wonder and admiration; for, although the wave passed on to other localities, the Seine remained at its extraordinary level till the return of the invading waters, which regained their ocean home in the early morning of the day that witnessed also the departure of most of the satisfied, though shivering, tidal amateurs.

The little town of Quillebeuf, seen on the left hand of our illustration, was formerly a part of the domain of the Dukes of Normandy. Situated on a commanding point of the river, down to the time of Louis XIV. several attempts were made to fortify it, but they were never fully realized. At present it is a place without much importance, except it be as the home of the clever and brave river pilots for which Quillebeuf has ever been celebrated.

Opposite Quillebeuf is the ancient Château of Tancarville, the old manor of the former lords of that name, famous in the times of chivalry. Its heavy towers, crenellated walls, and threatening aspect are strongly suggestive of the feudal times when society was divided into seigneurs and vassals. The last Lord of Tancarville died at the battle of Agincourt, and his château, after changing owners many times, at length became the property of the famous Scotchman Law, the originator, in the beginning of the last century, of those bubble speculations which form such a remarkable feature in our commercial history. On Law's downfall the domain de Tancarville passed into the possession of the Hospital of Havre, for the small annual rental of 350 francs. The hospital held it down to the year 1825, when at length this noble and curious remain was restored to the Montmorency family, from whom the barony of Tankerville had been snatched during a period of revolution.

FOSSIL LEAF IN THE PLASTIC CLAY, DULWICH.



FOSSIL REMAINS IN LOWER EOCENE STRATA AT DULWICH AND PECKHAM.

THE extensive works in progress on the south side of the Thames for the great high-level sewer have opened up an interesting field to the geologist, and it is due to the unremitting exertions of Mr. Charles Rickman, honorary curator, Lambeth Museum of Natural History, that we are enabled to produce the accompanying illustrations, which are best described in his own words —

"In the majority of cases, along the line of the great south high-level sewer, the open cuttings range from 20 to 30 feet in depth through the ordinary sands and gravels destitute of organic remains. But the undulating nature of the ground between Dulwich and Peckham necessitates the construction of a tunnel passing under the Five Fields at the depth of about 60 feet, and an open cutting at Peckham of 50 feet. The tunnelling is being effected by the agency of three shafts, that in the centre and most important one thus by to the present time has principally engaged my attention. Brick earth, gravel, and comminuted shell-sand were passed through. At a depth of 25 feet we are introduced to the plastic clay charged with the remains of the Lower Eocene Flora, associated with the estuarine shells of Cyrena. The leafy deposit is of considerable thickness, in those which exist at Reading and Woolwich, so well investigated and described by Messrs. Prestwich, Bunbury, and the Countess Ducie. But it is probable that some new species of plant occur, especially one allied to coniferæ. Your readers may be interested to know that leaves of oak, maple, willow, and poplar (vide Illustration) are abundant. The blocks of clay readily laminate, and the leafy remains sometimes form, as it were, a thin, blackish carpet over several square feet of surface. Some of the leaves are entire. Both from the sharpness of outline and venation it would seem as though they had been entombed when in the viridity of early summer. In other cases they bear evidences of 'the sere and yellow leaf.' On the surface of some freshly-split blocks it was possible to take hold of the stem and lift a portion of the leaf from the clay. How suggestive of an interesting thought that in this later age we may handle the vernal and autumnal leaves, may be, of forests that flourished during the unreckoned æons of the lower tertiary epoch! The chamfered scales of mail-clad fishes are seen here and there, with branches and stems of trees, converted into lignite and highly charged with iron pyrites. The strata are wedge-shaped, the leaf-clay thinning out to a mere line, succeeded by a loose comminuted shell-sand entirely made up of the fragments of the estuarine genus Cyrena. Highly-indurated masses of the same materials occur, weighing from twenty pounds to three or four hundredweight, of a semi-crystalline texture, almost as hard as granite. It was in one of these masses I first discovered the new and beautiful species (vide Illustration) which I propose to call Cyrena Dulwichiensis. It is remarkable as retaining the transverse colour-bands or rays it possessed in life, as visible on so many of our familiar shore-shells. Associated with them are their well-known congeners, Cyrena deperdita and Cyrena cuneiformis—large masses of drift-wood bored by teredines, portions, probably, of mammalian bone, and (highly interesting to add) a ventral scute of a crocodile. The illustration of the new Cyrena is engraved from the finest specimen I have procured, lying on a piece of indurated sandstone, and so intimately associated that separation is impossible. It may be added that the leaf-clay yields magnificent specimens in a very different condition, no change having taken place in the shells, which are covered with the epidermis, and, when first exposed to the light, gleam with the iridescent hues which in life lighted up the waters of that estuary, forming the embouchure of some mighty river, whose banks were crowded with rich masses of foliage, whose swamps were the haunt of the crocodile, and whose forest recesses were roamed by

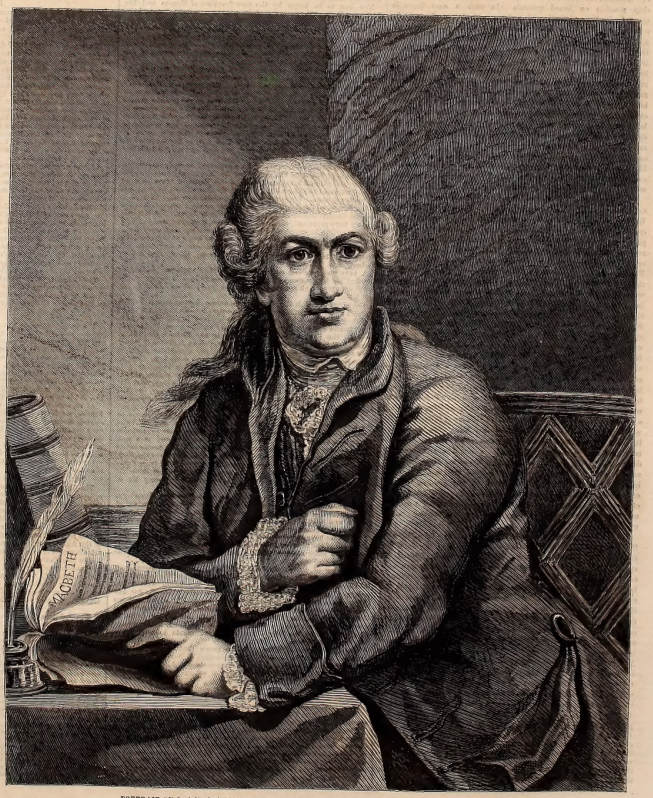
Mighty pteradactles that walked the earth.

Proceeding to Peckham, we may be said to be going seaward, the deposits becoming more purely marine. Oyster-beds of two species, Ostrea teneru and Ostrea edulina, a species of mytilus, and the discovery of a new and very beautiful variety of the genus Area render my researches as well repaid as at Dulwich.

CYRENA DULWICHIENSIS.

"I had forgot to mention that at the last-named place, at a depth of twenty-five to thirty feet, a thin indurated band of fresh-water limestone is passed through, filled with marsh-shells, Paludinæ. At Peckham this band occurs at a depth of forty-five to fifty feet, and eight inches in thickness. On splitting open the blocks fine casts of unicostate fresh-water cerasoidi, fish-scales, and spines are exposed amidst a perfect pavement of Paludina lentæ. At rare intervals a remarkable shell appears, which seems referable to the marine genus Voluta; but it may be a derivative fossil, as estuarine deposits are in immediate contact both above and below; yet, strange to remark, it does not occur in them, but certainly fragments of a similar shell are apparent in the leaf-clay at Dulwich.

"It is possible that during the progress of the works other interesting facts may be brought to light. In conclusion, I desire to bear testimony to the urbanity and courtesy I have experienced at all times from the engineers and others connected with the works."



LONDON: Printed and Published at the Office, 198, Strand, in the Parish of St. Clement Danes, in the County of Middlesex, by GEORGE C. LEIGHTON 198, Strand, aforesaid.—SATURDAY, MARCH 24, 1860.

THE ILLUSTRATED LONDON NEWS.

No. 1024.—VOL. XXXVI.] SATURDAY, MARCH 31, 1860. [WITH A SUPPLEMENT, FIVEPENCE

ENGLAND AND EUROPE.

THE time has arrived, and scarcely sooner than we anticipated, when England must make her choice with regard to her foreign policy. When last we touched on the topic of foreign affairs we intimated an opinion that it was becoming imperative on the administrators of this country to decide whether she should be enabled to interfere with effect in the diplomacy of Europe, or whether she was to assume an attitude of indifference and isolation. There is no reason why a nation like this should hesitate to acknowledge that her interest in the current of events on the Continent is not territorial, is not military, is not in any abstract sense political, but is simply commercial. If England keeps up a large naval armament, and holds salient points in the European seas in her possession, it is not because she desires to assume a haughty domination over other Powers, or because she takes an abstract pride in beholding her flag floating in every breeze. If it be her first principle of warlike policy that there should not exist in the world any combination of fleets that should be equal to, far less exceed, her own, it is only because she desires to keep that peace with which all her interests and all her prosperity are bound up. There may be, and indeed there is, a class of politicians—whose numbers, however, we believe to be daily reaching the diminishing point—who believe that the dominion of the seas which we claim may be retained by the moral influence of our mercantile marine. They may think that every richly-laden argosy which leaves these shores is not only a messenger of peace and a moral influence, which it undoubtedly is, but an actual disarming power, the effects of which will be direct and immediate. The majority of Englishmen, however, do not reason so illogically as to expect impossible consequences to flow from certain causes. It is mere fatuity to talk of meeting old-world facts with new-world theories. It is true that it is our mission to teach the nations how to live, as we know from our own experience how they ought to live, and to leave no opportunity unused of setting before the less advanced Governments of other countries (in the teachableness of the peoples we have more confidence) active example, while we prate less about precept. But that is no reason why we should not at the same time practically face facts. As regards the antiquated systems, both political and commercial, which prevail in other countries, we believe that we have reached the beginning of the end; and not the less because of the ostensibly resolute stand which these principles, as conveyed in the action of despotism, of military force, and territorial aggrandisement, are making at this moment. The ancient order of things is standing at bay, and everybody knows how vigorous and fierce are last struggles in such a case. Nevertheless the danger of the movement is not the less pressing, and does not the less need a dealing with by cognate means. What we mean to indicate is that, although, as we have said, the time has come when England must choose her line of foreign policy, common sense and common prudence must teach us that it cannot be a policy of isolation

PORTRAIT OF DAVID GARRICK, BY R. E. PINE, IN THE NATIONAL PORTRAIT GALLERY.—SEE PAGE 304.

It is still necessary to take broad views with regard to the usefulness of England in Europe, and to work out those views by the most effectual, although the ordinary, means. It will not do as yet to declare in deed as well as in words that we in this country do not care for either French, or Russian, or Austrian, or even Spanish policy, and that all we want is to advance English interests, for in the existing state of things the result of such a one-sided policy will not and cannot add to the practical force of England; but, on the contrary, by implication, must tend to diminish even her material interests. If, then, something has been said towards proving that this country must continue to take and keep her place in the abstract polity of Europe, the question has at length arisen—what, for the future, is to be the attitude we are to assume, what the alliances we are to preserve, and what the co-operation we are to cultivate?

The statement of the Foreign Minister in the House of Commons naturally occurs to the mind when we are considering this proposition. That statement amounts to this, that, whereas we have tried to reconcile the difficulties that lie in the way of a positive, direct, and coactive alliance with France, the result has been a failure—the want of affinities has of necessity prevented the necessary entire cohesion. As matters stand, however, there is no reason for a rupture with France, there is none for even a discontinuance of most friendly relations; but it is certain that anything like a political partnership is henceforth at an end. The situation may be illustrated by a very common occurrence in social life. A lady and gentleman for a time believe themselves to be fitted, by the concurrence of all the usual circumstances, for the formation of a matrimonial union. Events, however, tend to bring out the fact that incompatibilities exist which would render such a union not only unsatisfactory but impossible. The parties, being prudent and sensible persons, perceive that, notwithstanding the failure of more tender relations, there is enough of congruity and general sympathy between them, and perhaps sufficient identity of interests, to render an acquaintance and even a friendship possible on broad grounds. In such a case there is warranty for the expectation of perhaps a useful, and certainly a not unpleasant, fellowship; while, if no more is attained by such a judicious proceeding than the avoidance of irritation and ill-will, such a consequence is not to be despised. In some such manner, it seems to us, should our future relations with France be established—friendly intercourse, political and diplomatic, as much acting together in these respects as is attainable, and as much commercial and trading interchange as is possible to be achieved But it is not too much to assert that recent events show—without entering into details of the course which has been pursued towards this country, which is illustrated by the deep mortification expressed by Lord John Russell—that much more than this is hardly practicable, even if it was not a growing opinion that the alliance between England and France is more likely to be perfected by the insensible influence of intercommunication between the two peoples than by the action of Governments or the machinery of diplomacy.

Another phase of the observations of Lord John Russell deserves notice. He stated that in his opinion it was necessary that England should cultivate other intimacies in Europe, with a view to create a counterpoise to what is supposed to be the aggrandising policy of France. No doubt this was meant, and ought to be received, in a very qualified sense. There is little doubt that a combined remonstrance of all the great Powers, headed by England, would yet have the effect of altering the destination of those provinces of Savoy, the possession of which by France would threaten the independence of Switzerland, and might result in the appearance some day of a French flotilla on the Lake of Geneva. We have for some time entertained an opinion that the Emperor of the French has in reserve an intention to act at the right moment, with regard to Chablais and Faucigny, in a way which will go far to reconcile Europe to the annexation of Savoy. It is by no means impossible that he will offer to cede these provinces to Switzerland. For any such purpose a community of action between England and the other great Powers, is not only legitimate but desirable. But we earnestly deprecate any attempt to form alliances with Austria, Russia, or even Prussia, which would be in their nature, or at least have the appearance of being, a conjunction against France. Such an alliance is infinitely more wanting in the elements of compatibility than even that which it has been attempted to establish with France. There are traditions connected with such a confederacy peculiarly distasteful to the people of England; there are difficulties connected with its being carried on in its integrity which are insuperable, except on the condition of the yielding by this country of all those principles of political and social liberty, and of commercial freedom, which, for the last quarter of a century at least, England has not only professed but determinedly acted upon.

On the whole, then, it would seem that in her foreign policy Great Britain ought to adopt what would be a very dignified and probably useful, course. Without fettering herself by special alliances, which must involve a continual system of concession, the nature of which it is impossible to foresee—without being intimately connected with any Power—let her maintain the most friendly, the most courteous, relations with all. Let everything like mere meddling be avoided, and let that everlasting despatch-writing, which is the cause of half the diplomatic difficulties which arise, be considerably curtailed; let England never interfere nisi dignus vindice nodus, but let her moral influence and her lofty example be left to its certain exercise. No better illustration of what we wish to indicate is to be found than in the fact that English policy is triumphant in Central Italy. The expression of her opinion, and the moral weight which attaches to it, have, we firmly believe, done more than anything which has occurred to establish a free kingdom of Italy. There is a high policy which is as much opposed to perpetual fidgeting by the Foreign Office as it is distinct from mere isolation in Europe, for the attainment of which, perhaps, no other country in the world is so adapted as England. It is only the shortsightedness of our statesmen which has hitherto prevented the adoption of that policy; and we are inclined to think that there are symptoms that the Ministers who are charged with the conduct of foreign affairs are becoming conscious of the fact.

FOREIGN AND COLONIAL NEWS.

FRANCE.

M. Nigra has been appointed Minister Resident of Sardinia at Paris.

The Pays of Tuesday evening, in announcing that General Lamoricière has left for Rome, recalls the article of the Code Napoleon, which states that every Frenchman who should enter foreign service without the authorisation of the French Government would forfeit the privileges of French citizenship. The Pays, in another article, expresses its regrets on account of the angry words pronounced on Monday by Lord John Russell. A denial is given by the Pays to the report that the French fleet had left for the Bay of Naples.

It appears to be decided that there will be three camps this year in France: one at Châlons; another, for cavalry, at Lunéville; and the third at Helfaut.

The different bills necessary for carrying out the new commercial policy of the empire are being rapidly laid before the Corps Législatif, and will, no doubt, be speedily passed.

SPAIN AND MOROCCO.

Military operations were resumed on the 23rd inst. The Moors awaited the Spanish in a position difficult of access. A battle took place, in which the Spanish gained a complete victory.

Preliminaries of peace were signed on Sunday between the Spaniards and Moroccans, and an armistice at once concluded. No account is given of the conditions of peace. The most recent letters from Madrid appear, however, to indicate that the Spanish Government was not indisposed to recede from its demand that Tetuan should be ceded to Spain, a demand which was a principal obstacle to the conclusion of peace.

ANNEXATION OF SAVOY AND NICE.

The conclusion of the treaty by which Sardinia cedes Savoy and Nice to France was officially announced by the Moniteur on Sunday. The convention was signed on Saturday at Turin, and by it King Victor Emmanuel consents to the cession, "subject to the approval of the Sardinian Chambers." The annexation is to be effected "without any constraint on the wishes of the population," and the two Governments are to settle the best means of ascertaining those wishes. King Victor Emmanuel cedes the neutralised districts of Savoy under the conditions upon which he holds them; and the Emperor Louis Napoleon "promises to come to an understanding on this question" with Switzerland and with the Powers which signed the treaties of Vienna. Such are the conditions of the treaty, as the Moniteur announces them.

The line to be taken by the new frontiers of France and the Sardinian States has, we are told by a telegram from Turin, been decided by the two Governments, though the minor details will be settled by a mixed commission. From the port of Vintimiglia the frontier will pursue the course of the River Roya to the Col di Tenda, and thence it will follow the summits of the Alps, in such a way apparently that France will have the command of the passes of the Col di Tenda and Mont Cenis.

The Paris correspondent of the Times says it is believed all the great Powers have replied to the Emperor's communication respecting the annexation of Savoy and Nice. The substance of Russia's note is, that so long as the "right of the people" to select their rulers is not put forward by France, and that as the present change does not affect the balance of Europe, what Sardinia may choose to do is no affair of hers. Prussia says that, as the Emperor Napoleon formally disavows the doctrine of natural frontiers, the transfer of Savoy is no business of hers. Austria declares that she certainly does not approve of annexations of the kind, but, as Europe stood by when other annexations were effected, she does not see what she has to do with the Savoy annexation.

The Swiss Federal Government have protested strongly against the annexation of Savoy to France. First Dr. Kern, and then General Dufour, an old and intimate friend of the Emperor, were sent on special missions to reserve the rights of the Swiss Confederation, but all to no purpose. Yesterday week a popular assembly took place at Geneva, at which 3000 persons resolved to send addresses to the Federal Council and to the population of Upper Savoy. The Helvetic Society have protested, and demand prompt, energetic, and military demonstrations in support. The Federal Assembly, composed of the National Council and the Council of the States, was convoked for Thursday. Orders have been given to assemble a portion of the Federal Contingents of the cantons of Berne, Vaud, Neufchâtel, Friburg, and Valais.

A note was received on Tuesday from M. Thouvenel, tending to tranquillise Switzerland by citing the reservations in favour of the latter country which are contained in the treaty of cession of Savoy and Nice.

The note in which the Swiss Government communicates to the Great Powers its remonstrances and protest against the annexation of Savoy to France has been published. Last month the French Government officially declared to the Swiss Envoy at Paris, and through the French Chargé d'Affaires to the Federal Council at Berne, that the question was not then in agitation, but that if Savoy were annexed to France Chablais and Faucigny should be ceded to Switzerland; and similar assurances were at the same time given to the English Government. Now Switzerland, finding that Savoy is to be annexed to France without any regard for her rights, solicits the intervention of the great Powers, and expresses a hope that "if Savoy is to be ceded the possibility will be given her, by the adjunction of the neutralised provinces, to defend with a chance of success her neutrality and her independence."

An address to the great Powers, a declaration, and addresses to the Emperor Louis Napoleon, King Victor Emmanuel, and the Swiss Federal Council, have been signed by 11,502 male adult inhabitants of the districts of Chablais, Faucigny, and Genevoise, and have been forwarded for publication in the English journals. The memorialists declare that they do not desire to shake off allegiance to the King of Sardinia; but that, if their country must be severed from Piedmont, they ardently desire that it may be incorporated with the Swiss Confederation, to which they are attached by every tie of interest and goodwill.

The entry of the French troops into the capital of Savoy, Chambery, on Wednesday is officially announced. The despatch received at Paris states that the troops were received with acclamations by the people, and that the National Guards made their appearance with the French cockade on their hats.

As yet we have received only from one place in Savoy a report of the result of the election for the Sardinian Parliament. Of 218 voters who made their appearance, 214 voted in a way favourable to the annexation to France.

The King of Sardinia received on the 22nd a deputation from Savoy, charged to present an address from certain of the inhabitants of Chambery. His Majesty received the deputation with much courtesy, and in the warmest terms expressed his gratitude for the generous sentiments contained in the address. He added that the force of events, and of diplomatic exigencies, were more powerful than his will, but that the bonds which unite his dynasty to Savoy were of too long standing to be severed in a day. He charged the deputation to be the interpreters of his sentiments to the faithful inhabitants of Savoy.

The Constitutionnel endeavours to prove that the counsels of England at Turin necessitated the annexation of Savoy.

At Nice the elections of representatives to the Sardinian Parliament have had no result, the number of voters being insufficient. General Garibaldi only obtained 400 votes.

ITALY.

SARDINIA.

We learn from Turin that Signor Farini has been provisionally appointed Minister of the Interior.

The King is actively prosecuting the incorporation of his new territories with his old dominions. He has issued a proclamation to the people of Central Italy, and has published decrees appointing the Prince de Carignan his Lieutenant in Tuscany, and incorporating the Tuscan troops with the Sardinian army. Baron Ricasoli is appointed General Governor. A squadron with Sardinian troops has left Genoa for Tuscany.

The Duchess Regent of Parma, who resides at Zurich, has, it is said, addressed herself to the Queen of Spain, in her quality of chief of the Spanish Bourbons, requesting her Majesty to support before the great Powers the protest of the Duchess against the annexation of the Duchies of Parma and Piacenza to Piedmont.

The result of the elections of representatives to the Parliament is described as being very favourable to the Liberal cause. At Florence the Chevalier Buoncompagni, Baron Ricasoli, Count Cavour, and Signor Peruzzi have been elected; at Bologna Count Cavour, the Marquis Pepoli, Signori Berti, Pichat, and Audinot; at Turin, Count Cavour, Baron Ricasoli, and Signor Farini; at Milan, Count Cavour and Signori Farini and Cattaneo; and, at Genoa, Count Cavour.

ROME.

The demonstration on Monday week, briefly noticed in our last impression, was a serious affair. A party of students of the University intoned a "Te Deum" in their church in honour of the birthday of General Garibaldi and of the annexation of Central Italy to Piedmont. In the evening an enormous crowd assembled in the Corso. The gensdarmes arrested several; the crowd hissed and then insulted the police. The gensdarmes unsheathed their weapons and dispersed the crowd. It is said that forty persons—amongst them several spectators and three French soldiers—were wounded. The city was traversed by French patrols. It is asserted that four merchants, two of whom are Signori Silvestre and Titoni, have been banished.

Yesterday week a pacific manifestation took place while the Pope was proceeding to St. Peter's Cathedral. The number of carriages was immense.

A public functionary, guilty of embezzlement, has been sentenced to twenty years' imprisonment.

THE TWO SICILIES.

In Southern Italy the state of affairs becomes more and more alarming. The King left on the 20th for Gaeta. The army of the Abruzzi is being concentrated. It is asserted that a levy of all able-bodied men whose ages do not exceed forty years has been decided on. A further reduction of the customs tariff for two hundred articles has been declared. The King remained three days at Gaeta inspecting the newly-enlisted troops. His Majesty has given all the necessary orders for their organisation, but no movement of troops towards the frontier has been ordered. The King returned to Naples on Thursday, and has recalled his Plenipotentiary from Rome. Several other assassinations of agents of the public administration have taken place in Sicily. Great agitation prevails there, but no demonstration of any decided character has taken place. General Viglia has been sent into Calabria, in order to pursue certain bands of agitators.

PRUSSIA.

According to a telegram from Berlin on Wednesday last the answer of Prussia to M. Thouvenel's note contains a distinct reservation of rights, and energetically supports the demands of Switzerland.

The Prince Regent, the Princess of Prussia, the Princess Frederick William, and several other members of the Royal family were present on Tuesday se'nnight at an entertainment in the Concert Hall, when many tableaux vivants were enacted by distinguished members of the Prussian aristocracy and by English visitors or residents in the capital. Two French one-act vaudevilles followed, the characters in which were also sustained by Prussian and English amateurs. The profits of the entertainment were to be given to the poor.

It has been resolved to erect a monument in Berlin to the memory of Frederick William III., the father of the present Sovereign. The spot selected is between the Royal palace and the museum, and the statue is to face the former building. It will be in the form of a colossal bronze figure of the King on horseback, in the military costume of his day, and mounted on a bronze and granite pedestal ornamented with sculpture.

Thursday week being the sixty-third birthday of the Prince Regent, his Royal Highness, at nine o'clock, received the congratulations of his Court; and at ten o'clock the members of the Royal family, as well as the German Princes at present in Berlin, the Prince Augustus of Wurtemberg, the members of the family of Prince Radziwill, the Prince of Hohenzollern, and the Princes on duty at the garrisons of Potsdam and Berlin, paid a visit to his Royal Highness, who afterwards received the Ministers of State and the members of his Staff. The Queen also sent to congratulate his Royal Highness in the course of the morning. In the afternoon a grand dinner took place at the palace of the Prince and Princess Frederick William, at which the members of the Royal family were present; and in the evening an assembly and theatrical representation took place at the palace of the Prince Regent.

The Chamber of Nobles of Prussia, on Saturday, after having discussed petitions against the admission of Jewish landowners to the States of the Circles, adopted by 54 votes to 41 a resolution on the matter hostile to the Government.

AUSTRIA.

The new Austrian loan amounts to 200 million florins. The current interest is fixed at 5 per cent. The bonds are of 500 florins each, and are to be repaid within fifty-seven years, by lottery drawings, to take place every six months. The highest prize in the lottery will be 300,000 florins; the lowest, 600 florins. The emission price of the loan will be 100 florins. The bonds of the National Loan will be accepted by the Government at par as payment of one-fifth of the amount subscribed. Payment is to be made in ten instalments, the last of which is fixed for the 10th of October, 1861. The subscription list is to be kept open till the 7th of April next.

As regards the question of the annexation of Savoy and Nice to France, we learn by a despatch from Vienna that Austria, having already declared, in reference to the States of Central Italy, that she does not intend to employ the force of arms against that which she cannot prevent, acts in conformity with this principle in continuing to observe a purely passive attitude. The Austrian answer which is about to be sent to Paris will, therefore, be neither a protest nor an approval of the annexation. It records a fact, the principle of which remains reserved.

GERMANY.

The German Diet approved last Saturday the report of its committee respecting the Constitution of Electoral Hesse, or, in other words, it refused to re-establish the Constitution which the Elector illegally and arbitrarily subverted. The discord between Austria and Prussia was openly and alarmingly disclosed in consequence of this decision. Prussia expressly declared that she would not be bound by the Diet's resolution; and the Diet then, on the motion of the Austrian representative as President, resolved that all Federal Governments are obliged to recognise its resolution.

The Legislative Body of the free town of Frankfort-on-the-Maine has unanimously resolved to give its representative the following instructions, viz.:—He may propose to the Federal Diet that a central Power in Germany, increased by a national representation, should be established. The motive given for this resolution is the threatening attitude assumed by France.

The Sublime Porte has appointed Michael Obrenovich successor to Prince Milosch.

The Spanish Government have taken measures for the convenience of foreign astronomers desirous of witnessing, in Spain, the total eclipse of the sun on the 18th of July.

In the course of last year great trigonometrical, astronomical, and hydrographical works were accomplished throughout the Russian empire on the banks of the River Amour, on the Caspian Sea, at Archangel, and on the Black Sea.

The Wallachian Parliament was opened on the 12th inst. by Prince Alexander Couza, who told the deputies that the work of the union of the two provinces might now be looked upon as completed in a diplomatical sense; and that, therefore, they might wholly give themselves up to the consideration of the internal interests of the country.

Mails for Sweden.—The mail steam-packets under contract with the Swedish Government having recommenced their voyages between Hull and Gottenburg, mails for conveyance by these packets will be made up in London on the evening of every Friday until further notice. All letters and newspapers addressed to Gottenburg and Uddewalla will be forwarded by these packets, unless directed to be otherwise sent; but letters and newspapers for other parts of Sweden intended to be transmitted by these packets must be specially addressed "by Swedish packet."

LATEST NEWS FROM ABROAD.

The following telegrams were received through Mr. Reuter's office on Friday (yesterday) morning:—

SPAIN AND MOROCCO.—Madrid, March 29.—The official Gazette publishes the preliminaries of peace agreed upon between Spain and Morocco. Morocco cedes to Spain the whole territory from the sea to the hollow road of Anghera, and also a certain portion of territory at Santa Cruz. The Convention of 1859, referring to Melilla, Penon, and Albucemas, is ratified. An indemnity of 20,000,000 piastres is to be paid to Spain. Tetuan will be kept by Spain until this payment is effected. A treaty of commerce is also to be concluded, guaranteeing privileges to Spain as the most favoured nation. A representative of Spain and a missionary establishment is to be permitted at Fez. The treaty of peace is to be signed at Tetuan before the 25th of April. All hostilities to cease. The Spanish army, however, to be allowed to chastise the Kabyles.

THE ANNEXATION OF SAVOY AND NICE.—Turin, Thursday.—Although the treaty for the cession of Savoy and Nice has to be sanctioned by the Sardinian Chambers, the exchange of the ratifications will take place before the opening of the Chambers, in the same manner as adopted in regard to the Treaty of Commerce between France and England. By arrangements between France and Sardinia the civil and military functionaries of the provinces ceded to France, in passing under the French dominion, will preserve their rank and pay as under the Sardinian Government. General Garibaldi would therefore obtain the grade of General of Division in the French Army; but he has already declared his choice to be Italy, and his intention to remain a subject of King Victor Emmanuel.

Paris, Thursday.—The Patrie of this evening states that the French regiments in returning from Italy will stop successively at Chambéry and Nice, but that a military occupation will only take place when the necessary formalities of the treaty have been fulfilled. The districts of Chablais and Faucigny will provisionally receive no garrisons.

Zurich, Thursday.—The following is a summary of the report addressed by the Federal Council to the Federal Assembly:—"The interests of the safety, independence, and neutrality of Switzerland demand that her rights in reference to the neutralised provinces of Savoy should not be encroached upon by their annexation to France. Even admitting that the neutrality of these provinces should continue, their annexation would still be against the treaties, and would threaten the rights and interests of Switzerland. The expectation of the good offices of the Powers concerning these questions reassures Switzerland, on condition that no occupation of those provinces by France previously takes place, and that the statu quo shall be respected. The following are, therefore, the proposals made by the Federal Council:—That the Assembly may ratify the resolutions which have been adopted, and grant the necessary credits. The Assembly should request the Council to continue to protect energetically the rights and interests of Switzerland in regard of the neutralised provinces of Savoy, and to obtain that the statu quo should be respected. It may also authorise the President to take all necessary measures to that effect. The Federal Assembly will be again convoked in the event of its becoming necessary to call out the troops, or should other grave circumstances require it."

Berne, Thursday.—The Federal Assembly has appointed a Commission of twenty-three members, who will examine the report of the Federal Council, and will propose their resolutions to-morrow morning.

Berlin, Thursday.—The reply of Prussia to M. Thouvenel's note was sent to Paris the day before yesterday. Prussia disapproves of the annexation of Savoy to France. Switzerland, whose rights were reserved by Sardinia, has made an appeal to the Powers. Those rights must be examined and protected. Prussia concludes by announcing that she will treat the question of Switzerland in a separate note.

Paris, Friday.—The Moniteur publishes the treaty of cession of Savoy and Nice by Sardinia to France. This treaty is according to the summary already published, and has, besides, the following articles:—A mixed commission will determine what Savoy and Nice shall contribute to the payment of the public debt of Sardinia and to the execution of several public contracts. The Sardinian Government reserves to itself to finish alone the boring of Mont Cenis. The treaty will become executive for Sardinia after receiving the sanction of Parliament. The Moniteur also announces that the Senate has rejected, by passing to the order of the day, and with 116 against 16 votes, several petitions requesting the intervention of the Senate in favour of the temporal power of the Pope. The Constitutionnel publishes a summary of the proclamation of Victor Emmanuel releasing the inhabitants of Savoy and Nice from continuing subjects of his Majesty. The King, in conclusion, says:—"France and Italy are two sister nations, whose destiny is to march at the head of civilisation."

CENTRAL ITALY.—Leghorn, Thursday.—Prince Carignan has arrived here, and has met with an enthusiastic reception. His Royal Highness is expected to enter Florence this evening, where a splendid reception awaits him.

Frankfort, Thursday.—Austria has notified to the Federal Diet her protest against the annexation of the Italian Duchies to Sardinia.

Ravenna, Wednesday.—The Papal carabiniers have taken off the escutcheon of the King of Sardinia from the house of the Sardinian Vice Consul at Pesaro.

Rome, Thursday.—On Tuesday last the Papal Government forwarded the whole of the diplomatic corps a protest against the annexation of the Legations to Sardinia.

THE EXCOMMUNICATION.—Turin, Thursday.—Private messages received here from Rome confirm the statement that the allocution pronounced by the Pope in the Secret Consistory of the 26th inst. included the excommunication of the King of Sardinia. Without naming King Victor Emmanuel, the allocution specifies his acts, which, it says, have incurred the censures pronounced by the Councils against plunderers of the Church.

Rome, Thursday.—To-day the act of major excommunication pronounced against those who have either promised to aid or who have counselled rebellion, invasion, or usurpation in the Romagna has been published. The act has been posted up in several quarters of Rome.

HESSE.—Frankfort, Thursday.—Prussia has repeated her reserve in reference to the question of the re-establishment of the constitution of Electoral Hesse. The Federal Diet, in reply to Prussia, referred to its resolutions on this question.

THE UNITED STATES.

In the Senate the Committee on Foreign Affairs has been instructed to inquire and report whether the treaty with Great Britain for the suppression of the African slave trade has been executed, and whether further legislation is necessary to more effectually suppress the slave traffic on the African coast. The Senate has rejected the treaty with Nicaragua.

A bill for the suppression of polygamy in Utah has been introduced in the House of Representatives. In the House of Representatives the Chairman of the Ways and Means Committee asked leave to report a bill authorising a loan of 21,000,000 dollars for the redemption of Treasury notes, and for regulating the duties on imports, and for other purposes. Objection was raised, and the matter stands over.

Stephens and Hazlett, who were engaged in the affair of Harper's Ferry, have been executed at Charleston.

The Mobile Theatre, the Union Cotton Press, with 2000 bales of cotton, and several adjoining buildings, were destroyed by fire on the 13th inst. The loss was estimated at 275,000 dollars.

A fire at Houston, Texas, has destroyed two squares and thirty houses.

The Pope, on the 18th inst., performed the ceremony of the benediction of the Golden Rose.

A letter from Cochin China says that the conclusion of peace between France and Spain and that country was considered probable.

The Governor of Hong-Kong has reduced the period of sentence passed on Mr. Tarrant to six months. This period would expire on the 20th instant, consequently at this date that gentleman is free.

COUNTRY NEWS.

The Lord Lieutenancy of Londonderry, vacant by the death of Sir R. Ferguson, has been conferred on Acheson Lyle, Esq., Chief Remembrancer.

A fire took place on the premises of Messrs. Soulby and Dobson, wine-merchants, Hull, on Tuesday morning, when wine and spirits to the value of £10,000 were destroyed.

The Earl of Carlisle has appointed Mr. Thomas Dillon Fitzgerald, sub-inspector of constabulary (first-class), a resident magistrate, to be stationed at Clifden, in the county of Galway.

A vote of censure has been passed by his constituents, the Liberal electors of Stroud, upon Mr. Horsman for his opposition to the commercial treaty and budget. He was invited to attend the meeting, but declined.

A pheasant, it is supposed pursued by a hawk, flew against a large pane of plate-glass in the drawing room window of a house in Edinburgh, on Thursday week, smashing it to pieces. The death of the pheasant was, of course, instantaneous.

At Devizes, on Tuesday, Serafin Manzano, a Spaniard, was found guilty of the murder of Anastasia Trowbridge, at Ashcombe, Devon, on the 3rd of November last. The Judge sentenced him to death, and held out no hope that his sentence would be commuted.

At Devizes, on Monday, Mr. Phillips, a gentleman connected with the solicitor's department of the Post Office, was handing in an indictment to the clerk of indictments, when he dropped to the ground and expired immediately. Death resulted from apoplexy.

A barge, containing two boatmen, with the wife, sister-in-law, and three children of one of them, was upset in the Severn yesterday week, by running against the piles of a railway-bridge, when the first three were with difficulty saved, and the remaining four were drowned.

NORWICH ELECTION.—Mr. Warner and Sir W. Russell were duly elected, on Thursday, to represent Norwich in Parliament; the numbers at the close of the poll being—Warner (Liberal), 2093; Russell (Liberal), 2507; Forlonge (Conservative), 1635; Lewis (Conservative), 1631.

Mr. Hooper, surgeon, of Staunton, Gloucestershire, having been presented with a silver waiter and £88, for his services during thirty-six years, immediately handed over the money portion of the testimonial to form a fund for filling the west window of the parish church with stained glass.

The Leeds Mercury says that it is contemplated, in case the Royal Agricultural Society visit Leeds in 1861, to hold a second Exhibition of Local Industry and the Triennial Musical Festival during the visit of the Society. Efforts will also be made complete the Midland Hotel before the meeting.

Hull has invited the Royal Agricultural Society to hold its meeting for 1861 in that borough. The Town Council has expressed its intention of offering £1500 towards the guarantee fund; and, at a public meeting held on Tuesday, a subscription list was opened for supplementing that sum.

The O'Conor Don was returned, without opposition, on Monday, for Roscommon. He was of opinion that the Pope ought to be left in possession of his temporal dominions, "and be left perfectly at liberty to wallop his own niggers," and, to tell the truth, he believed that "a little walloping would do the said niggers no harm."

BOILER EXPLOSION AND LOSS OF THREE LIVES.—At the Hazard Pit, Blaydon Main Colliery, near Newcastle, a boiler explosion occurred on Tuesday morning, by which two men, named William Holmes and Daniel Johnson, and a boy named Huddard, lost their lives. The engine-house and boiler were shattered to pieces, and the poor fellows blown about one hundred yards from the engine-house

HEAVY PENALTY FOR ILLICIT DISTILLATION.—At the Justice of Peace Court, Edinburgh, on Monday, Robert Martin, a vinegar-dealer, carrying on business in James-court, was charged with several serious breaches of the excise laws on the 6th of February last. The fines to which he had rendered himself liable amounted in the aggregate to £3700, and the full amount of the penalty was adjudged.

At Taunton, one day last week, an unlucky juryman left the court during an interval, and did not come back for an hour and fifty minutes. Being asked to account for his conduct, he said he had come from home without his breakfast, and had gone out to get some refreshment, as he had understood two hours were allowed. Baron Channell reprimanded him for his conduct, and fined him £20.

A QUACK DOCTOR.—A man named Swinson, the keeper of a tollbar near Sheffield, was committed for trial on a charge of manslaughter last Saturday. He had obtained a local reputation as the "Pitsmoor Doctor," and in this capacity had treated the leg of a man named Batty with violent eschartorics. While the man was walking home after his last visit a bloodvessel under the wound burst, and he bled to death in about ten minutes.

THE WEST RIDING ELECTION EXPENSES.—The total amount of audited expenses jointly incurred on behalf of Sir John Wm. Ramsden and Mr. Frank Crossley, the Liberal candidates at the West Riding election in May last, was £13,597 5s., and a moiety of this sum is placed to the account of each of the two gentlemen. The audited expenses incurred by or on behalf of the Right Hon. James Stuart Wortley, the Conservative candidate at the same election, amount to £10,700 18s. 6d.

BLOODSHED IN IRELAND.—Mr. Justice Christian, in passing sentence upon one of three prisoners convicted of manslaughter at Cork, observed:—"The peasantry of this part of the country use towards each other deadly weapons with a ferocity such as is not to be surpassed by what takes place amongst the most savage tribes inhabiting any portion of the earth." The three prisoners were severally arraigned for as many murders, but the Crown did not in any case press the capital charge. One was sentenced to four years' penal servitude, and each of the others to eight years'

LORD STANLEY.—Two hundred and thirty-nine of the magistrates of the county of Lancaster have signed a requisition to Lord Stanley, asking him to allow himself to be put in nomination for the chairmanship of the Court of Quarter Sessions, vacant by the death of the Right Hon. M. T. Baines. His Lordship, in acknowledging the receipt of the requisition, says:—"To the expression of a wish so generally entertained, and so gratifying to myself, there is only one answer which I can give. I accept with pleasure the proposed nomination, and, if elected, will serve the county to the best of my powers."

THE MISSIONARY CONFERENCE AT LIVERPOOL.—The proceedings of the Missionary Conference, which opened at Liverpool on Monday week, were brought to a close yesterday se'nnight by a great public meeting in the Philharmonic Hall, which was crowded by a brilliant assemblage. The Earl of Shaftesbury presided, and was supported by a large number of clergymen and gentlemen. His Lordship made an animating speech on the duty of labouring for the spread of the Gospel in India. The meeting was also addressed by Major-General Alexander, Major Davidson, of Edinburgh; Colonel Herbert Edwardes, the Rev. Hugh Stowell, the Mayor, and others, and a vote of thanks to the noble chairman terminated the proceedings.

APPLAUSE IN A COURT OF JUSTICE.—At Shrewsbury, on Wednesday week, Mr. Baron Bramwell having passed sentence of five years' penal servitude on a poacher who had knocked down a keeper and stunned him, a gentleman who was on the bench so far forgot himself as to applaud the sentence by knocking on the ground with his walking-stick. Mr. Baron Bramwell, with great warmth, condemned the conduct of the gentleman in question, and said he was beyond measure surprised. His Lordship asked the offender, who seemed quite ashamed of himself, whether he would like the people at the other end of the court, who probably sympathised with the prisoner, to imitate such conduct. Thereupon somebody at the other end of the court cried "Hear, hear!" which called forth a second rebuke from the learned Judge.

EXTRAORDINARY BEQUESTS.—There has just been gathered to her fathers Agnes Hamilton, grocer, Commercial-road, Glasgow, an old miserly woman, at the age of 81, and who has left £23,000 of her savings from a small shop which she had rented for about forty years. She was in every respect a miser, but she was a miser-merchant, who looked after the pence par excellence, and also after the pounds. She was never married, and studiously avoided parting with a single farthing that she could avoid. In this way, and by dint of half-starvation, she succeeded in realising the above large sum (£23,000), which she has bequeathed in £4 annuities to destitute people of good moral character, who are natives of, and have lived in, the Gorbals parish of Glasgow forty years, and who have attained the age of 65. As the parish is small very few qualified claimants exist or can exist. She has left nothing to any of her relations.

SUPPOSED MURDER AT STAMFORD.—The Stamford police are engaged in investigating a case which forcibly reminds us of the Ledbury murder. On Monday week, Miss Pulley, an eccentric lady who led a very secluded life, was found dead in her home under circumstances which induced the belief that her clothes had accidentally caught fire, and that she had been burned to death. No minute medical examination of the body was made, and the Coroner's jury returned a verdict in accordance with the general impression respecting the cause of death. It is now, however, thought that Miss Pulley was murdered, and a man of bad reputation, named Cosby, is in custody on suspicion. Several articles of plate and jewellery belonging to the deceased, it is said, have been seen in his possession, and within the last few days he appears to have acquired a suspiciously sudden supply of money. He has been remanded on a charge of robbing Miss Pulley, and in the meantime an application for permission to exhume the body has been forwarded to the Home Secretary.

The Northern Whig gives a series of tables to show that, in Belfast, drunkenness was actually more rampant in that town and neighbourhood during the "revival months," in 1859, than in the preceding year.

SQUABBLE BETWEEN A RECORDER AND A JURY.—At the recent Salisbury Quarter Sessions, held before the Recorder, J. D. Chambers, Esq., the jury thought proper to return a verdict of "Not Guilty" in the case of a woman indicted for stealing a knapsack, the property of a soldier, whereupon the following hot words passed between the Recorder and the jury:—The Recorder: Gentlemen, I must say that you have found a most singular verdict. Let me know your reasons for it. A Juror: It was my conviction, and that of others, that the evidence was insufficient. The Recorder (warmly): What! It is my duty to tell you that you have returned a verdict directly contrary to the plainest evidence. I will not proceed to try another case with such a jury. Let them be discharged. A Juror: As a member of the jury I must say that I think you are exceeding your duty and don't know your business. Another Juror: You may as well turn round and bully us at once. The Recorder: You are discharged. I won't have the next case tried by such a jury. A Juror: As long as you, sir, preside at these sessions, I will always be fined rather than serve on a jury again.

"BORROWING" A HORSE.—James Warner, who was represented to be a native of the United States, was indicted at Kingston, on Saturday last, for stealing a horse, the property of William Stone. The prosecutor in this case was a farmer at Riply, and on the evening of the 21st of March the horse in question was left safe in a stable in a yard shut in by gates, with the horse in his possession. The prisoner, who was an American, declared About two hours afterwards it was discovered that the gates had been forced open, and the horse stolen. The prisoner was taken into custody near Kingston, that he had no intention to steal the horse, and the reason he took it was, that he might reach the railway station at Kingston in time to catch the train. It was a common thing in America, he said, to "borrow" a horse for a short time in the manner he had done, and nothing was thought about it (A laugh). The jury returned a verdict of "Guilty." Mr. Justice Wightman said that in this country breaking open the gates of a yard, and taking a horse out of the stable and riding away with it, without the consent of the owner, was not considered "borrowing," but "stealing." He then sentenced the prisoner to eighteen months' hard labour.

EXTRAORDINARY CASE OF MANSLAUGHTER.—At the Suffolk Assizes, yesterday week, before Chief-Justice Cockburn, two boys, named John Henry Cook and William Rushbrook, were charged with the manslaughter of Lucy Lanbexter, at Trimley St. Martin. The case was a lamentable illustration of the fatal effects which occasionally follow "larking." On the 20th of August the deceased went to the flour-mill of Mr. Raffles, at Trimley, and asked for the prisoner Cook. He came down to her, and they both ran into the mill lane and began playing together. Cook pulled off her bonnet, and Rushbrook, the other prisoner, coming up, they all ran into the mill, where one of the boys, seizing the girl by the waist, and the other by the legs, held her head for a few seconds in some meal in a trough. The poor girl ran out, but soon afterwards fell down and died, the flour, which had choked her nostrils and mouth, causing asphyxia. The jury found the prisoners guilty, but recommended them to mercy on the ground that they had not been actuated by any intention to injure the deceased. The Chief Justice sentenced them to fourteen days' imprisonment each.

POLITICAL CORRUPTION AT NORWICH.—The Mayor of Norwich, Mr. J. Henry Tillett, has issued a strong address to the electors, in which he calls their attention to the fact that "their electoral misdeeds are notorious," and the state of the city worse than either Wakefield or Gloucester, or both put together. "Never has so serious an emergency arisen in our city. Never, perhaps, in the history of our own country, has a constituency been put so conspicuously upon its trial. It is a question for us of honour or infamy, of freedom or the vilest form of thraldom—a question of political life or death. I call upon the electors on both sides to resolve solemnly that they will sacrifice every party object for the honour of this once venerated, but, alas! now despised city. It matters little—almost nothing in a party sense—which side succeeds; but in a moral aspect it is of infinite moment that we should free ourselves from electoral crime. If I am about to speak too strongly, pardon me, for the sake of the great interests in peril, which are yours no less than mine. I proclaim a holy war against corruption. Let every man enter upon the crusade. Should any, unrepentant and incorrigible, seem to be reserving themselves for a renewal of past misdeeds, watch them closely—keep the peace, but watch them. Regard every briber, to whichever party he belongs, as an enemy to the city. Prevent him from committing the crime if you can; detect him if he will commit it; give information to the police the moment you have found him out. Watch these men as you would a pickpocket in a crowd, a burglar in the dark corner, or an incendiary with his match-box in the stackyard—watch them to prevent, to detect, to capture! Thousands have sacrificed themselves gladly for causes not more sacred than this. Our own city, in bygone times, has furnished its contingent to the noble bands which have suffered for freedom and their faith. May the spirit of our fathers animate us and strengthen us to do our duty now, at all cost, regardless of what may follow! So will Norwich rise from its ashes, and all England rejoice that one of the noblest of its cities has not sunk into political perdition!"

Sir Charles M. Lamb, Bart., and Knight Marshal of the Royal Household, died a few days back at Beauport, Sussex. The grandson of the deceased succeeds to the baronetcy.

NEW POSTAL SERVICE BETWEEN LONDON AND PARIS.—The new postal arrangements between London and Paris, viâ Dover and Calais, will come into operation on and after the 1st of May next, and will be carried out as follows:—Daily Service—The mail leaves London at 7 o'clock a.m., and arrives in Paris at 6 o'clock p.m. The mail leaves Paris at 7 a.m., and arrives in London at 5.50 p.m. Nightly Service.—The mail leaves London at 8.30 p.m., and arrives in Paris at 7.45 a.m. The mail leaves Paris at 7.30 p.m., and arrives in London at 6 a.m.

THE OLD HOUSE OF COMMONS.—When the late Mr. Harris of Salisbury made his first speech in the House of Commons, Charles Townsend asked, with an affected surprise, who he was? He had never seen him before "Ah! you must, at least, have heard of him. That's the celebrated Mr. Harris of Salisbury, who has written a very ingenious book on grammar, and another on virtue." "What, then, brings him here? I am sure he will neither find the one nor the other in the House of Commons."—Malone's Memoirs.

THE SHOE-BIRD OR WHALE-HEADED STORK.
(BALÆNICEPS REX.)

THE Zoological Society of London have lately added to their daily-increasing collection in the Regent's Park Gardens two living examples of one of the most singular of the varied forms met with throughout the whole class of birds, and one, moreover, the very existence of which has only become known to naturalists within the last few years. It was in 1850 that the Abyssinian traveller, Mansfield Parkyns, brought to England the first skins of the shoe-bird or whale-headed stork—having obtained them, we believe, by purchase at Khartoum, a town situated at the junction of the White and Blue Niles. These birds were exhibited to the Zoological Society at one of their scientific meetings in the following January by Mr. Gould, the well-known ornithologist, and named by him Balæniceps (whale-head), from the extraordinary size of the bill, and rex (king), in allusion to the celebrated choice once made by the frogs of a stork to be king over them, and to the undeniable capacity for devouring his subjects that this stork possesses beyond all other storks. Since that time several specimens of the Balæniceps have been brought to Europe by different travellers and collectors, who have visited the region of the White Nile. It was during an expedition from Khartoum up this river, and on the banks of a large lake, one of its principal feeders, called the Bahr il Gázâl, that Mr. John Petherick, her British Majesty's Consul for the Soudan, as we understood from his interesting communication made to the Zoological Society on Tuesday evening last, first made the acquaintance of the Balæniceps. This bird, according to Mr. Petherick, is but rarely seen on the banks of the Nile, and then only during a short period of the year, when the interior is dried up. It prefers the natural tanks and morasses of the interior, where the shallowness of the water affords it greater facilities for wading. It is usually seen in flocks of from a pair to one hundred together, mostly in the water. When disturbed they fly low over the surface, and settle again at no great distance. Their food is principally fishes and water-snakes, but they will also feed on the intestines of dead animals, the carcases of which they easily rip up with the strong hook of the upper bill. The breeding time of the Balæniceps is the rainy season, during the months of July and August, and the spot chosen is in the reeds or high grass, immediately on the water's edge. The birds before laying scrape a hole in the earth, in which without any lining the female deposits her eggs.

After numerous unsuccessful attempts Mr. Petherick succeeded in rearing several young birds of the Balæniceps from eggs taken by his hunters, hatching them under hens at Khartoum. Two of these alone survived the long journey from Khartoum to London, being the examples above alluded to now in the Zoological Society's Gardens, and from which the Illustration on the next page has been taken.

LITERATURE.

The Life of Edmund Malone, Editor of Shakspeare. By Sir James Prior. Smith and Elder.

It is probable that some, and it may be not a few, of those persons who run after new books will inquire what exact claim Edmund Malone has established to the honour of a tolerably bulky volume, which professes to record the events of his life. When we have ascertained that he was the son of a successful advocate at the Irish bar, who was afterwards a Judge of the Common Pleas in Ireland; and that, as regards himself, destined for his father's profession, he preferred leading what was then the literary life of London; that he was an assiduous but somewhat dreamy literary antiquary; and, finally, became the editor of a large edition of Shakspeare, which has not rendered unnecessary the labours of subsequent commentators, we might, perhaps, consider that the story of his life was told. But the real inspiration of the book is doubtless to be found in the second part of its title, which runs thus—"With Selections from his Manuscript Anecdotes." In the strictest sense of the term, Malone lived in the world, and he was a sort of general Boswell, taking notes relating to every one of his contemporaries, and adding to his store all that he heard and collected in any way about men who did not, perhaps, enter into that category, but whose names and fame were familiar, and of whom stories and anecdotes were abundant in his day. Out of such materials it was not very difficult to make a very agreeable book, and that end has unquestionably been attained by the compiler of the volume before us. Of course, to a certain extent, what is now stated is not absolutely new, but there is a very great deal which was fugitive gossip in Malone's time, and having been recorded by him is preserved for the amusement, if not wholly for the edification, of Sir James Prior's readers. In the constitution of the book, although chronological order is observed, the anecdotes are not interwoven into the slight vein of biography which runs through the volume with any consistent attempt at connection or regularity. Indeed, at times there is a want of cohesion and a taking-for-granted in the introduction of them, which render it necessary to look twice at a paragraph before you are quite sure why the particular incident is introduced at that particular point. Perhaps, if the work is considered and taken up in its real character of a compilation of good things or new things, as the case may be, told of celebrated men, and especially illustrative of their characters as exhibited in their everyday life, and not as a volume to be read right through and in sequence, this slight absence of arrangement and continuity may be a merit. What is quite certain is, that you cannot open a page without falling on a story which has relation to men who seemed to have lived in a manner and in circumstances peculiarly adapted to elicit every quality, great and small, which they possessed. It was a distinctive mark of the literary life of the last century that its conversation and its social intercourse was, in a certain sense, as productive as its desk work. Its club life offered a remarkable contrast to the club life of the present day, with its cold and repellent tendencies, verging on a haughty secretiveness. When the choice spirits of that day met together there was some foundation for the phrase, which must have been created then—namely, "The feast of reason and the flow of soul." The subject of this biography was free of all the smaller guilds, as well as of that more extended fraternity which was accustomed to assemble at the Grecian Coffee-house. A far more moderate capability for notetaking than Malone possessed would have supplied ample material for that stock of anecdote which Sir James Prior has here whipped into something like shape. The names of Horace Walpole, Pope, Burke, Johnson, Lord Mansfield, Lord Chatham, Sir Joshua Reynolds, Garrick, Single-Speech Hamilton, Wilkes, Charles Townshend, Boswell, Peter Pindar, Lady Mary Wortley Montagu, David Hume, Gibbon, Kemble, and the rest, whose name is legion, stud the pages of the book. It would be possible, without any trouble, to select a dozen interesting anecdotes for quotation if it consisted with our practice to do so. One only we will mention that struck us not merely as being new, but as very remarkable, although it does not apear to be absolutely authenticated. It is stated, as a story of the day, that Sterne died in an obscure lodging without a singe friend near him; a bookseller being the only person who attended his funeral; that he was buried in a graveyard near Tyburn, and that his body was taken up by resurrection men, sold to a professor of anatomy at Cambridge, and actually underwent the process of dissection. Always assuming that a biography of a comparatively unimportant man of the time in which he lived is a proper starting-point for a gathering together of facts relating to, and traits of character of, the more distinguished persons of his age, which we are not prepared to deny, there can be little doubt that we have in this life of Malone in many respects a valuable and certainly a very interesting contribution to contemporary history.

Chess Praxis: A Supplement to the Chess-player's Handbook. By Howard Staunton. Henry G. Bohn.

Chessplayers would appear to be a class of men patient to a fault. They must, indeed, be the most apathetic of mortals to have rested satisfied so long with the "several crude collections of ambiguities" that have been dignified with the name of Chess Laws. We imagined we knew something of the "glorious uncertainty" of chess law, but we must say we had no just conception of it till we opened this new work of Mr. Staunton. It is well, however, when we are enlightened on the extent of our want, to find it so well supplied.

It is several years since measures were devised for the amendment of the laws of chess. With one consent, the leading English players referred this task to Mr. Staunton. He consented to undertake it; and, after a delay which we cannot but regret, though in the author's circumstances it has been unavoidable, the revised code is now published in this supplement to his well-known Handbook. The arrangement he adopts is new, and is itself a security against the perplexing intricacies of former systems. The definitions and fundamental laws, which may be said to constitute the game, are distinguished from the more arbitrary regulations of play. The fundamental laws are laid down with greater clearness and exactness than we have seen elsewhere, and one or two points where doubt rested before have been made the subject of express legislation. The changes here are necessarily few. The author, cautious throughout, is in this part of his work strictly conservative. But he does not show the same leniency when he comes to treat of the regulations of play. Starting with the general rule that every practice at variance with the nature of the game must be rigidly excluded, he has thoroughly revised, judiciously abridged and supplemented, and carefully remodelled, the regulations concerning false and illegal moves and penalties. A very valuable excursus on the entire subject unfolds the principles by which he has been guided, and we are bound to say that these principles are as sound as the rules evolved from them are satisfactory. The several laws and regulations are expressed with the utmost plainness and terseness, and are vindicated and illustrated by copious notes. In these notes frequent reference is made to the recently-published codes and treatises of MM. Heydebrand der Laza and Jaenisch, especially where the author differs from these authorities. We may add that this code contains, besides regulations for ordinary play, rules for the Game at Odds, by Correspondence, and in Consultation. Certainly these laws deserve, and certainly they will receive, the fullest attention of the chess-playing community. We express our belief, without hesitation and without reservation, that they deserve universal adoption. We have no doubt the British Chess Association, at its approaching meeting at Cambridge, will crown this work of its most distinguished member with the accordance of its heartiest sanction to his code. If modifications are found advisable they must be both slight and few. To Mr. Staunton must the honour undoubtedly be assigned of having supplied the chess world with what he desiderated, in quoting in his Handbook the existing laws, the honour of establishing a "general and comprehensive code of regulations, in the interpretation of which there is neither doubt nor difficulty, and which is worthy of the period and of a game which aspires almost to the dignity of science."

THE LATE MRS. JAMESON.—FROM A PHOTOGRAPH BY KILBURN.

SEE PAGE 309.

We have left ourselves little space to remark on the other parts of this volume. The "most important modern improvements in the openings," to the consideration of which the larger part of the book is devoted, are treated in Mr. Staunton's best style. Taken in connection with the handbook which it supplements "Chess Praxis" must be an invaluable aid at once to the tyro and to the skilled amateur. The illustrative games are very numerous and, so far as we have found leisure to examine them, annotated with Mr. Staunton's customary judgment and ability. In an extended Appendix we have a collection of Mr. Morphy's match-games and many other games played by him in this country and in France. In the comments on these games we find nothing of those fulsome laudations which some have lavished upon the young American. Yet Mr. Morphy is by no means underrated. The beauties of his play are noted, and his excellencies are acknowledged, though perhaps with more discrimination than may suit the fancy of some of his admirers.

We cannot dismiss this work without expressing the hope that Mr. Staunton will turn aside now and then from his graver studies and favour us with future expositions of that noble game, in the practice of which he is such an adept, and which he has done more to illustrate and to popularise than any other author we can name.

THE BALÆNICEPS REX, OR STORK OF THE WHITE NILE, RECENTLY ADDED TO THE ZOOLOGICAL SOCIETY'S GARDENS, REGENT'S PARK.—SEE PRECEDING PAGE.

The Culture of Fruits and Vegetables, and The Culture of Flowers and Plants. By George Glenny, F.H.S. Houlston and Wright.

It is now eight and twenty years since Mr. Glenny first came before the public as a writer on horticulture, and, chary as too many amateurs and professional men are of owning their obligations to any teacher, there is no doubt that it is to the precepts which he has laid down in such simple and yet attractive terms that the greater part of them owe their experience. What Nesfield is to garden designs Glenny is to the rational science of gardening. His volumes are not written in the slipshod handy-book style of the day, which tells half and leaves the other half to be inferred; but they furnish the gardener with all the armour of his profession. Nothing can be more copious than the list of fruits with which he deals. Not content with the grape, apricot, peach, and common garden fruits, he treats of the cranberry (which we have always considered the most delicious groundwork for a tart, save and except Carlisle codlins), and does not overlook the almond or the nut. We were sadly puzzled as to what the couve tronchuda could be in the vegetable world, but are relieved on finding that it is only "a large plant of the cabbage tribe, possessing a very agreeable flavour." The cardoon is another of his vegetable varieties, and it seems to resemble the artichoke, with the exception of being larger in the plant and smaller in the bloom. The list of herbs, thirty-eight strong, would delight the hearts of Dr. Coffin and the Wise Woman of Maryport; and Sydney Smith's would have warmed at the attention bestowed on the juicy salad, of which he wrote so touchingly at his East Riding Rectory. Flowers seem equally a labour of love with Mr. Glenny, but he confines his attentions to twenty-six of them. Upon the auricula he dwells with peculiar tenderness, as he considers that it has been hitherto the most treacherous of all florists' pets, and that no plant in the world has been so tampered with. Bakers' scum, yellow loam, seaweed, and sundry other matters, have been recommended as the proper ingredients of a genuine compost to suit its peculiar constitution; and one pundit argues most elaborately in favour of the compost being steeped in blood "as the means of throwing brilliant colours into the pips or petals, and of giving life and vigour to the plants, as much as fine old port or rich madeira does to the human constitution." That large quantities of wine will give colour to a man's nose we admit is a possible case, but that blood will give colour to an auricula pip has, as our author sarcastically observes, not been so well demonstrated. Both the books are very beautifully printed, and are set off with fruit and flower frontispieces, by way of a gentle stimulus to pupils to put in practice the sterling precepts within.

Seamanship and its Associated Duties in the Royal Navy. By Lieutenant A. H. Alston, R.N. Routledge and Warne.

We congratulate the midshipmen of the fleet, to whom this book is dedicated, on their having within their reach what even an uninitiated person can perceive to be an excellent manual of instruction in their profession. The author states that previously to the publication of "The Naval Cadet's Manual," young officers were left to pick up what smattering of seamanship was required of them with but little help from that book lore which as a vehicle of instruction plays so important a part in the educational system of all other professions, and which is not less needed in the naval service. The present work is an attempt to supply the deficiency, and it would, we are informed, have been published before the above-mentioned very useful one by Captain Boyd had not the long absence of the author on a foreign station unavoidably postponed it. Still, he is of opinion that so extensive a subject can hardly be said to have been exhausted; and where there is so great a diversity of opinion as allowably exists on many points of practical seamanship it is of advantage to see both sides of the question. Mr. Alston wholly excludes the consideration of steam power, regarding its employment as exceptional and subordinate for ordinary purposes, until we shall be able to generate it by a less ponderous material than coal, and to apply it by means less liable to derangement than our present machinery can be said to be. The distinctive features of a ship proper, he asserts, are still maintained in our screw vessels of war, while the paddle-steamer will in naval warfare soon be reckoned among the things that were. It follows, therefore, that the study and practice of seamanship are by no means a work of supererogation. A treatise on nautical surveying is included in the work, which is intended for the use of those officers who, not possessing any experience in surveying operations, may unexpectedly find themselves in situations where such work is expected from them; and it contains instructions about almost everything which can possibly be required for ordinary purposes. The book is divided into parts; the first of which contains a series of questions on seamanship which relate to explanatory matter in the second part, on the subjects of the fitting out of vessels, the working them at sea, and a mass of valuable observations on general service. The third part consists of a number of tables and miscellaneous information, and the volume also contains two hundred illustrative engravings. As the result of the experience of a practical as well as a scientific sailor, this work will doubtless recommend itself to those for whose improvement and instruction it is intended.

A Ship: from her Cradle to her Grave. By Grandpapa Ben. W. Collingridge.

We may, perhaps, be excused for appending a brief notice of this little book to the preceding observations. In its way, it has also a value in reference to the early training of our youthful aspirants after a sea life. It is essentially a boy's book; but it contains a great deal of that elementary knowledge of the structure and working of a ship which ought to be communicated to a lad before he goes afloat and is put into the hands of a naval instructor, while the anecdotes and tales with which the graver matter is interspersed give it a form of inducement which is not to be despised.

The Natural History of Selborne. By the Rev. Gilbert White.

A new edition of White's Natural History of Selborne has just been issued by the Society for the Promotion of Christian Knowledge. At this time of day it would be superfluous to speak of a book which has acquired a reputation so extensive, and which possesses so great a charm as this. Beyond its intrinsic merits, which are universally acknowledged, it ought not to be forgotten that it deserves special commendation as the pioneer of a class of works which have become more common now. It need hardly be said that every possible care and attention has been bestowed on the getting-up of the volume, which is every way worthy of the character of the work.

The Waverley Novels. A. and C. Black.

Messrs. Black have advanced a considerable way in the publication of a new edition of the Waverley Novels, a number of the volumes of which are before us. The present edition is, to a certain extent, a reproduction of that famous issue which is associated with the grand struggle of Scott to meet his liabilities, and which was enriched with his copious introductions and notes. Each volume contains the two steel engravings which originally appeared in the edition in question; but to them is added a number of engravings in wood from characteristic designs. It need hardly be said that all the comparatively minor but not unimportant accessories of the getting-up of these works have been carefully attended to, and nothing can be neater and more satisfactory than the appearance of the volumes.

THE QUEEN'S DRAWING-ROOM.—CEREMONY OF PRESENTATION.

SEE PAGE 305

CALENDAR FOR THE WEEK.

Sunday, April 1.—Palm Sunday.
Monday, 2.—Copenhagen bombarded, 1801.
Tuesday, 3.—Hither died, 1010. Shakspeare died, 1616.
Wednesday, 4.—St Ambrose, Archbishop of Milan, died, 397.
Thursday, 5.—Maundy Thursday. Full moon, 10h. 6m., p.m.
Friday, 6.—Good Friday. Raphael died, 1520.
Saturday, 7.—Fire Insurance due. Prince Leopold born, 1853.

TIMES OF HIGH WATER AT LONDON-BRIDGE,
FOR THE WEEK ENDING APRIL 7, 1860.

Sunday.	Monday.	Tuesday.	Wednesday.	Thursday.	Friday.	Saturday.
M. A. 1 1	M. A. 1 2	M. A. 2 3	M. A. 3 4	M. A. 4 5	M. A. 5 6	M. A. 6 7
h. m. 10 6	h. m. 10 48	h. m. 11 30	h. m. 0 12	h. m. 0 54	h. m. 1 36	h. m. 2 18

SACRED HARMONIC SOCIETY, Exeter Hall.—Conductor Mr. COSTA.—On WEDNESDAY NEXT, APRIL 4, SUBSCRIPTION CONCERT. Sunday's MESSIAH. Principal Vocalists, Mdme. Clara Novello, Mdme. Sainton-Dolby, Mr. Sims Reeves, and Signor Belletti.—Tickets, 5s. 6d., and 10s. 6d. each, at the Society's office, No. 9, Sackville Street.

ST. MARTIN'S HALL.—HANDEL'S MESSIAH, TUESDAY NEXT, APRIL 3, at the last in a subscription, under the direction of Mr. JOHN BOOSEY. Principal Vocalists: Mrs Sunderland, Mrs. Fanny Rowland, Miss Palmer, Mr. Sims Reeves, Mr. Lawler, Mr. Weiss, Jun., and Mr. Weiss, Sen.

THE THEATRE ROYAL, HAYMARKET.—Miss AMY SEDGWICK will give her popular READINGS from Dramatic and other Writers at the Theatre Royal, Haymarket, on MONDAY NEXT, April 2, at Eight o'clock precisely. Right o'clock, and carriages by Ten. Prices of Admission—Stalls, 3s.; Dress Boxes, 3s.; Upper Boxes, 2s.; Pit, 1s. 6d.; Gallery, 1s. Stage Private Boxes, £1 11s. 6d., Post Office Private Boxes, £1 1s. The Box-office will be opened daily (Good Friday excepted) from Eleven till Five o'clock. Places may be secured by letter addressed to the Box-office, Haymarket. Reading: An ORIGINAL ADDRESS, written expressly for her, by Tom Taylor, Esq.

NEW THEATRE ROYAL, ADELPHI.—Sole Proprietor and Manager, Mr. WEBSTER. Under the distinguished Patronage of Her Majesty.—On Monday and during the Week, THE DEAD SHOT. Robert Landry (his original character), Mr. B. Webster; and Mr. Paul Bedford as THE FAIR ONE WITH THE GOLDEN LOCKS. Mr. J. L. Toole, Miss Woolgar. Commence at Seven.

ROYAL PRINCESS' THEATRE.—C. H. ADAMS'S ORRERY. Mr. Thomas Hall's Original Entertainment (sole and during the Week 19 and Friday excepted) Mr. Adams will give his Thirtieth Annual Lecture on ASTRONOMY, at the Princess' Theatre, on Monday, Feb. 27, and during the Week, at Eight o'clock. Upper Boxes, 3s.; Pit, 2s.; Gallery, 6d. Schools and Children half price to Boxes and Pit.

ASTLEY'S ROYAL AMPHITHEATRE (Proprietor, Mr. W. ASTLEY).—EVERY EVENING DURING APRIL 2 with new and splendid arrangements. Preceded upon the French drama, "LE DIABLE EN FRANCE," and new pantomime at Paris and London, entitled HARLEQUIN AND THE FAIRY OF THE FOUNTAIN; or, the Realm of Harmony. Scenery, decorations and properties by Mr. Harvey; costumes by Mr. Bevey and Mrs. Harrison; grand equestrian military appointments by Mr. Wood; and, in addition to the usual display by Mr. George Phillips; and, in order to give every possible effort to the production of the pantomime, the Proprietor has decided that the Circus shall be closed on Saturday next, to commence on Monday next at nineteen minutes past Seven. The spectacle will be produced under the talented Dramatic Company. The Equestrian Artists engaged are—Mdlle. Matilde Morat, from the Hippodrome, Paris; Mr. Mario, from Astley's, Paris; Mr. Arthur Saunders, from Fernando, from Worthington Circus, Berlin; Master Hollins, Master Jackson, and Master Wilson. The Clowns—Mr. Paul Herring, Mr. Tom Matthews, Mr. Tom Hall, and Mr. Frank Evans. In Entry: First Peasants, the celebrated Trick Act Mules; Mr. Wood, and Mr. Jones. The celebrated Dwarf, "Jonathan Jack," the Equestrian Wonder, will appear for a limited number of nights. Box-office open from Ten till Four. Private Boxes, Dress Circle, and Amphitheatre stalls, to be secured only at the Box-office. Doors open at Half-past Six, to commence at Seven. Stalls, 3s.; Pit, 2s.; Gallery, 1s. Children, dressed and unaccompanied, purposely for them, Half-price to Pit and Gallery. The Box-office will be open on Thursday for the Sale of Stalls for the Arena, &c. Rivoli: Stage Manager, Mr. Wm. West; Sole Manager, Mr. Rivoli. Acting Manager, Mr. Wm. Cooke.

FRIKELL at the STANDARD THEATRE during Passion Week.—Professor Wilhelm Frikell begs to announce that he will appear at the above Theatre on Monday next, and during the week, in his unrivalled Entertainment, and hopes by give his old friends an opportunity on Friday and EXTRA MAGIC MORNING, at the old of sixpennies, entitled TWO HOURS OF ILLUSIONS. To commence at Half-past 3. Seven o'clock.

MR. SIMS REEVES at the MONDAY POPULAR CONCERTS.—ST. JAMES'S HALL, on MONDAY EVENING NEXT, APRIL 2, on which occasion he will be assisted from the variety of Mdme. Sainton-Dolby, the celebrated Quintett for clarinet and stringed instruments. Principal performers:—M. Sainton, M. Ries, Mr. H. Blagrove, Mr. Zerbini, and Signor Piatti. Pianoforte, Mr. Charles Halle. Conductor, Mr. Benedict. Doors open at Seven; to commence at Eight. Stalls, Engraved and Cut, 5s.; New Bond-street; Cramer and Co., 201, Regent-street; Mitchell's, 33, Regent-street; Keith, Prowse, and Co.'s, 48, Cheapside; and at the Hall.

MR. and MRS. GERMAN REED Every Evening (except Good Friday and Saturday) at Eight; Thursday and Saturday afternoons at Three, in their POPULAR ENTERTAINMENT, OUR HOME CIRCUIT and ROSINA MEADOWS, introducing a variety of amusing and interesting SKETCHES FROM REAL LIFE, with Characteristic Songs, at the LONDON ASSURANCE BUILDINGS, Adelaide-street, Strand. Admission, 3s., 2s.; Stalls, 3s.; secured at the Gallery; and at Cramer, Beale, and Co's, 201, Regent-street.

MR. W. S. WOODIN ALL ROUND LONDON.—At the earnest request of a number of families resident in Newington, Mr. W. S. Woodin has consented to repeat his Entertainment, entitled THE LIFE OF A BEE, at the Lecture Hall in the Mechanics' Institution, Newington, which is being withdrawn, for variety and original Entertainment, which will be shortly produced at his Polygraphic Hall, the arrangements for which are now in progress. Commence at Eight o'clock. Admission, 1s.; provincial campaign will be as follows:—Ealing Mon 2 to 30 at 31; Stoke Newington, April 2; Bethnal-green, 3; Hackney, 4; Kentish Town, 5; Islington, 6; Camberwell, 7; Battersea, April 10; Kensington, 11; Hammersmith, 12, 13, and 14; Wandsworth, April 17; Brixton, April 16; Beaumont Institution, April 21.

MR. and Mrs. HOWARD PAUL will RESUME their popular Entertainment, at their usual Residence, Canonbury, at the ST. JAMES'S HALL, on MONDAY, April 2, for a brief Farewell Season.

THE SISTERS "SOPHIA AND ANNIE" will have the honour of appearing in an entirely new Entertainment (written expressly for them by Mr. Arthur Matthison), at the ADELAIDE GALLERY, on MONDAY, APRIL 2, and Every Evening during the Week.

REV. J. M. BELLEW has consented to give his new LECTURE on MILTON, in aid of the Fund for the Erection of a Statue to the Author of "Paradise Lost," on MONDAY Evening, APRIL 2.—Tickets, 5s.; Area and Gallery, 3s.; Back Seats, 1s. Of Mr. Sp. D. and F. Colnaghi, Pall-mall East; Mr. Bennet and Mr. Mitchell, 33, Old Bond-street; and Mr. Hoddell, 24, Haymarket.

MR. ALBERT SMITH'S LAST REPRESENTATION of CHINA Monday, 2nd, at Eight. Wednesday, 4th, at Eight. Mdme. —— on Tuesday, 3rd, at Three and Eight. Thursday, 5th, at Eight. Saturday, 7th, at Three o'clock. Egyptian Hall, Piccadilly.

CHRIST'S MINSTRELS.—Polygraphic Hall, King William-street, Strand.—Mr. Henry Russell's Popular Entertainment, Every Evening at Eight. Every Saturday Morning at Three o'Clock. Tickets and places may be secured at the Hall from Ten till Five o'clock. Stalls, 3s.; Area, 2s.; Gallery, 1s. Sole Lessee and Manager, Mr. Hall, Finsbury-square. Musical Director, H. J. W. Nappey. Secretary, H. Hodgson.

ALBANI'S CHOIR and ORCHESTRA.—The COLOURED OPERA TROUPE and ORCHESTRAL CONCERTS of ALBANI'S CHOIR, in connection with the Christy Minstrels.—Monday, April 2, and all the Week, SOUTHAMPTON. Address, W. Albani, 9a, Newman-street, Oxford-street.

MADAME TUSSAUD'S HISTORICAL PORTRAIT GALLERY.—Exhibition of the Banner, Baker-street.—A Full-length Portrait Model of the celebrated Lord MACAULAY, M.P., the Historian, and Right Hon. Sir Benjamin Hall, M.P., Polytechnic Institution, Regent-street. Open from Eleven in the Morning till Dusk; and in the Evening from Seven till Ten.

FRENCH EXHIBITION, 120, Pall-mall.—The Seventh Annual EXHIBITION of the Works of the Artists, Members of Artists of the French and Flemish Schools, will open on MONDAY, the 19th inst. Admission, One Shilling. Catalogue, Sixpence. Season Tickets, Five Shillings.

INSTITUTION of FINE-ARTS, PORTLAND GALLERY, 316, Regent-street, W., opposite the Polytechnic.—The THIRTEENTH ANNUAL EXHIBITION of the WORKS of MODERN ARTISTS is NOW OPEN from Nine till Dusk. Admission, One Shilling; Catalogue, Sixpence.

ROYAL ALHAMBRA PALACE, Leicester-square.—Mdme. ALBONI, the FEMALE ROBIN HOOD, and a host of celebrities for presents in the part of TAMING HORSES, on THURSDAY NEXT, April 5, and during the Week. Mdme. Alboni will appear on Thursday Evening, and the Morning Riding Scenes at Ten o'clock on Saturday Morning next, April 7. Under the auspices upon which the practised were two wild unbroken colts fresh from the prairie. Mdme. Alboni will ride her own seen on her favourite horse, in the dress of a Hungarian Hussar, and will perform her exercises with them on the ground as if they were pet spaniels. The subjects selected for the Arena by the Proprietor are the Battle of Waterloo, the Death of Nelson, the Battle of Inkerman, and Farmer Frey and an Hybrid Animal, recently found in the Shires—the old cart-horse and cob to combine the spirits of the Horse with those of the Red Deer. Mdme. Alboni, daughter of the late Mr. John Albion, of Outer Red Farm, near Malden, Derbyshire. She is only eighteen years of age, but from her childhood she has always shown a remarkable fondness for horses, and has had the best instruction in the art of riding from Mr. James Fellow, from Astley Hall, Nottinghamshire, who has made arrangements for assisting the most world to Mdme. Alboni can be found in London or visiting, and, although many years her senior, Mr. Fellow has consented to proclaim the same results with more ease to himself and his pupil. Mdme. Alboni, Mr. Fellow, &c., to be engaged in private, is not the discourse of this opinion of Horse Taming, as signed by Mr. Fellow, Mr. Albert Smith, Mr. Arthur Sketchley, and Mr. Bayle Bernard. Doors will be opened at Half-past One, to commence at Two precisely. Private Boxes, Stalls, One Guinea each, or One Guinea and a Half for a Gentleman and Lady. Second seats, Half-a-Guinea each. Dress Circle and the Vase Balcony, Seven Shillings and Sixpence. Pit, Half-a-Guinea. Upper Boxes, Five Shillings. Gallery, Two Shillings. Lessee and Manager, Mr. Hughes. Stage Manager, Mr. Wm. Holland. Acting Manager, Mr. Wm. Cooke. Box-office open from Ten till Four. Admission, One Shilling; Catalogue, Sixpence.

CRYSTAL PALACE.—Arrangements for the Week ending Saturday, April 7.—Monday and Good Friday, open at Nine; other days, open at Ten. Mdlle. Parodi-Bosio will sing in a Concert to commence at Half-past Three. Mr. Manuel's display of Canadian, Highlands, and other Fancy Dresses, and his Fantastic Ballet. Handel Festival Choir, Orchestra, and Organ. Children under Twelve, Sixpence. Saturday, Half-a-Crown: Children, One Shilling. Reserved Seats, Half-a-Crown extra. Sunday, open at 1.30 to shareholders, gratuitously, by Tickets

CRYSTAL PALACE.—GOOD FRIDAY.—The Palace and Park will be opened at Nine o'clock. Trains will run as usual from London Bridge, Pimlico, and intermediate stations. Mdlle. PICCOLOMINI and other Artistes will appear in a Miscellaneous and Instrumental Concert, to commence at Three o'clock. Admission, One Shilling; Children under twelve, Sixpence; Reserved Seats, Half-a-Crown extra.

THE ROYAL ASSOCIATION
PROMOTION OF THE FINE ARTS IN SCOTLAND.
Incorporated by Royal Charter in 1858.
PLAN FOR THE CURRENT YEAR, 1860.

First.—Each Subscriber will receive a copy of splendid Line Mezzotint Engraving, executed expressly for the Association, after the celebrated Picture by Sir DAVID WILKIE, R.A., "THE PENNY WEDDING."

Second.—Each Subscriber will receive a copy of splendid Line Mezzotint Engraving, executed expressly for the Association, after the celebrated Picture by Sir DAVID WILKIE, R.A., "SCENE FROM THE PENNY WEDDING."

Third.—Each Subscriber who, between the years 1830 and 1859 inclusive, has paid up, in addition to the Annual Subscription of One Guinea, Ten Guineas, will receive, in addition to the above Engravings, a Selection of Original Works which may be annually issued as great, an Impression of a beautiful Plate, engraved by Lumb Stocks, R.S.A., in the highest style of Line, the name given as the Premium for 1860,

"SCENE FROM THE SHERIFF'S COURT."

Intending Subscribers are requested to apply for Prospectuses and Addresses to the Honorary Secretaries in their respective localities to whom Subscriptions may be paid, and through whom immediate receive the Prints, free of charge; or to the Secretary in Edinburgh, with as little delay as possible.

Subscriptions and Subscriptions received in London by

William Tweedie, Publisher, 337, Strand.	F. C. M. Cranch, 4, Crescent, New Bridge-street, Blackfriars.
Messrs. Coutts and Co., Bankers, 59, Strand.	Messrs. Ransom, Bilton, Wright, & Plumbtree, Bankers, 1, Pall-mall East.
A. T. Stilwell, Esq., Secretary, 37, Johnson's-court, Fleet-street.	R. W. Terry, Chief Bank, 10, Cannon-street.
John H. Kerr, Gresham House, Old Broad-street, E.C.	Messrs. Glyn, Mills, and Co., Bankers, 67, Lombard-street.
C. Hitchcock, 67, Leonard-street, Finsbury-square, Middlesex.	G. Downe, 182, Leadenhall street.
	T. Wm. Waters, 77, Cannon-street.

Edinburgh, 69, York-place, 30th March, 1860.

SCIENCE-TEACHING.—Manufacturers, Publishers, &c., desirous to submit their Goods and Contrivances for the Educational Museum, under the direction of the Committee of Council on Education of the 8rd of June, 1859, with the Lords of the Committee of Council on Education, are requested to send Specimens, Models, Mechanical Machines, and Architectural Drawings; 8, Privet (Mechanical and Experimental Apparatus; 4, Diagrams; 5, Models; 6, Machines; 7, Architectural Drawings; 8, Philosophical Instruments; 9, Chemical Apparatus; 10, Specimens of Natural History; 11, Miscellaneous Drawings—should apply for the conditions to the Secretary of the science and Art Department, South Kensington, London, W.

By order of the Committee of Council on Education.

SCIENTIFIC PRESENTS.—Collections of Minerals, Rocks, Fossil Remains, Shells, Insects, Birds, Eggs, Skins, Skeletons, &c., can be had at 8, 9, 10, 20, 30, 50, to 100 guineas each, of J. TENNANT, 142, Strand, London.

ORNAMENTS for the DRAWING-ROOM, LIBRARY, &c.—See ILLUSTRATIONS of NATURAL OBJECTS, Fossil and Recent, for the Decoration of Public and Private Buildings, Halls, Staircases, Libraries, Drawing-rooms, &c., and for Ornamental Purposes generally, in the Museum of Economic Geology, Jermyn-street, Piccadilly, and 149, Strand. Also a Collection of Specimens illustrating the Geology of Ireland, and the Economic Products derived from the Mineral Kingdom. Open daily, from Ten till Four. Admission, One Shilling. Catalogue, Sixpence. Season Tickets, Five Shillings. Museum of Economic Geology, Jermyn-street, Piccadilly, and 149, Strand. Also a Collection of Specimens illustrating the Geology of Ireland, and the Economic Products derived from the Mineral Kingdom. Open daily, from Ten till Four. Admission, One Shilling. Catalogue, Sixpence. Season Tickets, Five Shillings. Museum of Economic Geology, Jermyn-street, Piccadilly, and 149, Strand.

NEW ART-UNION.—Limited to 8000 Subscribers.—For a Subscription of One Guinea per annum, the Subscriber will receive a Proof Engraving of the Picture, and the proof impressions of which were published at Seventy Guineas each, and a Chance of obtaining a Picture of the value of Fifty Guineas or upwards. Each Subscription is of more value than the single print usually given by Art-Unions for the Subscription, and the Chance of obtaining a Prize is the same as in any other Art-Union. The Subscription and Drawings will take place in the month of May next. As only 8000 Subscribers will be received, and as no more copies can be produced, it may be relied upon that before the Drawing there will be worth £7 7s. or more. Specimens of each of the Engravings will be sent for inspection anywhere in London.

Apply to Mr. ALFRED HOLMES, 40, Warwick-street, Regent-street, W., and Mr. Gale's Publications, Bridge-street, Blackfriars, E.C.

NURSERY GOVERNESS Required to Take Charge of a Boy and Girl, aged three and four years, in a Gentleman's family.—Address, stating Qualifications and Salary required, to A. B., 3, Bedford-row, Holborn.

SHARP'S WRITING INSTITUTION, 97a, Quadrant, Regent-street, Opposite the Polytechnic.—Mr. SHARP, late Resident Master at Mr. Cooper's Establishment, Hatton-garden, and Author of "Sharp's Writing Copies," begs to announce that he has REMOVED to the above address, where he will be happy to receive Pupils. Terms, Two Guineas per quarter, payable in advance. Mr. Sharp's Testimonials may be seen on application. Hours of Attendance, 10 to 4.

THE LET, with Immediate Possession, WITHAM HOUSE and GARDEN, with Coach-house, Stable, and Outhouses.—For particulars and to view apply to Mr. J. W. PAGE, jun., Witham, Essex.

MONEY ADVANCED Promptly from a Private Source, in sums of £50 and upwards, on Personal Security.—Messrs. BOWES and BELLINGHAM, 67, Great-ax-street, Bank, E.C.

MONEY ADVANCED Without Security.—National Loan Fund, 3, Adelaide-street, Strand, W.C., Corner of Duncannon-street. Open from 10 to 4. Sundays, 1 to 2. Loans from £5 to £100 without Sureties, at extra-ordinary small repayments. Applications by letter, Forms, 2d.

SARL and SONS, 17 and 18, Cornhill, respectfully solicit a visit to their magnificent Establishment. The Ground Floor is more particularly devoted to the Sale of Plate, Jewellery, Gold and Silver Chains, Rings, and Chains. The Silver-Plate Department is in the Gallery of the Building, and consists of a large and well-selected Stock of Dessert Services, Tea and Coffee Services, Cruets, &c., and a large assortment of Electro-Plated Fiddle-pattern Spoons and Forks, manufactured by them for the last twenty years' experience. Sarl and Sons have also fitted up a separate Show-room for the display of Papier-Mâché Goods, Dressing-cases, Work-boxes, &c.

Books containing Drawings and Prices may be had on application.

Sarl and Sons, 17 and 18, Cornhill.

WILLIAM S. BURTON'S GENERAL FURNISHING IRONMONGERY CATALOGUE may be had gratis and free by post. It contains Bronzes, Clocks, Lamps, Table Cutlery, Baths, Toilet Ware, Turnery, Iron and Brass Bedsteads, Bedding, Fenders, Stoves, Marble Chimney-pieces, Kitchen Ranges, Lamps, Gasaliers, Tea Trays and Urns, Tea Urns, Clocks, Culinary Utensils, Turnery, Iron and Wire Work, Mattresses, Palliasses, Beds, Bedding, &c., from Furnishers, &c., with Lists of Sizes and Plans of the Eleven Large Show-rooms at 39, Oxford-street, W.; 1, 1a, 2, 3, Newman-street; 4, 5, 6, Perry's Place; and 1, Newman-yard, Fitzroy-square.

TEA.—HOOKE BROTHERS and COMPANY are the only City Merchants willing to supply Families Gratis at merely Wholesale Profits. The Wholesale Prices Current sent Gratis and Post-free. Hooke Brothers and Co., 41, Mincing-lane. Established 1801.

STOOPING of the SHOULDERS has been REMOVED in many Thousand Cases the last Twelve Years by the Patent Chest Expander. Full particulars forwarded on receipt of postage-stamps by ALFRED HUTTON, 4, Great Marlborough-street, London.

TESTIMONIALS Designed and Emblazon ed on Vellum and Parchment, for Presentation Addresses.—Richmond, Norfolk Seals, Dies, Presses, Book Plates, &c.—H. SALT, Heraldic Office, Turnham, Limerick-lane.

A CAUTION on HERALDRY.—The Nobility and Gentry are respectfully informed that the Establishment in Arundel-street, Strand, is not connected with any other, and that Mr. Wilson, late Herald Painter to the Heralds' College, is not employed by me. Public for their own protection, and to prevent disappointment, are requested to observe that the Heraldic Office, only one exists Engraving, &c. THE LINCOLN'S INN MANUAL OF HERALDRY, 1 vol., 1,000 Engravings, Published at 31s. 6d., reduced to 15s. H. SALT, Lincoln's Inn Heraldic Office.

FOR FAMILY ARMS, send to the LINCOLN'S-INN HERALDIC OFFICE Name and County. Arms Painted, Emblazed, and Quartered. Sketch, 2s. 6d.; Finished in Colours, 5s. Crest Engraved on Seals, Rings, &c., 7s. 6d. Manual, 5s. 6d.

LINCOLN'S INN HERALDIC OFFICE.—The established office for authority in England, which for many years has furnished Arms, Crests, &c., with that authority? Arms Painted and Quartered, 5s. Crest Engraved on Seal or Ring, 7s. 6d. Manual, 5s. 6d.

RIMMEL'S RIFLE VOLUNTEERS' BOUQUET is the fashionable Perfume for this season. Sold by him at Gentlemens' Hall and by all Perfumers. 24, Cornhill, 96, Strand; 24, Cornhill; and Crystal Palace.

WALLER'S PICATURA PRIZETTES, for Dressing Ladies' Hair in new style, 4d. and 1s. per set, must be in any part of the Kingdom, with instructions for dressing, on receipt of stamps; in stamps, and send colour of hair.—PRIZE PARIS PRIZETTES, 3s. 6d. and 5s. 6d. each. W. WALLER, Guildford, 95, Great College-street, Camden New Town.

THE PLICATURA NEW PRISSETTES, SO DARLING LADIES' HAIR In the New Style, designed and made only by W. WINTER, 341, Oxford-street, W.

DANCING.—Mr. BLAND and DAUGHTERS give LESSONS DAILY at their New Academy, 5, Hanover-square, the Misses Bland attending to partners. 30s. Private—Street—Regent-street, W.

LONDON and NORTH-WESTERN and MIDLAND RAILWAYS.—A CHEAP EXCURSION TRAIN will LEAVE the EUSTON STATION, London, on THURSDAY, APRIL 5, for Leicester, Nottingham, Derby, Lincoln, Matlock, Sheffield, Leeds, Bradford, York, and other stations, as the following FARES for the Double Journey:

Leaving London, Euston s.b.	First Cov.	Second Cov.	Third Cov.	Cheap Cov.
Stations ...	8.0.	8.0.	8.0.	Stat. Cov.
Leicester (arrive about)	1.13	10s. 9s.	Chesterfield (arrive about)	4.30
Nottingham ...	2.30		Sheffield ...	4.45
Derby	2.30		Huddersfield ...	4.30
Burton	2.30	18s. 9s.	Oakenshaw, for Wake-field ...	4.45
Mansfield ...	4.0		Leeds	4.45
Retford, for Southwell	4.30		Normanton ...	4.30
Newark	4.37		Pontefract ...	4.30
Lincoln	5.30		Bradford ...	5.15
Matlock	2.30		York	5.15
Rowsley	2.30	18s. 10s.	Harrogate ...	5.15
	2.30			9.30

RETURNING ON TUESDAY, APRIL 10.

Children under three years of age, free; above three and under twelve, half fares. Tickets not transferable, and the companies will not be responsible for luggage.

A Special Train to Leicester (Quarter-square Station), via the Midland and North Western Railway, will run from York, Normanton, Leeds, Sheffield, &c., on Tuesday, April the 10, returning from London (Euston-square Station) on Tuesday, April 10.

EUSTON STATION, 1860. By order.

HOSPITAL for CONSUMPTION and DISEASES of the CHEST, Brompton, London, S.W.—A PUBLIC DINNER will take place at the ALBION TAVERN, Aldersgate-street, on WEDNESDAY, the 11th day of April next. Sir John R. Pakington, Bart., M.P., G.C.S., &c., &c., in the Chair, in aid of the general Expenditure of the Hospital, and with a view to the formation of a Special Fund for maintaining the Marjoribanks Beds, which, now proud to bear the honoured name of the Founder of the Charity.

PHILIP ROSE, Hon. Sec.
HENRY C. BURDETT, Sec.

CITY of LONDON HOSPITAL for DISEASES of the CHEST, Victoria Park.
President—His Grace the Duke of CARLISLE, K.G.
Treasurer—Sir MORTON PETO, Bart., M.P.
THE TWELFTH ANNIVERSARY FESTIVAL is appointed to be HELD at the LONDON TAVERN on THURSDAY, APRIL 12, 1860.
The Right Hon. the Earl of SHREWSBURY and TALBOT has kindly consented to preside. The Hospital, which is entirely supported by voluntary contributions, has been open for the last 11 years, and in that time has relieved and is now relieving more than 1,000 patients annually. A large part of the profits, they earnestly solicit the kind and active co-operation of the Governors and friends of the Charity to make the Festival in every respect worthy of the former successes of the Charity.
PHILIP ROSE, Hon. Sec.
HENRY C. BURDETT, Sec.

CAMBRIDGE ASYLUM for SOLDIERS' WIDOWS, 1, Knightsbridge, Hyde Park Corner.—Patron, Her Majesty the QUEEN DOWAGER; and the other members of the Royal Family. The ANNUAL GENERAL COURT of GOVERNORS, and ELECTION for FIVE WIDOWS, will be held at the UNITED SERVICE INSTITUTION, Whitehall, on THURSDAY, May 3, at Twelve o'Clock at Noon, precisely. Votes will be received by the Secretary, at the Asylum, from Ten till Four, and beyond that hour, if the Poll be not closed. Dated this 2nd day of March, 1860.
JOHN JOSEPH CULPEPPER, Sec.
Office, 19, Parliament-street, S.W., March, 1860.

We are compelled to defer the insertion of several original articles—among which are the Town and Table Talk column and a notice of the Exhibition of the Society of British Artists.

ADVERTISEMENTS for insertion in this Journal for Saturday next, April 7, cannot be received after Wednesday evening.

THE ILLUSTRATED LONDON NEWS.

LONDON, SATURDAY, MARCH 31, 1860.

WHEN a great measure, as sometimes happens, gets into a ludicrous position in Parliament, of course its fate may be supposed to be sealed. It is with regret that we find ourselves compelled to acknowledge that the Reform Bill is in the agonies of even such a situation. In the slight comment which we thought it necessary to make on the Government bill for the amendment of the representation of the people, as it is somewhat grandiloquently entitled, we indicated an opinion that it was constructed mainly with a view to its passing both Houses of Parliament with ease. It was probable that it would be successful in that respect. Subsequent events have led us to modify that opinion, and we are inclined to believe that, even if it should weather the House of Commons, which is at least doubtful, it would leave that House with so many marks of, to say the least, indifference upon it that the House of Lords would be amply justified in rejecting it. It ought to be understood that the condition—very nearly shared—into which the bill has fallen is not really referable to much to its intrinsic faults as to the very careless manner in which it has been handled by the Government. The first step which was made with regard to it was a blunder. The postponement of the introduction of such a measure for some weeks after the meeting of Parliament, when it was supposed that the Legislature had been called together a fortnight earlier than usual, for the purpose of its being better able to deal with the question of Reform, was extremely injudicious. People do not hesitate to say that at that time the bill was not only not prepared, but the principles on which it was to be founded had not been agreed on by the Cabinet. Looking to its scope and its general provisions, as well as to the manner in which Lord John Russell has introduced it, the manner which is only to be understood by personal observation of his demeanour in the House—it seems very much as if the measure had been arranged on the principle of its containing as much as Lord John Russell could get on the one hand, and as little as the majority of the Cabinet would yield to him on the other. But, however that may be, there is small doubt that it makes a great advance in reference to the extension of the franchise; and, probably, it is all that could be expected in the present Parliament, even had it been better calculated to secure acceptance.

It does not seem to us at all an objectionable course to deal with the different branches of Parliamentary Reform by separate measures. The main principle of the franchise might well form the subject of a single bill, and the other points of detail might properly be considered apart, so far as direct legislation is concerned. The mode in which the property qualification of members of Parliament may be dealt with is a case in point. In the possibility of effectually dealing with what are comparatively minor subjects connected with Parliamentary Reform without their incumbering a principal measure. Nevertheless, as we have said, unity and simplicity of plan have been entirely lost sight of in Lord John Russell's bill as it stands. No doubt it is open to improvement in this respect in Committee; and, if the Government will really before the discussion on the second reading ends put some leaves and compartments into their support of it, it is quite possible that such a reasonable and proper measure may be passed through the Commons as will give its motive force enough to carry it through the Lords, and to settle the question of Parliamentary Reform for a period longer, we believe, than many persons contemplate. If the Government suffer the second reading to be thrown over until after Easter, we are certain that they may bid good-by to their bill. Such a defeat could not be altogether insignificant in its effect on the House.

THE week that comprises the anniversary of the greatest humiliation sustained by the first Napoleon—the entry of the Allied Armies into Paris—sees the evacuation of Savoy by the troops of the King of Sardinia in order to make room for the soldiery of Napoleon III. The coincidences of history are singular; may its hints be profitable to all parties concerned. An armistice between Spain and Morocco, with a view to a peace, is the only other interesting item of foreign news. The war was considered unnecessary, and it has been conducted at a cost enormously in excess of any advantage to be gained from it; but Spain had a not unjustifiable idea that she was very low down in the scale of nations, and that it was desirable for her to do something to show that all her old martial spirit had not been demoralised by years of civil dudgeon and financial bankruptcy. She has had a campaign, in which there has been some éclat, and her soldiers have proved that they can fight; but we take it that the principal gainers have been the army contractors and the coiners of the shillings of the salute, the former of whom have enjoyed large opportunities of safe plunder, while the latter have been the recipients of whole wardrobes of embroidered petticoats and tons of votive candles. If the age would only permit a grand Auto of Faith, by the combined aid of a distinguished party of heretics in the Plaza Mayor in Madrid, the Church would have nothing more to desire from the crusade against the Moors.

Parliament has had a church-rate debate, and Sir John Trelawny's abolition bill has made progress in Committee in spite of those discussions to which personalities give so much flavour occupied the House on Tuesday. The question raised, on the Conservative side, was whether the Government should not fulfil a small contract entered into by Mr. Churchward, of Dover, that gentleman having been reported by a Committee to have used corruption in dealing with certain electors. It was hardly to be expected that party feeling should not have a good deal to do with the decision, which was ultimately given by Mr. Speaker. His principal supporters amused the House with a series of extracts from letters written to him by highly-placed persons (too great to have their names mentioned) who, when in office, desired his aid either as a journalist or as election agent.

> And who were the culprits? Of gibbet or wheel
> Every thing, sir, or the mangling antagonist's steel?
> No, by Minister's vows (or their broadcloth) you're wrong!
> They were sinners too proud to be subjects for law.

However, it is fair to say that, beyond the disclosure of the fact that a very useful man was in the habit of receiving private officials the kind of official or complimentary notes which oil the wheels of business of all sorts in these days, as they did in other days, there was no scandal to be revealed. The income-tax addition has been carried and the Wine Licenses Bill has been affirmed in principle, notwithstanding the dreadful clamour which the brewers are ordering the publicans to make against it. One good feature of the measure is that it departs from the old licensing system that placed all power in the hands of magistrates, who are practically subservient to the great brewers. There is, nevertheless, far too much authority left in the hands of authorities who are at once irresponsible to the public and subject to private influence. The Army Estimates have to be withdrawn, and others substituted, in consequence of the new arrangements in India, but the Duke of Newcastle states that there will be no increase of expenditure.

Singularly barren of home incident, the week just passed leaves little for comment. It is but six weeks since we chronicled the death of Sir William Napier, the author of the noble "History of the Peninsula War," and now we have to announce the death of his widow. Sir William died on the 12th of February last, and Lady Napier, a fine specimen of a great man, expired on the 20th of this present March. The demise of Lady Stratheden, wife of the Lord Chancellor, creates a vacancy for the virtuous borough of Harwich. Mr. Campbell, her Ladyship's son, taking the title. The election will be between Mr. Bagshaw and Mr. Wyvern and Sir W. Russell, the Liberal candidates, have been returned.

Public attention is being (evidently "by desire") called to the condition of the General Post Office, which is found far too small and inconvenient to permit of the immense business of the great establishment being properly conducted. It is in the interest of everybody who writes or receives a letter that the Post Office should be made as perfect as possible, and the press renders a benefit to society by calling the case to the front. We know that there is room at St. Martin's-le-Grand is the grand evil—its consequences are multifarious; but the chief are delay, confusion, and the rough handling of letters and papers, any one of which grievances would seem to justify the having immediate recourse to Parliament for aid in a matter of so much importance. We are told of letters being swept out of a trough by a porter with an old hearthrush, whereby they were torn and the stamps rubbed off; and we hear of another porter taking away newspapers, knocking them about with a rake, and trampling them out of their covers by scores. As the Scottish obituaries say, "Friends at a distance will please accept this intimation," and, when they write to us with vehement objurgations as to the state in which the covers of the ILLUSTRATED LONDON NEWS sometimes arrive, they will in future be inclined to divert their just wrath from us to the officials at the Post Office. It is impossible that the present state of things can be allowed to exist, and we presume that the detailed complaint published by a leading daily contemporary may be regarded as the expression of the sufferings of Sir Rowland Hill. Of him, if it were only for the immeasurable boon of the penny post, we may say, Rosalind—

> Our fathers loved Sir Rowland as his soul,
> And all the world is of our fathers' mind.

And a voice from St. Martin's-le-Grand is not to fall unheeded upon a nation that sends in one year through that establishment 478,000,000 letters.

A benevolent lady, who withholds her name, has offered the National Life-boat Institution to defray the cost (amounting to £730) of four life-boats and their equipments, which the society has decided to station at Newquay and St. Ives, in Cornwall; North Sunderland Bay, in Ireland; and Buckie, on the northern coast of Scotland.

It is stated that a plan is on foot for the establishment of paper-mills in the metropolis of brewers, Burton-on-Trent. "Spent hops" are to be worked up and supplied to the market in the form of paper. Samples of the manufacture are now on view. The paper is of a light brown, and of the kind suitable for packing.

THE COURT.

The Queen held her first Drawingroom this season at St. James's Palace on Saturday last. At page 301 will be found an illustration, and at page 302 a description, of this State ceremonial. On the same day the Duchess of Kent arrived at Buckingham Palace on a visit to her Majesty from Frogmore. In the evening the Queen had a dinner party, the company at which included the Duchess of Kent, Prince and Princess Alfred, the Duke de Montpensier, Prince Victor of Hohenlohe, the Duke and Duchess of Manchester, the Right Honourable and Madame von de Weyer, the Spanish Minister (M. Isturiz), Viscount Sydney, Viscount Bury, and Lord and Lady Churchill.

On Sunday the Queen and Prince Consort, the Duchess of Kent, Prince Alfred, Prince Alfred, Prince Arthur, Princess Helena and Louise, the ladies and gentleman of the Court, and the domestic household, attended divine service in the private chapel at Buckingham Palace. The Hon. and Very Rev. the Dean of Windsor officiated.

On Monday the Queen held a Court and Privy Council at Buckingham Palace, which was attended by Lord Palmerston, Lord Lansdowne, Lord Granville, Lord Clarendon, and Sir George Grey. Lord John Russell, Minister to Sweden, had an audience of the Queen. Lord John Russell obtained a similar honour on Tuesday. Count de Persigny paid a congratulatory visit to the Duke of Cambridge in the afternoon, and in the evening entertained at dinner her Majesty, Prince Alfred, and Prince Arthur to witness the performances at the Haymarket Theatre.

On Tuesday the Prince Consort dined with the Clothworkers' Company, at their new hall, in Mincing-lane. In the evening the Queen, with Prince Alfred, Prince Arthur, and Princess Helena, honoured the performances at the Adelphi Theatre with their presence.

On Wednesday the Queen held a Levee at St. James's Palace. Her Majesty afterwards drove out in an open carriage and four with Prince Alfred and Princess Louise.

On Thursday the Queen and Prince Consort, accompanied by Princess Alice and Prince Albert, went to Claremont and paid a visit to the Countess de Noailly. The Duchess of Kent took leave of her Majesty in the afternoon, and returned to Frogmore.

The Queen and the Prince Consort, and the youthful members of the Royal family, gave the Duke of Cambridge a dinner party on Monday at Cambridge House, in honour of his Royal Highness's grandmother, the Dowager Duchess of Saxe-Coburg.

The Countess of Caledonia has succeeded the Marchioness of Ely as Lady in Waiting to the Queen. The Hon. Eleanor Stanley and the Hon. Flora Macdonald succeed the Hon. Caroline Paget, and Miss the Hon. Horatia Stopford as the Maids of Honour in Waiting to the Queen.

THE LEVEE.

The Queen held a Levee on Wednesday afternoon in St James's Palace.

Her Majesty and the Prince Consort arrived from Buckingham Palace soon after two o'clock.

The Duke of Cambridge, Prince Edward of Saxe-Weimar, and Prince Victor of Hohenlohe attended.

The Queen and Prince Consort entered the throne-room accompanied by the Duke of Cambridge, Prince Edward of Saxe-Weimar, and Prince Victor of Hohenlohe, and attended by the Marchioness of Ely (officiating for the Duchess of Sutherland), Viscount Bury, Colonel Grey, and Sir Charles Phipps. Lord Steward (Earl of Wilton), Lord Chamberlain (Earl of Clarendon), Lord Privy Seal (Earl Granville), Lord Chamberlain to the Queen Dowager (Lord Foley), Master of the Horse (Earl of St. Germans), Lord Steward, Viscount Sydney, Lord Chamberlain to the Queen Dowager (Lord Rivers), Lord Chamberlain, and Lords and Ladies of the Royal household.

Her Majesty wore a white satin dress and blue striped moire antique, trimmed with bouillons of tulle, blonde, and blue ribbon. The petticoat of white satin trimmed with tulle, blonde, and blue ribbon. Her Majesty's jewels. The Queen wore a circle of diamonds as a headdress.

Upwards of 400 persons were presented to her Majesty; the most noticeable among whom were—Colonel Henry James, Director of the Ordnance Survey, who received from her Majesty the honour of knighthood; Mr. Edward Shepherd Creasy, on being appointed Chief Justice of Ceylon, who had also the honour of knighthood conferred upon him by the Queen; Mr. Adam, M.P., by Lord John Russell; Mr. W. G. Hunt, on his appointment as Secretary to the Treasury; Mr. Dunn Pattison, by the Secretary of State for the War Department; Mr. Frederick Bruce, on appointment to the command of her Majesty's forces in China; Mr. Thomas Brown, on appointment to the Governorship of Prince of Wales's Island; Mr. Thomas the Duke of Cambridge; Mr. Percy Sewering, on his return from Hong-Kong, by the Duke of Cambridge; Mr. Hall, on his appointment to the Governorship of Sierra Leone; Lord Chamberlain, in the absence of the Lord Chancellor; Mr. E Egerton, on his appointment to the Governorship of Heligoland; Mr. Thomas Patton; Mr. T. H. Kavanagh, V.C., Assistant-Commissioner in Oude, on receiving the honour of knighthood; Mr. Thomas Lloyd, Mr. Lowther Dunover, on being raised to the Peerage, by Viscount Palmerston; Lieutenant-Colonel Wilkie, C.B., on his appointment to Hong-Kong; Mr. Hamilton, as Secretary of Legation in China, by Lord John Russell; Mr. Julius Beer, Mr. Thomas Bateman, Mr. Thomas Bateman, Mr. Thomas Bateman, Mr. Thomas, Provost of Queen's College, Chaplain in Ordinary to her Majesty, by the Lord Chamberlain.

THE PRINCE OF WALES.

We understand that during the Easter vacation his Royal Highness the Prince of Wales will have left town for Cambridge, where he will remain to also to his Royal Highness's grandmother, the Dowager Duchess of Saxe-Coburg.

Her Royal Highness the Duchess of Cambridge had a dinner party on Monday evening at her residence in Cambridge House, in honour of the birthday of his Royal Highness the Duke of Cambridge.

Their Royal Highnesses the Duke de Nemours and the Duke de Montpensier visited the Lord Warden, the Duchess of Kent, on Tuesday, at Buckingham Palace.

The Duke of Wellington had an assembly on Saturday evening at Apsley House. Their Royal Highnesses the Duchess of Cambridge and Princess Mary honoured the entertainment with their presence.

The Earl of Aberdeen is suffering from illness, and the general state of his Lordship's health is such as to cause some anxiety to his family.

Earl Granville has left town for Walton Heath, Epsom.

Viscountess Palmerston had an assembly on Wednesday evening at Cambridge House.

WILLS AND BEQUESTS.

Bishop of Rochester: The will of the Right Rev. George Murray, D.D., late Bishop of Rochester, of Dunraven-street, Park-lane, and Bishop's-court, square, London, was proved in the principal registry of her Majesty's Court of Probate, by Lydia Sophia, the relict, and the Rev. Francis H. Murray, Lady Sarah Maria Murray, the relict, and the Rev. Francis H. Murray, M.A., Hertford College, Oxford, the sons, the executors, on the 6th ult., the sole, the executors, and the domestic household, all the personal estate and effects of the testator, and his wife's marriage settlement and her right and interest over the residuary estate under the will of her late father, Sir Samuel Scott, Bart., of which might incorporate it with the assets of his own estate, to distribute, after the decease of his wife, amongst his children, and to pay an annuity to a number of shares in the Great Indian Peninsular Railway Company. His Lordship has left £500 to the Bishop of London Fund, and bequeaths an immediate legacy of £1000 and all the furniture and effects belonging to him in the palace at his late diocese-seat, with, in the event of his decease in the vacation, his property, at her decease, being subject to the payment of numerous pecuniary legacies, and the residue to his children in equal proportions, five settlements. The will is dated the 20th of May, 1858, signed "G. Rochester," and witnessed by James Rice and C. C. A. Rice, of Lincoln's-inn-fields. Considering the complexity of the various dispositions and codicils, the value of the property sworn under £140,000, and personal Probate was the only surviving son of Lord George Murray, the second son of the third Duke of Atholl, and had married, in 1801, Lydia Scott.

Canon Canning: The will and codicil of the Rev. William Canning, M.A., Canon of the Collegiate Church of St. George, in the Chapel Royal, Windsor, London Court on the 27th of March by two of the executors—namely, Henry Barnard Canning, Esq., and Charles Bagot, Esq., the nephews of the testator, the Right Hon. Stratford Canning, Viscount Stratford de Redcliffe, the testator and Mrs. Canning, of Bryanston-square, London, in 1837, and bequeathed to his five nieces, the daughters of his sister, Mrs. Elizabeth Bagot, the sum of £2000, to be divided equally between them. He also bequeaths to such of her grandchildren to whom he had stood sponsor at the font a legacy of £50 each, and a like legacy to the daughter of the Rev. G. B. Roycardson; and to his niece, the Baroness de Rutzen, the daughter of his late brother, Henry Canning, the sum of £1000, and he left the following legacies to his servants:—To his coachman £200, and to his confidential valet, Joseph Smith, of St. George's-row, in the Kent-road, £250, and an annuity of £100; to his gardener £500, his footman £250, his cook £200, and to Ann Jones, his housekeeper, £100 and an annuity of £50. His remainder of his property he left to the Right Hon. Stratford Canning, Viscount Stratford de Redcliffe, the testator and executor, and Mrs. Canning, of Great Stratford de Redcliffe. Mr. Collard: The will of the late Mr. Frederick Collard, of Berners-street, has just been proved, and signed by the executors, and the personalty sworn under £140,000. When the probate has fully passed the seal of the Court we will record it in our columns.

THE ANTWERP FORTIFICATIONS.—Belgium is about to proceed energetically with the works round Antwerp. A decree is out regulating the transportation of the trenches on the 15th of April, and every regiment in the kingdom is to furnish fifty four soldiers each, who are to shoulder the spade and pick-axe, to be relieved at periods by fresh military labourers. They are to get four pence of forty-five cents per man—viz., eightpence a day, and to have working shoes, canvas jackets and trousers, "the suit receives to be worn during the cloth case on rainy days;" they are to dig five days in the week, Saturday being set apart for washing and clothes Sunday for recreation.

CHURCH, UNIVERSITIES, &c.

The Church of Plympton St. Mary, Devon, was reopened on Thursday week, after having undergone a thorough re-restoration and repair.

The preacher appointed for the special services at St. Paul's Cathedral on Sunday next, April 1, is the Rev. A. S. Farrar, one of her Majesty's preachers at Whitehall.

The committee for the promotion of a Cornish bishopric have drawn up a memorial to her Majesty Palmerston, which has received the signatures of 1300 influential clergy and laity.

A purse containing eighty-five sovereigns has been presented by the congregation of St. James's, Kennington, to their esteemed minister, the Rev. H. Woodward, B.A., on the occasion of their re-opening.

On Thursday se'nnight the Ven. the Archdeacon of Oxford in Buckingham opened the wooden chapel built on Buckland Common by the Rev. R. Bolton, incumbent of the Lenches, Bucks.

Archdeacon Wigram has been nominated to the vacant see of Rochester, and Canon Trower has been translated to the Deanery of Lincoln, as stated in our second edition last week.

In consequence of some remarks in the Times the secretary to the Bishop of London has written to say that the next survey steps have been taken to bring the case of the Rev. J. Bowyer before the Court of Arches.

The fifth of the series of Exeter Hall services, the first of which arose the special services at Westminster Abbey and St. Paul's, were brought to a close last Sunday, the sermon being preached by the Rev. Edward Garbett.

The schoolmasters (to the number of sixty or seventy) who have passed through the Model and Training School at Borden, in the county of Cork, have testified their respect and gratitude to the Hon. and Rev. Charles Bernard, Rector of the parish, by presenting to him a handsome silver candelabrum, in token of the many acts of kindness and assistance which they have received from him.

The Bishop of London is still laid up with cold and influenza, from which he is slowly recovering. On Wednesday week the Bishop of Carlisle officiated for his Lordship at St. Marylebone Church, confirming upwards of 600 candidates—an imposing ceremony, from a very large proportion of females appearing in white. At West Hackney Church, on the following day, the Bishop of Rochester officiated for his brother, to state that the Bishop of London will not hold his usual Tuesday levée at London House. St. Andrew's Day is the commanding of Parliamentary advisers of the Easter recess.

PREFERMENTS AND APPOINTMENTS.—The Rev. W. Vallance, Rector of Southwark, to be Royal Dean of Canewdon, Essex. Rectories: The Rev. R. Johnson to Bradfield, Berks; Rev. W. R. Hay to Stratford, Lincolnshire; Rev. J. Croker to Braisford; Rev. R. N. Milford to Brightwell, Berks. Vicarages: The Rev. E. Hoyle to Bunbury; Rev. R. Chelmsley to Findon, Sussex; Rev. F. G. Holbrooke to Parkdale, Sussex; Incumbency: Rev. R. Tyrrwhitt to Brighton, now Bishop of Nelson. Chaplaincies: The Rev. G. S. Allen to the Cathedral Church of Manchester; Rev. A. W. Irwin to the Royal Hibernian Hospital Establishment. Perpetual Curacies: The Rev. W. Y. Rooker to St. Mark, Dalston; Rev. J. Smith to St. Mary, Bow; Rev. J. Rees, Aston-under-Hill, Gloucester; Rev. J. Rev. D. Wright to St. Mary, Stoke Bishop, Westbury-upon-Trym. Cheshire: The Rev. H. Allinghan to Bowdon; Rev. Robert Berkley to Barbold, Gloucester; Rev. S. B. Eddy to St. Thomas, Huddersfield.

NAVAL AND MILITARY INTELLIGENCE.

According to the Staffordshire Advertiser, Government inspectors have been surveying Gunnery Park, Penkridge, with a view to building on a site for the proposed midland arsenal and depôt for 10,000 troops.

At the present moment the Commissariat Supply and Life Guards present two Corps, the complement being eight. There are but ten subalterns available for regimental duty, the proper number being sixteen.

The new works along the north front of Milford Haven have been commenced, and are being carried on with vigour. When they are completed that is not important harbour will be rendered impregnable.

The time limited for payment of bounties of £5 to able seamen, and £2 to ordinary seamen, is to be prolonged, and extended from the 1st day of April next to the 1st day of June, 1860, inclusive.

Lieutenant-Colonel J. H. Gascoyne, of the Chatham division of Royal Marine Light Infantry, has received orders to proceed immediately to China, to command the Royal Marines serving with Admiral Hope's squadron.

Another Waterloo officer has been removed by death, making the fifth second within three weeks. Colonel Sir Henry Frederick Harris, K.H., died at his seat in Kent on Friday week. The deceased officer was born in 1785.

A large and very elaborate silver and ebony clock has just been completed by Mr. Hancock, for the Earl of Sefton, for presentation to the officers of the 3rd battalion of Lancashire Militia, on the occasion of his retirement from the regiment.

The latest shipwrights employed in Portsmouth Dockyard in excess of the authorised number (350) are to be discharged at the rate of fifty per week; the order to commence on the 2nd April, Monday takes place on Saturday (this day).

The launch of the Frederick William, screw, 86, took place at Portsmouth Dockyard on Saturday, and was attended with perfect success. The ceremony of naming the vessel was performed by the Countess of Derby, the wife of the Vice-Admiral Superintendent.

Major the Hon. Hussey Fane Keane, of the Royal Engineers, has been appointed to the command of the Royal Military School, in succession to Lieutenant-Colonel Maude, who has been appointed to the Chamber of the Inner department in the Queen's Household.

The Under Secretary of State for War has recently issued a circular recommending the purchase of a number of spare allowances for officers and other members of the War Office, and in the civil establishments at our stations, not within the provisions of the travelling warrant of Dec. 31, 1857.

The erection of rifle-butts is a matter of competition among builders just now. Tenders were received in for a "Butt" to be erected at Whitton Dean, for a Middlesex corps, varying from £145 to £99, the Warwickshire corps appear to be content with the old-fashioned butt, their butt is to cost £745. Eleven bugles estimates run up to £4959.

Colonel Thomas Seaton, Adjutant-General of the Queen's forces in India, is obliged to abandon his post in consequence of a painful disease which has attacked his throat. He has left Calcutta for Simla, in order to take a passage to England. Colonel Congreve has assumed the charge of the Department of Adjutant-General of the forces at Simla.

It is proposed to erect shortly a number of brick huts on the garrison parade-ground, Colchester Camp, for the accommodation of additional battalion of infantry and two batteries of horse and horse artillery. It is stated that the head-quarters of the Royal Engineers in the eastern district will also be removed from Harwich to Colchester.

According to the latest accounts from India (says the Army and Navy Gazette) Lord Clyde has gone to Rohilcund. He has to remain there until the presidency shall be transferred to him on Lord Clyde's departure for England.

The Secretary of State for War has recently issued a circular authorising a special warrant, whereby it is announced that it has been deemed expedient to extend the grant of medals without gratuities to non-commissioned officers and soldiers who have fulfilled the conditions of the Royal warrant of the 15th of April, 1854, but who are precluded from receiving gratuities by reason of the medal not having been in existence at the date amount to be annually awarded being already appropriated. Non-commissioned officers on the permanent staff of the militia who were eligible previously to their discharge from the Army are also eligible to receive the medal without gratuity. The medal is not to be granted on the grant, as regards the date of discharge in the case of men so serving.

The task of fitting out the Great Eastern for sea is being proceeded with as rapidly as possible.

Mr. Grote, Sir G. C. Lewis, and Sir John Romilly, may one of the three, are mentioned as probable successors to the University of London, after the passing of the Reform Bill.

Handsome silver tea and supper services, subscribed for by the persons employed on the Stour Valley Railway, were presented yesterday afternoon to Mr. Dudley Parsons, at St. George's Hall, Worcester, on his resigning the office of superintendent of the passenger traffic on that line. There was a dinner on the occasion, at which Mr. gentleman sat down.

At Berlin, a few days ago, a sad accident occurred. In casting a group in bronze of animals, by M. Wolff, intended for the Museum, the mould broke, and the liquid metal, bursting forth, scalded several persons. In addition the roof of the building was set on fire, and the conflagration was not extinguished without difficulty.

DESIGN FOR THE PALACE OF THE PEOPLE, MUSWELL HILL: NORTH FRONT.—OWEN JONES ARCHITECT

The above view of the Palace of the People, which is to be erected at Muswell-hill, will enable the reader to form a good idea of the great improvements which have been introduced into this the most recent specimen of a novel style of architecture in glass and iron. The Palace of the People at Muswell-hill will be no mere piece of smiths and glaziers' work. It will exhibit considerable architectural beauty, and, although formed mainly of such light materials, it will possess some of the characteristics of the cathedral style. The practical question, however, is how far the architect has provided for the comfort and enjoyment of the visitors. In this respect it will present several favourable features as compared with the Crystal Palace at Sydenham. The railway passengers will be spared all the fatigue and annoyance of the inclined plane, as they will have to ascend only twenty feet from the station into the palace. All visitors by carriages or on foot will be protected from the weather. The palace will be profitable both by night and by day, in winter as well as in summer, because, the concert-room being easily accessible, and lighted brilliantly with gas, musical and other entertainments can be given in it all the year round. The large winter garden under the dome adjoining the concert-room will furnish at once a delightful locality for the reunion of the company, and at the same time do duty as a waiting-room to the railway-station, which is immediately beneath.

The palace will rely for success mainly on the following attractions:—The beauty and healthiness of the site; the park and gardens, including archery, cricket-ground, and gymnasium; the machinery in motion, which was so attractive at Hyde Park in 1851; the fine-arts nave; the gallery of English history (a truly national idea); the picture-galleries; the collections of natural history, geology, and mineralogy, systematically arranged; the lectures—to be delivered in the day time—illustrated by experiments, and in the evening first-class concerts and the promenade in the winter garden.

The building will not have the same cubical contents as the Hyde Park Exhibition; but, as the points of attraction will be more concentrated, greater ends can be accomplished, and there will be no waste space.

The directors have agreed to set apart annually a certain sum for educational purposes, which will be placed under the control of a council presided over by Lord Brougham. The council will thus be enabled to command the services of the most eminent lecturers, and a living interest will be imparted to the various objects collected within the walls of the palace.

A glance at the Post Office map of London will show what an immense population may be expected to avail themselves of these advantages. The Metropolitan Railway, from its Farringdon terminus, in the very heart of London, will convey visitors every quarter of an hour to the palace; and Londoners will also have the choice of the Fenchurch-street and Shoreditch termini, as well as all the stations on the North London line. The population thus served is estimated at considerably above one million. The palace will not be less favourably placed for a large portion of the West End, as it will be reached by a pleasant drive from Hyde Park, the Regent's Park, and Camdentown, without passing through the streets of London. If to this enormous metropolitan population be added the numerous surrounding villages and the excursion-trains which will arrive from the country by the Great Western, London and North-Western, Great Northern, and Eastern Counties Railways, some idea may be formed of the multitude of customers on which the palace may reckon.

The experience of the Crystal Palace at Sydenham has enabled the directors of the Great Northern Palace Company (limited) to make their arrangements upon a secure footing. The particular items on which unnecessary expenditure was incurred are well known, and will be discarded by this company. A whole year has been spent in carefully maturing the plans, and the directors are enabled to state with confidence that the whole work will be accomplished for the sum of £600,000. Every subscriber for ten shares, so the prospectus informs us, will have the privilege of entering the palace and grounds for ten years free, and for every additional ten shares he may nominate a member of his family or a friend. The surplus building-land also, amounting to two hundred and seventy acres, is a great feature in this undertaking. The profit to be derived from this source as resulting from the well-known effect of the erection of such a building as the palace, and the opening of the Metropolitan Railway, is estimated at £200,000, and the company will participate largely with adjacent landowners in the inevitable rise which will take place in the value of land.

On the whole, therefore, it may be pretty confidently stated that whoever contributes to the realisation of this work will have substantial grounds for expecting an ample return on his capital, whilst he will enjoy the satisfaction of aiding in the establishment of an institution from which millions of his fellow-countrymen will derive instruction and innocent amusement.

PORTRAIT OF DAVID GARRICK—BY R. E. PINE.

The portrait of Garrick, by Pine, recently added to the National Portrait Gallery, is valuable as being an undoubted original representation of our great Roscius. As a work of art it puts forth no pretensions save in respect of the commendable artistic treatment and conscientious finish bestowed upon it. The design is ordinary enough, and the colouring is cold and feeble; but the likeness is a good one, judging from comparison with the two acknowledged portraits by Gainsborough. Garrick is represented in his everyday dress, with the play of "Macbeth" in his hand, which he has been studying; and his eye rolls in a fine frenzy, as he evidently begins to feel the character. The expression is simply conventional; but, upon the whole, for historic purposes, satisfactory. This portrait, which was painted at Bath for Sir Richard Sullivan, from whose family it has just been purchased by the nation, has been engraved in mezzotint by W. Dickinson, and in line by Robert Cooper.

Robert Edward Pine, the painter of this portrait, was born in London about the year 1742. It is not known who gave him any instructions in art, but he made early progress, it would seem, for he obtained the prize for the best historical design from the Society of Arts in 1760, and again in 1762. He afterwards practised chiefly as a portrait painter—amongst others painting most of the stage celebrities—but diversified his labours with historical and poetic subjects. In 1782 he exhibited a series of pictures after Shakespeare. He afterwards went to America, where he died, in 1790. Such is Bryant's account. Naylor says that he was born in 1730, and died in 1795.

A VISIT TO THE ROYAL HOSPITAL OF BETHLEHEM.

(Continued from page 293.)

The changes for the better in Bethlehem Hospital within the last seven years have been truly marvellous. One excellent and amiable man deserves much praise for the social revolution within the walls of this whilom mansion of misery. To the liberality of the Governors, with Sir Peter Laurie and Mr. J. S. Johnson at their head, and the energy of Doctor Charles Hood, must be ascribed the admirable and highly-useful improvements that have taken place. To his artistic taste the patients owe the innocent ornamentation of their former gloomy abode, which is now to them a source of solace and delight; and, since the advent to the position of physician-residentiary of Doctor Hood, this kind and wise labourer in the field of mercy has, together with his skilful and indefatigable assistant, Dr. Helps, done more to alleviate not only the physical pangs but the mental woes of the afflicted beings under his charge than has perhaps been effected by any medical practitioner in any asylum for the insane throughout the country. Dogmatism and fanaticism are alike out of place in Bethlehem. Suavity, cheerfulness, patience, good-humour are the best doctors. The patients, with all their comforts, luxuries, and amusements, by the very fact of their tremendous and awful deprivation, are already and must be pitiable. The waters of Lethe flow over the head of Idiocy, but not of Insanity. Save only when in an access of frenzy, I believe that all mad people are conscious of, and possessed by, a sense of the unutterable wretchedness of their lot—of their doom to seek and search for continually that which, God help them! they seldom find on this side the grave—their wits. It is a characteristic of the sage and patient polity that now reigns in Bethlehem that, while there is a chapel and a good and pious chaplain, and while the consolations of Religion are always at their command, they are never teased with religion, they are never worried with misplaced sermons.

The reward of Dr. Hood is pleasurably manifest to every visitor who passes through the wards of Bethlehem. You see it in the patients who throng round the kind physician, to press his hand, and ask his advice, and whisper—heaven knows what rambling nonsense sometimes—in his ear. Even the paranoiac and bedridden nod and smile as the doctor passes—not with a vacant leer, but with a grateful meaning. Scattered and scanty as are their poor senses, they know that the doctor is their friend; that he comes not with gags and fetters and scourges, but with tidings of help and comfort; that he comes to soothe and heal; and we all know that he is on his Master's business, that he is doing that which shall be done to him on the great day of reckoning: yes! a thousandfold and a millionfold of talents of imperishable gold and silver for every twopence which the good Samaritan left at the inn for the wounded man who had gone down to Jericho and fallen among thieves.

It is no easy and no immediately thankful task for a man of education and refinement to abandon his beloved pursuits, the intercourse of society, the comforts of home, and the relaxations of literature almost, and devote himself to the perpetual perambulation of this via dolorosa—for ever pacing up and down those corridors, unlocking wickets with his master key, and doomed to be called up at any hour of the night, to have his ears filled from noon till night with whimperings and croanings, with moans and hysteric laughter. How he must cling to a sane face, shipwrecked as he is in this ocean of vacuous countenances! We see such men as Dr. Hood and Dr. Helps patiently, cheerfully, resigning themselves to follow this thorny path. We know that they have many brethren in their calling—scholars, gentlemen, philanthropists—equally patient, cheerful, laborious in the good work; and it is a reassuring and ennobling thing to know that vacancies among these knights of the order of Mercy are always filled up—that there are always men ready and willing to take up their cross and follow the behests of Him who wept for our sufferings and suffers for us still.

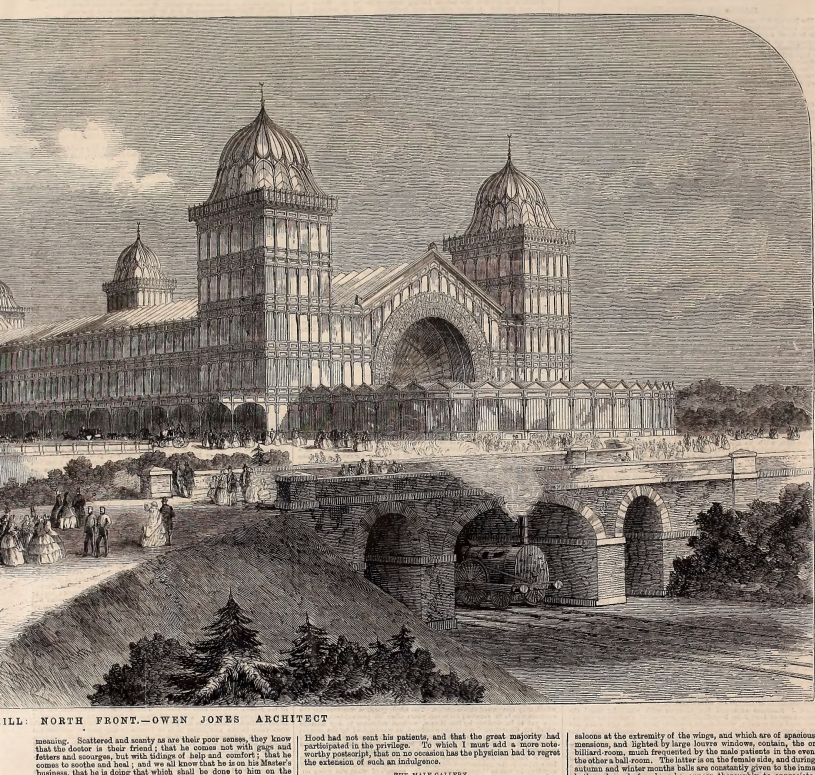
It would be unjust in this place to omit a cordially-favourable mention of the male and female attendants at Bethlehem Hospital. None of the cynical sternness of the prison warder, none of the perfunctory callousness of the hired nurse, can be imputed to them. They do their spiriting very gently, and use their patients, not as though they were repulsive burdens, but in a brotherly and sisterly fashion. Some of these attendants have been in the house for a period of twenty-two years, during which time not one accusation of misconduct has been alleged upon them. The onerous nature of their duties may be imagined when we reflect that lunatic patients are as helpless, as feeble, and often as cunning, as perverse, and as fractious as children. When Dr. Hood pays one of his cheerful visits to the ladies' workroom—fitted up with exquisite taste, and where convalescent and docile patients amuse or employ themselves in embroidery, fancy work, and flower-painting in water-colours—it is by no means an uncommon occurrence for him to be asked by one of the inmates permission to go out "for a day's pleasure." Think not this is one of the vain and hopeless requests preferred by the maniac pining in his dismal captivity. If the patient be "well enough," the permission is readily granted: and the Soho Bazaar, the Pantheon, or friends and relatives, are visited. I confessed that few things surprised me more during my sojourn in this remarkable institution than the calm intimation that such or such a one was to be allowed a holiday. Even the paranoiac and bedridden nod and smile as the doctor passes—not with a vacant leer, but with a grateful

Hood had not sent his patients, and that the great majority had participated in the privilege. To which I must add a more noteworthy postscript, that on no occasion has the physician had to regret the extension of such an indulgence.

THE MALE GALLERY.

This apartment, of the same dimensions as the principal female gallery, is also fitted up in a style similar but not exactly identical to that employed on the female side. There are fewer flowers, and similar little elegancies, but the comforts are the same, and there is the same fondness manifested for pet birds and animals. cats, canaries, squirrels, greyhounds, &c. The patients amuse themselves with games at bagatelle, cards, drawing, painting, reading, &c. In our illustration is a party playing chess; others are killing time with music, or with that great consoler the tobacco-pipe. Still many of the patients take no pleasure in any kind of amusement, but for hours will sit or stand alone wrapt in thought, some in the attitude of listening, some with sunken hands and hands clasped behind them; others with their arms pinned to their sides like recruits in the presence of the drill-sergeant. Others pace the long gallery incessantly, pouring out their woes to those who will listen to them, or, if there be none to listen, to the dogs and cats, or, just as frequently, to the air.

The Long Gallery gives access to a very excellent library. The leading journals and periodicals of the day are to be found on the tables, and on the bookshelves is a capital collection of the standard works of modern literature. The library is always well frequented. Many of the patients are highly educated and accomplished men; more than one have been celebrated in intellectual pursuits. I need not remind those who are familiar with asylum interiors that one may be for a long period in conversation with a lunatic who will in all respects behave as a rational being until you touch on the subject of his delusion. Pursuing the plan I proposed to myself at the commencement, I will not particularise the hallucinations that came under my notice. This is no journal of psychological medicine: I will not touch upon the special delusions of a madman a topic for picturesque essay-writing is only pandering to a morbid curiosity. Of course there are kings, and emperors, and pontiffs among the patients. So there have been, I dare say, for centuries, and so there are in every madhouse in the world.



As a fact very important as evidence in favour of a system precisely of non-coercion, but of positive indulgence, let it be recorded that instances of books or periodicals being wantonly torn or defaced are unknown in the institution. It would seem that the mad folks are wiser in their generation than the human monkeys roving at large who tear and smear periodicals at coffee-houses, or who, to the scandal of this age, have been lately outraging books and maps in the reading room of the British Museum.

With a brief allusion to two remaining and most noticeable features of the "new nave" of management my brief survey of Bethlehem Hospital must be brought to a conclusion. The two corresponding saloons at the extremity of the wings, and which are of spacious dimensions, and lighted by large louvre windows, contain, the one a billiard-room, much frequented by the male patients in the evening, the other a ball-room. The latter is on the female side, and during the autumn and winter months balls are constantly given to the inmates, both male and female, who appear thoroughly to appreciate the enjoyment provided for them. Both Dr. Hood and Dr. Helps join the patients at these entertainments. Refreshments, consisting of home-made wines and ale, cake, biscuits, and fruit, are handed round at intervals. Many of the patients remain seated the whole evening, silent, moody, and abstracted, taking no interest in the excitement of the dance. At eleven o'clock "God Save the Queen" is sung, and the poor creatures go to bed—the majority amused and pleased.

I have said that the more docile often see the outside world, and mingle in the recreations of the people who are not quite mad enough to be received into Bethlehem—I mean yourself, and myself, and the rest of the ladies and gentlemen who are so conceited about their sanity. In wet weather the vast extent of the galleries affords no mean opportunity for exercise. For fine weather there are spacious and well-laid-out parterres, with lawns and parterres, at the rear of the edifice, in which gardens, under the care of the attendants, some patients take exercise, some smoke, some run and leap, some stand immovable for hours, gazing at the sky, the shrubs, or the ground No patient looks at his neighbour. But neither passionate nor quietate ever do the slightest injury to trees, or shrubs, or flowers.

The last of the doors was unlocked, and my tour was at an end We went back to Doctor Hood's study, and I looked through an album of photographs taken from patients in their accesses of mania, and in their lucid moments. I glanced at reports and balance-sheets, and learned that the hospital, although not plethoric with wealth, enjoyed an adequate revenue, administered with a wise liberality and discretion. I learned that the improvements were carried out at a great cost; and I thought that he who would grudge an penny of a sum, however liberal, towards such a merciful purpose must be a crooked-hearted curmudgeon, only fit to farm pauper children and make a profit out of them. I left Bethlehem Hospital with the conviction that it was the noblest and yet the least pretentious of England's many noble but often ostentatious charities. I came out into the October world, and found it as cold and foggy and muddy as usual. I dined, and went to the play and the club; but I had dreamt of Bethlehem, sleeping and waking, for days. I missed on what I had seen: I was haunted by what I had heard. I thought of the luxuries and the comforts, the plants and the pet animals, the books and the periodicals, the billiard and the ball room, the skill and tenderness of the physician; but all these, to my mind, would not fill up the vast abyss of human mental misery yawning beneath the lofty dome in St. George's-fields; and with an inward groan I murmured "Let me be original, dead, blind, paralytic, maimed even to negation of outward form, if such be Thy will, but not Mad, O Lord, not Mad!"

George Augustus Sala.

ILL: NORTH FRONT.—OWEN JONES ARCHITECT

meaning. Scattered and scanty as are their poor senses, they know that the doctor is their friend; that he comes not with gags and fetters and scourges, but with tidings of help and comfort; that he comes to soothe and heal; and we all know that he is on his Master's business, that he is doing that which shall be done to him on the great day of reckoning: yes! a thousandfold and a millionfold of talents of imperishable gold and silver for every twopence which the good Samaritan left at the inn for the wounded man who had gone down to Jericho and fallen among thieves.

It is no easy and no immediately thankful task for a man of education and refinement to abandon his beloved pursuits, the intercourse of society, the comforts of home, and the relaxations of literature almost, and devote himself to the perpetual perambulation of this via dolorosa—for ever pacing up and down those corridors, unlocking wickets with his master key, and doomed to be called up at any hour of the night, to have his ears filled from noon till night with whimperings and croonings, with moans and hysteric laughter. How he must long to a sane face, shipwrecked as he is in this ocean of vacuous countenances! We see such men as Dr. Hood and Dr. Helps patiently, cheerfully, resigning themselves to follow this thorny path. We know that they have many brethren in their calling—scholars, gentlemen, philanthropists—equally patient, cheerful, laborious in the good work; and it is a reassuring and ennobling thing to know that vacancies among these knights of the order of Mercy are always filled up—that there are always men ready and willing to take up their cross and follow the behests of Him who wept for our sufferings and suffered for us all.

It would be unjust in this place to omit a cordially favourable mention of the male and female attendants at Bethlehem Hospital. None of the cynical sternness of the prison warder, none of the perfunctory callousness of the hired nurse, can be imputed to them. They do their spiriting very gently, and use their patients, not as though they were repulsive burdens, but in a brotherly and sisterly fashion. Some of these attendants have been in the asylum for a period of twenty-two years, during which time not one accusation of misconduct has been alleged against them. The responsibilities of their duties may be imagined when we reflect that lunatic patients are as helpless, as feeble, and often as exigent, as perverse, and as fractious as children. When Dr. Hood pays one of his cheerful visits to the ladies' workroom—fitted up with exquisite taste, and where convalescent and docile patients amuse or employ themselves in embroidery, fancy work, and flower-painting in water-colours—it is by no means an uncommon occurrence for him to be asked by one of the inmates permission to go out "for a day's pleasure." Think not this is one of the vain and hopeless requests preferred by the maniac pining in his dismal captivity. If the patient be "well enough," the permission is readily granted; and the Soho Bazaar, the Pantheon, or friends and relatives, are visited. I confessed that few things surprised me more during my sojourn in this remarkable institution than the calm intimation that there was scarcely a place of amusement in the metropolis to which Dr. Hood had not sent his patients, and that the great majority had participated in the privilege. To which I must add a more noteworthy postscript, that on no occasion has the physician had to regret the extension of such an indulgence.

THE MALE GALLERY.

This apartment, of the same dimensions as the principal female gallery, is also fitted up in a style similar but not exactly identical to that employed on the female side. There are fewer flowers, and similar little elegancies, but the comforts are the same, and there is the same fondness manifested for pet birds and animals, cats, canaries, squirrels, greyhounds, &c. The patients amuse themselves with games at bagatelle, cards, drawing, painting, reading, &c. In our Illustration is a party playing chess; others are killing time with music, or with that great consolator the tobacco-pipe. Still many of the patients take no pleasure in any kind of amusement, but for hours will sit or stand alone wrapt in thought, some in the attitude of listening, some with sunken heads and hands clasped behind them; others with their arms pinned to their sides like recruits in the presence of the drill-sergeant. Others pace the long gallery incessantly, pouring out their woes to those who will listen to them, or, if there be none to listen, to the dogs and cats, or, just as frequently, to the air.

The Long Gallery gives access to a very excellent library. The lasting journals and periodicals of the day are to be found on the tables, and on the bookshelves is a capital collection of the standard works of modern literature. The library is always well frequented. Many of the patients are highly educated and accomplished men; more than one have been celebrated in intellectual pursuits. I need not remind those who are familiar with asylum interiors that one may be for a long period in conversation with a lunatic who will in all respects behave as a rational being until you touch on the subject of his delusion. Pursuing the plan I proposed to myself at the commencement, I will not particularise the hallucinations that came under my notice. This is no journal of psychological medicine; and to make the special delusions of a madman a topic for picturesque essay-writing is only pandering to a morbid curiosity. Of course there are kings, and emperors, and pontiffs among the patients. So there have been, I dare say, for centuries, and so there are in every madhouse in the world.

As a fact very important as evidence in favour of a system not only of non-coercion, but of positive indulgence, let it be recorded that instances of books or periodicals being wantonly torn or defaced are unknown in the institution. It would seem that the mad folks are wiser in their generation than the human monkeys roving at large who tear and smear periodicals at coffee-houses, or who, to the scandal of this age, have been lately outraging books and maps in the reading room of the British Museum.

With a brief allusion to two remaining and most noticeable features of the "new system" of management my brief survey of Bethlehem Hospital must be brought to a conclusion. The two corresponding saloons at the extremity of the wings, and which are of spacious dimensions, and lighted by large louvre windows, contain, the one a billiard-room, much frequented by the male patients in the evening, the other a ball room. The latter is on the female side, and during the autumn and winter months balls are constantly given to the inmates, both male and female, who appear thoroughly to appreciate the enjoyment provided for them. Both Dr. Hood and Dr. Helps join the patients at these entertainments. Refreshments, consisting of home-made wines and ale, cake, biscuits, and fruit, are handed round at intervals. Many of the patients remain seated the whole evening, silent, moody, and abstracted, taking no interest in the excitement of the dance. At eleven o'clock "God Save the Queen" is sung, and the poor creatures go to bed—the majority amused and pleased.

I have said that the more docile often see the outside world, and mingle in the recreations of the people who are not quite mad enough to be received into Bethlehem—I mean yourself, and myself, and the rest of the ladies and gentlemen who are so conceited about their sanity. In wet weather the vast extent of the galleries affords no mean opportunity for exercise. For fine weather there are spacious and well-laid-out gardens, with lawns and parterres, at the rear of the edifice, in which gardens, under the care of the attendants, some patients take exercise, some smoke, some run and leap, some stand immovable for hours, gazing at the sky, the shrubs, or the ground. No patient looks at his neighbour. But neither pessimists nor quietists ever do the slightest injury to trees, or shrubs, or flowers.

The last of the doors was unlocked, and my tour was at an end. We went back to Doctor Hood's study, and I looked through an album of photographs taken from patients in their accesses of mania, and in their lucid moments. I glanced at reports and balance-sheets, and learned that the hospital, although not plethoric with wealth, enjoyed an adequate revenue, administered with a wise liberality and discretion. I learned that the improvements were carried out at a great cost; and I thought that he who would grudge one penny of a sum, however liberal, towards such a merciful purpose must be a crooked-hearted curmudgeon, only fit to farm pauper children and make a profit out of them. I left Bethlehem Hospital with the conviction that it was the noblest and yet the least pretentious of England's many noble but often ostentatious charities. I came out into the October world, and found it as cold and foggy and muddy as usual. I dined, and went to the play and the club; but I had dreamt of Bethlehem, sleeping and waking, for days. I mused on what I had seen: I was haunted by what I had heard. I thought of the luxuries and the comforts, the plants and the pet animals, the books and the periodicals, the billiard and the ball room, the skill and tenderness of the physician; but all these, to my mind, would and tenderness of the physician; but all these, to my mind, would not fill up the vast abyss of human mental misery yawning beneath the lofty dome in St. George's-fields; and with an inward groan I murmured "Let me be crippled, deaf, blind, paralytic, mutilated even to negation of outward form, if such be Thy will, but not Mad, O Lord, not Mad!"

GEORGE AUGUSTUS SALA.

IMPERIAL PARLIAMENT.

HOUSE OF LORDS.—MONDAY.

The Mutiny Bill and the Marine Mutiny Bill passed through Committee.

THE FINANCIAL SCHEME IN INDIA.—In answer to the Earl of Ellenborough, the Duke of ARGYLL said the Government had not yet received official information on the subject of Mr. Wilson's financial scheme for India, and especially with regard to the proposal for imposing an income tax; and he hoped the House would not be drawn into a premature discussion on the subject.

THE ARMY ESTIMATES.—In answer to the Earl of Derby, the Duke of NEWCASTLE said that the Army Estimates were not exactly withdrawn, but they would receive some modification.

HOUSE OF COMMONS.—MONDAY.

OUR DIPLOMATIC ESTABLISHMENT AT FLORENCE.—In answer to Lord H. Lennox, Lord J. RUSSELL said that our diplomatic establishment at Florence was about to be broken up. The mission at Turin had been raised to that of a first-class mission since the accession of Lombardy to Piedmont.

CONSOLIDATED FUND BILL.

On the motion of the CHANCELLOR of the EXCHEQUER, the previous orders were postponed, and this bill was read a third time and passed.

WAYS AND MEANS.—THE AFFAIRS OF ITALY AND CHINA.

On the report of Ways and Means,

Mr. HORSMAN took the opportunity of referring to the subject of foreign policy, and especially with regard to the rights of the House to discuss questions connected with our foreign relations. When Parliament met there were numerous questions on foreign affairs on which no obstruction had been offered to the Government. There had been matters of controversy between the Governments of France and England on the subjects of the Suez Canal and the war between Spain and Morocco, but no information had been given to the House on the subject—none had been given with regard to differences which had existed on the subject of the joint expedition to China. Turning to Savoy, he said that at the end of last Session assurances were given that the Emperor had no intention of territorial aggrandisement. At the beginning of this Session the House was told that the Government had no official information of any step towards annexation on the part o France. That answer had been from time to time repeated, in spite of the assertions by Mr. Kinglake and Sir Robert Peel that they had received information that the annexation of Savoy was complete, and without the assent of the population, and without any consultation of the Powers of Europe. At length the Government admitted that a despatch had been received showing that Savoy had been annexed, and without any consultation with the Powers of Europe. The answer of the Foreign Secretary to that despatch had been forwarded by Lord J. Russell, but it was still withheld, thus showing that the spirit of the noble Lord was not that which dictated the foreign policy of the Government. It was stated in the French journals that that answer was a protest couched in the most friendly terms. It was evidently kept back from a fear of hostile criticism. It was stated that the proceedings of France had been precipitated by the discussions in the House of Commons. No doubt that was the case, because a hostile motion in that House would cause embarrassment, and take the matter out of the hands of a docile Government. At the moment that the Government thought it was negotiating, acts were doing which ended in the accomplishment of the annexation of Savoy, offering a strong contrast to the prescience of Mr. Kinglake, which entitled him to the confidence of the House; and it behoved them for the future to watch the Government, who were no match for the duplicity of their Imperial ally. He protested against the interference with the rights of the House involved in the doctrine which had been laid down that members were to frame their speeches in consonance with the wishes of the Emperor of the French. It was in vindication of his right as a member of that House that he declared the policy of the Emperor in Italy, in Savoy, and Switzerland, was one of deceit, perfidy, and injustice, while he made mere tools of the Ministers of England. If he was to be rebuked for the expressions from the Treasury bench, he would retort that he saw there many who had fallen under the censure of the House, and he would warn those who wished to fetter a speech in that House to take care that they did not again incur a severe censure.

Lord J. RUSSELL (who was received with loud cheers) denied that there had been any attempt to stifle the free speaking in that House, and Mr. Horsman had just given a good specimen of free speaking, whether as regarded Ministers or Foreign Sovereigns. He fully appreciated the tone and forbearance which had been exercised by the Opposition in reference to negotiations on foreign affairs, and he wondered that Mr. Horsman did not take his place on the front bench opposite, and shame Mr. Disraeli by showing what faction could effect. As to any disputes with France with regard to the war between Spain and Morocco, and the joint expedition to China, the statements of Mr. Horsman were mere imagination. As to Savoy, he had always been communicative to the House, and all he had said was, that, if the great Powers had interfered, it was probable the annexation would not have taken place; but these Powers had not thought it advisable to do so, and, indeed, Austria and Russia had given their assent to it. The Government was not ashamed of the answer which had been sent to M. Thouvenel, and he believed the House would be of that opinion when they saw it. The independence of Switzerland, which was involved in the question, was guaranteed by the great Powers, and a part of Savoy was neutralised, and might be held by Switzerland in case of war. The transfer of that territory to France was the subject of appeal from Switzerland to the great Powers. This required an endeavour to ascertain the opinions of Austria, Prussia, and Russia, and it had been ascertained that the two latter attached great importance to the independence of Switzerland, and the great Powers would be called upon to decide on that question. This was surely no subject of discussion for the House, and until the House had joined Mr. Horsman in taking its confidence from Ministers, they would go on in these negotiations; and that was the reason for which the answer to M. Thouvenel had been withheld. There was no doubt that the conduct of the Emperor of the French had produced great distrust in Europe, coupled as it was with the part taken by Sardinia. He felt that, however desirous, and he was most desirous, to live on friendly terms with France, we should not withdraw from relations with other countries, and should be ready to assert that the peace of Europe could not be maintained unless the rights and limits of each Power were respected.

Lord J. MANNERS expressed the pleasure with which he heard the announcement of Lord John Russell of the prospect of a return to the old alliances of this country, which ought never to have been laid aside, and that the neutrality of Switzerland was the subject of consideration of the Government in conjunction with the other great Powers.

Mr. BRIGHT said that no one had shown what direct interest this country had in the discussion of this question of Savoy. If Sardinia had compensated France for what the latter had done for her by the cession of Savoy, England ought to be glad that Sardinia should be relieved from a perpetual alliance with France! After the transference of Lombardy and the duchies and Romagna to Sardinia, was it to be expected that Austria would interfere about Savoy? Was it to be expected, after the course this country had taken towards her not long ago, that Russia would join England in an interference in this matter, while even Prussia expressed no interest in the matter, so that England alone seemed to have an interest in it; but it was difficult to see what that interest was. Europe, England, and the House had given up the question, and it only remained in the hands of Mr. Horsman and Mr. Kingslake. Mr. Horsman wished the House to do something now that diplomacy had failed; did he mean war? Not with France, but with Ministers; but he had made a mistake in attacking the Government when it was in the right. He protested against the House being made the common scold of Europe. He urged that this country ought to take a purely impartial position in Europe, and he protested against a policy of incessant meddling.

After some observations from Lord C. Hamilton,

Mr. A. KINGLAKE stated that Mr. Bright's speech was characteristic of the man, showing, as it did, implicit reliance in the infallibility of his own opinions and his total ignorance of those of other men, and as regarded the latter especially so of his, in attributing to him a leaning to and indeed a patronage of Sardinia, while the hon. gentleman was equally at fault in declaring that Savoy as a province was politically worthless. He expressed his heartfelt gratification at the statement of Lord J. Russell.

Sir H. WILLOUGHBY recalled the House to the question before them, which was the report of the Committee of Ways and Means on the income tax, against which as it stood he still protested.

Sir J. PAKINGTON wished to know what was the exact estimated amount of the income tax.

Mr. DEEDES took that opportunity of expressing his dissent to the financial policy of Mr. Gladstone.

After a conversation,

Mr. GLADSTONE said the short discussion showed how difficult it was to adjust the inequalities of the income tax. The amount expected from the tax was £10,722,000. The system of poundage to collectors of the tax required revision, and it ought to be attempted when the House imposed the income tax for a term of years; or it might be included in a measure which would be proposed for the purpose of bringing the system of collecting assessed taxes more under the control of the Government.

Mr. DISRAELI entered into a somewhat general criticism of the financial scheme of Mr. Gladstone, and took occasion to observe that that gentleman had adopted some of the very principles which he had fiercely denounced in his (Mr. Disraeli's) Budget in 1852. He did not think that, as had been said, the Emperor of the French had any complaint against the House, which was doing his work as expeditiously as his own Minister could have done, and at the same time introducing a new and dangerous scheme of raising the revenues.

Mr. LAING showed by figures that the bulk of the revenue was derived from indirect as opposed to direct taxation.

After some further conversation the report was agreed to, as was that on the other resolutions.

REFRESHMENT-HOUSES AND WINE LICENSES.

The CHANCELLOR of the EXCHEQUER moved the second reading of this bill, stating it to have been framed with a view to as little interference as possible with the existing interests of the licensed victuallers. It was important in reference to finance, but still more so in reference to the promotion of temperate and sober habits.

A motion to adjourn the debate having been made by Mr. WYLD was supported by Mr. AYRTON and several members. On a division the motion was lost, the numbers being—For the adjournment, 122; against it, 150; majority, 28.

Mr. AYRTON moved the adjournment of the House.

Mr. GLADSTONE, however, assented to an adjournment of the debate, adding that he would fix the debate for twelve o'clock on Thursday.

This was much objected to, and

Mr. DISRAELI suggested that the farce of proceeding with the Reform Bill should be suspended, so as to give Friday evenings to their other measures; and, after an animated discussion, the proposition was not pressed, and the Licensing Bill was fixed for Monday.

MISCELLANEOUS.

The House went into Committee on the Customs Acts.

On the motion of the CHANCELLOR of the EXCHEQUER, the resolution No. 22, respecting spirits in the Channel Islands, was agreed to.

The Paper Duty Repeal Bill was postponed until Thursday.

The adjourned debate upon the Representation of the People Bill was fixed for Friday.

After a brief discussion the Mines Regulation and Inspection Bill passed through Committee pro formâ, with a view to the insertion of certain amendments.

The Income Tax and Stamp Duties Bills were read a first time.

HOUSE OF LORDS.—TUESDAY.

In answer to the Earl of Carnarvon, Lord WODEHOUSE said that the Government had received a telegram with regard to preliminaries of peace agreed to between Spain and Morocco similar to that which had appeared in the newspapers, but he had no information as to the exact terms entered into. He did not think it would be advisable to produce any correspondence on the subject.

Lord MONTEAGLE obtained certain returns relative to the number of banks existing in India.

In answer to the Earl of Ellenborough, the Duke of ARGYLL said that the Government had only that morning received accurate information as to Mr Wilson's financial plan in India, and he had been unable to inform himsel with regard to it sufficiently to enable him to make any statement on the subject.

The Mutiny Bill and the Marine Mutiny Bill were read a third time, and passed.

The Consolidated Fund (£85,000) Bill was read a second time.

HOUSE OF COMMONS.—TUESDAY.

In answer to Mr. B. Cochrane, Mr. A. KINGLAKE said that the declaration of Lord J. Russell on the subject of foreign policy rendered it unnecessary for him to bring forward any motion with regard to the annexation of Savoy to France, as long as he had reason to believe that that policy was being faithfully carried out.

In answer to Sir S. Northcote, Lord PALMERSTON said that the report of the commissioners on the defences and fortifications of the country had not been received by the Government. As soon as it was received it would be laid before Parliament and a proposition made by the Government on the subject.

THE DOVER MAIL CONTRACT.

Captain VERNON called attention to the report of the Packet and Telegraphic Contracts Committee, and moved a resolution to the effect that the House was of opinion that the contract, entered into on the 26th of April, 1859, between the Admiralty and Joseph George Churchward, ought to be fulfilled. He urged that the decision which the Committee came to, which was in substance that Mr. Churchward used his influence at the election for Dover, and offered to support Captain Carnegie, then a Lord of the Admiralty, with a view to obtaining this contract, and that therefore it ought not to be fulfilled, was unjust and ought not to be adhered to. In commenting on Mr. Churchward's connection with the Admiralty, in a character he then held as a representative of the press for many years, the hon. and gallant member caused considerable amusement by reading extracts of letters from officials at the Admiralty, giving hints for paragraphs and articles in a newspaper.

Sir F. BARING said that the votes by which the principal points of the report were carried in the Committee were given by members of every party. He contended that the original contract entered into with Mr. Churchward was not so desirable a one as to render it advisable to prolong it. He admitted that Mr. Churchward, even in his time, was useful to the Admiralty in the press, a matter which was almost a necessity to a Government department which had to defend itself against newspaper attacks, but at that time he was not a contractor. The evidence before the Committee led them to the opinion that Mr. Churchward believed that he got his contract for his promise of assistance in a Parliamentary election. On the whole, he urged that the Committee only did their duty in recommending the rescinding of the contract.

Sir S. NORTHCOTE said that all that was asked was that the House should not preclude itself from reconsidering the question of this contract—one which he contended had been entered into on fair and reasonable grounds.

Mr. LAING, as a member of the Committee, wished to state that he thought the issue involved was whether Mr. Churchward had attempted to use undue influence in order to obtain the renewal of his contract; and it was the opinion of the majority of the Committee that such an attemgt had been made. This, he thought, was a sufficient moral justification for the House to decline to ratify the contract.

Mr. MALINS argued that the contract was virtually concluded before anything connected with the political and Parliamentary matter had arisen; and the question now was one of national faith in holding to public contracts.

The Solicitor-General, Lord Lovaine, Lord C. Paget, and Sir F. Kelly having spoken,

Mr. BOUVERIE pointed out that this was a question of the supervision of the public expenditure; and he entirely concurred in the decision to which the Committee had come.

Mr. WHITESIDE having protested against the doctrine that public contracts were liable to be rescinded, as was proposed in the present instance,

Mr. GLADSTONE denied that the present Government had done any act by which they recognised this contract. The whole question was whether the contract was to be renewed for seven years after its present term, which was yet to be decided by the House, without reference to any damage which Mr. Churchward might have suffered, as was implied by the present motion. It was the duty of the Government and the House also to support the decision of a Committee which had been appointed with the utmost impartiality, and had carefully examined into the subject

Sir J. PAKINGTON explained and defended the part he had been alleged to have taken in the transactions relating to the Dover election, and said that if anything he was to blame for not knowing enough of what was going on, especially with regard to the contract with Mr. Churchward. He denied that there was any evidence which convicted Mr. Churchward of corruption.

After a few observations from Mr. G. W. Hope the House divided, and the motion was lost, the numbers being—For the motion, 117; against it, 162.

MISCELLANEOUS.

Mr. PIGOTT obtained leave to bring in a bill to improve the position of medical officers, and to ensure more efficient medical relief to the poorer classes.

The Herring Fisheries (Scotland) Bill and the Benefit Societies Rules Amendment Bill were read a second time.

The report on the Customs Acts was brought up and agreed to.

The Customs Bill went through Committee.

The Income Tax Bill was read a second time.

HOUSE OF COMMONS.—WEDNESDAY.

In Committee of Supply several votes on account were taken for the Army Estimates.

The Income-tax Bill passed through Committee.

The Stamp Duties Bill was read a second time.

CHURCH RATES.

On the motion for going into Committee on the Church-rate Abolition Bill,

Mr. NEWDEGATE moved, as an amendment, that the House should on another day resolve itself into Committee to consider the propriety of establishing in lieu of church rates, thenceforth to be abolished, a charge on all hereditaments, in respect of the occupancy of which church rates have been paid within the last seven years; such charge to be levied with the county rate at a uniform rate of poundage, the occupier being in all cases entitled to deduct the amount of the charge levied on his occupation.

Mr. CROSS said that he had opposed an amendment of this kind last year, but, as he saw no other chance of compensation for church rates, he was willing now to accept it. He argued that the voluntary system would not do, either for the Church of England or for Dissent itself, which he quoted evidence before Committees to prove.

Mr. HORSMAN inquired why, after the universal admission last year that this question could only be settled by a Government measure, it was still left in the hands of a private member? He asked Sir J. Trelawny if he had appealed to the Goverment to take the matter up?

Sir J. TRELAWNY said that he had applied to the Government in 1857; but no serious attempt had been made by any Government to bring in a bill on this subject; and he had no alternative but to take the course he had adopted. He contended that Mr Newdegate's proposal was more calculated to damage the chance of obtaining means for preserving the fabric of the churches than his bill. He wished a settlement of a question, of which he was heartily tired; the very physical labour and trouble involved in signing and presenting petitions to the House on the subject being no small matter. He thought the best course would be to let this bill pass and go to the House of Lords as soon as possible, where it must now have a better reception.

After a few words from Mr. Henley, who was followed by Lord Henley and Mr. Philipps,

Sir M. PETO stated that the Dissenters as a body had no desire to take away a shilling from the Church of England to which she was entitled; but they were determined not to submit to an impost which was personal in its nature and not charged on property, to which latter they also objected.

Mr. P. Watlington opposed, and Mr Evans supported, the bill.

Lord J. MANNERS agreed with Sir J. Trelawny that the sooner the bill was sent up to the House of Lords the better, as it would there receive its fate. He would infinitely prefer this bill as it stood than that it should be encumbered by certain amendments of which notice had been given by Sir G. Grey.

After some further discussion a division took place, when the numbers were—For the amendment, 49; against it, 222.

The House then went into Committee on the bill.

On clause 1,

Sir M. PETO moved to add, at the end of the clause, the words "Nor shall any expense, payable out of the proceeds of a church rate, be henceforward defrayed out of any sum or sums accruing from any other rate whatsoever, any law or custom to the contrary notwithstanding."

After a brief discussion the amendment was withdrawn, and the clause agreed to, as were the other clauses.

Sir G. GREY moved three clauses, the effect of which was to enable a charge to be made for pews which are attached to any particular property, and which are occupied without payment, and to apply the proceeds to the necessary repairs of the church.

Mr. S. ESTCOURT opposed the clauses.

After some debate, in the course of which, in answer to a question, Sir G. GREY said that the clauses were his individual proposition, and not that of the Government, the clauses were negatived.

HOUSE OF LORDS.—THURSDAY.

The Dwellings for Labouring Classes (Ireland) Bill passed through Committee.

The Marriages (Extra Parochial Places) Bill was read a second time.

The Consolidated Fund (£850,000) Bill passed through Committee.

The Earl of CARNARVON inquired whether it was the intention of the Government to allow an exemption of the horse tax in respect of the yeomanry cavalry during the present year?—The Duke of NEWCASTLE replied in the affirmative.

INDIA.—MR. WILSON'S FINANCIAL SCHEME.

The Earl of ELLENBOROUGH wished to know whether the Government had as yet received a copy of the speech of Mr. Wilson upon Indian finance? He thought that the true policy of this country was to endeavour to conciliate the natives; but he was inclined to believe that the system of taxation suggested by Mr. Wilson would have a directly contrary tendency. He felt convinced that any attempt to collect the taxes imposed in so wholesale a manner as was proposed in the bill of the hon. gentleman would lead to greater extortion, and would create universal discontent.

The Duke of ARGYLL said that copies of the speech had been sent to the Secretary of State and to the members of the Legislative Council, but Mr. Wilson himself was individually responsible for that speech; consequently it would not be laid upon the table as a Parliamentary paper. With regard, however, to the financial scheme of Mr. Wilson, it must be remembered that when that hon. gentleman arrived in India he found that there was a deficiency of £9,000,000 staring him in the face, which it was impossible to meet without resorting to some new mode of taxation.

Lord LYVEDEN thought, at any rate, some information should be laid before Parliament in order to enable them to discuss the question on an early day.

The Duke of ARGYLL said as soon as any bill or official despatch was received it would be laid on the table, and the whole question might then be discussed.

After some conversation the subject dropped.

HOUSE OF COMMONS.—THURSDAY.

BERWICK ELECTION PETITION.—Mr. F. PEEL brought up the report of the Berwick-upon-Tweed Election Committee, which declared that Mr. Marjoribanks had been duly elected, that extensive bribery prevailed at the last election, but that it was not committed with the sanction or authority of Mr. Marjoribanks, or Mr. Hodgson, the Conservative candidate.

THE ANNEXATION QUESTION.—Sir R. PEEL gave notice of his intention to-morrow to call attention to the position of Switzerland in reference to the annexation of Savoy and Nice to France.

CARDINAL ANTONELLI'S DESPATCH TO THE FRENCH MINISTRY.—Lord J. RUSSELL, in reply to Mr. Bowyer, said he had not received a copy of Cardinal Antonelli's despatch to M. Thouvenel; but he had been informed that Cardinal Antonelli had intimated to the British agent at Rome that he was about to forward such a despatch; and as soon as the Government received a copy of it it would be laid upon the table of the House.

THE REFORM BILLS.—Mr. CARDWELL, in reply to Mr. Maguire, said he saw no prospect of the second reading of the Reform Bill for Ireland before Easter, and would therefore postpone the motion for the second reading until Friday, the 20th of April.—Lord J. RUSSELL, in reply to Mr. Roebuck, said that he intended to proceed with the English Reform Bill to-morrow.

THE MURDER OF CAPTAIN LAMBERT AT LIMA.—Lord J. RUSSELL, in reply to Mr. Turner in reference to the robbery and murder of Captain Lambert, of her Majesty's ship Vixen, at Lima, said that that outrage had no political character whatever. It was committed solely for the purpose of plunder. The culprits would therefore be left to be dealt with by the laws of Peru.

THE ORDER OF BUSINESS.—The CHANCELLOR of the EXCHEQUER having moved that the notices of motion be postponed until the Income-tax Bill had been disposed of, several hon. members who had notices on the paper expressed their objections to give way.—The CHANCELLOR of the EXCHEQUER ultimately withdrew his proposition.

INDIA.—Colonel SYKES moved for certain returns connected with the organisation of the Indian army. The hon. and gallant officer urged the necessity of maintaining a local army upon a well-defined and substantial basis as a measure both of security and economy.—In the course of the discussion which ensued Sir C. WOOD declined to produce the papers moved for, on the ground that the Government had not as yet come to a determination upon the question raised; and the production of the papers would have the effect of prejudging a case before the whole of the information required had been obtained.—The motion was negatived without a division.

THE SHIPPING INTEREST.—THE TRADE WITH FRANCE.—Mr. LINDSAY moved that an humble address be presented to her Majesty praying that she will be graciously pleased to enter into negotiations with the Emperor of the French with the view of making a treaty for the reciprocal abrogation of all discriminating duties levied upon the vessels and their cargoes of either of the two nations in the ports of the other; and for procuring such alterations in the navigation laws of France as may tend to facilitate the commercial intercourse and strengthen the friendly relations between England and France.—Mr. HORSFALL seconded the motion.—Mr. M. GIBSON said the Government would not only assent to the motion, but they would take every fitting opportunity of effecting the object of it. After some conversation the motion was agreed to.

TENURE AND IMPROVEMENT OF LAND IN IRELAND.—Mr. CARDWELL, in a speech of some length, asked leave to bring in a bill to amend the law in reference to the above subject. The right hon. gentleman observed that the prosperous state of Ireland at the present moment was auspicious for legislation on this subject. The chief provisions of his bill were to enable limited owners or tenants for life to borrow money for improvements, with the consent of the Chairman of the county. In the case of tenants with leases, to extend the power of granting improvement leases from twenty-one years to forty years, and to vest in corporate bodies the same power as would be possessed by individual proprietors. In the case of tenants at will he proposed not to give retrospective compensation, but that when a tenant wished to improve he should give three months' notice of such intention to his landlord, that if his landlord should object to those improvements he might terminate the tenancy with the view, not of eviction, but to the conclusion of a written agreement as to the holding and the improvement of the land. If the landlord took no step in the matter, then the tenant might make his improvements and go to the Chairman of the county and obtain a provisional certificate granting him an annuity of £7 2s. per cent per annum for twenty-five years on every £100 so laid out on improvements. There were several other details mentioned, but of a minor character.—Lord FERMOY objected to the measure generally. He thought it would be better to allow the existing law to continue rather than to interfere with it by that sort of legislative quackery.—Several of the Irish members expressed their strong disapproval of the bill. Leave was, however, given to introduce the measure.

The ATTORNEY-GENERAL for IRELAND obtained leave to bring in a bill to consolidate and amend the law of landlord and tenant in Ireland, the provisions of which he would state upon another occasion.

Mr. P. URQUHART, amid much laughter and cries of "No, no!" obtained leave to bring in a bill to amend the law relating to landlord and tenant in Ireland; also a bill to amend the law relating to emblements in Ireland.

A dividend sitting of the British Bank was held at the Court of Bankruptcy on Tuesday. A further dividend of sixpence was declared, making fifteen shillings in all.

We understand (says the Globe) that Mr. Herman Merivale, now permanent Under-Secretary for the Colonies, will be the new Under-Secretary for India, in succession to Sir George Clerk, appointed Governor of Bombay.

ITALIAN ORDERS OF KNIGHTHOOD.—Advices from Florence give the following account of what is intended to be done with regard to the Orders of Knighthood in the annexed States:—"In Tuscany, the Order of St. Stephen, created by Cosmo I., in 1562, is to be maintained; but that of Merit of St. Joseph, and that of the White Cross, founded by Ferdinand III. in 1807 and 1814, in the same province, are to be suppressed. The same will be the fate of those of St. George and St. Louis of Lucca (1833 and 1836), that of St. Louis of Parma (1836), and that of the Eagle d'Este of Modena (1855). The members, however, are to be allowed to wear their decorations for life, unless, indeed, they should prefer to exchange them for those of the Sardinian Order of St. Maurice and St. Lazarus. As to the Order of Constantine of Parma, which is alleged to have been founded in 313, and revived by Isaac Commenus in 1190, it is to be maintained."

METROPOLITAN NEWS.

Mr. Galsworthy, High Bailiff of the Bloomsbury County Court, committed suicide on Wednesday morning, by throwing himself from the window of his residence in Gordon-square.

KEW GARDENS will be open to the public (free) on Good Friday and during the Easter holidays. The camellia japonica, or Japan rose, and many rare and beautiful Chinese, Australian, and New Zealand plants, are now in fine flower.

The destruction of old Westminster-bridge was commenced on Tuesday by the removal of the macadamised surface of the carriage-road on the western portion of the bridge. Three houses in Bridge-street are to be sold forthwith, in order that the approach may be completed.

REFUSAL OF LICENSES TO PRIZE FIGHTERS.—At the adjourned annual licensing day for the division of St. Martin-in-the-Fields, on Tuesday, the renewal of the license of Nat. Langham, landlord of the Cambrian, Castle-street, Leicester-square, a well-known prize fighter, and of Ben Caunt, of St. Martin's-lane, ex-champion of England, was refused.

WHITTINGTON CLUB.—The twelfth anniversary of this institution was celebrated on Tuesday evening by a ball in the spacious hall of the club-house. Dancing commenced shortly after nine o'clock, and was continued until a late hour. From 300 to 400 members and their friends assembled on the occasion. The committee have abolished the entrance-fee, so as to invite more extended support from the public.

FIELD-LANE RAGGED SCHOOL.—A meeting of the friends and subscribers of this school was held on Wednesday evening in the large schoolroom, Field-lane, Holborn-hill, when the committee awarded prizes to one hundred and sixty of their scholars who had kept their situations, with good characters, for twelve months and upwards, ending Christmas, 1859. The chair was taken by the Right Hon. the Earl of Shaftesbury.

STATUE OF THE LATE LORD LYON.—The Dean and Chapter of St Paul's have granted gratuitously "a most eligible" site within the walls of the metropolitan cathedral for the proposed monument to the late Lord Lyons. The memorial will assume the form of a statue, the execution of which is to be intrusted to Mr. Noble. It appears that £350 is still required to make up the sum necessary for the completion of this public tribute to the valour and worth of the deceased Admiral.

A FIRE, ATTENDED WITH LOSS OF LIFE, broke out on Sunday morning at a beer-shop in Curtain-road, Shoreditch. Mr. John Linch, who was lodging in the house with his wife and family, upon hearing the alarm given, and not knowing the reason, opened his bed-room door and fell into the midst of the fire, where he soon perished. His wife was also encircled in fire, and was compelled to jump out of the second-floor window, and died a few minutes afterwards, many of her limbs being broken. Several other of the inmates were much injured by dropping from the windows.

IN THE COURT OF CHANCERY the suit for declaration of rights under a partnership existing between Mr. John Bright, M.P., Mr. Bruce, and other parties, for working a patent in carpet-printing, came to a conclusion yesterday week, after having occupied six days. The decision was, in the main, in favour of Mr. Bright and the other defendants, but inquiries were ordered in reference to various collateral points; and his Honour, Sir J. P. Wood, ordered that no costs were to be allowed on either side, for both parties were to blame with respect to the state in which matters were between them.

BIRTHS AND DEATHS.—Last week the births of 918 boys and 927 girls—in all 1845 children—were registered in London. In the ten corresponding weeks of the years 1850-59 the average number was 1702.——The mortality of London, which from 1397 deaths in the first week of the current month, rose to 1563 in the following week, made a further advance in the week that ended last Saturday, in which the number was 1611. In the ten years 1850-59 the average number of deaths in the weeks corresponding with last week, when raised in proportion to increase of population, is 1367. The result of comparison is an excess in last week of 244 deaths over the number which the average rate of mortality in the middle of March would have produced.

LONDON REFORMATORY FOR ADULT MALES.—Lord Shaftesbury presided on Tuesday at a meeting held at the Reformatory in Smith-street, Westminster, to bid farewell to six reformed adult criminals, who, having completed their term of probation and passed through the required tests, are about to proceed, under the auspices of the institution, as free emigrants to the United States. The six reformed criminals were addressed with much feeling and friendly kindness by the noble Chairman, who, in bidding them farewell, heartily shook hands with each of them. Mr. Joseph Payne (Assistant-Judge at the Middlesex Sessions), the Rev. Charles Hume (Chaplain), and Mr. F. Crossley, M.P., also gave them friendly and useful advice for their future conduct, and bore testimony to the value of the institution.

THE PRINCE CONSORT AT THE CLOTHWORKERS' BANQUET.—His Royal Highness was present on Tuesday evening at a dinner given by the Clothworkers' Company, inaugurative of their new hall in Mincing-lane. The company included the Duke of Somerset, the Marquis of Salisbury, Earl Stanhope, the Earl of Romney, Lord Stanley, Lord Chelmsford, Sir C. Wood, General Peel, Mr. Disraeli, Mr. M. Gibson, Mr. Kinnaird, Mr. Wyld, M.P., Alderman Cubitt, Sir J. Romilly, Sir F. Pollock, and Mr. Justice Willes. The hall, which was tastefully decorated with flowers and gay with flags, presented an appearance at once bright and fresh. On the removal of the cloth the usual loyal toasts were proposed. These having been duly honoured, the "Health of the Prince Consort" was given, who, in responding to the toast, congratulated the company, of which he had just now become a member, on the success they had achieved.

SECRET DIPLOMACY.—A lecture was delivered last Saturday evening at the Westbourne Lecture Hall, Westbourne-grove, by Mr. Henry Ottley, in aid of the prize-fund of the Society for the Encouragement of the Fine Arts. "Diplomacy, and the Prerogative of the Crown in Peace and War," was the subject of the lecture, in the opening portion of which Mr. Ottley dwelt on the importance of our foreign policy, and the little attention bestowed upon it by the public. The evil results of secret diplomacy were then forcibly pointed out, with illustrations derived from the history of this and other countries, until secresy became an established practice and principle. These evils had been manifested as strongly as ever in the negotiations which led to the war between Russia and Turkey, and were now exhibited in the annexation of Savoy. The lecture lasted nearly two hours, and its interest was fully maintained to the close by the manner in which it was delivered, and the powerful arguments and expositions by which it was characterised.

The Hon. Lionel Sackville West will leave town in a few days, to enter upon his duties as Secretary of Legation at Turin.

Mr. Babbage has long been engaged in devising a machine which he calls his analytical machine. This machine proposes to give to algebra—nay, even to those lofty branches of mathematical science the differential and integral calculus—the same mechanical aid which the difference-machine confers on all tables capable of arithmetical calculation.

FEMALE DICTATION IN CONGRESS.—During the progress of the balloting for Speaker in the United States' House of Representatives many ludicrous scenes transpired. One, in particular, excited a great deal of mirth. As Barksdale was urging all the Opposition elements to unite on M'Clernand, a lady in one of the front seats in the gallery was observed to become very much excited. She coughed, made signs, and by other means, attempted to attract the attention of a member below. Not succeeding, she leaned far over the balcony, and in an audible whisper exclaimed, "David! David! change your vote, you booby!" The honourable member cocked up, recognised his better half, coloured, hesitated, stammered, and then instantly changed his—seat. A small, delicate fist was shaken at him from the gallery, amid the suppressed mirth of the spectators.

SARDINIAN MILITARY PREPARATIONS.—The evacuation by the French troops makes military preparations even more urgent than before. Although no noise is made about these you perceive activity everywhere. If you pass towards sunset near the Arsenal you see hundreds of workmen and women come out of the place where they have been busy the whole day. You cannot take a walk through the town without meeting waggons and carts with soldiers' clothing and warlike material. Before most saddlers' shops you see holsters, saddles, and bridles in all stages of completion. There is, likewise, great activity in horse-dealing, as you can see by the numerous led horses, brought in by the country people, which you meet in the streets. In one word, if you are to believe what you see, you can have no doubt that the Government understands the earnestness of the moment when it is left to its own resorces, surrounded on almost all sides by enemies of the new order of things.—Letter from Turin.

RAGS FOR THE MANUFACTURE OF PAPER.—The papermakers keep their grievances steadily before the public. In a letter to the Times of Monday Mr. Wrigley urges that he and the other manufacturers of paper in this country do not desire protection in its usual sense: they only ask to be protected from the "injustice and oppression" of having to pay a tax of from 50 to 100 per cent on foreign rags, while the makers of France and other Continental countries, who have no such burden to weigh them down in the race of competition, are to be allowed to enter our markets with the manufactured article free of duty. They require that Mr. Gladstone should impose an import duty of at least one penny per pound, contending that, if this precaution be not taken, the British trade will be utterly ruined. The Russian export duty has hitherto been £6 per ton; but a large importer of Baltic rags thinks it by no means impossible that the Government of St. Petersburg will either prohibit the exportation of the raw material altogether, or increase the duty now levied.——Another correspondent of the leading journal suggests that India and China might supply us with a large quantity of cotton rags. He meets the objection that rags would not bear the freight and charges of an Indian voyage by stating that the worn-out clothing of the Orientals would be quite as valuable as some of the raw cotton regularly imported into this country.

MUSIC.

COVENT-GARDEN THEATRE, as the Royal English Opera, is now closed; and, as the Royal Italian Opera, will be opened on Tuesday week, the 10th of April. Mr. Gye's prospectus of the season, if it has been issued, has not yet reached us. We understand he has just returned from the Continent, where he has been mustering his vocal forces. His difficulties in forming his company must have been much increased by the activity of his rival of Her Majesty's Theatre, for Mr. Smith has engaged a company numerous beyond precedent, and including a host of the most distinguished names of the day. The tug of war commences at both houses at the same time, and we have no doubt that both generals, skilful and experienced campaigners, will be well prepared for the struggle.

The English opera season at COVENT GARDEN has been on the whole a brilliant one. Wallace's "Lurline" has placed him in the first rank of English composers, and has filled the treasury of the theatre. Miss Pyne and Mr. Harrison deserve their success, for their management, ever since the commencement of their enterprise, has been both judicious and liberal. During three seasons (as Mr. Harrison stated in his address on the closing night) they have expended for artists, authors, rent, &c., no less than £80,000. They will reopen the theatre in October next, after their summer campaign in the provinces.

The principal concerts of the past week have been the Monday Popular Concert, the concert of the Vocal Association, and that of the London Quintet Union, both on Wednesday evening. All good performances, but without any novel feature, except the appearance at the Vocal Association's concert of Mr. Eleanor Ward, a young pianist of great merit, who made a successful début.

The concert of Mr. Henken's Choral Class on Thursday, last week, at St. Martin's Hall, is well worthy of notice. This class was established last year for the practice of choral music, and now numbers two hundred and fifty members, who meet weekly at the Spafields Lecture Hall. There is also an elementary class of five hundred voices. Both classes are under the direction of Mr. Henken, who seems to be a skilful instructor. On this occasion several fine choruses were sung with precision and effect; and the entertainment was varied by several solo pieces sung by Miss Fanny Huddart, Miss Banks, and Mr. Wilbye Cooper. The hall was crowded, and the audience were enthusiastic in their applause.

THE THEATRES, &c.

OLYMPIC.—An occasional piece has been produced here entitled "B. B.," and written by Messrs. Montague Williams and J. Burnand. The mysterious initials have reference to the "Benicia Boy," an individual who has crossed the Atlantic to contest the championship of England with the present holder of it, and for whom Mr. Benjamin Bobbin, the hero of the farce (Mr. Robson), is mistaken. The waiters at an inn commit this error in consequence of the traveller's luggage being marked B.B. Bob Rattles, too, a local pugilist (Mr. H. Wigan), visits him, in order to put him under training. Accordingly, he slaps him and pulls him about, and finally, to Mr. Bobbin's discomfort and dismay, invests him with the boxing-gloves. Mr. Robson, of course, paints his distress with wonderful tact, and the curtain falls to a round of applause.

ADELPHI.—One new piece and a revival have been presented at this theatre during the week—on Monday, "The Star of the Street;" and on Wednesday, "A Model of a Wife." The first, which is by Mr. Mark Lemon, adopts the ever-successful subject of Punch, whose theatre is detained for the score at a country inn, where the proprietor and his wife had sought temporary refuge. Mr. and Mrs. Septimus Swatchel (Mr. Toole and Miss Woolgar) fall into stage exaggerations, deploring their hard destiny; but appeal in vain to the landlady (Mrs. Chatterley), who insists on her money. At length Mrs. Swatchel resolves on taking her tambourine into the streets of the town, and collecting the needed sum by dancing. Meanwhile, her husband runs up a fresh score at the inn, and mortgages the puppets for the amount to the inflexible innkeeper. At this juncture Mr. Frank Finch (Mr. Billington), who is in love with Julia Feltham (Miss Laidlaw), and at a loss to gain admission to her in consequence of her father, a retired solicitor (Mr. C. Selby), locking her up, visits the hostelry, and shortly afterwards accepts Swatchel's offer of assistance, who for a five-pound note constitutes him drummer of the show. Accordingly, they proceed together to Feltham's villa, and attract the proprietor's attention. Indeed, matters had been prepared by an interview with Mrs. Swatchel, who had proved that Feltham was sensible to the influence of the street-drama. He had been observed by his daughter from the window to kiss the itinerant dancer, and the former had consequently been brought out of doors to discuss her differences with her father. The fun of Punch's show grows riotous, in the midst of which the amorous Julia begins to perceive the meaning of the sport and to penetrate her lover's disguise, which, finding himself understood, he forthwith throws off, and they elope to church. The interest then becomes intense. First of all, Swizel, Punch's real solo-player on the big drum, steals the parrot that Julia had hung from the lattice, and follows Swatchel with it to the inn. Shortly afterwards his wife and the lawyer also arrive there,—the latter raving about his daughter, who, he supposes, has run off with the showman. Mrs. Swatchel becomes jealous and hysterical; Swatchel, entering, thinks the row is about the stolen parrot, and an absurd scene of cross purposes and high passion ensues. Swizel is ultimately called in, and produces the caged bird, to the great relief of the lady and the no less surprise of the puzzled attorney. And now the lovers return from their short wedding-trip, and all is explained; whereupon Feltham gives in to the humour of the moment, and the whole dramatis personæ unite in a dance. Mr. Toole and Miss Woolgar were never more powerful than in this little eccentric drama, which has in the dialogue several capital hits, and is altogether very effective. It was decidedly successful.

STANDARD.—The late Mr. T. P. Taylor's excellent drama of "The Seasons" has been revived at this theatre, and is placed on the stage with new scenery and costumes, which make it extremely pleasing to witness. It is, besides, capitally acted, and full of the best kind of domestic interest.

On Saturday (to-day) the performance at the Lyceum Theatre will be for the benefit of the talented directress, Madame Celeste. Her first season of management will close on this evening.

THE JULLIEN FUND.—We are requested to state that books to receive names to this fund are placed at Messrs. Hammond's (late Jullien's), 214, Regent-street; Cramer and Co.'s, 201, Regent-street; Parkins and Gotto's, 24, Oxford-street; Keith, Prowse, and Co.'s, 48, Cheapside; Baily Brothers, Cornhill.

"THE INVULNERABLE IRON FORTRESS."—Mr. Joseph Chesterton, of Liecester, has written to us claiming for himself the merit of being the inventor of the invulnerable iron fortress. He states that in March, 1852, he sent to the Ordnance Office drawings and plans of an iron fortress "very similar" to those of Mr. Hall, engraved in this Journal last week.

THE ABBEY CHURCH OF WALTHAM.—(To the Editor.)—In your paper published on the 17th inst. you stated that the sum of £550 has been given for the repairs now going on in the Abbey Church of Waltham. This is not exactly the case. The amount has been sent to us by a person, whose motto is "In hoc signo vinces," as a loan, in order that the progress of the works might not be stopped for want of immediate funds. Allow me to add that we are very much in need of means necessary for completing the repair, but we hope that the public will liberally assist us with the sum we require for the preservation of Harold's Abbey Church. James Francis, Incumbent of the Parish, and Chairman of the Committee for the Repair of the Abbey Church.—Waltham Abbey, March 24, 1860.

THE CARRON IRON COMPANY.—The gigantic frauds of the deceased manager of the Carron Iron Company, Mr. Henry Stainton, were before the Master of the Rolls on Saturday. When these frauds were first discovered the executors of Stainton, with the sanction of the Court of Chancery, paid over to the company the enormous sum of £220,000 as a compromise. Since then, however, other defalcations on the part of Stainton, during a previous period of his management, have been brought to light, amounting to an additional £32,000. The executors resisted any further claim, contending that the first payment constituted a general compromise. The company, however, contended that the newly-discovered defalcations constituted a new and independent claim against Stainton's estate. The Master of the Rolls decided on Saturday that the whole matter might be reopened, with a view to a general settlement.

SCIENTIFIC NEWS.

CHEMICAL HEAT.—M. H. Sainte-Claire Deville has read before the French Academy of Sciences a resumé of his researches respecting the nature of the heat disengaged in chemical combinations. After detailing his mode of experimenting, and discussing the various hypotheses respecting the materiality of heat, he concludes by saying:—"Affinity being the cause, the heat disengaged is the effect produced by that force, and is proportional to it; whence it follows that, if we take the effect for the cause, and the cause for the effect (which is permitted to us in this case), we arrive at the admission that affinity is nothing else in intensity than the quantity of latent heat, or phlogiston, shut up in the body; and thus we identify with an ancient hypothesis all the physical forces, as Grove and the modern philosophers desire."—L Institut.

PREPARATION OF CALCIUM.—M. Dumas, in the name of the Capitaine Carron, who formerly participated in the researches of M. Sainte-Claire Deville, explained lately to the French Academy of Sciences a new mode of preparing the rare metal, calcium, which consists in treating by an elevated heat a mixture of chloride of calcium, zinc, and sodium. The sodium seizes upon the chlorine and forms chloride of sodium; the calcium and zinc remain combined. By raising the temperature a little higher the zinc is volatilized, and the calcium remains behind. M. Carron has thus obtained at times above 400 grammes of calcium. He hopes in a similar manner to obtain the analogous metals, barium, strontium, &c.

OF THE METEOROLOGICAL PAPERS published by the Board of Trade, under the superintendence of Admiral FitzRoy, No. 4 has just been issued. It contains a letter from Sir F. L. M'Clintock, and an abstract of the meteorological register from the Fox, with a map and diagrams. In the appendix is given an account of the marine barometer and other meteorological instruments adopted by her Majesty's Government on the recommendation of the Kew Observatory committee.

THE VELOCITY OF THE WIND during the hurricane of the 26th, 27th, and 28th of February, at Paris, was measured by M. Hervé Mangon, by means of his anemograph. The greatest mean velocity by half-hours was only fourteen metres the second; but it is not the mean velocity which was the cause of so much destruction, but the extremely sudden changes. M. Mangon has determined that at one time the velocity advanced from forty-one metres to sixty per second. During violent hurricanes the velocity of the wind seldom exceeds forty-five metres per second. (The metre is equal to 3·281 feet.) The enormous amount of matters, organic and inorganic, in the mass of air thus displaced cannot easily be conceived. M. Mangon gives some interesting calculations on this subject.—Cosmos.

ELECTROTYPING.—The last number of the Comptes Rendus contains an account of a mode of reproducing on copper an engraving upon stone. The process is the invention of Colonel Levret, and was transmitted to the Academy of Sciences by the French Minister of War. Important results are anticipated, especially with reference to the production of charts.

ROYAL INSTITUTION LECTURES.

Professor TYNDALL's eleventh lecture, on Thursday (last week), was devoted to the still further consideration of the "Polarisation of Light." The optic axes of various crystals—viz., nitre, quartz, and mica—were shown, and their action on light explained. The doubly-refracting power (analogous to crystallisation) produced on plates of glass by the change in the arrangement of the molecules by mechanical pressure, even of the hand, and also by the change of temperature on the application of heat, were beautifully shown; the consequent changes of colour being manifested by the aid of the electric light. The glass is raised to a high temperature, and cooled rapidly by placing it on cold metallic surfaces; and many fanciful patterns may be thus produced. The lecture concluded with an exposition of the phenomena of circular polarisation. By revolving a crystal of quartz, suitably prepared and arranged, each colour of the spectrum appeared successively as a disc on the screen. The overlapping of red and green, and of blue and yellow, in both cases produced white. The remarkable polarising power of certain liquids (e.g., oil of lemons and syrup of sugar) was shown, and also Duboscq's apparatus for testing the quantity of sugar in a liquid. The latter was kindly lent by Dr. Bence Jones.

The Friday evening discourse ("On Diamonds") was delivered by Professor N. STORY MASKELYNE, the chief of the Mineralogical Department of the British Museum—Lord Wensleydale in the chair. Mr. Maskelyne commenced by remarking on the much greater progress which chemistry had made in multiplying and classifying the compounds of the elements than in isolating and investigating the elements themselves. Organic chemistry is the chemistry of carbon, yet the conditions under which the different states of elementary carbon are produced—indeed, how many of such states there are—are comparatively unsolved problems. The diamond is one of these states. It is the most interesting of them,—it is, perhaps, the most interesting form in which matter presents itself to us. The intensity of its hardness and its transcendant optical characters distinguish it from all known things. The former property is employed for cutting glass and aiding the lapidary in his many applications of diamond-dust, and would give to the diamond a very high commercial value apart from its extraordinary estimation as a gem. The dust has been stated by Petzholdt to owe the gray tint it possesses to a physical change of colour caused by pulverisation; but the microscope renders it evident that this hue is owing to an optical cause only, arising out of the high reflecting power and great refractive energy of the stone. The law of refraction was then illustrated by experiments, as was the result of that law in the case of total internal reflection—where a ray traversing a dense medium approaches a rarer one at an angle too large to allow its sine to give any corresponding sine for the angle of an emergent beam. The brilliant cut of the diamond was then explained, and the method pointed out by which in it the light incident on the upper facits is totally reflected back from the pavilion planes, and is broken into the prismatic hues on the surfaces of the bezil and table. Very beautiful illustrations of this were exhibited—a magnificent diamond, the property of Mr. Martin, being placed in the electric light; and while no ray of light was able to traverse the pavilion of the diamond to reach the screen behind it, so that a black image of the transparent stone was formed thereon, the diamond itself was glowing with a thousand tints, and at the same time exhibiting an extraordinary fluorescence. Mr. Maskelyne next adverted to the localities of the diamond, and to the possible methods by which it may have been formed. It has been found in situ in a micaceous and talcose sandstone, and in hornblende slate, both, doubtless, metamorphosed rocks; so that it is hard to say whether the diamond was an original tenant of the rock in its earlier stage of existence, or had been formed in it during the long period when metamorphic agency was at work. The chemist has six or seven methods or lines of experiment open to him for prosecuting the endeavour to form the diamond. Of these, perhaps, the most promising is that by which he has already formed the boron-diamond and the silicon-diamond—namely, crystallisation from molten metal surcharged with the non-metallic element. The discourse concluded with some observations on the Koh-i-Noor diamond, in which it was proved that a more careful investigation of weights than had hitherto been attempted gives a result so exactly concordant with the weight of "the famous diamond" of India, which weighed eight mishkals, in the days of Sultan Baber, that it is difficult to resist the belief that it and the Koh-i-Noor, as it was in the Exhibition of 1851, are the same. If this be conceded, the Koh-i-Noor is the most remarkable historical relic perhaps in existence. A slight sketch of its history was given, and an explanation offered for the inconsistencies and apparent difficulties introduced into that history by the account Tavernier gives of it, which were shown to be capable of being elucidated by a close scrutiny of the history of Shah Jehan and Rurungzebe.

Dr. LANKESTER's ninth lecture "On Animal Products," on Saturday last, was devoted to oils and fats. The nature of adipose tissue, in the cells of which the oils are deposited, was explained, and also the use of fat in nourishing and maintaining the temperature of the body. The discovery of the fatty acids by Chevreul, and the consequent knowledge of the properties of oleine, stearine, glycerine, and their compounds, which led to the recent rapid improvements in the soap and candle manufactures, were specially dwelt upon. The lecture was well illustrated by specimens from Price's manufactory at Belmont and other establishments.

Professor OWEN, in his twelfth and concluding lecture "On Fossil Reptiles" (on Tuesday last), considered those belonging to the orders Ophidia (serpents) and Batrachia (frogs and toads), with especial reference to the differences in their structure and that of their representatives in our own day. Taking the boa-constrictor as a type, he pointed out the admirable arrangement and development of the ribs of the serpent, which compensate for the absence of limbs, for locomotive and defensive purposes, and which enable it to obtain its food on land or in the water. He also noted how well the head was protected from danger by a hard conical ivory-like covering. Remains of a serpent about twelve feet long were found at Sheppey, and of one about twenty feet long at Bracklesham. Remains of the Batrachia have been found in various degrees of development. The most noted fossil of this order was discovered at Œningen in 1726, and was named by Scheuchzer "man, a witness of the deluge" (Homo diluvii testis). Baron Cuvier showed that it belonged to the water salamanders, a living specimen of which has been recently placed in our Zoological Society's gardens. A lucid summary of the course, illustrated by a diagram showing the geological distribution of reptiles, concluded the lecture.

BETHLEHEM HOSPITAL.—(To the Editor.)—In your Paper of last Saturday an error has crept into the description of the Female Gallery in this hospital, where it is stated that "The engravings were the gift of the late Mr. Graves, the eminent publisher of Pall-mall." Our liberal benefactor, Mr. Henry Graves, is still alive, and continues the eminent publisher of Pall-mall; and that he may long live to learn how much his gift is valued is, I am sure, the wish of all connected with this institution.

Mr. Simon Thomas Scrope, of Danby-on-Yore, Yorkshire, claims the ancient Earldom of Wiltes or Wiltshire. The claims will come before the Committee of Privileges in the House of Lords, during the present session, and, if successful, will dispossess the Earl of Shrewsbury of the honours of the premier earldom of England. The earldom of Wiltes was created in 1397, in the person of Sir William Scrope, Knight, eldest son of Sir Richard Scrope, first Lord Scrope of Bolton.

THE ROYAL HOSPITAL OF BETHLEHEM.—THE GALLERY FOR MEN.—SEE PAGE 304.

PARIS FASHIONS FOR APRIL.

To the excitement produced by the diplomatic arrangements for annexation or separation the progress of the seasons and of the modes turns a deaf ear. The winds of March and the showers of April blow and moisten just the same whether Savoy be French or Piedmontese, and as equal attention to political revivals characterises the march of the fashions from winter to their spring demonstrations. Their sole idea of annexation limits itself to the consideration of the crinoline frontier question; and, as for separation, the term is only recognised in its application to the abandonment of winter costume for that of the more genial season upon which we are just entering. Thus it is that flowers have already taken the place of velvet ornaments; not, it is true, Nature's flowers, but such as imitate so closely the works of that ancient dame as to give her a just cause for jealousy, if it were possible for her to be animated by that unworthy sentiment towards her younger sister Art.

In the matter of ladies' dresses there is little new to indicate, except it be the adoption of somewhat lighter materials in their composition. For robes, as for bonnets, the widest limits are given for the display of fancy, provided it be in good taste, for the new season. To bonnets this remark is especially applicable, for, in addition to the inexhaustible variety of flowers, gilt ornaments of every description (crescents, buckles, pins with filigree heads, &c.), and feathers of all shapes and sizes, are selected, according to the gout of the milliner. We have almost reversed beautiful ones in rice-chip, ornamented with flowers or feathers, which present an exquisite appearance of freshness; and some others of great originality, in black velvet, braided with straw, enlivened by red and white poppies, and having one string black and the other white.

Before proceeding to the description of our illustrations we have only to remark that plain black, white, rose du Chine, or dark blue cashmere shawls are in most favour just now, and will be very generally worn during the spring.

THE ILLUSTRATIONS.

Fig. 1. Evening Dress.—The colour of this silk dress, violette de Parme, is one now much in vogue in Paris. It is trimmed with fluted silk plaiting of the same colour, but of a darker tint. The corsage is heart-shaped, with a lapel open to the commencement of the shoulder, and bordered by some of the narrow plaiting just mentioned. Six buttons ornament the front down to the waist, which is round, and fastened by a band at the bottom and at the top with a brooch. The wide bell-sleeves are without any plaiting on the shoulder; but the lower part is furnished with such a trimming, turned up at the back and finishing with a point. The skirt is furnished with two flounces, the upper one surmounted by a narrower trimming than that—half as wide again—which ornaments the bottom of each flounce. A white lace flat-lying chemisette is worn under the corsage. The under-sleeve is of tulle, and its cuff of lace insertion. The head-dress is composed of violets of the two tints, formed into a crown, from which descend two light barbes of black and white lace.

Fig. 2. Robe de Visite.—This dress is of dark puce velvet, trimmed with black silk passementerie. The corsage is high-necked, fastening with hooks in the front, and is ornamented with three rows of passementerie, which are carried round to the back. The under-sleeves are of tulle, with lace cuffs. Lace collar. The bonnet is very light green velvet, trimmed with shaded feathers and white lace; its curtain, also of velvet, is edged with white lace. The wide strings match in colour with that of the bonnet.

THE PARIS FASHIONS FOR APRIL.

MRS. JAMESON.

THIS celebrated authoress died on Saturday, the 17th inst., after a few days' illness. Mrs. Jameson was the eldest daughter of Mr. Murphy, painter in ordinary to the Princess Charlotte. She married Mr. Robert Jameson, the late Vice-Chancellor of Canada, whom she survived six years. Her literary labours commenced with the "Diary of an Ennuyée," in 1826, followed by volumes on various subjects of biography and art. Her principal and most popular publications are "Characteristics of Women," chiefly studies from Shakespeare; "Visits and Sketches at Home and Abroad;" "Memoirs of Winter Studies and Summer Rambles in Canada;" the latter work she regarded as peculiarly a record of her own social views and convictions. In 1842 she published the "Handbook to the Public Galleries of Art in and near London," which was the first of a series of artistic works of subsequent production—viz., on "Sacred and Legendary Art," "Legends of the Monastic Orders," "Legends of the Madonna," &c. One of her last publications was a revised and enlarged edition of "Memoirs of the Early Italian Painters," published by Mr. Murray. For two years past she had been occupied on a laborious and elaborately illustrated work announced by Messrs. Longman, and nearly completed, "The History of our Lord and his Precursor, St. John the Baptist, with the Personages and Typical Subjects of the Old Testament as represented in Christian Art." In the completion of this labour she had revisited Italy, and passed several months in Rome and other Continental cities. At the meeting of the Association for the Promotion of Social Science at Bradford in October last she attended the sections with the deepest interest and attention, and any brief observations she made were received with marked respect. Mrs. Jameson's illness was of a few days' duration only. After a visit to the Reading-room of the British Museum she complained of a cold, and in two or three days a severe attack of bronchitis succeeded, from the effects of which she never rallied. Mrs. Jameson has left friends not only in her own country but in almost every capital in Europe to lament her loss.

The following tribute of respect to the deceased lady is by the London correspondent of the Manchester Guardian.—"The death of Mrs. Jameson is a great loss to the literature of the arts, but a greater still to the many friends of this most exemplary, intelligent, and genial lady. Few of the public know under what circumstances Mrs. Jameson's works were produced—at what cost of ill-remunerated but most conscientious labour—and on what holy and self-sacrificing purposes the proceeds of that labour were employed. For many years Mrs. Jameson was the almost sole support of her mother and sisters, and of a sister's child besides. No one ever bore a heavier load of self-imposed obligations, or carried that load more uncomplainingly. She moved it as if she never felt it. But it was very heavy for all that, and it broke her down at last. Her almost incessant labour during the latter years of her life, was lightened by an annuity of £100 (in addition to a pension of the same amount), which annuity she owed to the determined kindness of her friend, Mrs. Procter (wife of that sweetest of bards and kindliest of men, better known to the world by his nom de plume of Barry Cornwall), who raised the sum required for the purchase of this annuity by her own unaided efforts from among Mrs. Jameson's friends, and presented it to the unsuspecting and astonished donee as a birthday gift. It is well that such acts should be known, especially when done so unostentatiously and bravely."

WESLEYAN CHAPEL, WEDNESFIELD HEATH, NEAR WOLVERHAMPTON.

WESLEYAN CHAPEL, WEDNESFIELD HEATH.

THE opening of this chapel took place on Monday, the 12th inst., when the Rev. S. D. Waddy, President of the Conference and Governor of Wesley College, Sheffield, preached a most powerful sermon. The new chapel, built by Messrs. Whmilton and Roberts, of Manchester, containing twenty stops, was opened on this occasion. The chapel is built almost entirely of brick. The walls are red; the plinths, string bands, and a portion of the arches, in white, and the quoins in white, brick. The style, if it can at all be classed, may be said to be Norman, but it is rather an adaptation of local material in giving a character to the building, while fitting it for its future requirements at an economical outlay, and which assimilates nearer to the architecture of the eleventh century than to any other, though a freedom of treatment has been adopted in preference to any particular style being followed. The plan is cruciform in outline, though the transepts project but slightly beyond the side walls. The roof is open—framed, and ceiled between the rafters, all the carpenters and joiners' work being stained and varnished. The arrangement of the seating is central—the space adjoining the side walls being divided, and approached from aisles continuing the entire length of the chapel—and will accommodate about 600 persons. 320 will be free. At the the upper end are the communion-table and pulpit, and immediately behind the latter is a screen, in the panels of which is written the Decalogue. The organ is fixed in a gallery built out behind the pulpit, and over one of the vestries, of which latter there are three, provided at the rear of the chapel.

The chapel was built by Mr. T. Palmer, under the superintendence of Mr. George Hilditch, architect. The total cost, including organ, will not exceed £1600.

HER MAJESTY'S DRAWINGROOM.

THE Queen held, last Saturday, her first Drawingroom this season, in St James's Palace. Her Majesty and the Prince Consort, accompanied by Princess Alice, arrived from Buckingham Palace about two o'clock, attended by the Lord Chamberlain and Gentlemen in waiting and escorted by the Duke of Cambridge and Prince Victor of Hohenlohe attended the Drawingroom.

Before the reception her Majesty, according to annual custom received a deputation from Christ's Hospital in the Throne-room. The deputation consisted of Mr. William Gilpin, the treasurer; Mr. John Brown and Mr. Robert Few, two of the governors of the institution; accompanied by the Rev. William Webster, M.A., the mathematical master; Mr. William Henry Bank, the drawing master; and the forty boys of the Royal Mathematical School founded by King Charles II.; and was most graciously received. The Duke of Cambridge, K.G., president of the institution, was present in the Throne-room with her Majesty and the Prince Consort. The Queen condescended to inspect the charts and drawing of the boys, and to express her approbation of their performance.

Her Majesty wore a train of green and gold poplin, trimmed with green velvet ribbons, gold braid, and tassels. The petticoat of white satin, double skirt, trimmed with gold braid and fringe. The Queen wore a diadem of opals and diamonds as a head-dress, with feathers and veil.

The Princess Alice wore a train of rich mauve and white silk, trimmed with ruching of tasteful bows of ribbon. The petticoat of white glacé, bouillones of white tulle and bows of ribbon. Her Royal Highness wore a wreath of white flowers, feathers and veil as a head-dress.

Her Majesty's Royal Body Guard of the Honourable Corps of Gentlemen-at-Arms was on duty in the State saloons, under the command of the Lieutenant.

The Countess and Prince Consort were attended by the Marchioness of Ely (officiating for the Mistress of the Robes) and the other members of the Household. Messrs. Phipps and Boyle were the Pages of Honour in Waiting.

The Foreign Ambassadors and Ministers were introduced, when the following presentations to the Queen took place in the diplomatic circle:—By Madame Van de Weyer, Miss Victoria Van de Weyer, eldest daughter of the Belgian Minister. By Mrs. Hall Gurney, John Bigelow, of New York. By the Brazilian Minister, Chevalier do Souza Correa, Attaché to the Legation. By the United States' Minister, Mr. John Bigelow, of New York.

The diplomatic circle was attended by the Turkish and French Ambassadors; the Belgian, Bavarian, Hanoverian, Greek, Brazilian, United States', Austrian, Saxon, Swedish and Norwegian, Russian, Spanish, Sicilian, Danish, and Peruvian Ministers; the Sardinian Chargé d'Affaires, and the Chargé d'Affaires of the Republic of Salvador. The general circle was attended by Prince Gholam Muhamed, son of Tippoo Sultan; Prince Feroze Shah, grandson of Tippoo Sultan; the Archbishop o

Canterbury, and most of her Majesty's Ministers and officers of State.

The following presentations to the Queen took place, the names having been previously left at the Lord Chamberlain's office, and submitted for her Majesty's approval:—

Miss Allhusen, Miss Annie Allhusen, Lady Gertrude Amherst, Miss Adelaide Astley, Miss Margaret Bagwell, Miss May Beatson, Lady Diana Beauclerk, Mrs. de Vere Beauclerk, Miss Beauclerk; Mrs. Beaumont, of Whitley Beaumont; Miss Belli, Mrs. Shadwell Boulderson, Miss Bertha Boulderson, Miss Louisa Boulderson, Mrs. Briggs, Miss Brooke, Miss Brown, Lady Elma Bruce; Mrs. Fordyce Buchan, on her marriage; Hon. Victoria Byng; Hon. Mrs. Henry Campbell, on her marriage; Mrs. Adolphus Carey; Countess Cathcart, on accession to the title; Miss Mary Cavendish, Lady Colthurst; Mrs. Edward Cooper, on her marriage; Miss Catherine Cotes, Lady Blanche Craven; Lady Dunfermline, on coming to her title; Miss Herbert Edwardes, Mrs. Charles Ekins, Miss Ekins, Miss Fairman, Miss Janet Farquharson, Lady Edith Ferguson, Lady Augustus Fitzclarence; Hon. Mrs. Henry Forester, on her marriage; Mrs. E. Ward Fox, Mrs. Gabriel, Mrs. Charles Gammon, Miss Agnes Gladstone, Miss Lucy Grant, Viscountess Grey de Wilton; Mrs. William Granville Vernon Harcourt, on her marriage; Mrs. Hargreaves, Miss Louisa Hartopp, Lady Alice Hill, Miss Hodson, Miss Cecilia Hook, Miss Hubbard; Mrs. Clark Kennedy, upon her marriage; Hon. Frances King, Miss King, Mrs. Laing; Mrs. William Leigh, of Woodchester, on her marriage; Viscountess Lismore, Lady Lyveden, Mrs. Macleod, of Cadboll; Right Hon. the Lady Mayoress, Mrs. Thomas Molson (Montreal), Lady Morshed, Hon. Mrs. William Napier; Mrs. Newdigate, on her marriage; Mrs. Reynell Pack, Miss Constance Pelham, Mrs. Powys, Lady Radstock, Miss Reeve, Mrs. Charles Rigby, Miss Russell, Miss Laura Russell; Mrs. Henry Ayshford Sanford, on her marriage; Lady Isabella Schuster, on her marriage; Miss Horatia Seymour; Duchess of St. Albans, on her marriage; Hon. Kate Stanley, Miss Fanny Stephenson, Mrs. Duncan Stewart, Miss Stewart, Countess of Tankerville, Mrs. Tootal, Mrs. Frederick Biscoe Tritton, Hon. Mrs. Turner, Miss Augusta Verschoyle, Miss Alice Vivian, Mrs. Erskine Wemyss, Mrs. Willis, Miss Willis, Miss Louisa Willis, Mrs. Wilmer Wilmer, Miss Wilmer Wilmer, Mrs. Worsley.

The general circle was well attended.

After the Drawingroom her Majesty and the Prince Consort returned to Buckingham Palace.

NATIONAL SPORTS.

THE Northampton Meeting has gone off with its wonted éclat, and the season of 1860 may be considered as fairly begun at last. Odo, a stout little son of Augur, who beat Fravola by a head at Abingdon last year, and has been rather fancied for the Chester Cup, won the Trial Stakes very cleverly from North Lincoln, Lifeboat, and one or two others. The Baron's horse, who is said to be a confirmed roarer, ran second, and jumped at the road as he did last year when he ran with Chirp. Odo made full use of his form by winning Her Majesty's Plate, but not without a desperate struggle home with Athos. First Lord was so lusty that the betting in the Northamptonshire Stakes turned against him the instant he was seen, and Forager, another great favourite, made no show in the race, which fell an easy prey to Simple Simon, trained by George Simpson, who used some years ago to ride light weights for John Scott's stable. On Wednesday Lord Stamford's Derby favourite Paleface made very light of Croquemitaine from Danebury, who was merely brought out to get a line for Mainstone. He is a remarkably fine horse, although the performance itself was not worth talking about. Lord Stamford's luck was in the ascendant again in the Althorp Stakes, as his colt Walloon, by The Flying Dutchman, for which he gave 460 guineas at the Royal sale, came in two lengths ahead of a large field. There was quite a clapping of hands in the stand when it was seen that the "blue and black belt" had it all its own way, and the success of his Lordship in four races gave quite a tone to the meeting. The winner is a very elegant colt, with not a trace of his expatriated sire about him.

Old John Day died a few days ago, in his sixty-seventh year. He began life with an engagement to ride light weights for George IV. at four guineas a year, and gradually rose to be the favourite jockey of the Duke of Grafton, and the winner of two St. Legers on Chorister and Elis, and four Oaks with Turquoise, Pussy, Deception, and Crucifix. The name of the latter mare, and Grey Momus, especially, connects him with Lord George Bentinck, whose "sky blue" he wore so often, and latterly he has been best known as the trainer of The Hero and Virago. He removed from Danebury a few years ago, and assisted his son William at Woodyeates. For some time he had been in a failing state, and since November there had been no hope for him. Few men, if any, have ever combined in such a remarkable degree a knowledge of training, riding, and judging of horses' forms, and none were ever more universally respected by employers, neighbours, and the racing world generally, in every relation of life. It is now, we believe, fully fifteen years since he was seen in the saddle, when he rode for Mr. Wreford three times at Goodwood. Cartwright, another ex-jockey, and well known in his day as the rider of Beeswing in nearly all her races, died last week, in his forty-sixth year. No one had more riding in the North at one time. He was latterly an innkeeper at Nottingham, a speculation which did not answer.

All accounts agree in making the hunting season the worst that has been known for many a year. Last Monday, however, was a very memorable day with the Fitzwilliam. They had fifty minutes with the first fox, and lost, and then found a second near Wansford and killed, after a run of two hours and ten minutes over twenty miles of country. Tom Sebright was among the very few up at the death, and, drawing upon an experience in the field of some fifty-four years, the veteran pronounced it to be one of the finest day's sport he ever had in his life.

The Caledonian Coursing Meeting commences on Tuesday, and is expected to be a bumper wind-up, as the Biggar Meeting was postponed sine die, in consequence of the snow on the hills. Taking it altogether, it has been an excellent season for the leash; and, as the Field observes, with only one misunderstanding among coursers, and that on the point of "guarding" the dogs at Ashdown this month.

NORTHAMPTON RACES.—TUESDAY.

Trial Stakes.—Odo, 1. North Lincoln, 2.
Nene Handicap.—Brandy Ball, 1. Tom Thumb, 2.
Her Majesty's Plate.—Odo, 1. Athos, 2.
Pytchley Stakes.—Buttercup, 1. Isis, 2.
Great Northamptonshire Stakes.—Simple Simon, 1. Springwell, 2.
Whittlebury Stakes.—Fravola, 1. Sweetsauce, 2.
Handicap Plate.—Pescatore, 1. The Gipsy, 2.
Stand Plate.—Philomela, 1. Plumper, 2.

WEDNESDAY.

Racing Stakes.—Paleface, 1. Croquemitaine, 2.
Earl Spencer's Plate.—Fravola, 1. Spicebox, 2.
Northamptonshire Cup Stakes.—Pitman, 1. Eskdale, 2.
Althorp Park Stakes.—Walloon, 1. Shillelagh, 2.
Selling Plate.—Codicil, 1. Charybdis, 2.
St. Liz Handicap.—The Monk, 1. Remunerator, 2.
Delapre Handicap.—Philomela, 1. Buttercup, 2.
Sweepstakes of 20 sovs.—Folkestone, 1. British Prince, 2.

THURSDAY.

Military Gold Cup.—Hermit, 1. Marmion, 2.
Hunt Steeple Chase.—Chance, 1. Oakball, 2.

LATEST BETTING AT TATTERSALL'S.—THURSDAY EVENING.

TWO THOUSAND GUINEAS.—5 to 2 agst Buccaneer (t).
CHESTER CUP.—30 to 1 agst Odo (t), 30 to 1 agst Satellite (t), 33 to 1 agst Egbert (t).
DERBY.—15 to 1 agst Nutbourne (t).

A DEPUTATION from the Manchester Chamber of Commerce waited, on Tuesday, upon Sir Charles Wood in relation to the protective duty of 10 per cent to be imposed in India on cotton twist and yarn, but the interview appears to have led to little result. The discussion resolved itself more into a question as to the mode of levying the duty than on the great principle at stake, and Sir Charles promised that every endeavour should be made to adjust the tax so that it should fairly reach all classes of goods according to their value.

THE WEATHER.

RESULTS OF METEOROLOGICAL OBSERVATIONS AT THE KEW OBSERVATORY OF THE BRITISH ASSOCIATION.

Lat. 51° 28′ 6″ N.; Long. 0° 18′ 47″ W.; Height above sea 34 feet.

DAY	Daily Means of: Barometer Corrected.	Temperature of the Air.	Dew Point.	Relative Humidity	Amount of Cloud.	Thermometer: Minimum read at 10 A.M.	Maximum read at 10 P.M.	Wind: General Direction.	Movement in 24 hours.	Rain in 24 hours Read at 10 A.M.
	Inches.	°	°	°	0-10	°	°		Miles.	Inches
March 21	29·531	—	—	—	5	45·3	50·3	SW. W.	544	·017
,, 22	29·847	40·4	31·6	·73	4	33·6	47·7	W. WSW. SW.	316	·045
,, 23	29·443	40·8	37·4	·88	8	35·7	40·6	S. SSW.	531	·008
,, 24	29·036	39·8	30·2	·71	9	33·8	47·3	SW. WSW.	470	·190
,, 25	29·409	41·1	33·1	·70	4	37·8	49·0	WNW. W.	453	—
,, 26	29·689	39·8	29·2	·66	5	37·7	47·1	NW. N.	239	·020
,, 27	29·686	43·1	37·5	·82	7	32·8	49·2	W. SW.	288	·000

The following are the readings of the meteorological instruments for the above days, in order, at half-past nine a.m.:—

Barometer (in inches), corrected	29·561	29·776	29·654	29·071	29·248	29·640	29·699
Temperature of Air	48·4°	43·2°	43·1°	40·3°	42·9°	42·2°	41·6°
Temperature of Evaporation ..	45·6°	39·5°	40·9°	36·9°	37·4°	37·0°	38·8
Direction of Wind	SSW.	W.	SSW.	SW.	WNW.	NW.	W.

MONETARY TRANSACTIONS OF THE WEEK.

(From our City Correspondent.)

THE coolness which appears to exist between the Cabinets of England and France in reference to the annexation of Savoy, and the decidedly unfavourable tone of Lord John Russell's speech in the House of Commons on Monday last, in reference to the extension of French territory, have produced considerable flatness in the market for Home Stocks during nearly the whole of the present week. Very few purchases have been made on account of the public; but we may observe that sales have not increased to any extent; consequently, the fall in the quotations has been trifling considering the state of political affairs on the Continent.

Owing to the heavy amount locked up in the Bank of England in the shape of Treasury deposits—over £10,000,000—money for commercial purposes has become scarce. In Lombard-street the lowest rate for the best short paper is now 4½ to 4⅝ per cent, and for four months' bills, 4½ to 5 per cent. At those quotations the demand is still very active, and, at their usual weekly meeting on Thursday, the directors of the Bank of England were compelled to advance their minimum rate of discount from 4 to 4½ per cent. That our trade, both import and export, is in a flourishing state, is evident from the enormous amount of paper now afloat. On the Continent, however, a worse state of things prevails, notwithstanding that the new treaty with France is now in operation. In the Stock Exchange loans have been granted for short periods, at from 3¾ to 4 per cent, on the security of Consols.

The last steamer for India took out £180,281, chiefly in silver. The demand for that metal has fallen off, and the price of bars has declined to 61⅞d. per ounce standard. As there is now no profit on gold shipments, very few withdrawals have taken place from the Bank of England. The imports have been about £250,000, and it is expected that nearly the whole of them will be taken for the Continent. We learn that about £360,000 in silver is on passage by the West India steamer.

A further dividend of 6d. in the pound will be paid to the creditors of the Royal British Bank on the 4th or 5th of April. With this payment virtually terminates the career of this undertaking.

The whole of the £100,000 additional capital to complete the Great Ship for sea has been subscribed. The shares, however, still keep at about 10s.

Two foreign loans have been announced—viz., one for Austria, of about £20,000,000; and another for Sweden, of £1,400,000. The whole of the former it is proposed to raise in Germany by means of a lottery; and a portion of the latter will, it is expected, be raised here. The amount of the subscriptions to the Brazilian Loan is about £1,000,000. The remainder of the sum has been taken by the contractors. The scrip, however, has declined to 1 and ½ discount. The first instalment has been paid.

The Board of Trade returns for the first two months of the year show exports valued at £20,088,437, against £19,207,566 in the corresponding period in 1859, and £14,510,016 in 1858. Compared with the latter year, the increase is about 38 per cent.

The shares in the Buenos Ayres and San Fernando Railway have suddenly advanced to 8 prem.; but the transactions in those of the other newly-formed companies have continued limited. Ocean Marine Insurance have sold at 2⅜ to 3 prem.; Universal Marine, 11-16 to ¾ prem.; London and Provincial Marine, 3-16 to 5-16 prem.; City of London Brewery, Preference, ½ to ¾ prem.; and Bank of Turkey, 1½ to 1¼ dis.

Several companies have held their half-yearly meetings this week. The directors' reports are, for the most part, considered favourable. The dividend of the Lusitanian Mining Company is 6s. per share.

The business doing in Home Stocks, on Monday, was only moderate. Consols, for Money, were done at 94⅝ ½; for the Account, 94⅝ ¾; and Exchequer Bills, 16s. to 19s. prem.; India Five per Cents were steady, at 104¾; Ditto Debentures, 1859, 97; the Five per Cent Enfaced Paper was 98½ ¾; and the Five-and-a-Half per Cent, 104⅝ ¾. Prices exhibited a drooping tendency on the following day, when Consols, for Transfer, left off at 94⅝ ⅜; for the Account, 94⅝ ½; the New Three per Cents were done at 94¼; India Five per Cents, 104¾ ½ ⅜; Ditto Debentures, 1858, 97½; Ditto, Bonds, 1s. to 5s. dis.; and Exchequer Bills, 16s. to 19s. prem.; India Stock realised 218, and Bank Stock, for Account, 229. Increased heaviness was apparent on Wednesday:—Consols closed at 94½ ¼; India Stock, 220½; Ditto, Five per Cents, 104¾; Ditto Five per Cent Paper, 98¼; Ditto Five-and-a-Half per Cent, 104¾; Ditto Debentures, 1858, 97½; and Exchequer Bills, 15s. to 19s. prem. There was very little business doing on Thursday:—Consols marked 94⅛ ¼ for Money, and 94¼ ⅜ for the Account; India Stock was 220½; the New Loan, 104½ ¾; Exchequer Bills sold at 16s. to 19s. prem.

Notwithstanding that the dealings in the Foreign House have been on a very moderate scale, no change of importance has taken place in prices. Their tendency, however, has been rather drooping, owing to the comparative inactivity in the Consol market and the apparent poverty on the part of some Continental Powers, Austria especially. The leading quotations for the week are as follows:—Brazilian Four-and-a-Half per Cents, 1852, 90½; Ditto, 1858, 91; Grenada Three-and-a-Half per Cents, Deferred, 4⅝; Mexican Three per Cents, 21½; Russian Four-and-a-Half per Cents, 96; Russian Five per Cents, 107⅝; Peruvian Four-and-a-Half per Cents, 92; Portuguese Three per Cents, 44; Sardinian Five per Cents, 83½; Spanish Three per Cents, 45½; Ditto, New Deferred, 34½; Ditto Passive, 14⅝; Turkish Six per Cents, 79¼; Ditto New, 62⅛; Turkish Four per Cents, 101½; Dutch Two-and-a-Half per Cents, 66.

The market for Joint-stock Bank Shares has been moderately active, and prices, almost generally, have been well maintained:—Australasia have realised 65¾ ex div.; Bank of Egypt, 22½; Bank of London, 52; Chartered of India, Australia, and China, 20¾; City, 70½; Colonial, 37¼; London Chartered of Australia, 22⅝; London Joint-Stock, 30⅜; London and County, 24; London and Westminster, 58; Oriental, 45; Ottoman, 17⅝; Union of Australia, 44; and Union of London, 29¼.

Colonial Government Securities have ruled steady, as follows:—Canada Six per Cents, January and July, 115; New South Wales Five per Cents, 1871 to 1876, 100½; Ditto, 1888 and upwards, 100; Nova Scotia sterling Debentures, 109½; South Australian Six per Cents, 111; and Victoria Six per Cents, 111⅝.

The Miscellaneous Market has been, generally speaking, steady as regards prices; but the amount of business transacted has been far from extensive:—Australian Agricultural have marked 32½; Canada Land, 126; Electric Telegraph, New, 15¾; Great Ship, ½; London Discount, 3¼; National Discount, 4⅛; London General Omnibus, 1½; Peel River Land and Mineral, 50½; Peninsular and Oriental Steam, 80; Ditto New, 29¾; Red Sea and India Telegraph, 15⅝; Scottish-Australian Investment, 126½; South Australian Land, 35½; Victoria Docks, 101; Grand Junction Canal, 58; Regent's, 19⅝.

Owing to the fall in Consols, and the settlement of the account, the Railway Share Market has continued heavy, on lower terms. The Directors of the Grand Trunk of Canada have intimated that it will be necessary for them to raise the sum of £1,500,000 to pay off existing liabilities. The "calls" for April amount to £877,688, chiefly for Indian lines. Annexed are Thursday's official closing quotations for money:—

ORDINARY SHARES AND STOCKS.—Caledonian, 90⅝; East Anglian, 17½; Eastern Counties, 54¾; Great Western, 67¾; London and Blackwall, 67; London and Brighton, 110; London, Chatham, and Dover, 12½; London and North Western, 98½; Midland, 115; North Eastern—Berwick, 93½; Ditto—Leeds, 47; Ditto—York, 77½; North Staffordshire, 14⅛; South Eastern, 86⅝; Stockton and Darlington, 39¼.

LINES LEASED AT FIXED RENTALS.—Chester and Holyhead, 51; London and Greenwich, 65; London, Tilbury, and Southend, 95; Manchester, Buxton, and Matlock, 2¾.

PREFERENCE SHARES.—Eastern Counties Five per Cent, No. 2, 111; Great Northern Five per Cent, redeemable at 10 per cent prem., 111½; Great Western Four per Cent, 90; Ditto Five per Cent, 101; Ditto, Chester Shares, 17½; London and Brighton Five per Cent, No. 4, 115; Londonderry and Enniskillen, 12½; Newport, Avergavenny, and Hereford, 10; North Eastern, Consolidated, Four per Cent, 90½.

BRITISH POSSESSIONS.—Bombay, Baroda, and Central India, 97½; Buffalo and Lake Huron, 5⅛; East Indian, 101½; Ditto—Jubbulpore, 10; Grand Trunk of Canada, 34½; Ditto, Six per Cent Preference, 93½; Ditto, Debenture, 73; Ditto, Seven per Cent, 1862, 85¾; Great Western of Canada, New, 10¼; Madras Five per Cent, 97½; Ditto Four-and-three-Quarters per Cent, Extention, 91; Punjaub, 4¼; Ditto, 19.

FOREIGN.—Lombardo-Venetian, 11⅝; Namur and Liège Six per Cent Preference, 19; Paris, Lyons, and Mediterranean, 36½.

Friday Afternoon.

Compared with yesterday's official quotations, Consols have shown more firmness to-day, and prices have had an upward tendency. Consols, for Money, have sold at 94¼ ⅜; for the Account, 94⅜ ½. The Unfunded Debt is flat, owing to the scarcity of money; but Foreign Bonds and Railway Shares are somewhat firmer.

THE MARKETS.

CORN-EXCHANGE (Friday).—We were again very scantily supplied with English wheat to-day, coastwise and by land carriage. The demand for all kinds was steady, at fully Monday's currency, at which, however, very few sellers came forward; hence the business done was trifling. Fine foreign wheats were held at fully 1s. per quarter above Monday's quotations, and the value of all other kinds was freely supported. Floating cargoes were in improved request, at extreme rates. We had an active sale for barley, and prices were well supported. There was a great scarcity of fine samples. The malt trade showed signs of improvement, at late rates. The few fresh oats sold readily, at very full prices. Both beans and peas were quite as dear as on Monday, and flour was held for more money.

Arrivals this Week.—English: wheat, 1630; barley, 1140; malt, 2060; oats, 60; flour, 1240. Irish: oats, 50. Foreign: wheat, 430; barley, 290; oats, 240; flour, 70 sacks.

English.—Wheat: Essex and Kent, red, 41s. to 51s.; ditto, white, 44s. to 57s.; Norfolk and Suffolk, red, 41s. to 51s.; rye, 30s. to 32s.; grinding barley, 26s. to 27s.; distilling ditto, 29s. to 31s.; malting ditto, 30s. to 45s.; Lincoln and Norfolk malt, 49s. to 63s.; brown ditto, 48s. to 49s.; Kingston and Ware, 56s. to 68s.; Chevalier, 68s. to 72s.; Yorkshire and Lincolnshire feed oats, 20s. to 25s.; potato ditto, 26s. to 30s.; Youghal and Cork, black, 20s. to 25s.; ditto, white, 22s. to 28s.; tick beans, 34s. to 35s.; grey peas, 33s. to 35s.; maple, 37s. to 38s.; white, 36s. to 38s.; boilers, 38s. to 40s. per quarter. Town-made flour, 40s. to 43s.; town households, 38s. to 39s.; country marks, 32s. to 34s. per 280 lb.; American, 24s. to 28s. per barrel; French, 31s. to 38s. per sack.

Seeds.—Clover seed moves off heavily, on lower terms. All other seeds are very inactive. Cakes support previous quotations.

Linseed, English, crushing, 54s. to 58s.; Calcutta, 51s. to 53s.; hempseed, 37s. to 40s. per quarter; coriander, 14s. to 16s. per cwt.; brown mustard-seed, 9s. to 14s.; ditto, white, 11s. to 14s.; tares, 7s. to 7s. 6d. per bushel; English rapeseed, 62s. to 66s. per quarter. Linseed cakes, English, £9 10s. to £10 10s.; ditto, foreign, £9 10s. to £11 0s.; rape cakes, £5 0s. to £6 0s. per ton. Canary, 50s. to 54s. per quarter. Red clover, 41s. to 55s.; white ditto, 8is. to 87s. per cwt.

Bread.—The prices of wheaten bread in the metropolis are from 7d. to 7½d.; of household ditto, 5d. to 6½d. per 4 lb. loaf.

Imperial Weekly Averages.—Wheat, 45s. 6d.; barley, 36s. 11d.; oats, 23s. 4d.; rye, 32s. 0d.; beans, 39s. 3d.; peas, 37s. 7d.

The Six Weeks' Averages.—Wheat, 44s. 9d.; barley, 36s. 1d.; oats, 22s. 9d.; rye, 32s. 8d.; beans, 39s. 2d.; peas, 37s. 3d.

English Grain Sold Last Week.—Wheat, 120,939; barley, 45,541; oats, 11,939; rye, 261; beans, 5771; peas, 1026 quarters.

Tea.—Our latest advices from China state that the increase in the shipments to England, compared with last year, amounts to nearly 21,000,000 lb. The public sales have gone off slowly, and, by private contract, the demand is inactive, at late quotations.

Sugar.—For all qualities there has been only a limited inquiry, and, in some instances, prices have given way 6d. per cwt. Refined goods move off slowly, at 50s. 6d. to 51s. per cwt. for common brown lumps. Crushed and pieces are quite as dear as last week.

Coffee.—Our market generally is very firm, and prices are well supported in every instance.

Rice.—Large quantities have found buyers, at, in some transactions, a further improvement in value of 3d. per cwt. The sales have exceeded 50,000 bags.

Provisions.—We have no change of importance to notice in the value any kind of butter, but the demand is much restricted. The bacon market is firm, at very full prices. Hams and other provisions support previous rates.

Tallow.—Very little business is passing in this market. P.Y.C. on the spot is selling at 57s. 6d., and for delivery during the last three months, 52s. 9d. per cwt.

Oils.—Linseed oil moves off slowly, at 28s. per cwt. on the spot. In the value of other oils very little change has taken place. Spirits of turpentine, 35s. 6d. per cwt.

Spirits.—The demand for rum is much restricted, at about previous quotations. Proof leewards, 1s. 9d.; proof East India, 1s. 7d. to 1s. 8d. per gallon. Brandy sells slowly, at from 6s. to 12s. per gallon. In grain spirits, about an average business is doing.

Hay and Straw.—Meadow hay, £3 0s. to £4 15s.; clover ditto, £4 0s. to £5 10s.; and straw, £1 9s. to £1 14s. per load. Trade firm.

Wool.—The amount of business doing in our market is only moderate. Prices, however, rule steady.

Potatoes.—The supplies are moderate, and the demand is steady, at from 80s. to 160s. per ton.

Hops (Friday).—Most good and fine hops are in steady, but by no means active, request, at full quotations. Low and middling qualities are very dull, at almost nominal currencies. Mid and East Kent pockets, 84s. to 147s.; Weald of Kent ditto, 65s. to 84s.; Sussex ditto, 64s. to 80s. per cwt.

Coals (Friday).—Best house coals, 21s. 0d. to 21s. 6d.; seconds, 18s. 6d. to 19s. 6d.; Hartley's, 15s. 3d. to 16s. 0d.; and manufacturers', 12s. 6d. to 14s. 0d. per ton.

Metropolitan Cattle Market.—(Thursday, March 29.)—About an average supply of beasts was on sale here to-day, in but middling condition. All kinds moved off slowly, but, compared with Monday, no change took place in the quotations. The show of sheep was only moderate. The best Downs and half-breds realised full currencies; otherwise the mutton trade ruled somewhat heavy, on former terms. Lambs sold briskly, at an improvement in value of 4d. per 8 lbs. The supply was rather limited, and only 120 head came to hand from the Isle of Wight. We had a fair demand for calves, at very full prices; but pigs and milch cows were a dull inquiry. Per 8 lb. to sink the offal:—Coarse and inferior beasts, 3s. 4d. to 3s. 6d.; second quality ditto, 3s. 8d. to 4s. 0d.; prime large oxen, 4s. 2d. to 4s. 6d.; prime Scots, &c., 4s. 8d. to 4s. 10d.; coarse and inferior sheep, 3s. 8d. to 4s. 0d.; second quality ditto, 4s. 2d. to 4s. 8d.; prime coarse-woolled sheep, 4s. 10d. to 5s. 4d.; prime Southdown ditto, 5s. 6d. to 5s. 8d.; large coarse calves, 4s. 1d. to 5s. 0d.; prime small ditto, 5s. 2d. to 5s. 6d.; large hogs, 3s. 6d. to 3s. 10d.; neat small porkers, 4s. 2d. to 4s. 10d.; lambs, 6s. to 7s.; suckling calves, 18s. to 22s.; and quarter-old store pigs, 22s. to 29s. each. Total supply: Beasts, 942; cows, 141; sheep and lambs, 3920; calves, 140; pigs, 280. Foreign: Beasts, 90; sheep, 612; calves, 80.

Newgate and Leadenhall (Friday).—About average time-of-year supplies of meat are on offer here to-day. Generally speaking, the trade is inactive, as follows:—Inferior beef, 2s. 6d. to 2s. 10d.; middling ditto, 3s. 0d. to 3s. 4d.; prime large ditto, 3s. 6d. to 4s. 0d.; ditto small ditto, 4s. 0d. to 4s. 4d.; large pork, 2s. 6d. to 4s. 2d.; inferior mutton, 3s. 2d. to 3s. 6d.; middling ditto, 3s. 8d. to 4s. 2d.; prime ditto, 4s. 2d. to 4s. 4d.; veal, 4s. 0d. to 4s. 10d.; small pork, 4s. 6d. to 5s. 0d.; lamb, 5s. 4d. to 6s. 4d. per 8 lbs. by the carcase.

ROBERT HERBERT.

THE LONDON GAZETTE.

FRIDAY, MARCH 23.

WAR OFFICE.

1st Dragoon Guards: Cornet W. P. Stephenson to be Cornet.

5th Light Dragoons: M. P. Blake to be Cornet. 9th: Lieut. A. Morrogh to be Captain; Cornet R. Bury to be Lieutenant. 10th: Ensign C. S. Freemantle to be Cornet.

Royal Artillery: Brevet Col. Sir D. E. Wood, K.C.B., to be Colonel; Brevet Major J. J. Brandling, C.B., to be Lieutenant-Colonel; Second Capt. the Hon. L. A. Addington to be Captain; Second Capt. Major F. Downes to be Second Captain.

Royal Engineers: Lieut. E. O. Hewett to be Second Captain.

3rd Foot: A. C. Forster to be Paymaster. 7th: Ensign F. C. Keyser to be Instructor of Musketry. 14th: Lieut. I. McIver to be Captain; Ensign J. S. Johnson to be Lieutenant. 16th: Capt. A. Cary to be Captain; Ensign R. W. M. Wetherell to be Lieutenant. 20th: Ensign G. E. Bolger to be Lieutenant. 25th: R. W. T. Dawson to be Ensign. 26th: Lieut. E. Kempson to be Instructor of Musketry. 28th: F. H. P. Duncan to be Ensign. 30th: Lieut. H. F. Morewood to be Instructor of Musketry. 31st: Capt. A. Gammell to be Captain; Lieut. G. Bayley to be Captain; Ensign J. M. B. Wood to be Lieutenant. 34th: T. W. Gillham to be Ensign. 36th: Lieut. W. F. Godfrey to be Lieutenant. 46th: Ensign G. T. D. Radcliffe to be Lieutenant; H. P. Law to be Ensign. 53rd: Brevet Major J. H. Wade to be Captain. 56th: G. W. Wood to be Ensign. 60th: Ensign P. W. Worsley to be Instructor of Musketry. 61st: Lieut. C. H. Boileau to be Adjutant. 62nd: Lieut. C. Meaham to be Lieutenant. 74th: Lieut. F. N. Woodall to be Instructor of Musketry. 77th: Ensign J. L. Davids to be Lieutenant; W. J. M'Clelland to be Ensign. 81st: G. S. Bevan to be Ensign. 88th: Surg. G. Hill to be Ensign. 9.th: Capt. G. H. Cox to be Captain. 94th: Lieut. C. Wilson to be Lieutenant.

Rifle Brigade: Ensign C. W. Robinson to be Lieutenant; G. H. Verney to be Ensign.

3rd West India Regiment: Ensigns F. C. Clifton and T. C. M'Cormick to be Lieutenants.

Ceylon Rifle Regiment: Lieut. J. M. Kerr to be Lieutenant.

Cape Mounted Riflemen: Surg. J. K. Leet to be Surgeon.

DEPOT BATTALION.—Capt. E. Herrick to be Instructor of Musketry.

HOSPITAL STAFF.—Inspector-General of Hospitals J. B. Gibson, M.D., C.B., to be Director-General of the Army Medical Department; Surg. A. G. Montgomery to be Surgeon.

BREVET.—Col. F. Warde to be Major-General; Cols. A. R. Harrison and H. R. Wright to be Majors-General; Brevet Major C. T. E. Hinde to be Lieutenant-Colonel; Capt. R. F. Lewis to be Major.

BANKRUPTCY ANNULLED.

C. KŒBER, Vigo-street, Regent-street, woollen draper.

BANKRUPTS.

J. C. BALL, Salisbury, miller.—H. COOPER, Aldgate, City, grocer.—J. PERKINS, Oakham, Rutlandshire, haberdasher.—J. HENDERSON, Nottingham, draper.—J. LONG, Leeds, spirit merchant.—W. ROTHWELL, Enfield-highway, boarding-house keeper.—J. S. SPENCER, Bloomsbury, wine merchant.—R. D. M'MANUS, St. Austell, Cornwall, apothecary.—T. SAMPSON and W. BARNARD, Stroud, shawl manufacturers.—S. PORTMAN, Oldbury, Worcestershire, innkeeper.—C. H. TIDBURY, Lavender Dock-wharf, Surrey, wharfinger.—N. SMITH, jun., Horsham, Worcestershire, hotel keeper.—J. STEVEN, Newcastle-upon-Tyne, hatter.—J. SCOTT, Tweedmouth, Berwick-upon-Tweed, millwright.—R. L. COLE, Lime-street, City, merchant.

SCOTCH SEQUESTRATIONS.

T. A. POTT, formerly insurance manager, of Old Jewry, London, and now of Fort William.—J. FORRESTER, Edinburgh, draper.—J. M'EWEN, Stirling, fishmonger.—J. LAWSON, South Shields, builder.—R. PRICE, late of Stourbridge, Worcestershire, attorney-at-law.—W. H. COLE, late of Putney, now of Stornoway.

TUESDAY, MARCH 27.

WAR OFFICE.

The following gentlemen have been appointed Professors of the new Army Medical School at Chatham:—Clinical and Military Surgery—Deputy Inspector-General T. Longmore, M.D. Hygiene—E. A. Parkes, Esq., M.D. Pathology—William Aitken, Esq., M.D.

BANKRUPTCY ANNULLED.

P. ANDREW, Swansea, Glamorganshire, brewer.

BANKRUPTS.

T. A. FREETH, Edward street, Hampstead-road, pianoforte manufacturer.—R. TANNER, Stratford, Essex, tea-dealer.—D. N. VERICCHIO, Wellington-terrace, Paddington, upholsterer.—T. J. B. WALLIS, Colchester, Essex, draper.—J. L. MORELAND, Lidford and Keinton, Somersetshire, grocer.

SCOTCH SEQUESTRATIONS.

J. CRAIG, Baidland, Ayrshire.—J. VEITCH, Edinburgh, hotelkeeper.—J. RICHARDSON and T. CRICHTON, Glasgow, drapers.—LAW, WHITE, and CO., Glasgow, merchants.—T. DRUCE, Glasgow, salesman.—N. MACNEIL, Corrachy, Ross-shire, farmer.

* The charge for the insertion of Births, Marriages, and Deaths is Five Shillings for each Announcement.*

BIRTHS.

On the 16th ult., at Meen Glas, in the county of Donegal, the Viscountess Lifford, of a daughter.

On the 26th inst., at 25, Grosvenor-place, the Lady Adela Goff, of a son.

On the 23rd inst., the Lady Nigel Kennedy, of a son.

On the 24th inst., at Dudley Villa, Weston-super-Mare, the wife of F. R. Elwell, Esq., M.A., of a daughter.

DEATHS.

On the 27th inst., Edward Michael, third Earl of Longford, aged 42.

On the 2nd inst., at Flembro, Canada West, the Hon. James Crooks, aged 83, member of the Upper House of Legislature, Canada.

On the 25th inst., at No. 24, Henrietta-street, Covent-garden, in her 80th year, Sarah, relict of the late Mr. William C. Offley.

On Tuesday, the 20th inst., at Leek, Frances Elizabeth, eldest daughter of the late Richard Gaunt, Esq.

On the morning of the 2nd inst., at Hyde Park-place, of disease of the heart, William J. Bruce, Esq., in the 72nd year of his age, deeply lamented by his family, and universally beloved and respected.

On the 22nd of February, at Cuddalore, Madras, St. Leger Murray Grenfell, Assistant Judge, second son of Pascoe St. Leger Grenfell, Esq., Maesteg House, Swansea, aged 30.

On the 22nd inst., at Evershot, Dorsetshire, Ann, relict of John Jennings, Esq., in her 77th year, leaving two daughters to mourn her loss.

NEW BOOKS, &c.

NEW WORK ON SEAMANSHIP.
Now ready, in 8vo, with 150 Illustrations, price 10s. 6d.,

THE NAVAL CADET'S GUIDE AND SEAMAN'S COMPANION. Containing Practical Rules for Fitting and Placing Riggings, Managing Sails, &c.; also, complete Illustrations of all Standing Rigging, the Knots, Bends and Hitches in Use; and a Catechism on Rigging Ships, Boat Sailing, Bending, Reefing, and Furling Sails, Working Anchor Gear, Manœuvring, &c. Used on Board H. M.'s Training Ship Britannia. By GEORGE S. NARES, Lieutenant Royal Navy.
Portsea: JAMES GRIFFIN. London: LONGMAN and Co.

NOW READY,

INDIAN SPICES FOR ENGLISH TABLES; or, a Rare Relish of Fun from the Far East, being the Adventures of "Our Special Correspondent" in India. Illustrated in a series of upwards of 120 Humorous Sketches, and exhibiting in all its phases the peculiarity of life in that country. By Captain G. F. ATKINSON, Bengal Engineers, Author of "Curry and Rice," "Campaign in India," "Pictures from the North," &c. The 120 Sketches will be grouped on 28 imperial 4to plates, printed on tinted paper, and will be bound in boards, with illustrated paper cover. Price 16s.—London: DAY and SON, Lithographers to the Queen, 6, Gate-street, Lincoln's-inn-fields.

THE ART of ILLUMINATING, as Practised in Europe from the Earliest Times. Illustrated by INITIAL LETTERS and ALPHABETS, selected from the British Museum, South Kensington Museum, and other valuable collections. By W. R. TYMMS; with an Essay on the Practice of the Art at the Present Day, by M. DIGBY WYATT, Architect. Publishing in Parts of 8 or 9 Plates, price 5s.—London: DAY and SON, Lithographers to the Queen.

Just published, in handsome cloth, pp. 364, fcap 8vo, price 5s.,

AFTER MANY DAYS. A Tale of Social Reform. By SENECA SMITH.

Just published, pp. 340, fcap 8vo, in handsome cloth, price 5s.,
HARRY BIRKETT; the Story of a Man who Helped Himself. By the Author of "Liverpool Life," &c.

Just published, pp. 400, fcap 8vo, price 3s. 6d., in handsome cloth,
STEYNE'S GRIEF; or, Losing, Seeking, Finding. By the Author of "The Lathams," &c.

Will be published shortly,
RUNNING A THOUSAND MILES FOR FREEDOM. Being the Escape of William and Ellen Croft from Slavery.

Price 3s. 6d., cloth, fcap. 8vo, Second Edition,
THE NIGHT-SIDE OF LONDON. By JAMES EWING RITCHIE.

Price 3s. 6d., cloth, fcap 8vo,
HERE AND THERE IN LONDON. By J. EWING RITCHIE.

Price 2s. in boards, fcap 8vo, Third Edition,
THE LONDON PULPIT: being Sketches of the Popular Preachers. By JAMES EWING RITCHIE.

Price 1s. 6d., Fourth Edition fcap 8vo,
THE AUTOBIOGRAPHY OF A BEGGAR BOY.

Price 1s. in boards, in cloth 1s 6d., the Second Edition of THE STRUGGLES OF A VILLAGE LAD; or, There is Nothing like Trying.
London: W. TWEEDIE, 337, Strand.

Now ready, 12mo, price 5s., cloth lettered, or gilt edges, 5s 6d., with Eight Illustrations by JOHN ABSOLON and HENRY ANELAY.

SUNBEAM STORIES: A Selection of the Tales by the Author of "A Trap to Catch a Sunbeam."

CONTENTS:

A Trap to Catch a Sunbeam	The Star in the Desert.
Old Jolliffe.	Only.
The Sequel to Old Jolliffe.	A Merry Christmas.

A TRAP TO CATCH A SUNBEAM. Thirty-fifth Edition, just published, price 1s., cloth lettered

Also now ready, by the same Author,
AMY'S KITCHEN: A Village Romance, price 1s., cloth lettered.
London: LOCKWOOD and Co. 7, Stationers' Hall-court, E.C.

THE CORNHILL MAGAZINE,
Price One Shilling.
No. 4 (for APRIL, 1860), with Two Illustrations, is now ready.

CONTENTS:—

1. Lovel the Widower (with an Illustration). Chapter IV.—A Black Sheep.
2. Colour Blindness.
3. Spring. By Thomas Hood.
4. Inside Canton.
5. William Hogarth: Painter, Engraver, and Philosopher. Essays on the Man, the Work, and the Time. III. A Long Ladder, and Hard to Climb.
6. Studies in Animal Life. Chapter IV.—An Extinct Animal Recognized by its Tooth: How came this to be possible?—The Task of Classification—Artificial and Natural Methods—Linnæus and his Baptism of the Animal Kingdom: his Scheme of Classification—What is there Underlying all True Classification?—The Chief Groups—What is a Species?—Restatement of the Question respecting the Fixity or Variability of Species—The Two Hypotheses—Illustration Drawn from the Romance Languages—Caution to Disputants.
7. Strangers Yet! By R. Monckton Milnes.
8. Framley Parsonage (with an Illustration). Chapter X.—Lucy Robarts. „ XI.—Griselda Grantly. „ XII.—The Little Bill.
9. Ideal Houses.
10. Dante.
11. The Last Sketch—Emma (a Fragment of a Story by the late Charlotte Brontë).
12. Under Chloroform.
13. The How and Why of Long Shots and Straight Shots.

London: SMITH, ELDER, and Co., 65, Cornhill.

One Shilling Monthly.

MACMILLAN'S MAGAZINE.
Edited by DAVID MASSON.
No. VI. for APRIL, 1860.

CONTENTS:—

I. On the Revision of the Prayer-book and the Act of Uniformity. By the Rev. F. D. Maurice.—II. Requiescat in Pace. By R. Monckton Milnes.—III. Some Recollections of an Old Street.—IV. Buddha and Buddhism. By E. Vansittart Neale.—V. A Hedgeside Poet. By the Author of "John Halifax, Gentleman."—VI. Tom Brown at Oxford. By the Author of "Tom Brown's School Days." Chap. XIV. A Change in the Crew, and What Came of It. Chap. XV. A Storm Brews and Breaks. Chap. XVI. The Storm Rages.—VII. The Sleep of the Hyacinths: an Egyptian Poem. By the late Dr. George Wilson, of Edinburgh. I The Garden. II. The Queen and the Flowers. III. The Death of the Queen.—VIII. On the Decay and Preservation of Stone. By Professor Ansted, F.R.S.—IX. Readers in 1760 and 1860. By F. T. Palgrave.—X. An English Painter's Tomb. By Charles Allston Collins. XI. Italy Resurgent and Britain Looking on. By Thomas Hughes.

VOLUME ONE
will be ready next week,
Handsomely bound in extra cloth, price 7s. 6d.
Among the Contributors to the Volume are
The Author of 'Tom Brown's School Days,'
The Author of "John Halifax,"

The Rev. F. D. Maurice	Alfred Tennyson
R. Monckton Milnes, M.P.	Professor Huxley
The Rev. J. W. Blakesley	Franklin Lushington
&c.	&c.

MACMILLAN and Co., Cambridge; and 23, Henrietta-street, Covent-garden, London.
Sold by all Booksellers, Newsmen, and at all the Railway Stations.

PRACTICAL MECHANIC'S JOURNAL, Part 145, for APRIL, price 1s., Illustrated with a folio Engraving of Mr. Corlett's Rails and Railways, and Fifty Woodcuts. Original Articles on Permanent Ways:—History of the Sewing Machine, Art. 25—New Cultivator—Goodchild's Trocheidoscope—Netmaking Machine—Royal Institution—New Beaming Machine—Recent Patents—Law Reports of Patent Cases—Designs—Reviews—Correspondence—Scientific Societies—Marine Memoranda—Monthly Notes—Lists of Patents and Designs. Annual Subscription, 12s., post-free.

Just published, crown 8vo, price 1s.,
with numerous Illustrations,

THE VOLUNTEER LEVEE;
or,
The Remarkable Experiences of Ensign Sopht,
Illustrated and Written by Himself
Edited by the Author of "How Not To Do It."
Edinburgh: THOMAS CONSTABLE and Co.
London: HAMILTON, ADAMS, and Co.
Dublin: W. ROBERTSON.

MR. WILSON'S FINANCIAL STATEMENT in the LEGISLATIVE COUNCIL of INDIA. The "Homeward Mail" Newspaper of MARCH 26 contains a verbatim Report of the Speech of the Right Hon. James Wilson at the meeting of the Legislative Council of India held at Calcutta on the 18th of February, 1860. Price 6d.; Annual Subscription, 24s.
SMITH, ELDER, and Co., 65, Cornhill, London.

MR. HARVEY ON DEAFNESS.
Third Edition, just published, price 2s. 6d.; post-free 32 stamps,

THE EAR IN HEALTH AND DISEASE; with Remarks on the Prevention of Deafness. By WILLIAM HARVEY, F.R.C.S., Surgeon to the Royal Dispensary for Diseases of the Ear, Soho-square.—London: HENRY RENSHAW, 356, Strand.

YOUTH, BEAUTY, and ARTICULATION.
Mr. EDWARD DAVIESON
(for many years Dentist to the Court of Spain)
begs to inform the British public that he has taken up his permanent residence at 443, Strand, adjoining the Electric Telegraph Office, where he is prepared to supply ARTIFICIAL TEETH of a manufacture superior in beauty and durability to any known in this country, at Ten Shillings per Tooth, which price can only be exceeded by expensive mountings.

Among the wonderful discoveries he made during his residence in the South of Europe none exceeds the LIQUID ENAMEL, which not only imparts a pearly whiteness to natural and artificial Teeth, but renders them impossible to discolour or decay. Sold, with full directions for use, in cases at 10s. 6d. and 21s.

Mr. Edward Davieson has to announce that he is now perfecting a discovery—the FLEUR DE L'AGE, or Bloom of Youth—that will add Youth and Beauty to any complexion. It will be ready on and after the 31st March, 1860, and sold in cases at 11s., 22s., and four quantities in one for 33s.

As the first supply will be limited an early application had better be made. Can be sent by post.

NEW MUSIC, &c.

STEPHEN GLOVER'S NEW VOCAL DUETS, 2s. 6d. each, post-free:—
THE FAIRIES' SERENADE.
VOICE OF THE SUMMER WIND.
IN THE STARLIGHT.
SLOWLY AND SOFTLY MUSIC SHOULD FLOW.
LET US GATHER BRIGHT FLOWERS.
THE SAVOYARD MAIDS.

"These Duets combine great sweetness and originality. The words, by J. E. Carpenter, are extremely pleasing and poetic."
London: BREWER and Co., 23, Bishopsgate street Within.

OH! KEEP ME IN YOUR MEMORY. New Ballad, composed by STEPHEN GLOVER. 2s., post-free.
London: BREWER and Co., 23, Bishopsgate-street Within.

BALFE'S NEW BALLAD, "I Wandered by the Brook Side." 2s., post-free.
London: BREWER and Co., 23, Bishopsgate-street Within.

THE COLDSTREAM GUARDS' MARCH. Composed by STEPHEN GLOVER, and dedicated to his Royal Highness the Prince of Wales. With Portrait by BRANDARD. 3s. post-free.—London: BREWER and Co., 23, Bishopsgate-street, Within

---

THE GIFT FROM O'ER THE SEA. Composed by STEPHEN GLOVER. 2s. post-free. A light and pleasing melody. Illustrated by BRANDARD.
London: BREWER and Co., 23, Bishopsgate-street Within.

J. L. HATTON'S NEW BALLAD, "As I'd Nothing Else to Do." 2s. post-free. Rapturously encored when sung by Mr. Montem Smith.
London: BREWER and Co., 23, Bishopsgate-street Within.

DAV. ALBERT'S VALSE, WOOD VIOLETS, just published, price 4s. Duets, 4s.; Orchestra, 5s.
DAV. ALBERT'S MACGREGOR QUADRILLE, just published, price 4s.
DAV. ALBERT'S WEST-END SCHOTTISCHE, just published, price 2s. 6d. All Music half-price.
VENN and Co., 65 Baker-street, W.

Shortly will be published, by Subscription,

TWO EVENING SERVICES, in A major— Cantate and Deus, Magnificat and Nunc Dimittis—with Organ Accompaniment. Composed by E. BUNNETT, Mus. Bac. Cantab, Assistant Organist of Norwich Cathedral. Price to Subscribers 8s. Subscribers' names will be received by the Author, Upper Close, Norwich; and by the Publishers, Messrs. COCKS and Co., New Burlington-street, London.

CLEMENT WHITE'S NEW SONGS.
FOLLOW ME, Soprano or Contralto .. .. .. 2s.
THE LONE OLD TREE, for any voice .. .. 2s.
METZLER and Co., 37, 38, and 35, Great Marlborough-street, W.

GERALDINE. New Song, introduced by Mrs. Howard Paul in her impersonation of Sims Reeves. By WALLERSTEIN. Illustrated in Colours. Price 2s. 6d., post-free.
METZLER and Co., 37, 38, and 35, Great Marlborough-street, W.

FOUR-IN-HAND GALOP. J. BROWNE. The latest and best by this popular Dance-writer. Illustrated in Colours. Price 3s., post-free.
METZLER and Co., 37, 38, and 35, Great Marlborough-street, W.

BEAUTIFUL DOVE, THOU ART WELCOME AGAIN. By CHARLES MACKAY, Esq. Music by WEST. Price 2s.; and for two voices, 3s. Acknowledged to be a most exquisite melody.—H. TOLKIEN, 27, King William-street, City.

PRETTY LITTLE CHANGES for PRETTY LITTLE FINGERS. A Collection of Popular Airs for the Pianoforte. In 12 Parts, 2s. each, containing four or five beautiful Melodies in each Part. Also, as Duets, in 12 Parts, each Part containing four Choice Melodies.—H. TOLKIEN, 27, King William-street, City.

NOT A MINUTE TO SPARE.—A Sacred Song. By TOPLIFF. One of this popular Composer's best productions; this is a song that every lover of harmony and good poetry will admire. Price 2s.—H. TOLKIEN, 27, King William-st., City.

LURLINE.—D'ALBERT'S POLKA, VALSES, and QUADRILLES from Wallace's Grand Opera, "Lurline."—CRAMER, BEALE, and Co., 201, Regent-street.

LURLINE.—The TROUBADOUR WALTZ, from "Lurline," performed at Buckingham Palace and the Royal Volunteers' Ball at the Floral Hall, Covent-garden.
CRAMER, BEALE, and Co., 201, Regent street.

LURLINE.—WALLACE'S NEW GRAND OPERA, for the Pianoforte, as Solos and Duets. By W. H. CALLCOTT. Also, Fantasias and Rondos from "Lurline," by Wallace, Favarger, and other eminent composers. Valses and Quadrilles from "Lurline."
CRAMER, BEALE, and Co., 201, Regent-street.

LURLINE.—The following are the favourite Pieces in WALLACE'S new and successful Opera, LURLINE:—"Under a Spreading Coral," "Take this Cup of Sparkling Wine," "Flow on, oh, Silver Rhine," "When the Night Winds;" "Sweet Spirit, hear my Prayer," sung by Miss Pyne; "Gentle Troubadour," sung by Miss Pilling; "Our Bark in Moonlight Beaming," "Sweet form, that on my dreamy gaze;" "The Chimes of Home," sung by Mr. Harrison; "A Father's Love;" "Love, Transient Passion," sung by Mr. Santley.
CRAMER, BEALE, and Co., 201, Regent-street.

SOON AND FOR EVER. New Sacred Song. By R. T. HARVEY.—"A beautiful subject treated with pathos and effect."—Review. Published at 2s., sent free for 12 stamps.
D'ALCORN, 8, Rathbone-place, W.

CHEAPEST MUSIC REPOSITORY in England.—All the New Music Half-price. Catalogues, one stamp. Country orders sent per return of post.—H. D'ALCORN (removed to), 8, Rathbone-place (eight doors from Oxford-street), W.

MUSIC HALF PRICE and Postage-free.— The High Price of Music.—All full-price Music forwarded to any part of the kingdom on receipt of Postage-stamps to the amount of half the published price. Catalogues gratis and postage-free.
OETZMANN and Co., 32, Wigmore-street. Cavendish-square. W.

TOLKIEN'S INDIAN PIANOFORTE.— This Piano, with its resisting power, concave bracings, and perpendicular bolts, is found, after severe trials in the EAST and WEST INDIES, to be the only Pianoforte ever manufactured capable of resisting the heats and damps of these climates. Height 4 feet. In elegant designs, including cases, 40 guineas. Illustrated Catalogues gratis.—27, King William-street, London-bridge, E.C.

TOLKIEN'S PIANOS. — Public Attention is called to a large assortment of the best Pianofortes in England, Rosewood and Walnut-tree Cottages and Piccolos, 6⅞ octaves, with all the latest improvements, some a little used, from 19 to 30 guineas. May be purchased on easy terms, at 27, King William-street, London-bridge. Pianofortes for hire. Illustrated Catalogues gratis.

TOLKIEN'S 25-GUINEA PIANOFORTE, with easy terms of purchase, elegant designs, and various woods, 6⅞ octaves, is superior to any English or Foreign Piano at the price. Twenty-five years' test has proved the truth of this. Illustrated Catalogues gratis.—27, King William-street, London-bridge, E.C.

PIANOFORTES.—CRAMER, BEALE, and CO.—NEW MODEL OBLIQUE GRAND PIANO, and every description, warranted. Lists of Prices and Terms for Hire, post-free. 201, Regent-street.

HARMONIUMS.—CRAMER, BEALE, and CO.—Description and List of Prices, post-free. Also, SECONDHAND HARMONIUMS in great variety.
201, Regent-street.

MUSICAL-BOX DEPOT, 32, Ludgate-street, NICOLE'S celebrated Large Musical-boxes, at £1 per Air. Operatic, National, or Sacred. Snuff-boxes, 14s. 6d. to 40s. each. Catalogues of Tunes and Prices gratis and post-free on application to WALES and M'CULLOCH, as above.

TO LADIES.—SEASON 1860.—Richly Perforated Tissue for Stove Aprons in an entirely Novel Style eight stamps per packet; six for forty stamps. White, coloured, or mixed.—ROBERT PETERS, Tovil, Maidstone.

SPANISH FLY is the acting ingredient in ALEX. ROSS'S CANTHARIDES OIL, which produces whiskers and thickens hair. Sold at 3s. 6d., 5s. 6d., and 10s. 6d.; or per post, 54, 84, or 144 stamps. Alex. Ross, 248, High Holborn.

THE HEAD.—ALEX. ROSS' LIQUID HAIR DYE should be used to red or grey Hair. The application is simple and the effect perfect. Price 3s. 6d.; per post 54 stamps. The Hair dyed by Alex. Ross, 248, High Holborn.

UNSIGHTLY HAIR REMOVED from the Face and Arms by ALEX. ROSS'S HAIR-DESTROYER or DEPILATORY, without injury. 3s. 6d.; per post, 54 stamps.—A. Ross, 248, High Holborn. The Hair dyed at moderate charges.

DUTY OFF FRENCH PERFUMERY.—ED. PINAUD'S Choice Perfumes, Fancy Soaps, Pomades, Philocomes, Aromatic and Oriental Vinegar, Cosmetics, Elixir, Dentifrice, and Brittantine, to be had of all Chemists and Perfumers. Wholesale Dépôt, and for export, 27, Cannon-street west, London.

CHRIST BLESSING LITTLE CHILDREN. Proposals for the publication, upon an entirely new plan, of the marvellous line Engraving by J. H. WATT, after the well-known Picture by Sir CHARLES EASTLAKE, P.R.A., of "Christ Blessing Little Children;" an arrangement which will enable every subscriber for a 15-guinea artist's proof, to obtain this first and most intrinsically valuable state of the plate, virtually free of cost.—Particulars on application to DAY and SON, Lithographers to the Queen, 6, Gate-street, Lincoln's Inn Fields, London.

DAY and SON, Lithographers to the Queen, execute in the best style, on the most reasonable terms, and with dispatch, every description of LITHOGRAPHY, Chromo-Lithography, and Steel and Copper plate Printing, artistic or commercial. Estimates prepared with promptness.—Gate-street, Lincoln's-inn-fields.

Price 1s. each, Outline; 2s. Colouring commenced; 8s. Finished.

FOR ILLUMINATING. The BEATITUDES, a Series of Eight Designs by ALBERT LUDOVICI.
London: J. BARNARD and SON, 339, Oxford-street, W.

Price, Outline, 1s. each; Colouring Commenced, 2s.; Finished, 8s.

ILLUMINATING.—A Series of Six Designs Illustrating the Life of Christ, the Baptism, the Temptation, the Marriage in Cana, the Storm, the Last Supper; the Crucifixion, by Victor Sauche. Also, same size and price, the Lord's Prayer, scroll ensign, "I know that my Redeemer liveth." The same plain, for inserting any text.
London: J. BARNARD and SON, 339, Oxford-street, W.

ILLUMINATING COLOURS. J. BARNARD and SON beg to call attention to their Illuminating Colours. The following is the unsolicited opinion of Mr. L. Jewett, F.S.A., in "A Manual of Missal Painting":—"For brightness of tint and for ease in use, perfectly unequalled; and the student ought to possess himself of these if he wishes to become proficient in his art." Separate, of which Catalogues may be obtained; or in boxes, containing all requisites, at 21s., 42s.: or, quite complete, 63s. These boxes contain gold, aluminium, a brusher, and other materials. 339, Oxford-street, London.

GOLD or COPPER PAINTS.—JOHNSON'S METALLIC PAINTS are the simplest to use, cheapest, and best for all kinds of decorative work. Sold in boxes 1s. 6d. each.
J. BARNARD and SON, Proprietors, 339, Oxford-street, London.

FOR FAMILY ARMS send to the Royal Heraldic Office name and county. Arms quartered and painted. Plain Sketch, 2s. 6d.; in Colours, 5s. Family Pedigrees traced. 2's. The Manual of Heraldry, 400 Engravings, 3s. By T. CULLETON, Lecturer on Heraldry at the Mechanics' Institute, 25, Cranbourn-street (corner of St. Martin's-lane), W.C. The Science of Heraldry taught.

CREST DIES cut, 5s.; Book Plate engraved with Arms, 10s.; ditto Marking Plate, 5s; Crest engraved on Seals or Rings, 6s. 6d.; Initials, 1s. 6d. per letter; Livery Button Dies, 38s. per pair; Embossing Press for Stamping Paper with Crest or Address, 15s.—T. CULLETON, Heraldic Engraver to the Queen, H.R.H. the Duke of Cambridge, and Princess Mary, by appointment 30th of April. 1852, and Diesinker to the Board of Trade, 25, Cranbourn-street (corner of St. Martin's-lane), W.C.

WEDDING CARDS—For Lady and Gentleman—50 each. 50 Embossed Enamelled Envelopes, with Maiden Name printed inside, 13s. Sent free for stamps. A Copper Plate Engraved in any style and 50 Visiting Cards for 2s. Post-free. T. CULLETON, Seal Engraver, 25, Cranbourn-street, corner of St. Martin's-lane, W.C.

THE PEN SUPERSEDED.—MARK YOUR LINEN.—The best and only method of marking linen, silk, stockings, coarse towels, &c., so as to prevent the ink washing out, is with CULLETON'S PATENT ELECTRO-SILVER PLATES. By means of this novel invention a Thousand Pieces of Linen can be marked in one Hour, with Initials, Name, Coronet, or Crest; with directions for use. Sent post-free for stamps. Initial Plate, 1s.; Name, 2s. 6d.; Set of Movable Numbers, 2s. 6d.; Crest, 5s.
T. Culleton, Patentee, 25, Cranbourn-street, corner of St. Martin's-lane, W.C.

NOTICE.

THE GENUINE and ORIGINAL BOND'S PERMANENT MARKING INK bears the address on the label, 28, Long-lane, West Smithfield, City.

SECONDHAND GOLD WATCHES, by eminent makers, warranted genuine, accurate, perfect in condition, and at half the original cost. A choice Stock at WALES and M'CULLOCH'S, 32, Ludgate-street (ten doors from St. Paul's).

J. AMADIO'S STUDENT'S BOX of MICROSCOPIC PREPARATIONS, containing six dozen beautiful specimens in polished Mahogany Box, fitted with racks, brass lock and key, &c., produced under J. Amadio's immediate superintendence, specially adapted for the student. Price £3 18s 6d.
MICROSCOPES from 10s 6d. to 120 guineas.
J. Amadio's IMPROVED COMPOUND MICROSCOPES, £2 21s. 6d. Student's, £3 13s. 6d.

"Both these are from Amadio, of Throgmorton-street, and are excellent of their kind, the more expensive one especially."—Household Words, No. 345.

Just published, Second Edition, an Illustrated and Descriptive Catalogue, containing the names of 1500 Microscopic Objects, post-free for six stamps.

COALS.—BEST COALS ONLY.— COCKERELL and CO.'S price is now 27s. per ton, cash, for the best screened coals, as supplied by them to her Majesty. 13, Cornhill; Purfleet Wharf, Earl-street, Blackfriars, E.C.; Eaton Wharf, Pimlico, S.W. and Sunderland Wharf, Peckham, S.E.

WORCESTERSHIRE SAUCE. Connoisseurs have pronounced "Lea and Perrins'" the best addition to every variety of dish. Many imitations are sold.
Caution.—See Lea and Perrins' name on label, bottle, and stopper. Sold by CROSSE and BLACKWELL, and all dealers in sauce.
LEA and PERRINS, Worcester, sole Manufacturers.

SUPERB FLOWER SEEDS, post-free, at the annexed prices:—100 fine hardy annuals 5s.; 50 ditto, 3s.; 36 ditto, 2s. 6d.; 12 ditto, 1s. 2d. Catalogues, with sample packet, 2d.—From B. W. KNIGHT, Florist, 67, High-street, Battle, Sussex.

FLOWERS OF ALL HUES.—100 varieties of choice, hardy Annuals, post-free for 5s.; 50 ditto, 3s.; 25 ditto, 2s. 6d; 12 ditto, 1s. 2d., with descriptions of height, colour, and general character to each. Sample packet and catalogue sent for two stamps.—From HENRY KNIGHT, Seedsman, High-street, Hastings.

SEEDS, remarkable for the ORIENTAL APPEARANCE they impart to Flower Gardens, Lawns, &c.
CANNAS (Indian Shot), the most picturesque of ornamental-foliaged plants. 30 magnificent species for 10s. 6d., 20 for 7s. 6d., 12 for 4s. 6d., 12 species, mixed, 1s.
RICINUS, stately plants, of rapid growth, and large, handsome foliage. 6 species, 2s. 6d.; 8 ditto, 1s. 6d.; mixed, 1s per packet.
30 packets of the most beautiful, hardy, and showy ANNUALS for 5s., 21 for 3s. 6d., 15 for 2s. 6d.
30 packets of the most beautiful, half-hardy ANNUALS for 7s. 6d., 21 for 5s. 6d., 15 for 2s. 6d.
30 packets of the most beautiful BIENNIALS and PERENNIALS for 7s. 6d., 21 for 5s 6d., 15 for 3s. 6d.
All Flower Seeds sent post-paid.
BUTLER and M'CULLOCH, Seedsmen, Covent Garden Market, W.C

BEAUTIFUL FLOWERS.—100 Papers of flower seeds fit for present sowing for 5s.; 50 ditto for 3s.; 36 for 2s 6d.; or 12 for 1s. Extra fine camellia bloom, balsam, German asters, stock, double wallflowers, fine double sweetwilliam, and new custarded-marrow, at 6d. per packet. All the above post-free. At Messrs. GOLDING'S, Seedsmen, Hastings.

DR. DE JONGH'S
(Knight of the Order of Leopold of Belgium)

LIGHT-BROWN COD LIVER OIL,
Administered with the greatest success in cases of
CONSUMPTION, BRONCHITIS, ASTHMA, COUGHS, RHEUMATISM, GOUT, GENERAL DEBILITY, DISEASES OF THE SKIN, RICKETS, INFANTILE WASTING, AND ALL SCROFULOUS AFFECTIONS.

OPINION OF A. B. GRANVILLE, Esq., M.D., L.R.C.P., F.R.S., Author of "The Spas of Germany," "On Sudden Death," &c.

"Dr. Granville has found that DR. DE JONGH'S Cod Liver Oil produces the desired effect in a shorter time than others, and that it does not cause the nausea and indigestion too often consequent on the administration of the Pale Newfoundland Oils. The Oil being, moreover, much more palatable, Dr. Granville's patients have themselves expressed a preference for Dr. de Jongh's Light Brown Cod Liver Oil."

Sold ONLY in IMPERIAL Half Pints, 2s 6d.; Pints, 4s. 9d.; Quarts, 9s.—capsuled and labelled with DR. DE JONGH'S stamp and signature, WITHOUT WHICH NONE CAN POSSIBLY BE GENUINE—by respectable Chemists.

SOLE CONSIGNEES,
ANSAR, HARFORD, and CO., 77, STRAND, LONDON, W.C.

PERFECT FREEDOM from COUGHS is secured by DR. LOCOCK'S PULMONIC WAFERS. To singers and public speakers they are invaluable for clearing and strengthening the voice. They have a pleasant taste. Price 1s. 1½d., 2s. 9d., and 11s. per box. Sold by all Medicine Vendors.

GALVANIC ANTI-RHEUMATIC CHAIN BANDS, price 5s., 10s. 6d., &c. Celebrated for their unequalled efficacy in Neuralgia and Paralysis, and especially in Nervous Diseases, Exhaustion, &c. For striking facts of cures read the Book "Pulvermacher's Medico-Galvanic System of Self-application," &c., 1s
73, Oxford-street, London.

NOTICE TO LADIES.—KING and CO., Silkmercers, &c., 243, Regent-street, respectfully beg to announce that, in consequence of their system of sending patterns post-free having been adopted by several London firms, in future, if ladies should by chance prefer the patterns sent by other houses, King and Co. will supply the same goods 15 per cent less in price.

PATTERNS of SILKS, &c., sent post-free
to any part of Europe,
Asia,
Africa,
America,
and the Colonies.
Address to KING and CO., Regent-street, London.

NEW CAMBRICS, DUTY-FREE,
at KING'S, 243, Regent-street.

Swiss Cambrics	8s. 9d. the Full Dress.
French Cambrics	5s 0d. „
Double-skirt Cambrics	7s. 6d. „
Corded Cambrics	8s. 6d. „

Patterns sent post-free.—Address to King and Co., Regent st., London.

NEW MUSLINS DUTY-FREE,
at KING'S, 243, Regent-street.

Fines Organdie Muslins	5s. 0d. the Full Dress.
Finest Chintz Muslins	7s. 6d. „
New Striped Muslins	8s. 6d. „
New 5-Flounced Muslins	6s. 6d. „
New 7-Flounced Muslins	10s. 6d. „
Finest French Flounced Muslins	18s. 6d. „

Patterns sent post-free.—Address to King and Co., Regent st., London.

SPRING FABRICS DUTY-FREE,
at KING'S, 243, Regent-street.

New Alzarines	7s 6d. the Full Dress.
Striped, Checked, and Chené Mohairs ..	10s. 6d. „
Double Skirt Mohairs	12s 6d. „
New 5 and 7 Flounced Mohairs	15s. 6d. „
New Grenadines	17s 6d. „
New Spring Reps	£1 2s. 6d. „

Patterns sent post-free.—Address to King and Co., 243, Regent-street, London.

BLACK SILKS, DUTY-FREE,
at KING'S, 243, Regent-street.
French Glacé Silks,
£1 1s. the Full Dress.
Ducapes,
£1 15s.
Gros Royals,
£1 15s.
Widows' Silks,
£1 19s. 6d.
Flounced Silks,
£2 10s.
Moire Antiques,
£3 3s.
Patterns sent post-free. Address to King and Co., Regent-st., London.

NEW SPRING SILKS at KING'S,
243, Regent-street,
all duty free
French Foulard Silks,
15s. Full Dress.
Shepherd's Plaid Silks,
£1 1s. 0d.
New Striped and Checked Glacé Silks,
£1 5s. 0d.
New Crossover Silks,
£1 10s. 6d.
New Satin Cannellé Silks,
£1 12s. 6d.
Shaded Glacé Silks,
£1 15s. 6d.
Plain French Silks,
£1 15s. 6d.
New Striped Poult de Soies,
£1 17s. 6d.
Brocaded Poult de Soies,
£1 19s. 6d.
Flounced Silks,
£2 2s.
Double-skirt Silks,
£2 18s. 6d.
Moire Antiques,
£3 3s.
Patterns post-free.—Address to King and Co., Regent-street London.

LINENS EXTRAORDINARILY CHEAP. The Five Pound Sample Bale forwarded carriage-free to any part of the United Kingdom upon receipt of a remittance of Five Sovereigns, containing the following genuine articles:—One dozen Glass Cloths, one dozen Linen Dusters, one dozen Roller Towels, one Diaper Linen Tablecloth, one dozen Knifecloths, one real Hamburg Damask Tablecloth; one extra size ditto, very handsome, to seat sixteen persons; one dozen Damask Breakfast Napkins, one dozen fine Dinner Napkins; one pair magnificent Drawing-room Curtains, exceedingly handsome patterns, standing out in bold relief; three Antimacassars; one pair real Dunfermline Bleached Sheets, made from pure flax, very wide, and wear guaranteed; one dozen fine Barnsley Huckaback Towels, one rich Double-quilted Bed Coverlet, magnificent in the extreme, elegant and costly, and of the largest dimensions; one pair real Whitney Blankets, extra size; six Welted Toilet Covers, one pair excellent Window Curtains For detailed Catalogue, see Daily Papers.—AMOTT BROTHERS and CO., Linen Factors and Merchants, 61 and 62, St. Paul's-churchyard.

COMMERCIAL TREATY with FRANCE!!
(SPRING SILKS DUTY FREE!!)
Just received from the Custom House, Two Cases of the above Goods, which are now on Sale, at the following Reduced Prices:—
12,000 yards new Fancy Silks (various), wide width, 2s 2½d. per yd.
Rich Striped and Checked do., 23s. 9d. to 29s. 6d. the Dress.
Elegant Cannellé and Crossbar do., 31s. 6d. to 52s. 6d. the Dress.
Flounced Silks in great variety, 39s. 6d. to 4½ guineas.
Patterns for inspection postage-free.
Observe the Address, BEECH and BERRALL,
The BEEHIVE, 63 and 64, Edgware-road, London, W.
N.B. All Silks left over from 1859 have undergone a great alteration in price, to effect an immediate clearance.

COMMERCIAL TREATY WITH FRANCE.
REDUCTION IN PRICE OF NEW SPRING SILKS.

JAMES SPENCE and CO., 77 and 78, St. Paul's Churchyard, beg to state that, in consequence of the Abolition of Duty on French Silks, and the competition already begun to be exhibited in the Home Markets, they have succeeded in securing several large lots of NEW SPRING SILKS, at 6d., 9d., and 1s. per yard under the regular prices.

No. 1. Fancy Checks, 21s. the Dress	ALL WIDE WIDTH.
No. 2. New Crossover Cannellé Stripes, 26s. 11d. the Dress.
No. 3. Choice Patterns, various, 29s. 6d. the Dress.	PATTERNS SENT POST-FREE.
No. 4. Black Ducapes, from 2s. 6d. to 4s. 6d. per yard.
No. 5. Black Glacés, from 2s. 9d. to 6s. 6d. per yard.	ALL WIDE WIDTH.

Also, rich Moiré Antiques, from 55s to Six Guineas; Flounced Robes, Poult de Soies, Baratheas, Ottomans, Watered Silks, &c.
Patterns sent post-free.
Address—JAMES SPENCE and CO., 77 and 78, ST. PAUL'S CHURCHYARD, E.C.
Shut on Saturdays at Five o'clock p.m.

TO DRAPERS, MILLINERS,
and DRESSMAKERS.
Matching Orders carefully and promptly attended to.
Cut Lengths at the lowest Trade Prices.
Foreign Fabrics imported direct, with all the advantages of the New Tariff.
JAMES SPENCE and CO.,
Silkmercers, &c.,
77 and 78, St. Paul's-churchyard,
Shut on Saturdays at 5 o'clock.

NOVELTIES FOR THE SPRING!!! In Fancy Dresses, including Mohair, Grenadine, and other New Fabrics, now on Sale at BEECH and BERRALL'S, THE BEEHIVE, 63 and 64, Edgware-road, London, W., at a reduction of 25 per cent from last month's prices.
N.B. 400 pieces of Plain French Barèges, in all Colours, will be offered (duty free), at 6¾d. per yard; former price, 1s. 0½d.
Patterns for inspection postage-free.

MANTLE CLOTHS, We are now selling the cheapest Mantle Cloths in the trade, viz.:—
Brown Ladies' Cloths, from 1s. 11½d. per yard.
Undressed Meltons „ 1s. 8½d. „ „
Black Ladies' Cloths „ 2s. 8d. „ „
All qualities equally cheap. Patterns free.
CHARLES MEEKING and CO.'S
Woollen Warehouse,
111, Holborn-hill. London E.C.

ENORMOUS PREPARATIONS FOR THE LONDON SEASON.—SHAWLS, CLOAKS, and SILKS at greatly reduced prices, owing to the total abolition of all duties upon India, China, and French manufactured goods. FARMER and ROGERS are now prepared with their New Designs for the Season, and solicit attention to their recherché variety of Paris and London Fashions. 171, 173, 175, Regent-street, W.
India Shawls Bought and Exchanged.

DUNN'S TAILORS' LABOUR AGENCY, both sides of Newington-causeway, has this claim on public sympathy—it supplies Clothing, Adult and Juvenile, as Cheap as any, yet maintains the wages of the workers at 5s. per day.

RIFLE CORPS.—The Materials recommended by Government may be seen at Messrs. NICOLL'S Army Dépôt, Regent street, London. As every suit of uniform will be made from measures taken by skilled foremen, gentlemen are requested to call there in preference to making appointments to be waited on at their own homes. Cash payments being required, the best articles are produced for very moderate prices.—H. J. and D. Nicoll, 114, 116, 118, 120, 142, 144, Regent-street, W.; 22, Cornhill, E.C.; and 10, St. Anne's-square, Manchester.

NEW BOOKS, &c.

Now ready, price 2s. 6d.,

WHO'S WHO? 1860. PEERAGE, BARONETAGE, KNIGHTAGE, PARLIAMENTARY GUIDE, &c.

"A complete epitome of that handy knowledge of the personnel of the public life of this country which every one requires to refer to."—Illustrated News.

London: Baily Brothers, Cornhill.

Just ready, price 6s., cloth gilt,

ECHOES FROM DREAMLAND: a Selection of New and Original Poems by "FRANK NORMAN." Fcap 8vo, cloth, elegant.—London: Ward and Lock.

On April 4 will be published,

THE MILL ON THE FLOSS.

BY GEORGE ELIOT,

Author of "Scenes of Clerical Life" and "Adam Bede."

In Three Volumes post octavo.

William Blackwood and Sons, Edinburgh and London.

Messrs. GROOMBRIDGE and SONS beg to announce an entirely new series of Original Stories for Children, written by the first Authors, entitled

THE MAGNET STORIES

for

SUMMER DAYS AND WINTER NIGHTS.

To commence in May.

Each Story complete in itself—A New Story every Month. Price Threepence Illustrated.

The first published will be

By the Author of "A Trap to Catch a Sunbeam," &c.

And will be succeeded by Original Stories

By Mrs. GELDART, Mrs. S. C. HALL, the Author of "The Heir of Redclyffe; Mrs. WEBB, the Author of "Naomi," &c., and other eminent Writers.

 Order the Magnet Stories, No. 1. Price 2d.

London: Groombridge and Sons, 5, Paternoster-row.

THE TREATY WITH FRANCE AND THE REMISSION OF THE PAPER DUTY.

THE ENGLISHWOMAN'S DOMESTIC MAGAZINE. 6d Monthly. No. 1 will be ready on April 27, and will contain nearly 100 pages of Letterpress and Illustrations, including many new, useful, and elegant features never practicable before the Treaty with France and the Remission of the Paper Duty. Amongst other novelties which will accompany the Magazine every month, may be mentioned—

1. A STEEL PLATE of the FASHIONS, specially engraved, printed and painted by hand in Paris, for this Magazine.
2. A BERLIN WOOL-WORK PATTERN, in 10 or 20 various colours, prepared in Paris from Original Berlin Drawings.
3. A LARGE SEPARATE SHEET (equal to 32 pages), on which will be printed a number of Original, Practical, and Beautiful Designs for all kinds of Ladies' Works, and of the exact size for working.

Prospectuses, detailing in full other particulars relative to the ENGLISHWOMAN'S DOMESTIC MAGAZINE, may be had, gratis, and post-free, from the Publisher,

S. O. Beeton, 18, Bouverie-street, London, E.C.

84th Thousand, post 8vo, 7s. 6d. cloth,

SOYER'S MODERN HOUSEWIFE, containing Receipts for the Preparation of Every Meal of the Day, and for the Nursery and Sick Room. By the late ALEXIS SOYER. With Illustrations.

"All who have food to cook should buy it."—Morning Chronicle.

London: Simpkin, Marshall, and Co.

A FEW WORDS ABOUT NICE.

Price 1s. 6d.

Piper, Stephenson, and Spence, 23, Paternoster-row.

NOW PUBLISHED, A PURE MIND IN A PURE BODY—THAT IS HEALTH. Sent post-free, 1s 6d., or eighteen stamps. A New System of Health and Medicine. The antiseptic treatment.—Bailliere, 219, Regent-street, London.

Fourth Edition, just published price 2s 6d; or, by post, 32 stamps,

DISEASES OF THE SKIN: a Guide to their Treatment, and Prevention; illustrated by Cases. By THOMAS HUNT, F.R.C.S., Surgeon to the Western Dispensary for Diseases of the Skin, 21A, Charlotte-street, Fitzroy-square. "Mr. Hunt has transferred these diseases from the incurable class to the curable."—Lancet.—London: T. Richards, 37, Great Queen-street.

Now ready, second Edition, price 1s., by post, 1s. 1d.,

STAMMERING: the Cause and Cure. By the Rev. W. W. CAZALET, A.M., Cantab.

London: Bosworth and Harrison, 215, Regent-street.

PARALYSIS, NEURALGIA, &c.: Their Curative Treatment with the Aid of Galvanism. By HARRY LOBB, M.R.C.S., &c. Cloth bound, Illustrated. Price 5s.

H. Bailliere, 219, Regent-street.

25,000 BIBLES, Prayer-books, and Church Services, in every description of binding and type, being the cheapest, largest, and best-bound Stock in the Kingdom, at PARKINS and GOTTO'S Bible Warehouse, 24 and 25, Oxford-street.

WEDDING STATIONERY.—Patterns free by post.—The Newest and most Fashionable Designs, and Latest Alterations, including specimens of Card Engraving, Envelopes, "At Homes," Breakfast Invitations, &c. Crest-dies cut for 5s.

PARKINS and GOTTO, 24 and 25, Oxford-street, London.

PRESENTS at PARKINS and GOTTO'S.

250 Reticules, from 5s. 6d.	200 Ladies' Dressing-cases, 21s.
350 Writing-cases, from 2s. 6d.	250 Pearl Card-cases, from 5s. 6d.
Envelopes and Stationery Cases.	Albums, Scraps, and Portfolios.
180 Desks, from 7s. 6d.	150 Dressing-bags, from 35s.
Scales for Letters and Parcels.	Glove-boxes and Letter-boxes.
300 Inkstands, from 5s.	150 Elegant Book-slides, 8s. 6d.
Chess and Draught Boards and Men	Tortoiseshell Goods. Pearl ditto.
120 Despatch-boxes, from 21s.	250 Pocket-books, from 2s. 6d.
Fans of every kind.	Jewel-cases and Key-boxes.
500 Portemonnaies, from 1s.	(My Books), in Lock-cases.
Pearl and Ivory Goods.	Tea-caddies and Tea-trays.

Illustrated Catalogues sent post-free.

Papier-maché Goods of every description.

Parkins and Gotto, Manufacturers, 24 and 25, Oxford-street.

PRIZE WRITING-CASE, 2s. fitted, or free by post for 28 stamps. The Society of Arts have awarded 20 Guineas and their Silver Medal to PARKINS and GOTTO for this case, for its durability, simplicity, and cheapness. Parkins and Gotto, 24 and 25, Oxford-street, London. Trade supplied.

COUNTRY RESIDENTS should send to PARKINS and GOTTO for their Guinea Case of Stationery. They undertake to send it, carriage paid, to any part of England, upon a receipt of a Post-office order. It contains 50 quires of thick Note Paper, 1000 Envelopes, 6 dozen P. and G.'s Elastic Post-office Pens, 6 Holders, and a Note Blotting-book. No charge for case. Cheapest guinea's worth in England. N.B. 24 and 25, Oxford-street.

NO CHARGE at PARKINS and GOTTO'S for Embossing Crest, Initials, or Address upon Note Paper and Envelopes, and the carriage paid to any part of England on orders over 20s—added to these advantages, their prices will be found, upon comparison, full 6s. in the £1 lower than any other house. 60 samples sent by post for 4 stamps; Crest-dies cut for 5s.; Address-dies from 3s. 6d. Price-list post-free—Parkins and Gotto, Manufacturing Stationers, 24 and 25, Oxford-street.

NO CHARGE MADE for STAMPING PAPER and ENVELOPES with ARMS, CREST, or INITIALS. RODRIGUES' Cream-laid Adhesive ENVELOPES, 4d. per 100; Cream-laid Note, full size, five quires for 6d.; thick ditto, five quires for 1s.; Foolscap, 9s. per ream. At H. RODRIGUES', 42, Piccadilly.

WEDDING CARDS, WEDDING ENVELOPES, Invitations to the Ceremony, Déjeûner, and Ball, Printed and Stamped in Silver, with Arms or Crest, in the latest fashion. Card Plate elegantly Engraved and 100 superfine Cards Printed for 4s. 6d. At HENRY RODRIGUES', 42, Piccadilly.

WEDDING and BIRTHDAY PRESENTS.—Dressing Cases, Travelling Dressing Bags, Despatch Boxes, Writing Cases, Jewel Cases, Ladies' Reticule and Carriage Bags; Mediæval Mounted Envelope Cases, Blotting Books, and Inkstands en suite; the New Patent Self-closing Book-slide; also, a choice variety of Elegancies and Novelties suitable for Presentation; to be had at H. RODRIGUES' well-known Establishment, 42, Piccadilly.

DRESSING-CASES, DRESSING-BAGS, and highly-finished Elegances for Presentation, in great variety. Ivory-handled Table Cutlery. Every requisite for the Toilet and Work-table.—MECHI and BAZIN, 112, Regent-street; 4, Leadenhall-street; and Crystal Palace, Sydenham.

BIJOU NEEDLE-CASE, containing 100 of DEANE'S DRILLED-EYED NEEDLES, for 1s. This neat, useful, and elegant appendage to a Lady's Work-table will be forwarded post free on receipt of twelve postage-stamps.—Address to DEANE and CO., London-bridge, E.C. Established A.D. 1700.

BENZINE COLLAS CLEANS GLOVES, &c. It is in constant use at the Palace for removing grease and dirt from the Hangings. Of all Chemists and Perfumers. Dépôt, 114, Great Russell-street, Bloomsbury.

KALYDOR SOAP.—This soap needs but a trial to prove its softening and beautifying effects upon the skin. Made by the inventor, J. THOMPSON, Factory, 6, King-street, Holborn, London. 3d., 4d., and 6d. each Tablet.

NEW MUSIC, &c.

D'ALBERT'S KATHLEEN MAVOURNEEN WALTZ. "One of the loveliest waltzes ever written, founded on the favourite song of 'Kathleen Mavourneen.'" Beautifully Illustrated 4s.—Chappell and Co., 50, New Bond-street.

D'ALBERT'S NEW VALSE, PEREA NENA. Just out. Beautifully illustrated in Colours. Price 4s. Chappell and Co., 50, New Bond-street.

D'ALBERT'S NEW QUADRILLE, MADRID. Just out. Beautifully illustrated in Colours. Price 4s. Chappell and Co., 50, New Bond-street.

D'ALBERT'S NEW VALSE, SULTANA. Just out. Beautifully illustrated in Colours. Price 4s. Chappell and Co., 50, New Bond-street.

D'ALBERT'S NEW POLKA, THE BIG SHIP OR GREAT EASTERN POLKA. Splendidly illustrated in Colours. Price 3s.

Chappell and Co., 50, New Bond-street.

D'ALBERT'S RIFLE CORPS POLKA. Just published, splendidly Illustrated with Sketches from some of the celebrated Rifle Corps. Price 3s.

Chappell and Co., 50, New Bond-street.

D'ALBERT'S RIFLE CORPS WALTZES. By this celebrated Composer. Price 4s. Just out. Chappell and Co., 50, New Bond-street.

FLORAL HALL, COVENT GARDEN.—The BAND of the COLDSTREAM GUARDS performed with the greatest success—

D'Albert's Nelly Gray Valse.
D'Albert's Campbell Minstrel Quadrilles.
D'Albert's Rifle Corps Polka.
D'Albert's Charlestown Quadrilles.
D'Albert's West-end Polka.
D'Albert's Reigning Beauty Valses.

Chappell and Co., 50, New Bond-street.

MISS POOLE'S FAVOURITE BALLADS, sung by her with rapturous applause at the Monday Popular Concerts, given weekly at the St. James's Hall.

JUANITA. Composed by the Hon. Mrs. NORTON. 2s.
BARNEY O'HEA. Composed by SAMUEL LOVER. 2s.
SOMEBODY CARES FOR ME. Composed by ALICE FOSTER. 2s.

Chappell and Co., 50, New Bond-street.

KUHE'S DER FREYSCHUTZ. Fantaisie de Salon pour le Piano. Price 4s., post-free. Chappell and Co., 50, New Bond-street.

KUHE'S SOUVENIR DE LEFORT, pour le Piano, introducing the Popular French Romances sung by M. Lefort with the greatest success. Price 4s. One of the most effective morceau de Salon by this celebrated composer.

Chappell and Co., 50, New Bond-street.

NEW SONGS, &c., by VINCENT WALLACE (Composer of "Lurline"), just published:—

SWEET EVENING STAR. Price 2s. 6d.
THE BELL-RINGER. Price 2s. 6d. Sung by Miss Palmer at the Monday Popular Concerts with the greatest success, and redemanded.
PRETTY THINGS YOUNG LOVERS SAY. Price 2s.
VOICES, LINGERING VOICES. Duet. Price 2s. 6d.

Chappell and Co., 50, New Bond-street.

NEW SONG, ALL THINGS ARE NOT WHAT THEY SEEM. Composed by C. COOTE, Jun. Words by LONGFELLOW. Price 2s. Sung with distinguished success by Mr. George Buckland.

Chappell and Co., 50, New Bond-street.

MELLON'S OPERA, VICTORINE.

I NEVER CAN FORGET. Price 2s. "A ballad which always elicits an unanimous encore."—Era.

THIS FLOWER, DEAR MAID. 2s. "Melodious and graceful. The growing popularity of this ballad is not at all surprising when it is remembered how easily the tune is retained after being once heard."—Times.

LOVE'S DREAM IS O'ER. Price 2s. "Melodious and graceful."—Times. Chappell and Co., 50, New Bond-street.

CHAPPELL'S 100 COUNTRY DANCES, HORNPIPES, REELS, and STRATHSPEYS for the VIOLIN, containing all the old English favourites. Undoubtedly the best collection ever published in one book. Price Eighteenpence, post-free. Chappell and Co., 50, New Bond-street.

CHAPPELL'S EIGHTEEN AIRS, with VARIATIONS, arranged as easy SOLOS for the VIOLIN, price 1s. 6d.

Chappell and Co., 50, New Bond-street.

BRINLEY RICHARDS' NELLY GRAY, the popular one, as sung by Campbell's Minstrels, arranged for the Pianoforte. Price 3s. Order the Campbell's "Nelly Gray."

Chappell and Co., 50, New Bond-street.

SISTER ELVES.—Vocal Duet for two Ladies' Voices. By STEPHEN GLOVER. "One of the prettiest duets by this popular Composer, and sure to become a great favourite." Price 3s.

Chappell and Co., 50, New Bond-street.

TO PURCHASERS of PIANOFORTES.—CHAPPELL and CO. have a large stock of SECONDHAND PIANOFORTES for Sale, by BROADWOOD, COLLARD, ERARD, &c., &c., at very reduced prices. Also, new Instruments of every description.—CHAPPELL and CO., 50, New Bond-street.

CHAPPELL'S FOREIGN MODEL PIANOFORTE, price Fifty Guineas. This instrument has (unlike the ordinary Cottage Pianoforte) Three Strings and the fullest Grand Compass of Seven Octaves. It is strengthened by every possible means to endure the greatest amount of wear, and to stand perfectly in any climate. The workmanship is of the best description; the tone is round, full, and rich; and the power equal to that of a Bichord Grand. The case is of the most elegant description, in rosewood; the touch elastic, and the repetition very rapid. Every possible precaution has been taken to ensure its standing well in tune. Chappell and Co. especially invite the attention of the public, the profession, and merchants, to the Foreign Model, feeling assured that no Pianoforte, in all respects comparable, has hitherto been made in England at the same price. Every instrument will be warranted, and if desired) exchanged within twelve months of the purchase.—50, New Bond-street, London.

HARMONIUMS at CHAPPELL'S.—The HARMONIUM by ALEXANDRE is the only instrument of the kind that remains in tune; from the simplicity of its construction is but slightly affected by changes of weather, and is alike calculated for the Church, Chapel, School, or Drawing-room.

No. 1. In oak case, one stop, 5 octaves, 10 guineas.
2. In mahogany case, one stop, 12 guineas.
3. In oak case, 3 stops, 15 guineas; rosewood, 16 guineas.
4. With five stops—oak, 22 guineas; rosewood, 23 guineas.
5. Eight stops—oak, 25 guineas; rosewood, 26 guineas.
6. Twelve stops, oak or rosewood, 35 guineas.
7. One stop, and percussion action, in oak, 16 guineas.
8. Three stops, and percussion action, in rosewood, 20 guineas.
9. Eight stops, percussion action, oak or rosewood, 32 guineas.
10. Twelve stops, percussion action, in oak, 40 guineas.
11. Twelve stops, percussion action, large size, in rosewood, 45 guineas.
12. The new patent model—15 stops, percussion action, expression à la main, &c.; the most perfect Harmonium that can be made, in handsome oak or rosewood case, 55 guineas.

Full descriptive lists on application.

Chappell, 50, New Bond-street.

THE ALEXANDRE HARMONIUM at Six Guineas, perfect for Class Singing, Private Use, or for the School-room.—Chappell and Co., 50, New Bond-street.

THE PATENT DRAWING-ROOM MODEL HARMONIUM, the best that can be made, price 60 guineas. Illustrated Catalogues of Pianofortes and Harmoniums upon application to Chappell and Co., New Bond-street; or 13, George-street, Hanover-square.

NEW POLKA.—THE LADIES' RIFLE CORPS POLKA. Price 3s. By L. BERNARD, Author of the Johnny Sands Quadrilles, The Break of Day Schottische, The Very Last Polka, &c. The popular song of "The Ladies' Rifle Corps" forms the subject of this attractive Polka, which may be pronounced as one of the best that has appeared for a long time.

Duff and Hodgson, 65, Oxford-street.

NEW VOCAL DUET, FAIRY DREAMS. Price 2s. 6d.—Mr. Stephen Glover, the composer of "What are the wild waves saying?" "Two Merry Minstrels," &c., has just published "Fairy Dreams," duet, for soprano and contralto, which will equal in popularity any of his former compositions.

Duff and Hodgson, 65, Oxford-street.

NEW SONG.—OLD FRIENDS AND OTHER DAYS. Composed by W. VINCENT WALLACE. Price 2s. 6d. This is the last production of the distinguished composer of the highly-successful Opera of "Lurline." It is written for Miss Fanny Huddart, and will be found a perfect gem by all contralto voices.—Duff and Hodgson, 65, Oxford-street.

NEW MUSIC, &c.

HENRY FARMER'S NEW PIANOFORTE TUTOR.—"The most useful and best instruction-book we have seen." Price 4s.—London: Joseph Williams, 123, Cheapside.

HENRY FARMER'S RIFLE GALOP, splendidly illustrated by BRANDARD. Solos, 4s.; Duets, 3s.; Septets, 3s. 6d.; Orchestra, 5s.—London: Joseph Williams, 123, Cheapside; Wholesale Warehouse, 6, Milk-street, E.C.

HENRY FARMER'S GEMS OF CHRISTY MINSTRELS, easily arranged for the Pianoforte. Price 3s. post-free.—London: Joseph Williams, 123, Cheapside.

HENRY FARMER'S JUPITER QUADRILLE. Beautifully illustrated in Colours by BRANDARD. Solos, 4s.; Duets, 4s.; Septet, 3s. 6d.; Orchestra, 5s. London: Joseph Williams, 123, Cheapside; and 6, Milk-street, E.C.

HENRY FARMER'S BLANCHE VALSE. Illustrated in Colours by BRANDARD. Solos, 4s.; Duet, 4s.; Septet, 3s. 6d.; Orchestra, 5s.

London: Joseph Williams, 123, Cheapside; and 6, Milk-street, E.C.

VISIONS; or, They Rise Before Me One by One. English and German Words. English Version by Mrs. J. BOUCHER. Music by F. GUMBERT 2s., post-free.

London: Joseph Williams, 123, Cheapside; and 6, Milk-street, E.C.

C. W. GLOVER'S New Song, DO THEY THINK OF ME AT HOME. Written by J. E. CARPENTER. Price 2s., post-free.

London: Joseph Williams, 123, Cheapside.

G. A. MACFARREN'S New Song, WHEN SHALL WE MEET AGAIN? Sung by Miss Louisa Vinning. Is effective and touching—it lies within a moderate compass. Price 2s., post-free.—London: Joseph Williams, 123, Cheapside.

G. A. MACFARREN'S LITTLE CLARINA'S LESSON-BOOK for the PIANOFORTE.

Parts 1 to 4, each 2s. 6d; complete, 8s. "It contains all that is essential to instruct the youngest child."—Globe.

London: J. Williams, 123, Cheapside.

STEPHEN GLOVER'S New Song, THE CHILD'S GOOD NIGHT TO THE FLOWERS. Words by Miss Kate Wilkinson. Dedicated to H. Wilberforce, Esq. Price 2s., post-free.—London: Joseph Williams, 123, Cheapside.

NEW SONG.—WE MEET AGAIN, THOUGH MANY YEARS. Written by Mrs. J. BOUCHER; Music by KUCKEN. Price 2s., post-free.

London: Joseph Williams, 123, Cheapside, E.C.

NEW SONG.—MAIDEN, ARISE. Written by Mrs. J. BOUCHER; Music by P. HEWISON. Price 2s., post-free.—London: Joseph Williams, 123, Cheapside, E.C.

C. W. GLOVER'S NEW SONGS (Words by Mrs. J. BOUCHER). HOME OF MY CHILDHOOD, and DAYLIGHT IS FADING. Price 2s. each, post-free.

London: Joseph Williams, 123, Cheapside, and 6, Milk-street, E.C.

WILL YOU LEAVE THE LAND, JESSIE? New Song, written and Composed by J. W. CHERRY. Price 2s., post-free.

London: Joseph Williams, 123, Cheapside, and 6, Milk-street, E.C.

VOLUNTEER RIFLE CORPS' GRAND MARCH, for the Pianoforte by E. ANDREWS. Illustrated by BRANDARD. Price 3s., post-free.

London: Joseph Williams, 123, Cheapside, and 6, Milk-street, E.C.

THE MODERN SINGING-MASTER ON THE ART OF SINGING. By F. BUSSE. Illustrated with 126 Exercises. Translated by J. A. Hamilton. Price 7s. 6d.

London: Joseph Williams, 123, Cheapside, and 6, Milk-street, City.

THE FRIEND'S GIFT: a Collection of the most Popular Tunes, arranged in a very easy and simple manner, and fingered for the Piano. By J. BRUNNER. In Twelve Books (from twelve to sixteen tunes in each). Price 2s. each.

London: Joseph Williams, 123, Cheapside, and 6, Milk-street, E.C.

CHARLES W. GLOVER'S NEW SONGS— "The Home that I left long ago," and "A Song of Welcome." Written by Mrs. ABDY. 2s. each, post-free.

London: Joseph Williams, 123, Cheapside, E.C.

NEW VOCAL DUET, SING, MAIDEN, SING. Written by J. E. CARPENTER; composed by CHARLES W. GLOVER. 2s. 6d., post-free.

London: Joseph Williams, 123, Cheapside, E.C.

NEW VOCAL DUET, THE FISHER'S EVENING SONG, for two Sopranos or two Tenors. Written by Mrs. BOUCHER. Composed by F. KUCHEN. Price 2s. 6d., post-free. London: Joseph Williams, 123, Cheapside.

RICARDO LINTER'S QUEBEC QUADRILLE. Illustrated with a View of Quebec, in Colours, by BRANDARD. Price 3s.

London: Joseph Williams, 123, Cheapside, and 6, Milk-street.

FADING LEAVES. Words by Mrs. BOUCHER. Music by G. A. MACFARREN. "This melodious and touching ballad is well worthy of its composer's name."—Morning Herald. Price 2s. post-free.

London: Joseph Williams, 123, Cheapside, and 6, Milk-street.

THE MOTHERLESS CHILD (They chide me that the tears will fall).—Written by Mrs. J. BOUCHER; composed by FRED. GUMBERT. Price 2s., post-free.

London: Joseph Williams, 123, Cheapside; and 6, Milk-street, E.C.

IMPORTANT to TEACHERS of MUSIC and SCHOOLS.—MUSIC sent on sale or return, and a further reduction in terms (which will be explained on application), by B. Williams, Music Publisher, 11, Paternoster-row.

NEW COMIC SONG, THE RIFLE FEVER, By H. WALKER. With a Humorous Illustration. Price 2s. postage-free.

London: B. Williams, 11, Paternoster-row.

TOPLIFF'S LAST NEW SACRED SONGS, price 2s. each:—Honour thy Father and Mother—Blessed are the Poor in Spirit—Blessed are the Meek—Blessed are the Merciful—Blessed are the Peacemakers.

London: B. Williams, 11, Paternoster-row.

C. H. R. MARRIOTT'S DANCE MUSIC.

POLKAS.—The Sailor's, 2s.; Christy's Minstrels', 2s.; Frozen Fountain, 3s.; Heildelberg, 3s.; Adela, 3s.; Village, 2s.; Constance, 2s.; Alliance, 2s. 6d.

QUADRILLES.—The Rifle, Alpine, 3s.; Christy's Minstrels, 3s.; Martha, 3s.; Luisa Miller, 3s.; Winter, 3s.; Traviata, 2s. 6d.; Trovatore, 2s. 6d.; Water Lily, 3s.; New World, 2s. 6d.; Merry, 3s.

WALTZES.—Beautiful Star, Jolie Oiseau, Sunset, Trovatore, Traviata, Martha, Luisa Miller, Adela, Water Lily, Autumn Leaves, each 3s.; Sardinian Schottische, 3s.; Eugenia Redowa, 2s.

London: B. Williams, 11, Paternoster-row.

WILL-O'-THE-WISP. Descriptive Song by CHERRY. Nightly encored. Separate Editions may be had for a Bass or Tenor Voice. Price 2s. 6d. each.

London: B. Williams, 11, Paternoster-row.

TRAVIATA, MARTHA.—The whole of the Songs, Choruses, &c., of these celebrated Operas. "The English Acting Version" is published only by B. Williams, 11, Paternoster-row, London. Thematique Catalogues to be had gratis. Librettos, 1s. each.

LANGTON WILLIAMS' most admired SONGS:—

I'VE ALWAYS A WELCOME FOR THEE. 12th Edition. "One of the sweetest ballads of the day." Price 2s.

ADELE, I MISS THY KIND AND GENTLE VOICE. 4th Edition. Sung by Miss Lascelles. Price 2s.

EFFIE SUNSHINE. 6th Edition. Sung by Miss Poole. Price 2s. 6d.

YOU'LL SOON FORGET KATHLEEN. Irish Ballad. New Edition. Price 2s.

CLARINE, 'TIS A FORM THAT REMINDS ME OF THEE. 3rd Edition. Sung by Miss Lascelles. Price 2s.

All post-free for stamps.

W. Williams and Co., 221, Tottenham-court-road.

All New Music Half-price.

EVANS and CO.'S HALF-PRICE MUSIC WAREHOUSE, 77, Baker-street, Portman-square, W. Country Orders executed by return of post. Payment taken in postage-stamps. Catalogues gratis.

NEW MUSIC, &c.

24 CHRISTY'S MINSTRELS' SONGS for 2s. 6d.—A New Edition of BOOSEYS' CHRISTY'S MINSTRELS' ALBUM is published this day, double the former size, containing in one book, music size, price 2s. 6d. (post-free), Christy's Minstrels' twenty-four best Songs, with Choruses and Pianoforte Accompaniments, and all the words under the music.

Boosey and Sons, Holles-street.

BRINLEY RICHARDS' RIFLEMEN FORM MARCH, performed by the Band of the Royal Horse Guards. Arranged for Pianoforte by Brinley Richards. Price 2s. 6d.

Boosey and Sons, Holles-street.

KUHE'S DOMINO NOIR, new brilliant Fantasia for Pianoforte. Price 3s.—Published this day by Boosey and Sons, Holles-street.

KUHE'S ZAMPA, brilliant Fantasia for the Pianoforte. Price 3s.—Boosey and Sons, Holles-street.

SCHLOESSER'S NEW GRAND DUETS on "Martha," "Traviata," and "Dinorah," for Pianoforte. Price 5s. each. Published this day by Boosey and Sons, Holles street.

AN EVENING WITH BALFE. By RUDOLF NORDMANN. Mélange for the Pianoforte. Price, Solo, 4s.; Duet, 5s.

Also, by NORDMANN, AN EVENING WITH THE CHRISTY MINSTRELS. Solo, 4s.; Duet, 5s.—Boosey and Sons, Holles-street.

ROSSINI'S STABAT MATER.—New and complete Edition. Arranged for the Pianoforte by HENRY SMART. Price 3s.; or, handsomely bound in cloth, 5s. Also MOZART'S TWELFTH MASS, in the same form.

Boosey and Sons, Holles-street.

SHILLING EDITION of DE BERIOT'S AIRS for the VIOLIN, Nos. 1 to 7, complete, with all the Variations, in One Book, price 1s. Also, Booseys' 100 German Waltzes for the Violin, by Strauss, Lanner, and Labitzky, price 1s. Pianoforte part to De Beriot's Airs, price 3s. 6d.

Boosey and Sons, Holles-street.

JUVENILE DANCE MUSIC, price 1s. each Set. Satanella Quadrille (complete), 1s.; Maud Valse, 1s. Pantomime Galop, 1s.; Konigsberg Polka, 1s.

Boosey and Sons, Holles-street.

GOLLMICK—DRIPPING WELL, Morceaux Fantastique for the Pianoforte. Third Edition. Price 3s. One of the most popular original pieces of the day.

Boosey and Sons, Holles-street.

ASCHER.—THOU ART SO NEAR, AND YET SO FAR. REICHARDT'S celebrated Song, arranged for the Pianoforte by ASCHER. Price 3s.

Boosey and Sons, Holles-street.

THE CROWN DIAMONDS. New and Complete Edition for the Pianoforte. Price 6s. in cloth, forming the 20th Volume of Boosey and Sons' Series of Complete Operas. Also, lately published, in the same Series SATANELLA, 5s.; DINORAH, 7s. 6d.

Boosey and Sons, Holles-street.

THE JUVENILE PIANOFORTE ALBUM, price 3s. 6d., contains 12 Pianoforte Pieces from "Dinorah," and the newest Operas, beautifully bound and illustrated.

Boosey and Sons, Holles-street.

LAURENT'S DONNA JULIA VALSE. Illustrated in Colours. Price 4s.

The best original composition of this favourite author.

Boosey and Sons, Holles-street.

EVERY MUSICAL AMATEUR should possess the Cheap and Complete Edition of Meyerbeer's chef-d'œuvre, DINORAH, with English and Italian Words, now publishing in Shilling Monthly Parts. Parts I. and II., for March and April, are now ready. To be completed in Eight Parts. As "Dinorah" will be published at the price of 12s. (when complete), subscribers to the Monthly Edition will obtain a considerable advantage. Post-free from Boosey and Sons, Holles-street.

THE BURLESQUE GALOP. Dedicated to Mr. S. Calhaem, by the Composer, JAMES CASSIDY. Performed at the Dublin Castle Balls, and redemanded on each occasion. Performed by the Military Bands with the greatest success. The sale of this Galop (only a short time published) is unprecedented. Postage-free for 16 stamps.

Dublin: J. Wiseheart and Son, and all Musicsellers.

BRITISH SHELLS.—Mr. R. DAMON, of Weymouth, supplies Single Specimens and Named Collections. Priced Catalogue, 4d. FOREIGN SHELLS, a large stock. FOSSILS ditto. Geological Collections. See list of prices.

NEW SMALL STEAM-BOATS propelled by Steam, 4½-in., for a tray of water, 3s., post-free; 13-in., further improved, for ponds, 5s 6d., carriage free.—JAS. PARKER, Inventor, 6, Lilford-road, Camberwell.

EVENING AMUSEMENTS.—MACKIE'S Revised List of PUZZLES and CONJURING TRICKS is now ready; gratis on application. The Prince of Wales' Canoe, the best Puzzle out, in Cedar, 6d.; in Ebony, 9d.; and in Ivory, 1s., post-free. Also, the Arabian Trick, 6d., and the Mysterious Half-Sovereign, 6d. a capital trick, of C. N. MACKIE, Pantheon, Oxford-street.

Prompt attention to Country Orders.

GORHAM'S KALEIDOSCOPIC COLOUR- TOP "Combines entertainment with sound instruction, and will, we have no doubt, be largely purchased."—Builder. Price 21s., and 25s.—SMITH, BECK, and BECK, 6, Coleman-street, and ELLIOTT BROTHERS, 30, Strand.

A SMALL POWERFUL DAY and NIGHT WAISTCOAT-POCKET PERSPECTIVE GLASS, the size of a walnut, to discern minute objects at the distance of from five to six miles. Price 30s. MAGIC LANTERNS, with Dissolving Views and the Oxycalcium brilliant Light, with newly-invented German lenses and reflector. Compound Microscopes, in endless variety. Every description of Optical, Mathematical, and Philosophical Instruments. S. and B. SOLOMONS, Opticians, 39, Albemarle-street, Piccadilly.

TELESCOPES, Opera, Race-course, Field, and general Out-door Day and Night Perspective GLASSES, very small, for the waistcoat-pocket, each containing twelve and eighteen lenses constructed of German glass. Will show distinctly a person to know them at two-and-a-half and three miles, and an object from eight to ten miles distant. They are preferred for deerstalking by sportsmen, gentlemen, and gamekeepers. Telescopes, 3½ inches long, by which a person may be clearly seen and known at 3½ miles, and an object at 12 to 14 miles distance; and, with an extra astronomical eyepiece, Jupiter's moons, Saturn's rings, and the double stars are distinctly seen. All the above can be had of larger and all sizes, with increasing powers, and are secured by her Majesty's Royal letters patent, Messrs. SOLOMONS, Opticians, 39, Albemarle-street, Piccadilly, W.

SPECTACLES.—Optical Improvements, to enable persons at an advanced age to read with ease, and to distinguish objects with perfect distinctness.—Messrs. SOLOMONS have invented SPECTACLE LENSES of the greatest transparent power. The valuable advantage derived from this invention is that vision becoming impaired is preserved and strengthened; very aged persons are enabled to employ their sight at the most minute occupation; can see with these lenses of a much less magnifying power, and they do not require the frequent changes, to the dangerous effects of further powerful assistance.—39, Albemarle-street, Piccadilly.

DEAFNESS.—A newly-invented Instrument for extreme cases of Deafness, called the Sound Magnifier, Organic Vibrator, and Invisible Voice Conductor. It fits into the ear so as not to be in the least perceptible: the unpleasant sensation of singing noises in the head is entirely removed. It affords instant relief to deaf persons, and enables them to hear distinctly at church and at public assemblies. Every other kind of hearing Instrument. Messrs. SOLOMONS Opticians, 39, Albemarle-street, Piccadilly W.

TEETH WITHOUT SPRINGS.—GABRIEL'S TREATISE (gratis, or by post three stamps) explains their new system of self-adhesion and capillary attraction, combined by means of a soft, flexible substance with coralite, gum-coloured indiarubber (in lieu of bone or gold), which is warranted to remain pure and entirely free from taste or smell. They are fitted without springs or wires, and without any operation, with first-class materials and workmanship, at less than half the ordinary cost, by Messrs. Gabriel, Dentists to the Prince d'Ottajana, Nos. 33 and 34, Ludgate-hill (particularly observe), entrance up the private passage, next Benson the Silversmith; also at 110, Regent street; and 134, Duke street, Liverpool. Established 1815. See diploma.

Gabriel's Celebrated Preparations—the Patent White Enamel, 2s. 6d. per packet; the Gutta Percha Enamel, 1s. 6d.—may be obtained through any Chemist, or direct.

"'Gabriel's Treatise' should be read by all requiring a dentist. It will save much money and more annoyance, and, emanating from such a source, may be confidently relied on."—U.S. Gazette.

American Mineral Teeth from £4 4s. the set, warranted.

INFANTS' NEW FEEDING-BOTTLES.—From the 'Lancet'—"We have seldom seen anything so beautiful as the Feeding-bottles introduced by Mr. ELAM 196 Oxford-street. They are quite unrivalled." 7s. 6d. each.

SPRING-TIME.*—FROM A DRAWING BY G. TOWNSEND, EXETER.—SEE NEXT PAGE

SPRING.

How eloquent is the voice of Spring! The New Year shouting in its youthfulness—joyous, elastic, hopeful. There is a promise of good things to come. The denizens of air are astir. Vegetation is giving promise of future loveliness: the germ of life, long dormant, is everywhere rising into beauty and usefulness, stirred by the breathings of the gentle south wind. "For lo! (to use the words of the Song of Solomon) the winter is past, the rain is over and gone; the flowers appear on the earth; the time of the singing of birds is come, and the voice of the turtle is heard in our land." Similar is the poet's song. Thus wrote D. Cudmore in 1655:—

My sense is ravish'd when I see
This happy season's jubilee.
What shall I term it? A new birth:
The resurrection of the earth.
Which hath been buried, we know,
In a cold winding-sheet of snow.
The winter's breath had pav'd all o'er
With crystal marble th' world's great floor;
But now the earth is liveried
In verdant suits, by April dyed,
And, in despite of Boreas' spleen,
Deck'd with a more accomplish'd green.

Spring has been a great favourite with the bards, and numerous passages in its praise could be culled from their pages. How charmingly the two poets of the Seasons—Bloomfield with "wood-notes wild," and Thomson in statelier verse—have done homage to the first born of the year need not here be told. As, however, we have given an extract from one of our old poets, we will quote a few stanzas from a small volume just published—"The Poetry of Spring," by Goodwyn Barmby:—

Thy bugle, March! is ringing loud and clear;
Thy high tempestuous tones of wrath I hear;
Driving through heaven, thou wild young charioteer!

Meanwhile thy bugle-blasts more loudly sound,
Each blast the dark clouds scattering around,
And wakening wintry sleepers underground.

They wake, they rise, and come forth in their courses,
As though an angel touched anew life's sources,
And the ground gaped, and Death gave up his forces.

Thou, too, fair April, with thy moistened locks,
And sunny eye-beam which a dew-drop mocks,
Sitting like shepherdess, amid her flocks:

The clouds, thy flocks; O press their fleeces dry!
Bright rains descend, like tears from thine own eye,
And laughs and weeps the variable sky.

Thou pressest the fair clouds which round thee muster,
As vintager may press the grape's sweet cluster,
And then the sunny sky laughs out in lustre.

Come with slim foot which scarce the dew-drop brushes,
Thy cheeks, O May, covered with eastern blushes,
Thy head flower-decked amid a braid of rushes.

Press but thy foot, and there upsprings the daisy;
Breathe, and at once dissolve all mist-wreaths hazy;
Move, and the young leaves dance in measures mazy.

Thy blue eye gives the violet its hue,
Thy red cheeks blush the hawthorn blossoms through,
Thy golden locks, laburnum tressed, we view!

From thy fair fingers drop all fairest flowers,
Starry and coronal, with honied dowers,
Or cupped, or belled, or mouthed, of gifted powers.

Or chequered—streaked, or with rich blotches dyed;
Or pencilled daintily, or quaintly pied—
The field's, the forest's, and the garden's pride!

Our Illustration exhibits some of the most interesting features of the pleasant "Spring-tide." The departure of the winter birds, the return of the summer ones—the busy rooks, the young broods, the lambkins in their green pastures, the gardening operations, and the floral wreath encircling a noisy and vigorous assemblage—bring up images of bygone days when our forefathers, from their youth up, were accustomed to lusty out-door sports which fitted them for deeds of valour in many a hard-fought field.

The old pastime of "Winter and Spring" was represented by two figures mounted on a frame, and carried on the shoulders of a troop of boys. Winter was attired in rough garments, and had a pot of fire before him. Spring, as Flora, was decked with flowers and garlands. The two parties came into collision, and the result was that Winter retreated, and Spring remained in happy possession of the field. This took place on Mid-Lent Sunday, and probably had its origin in Germany, as the Germans observed a similar custom: in allusion to which one of their popular ballads has a refrain thus:—

Heigho! heigho! heigho! Summer is at hand!
Winter has lost the game,
Summer's maintain'd its fame.
Heigho! heigho! heigho! Summer is at hand!

Last year we had the treat of an early spring. Long before this time we were talking of blossoming trees and early flowers, and the notes of birds heard before they were listened for. The case is widely different this year. We should have said that we have not had so late a spring since 1845, but some high authorities declare further that nothing like it has been seen for a quarter of a century. Last year our early rejoicings were cut short by an April frost, which destroyed the prospects of the fruit season, and did no less damage in other ways. This year we may reasonably hope that we now know the worst, and that when Nature at last revives she will not droop again till her annual task is done.

TRADE AND NAVIGATION RETURNS.—The accounts relating to the trade and navigation of the United Kingdom for the month and the two months ending the 29th of February last have been issued. The exports show a large increase over the corresponding periods of 1859 and 1858. In the month the figures are—1858, £7,288,416; 1859, £9,614,143; 1860, £10,721,940. For the two months, 1858, £14,510,016; 1859, £19,207,566; 1860, £20,088,437. The imports are given only for the month of January. In the first month of the present year the computed value of the principal articles of import was £5,155,718, in 1859 it was 3,879,248.

BRITISH COLUMBIA.—The Bishop of Columbia writes, under date Victoria, Vancouver's Island, January 18, as follows:—"Victoria must be, I think, the most lovely and beautifully situated place in the world. I never saw anything before like it. In summer it must be exquisite. I was surprised to see the size and rapid growth of the town; there are some thousands of people who are putting up houses every day. It will be a large city ere a few years are over. Some things here are dearer than in England considerably. Servants and house rent are the worst. Beef, 10d. per lb.; excellent mutton, 1s.; butter, 2s. 6d. per lb.; coals, 32s. per ton. But other supplies are very reasonable:—Soft sugar, 4d.; loaf ditto, 6d. per lb.; tea, 2s. 6d.; fish very cheap and good, also potatoes; flour same as in England; milk, 6d. per pint; washing terribly dear. Single men, however, live as cheaply as in England. Dundas pays £140 per annum for board and lodging, and is very comfortable indeed. Prices are likely to fall much lower, and I should not be surprised if one could soon live here as cheaply as in England. A good number of young men are waiting to be employed. Artisans of any kind can make enormous wages. Even gentlemen are day labourers on account of the good pay, and doing anything rather than be idle. Very rich gold-beds have been discovered within the last two months, and it is expected there will be a great influx of people in the spring."

HISTORY OF COTTON.—The following are some historical details relative to cotton. The word cotton, which is adopted in all the modern languages of Europe, is derived from an Arab word. The origin of the use of fabrics made from this article dates very far back. In the time of Herodotus all the Indians wore them. In the first centuries, before Christ, there were manufactories of cotton tissues in Egypt and Arabia; but the Greeks and the Romans do not appear to have used them much. The Chinese did not commence cultivating the cotton plant until after the conquest of the Tartars, in the thirteenth century, and at that same period cotton tissues formed an important article of commerce in the Crimea and Southern Russia, whither they were brought from Turkistan. From the tenth century the Arabs had naturalised the cotton plant in Spain; and, in the fourteenth, the cottonodes of Granada surpassed in reputation those of the East. The manufacture of cotton goods in Italy dates as far back as the commencement of the fourteenth century, the first establishments being at Milan and Venice. It is presumed that there were at that period manufactories for cotton goods in England, as Deland, who lived in the time of Henry VIII., speaks of some being at Bolton-on-the-Moor; and an Act of Parliament of 1552, under Edward VI., mentions the cotton tissues of Manchester, Lancashire, and Cheshire. The cotton manufacture did not acquire any importance in France until 1787, when the French Government established spinning-machines at Rouen; but it was not, however, until after the Empire that, thanks to the efforts of Richard Lenoir, this branch of industry became flourishing.

OUT-DOOR AMUSEMENTS.

APRIL.

AMONG the field sports for this month may be mentioned racing, and fishing for carp, perch, dace, roach, and greyling; and the agricultural directions for April may be gleaned from the following old verse:—

Sowe barlie this season in land that is strong,
Your garden hearbes setting delay not too long;
To sowe hempe and flaxe, and other good seede,
As cucumbers and melons, this month you had neede.

Fox-hunting and coursing are over, and few are found to follow the deer up to the 10th of the month, when, from time immemorial, a grand Easter Monday gathering generally winds up the chase after "the antlered monarch of the wood" for the season. The followers of old Isaak Walton are now actively preparing for the ensuing campaign against the finny tribe, and already the Thames has furnished some excellent sport to the angler, for at the end of last month, in the short space of four hours, a gentleman fishing near Maidenhead-bridge succeeded in taking eleven pike weighing upwards of sixty pounds, the two largest being fourteen pounds and a half and ten pounds. The fish were mostly caught with the spinning-bait, and, as the stream was very strong, the qualities of the piscator were put to the test. Those whose avocations in the metropolis do not permit them to visit the rivers and lakes of Cumberland, Derwentwater, Coquet Dale, Driffield Beck, Hornsey Mere, Blackwater, Lough Derg, Inchiquin, the Spey, Yarrow, Meggat, Usk, Wye, or Tivy, and other angling localities in England, Ireland, Scotland, and Wales, but are obliged to confine their fishing to the Thames, will learn with extreme satisfaction that, by a recent order of the Conservancy Board of this far-famed river, netting will not in future be allowed between Richmond and the City stone above Staines-bridge, and that the only nets that may be used will be for the express purpose of obtaining bait for anglers, and that they are not to exceed thirteen feet in circumference, with smaller ones for landing the fish. By the above wise measure three beneficial results will arise:—First, the river will yield for anglers a wonderful increase of fish; secondly, it will enable the fishermen to obtain an honest livelihood by attending to the hundreds who flock down to the river for a day with the barbel or dace; and, thirdly, it will put a stop to a system of rascality that has existed for many years by unprincipled men, who poached the water, and exchanged its produce for spirituous and adulterated malt liquors at low public-houses and beershops.

The racing fixtures for April include seven first-rate meetings, and the result of them are looked forward to with the deepest anxiety by all classes of turfites. By way of filling up the intervening time, a most voluminous correspondence has taken place between Lord Redesdale and the Hon. Admiral Rous, in consequence of a proposed Act suggested by the former to prevent any racehorse after January, 1861, carrying less than seven stone. There can be no doubt that the gallant sailor, who is as first-rate a seaman as he is an impartial handicapper, has the best of the argument, for he has studied the ins and outs of the turf ever since he brought over the Pique frigate from Quebec, minus a rudder; while his opponent, although a clever man on other subjects, is not quite up in the history, theoretical or practical, of racing. If heavy weights were again resorted to, it would bring back the turf to the barbarity that was practised in Queen Anne's reign; for we find at York Races, July 30, 1714, the following record:—

A Plate of £40 for aged horses, 11st. each, Four mile heats.

Her Majesty Queen Anne's Star	3	3	1	1
The Lord Chamberlain's Merlin	1	2	3	2
The Hon. Mr. Cecil's Creeper	2	1	2	3

Sixteen miles during the dog-days for forty pounds! In the October Newmarket Meeting, 1723, three horses carrying 12st. each ran four miles for the Town Plate of 20gs. At Carlisle, May, 1761, eight horses ran six two-mile heats, as did the same number at Doncaster, September, 1797. At the Malton Craven Meeting, 1807, Sir Sampson, by Stamford, a three-year-old, ran three heats, two dead ones, and was drawn the fourth, for a fifty-pound plate; and as late as 1809 the following account appears:—

LEICESTER SEPTEMBER.

The Burgesses' Plate of £50. Four mile heats.

Lord Lowther's Hylas, by Beningborough, 5 yrs old	0	2	0	1	1
Sir F. Stanley's Viper, by Serpent, 5 yrs old	1	3	0	2	dr.
Duke of Rutland's Ned, by Teddy, 4 yrs old ..	0	1	3	3	dr.

Among amateur jockeys of former days we read of Lord Byron's Robin Hood beating Lord R. S. Manners' b. h., ridden by the owners, 12st. each, four mile heats; and again Mr. Parsons' b. h. beating Lord Byron's g. m. and the Duke of Kingston's b. h., 14st., owners to ride; and, to wind up the list of heavy weights, we find that in January, 1795, a match was run over the racecourse at Doncaster—one four-mile heat—for a stake of 200 guineas, between Mr. Stilwell's grey mare and Mr. Johnson's chestnut horse, carrying 16st. each, and was won by the former. The chronicler of those days adds:—"This was a hard race, and most powerfully contested, the extra high weights exceeding the customary annals of racing etiquette." As we have referred to bygone days it may not be uninteresting to our readers if we lay before them a sketch of the life of a celebrated sportsman who flourished about two hundred and forty years ago.

Henry Hastings, who lived in the time of James I. and Charles I., was head keeper of the New Forest, in Hampshire, and resided in his lodge there during a part of every hunting season: but his principal residence was at Woodlands, in Dorsetshire, where he had an excellent mansion. Hastings was low of stature, but strong and active; of a ruddy complexion, with flaxen hair. His clothes were always of green cloth. His house was of the old fashion, in the midst of a large park, well stocked with deer, rabbits, and fishponds. He had a long, narrow bowling-green in it, and used to play with round sand-bowls. Here, too, he had a banqueting-room built, like a stand, in a large tree. He kept all sorts of hounds, that run buck, fox, hare, otter, and badger; and had hawks of all kinds, both long and short winged. His great hall was commonly strewed with marrowbones, and full of hawk-perches, hounds, spaniels, and terriers. The upper end of it was hung with foxskins of this and the last year's killing. Here and there a polecat was intermingled; and hunters' poles in great abundance. The parlour was a large room, completely furnished in the same style. On a broad hearth, paved with brick, lay some of the choicest terriers, hounds, and spaniels. One or two of the great chairs had litters of cats in them, which were not to be disturbed. Of these three or four always attended him at dinner, and a little wand lay by his trencher, to defend it if they were too troublesome. In the windows, which were very large, lay his arrows, crossbows, and other accoutrements. The corners of the room were filled with his best hunting and hawking poles. His oyster-table stood at the lower end of the room, which was in constant use twice a day all the year round, for the head keeper had a thorough contempt for the saying that these crustaceous luxuries were only in season when there was the letter r in the month, and never failed to eat them both at dinner and supper, the neighbouring town of Poole furnishing him with a plentiful supply. At the upper end of the room stood a small table, with a double desk, one side of which held a Church Bible, the other "The Book of Martyrs." On different tables in the room lay hawks, hoods, bells, old hats with their crowns thrust in, full of pheasants' eggs, tables, dice, cards, and tobacco-pipes. At the other end of the room was a door which opened into a closet, where stood bottles of strong beer and wine, which never came out but in single glasses, that being the rule of the house, for he never exceeded himself, nor permitted others to exceed. Answering to this closet was a door into an old chapel which had long been disused for devotion; but stowed away under the seats, as the safest place, was always to be found a cold chine of beef, a vension pasty, a gammon of bacon, or a great apple pie, with thick crust, well baked. His table did not cost him much, although it was well kept up. His sports supplied all but beef and mutton, except on Fridays, when he had the best of fish. He never wanted a London pudding, and he always sang it in with "My heart lies therein-a." He drank a glass of wine or two at meals, put syrup of gillyflowers into his sack, and had always a glass of small beer standing by him, which he often stirred with rosemary. He lived to be a hundred, and never lost his eyesight nor used spectacles. He got on horseback without help, and rode to the death of the stag until he was past fourscore.

EPITOME OF NEWS—FOREIGN AND DOMESTIC.

The list of the Art-Union of London closes this day (Saturday).

The Prince Consort has sent a cheque for £250 to the committee for the Great Exhibition Memorial.

It is reported that France has purchased the principality of Monaco for an annuity of 200,000 francs to its Prince.

About £2000 have been already obtained towards the Brunel Memorial.

Lord Brougham has arrived at his villa at Cannes. His Lordship intends to remain in the south of France until after the Easter holidays.

The first volume of a German translation of "Adam Bede" has made its appearance at Berlin; the translator is Julius Frese.

Dr. Livingstone has communicated to the Royal Society a series of valuable magnetical observations made recently in Africa.

Martha Longden died at Brookbottom, near Buxton, on the 18th inst., aged 100 years.

The Oxford and Cambridge grand eight-oar race takes place on Saturday (to-day), from Putney to Mortlake.

The subscription for a monument in memory of the late Mr. Henry Hallam approaches £500.

The Earl of Shrewsbury intends making his formal entry upon the Alton Towers estates on Friday, the 13th of April. The occasion will be one of great display.

The France Centrale states that the Piedmontese Government is buying up a large number of horses in the departments of the Indre and the Cher.

A new steam-packet company has started to place an additional line of vessels between Portsmouth and Southampton, and Ryde and Cowes, in the Isle of Wight.

Wolfgang Menzel, the well-known critic and historian, has begun the publication of a work entitled "The Last One Hundred and Twenty Years of World-History, 1740-1860."

Yesterday week one of the boats of her Majesty's ship Firebrand was capsized off the Platform Battery, Portsmouth. Of a crew of six, only two could be rescued.

The Landgrave Alexis of Hesse-Phillipsthal-Barchfeld has brought a suit for divorce from his consort before the Upper Court of Appeal of the Landgraviate.

The Poole papers state that a steamer will shortly be put on between Poole and Cherbourg to connect the South-Western Railway in England with the Western Railway in France.

The Vienna Gazette announces that Major-General Prince Leopold of Saxe-Coburg Gotha has, on his demand, been allowed to retire from the Austrian army.

The collection of pictures, formed for the most part within the last twenty years by M. Edmund Beaucousin, at Paris, has been recently purchased for the National Gallery for the sum of £9200.

A proposition has been set on foot in Hobart Town for a public subscription, limited to 1s. each person, to defray the cost of erecting, in St. David's Cathedral, a tablet to the memory of Sir John Franklin.

On the night of the 14th inst. the whole of Coniston Lake was covered with a sheet of ice, though at sunset on that day not a particle was to be seen on the lake.

Mr. Montagu Chambers, Q.C., has written an address to the electors of Harwich, the seat for which is vacated by the accession of the Hon. W. F. Campbell to the Peerage.

Last Saturday evening the Conservative electors of Fifeshire entertained Lord Loughborough to dinner, and presented him with two massive silver candelabra in the new Corn Exchange, Kirkcaldy.

Early last Saturday morning a shutter was removed from the shop window of Mr. Goltman, High-street, Stamford, and upwards of £100 worth of jewellery abstracted.

The Lords of the Admiralty have presented to the trustees of the British Museum an immense folio volume, spendidly bound and decorated with all kinds of appropriate naval devices, containing all the original despatches relating to the chief victories of the British Navy.

The Society of Arts are proposing to do honour to the memory of the late Sir William Ross, by getting together, in their rooms in the Adelphi, a collection of his works, for exhibition to the public during the months of April and May.

A ship-of-the-line, to be plated with steel, has been laid down in the dockyard of Cherbourg. She is to measure 300 feet in length, with an iron spur thirty feet long, to be supplied with an engine of 1200-horse power, and to be called the Napoleon I.

It is said that a double statue of her Majesty and the Prince Consort, designed by one of the greatest of living sculptors, will be erected on an artificial mound in Hyde Park, close to where the building of the Great Exhibition stood.

Last Saturday, at the Buxton Limeworks, George Haynes, one of the quarrymen, while in the act of boring for a blast, a "shell," some six or seven feet long by three feet wide, and six inches in thickness, fell from the face of the rock above upon the poor fellow, causing instant death.

A memorandum of "Reasons in Favour of a Bill to Establish Artistic Copyright" has been prepared by the council of the Society of Arts. This memorandum will shortly be laid before her Majesty's Ministers by a very numerous and influential deputation.

It is rumoured in Paris that the Emperor Napoleon's architect will shortly proceed to Nice for the purpose of selecting a site for the erection of a palace. It is thought that Nice will replace Biarritz as a sea-bathing place for the Emperor and Empress.

A few days ago the Commandant of Comorn committed suicide. The deceased was always noted for his punctuality, and shortly before he shot himself he "reported" to his superior officer that, being tired of life, he was about to put an end to it.

A recent telegram from India mentions that the cotton crop in the North-western Provinces will this year be favourable. The Tussah silk crop, which is grown in the lower part of Bengal, will, it is alleged, be a partial failure.

On Tuesday se'nnight the Royal Academicians met, according to the call, for the purpose of considering the great reform. The meeting could arrive at no result. Sir Charles Eastlake proposed an adjournment until next Monday, April 2. This proposal was adopted.

The Junior United Service Club will cease their occupation of the Colonnade Hotel on the 1st of April, and transfer their meetings to the Thatched House Tavern, St. James's-street, until their own clubhouse is fit for their reception, which it is supposed will be about the 1st of May next.

The report of the Select Committee, which has sat for two Sessions, on the Queen's printers' patent for printing the Bible recommends that the patent be not renewed, and that no exclusive privilege of printing the Scriptures be allowed henceforth to exist.

Last Saturday one of the newly-formed arches for the Exeter and Yeovil line of railway, in the York-road, Lambeth, fell in. The labourers, about 200 in number, were fortunately at dinner at the time. The recent damp weather was the supposed cause of the accident.

As Mender's menagerie was leaving Stamford, last Saturday, a caravan, containing an elephant, capsized, whilst making an awkward turn, and falling upon a horse belonging to the proprietors of the establishment literally crushed it to death. The elephant did not sustain any injury.

The London Court of Common Council determined, on Thursday week, to present the freedom of the City to Mr. Cobden, in recognition of his recent exertions in negotiating the treaty with France, and of his services generally in the cause of free trade.

The French paper-manufacturers are actively continuing their exertions to prevent the exportation of rags. They urge that the Emperor is not bound to make concessions on this point to the English manufacturers, as the article is not mentioned in the treaty of commerce.

On Saturday evening last, while Mr. John Sellars, superintendent of the Kirkdale division of the Liverpool county constabulary, was going home in his "trap," drawn by a spirited horse, the vehicle was upset, and Mr. Sellars, falling underneath, was killed.

A monumental fountain to the memory of the late Mrs. Swift, wife of the Rev. B. Swift, has recently been opened at Southport, Lancashire. It is let into the wall opposite the entrance to Birkdale Church, of which the Rev. B. Swift is Incumbent.

The visitors at the South Kensington Museum last week numbered 11,581. On Monday, Tuesday, and Saturday (free days) there were 4660. Monday and Tuesday (free evenings), 5210. Three students' days (admission to the public 6d.), 1233. Students' evening (Wednesday), 478.

A deputation waited upon the Under Secretary, at the Home Office, last Saturday, for the purpose of explaining the plans proposed by the Corporation of the city of London for the erection of a new Metropolitan Meat and Poultry Market, to be connected with the projected metropolitan railway.

SKETCHES IN PARLIAMENT.

The characteristic of the Parliamentary week has been skirmishing. There has been no grand set-to; for one can hardly place in that category the discussion on Tuesday evening on the famous packet contract affair and the little game played at the Admiralty with the Dover election. Although the occasion was a House of Commons sporting one it is but in its way one of those man-hunt which are becoming less frequent, but which used to get up an excitement at least once a month, at one time), there was not much personality, and the point and humour that invariably accompany it therefrom. To be sure, an outside individual was utterly crushed for doing that which every one of the right honourable and honourable gentlemen who spoke and voted then down are witness to, in their own persons, in every fog of their lives; but then it is an absolute necessity that public men should not offend the susgecpst principle to fall into decadence. A good deal was expected from the known vituperative capabilities of Captain Leicester Vernon, the introducer of the motion; but, though there was a slight infusion of that sort of evil in his speech, on the whole it partook more of a trick of tragedy: it was full of pauses, long enough, indeed, to justify a repetition of Sheridan's sad joke on Kemble's impressiveness in that way, that there was room for occasional music in the rhetorical intervals; and, indeed, when Captain Vernon made the close of his speech, emphatically stated the House "to pause," no one could deny that he had enforced his precept by abundance of example. At the end of this there was a scene. Mr. Gladstone was making a rush at the demolition of an argument of Mr. Whitesides, and was in the midst of one of his orchestral whirlwind, when the latter gentleman made a point against that he was wholly misunderstood. The effect on Mr. Gladstone was that which may be supposed when a fat bear has received a dig in his and thrown on his haunches, just as he has got into his stride in a gallop. He politely resumed and proved, to his fury, and tearing, as it were, to push Mr. Whiteside down into his seat. That gentleman was boiling over with rage, but resolutely and slowly stood in a fixed position, finding his antagonist, by this time, had gathered himself also into a still pose of defiance: for two or three minutes the crowd could give way, and the House was tremendous, the Speaker being, as usual, utterly unequal to the situation. It is a study to see how a man can be for years in the House of Commons temper; his deally pallor, and the unnatural calmness of his voice when he recovers himself, show the forces his inward struggle is. This time he succeeded in a shorter space of time than usual, and made an apology of unusual graciousness, which, however, was not immediately accepted by Mr. Whiteside, who, when he got up, let his drops from his flushed face, one could read in his eyes an act not far from the old Irish Parliament times when the flavour of the next day would have seen him covering his opponent with something more daubly than ironical sheets.

An apology, at least, an excuse, may perhaps be needed for the incessant recurrence of Mr. Gladstone's name in these slight records of Parliament; but really he is so constantly on the scene, or else is indirectly concerned in whatever is going on, that the repetition is a matter of course. It would seem that his sarcasm on Mr. Horsman (which has stuck) about the advisability of that gentleman's motives in attacking the Government remaining inscrutable induces the member for Stroud to seek some office compatible to the Chancellor of the Exchequer. It needs no ghost to tell him that of all sense of inconsistency there is no effectual interposing: he prevent the rapid progress of Mr. Gladstone's financial measures. In the final Ministerial row no one can read plainly such lines as these—

"Perish, Savoy! à bas Louis Napoleon! let Switzerland be submerged in the Lake of Geneva! let Victor Emmanuel be assassinated by one of his body guards! and let Lord Normanby be sent to pacificate and restore Tuscany; but for heaven's sake do not let us run on loan! Is anything a penny slang on contract rates?" Very good this for Mr. Horsman; and on Monday evening, just as Mr. Gladstone had his hat to open his little order of the day, up rose the fierce hearted member for Stroud, who has an exhalation—so, like an apparition is the most appropriate, the remarkably appropriate, phrase—and unexpected, launched into foreign policy and blank Roman of vituperation which, but for the air of a gentleman, which he unluckily preserves at his most abusive moments, would have entitled him to hold a very distinguished place in that unreformed metropolitan fish-market the whilom vernacular of which has passed into a proverb.

Passing over, as too serious a matter to be trifled with here, Lord John Russell's remarkable speech, let justice be done to Mr. Bright as a rival to Mr. Horsman in what the member for Birmingham has helped us to an apt description of when he spoke of "common sodaline." There was looking grimly in from under the gallery a kindred professor of that style of oratory in the person of Lord John Manners, however, did not encourage that admission of Mr. Bright's speech which might have been expected. But here was a case of conduct that must be condemned. We will not permit us "to see ourselves as others see us." A father who has shy-cock-like follies of youth only because they wash them both in generally the most apt observer of the hiddenmures of vice in his son; and illustrations might be thus multiplied to account for Lord Derby's conduct to Mr. Bright's peculiar temperament. We ought not to seem peculiar to the noble Earl. It was supposed that Mr. Disraeli and member of Mr. Gladstone Bench, and the member for Mr. Horsman's device, for he was positively audacious towards the Chancellor of the Exchequer that in the course of the day's debate venturing on an allusion to that famous occasion in 1853 when he received his heavy fall in the set wrestling match with his then and ever-unfriendly financial rival; said one could hardly forbear to smile at his innocent admission of his resolection of the fierce denunciations of Mr. Gladstone by Mr. Gladstone on Wednesday morning. Recollect it! Could he ever forget it!

In this memorable speech of Mr. Disraeli there was a bit of by play which is worth mention. Mr. Deedes, a Conservative, who is as staunch as his nature and faculties will allow him, took occasion to utter a friendly and well-timed remonstrance with members of the Government, and went meekly and placidly to dine, as his gentle manner is, of a sudden, and unexpectedly to nothing. Mr. Disraeli made a violent onslaught on gentlemen like Mr. Deedes, who, by-the-by, practised squash on every stage of the game, and had voted for. In a few minutes Mr. Deedes came in, looking terribly soured, and took his seat, not unmarked by his leader, for with some skill he immediately turned his invective into a channel which enabled him to reproduce the member for Kent (expressing a feigned curiosity as to whether he was in the House). The mild, taunt virtue, reproving the lofty arrow of a well-meaning Deedes, was very expressed in the face of the latter, with the sense of convicted naughtybyism which mantled in the countenance of each other, was, as people say, very much pointedly, as good as a play. In this debate, which ranged principally between the financiers, for the first time Mr. Laing, the Secretary to the Treasury, got a hearing, though he has made numerous attempts to address the House on different occasions. He is mentioned as a promising one he is a man of skill and of business as a speaker, and certainly contrives to exhibit an amount of knowledge of the particular department he is in connection which is remarkable, and not the less because the simplicity, the almost suspicious simplicity of his style. Indeed, when he is dealing with figures, one cannot get over a notion that one is in the presence of a chef de cuisine if the matter to be dealt with is accounts.

The leader of the Opposition was much cheered his one night, or rather early one morning, when, in the midst of one of those flushed and excited discussions which are coincident with white onrats, crush hats, and swallow-tailed coats—the motive cause being an unconstitutional attempt to get a morning sitting at this time of the year, whilst roused direful protests—he declared that nobody cared for or knew anything about the Reform Bill. Well, certainly there is something in that assertion. The faculty which that meeting displays for being "of no consequence," and sidling out of the way when anything else interesces, is undeniable. But the climax was reached on the second night when it was under discussion, and when, by the valuable assistance of Mr. Adderley, some forty or four members could be held together in the House, so that some humorous member was enabled to get up the practical sarcasm of a bill for the amendment of the representation of the people being nearly disposed of by that process of Parliamentary inanition which is the opposite of a full House. The Government has met peculiar justice in the circumstance that the member who hurried in to make up the shattered forty who constitute a House should have been Lord John Russell himself, who, startled from the enjoyment of that gentle tea to which he is said to be prone, entered with that scared look and absent manner which is one of the marks of his expression in some engraving or other in the case of a distracted mother whose child is being carried off in the talons of a felonious eagle.

CHESS.

TO CORRESPONDENTS.

M. D.—"Dispersalis" indeed! The mechanical organisation and nice disregard of all Science which characterise the lower members of the press in the United States is absolutely bewildering. The plain fact is this. Solvers have been sending in answers to the end problem from a well known English amateur, which were played between him and his friends, and which were published in the Illustrated London News of December 17, 1859. Upon their receipt, however, Mr. Morphy flatly denied that he had ever played a game with Mr. Staunton, and, as he justly observed, if he pressed it preliminary terms on the ground that the American had forgotten, assured that Mr. Staunton would have remembered it. Under the circumstances, Mr. Morphy's letter contained with dangling and having played with Mr. Staunton, confessing that to depreciate his skill, and asserts, in the most offensive manner, that "some one has been guilty of deliberate misrepresentation." Upon this the journal of which you speak very coolly (by which, not using Hooray, keep a better hold on the shirts of investors, and which, by the way, is not illustrated London News) says that it is "not disposed to take the accompanied statement, as given from the mere assertion and gratuitous of such a charge, what is most remarkable in the other letter of Mr. Morphy itself, for nearly the whole of it is taken up in Mr. Staunton's supposed inability of that gentleman and his friends in believing that his game as a game of Mr. Staunton's memory, and in the most offensive manner possible, that Mr. Staunton's memory is at fault, and that he has published nothing to which he never played. And for what? For the paltry purpose of making it appear that he had not played a game with Mr. Staunton! Is this the way in which honourable and clever player to whom we are indebted for the game; and we have no hesitation in asserting that Mr. Staunton is not the man to do it? Mr. Morphy's letter is unworthy of the character, if indeed of the intellect, of a gentleman." This is very good.

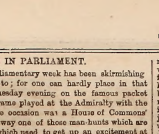
J. S. Tadlish.—An absolute examination of the positions will prove to you that your estimate of the value of the pieces is the inverse of correct. Your game is a very good one.

Solver.—No. 1 admits of an easy solution in three moves by—1. B to K 5th (ch), &c. No. 2 is a very pretty problem, but somewhat too close to the amateur's hands.

H. Y., St. George's Crib.—Defective. Try again.

C. Rodwell.—They shall be examined.

SOLUTION OF PROBLEM NO. 899.



WHITE.	BLACK.	WHITE.
1. Kt from Q R 5th to Q B 2nd	1. Any move	2. Mates accordingly
2. Kt to Q Kt 4th.	1. K to Q B 5th	2. Mates.
1. K to Q B 3rd to Q B 5th	1. K to K 4th	2. Mate is ever compulsory.

SOLUTION OF PROBLEM NO. 840.

WHITE.	BLACK.	WHITE.
1. B to Q R 4th. Kt takes P	2. Q takes P (ch)	K or P takes Q.	S. B mates.

PROBLEM No. 841.
By J. B. of Bridport.

BLACK.

WHITE.
White to play, and mate in three moves.

CHESS IN SCOTLAND.

Subjoined are two more examples of the interesting match between the Scotch Gambit, of which we gave a specimen last week :—

GAME I.
(Scotch Knight Gambit.)

WHITE (Mr. Fraser.)	BLACK (Mr. G.	WHITE (Mr. Fraser.)	BLACK (Mr. G.
1. P to K 4th.	P to K 4th	(He has better move than this, if
2. Kt to K B 3rd	Kt to Q B 3rd	Q to Q 3rd, White replies with Kt to Q 4th, or
3. P to Q 4th	P takes P	Q to K 2nd.
4. B to Q B 4th	B to Q B 4th.	13. Q to Q Kt 3rd	P to Q R 3rd
5. Castles	Castles (Q. Kt to Q B 3rd	(If, Kt to Q 4th, then follows taken P,
6. P to Q Kt 4th	B takes P	K to R 2nd
7. P to Q B 3rd	P to Q 3rd	14. B takes Kt	B takes B
		15. K Kt to Kt sq	Q to Q 2nd
(In the game presented last week Black took the second Pawn with Pawn, perhaps his best move.)		16. P to K 5th	Q to Q 3rd
		17. Kt to B 5th	Q to Q B sq
8. Q Kt takes P	P takes Q Kt P	18. Kt to Q 4th	Kt to K 4th
9. P to K 5th	P to K 4th	(White is now threatening to win the Queen, but this
10. B to Q Kt 5th.	Kt to K 5th	move may compromise his defence.)
11. Q to Q R 4th	B to Q Kt 5th	19. Kt to Q 6th	B to Q 3rd
		20. B takes Q P	Q to Q B 2nd
		21. Q to K 4th	B to Q Kt 5th
		22. B takes Q B P	Q to Q B 2nd
		23. B takes Q B P	Q to Q B 2nd
		24. Q to K 6th	And Black surrenders.

GAME II.
Between the same Opponents.
(Scotch Knight Gambit.)

The first ten moves as in the previous game.

WHITE (Mr. F.)	BLACK (Mr. G.)	WHITE (Mr. F.)	BLACK (Mr. G.)
11. Q to Q R 3rd	P to Q R 3rd	17. Q to Q Kt 3rd	K to R sq
	(He has better move than this, as	(A) by retiring
	White must capture the Kt or make a dis-	Kt to Q B 3rd, and has advantageous move.)	an equal game on about Kt
12. B takes Kt	P takes B	18. P to K 6th	P to Q B 3rd
13. B to Q Kt 4th.	P to Q B 3rd	19. P to K 7th	Q to Q 2nd
(Better, seemingly, than B to Q 3rd.)		20. R to K B sq
14. P to K B 3rd	P takes Kt	(Black has now quite saved, but Black has
15. P takes Kt	P takes Kt	betrayed himself into the dilemma by his
16. B takes K P	Q to Q B 2nd	last move.)
(Is this really sound? We must confess it		20.	Q to K 2nd seems to be very questionable.)		21. Q to Q Kt 7th	B to K 3rd
16.	K takes	22. Q takes R (ch)	B takes Q
		23. R to K 8th (ch),
		and wins.

(To the Editor of the ILLUSTRATED LONDON NEWS.)

SIR,—Your attention has been called in paragraph 4, in your previous paper purporting to detail from Mr. Morphy the having played chess with me. The fact of my having won a game of Mr. Morphy's only ever terms, is correctly stated and recognised that the publication of that game should have been kept by a deplorable and reckless imputation which cannot but have discredit upon its originators. Had Mr. Morphy or his friends simply required evidence to recall his playing with me to his mind I would gladly have given it; but I shrink from inquiring into the motive of an assertion as erroneous as it is heedless, and feel an royal repugnance to a discussion in the spirit of the paragraph. I have referred to. A regard for truth, however, compels me to expose what I hardly know how to characterise.

Believe me, Sir, faithfully yours,

9, Hales-place, South Lambeth, London, March 27, 1860. FRED. DEACON.

THE FARM.

The announcement that the Royal Agricultural Society intend to hold their 1861 meeting in Yorkshire has roused the people of Doncaster into action at once. The Mayor summoned his Corporation forces to the council chamber, and £300 was unanimously voted, and a canvass of the town and neighbourhood for subscriptions planned forthwith. Independently of the rich and spirited agricultural district in which it is situated, Doncaster can furnish facilities for a successful meeting equal if not superior to any town in England. It is on the line of the Great Northern railway, of which it is the principal plant, and connected with Sheffield and the midland counties by the South Yorkshire line. Moor, of such rich St. Leger renown, furnishes an arena which it is impossible to surpass either in point of convenience or extent; and the town itself also possesses the singular property of immediately "starting" any sort of accommodation. In nearly every place which the Society has visited hitherto the great outcry has been that lodgings were dreadfully scarce and bad; in fact, that people were not accustomed to let, and therefore did not know how. Doncaster has not to the habit of receiving three to four thousand lodgers for their race week every autumn.

With the exception of Colonel Duncombe's, of Waresley Park, St. Neot's, there is no shorthorn sale on Mr. Stafford's list for next month. The Colonel's annual sale takes place on the 22nd, and a good and bred from some of the choicest herds, and crossed with bulls from Lord Leconfield, Mr. Booth, Mr. Mason Forsyth, and other famous breeders. The sale is fixed for Wednesday, the 16th. We are sorry to hear that Duchess 70th, the dam of Duchess 77th, has produced a dead bull calf—not much loss to Cruickshank, now that Duchess bulls can hardly be had fast enough to supply the applications from hirers. At the present that pure shorthorns of this blood are anything but deficient in milking powers, Duchess 70th is said to have yielded twenty-six quarts of milk per day, and to have done so for a day recently upon cut straw and pulped mangel. Duchess 77th, 78th, and 80th are also in milk at their Canterbury trailing, the latter, perhaps, leading, to most visitors. Duchess 80th is a very handsome roan, and a good yearling bull calf to breed her in her class. Mr. Atherton, of Speke, has purchased Nanny, another Liverpool shorthorn cow, from Mr. Stafford. This prize breeder has sold his bull Lubbehe (who was bred by Mr. Bolden, and got him by Mr. Booth's 2nd prize bull) to Mr. Gurney, now of Speke, as well as eight females, with a great deal of blood in them, to form the nucleus of a new herd. The Sussex men have also caught the spirit, and Mr. Rigden, of Worthing, is augmenting, as the gentlemen, are compiling a Sussex herd-book.

The Hon. and Rev. Sidney Godolphin Osborne has resigned the secretary of the Birmingham Cattle and Poultry Show, which is quite a midland counties institution, and which, last year, sold of a large number, was Professor Tanner, whom he beat by 16 to 11.

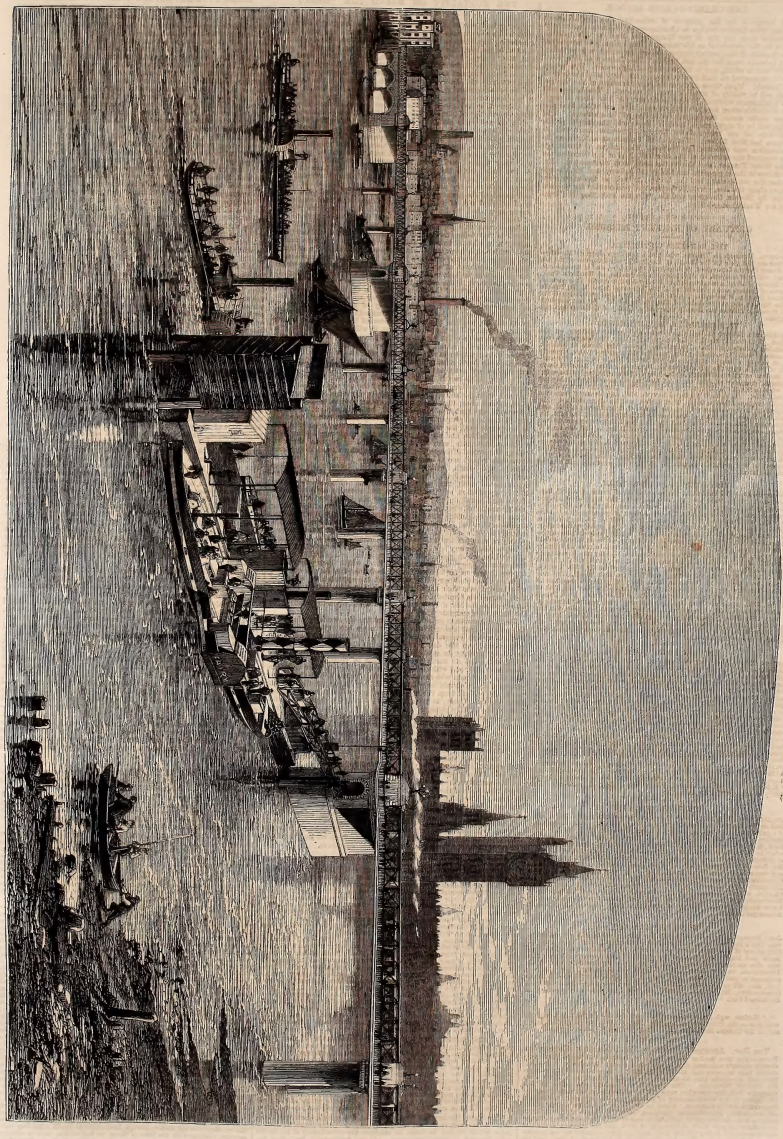
Professor Nesbit's guano pamphlet has attracted no small attention, and has already reached a circulation of nearly 40,000. It invites guano is into three classes:—First, those which suffer but little from atmospheric influences, such as Peruvian and Ichaboe guano. There are seven kinds, including the Ichaboe, in the second class, which comprises those which are less but much of their soluble ingredients. The third class is seventeen strong, and numbers such as have lost nearly all their ammonia, and contain but little more than the earthy phosphates of lime and magnesia. Speaking of the Peruvian, the Professor observes:—"The Chincha Islands lie in the Pacific Ocean, about twelve miles from the coast of Peru, between 13° and 14° south latitude, in a district within which no rain falls, where the air is dry, and the sun shines with vehement power. The waters of the surrounding ocean are unusually abound of fish. Myriads of birds, after daily satisfying their voracious appetites upon the many streams of fish which swarm there, make the islands their roosting-place and nightly abode, and the receptacle of their fecal offerings. From the air which is dry and the sun which is hot nearly all has been speedily evaporated from their ordure, decomposition has been arrested, and by gradual accumulation from time immemorial these extraordinary deposits have reached the depth, in many parts, of one hundred feet."

The Peruvian Islands are at present very full of the advantages of herring-brine as a manure. It is said to be specially suited to land rich in carbonaceous matter, and vigorous growth of corn and grass, effectually protects it from smut. For beetroot intended for cattle it may be used with advantage, but not where sugar is to be extracted.

IMPERIAL SHOOTING EXCURSION IN THE FOREST OF FONTAINEBLEAU.

Of all the forests in France that of Fontainebleau is undoubtedly the finest, but of the total number of acres (35,000 more or less), one by reason of the picturesque beauty of the various sites, which have rendered it the favourite resort of artists. Its modern name is derived, taken from the town situated in its midst, is derived from a spring of water formerly existing there, and which was so refreshing to thirsty huntsmen as to call forth the exclamation of "Fontaine belle Eau." Rich in vegetation, for almost every kind of tree, plant, and flower grows there in its natural luxuriant associations, for it was inhabited by Regal personages as far back as the tenth century; and in modern times has received the patronage of more than one King. Under the reign cation of Napoleon I., have rendered it celebrated—an excursion to Fontainebleau has always offered a charm to persons visiting the French capital, which has never disappointed them. The lover of Nature is sure to be delighted with the rich variety of its productions, and the lover of the chase finds there an unlimited scope for his Muse; and the lover of history will discover in the records of its château, names of the most illustrious French Sovereign, from the days of good King Robert down to the present time.

It is rare, indeed, that any foreign Prince or Sovereign visiting Paris does not visit Fontainebleau, and on his tour to Compiègne and the Prince of Orange during his late visit to the Emperor Napoleon did not forget to include it in his route, in spite of the state of the weather, during the middle of January last. But then Fontainebleau is charming under every aspect: the summer sun, the winter wind, the thunderbolt—even the snow—which in Northern Parts sets only varies the enchantment of the view. So the Prince, accompanied by his suite, left Compiègne on the 17th ult. for Fontainebleau to see the château and for a day's shooting in company. A special train was provided for the royal travellers, and after having gone hastily over the palace, went to the preserves for the enjoyment of the sport.



Our artist has given an idea of this Imperial and Royal shooting excursion which has an air of novelty about it that will no doubt astonish the Parisians. The guns for shooting are situated at a short distance from the palace, which is seen in the perspective to the left, leading to them by the Porte des Four, also shown in our Engraving. On the right hand of our illustration are the Royal Guests, who, with their guns under the arm, hand gamekeeper, whose duty it is to pass them to the Prince and Emperor. The said guns are loaded by cavalry sub-officers, and the huntsmen are in the usual hunting costume, with the exception of the costume. Another gamekeeper is holding the beautiful Newfoundland dog which belonged to the late Duchesse Hélène Killed by the Prince and his guest. On the left is a peasant who is charged with the collection of the spoils of the day, and on the right, in the place them in a cart, in which they are conveyed to a spot of ground reserved is made the tableau or exhibition of all the hares, rabbits, pheasants, &c., that have been killed. Our Engraving represents the commencement of the shooting, the moment when the Prince of Orange, in company with the Emperor, has fired the first shot, as a mark of honour to the first shot. His Majesty was in the ordinary costume of a private gentleman, his head-gear being the convenient wideawake generally worn by him on similar occasions.

It is almost needless to observe that the Imperial stag-hunts at Fontainebleau take place in the open forest, where the bugle-horn has echoed many a time during the right Royal and right Imperial chaces that have been witnessed on its hills and dales.

WILD BOARS, it would seem, are almost as numerous in some parts of Prussia as rabbits elsewhere. At a great boar-hunt which took place at Gurcsang (Glee), a short time ago, and which lasted several days, 74 of these animals were killed. The last day of last week alone were killed in the forests of Gorey and St. Gobain; on the following day, three more; on the next, twelve; then three, and on the last of all six more.

THE EMPEROR NAPOLEON AND THE PRINCE OF ORANGE SHOOTING IN THE FOREST OF FONTAINEBLEAU.—SEE PRECEDING PAGE.

CHARING-CROSS RAILWAY BRIDGE.—SEE NEXT PAGE.

THE CHARING-CROSS BRIDGE.

THIS bridge is for the purpose of extending the South-Eastern Railway from London-bridge to Charing-cross, where a station will be erected upon the site of the Hungerford Market. The station will be on the same level as the Strand. The bridge is to be erected upon the site of the present Suspension-bridge, which will be taken down to make room for the new bridge. The Thames at this point is 1350 feet in width, and in 30 feet deep at high water. The bridge is to be supported on cast-iron columns sunk deep into the bed of the Thames. Upon these columns the superstructure of the bridge, which will be wholly of wrought iron, is to rest. The bridge will have a headway with of 70 feet sufficient for four lines of rails, with footpaths seven feet in width on each side, on which the passenger from the London-bridge will be conveyed. The entire bridge will be of eight spans, each 154 feet; and the height of the under side of the bridge above Trinity high-water mark will be nowhere less than 26 feet. The Act of Parliament authorising its construction was obtained last Session. The designs of the bridge have been prepared under the authority and by the superintendence of the River Thames, and the works have been commenced. Mr. Hawkshaw is the engineer for the bridge and the rail-way, and Messrs. Wythes the contractor: but the bridge, as well as the other iron bridges along the line, are to be constructed and erected for the contractor by Messrs. Fairbairn and Co., who are executing the iron-work for Westminster-bridge.

OBITUARY OF EMINENT PERSONS.

THE BARONESS DE TUYSSIEU.

HENRIETTA, Baroness De Tuyssieu, died a few days since at Hastings: whither she had gone for the benefit of her health, was daughter of the late Mr. Henry Pocock, of Bere Ferrers, Devonshire, and Bere Court, Berkshire, Sussex, and was married, in 1814, to James De Tuyssieu, of Woodcote Park, near Epsom, Surrey, and Upper Deptford, Deputy Lieutenant for that county, a Baron of France, and a descendant of the Tuissieu of Nice. M. De Tuyssieu accompanied the Duke of Savoy to Turin in 1815, with a commission of the Prince Regent, and at the desire of King Louis XVIII. By her marriage with Baron de Tuyssieu the deceased had a family of five sons and one daughter.

VICE-ADMIRAL R. RIDDELL CARRE.

VICE-ADMIRAL Robert Riddell Carre, who died rather suddenly on the 1st inst., aged 72, at his residence, Albion-hall, Cavers-Carre, Roxburghshire, was descended paternally from a branch of the ancient house of Riddell, Riccarton (Riddell), whose representative is Sir John Buchanan Riddell, Bart., of Cavers, a branch of the renowned border family of Ker, of Ferniehirst, of which the Earl of Lothian, Lord Ker, and Admiral Lord Walter Kerr was the son of Thomas Riddell, of Cassieston, Roxburghshire, by his wife, Elizabeth, daughter of John Carre, of Cavers, whose estates he inherited and whose surname he assumed, and he was the grandson of Sir Walter Riddell, Bart. He entered the Royal Navy in 1796, and during his career was actively employed in the Baltic, East Indies, and on other stations. He was present in the Baltic in 1808, 09, and 10, including the battle of Basque Roads, and commanded the Bristorat the bombardment of Algiers, in 1816, for which service he received a medal. He was made Rear-Admiral and Post Captain, and in 1846 accepted the retirement, attaining, in 1851, the rank of Rear-Admiral of the United Kingdom. He was a man of great bodily strength, as excellent officer and thorough disciplinarian, and in private life was remarkable for his kindness and generosity. He is succeeded in the property of Cavers-Carre by his nephew, Walter Riddell, Esq., of Bushey, Herts, who, pursuant to his Admiral's directions, assumes the surname and arms of Carre, of Cavers.

VICE-ADMIRAL JAMES MURRAY.

Two members of the Royal Family have been deprived by death of a very lately died. They were first cousins, and were the Right Rev. George Murray, D.D., Bishop of Rochester, of whom a memoir was recently given in this Journal; and Vice-Admiral James Arthur Murray, who died on the 6th inst. at his house in the only road of Kensington Gardens. He was son of John, third Duke of Atholl, grandson of the first Duke, whose father, John, first Earl of Atholl, married Amelia Sophia, daughter of the Duke of Ingestre) of James Stanley, seventh Earl of Derby, of whose Royal descent an account was given in the number of this Journal for the 18th of June last. He married, first, the 18th of December, 1821, Harriet, youngest daughter of William Chaplin, Esq., of Blankney, by whom he had issue. She died the 1st of July, 1839; he had, with a daughter, now Mrs. Fellows, a son, Lieut. James Murray, R.N., who was killed leading the boats of the Naval Brigade in action on the 18th June, 1855. Vice-Admiral Murray married, secondly, the 3rd of May, 1854, Augusta, youngest daughter of the late Admiral Sir Thomas Hall, Hants, by whom he leaves two sons and four daughters. He entered the Royal Navy early in life, and, after active and honorable service, became a Vice-Admiral in 1857.

CAPTAIN HENRY CONN, R.N.

CAPTAIN Henry Conn, late of Tremount-cottage, who expired at his residence in South Shelgarvan, on the 6th inst., entered the Royal Navy as midshipman at the age of 14, under the auspices of his maternal uncle, the late Lord Nelson: that his lordship measured him against his cocked hat. Henry Conn's early active experience before the mast included many hairbreadth escapes, having been engaged in that deadly but less well-known struggle of the Union against the rebellion of 1798, and having assisted by pistol shot in keeping the majority of the officers and men of the Jason were killed and wounded. Conn became a lieutenant in 1805, was the only officer of the Jason left by Conon, who had served Lord Nelson as his Flag Captain in the Victory, who commanded the Jason at Copenhagen, volunteered to take command of the bowstrer boats in the perilous night attack on the Boulogne flotilla, and led the boarders in the fierce action at Trafalgar, having on that occasion, with Spanish 74, the San Juan, one of the only four prizes that were secured after that fight. Captain Henry Conn, the subject of this memoir, was the grandson of the Rev. Isaac Nelson, Rector of Moilone, a collateral branch of the family of the great naval hero, and was a son of the late Rev. Archibald Conn, General John Speare, of Stonelaw, Scotland, and cousin of the late Thomas J. Knowlys, Esq., of Highfield Tower, in the county of Lancaster. The family of Conn is of Irish extraction.

CHARLES ROSS, ESQ.

CHARLES Ross, Esq., one of the Commissioners of the Audit Board, who died on the 23rd inst., at his residence, 69, Portland-place, was the only son of a gallant soldier, who fell at the head of the Guards under Ross, by which Spanish 74, the San Juan, one of the only four prizes that were secured after that fight. Captain Henry Conn, the subject of this memoir, was the grandson of the Rev. Isaac Nelson, Rector of Moilone, a collateral branch of the family of the great naval hero, and was a son of the late Rev. Archibald Conn, General John Speare, of Stonelaw, Scotland, and cousin of the late Thomas J. Knowlys, Esq., of Highfield Tower, in the county of Lancaster. The family of Conn is of Irish extraction.

CHARLES ROSS, ESQ.

CHARLES Ross, Esq., one of the Commissioners of the Audit Board, who died on the 23rd inst., at his residence, 69, Portland-place, was the only son of a gallant soldier, who fell at the head of the Guards under Ross, by which Charles, second and last Marquis Cornwallis, and sister of the late Lady Braybrooke and Mrs. Mildmay, of St. Germans, and of Lord Cornwallis, who leaves issue. Mr. Ross lost one of his sons, a most promising officer, before Sebastopol in 1855.

JOHN STEWART, ESQ.

JOHN STEWART, Esq., formerly and for many years M.P. for Lymington, who died a few days since, at the age of seventy, was well known in the City as one of the founders of the London and Westminster Joint-stock Bank and Deputy-Chairman of the Universal Life Assurance Society; he was also a magistrate for the New Forest district, and a deputy-lieutenant for Hampshire, on the Conservative interest, for which he sat in the House of Commons for Lymington from 1837 to 1841, but his election at the dissolution in 1847, and which afterwards sent to re-enter upon public life. Though a Conservative, Mr. Stewart steadily supported the free-trade measures of Sir Robert Peel.

* Notices, with arms, will be given next week of the Earl of Longford, who died on the 24th inst., of Lord Stanley of Alderley, who died on the 31st inst., and of Sir Charles Monteleon Lamb, Bart., who died on the 21st inst.

THE REV. ARCHER GURNEY AND THE ENGLISH CHURCH IN PARIS.—The Rev. Archer Gurney will be compelled to leave Paris very shortly unless some sum can be raised among his friends in this country to enable him to carry out his mission work. The details of the scheme proposed to enable him to remain are best explained in a letter from Sir Stafford Northcote. The right hon. Baronet, who acted as Mr. Gurney's first churchwarden, says, "What is needed for the maintenance of his church is the establishment of a committee who will make themselves responsible for its expenses. These he estimates as follows:—Rent, £200; stipend, £300; miscellaneous expenses, £100. The rent will be payable under a lease for two years, voidable in case of war. To meet these charges he reckons his seat rents at upwards of £150, and the offertory at £450, of which amount is to go to the poor, leaving a deficit of £350 to make up the income of the church. This his expenses may be taken at £600, and his estimated income at £450, leaving a balance of £150 to be provided by the liberality of Churchmen."

THE MORTALITY ON BOARD THE "GREAT TASMANIA."

"THEY order these things better in the East India Company's Service," used to be the expression common on every man's lips when, each succeeding day, there came from the Crimea eglomiser and a blacker account of the want of system, the mismanagement, the neglect, and the utter incompetency which characterised the Administration. The delegates of the Horse Guards, both in regard to military organisation and commissariat arrangements, during the Russian war, left no question if the state of things which prevailed in the trenches before Sebastopol and in the harbour of Balaclava fell short in point of heedlessness and in blunder of that which all this moment prevails at Calcutta, as evidenced in the manner in which the disbanded European force shipped at Bombay on board the Great Tasmania.

We do not mean either to doubt or deny the right of the East India Company to all the praise which at that period was lavished upon their system administration as compared with that of the home Government, for, however immoral or however cruel may have been their system of government in the Indian empire, there can no doubt that they treated well those who served them well, and hence it was that, as a rule, they secured for their service the best, the best up fair and market for men, the Company's sergeant was always able to carry away from them the very pick of the home and muscle of the country, and—what in the organisation of an army is of equal if not of paramount importance—the best-conducted young men. So have regard to this fact that from the ranks of their Imperial successors the state of things which gave to the Indian service its high popularity as compared with the service of the Crown is fast fading away, and will, unless vigorous and energetic measures be adopted to check the progress of evil, soon be a matter of history and become a fable to myth. It is impossible to read the evidence lately given before the coroner's jury on the Great Tasmania case, at Liverpool, and all the more since that it corroborates the evidence during the war we have mentioned led to far greater issue than in the case of the Great Tasmania, to come to any other conclusion than to take root upon the banks of the Hooghly; and in the dilatory plea of the Secretary of Affairs to the Indian empire to endeavour to shift the blame of his predecessor from the responsibility of a culpable, if not a criminal, blunder. Indeed, we are persuaded that if we are to arrive at a correct estimate of the circumstances of the case, a full, complete and so artistic will be the shuffling that it will be as difficult to discover the real culprit as it was to discover the pea in the shell under which thimble the adroit roger has deposited the pea, and for this reason we are willing to entertain somewhat the opinion which we have already alluded. In that verdict we find both extremes and exculpation.

With regard to the first place, state that the provisions supplied by the Government as stores for the use of the troops were bad, or rather, that they were unfit for use. Thus, pork, peas, pickles, and rice; that there was an entire absence of proper disinfectants, and that the linsyloes had, instead of being a means of preventing infection, been the very reverse, and they very naturally conclude that as the putrid beef, the maggot-eaten and blue-moulded biscuits, the rancid butter, the bad rice, the fetid pickles, were unfit for food to the unfortunate men for a voyage of four months' duration passed through the hands of the Government officers, the general inspection report are to be held accountable for all the horrors of disease and death which have resulted from their carious and evil conduct. With this position before us we have been unconcerted with the system which has obtained the dam-nable notoriety of "Circular Notes" for the Indian service. Indeed, if the case rested only on the passing of the linsyloes, which had lost its sanitary properties, and which had been passed by the inspecting officers with the severest censure, if not with actual punishment, when it is considered that five feet on board a ship is allowed for each man, that 2,000 souls have been on board every a body of men penned together within a narrow space, from which it was impossible to escape, and that the disease which prevailed, and is the blame which rests upon those inspecting officers when we find that almost every single article of food which was passed by their immediate dismissal, and it is to be regretted that they cannot be visited with the full penalty consequent on the charge of indictment for manslaughter.

There is a constant grumble heard among the working classes of this country that the criminals in our gaols are better fed, better clothed, and in general better taken care of than are the honest paupers in the workhouses. We are not aware that this has ever been refuted by poverty to seek the chill asylum of the workhouse; and the same remark is now applicable to the case of the Sepoy. It is the same spirit, and with the same amount of justice, we complain that the brave men who assisted in saving to the British Crown the empire of India should have been, whilst being accomplished their work, shipped off from the scene of their glory like so many negroes from the coast of Africa, and packed away in the hold of a ship in a manner that almost every single article of food which was passed by their immediate dismissal, and it is to be regretted that they cannot be visited with the full penalty consequent on the charge of indictment for manslaughter.

There is a constant grumble heard among the working classes of this country that the criminals in our gaols are better fed, better clothed, and in general better taken care of than are the honest paupers in the workhouses. We are not aware that this has ever been refuted by poverty to seek the chill asylum of the workhouse; and the same remark is now applicable to the case of the Sepoy. It is the same spirit, and with the same amount of justice, we complain that the brave men who assisted in saving to the British Crown the empire of India should have been, whilst being accomplished their work, shipped off from the scene of their glory like so many negroes from the coast of Africa, and packed away in the hold of a ship in a manner that almost every single article of food which was passed by their immediate dismissal, and it is to be regretted that they cannot be visited with the full penalty consequent on the charge of indictment for manslaughter.

There is a constant grumble heard among the working classes of this country that the criminals in our gaols are better fed, better clothed, and in general better taken care of than are the honest paupers in the workhouses. We are not aware that this has ever been refuted by poverty to seek the chill asylum of the workhouse; and the same remark is now applicable to the case of the Sepoy. It is the same spirit, and with the same amount of justice, we complain that the brave men who assisted in saving to the British Crown the empire of India should have been, whilst being accomplished their work, shipped off from the scene of their glory like so many negroes from the coast of Africa, and packed away in the hold of a ship in a manner that almost every single article of food which was passed by their immediate dismissal, and it is to be regretted that they cannot be visited with the full penalty consequent on the charge of indictment for manslaughter.

HOE'S TYPE-REVOLVING PRINTING-MACHINE.

WHAT the printing-machine is to the handpress Hoe's type-revolving machine is to all other printing-machines, and the proprietors of those newspapers which enjoy a large circulation have gladly availed themselves of its use. As an instance of the rapidity with which it throws off copies, and of its consequent value in the specialty of newspaper printing, it may be stated that before the introduction of the "Hoe" into the office of the ILLUSTRATED LONDON NEWS, though we had in use the best machinery then known, the forms of this Journal had to be set up in duplicate, sometimes in triplicate, to meet the demand, and at the same time to give the type time to the period of publication, and even with those extraordinary efforts the supply kept pace with the demand. The rear of the machine, kept by the aid of "Hoe" a greatly-increased demand is in general promptly met, for, as will be seen by the following remarks, the machine possesses, so far as the printing is concerned, between newspapers and those publications which do not require the topics of the day to be set up after, however great may be their sale, can be printed by the slowest-going machines in sufficient numbers simply by the form being put to press for a sufficient period; while the power of the newspaper it is a matter of hour—sometimes, indeed, of minutes only—for the machine to be kept open to the very possible moment, in order that they may contain some account of the last "dreadful accident" or Reuter's latest telegram. Hence the importance of a fast-going machine for newspaper printing.

The type-revolving printing-machine was invented by Colonel Richard M. Hoe in 1846, and patented in 1847. It is the same indicates, on the rotary principle; that is, the form of type is placed on the surface of a horizontal type-revolving cylinder of seven feet and a half in diameter. The form occupies a segment of only about one fourth of the surface of the cylinder, and the remainder is used as an ink-distributing surface. Upon this main cylinder, and parallel with it, are placed smaller impression-cylinders. The large cylinder being put in motion, each of the impression-cylinders is carried successively to all of the impression-cylinders, at each of which a sheet is presented, and receives the impression of the type as the form passes. Thus as many sheets are printed at each revolution of the main cylinder as there are impression-cylinders around it. One sheet is required for each impression-cylinder to supply the sheets of paper, which are taken at the proper moment by fingers or grippers, and after having received the impression of the type, are laid in heaps by means of self-acting flyers, thereby discharging with the greatest regularity and precision the sheets to receive in the sheets. The grippers hold the sheet securely, so that the thinnest newspapers may be printed without waste. The ink is contained in a fountain beneath the main cylinder, and is conveyed by means of distributing-rollers to the distributing surface on the main cylinder. The rollers are about four inches in diameter, then the form of types, passes by the impression-cylinder without touching it, but the ink-distributing-cylinder to supply the ink-taking-rollers, which receive their supply of ink from the distributing surface of the main cylinder and ink the form as it passes under them, after which it is in advance to the distributing surface. Each page of the paper is locked up on a detached segment of the large cylinder, which segments are in all eight. The main cylinder runs parallel with the shaft of the cylinder, and are consequently straight, while the head, shoulder, and dash-rules are curved to the segment of a circle. The column-rules are in the form of a wedge, with the thin part directed towards the axis of the cylinder, so as to fit the segment. The wedge-shaped column-rules and quoins are held down to the bed by tongues, projecting at intervals along their length, and which are locked by a key-quoin at each end of the face of the bed. The spaces in the grooves between the column-rules are accurately filled with blocks of metal, even with the surface of the bed, the ends of which blocks are cut away underneath to receive a projection on the side of the tongues of the column-rules. The bed is held in its place by means of screws at the ends of the bed and sides, by which the type is held as securely as in the ordinary printing-machine. The bed is moved to and fro by means of a rack and pinion, which is driven by the ability of the feeders to supply the sheets.

Colonel Hoe's invention was the first successful attempt to print, on the rotary principle, with ordinary types made up on a cylindrical surface. The great success of the greatest invention, originality, durability of machinery, and economy of labour.

The Sun Printing-Office, New York, a newspaper offices designed and built for the purpose, by Messrs. Arding and Son, of Dorset-street, by a ten-cylinder type-revolving machine, manufactured by Messrs. R. Hoe and Co., of New York, capable of printing twenty-five thousand impressions an hour can be worked by this ten-feeder machine. The Sun Printing and Publishing Company, by the aid of their long, twelve feet wide, and eighteen feet high: it weighs upwards of thirty tons, was brought to the site contiguous to the premises, and erected, in an unprecedentedly short space of time, by the zealous exertions and under the active superintendence of Mr. William Clement, who has the machinery for driving the above has been designed and manufactured by the Messrs. Symons and Co., engineers, of Southwark Bridge-road, Surrey, and consists of a pair of beam engines of twenty-five-horse power combined, the steam being supplied by two large boilers on the premises. The motion is communicated from the engine crankshaft by a spur flywheel of ten feet diameter, which works into a pinion on the driving-shaft of the machine. This shaft is fixed to the main shaft, to which is connected the entire machinery throughout the establishment.

MR. C. BIDDLE, M.P. for Kidderminster, has presented to the library of the Natural Institution society of them 100 volumes, elegantly bound, of choice and standard historical, poetical, and literary works.

A hall was given last night, at the Temperance Institute Hall, Sheffield, by Lieutenant-Colonel Lightfoot and the officers of the 5th Yorkshire Light Infantry Volunteers, to the lasteners and finishers employed by the inhabitants of Sheffield towards them from the period of their being disbanded in 1815 to the present time.

PROPOSED STATUE TO LUTHER AT WORMS.—A letter from Worms states that a second appeal by the committee charged with the erection of a statue to Luther at Worms has been responded to by a contribution from the Grand Duke of Aldenburg and Baden, who has remit 150 florins; the Grand Duchess, 100 florins; the Queen of Prussia, 100 florins; the Grand Duchess, 100 florins; the Queen of Saxony; and the Prince of Prussia, 50 florins. Among the other contributors are Baron Von Schwarzing-Sandenstaen, 40 gulden; and Baron Von Rothschild, 100 florins. The Grand Duke of Hesse has further called his renowned Swiss in which he denounced the errors of Romanism.

"CHOICE EXTRACTS FROM THE ANSWERS" AT OXFORD UNIVERSITY.—In the memoirs of Anthony Ashley Cooper, first Earl of Shaftesbury, recently published by Messrs. Cassell and Co., we find that the Lord Chancellor is recorded, by which it would appear that he held and confident opinion, that the Oxford University examinations were a failure. Having in a good cause or otherwise, found their first field of action in his freshmen's answers at the Oxford University examinations, the examiners of the whole party were cheerfully engaged. Then it stood that the Lord Chancellor's son, Lord Ashley, was in the hall, and, my Lord of Pembroke's son, Lord Herbert, was in the same hall, and Lord Ashley, in the course of the examination, sent the signal, striking him a box on the ear, and instantly the freshmen fell on, and we sadly cleared the benches. The wall, bachelors and young masters coming in to assist the examiners, were compelled to retreat to a ground chamber in the quadrangle, where, pressing at the door, some of the shortest and strongest of my freshmen, giant like boys, opened the door, let in as many as they passed, and shut the door by main strength against the rest; those let in they held open and had beaten very severely, but their authority with those without them, some of them being considerable enough to make terms for peace which they did, for Dr. Pritchard being called out to suppress the mutiny, the old doctor, always favourable to youth offering out of the hall window, and the mutiny was at an end. Then was a calm of freedom for what had passed, and an utter abolition in that college of that foolish custom."

THE AGRICULTURAL ENGINEERS' COMPANY (Limited), Swan-lane, Upper Thames-street, London. Established for the SALE of AGRICULTURAL IMPLEMENTS—Steam Engines—Railway and Contractors' Plant—Hydraulic Engines—Mining Machinery—Brick and Tile Machines—Sawing Machinery, and every description of Tools and Machines. Prices and full information upon application.

THE IRON BRIDGE ASSOCIATION, 58, Pall-mall, London, manufacture and erect Iron Bridges, Piers, and Wharfs of every description. Agents wanted in California, Chili, Demerara, Jamaica, Peru, Trinidad, and Venezuela.

MONUMENTS, TOMBS, CHIMNEY-PIECES, &c.—The largest STOCK of MANUFACTURED MARBLE in Europe on view at the British and Foreign Marble Galleries, 17, Newman-street. Manufactories—Carrara, Brussels, and 17, Newman-street, Oxford-street.
EDWARDES, EDWARDS, and Co., Proprietors.

THE NEW BREAD MANUFACTURE.— Applications for information respecting Licenses may be made to Messrs. PEEK, FREAN, and CO., Dockhead, S.E.; and, respecting Machinery and the Foreign Patents, to Messrs. BARRETT, EXALL, and ANDREWES, Reading.

GREEN'S PRIZE LAWN-MOWER.— Thomas Green, Smithfield Ironworks, Leeds; and 2, Victoria-street, Holborn-hill, London has for the last three years at all the Agricultural and Horticultural Shows in the Kingdom carried off every prize. His New PATENT NOISELESS MACHINE for 1860 is perfection itself. Illustrated price-lists can be had on application to either establishment.

FLOWER SEEDS.—Twelve Varieties, judiciously assorted, with hints for their successful management, post-free for fourteen stamps; thirty sorts for 2s. 6d.—Address, W. H. REYNOLDS, 6, Packington-street, Islington, N.

NEW DWARF BEDDING TROPÆOLUMS. Tom Thumb, yellow, price per packet, 1s.; Tom Thumb, beauty-spotted, price per packet, 1s.; Tom Thumb, scarlet, per packet, 6d. For further particulars see Carter's "Gardener's Vade Mecum," forwarded free of charge, on application to JAMES CARTER and CO., 237 and 238, High Holborn, London.

REDUCTION of TEN POUNDS PER TON in the price of THORLEY'S FOOD for CATTLE on and after the 1st of APRIL, 1860. Barrels containing 448 Feeds, weighing net 112lb., with measure, 4'ʼs. each. Cases containing 448 Feeds, weighing net 112lb., in packets, 4'ʼs. each. Carriage paid to any Railway Station in the Kingdom.

Nutritive Value.. .. .. £ 15
Condimental Value 125
Total .. .. .. £140 per ton.

Showing a profit of £130 per ton through the use of this invaluable compound, adapted for the seasoning of all kinds of food for animals. Agents required in every Town where none are already appointed. Joseph Thorley, the Inventor and Sole Proprietor. Offices, 77, Newgate-street, London. A Pamphlet sent free by post on application.

FOREIGN WINES and SPIRITS at the reduced duties. French Claret from 26s. per dozen; Champagne, 36s.; Crusted Port, 36s.; Sherry, 24s.; Standard Sherry, 36s.; Brandy, 31s. Four dozen, for cash, carriage free.—FOSTER and INGLE, 45, Cheapside.

REDUCTION OF THE WINE DUTIES.
ROYAL VICTORIA SHERRY
(the Standard of Excellence),
27s. per dozen, Bottles and Cases included.
EUROPEAN AND COLONIAL WINE COMPANY,
122, Pall-mall, London, S.W.
WM. REID TIPPING, Manager.

ABERDEEN TONGUES from the HIGHLAND BULLOCKS.—These Tongues, though less in size, are much superior in quality to any others. Price 4s. House and Grass Lamb, at per quarter. Clun Forest Mutton, four years old, small, of high character, saddles 9d. per lb. legs 10d.
LIDSTONE and CO., Butchers, 110, New Bond-street, W.

HEWITT'S LARGE CHINESE WAREHOUSE, 18, Fenchurch-street, City, and Baker street, Bazaar, with special Buyers at Canton, Hong-Kong, and Shanghaie.

PEEK, FREAN, and CO.'S AERATED LUNCH, HOUSEHOLD, and RIFLE BISCUITS, Manufactured by Dr. Dauglish's patent process, may now be obtained from all dealers in town and country.

T. KINGSFORD and SON'S
OSWEGO PREPARED CORN, for Puddings, Custards, Blanc-Mange, Cakes, &c., is the Original Preparation of Indian Corn, manufactured at Oswego, State of New York, United States,
Was honourably mentioned at the Great Exhibition, Hyde Park
ALSO
Received a Gold Medal at New York State Fair, 1851.
Wholesale Agents, ROBINSON, BELLVILLE, and CO., London.

BROWN AND POLSON'S
PATENT CORN FLOUR.
The "Lancet" states
"This is superior to anything of the kind known."
The most wholesome part of the best Indian Corn, prepared by a process patented for the three Kingdoms and France, and wherever it becomes known obtains great favour for Puddings, Custards, and Blancmange; all the uses of the finest arrowroot, and especially suited to the delicacy of Children and Invalids.—Brown and Polson, Manufacturers to her Majesty the Queen, Ironmonger-lane, London.

ROBINSON'S PATENT BARLEY, for making quickly and at small cost superior Barley Water cooling in fevers, or for mothers nursing, and eminently nutritious as Infants' Food.
ROBINSON'S PATENT GROATS, the most-esteemed and best-known preparation for making pure gruel; persons of weak digestion or constipative habit would derive benefit from its use.
ROBINSON'S PURE SCOTCH OATMEAL for porridge and oat-cake, especially recommended as a strengthening food for youth.
ROBINSON, BELLVILLE, and CO., Purveyors to the Queen, 64, Red Lion street, Holborn London. Established 1764.

COCOA.—TAYLOR BROTHERS' PATENT LENTILIZED COCOA is pronounced by Professor Letheby and Dr. Hassall to be superior in nutritious element to all others. See their Reports Printed on the Labels of each Canister.
Sold by all Grocers at 1s. 6d. per lb.

EPPS'S HOMŒOPATHIC COCOA.—Its delicious aroma, grateful smoothness, and invigorating power render it a desirable beverage for Breakfast, Luncheon, or Supper. Sold in 1lb., ½lb., and ¼lb. packets, at 1s. 6d. per lb., by Grocers. Each packet is labelled "James Epps, Homœopathic Chemist, London."

£10,000 DAMAGES.—The Proprietors of the GLENFIELD PATENT STARCH hereby caution Grocers, Druggists, Chandlers, &c., against selling any imitation of their Starch, as by a decision, in Chancery, of the Master of the Rolls, Wotherspoon v. Turner (see "Times," and other London daily papers, of the 26th of November, 1859), they are equally liable to the above penalty with the makers of the spurious article.

LEAP YEAR.—PIESSE and LUBIN'S New BOUQUET for the Season 1860.
"In Leap Year they have power to choose,
The men no charter to refuse."—Chaucer.
This and a thousand other sweet scents for choice in bottles, 2s. 6d. each.
2, New Bond-street, W. [Copyright.]

CAUTION to LADIES.—The only genuine KALYDOR is ROWLAND'S, so universally esteemed for its improving and beautifying effects on the Complexion and Skin. All other preparations under the title of "Kalydor," "Kalydor Soap," "Kalydor Lotion," &c., are impositions, and contain not a particle of the ingredients of the genuine article, the preparation of which is confined solely to the knowledge and practice of
A. ROWLAND and SONS, 20, Hatton-garden, London.

FLUID BLACK WRITING INK—never thickens in the inkstand, permanently jet black, and produces copies by the machine—recommended for rapid writing, and adapted to climates of extreme heat or cold—in stone bottles, pints, 12s. dozen; quarts, 24s.; or packed in casks for exportation or the country, one dozen quarts, 25s.; two dozen, 50s.; three dozen, £3 12s. 6d.
NISSEN and PARKER, Engravers, Printers, Account-book Makers, Manufacturing and Exporting Stationers, 43, Mark-lane, London.

PRICHARD'S AROMATIC STEEL PILLS, for General Debility, giving energy to the muscles and nerves and invigorating the most shattered constitutions. Prepared by Wm. Prichard, 65, Charing-cross, S.W., in boxes 2s. 9d., 4s. 6d., and 11s.

PRICHARD'S DANDELION, CAMOMILE, RHUBARB, and GINGER PILLS, for Indigestion; mild in action, and certain in effect. Prepared by Wm. Prichard, 65, Charing-cross in bottles, 2s. 9d. and 4s. 6d. Of all Medicine Vendors.

BLIGHTS, MILDEW, BED-BUGS.— GISHURST COMPOUND, patented for preventing and destroying these and other pests—see "Gardener's Chronicle," "Cottage Gardener," and "Field." In boxes, 1s., 3s., 10s 6d. Retail of all Nursery and Seeds Men; wholesale of Price's Patent Candle Company.

WHAT WILL THIS COST TO PRINT? is a thought often occurring to literary minds, public characters, and persons of benevolent intentions. An immediate answer to the inquiry may be obtained, with a Specimen Book of Types, and information for Authors, on application to
RICHARD BARRETT, 13, Mark-lane, London.

CARDS FOR THE MILLION.—A Copper Plate Engraved in any style, 1s. Fifty Best Cards (any kind) printed for 1s., post-free.—ARTHUR GRANGER, Stationer, 308, High Holborn.

OPERA, RACE, and FIELD GLASSES, in every variety of style and mounting, at CALLAGHAN'S, 23A, New Bond-street (corner of Conduit-street). Prices from 30s. N.B. Sole agent for the celebrated Opera Glasses and Photographic Lenses made by Voigtländer, Vienna.

FOR FAMILY ARMS send Name and County to the HERALDIC OFFICE, 44, High Holborn, W.C. Sketch and Description, 2s. 6d.; in Colour, 5s.; on Vellum, 21s. Official Seals, Dies, and Diploma Plates in Mediæval and Modern Styles.

STAINED GLASS.—Your Arms, Crest, and Motto, size 18 in. by 11 in., 30s. Designs and Estimates for Memorial Windows, Monumental Brasses, Monograms, &c. Illustrated Price-lists post-free.—MORING, Heraldic Artist, High Holborn.

SOLID GOLD, 18-carat, Hall-marked, Sardonyx or Bloodstone RING, Engraved Crest, Two Guineas. Larger size Engraved Arms, Crest, and Motto, 75s. Desk-seals, Pencil-cases, &c.—MORING, 44, High Holborn, W.C.

FRODSHAM and BAKER, 81, Gracechurch-street, City, established 1800, Chronometer-makers to the Admiralty, Clockmakers to the Queen.—POCKET CHRONOMETERS, Duplex and Lever Watches, of the most improved construction, at moderate prices. Astronomical and other Clocks.

DENT'S CHRONOMETERS, WATCHES, and CLOCKS.—M. F. Dent, 33, Cockspur-street, Charing-cross, Watch, Clock, and Chronometer Maker by special appointment to her Majesty the Queen.—33, Cockspur-street, Charing-cross.

PLATE.—A. B. SAVORY and SONS, Manufacturing Silversmiths, 11 and 12, Cornhill, London, opposite the Bank. The best wrought SILVER SPOONS and FORKS, fiddle pattern, 7s. 4d. per ounce; Queen's pattern, 7s. 6d. per ounce. Many other patterns recently finished, plain or highly ornamented.

Fiddle Pattern.	Oz.	£ s. d.	Queen's Pattern.	Oz.	£ s. d.
12 Table Spoons..	30 ..	11 0 0	12 Table Spoons..	40 ..	15 0 0
12 Dessert ditto .	20 ..	7 6 8	12 Dessert ditto ..	25 ..	9 7 6
12 Table Forks ..	30 ..	11 0 0	12 Table Forks ..	40 ..	15 0 0
12 Dessert ditto ..	20 ..	7 6 8	12 Dessert ditto ..	25 ..	9 7 6
2 Gravy Spoons	10 ..	3 13 4	2 Gravy Spoons	12 ..	4 0 0
1 Soup Ladle ..	10 ..	3 13 4	1 Soup Ladle ..	11 ..	4 2 6
4 Sauce ditto ..	10 ..	3 18 4	4 Sauce ditto ..	12 ..	4 16 0
4 Salt Spoons (gilt) ..		1 0 0	4 Salt Spoons (gilt) ..		2 2 0
1 Fish Slice (pierced)..		2 10 0	1 Fish Slice (pierced)..		3 5 0
12 Tea Spoons ..	10 ..	3 18 4	12 Tea Spoons ..	14 ..	5 12 0
1 Pair Sugar Tongs ..		0 15 0	1 Pair Sugar Tongs ..		1 5 0

A pamphlet, with 260 Pictorial Illustrations, is published as a guide to the stock of silver, electro-silver, and Sheffield plate in the show-rooms. It contains the weights and prices of silver spoons and forks, silver tea and coffee services, and every article required in a family. Gratis and post free to any part of the British dominions.

P. and S. BEYFUS' £28 DINING-ROOM SUITE consists of Six mahogany chairs in morocco and hair.
One easy do., spring stuffed do.
Cabriole couch do. do.
Set telescope dining tables to dine 12 persons.
Superior sideboard, fitted with trays and cellaret-drawer,
City Furniture Warehouses, 91, 93, 95, City-road.

P. and S. BEYFUS' £35 DRAWING-ROOM SUITE consists of
Rosewood or Walnut Loo-table on pillar and claw;
Chiffonier, with marble top, plate-glass back and doors
Cabriole couch, covered in silk velvet or damask
Easy-chair en suite;
Six handsome chairs, ditto
Chimney-glass in gilt frame
Two papier-mâché chairs;
Handsome whatnot;
Elegant work-table, fitted
Occasional table.
City Furniture Warehouses, 91, 93, 95, City-road.

P. and S. BEYFUS' £26 BEDROOM SUITE consists of Superior mahogany bedstead, with rich damask furniture.
Palliasse and wool mattress;
Goose-feather bed, bolster, and pillows
Washstand, with marble top
Dressing-table, with ditto
British plate toilet-glass;
Mahogany towel-horse;
Four cane chairs;
Superior winged wardrobe
£4 servants' bedroom complete.
£7 Bachelor's bedroom complete.

P. and S. BEYFUS Pay the Carriage for Goods to any part of the Kingdom.
P. and S. BEYFUS warrant and exchange any article not approved.
P. and S. BEYFUS forward their complete Catalogue, Illustrated by 300 Engravings, gratis and post-free.—P. and S. Beyfus, City Furniture Warehouses, 91, 93, and 95, City-road.

ROBT. GREEN and CO., late of 204, Oxford-street.—Cheap Polished Deal and Painted FURNITURE, at a third less than usually charged elsewhere, of beautiful finish and design, at their extensive Premises, 19 Langham-place, Regent-street, Portland Bazaar.

ROBT. GREEN and CO., 19, Langham-place, Regent-street.—Before buying FURNITURE elsewhere, you are solicited to inspect their unrivalled stock. A beautiful suite of dark OAK FURNITURE secondhand, at half its original value.

ROBT. GREEN and CO., 19, Langham-place, Regent-street, has also ON SALE a superior suite of second-hand MAHOGANY DINING-ROOM FURNITURE in morocco, a great bargain, and worthy of immediate attention.

HEAL and SON'S NEW ILLUSTRATED CATALOGUE contains designs and prices of 150 articles of BEDROOM FURNITURE, as well as of 100 Bedsteads, and prices of every description of Bedding. Sent free by post.—Heal and Son, Bedstead, Bedding, and Bedroom Furniture Manufacturers, 196, Tottenham-court-road, W.

HANDSOME BRASS and IRON BED-STEADS.—HEAL and SON'S Show Rooms contain a large assortment of Brass Bedsteads, suitable both for Home use and for Tropical Climates; handsome Iron Bedsteads with Brass Mountings and elegantly Japanned; Plain Iron Bedsteads for Servants; every description of Wood Bedsteads that is manufactured, in Mahogany, Birch, Walnut-tree woods, Polished Deal and Japanned, all fitted with Bedding and Furniture complete, as well as every description of Bedroom Furniture.—Heal and Son, Bedstead, Bedding, and Bedroom Furniture Manufacturers, 196, Tottenham-court-road, W.

GARDNERS' LAMPS are the BEST.—The largest, most recherché, and cheapest assortment in London. Moderator Table Lamps, 5s. 6d. each. Lamps cleaned, repaired, and rendered equal to new. Gardners (by appointment to her Majesty), established 106 years, 453, Strand, Charing-cross, W.C.

FURNISH YOUR HOUSE WITH THE BEST ARTICLES; they are the cheapest in the end.—DEANE and CO.'s priced FURNISHING LIST may be had on application, or post free. This list, arranged to facilitate purchasers in the selection of goods, comprises Table Cutlery, Electro Plate, Lamps, Baths, Fenders, Fire-irons, Iron Bedsteads, Bedding, Britannia Metal, Copper, Tin, and Brass Goods, Culinary Utensils, Turnery, Brushes, Mats, &c.—Deane and Co. (opening to the Monument), London-bridge. Established A.D. 1700.

WASHING-MACHINE.—A New Patent. It washes on an entirely new principle, and cleanses so thoroughly that shirts or other linen require no hand-rubbing. Particulars free by post.—WILLIAMSON, Engineer, 133, High Holborn.

PAPERHANGINGS.—The cheapest house in London for every known style of PAPERHANGINGS is CROSS'S Wholesale Warehouse, 70, Great Portland-street, Oxford-street. Exporters supplied.

CHUBB'S WROUGHT-IRON FIREPROOF SAFES—all secured by their Gunpowder Proof Steel-plated Detector Locks, and Patent Drill Preventive. Illustrated Priced-Lists post-free.—CHUBB and SON, 57, St. Paul's Churchyard, E.C.

DON'T BEAT YOUR CARPETS: have them thoroughly cleansed from all impurities and the colours revived by patent process, 3d., 4d., &c., per yard. Lace, muslin, and damask curtains, chintzes, dimities, blankets, quilts, &c., beautifully finished. Dyeing in all its branches. Articles received from all parts of England. Price lists sent. Moderate charges. Fetched and returned in town in eight days.—METROPOLITAN STEAM BLEACHING and DYEING COMPANY Wharf-road, City-road, N.

DUTY OFF FRENCH SILKS. PETER ROBINSON, in anticipation of the Budget receiving the sanction of Parliament, bought through his Agent at Lyons several cases of CHEAP FRENCH SILKS, which he has now imported duty free.

New Spring Silks .. .. .. at One Guinea the Full Dress
Checks and Stripes .. .. .. £1 5s. 9d. "
Plaid Gros de Naples .. .. .. £1 7s. 9d. "
New Jasper Silks .. .. .. £1 9s. 6d. "
Chené Silks .. .. £1 9s. 6d. "
Extra Rich Chenés .. .. .. £1 12s. 9d. "
The Rifle Stripes .. .. .. £1 12s. 9d. "
Dorrity Checks .. .. .. £1 15s. 9d. "
Gros de Paris .. .. .. £1 17s. 9d. "
Gros d'Afriques, in plain colours .. £1 17s 9d. "
Brocades .. .. £1 19s. 6d. "

Several cases of rich French Silks, of the most elegant designs, from Two Guineas to Twenty Guineas.
Numerous lots of cheap Flounced Robes.
Cheap Moire Antiques.
Patterns sent post free.
PETER ROBINSON, 103, 105, 106, 107, 108, Oxford-street, London, W.

NEW SPRING DRESSES
Patterns post-free.
Now ready a great variety of New Fabrics suitable for the present and approaching season.
The "Jasper Droguet,"
a most distinguished novelty,
£1 6s. 9d. the extra Full Dress.
The New Silk Challies,
16s 9d., 18s. 9d., and 21s. the Full Dress.
Silk Poplinettes (in brilliant colours),
£1 9s. 6d. the Full Dress.
An Immense assortment of "Washing Mohairs,"
8s. 9d., 9s. 9d., 11s. 9d., 12s. 6d., and 14s 9d. the Full Dress.
Full Flounced Double Mohairs,
(20 yards), 16s. 9d. the Robe, trimming included.
PETER ROBINSON, 103, 105, 106, 107, and 108, Oxford-street, W.

A CHOICE ASSORTMENT OF NEW
FRENCH BRILLIANTS, CAMBRICS, and PIQUES, fast colours, in every style of pattern, suitable for Ladies' Morning Wear.

A PRINTER'S STOCK OF FINE FRENCH ORGANDIE MUSLINS,
now selling 25 per cent under value.
Patterns of all the above post-free.
PETER ROBINSON, 103, 105, 106, 107, 108, Oxford-street.

THICKEST CHENILLE NETS, in all the new colours, 2s. 11d. each; also at 1s. 3½d., 1s. 6½d., 1s. 11½d. 2s. 6d.
With Gilt Ornaments, Stars, Rings, Arrows, Roses, &c., 4s. 11d.
Silk Braid Nets, in all colours, 1s. 4½d. each.
Gold and Silver Nets, 1s. 8d.; with Tassels, 1s. 6d.; Beads, 2s. 6d.
N.B. A very cheap lot of Ladies' Gilt Clasps for Waistbands, 1s. 6d., 1s. 11½d., 2s. 6d. each
Forwarded on receipt of stamps, and two extra for postage.
PETER ROBINSON, 103, 105, 106, 107, 108, Oxford-street, W.

FAMILY MOURNING.—At PETER ROBINSON'S FAMILY and GENERAL MOURNING ESTABLISHMENT.
This Warehouse is the most economical and convenient of its kind in London, and offers the best advantages to Families requiring Mourning Attire. The best articles only are supplied; and orders, large or small, are executed at the most reasonable rates.
Every article is kept ready made up for immediate wear, including Widows' and Children's Mourning; or may be purchased by the yard. Mourning sent to any part of the country free of carriage immediately on receipt of order, accompanied by a dressmaker or milliner if necessary.
Address as above, 103, Oxford-street, London.
(Established as a Mourning Warehouse in 1850.)

DUTY OFF FRENCH SILKS.
BLACK SILKS.—The richest, best, and cheapest Stock in London of Black Glacés, from 40s. to 80s. Dress.
Black Ducapes, from 20s. to 70s. Dress
Black Royales, 50s. to 90s. Dress.
Black Figures and Stripes, from 42s. to 80s. Dress.
Patterns free.
Moire Antiques and
Flounced Silk Robes, from 58s. 6d. to ten guineas.
Rich Silk Skirts, elegantly trimmed, with or without crape, exceedingly cheap.
At PETER ROBINSON'S FAMILY MOURNING WAREHOUSE, 103, Oxford-street. Patterns free.

MOURNING MANTLES and BONNETS,
the Newest and Prettiest Shapes, and the Largest Stock in London to select from at the most Moderate Prices, at PETER ROBINSON'S FAMILY and GENERAL MOURNING WAREHOUSE, 103, Oxford-street, London.

BLACK and HALF-MOURNING FABRICS.
New Materials in beautiful textures for the present season.
Patterns free.
Address, PETER ROBINSON, Family Mourning Warehouse, 103, Oxford-street, London.

BLACK BAREGES that will not split, and GRENADINES of superior permanent dye, manufactured to order expressly for this Warehouse.
Also, the CRAPE BALZARINE so universally admired, in new and improved makes.
Patterns of the various new makes free.
Address PETER ROBINSON, FAMILY MOURNING WAREHOUSE, 103, Oxford-street, London.

MOIRES ANTIQUES.
SEWELL and CO. are now selling the RICHEST MOIRES ANTIQUES IN LONDON, at four guineas and a half the dress, in all colours.
COMPTON HOUSE, Frith-street, Soho.

HOUSEHOLD LINEN DEPARTMENT.— JOHN HARVEY, SON, and CO., of 9, Ludgate-hill, established upwards of fifty years, will send pattern or samples free, for inspection or comparison, of their rich DOUBLE DAMASK TABLE CLOTHS, with Napkins and Slip-cloths to match, diaper and damask, by the yard, 8-4, 7-4, 8-4, and 10-4 wide; sheetings in width from 1 to 3¼ yards; cotton sheeting from 1 to 3 yards wide; huckabacks, medical, Baden-Baden, roll towellings, glass and knife cloths, dusters, &c., made up and marked upon the shortest notice. Carriage paid upon amounts above £5. Families waited upon at home in London.

SILKS, Rich, Plain, Striped, and Checked Glacé, at 22s. 6d. per Dress of 12 yards, well worth the attention of families. Patterns sent free by post. Also patterns and prices of their rich stock of silks.—JOHN HARVEY, SON, and CO., 9, Ludgate-hill. Established upwards of 50 years. Carriage paid upon amounts above £5

FRENCH GLACE and other rich Silks, Velvets, Gloves, &c., &c.—Manufacturers of France are invited to send samples or patterns, and prices, for immediate cash, to JOHN HARVEY, SON, and CO. 9, Ludgate-hill, London, to be delivered duty-free.

FRENCH SILKS, MOIRE ANTIQUES, at Two Guineas and a Half the Dress for nine yards, or any quantity cut. JOHN HARVEY, SON, and CO., 9, Ludgate hill, have just received several cases of these goods in all colours, also a large quantity of Black and Coloured Glacés, well worth the attention of families.

THE FASHIONABLE FRENCH STRAW BONNETS, elegantly trimmed, 12s. 6d. to 18s. 6d.; Full-dress Paris Chips, 21s. Millinery Bonnets of every description equally moderate. Mrs. POLAND'S Show-rooms, 11, Crawford-street, Portman-square.

FAMILY MOURNING.—GRANT and GASK (late Williams and Co.), Silkmercers and General Drapers, have special rooms appropriated to the above department, where every description of FAMILY and COMPLIMENTARY MOURNING in Silks, Made Skirts, Fancy Dresses, and Mantles are kept ready for immediate use and sold at most moderate prices. The Dressmaking is under the superintendence of an experienced manager.—59, 60, 61, and 62, Oxford-street; and 3, 4, and 5, Wells-street, W.

VALENCIENNES LACE, made with genuine linen thread, scarcely distinguishable from the real French, very durable, yet sold at one-tenth of the price. Samples post-free. BAKER and DOWDEN, Upper Eaton-street, Eaton-square, S.W.

OUTFITS for INDIA and CHINA supplied by THRESHER and GLENNY, 152, Strand, London.

BOYS' DRESSES, for SCHOOL or WALKING.
The Knickerbocker Suit complete, from 15s.
The Cambridge Suit complete, from 18s.
Comprising either an elegant Tunic and Trousers, or a Pocket-Vest and Trousers, made in all the new Melton and Heather Cloths adapted to the season, and allowed to be the prettiest and most serviceable costumes ever introduced for Boys.
D. NICHOLSON and COMPANY,
51 and 52, St Paul's-churchyard,
E.C.
Complete suits for children of every age sent to any part of the kingdom at a moment's notice.

2s. 6d. LADIES'! 2s. 9d. GENTLEMEN'S!!
Very Best PARIS KID GLOVES.
1s. 6d. Ladies'. 1s. 6d. Gentlemen's, best Alpine Kid.
BAKER and CRISP, 221, Regent-street.
Samples pair for two extra stamps.

LAST YEAR'S MUSLINS!—BAREGES!!
Balzarines, Mohairs, &c., at half the original cost.
Patterns sent free.
BAKER and CRISP, 221, Regent street (entrance Maddox-street).

READY-MADE DRESSES, 5s. 6d!!
Our New Two-Flounced Cambrics 8s 9d.
Our New Flounced Barège d'Anglais 7 and 9 Flounces, Trimmed with Silk, 25s.
All the Novelties in Mohairs, elegantly trimmed, and Jacket complete, from 14s 6d.
Engravings and Patterns sent free.—BAKER and CRISP, 221, Regent-street (only entrance in Maddox-street).

MOIRE ANTIQUES.—Patterns post-free!!!
The Royal Court Moire Antiques, 2 guineas, worth £4, in every colour.
BAKER and CRISP, 221, Regent-street (only entrance the corner).

BLACK SILKS—Half Price!!!
£1 5s. 6d. Rich Black Ducapes.
Rich Black Glacé, £1 15s. 6d. to 60s. Patterns free.
BAKER and CRISP, 221, Regent-street (entrance Maddox-street).

EMBROIDERIES from TRICHINOPOLY.
5000 beautifully-embroidered Handkerchiefs, 2s. 9d. worth 8s. 6d.
1500 of the New Magenta Worked Collars, 2s 9d. each, worth 8s. 6d.
Samples sent for the amount in stamps.
BAKER and CRISP, 221, Regent-street (entrance Maddox street).

25 PER CENT CHEAPER!!! than any House in the World. Patterns post-free.
The New Mohairs, Barèges Balzarines, Llamas, Brilliants, Cambrics, Muslins, &c., &c.
BAKER and CRISP, 221, Regent-street (entrance Maddox street).

NEW SPRING FABRICS!!!
BAKER and CRISP'S.
New Spring Droguet .. .. .. 21s. 0d. Full Dress.
New Spring Repp .. .. .. 25s. 0d. "
New Spring Mohairs .. .. .. 8s. 9d. "
New Spring Barèges .. .. .. 10s. 6d. "
New Spring Balzarines .. .. .. 5s. 6d. "
New Spring Foulards .. .. .. 15s. 6d. "
New Spring Barège d'Anglais .. .. 8s. 9d. "
New Spring Cambrics .. .. .. 3s. 9d. "
New Spring Brilliants .. .. .. 4s. 9d. "
New Spring Muslins .. .. .. 5s. 6d. "
New Flounced Barèges .. .. .. 16s. 9d., worth 35s.
New Flounced Muslins .. .. .. 16s. 9d., worth 35s.
Patterns free.
Baker and Crisp, 221, Regent-street (only entrance Maddox-street).

MOURNING.—PATTERNS POST-FREE!!!
Barèges, Mohairs, Balzarines, Muslins, &c., from 4½d. yard.
BAKER and CRISP, 221, Regent-street (only entrance Maddox st.)

THE TIME TO BUY MUSLINS CHEAP.
Last Year's Muslins clearing out.
Retail Drapers, Snippers, and Families will save immensely.
Patterns post free.
THE FRENCH MUSLIN COMPANY, 16, Oxford-street.

NEW FRENCH BREAKFAST DRESS, 8s. 6d.; if made up ready for wear to the latest fashion, 10s. 6d.
The Two-Guinea three-flounced Silk made with material for Bodice.
The Five-Guinea Black Lyons Velvet Dress made with Bodice.

VELVET JACKETS Embroidered in Gold.
Clearing out at half-price.
The Guinea-and-Half Velvet Jacket, tight and loose.
Cashmere Opera Jackets, 12s. 9d.

THE HALF-GUINEA CLOTH JACKET.
White Muslin Jackets, 9s. 10½d.
Black Lace Jackets, 12s. 9d.
The Military Braided Cloth Jacket, 13s. 9d.
Illustrations free.
THE FRENCH MUSLIN COMPANY, 16, Oxford-street.

CHRISTENING ROBES, 2½ Guineas.
Babies' Cloaks, 1 Guinea.
53, Baker-street.
Mrs. W. G. TAYLOR.

BABIES' BERCEAUNETTES,
2½ Guineas.
Baskets to match, 1 Guinea.
Mrs. W. G. TAYLOR, 53, Baker-street.

MARRIAGE OUTFITS.
Cotton Hosiery, 2s. 6d.
White Dressing Gowns, One Guinea.
Real Balbriggan Hosiery.
Mrs. W. G. TAYLOR, 53, Baker-street.

LINSEY RIDING HABITS for LITTLE GIRLS, 2½ Guineas.
Ladies' Riding Habits, 5½ to 8 Guineas.
W. G. TAYLOR, 53, Baker-street.

LADIES' RIDING TROUSERS,
Chamois Leather, with black feet.
53, Baker-street.
W. G. TAYLOR.

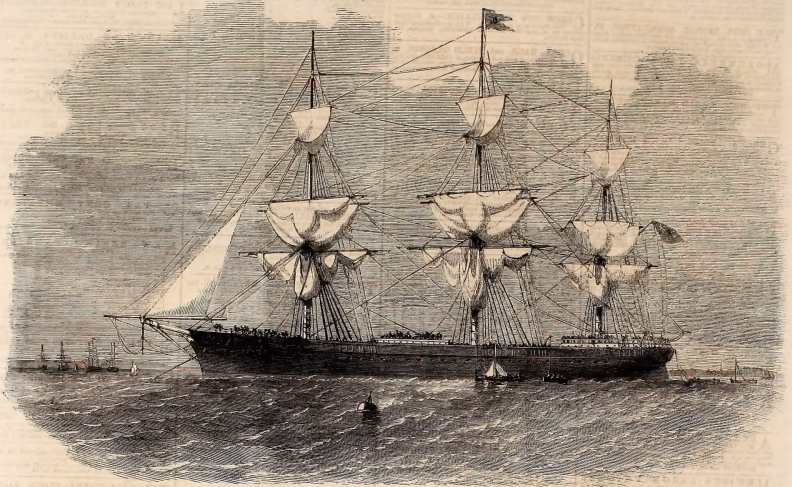
LINENDRAPERS TO THE QUEEN BY APPOINTMENT.
Established in 1788.
BABIES' BASSINETS,
Trimmed and Furnished
ready for use, and sent home free of carriage.
BABIES' BASKETS,
Trimmed and Furnished to correspond.
CAPPER, SON, and CO., 69, Gracechurch-street, London, E.C.
Descriptive Lists, with Prices, sent free by post.

Sent post-free, Descriptive Lists of
COMPLETE SETS of BABY LINEN,
which are sent home
throughout the kingdom free of carriage.
UNDERCLOTHING FOR HOME, INDIA, AND THE COLONIES for Ladies and Children of all ages.

LINENDRAPERS TO THE QUEEN BY APPOINTMENT.
Established in 1778.
LADIES' WEDDING OUTFITS,
sent home free of carriage.
Descriptive Lists, with Prices, sent free by post.
CAPPER, SON, and CO., 69, Gracechurch-street, London, E.C.

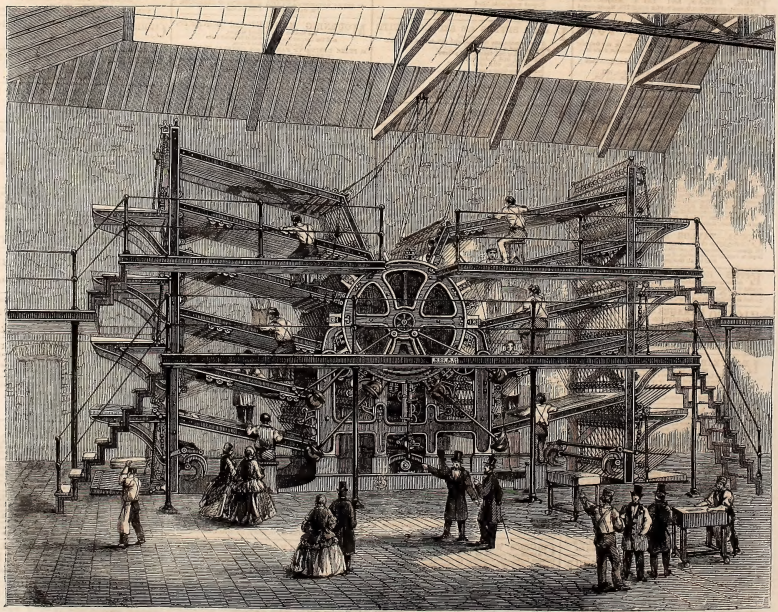
IMPORTANT to LADIES requiring READY-MADE LINEN of first-rate material and sewing, at most moderate prices. Books of prices, &c., free by post, by addressing "Ladies Department," WHITELOCK and SON, Outfitters, 166, Strand.—N.B. Opposite the Church, near Somerset House.

MRS. ROBERTSHAW, 100, Oxford-street.
Ladies' Ready-made Linen;
Wedding and India Outfits;
Silk, Lisle, and Balbriggan Stockings;
Dressing Gowns;
Trimmed Petticoats, 16s. 6d.



DO YOU WISH YOUR CHILDREN WELL DRESSED? Take them to D. NICHOLSON and CO., 51 and 52, St Paul's-churchyard. The largest stock of Infants' and Children's Dresses in London. Send for D. N. and Co.'s Plan of Juvenile Fashions for the Season. Contains 32 Engravings. Post-free.

TOWER OF BABEL, 84, Regent-street, W. The Stock of BEST PARIS KID GLOVES, at 2s. 6d. per pair, of this unrivalled establishment, is this year the largest, newest, and most superior ever submitted to its numerous patrons.



WANTED LEFT-OFF CLOTHES for AUSTRALIA.—Mr. and Mrs. JOHN ISAACS, 319 and 320, Strand (opposite Somerset House), W.C., continue giving highest prices in cash for Ladies', Gentlemen's, and Children's Clothes, Regimentals, Underclothing, Boots, Books, and Miscellaneous Goods. Letters attended to. Parcels from the country, the utmost value returned same day. Reference, London and Westminster Bank.

WANTED to PURCHASE LEFT-OFF CLOTHES, Regimentals, Jewellery, Plate, &c., for Cash, of all descriptions. Ladies and Gentlemen attended by Mr. or Mrs. DAVIS, 46A, Duke-street, and 46, Marylebone-lane, Manchester-square, W. Parcels sent. P. O. orders remitted. Established 1800.

WANTED LEFT-OF CLOTHES, Uniforms, Furniture, Miscellaneous Property, &c. The highest price given. Ladies or Gentlemen waited on by addressing to Mr. or Mrs G. HYAM, 10, Beak-street, Regent-street, W.; or Parcels being sent the utmost value in cash immediately remitted. Established 1820.

THE "GREAT TASMANIA" TROOP-TRANSPORT AT ANCHOR IN THE MERSEY.—FROM A SKETCH BY WILLIAM WOODS.—SEE PAGE 318.

THE "DAILY TELEGRAPH" TEN-FEEDER PRINTING MACHINE.—SEE PAGE 318.

London: Printed and Published at the Office, 198, Strand, in the Parish of St. Clement Danes, in the County of Middlesex, by George C. Leighton, 198, Strand, aforesaid.—Saturday, March 31, 1860.

THE ILLUSTRATED LONDON NEWS.

No. 1025.—VOL. XXXVI.] SATURDAY, APRIL 7, 1860. [WITH A SUPPLEMENT, FIVEPENCE

THE FIRST SECTION OF THE SESSION.

THE advent of that legislative Easter holiday which the most democratic members of Parliament seem to cherish as dearly as an institution as the most remote-thinking Tories—if any such political entities are still to be found—seems to be a proper occasion for taking stock of public matters. Before referring to the progress which has been made in the conduct of those affairs which have come under the immediate cognisance of Parliament, it will probably not be considered out of place to notice one very interesting fact which has been coincident with the termination of the first quarter of 1860, which brings to a conclusion our financial year. The return of the Revenue for the past twelve months proves to be eminently satisfactory. The Chancellor of the Exchequer has been proved to have made a remarkably false calculation in his estimate of the incomings from the public resources; but, happily, his miscounting has been on the right side, and the proceeds have exceeded his expectations by something over a million and a half! It is certainly a subject of no small congratulation that the nation begins a new year of provision for the public service with such a sum to the credit side of its account. No doubt a good deal of this excess of revenue over estimate is attributable to the little conjuration with the income tax which Mr. Gladstone managed last summer, and which, by a process that all his elaborate explanations failed to make clear to some unwilling minds, pressed into six months the payment of an increased rate for the year. But, at the same time, there has been an increase on those barometers of trade and social prosperity, respectively, the Customs and the Excise; while the departments of Stamps, Taxes, and Post Office, also yielded an increase; thus showing that the elasticity of our national resources was real and not factitious, or confined to a single item like the income tax, which for simplicity of squeezing is, of course, without a rival.

Such an introduction to a review of the affairs of Great Britain tends naturally to create a certain amount of good humour in the consideration of the sayings and doings of our administrators and legislators, but without that inducement it would be only simple justice to say that every disposition to do their work has been evinced by the Ministry and the Parliament. It can hardly be said of either of these responsible bodies that time has been wasted, in the strict sense of the term, although it is undoubted that talk has been abundant. It must be remembered, however, that in our representative system talk is the machinery out of which acts, not merely literally Acts of Parliament, but acts in the sense of action, are created. An impartial reflection on the debates in the House of Commons (for the Upper House has, by the necessity of the case, been more than usually quiescent down to the present time) will show that they have been more than ordinarily direct and to the purpose. Even such an impetuous spirit as the Chancellor of the Exchequer has been compelled to avow that no illegitimate or undue hindrance has been placed in his way by his most assiduous and most pertinacious critics. It deserves to be noted also that, while the members of the Lower Chamber who have taken part in discussions have shown more than common apprehension of the nature, the elements, and the probable consequences of the measures with which they have had to deal, and have dealt with them in a businesslike manner, the speaking proper—the mode in which individuals have expressed themselves—has been very far above the average of Parliamentary oratory in general. They have had to deal with great principles embodied in plans all more or less entire, and it may be asserted with some confidence that they have as a body, and in numerous individual cases, been found equal to the situation. Inspired, perhaps, by the presence and predominance of a vast leading capability for elaborate exposition, combined with singular clearness and completeness, at least when these qualities were necessary and demanded by the tactics of the occasion, our representatives have quitted themselves in a manner which ought to give satisfaction to their several constituencies and to the country in the gross. One thing will be universally admitted—that, meeting in Session at a much earlier period than usual, they have fairly earned for themselves that brief holiday which they are about to enjoy.

In the period which has elapsed since the 24th of January there have been debates on foreign affairs, including questions relating to Savoy, Tuscany, Switzerland, and China. Another section of discussion has been occupied by the Bill for the Amendment of the Representation of the People, although on the whole, and looking to the importance of the subject, the most scanty justice, and certainly the least heartiness, have been coincident with the consideration of that question. The financial measures of the Government, with their wide ramifications, and the cognate and inseparable subject of the Commercial Treaty, have necessarily occupied the main portion of the time of the House of Commons. Nevertheless, in the midst of these large and, on the face of them, engrossing questions, there has intervened a crowd of miscellanies, among which may be enumerated Law Reform, the Purchase System in the Army, the Organisation of the Indian Army, the Ballot, Church Rates, Endowed Schools, the question of the differences between Masters and Operatives, an attempt to apply the principle of the Factories Acts to other branches of manufacturing labour, Coolie immigration to our West India colonies, the vexed questions of Bribery and Corruption at elections, reform of the Corporation of London, and the introduction of the Army and Navy estimates. As a specimen of Parliamentary exertion we may make a slight statistical statement, and mention that between the 25th of February and the 31st of March no less than sixteen debates of various lengths have been devoted by Parliament as a body to the consideration of foreign affairs, of which twelve have turned exclusively on the annexation of Savoy, one has related to Central Italy, and more especially to Tuscany, one to Switzerland, and two to China. If these have been in reality only episodes, and bear but a small comparison with the regular set consideration of affairs immediately connected with our internal and domestic affairs, may we not venture on the assertion that in their conduct during the first three months of the Session of 1860 the Legislature has deserved well of the country.

GENERAL VIEW OF CHAMBERY, SAVOY, AS SEEN FROM MOUNT CALVARY.—SEE SUPPLEMENT, PAGE 342.

Nevertheless, though much has been done, still more remains to do. In the critical weeks which will elapse between the Easter vacation and Whitsuntide it is more than probable that the Legislature will be specially called upon to show its aptitude for work and its capability of statesmanship. There is no doubt that Parliament has an immense amount of labour yet to encounter, and it is only by great diligence and a very considerable amount of personal abnegation that the early promise of the Session will generate into fruit. It is impossible to say whether circumstances may not occur which will introduce new elements of discussion, and greatly enlarge the sphere and circle of the responsibilities of our Government and our representatives. Hitherto foreign affairs have been dealt with from a comparatively abstract point of view. Who shall say that the ruling powers of this country may not ere long be called on to deal with them in the most practical sense? If, happily, no such eventuality should intervene there will be more than enough left to give ample opportunity to our Senate to show to the country that the reform of the chief institution of England is more a matter of principle than of personal necessity; and that if the growing intelligence of the people and the increase of population render it but just that the privileges of representation should be extended, yet that it does not follow that the existing representatives of the country in Parliament, taken as a whole and as a class, are wanting in the qualifications demanded of them. It is in the power of those who now enjoy the honour of being members of Parliament to prove that in the event of a new election, under circumstances which will cause a large addition to the franchise, it will not be necessary, or even expedient, to make any radical change in what may be called the personal constitution of the House of Commons. It depends on themselves, and on their development of those qualities of prudence, justice, and common-sense, unmixed with baser motives, in the conduct of the important business of this year, whether the bulk of the members of the present Parliament will earn a title to their recognition as claimants for places in any new council of the nation which may be about to be established.

FOREIGN AND COLONIAL NEWS.

FRANCE.

The Mediterranean squadron left Toulon on Saturday last for Italy. M. Laity has been sent on an extraordinary mission to Savoy.

Last Saturday the Emperor passed the troops forming the garrison of Paris in review, M. de Schouvaloff, the Emperor of Russia's adjutant, being present.

Count Tascher de la Pagerie, First Chamberlain to the Empress, has begun issuing invitations for a fancy ball, which her Majesty will give on the 17th, at the hotel of the Duchess D'Albe.

The Budget of 1861 has been presented to the Corps Legislatif. The receipts are estimated at 1,845,000,000f., and the expenses at 1,844,000,000f.

"We are reliably informed," says the Journal de Charleroi, "that a treaty of commerce between France and Belgium will be signed in a few days. We hear that the duty on Belgian cast-iron will be fixed at 2f. the 400 kilos., and that the system of reciprocity is to be admitted for the plate-glass manufactures of the two countries."

The Moniteur of Monday publishes a decree giving a second warning to the Ami de la Religion, for an article of the Abbé Sisson, which contained a formal attack against the Concordat.

The Municipal Council of Paris, in its sitting of Saturday, ratified the acceptance, by the Prefect of the Seine, of the cession by the State to the city of the park of Monceaux.

The Echo de l'Oise states that the Emperor has given orders for the erection of a statue of Joan of Arc at Compiègne, on the spot opposite the old bridge, where she was taken prisoner by the English on May 23, 1430. The statue will be executed after the famous work of the Princess Marie of Orleans.

The Belgian papers describe the contents of a circular which the French Minister of Foreign Affairs has recently addressed to French agents abroad relative to Belgium. M. Thouvenel remarks, that of the two anti-French combinations established in '15, one, the transfer of the French slopes to Sardinia, has just been rectified; while the other, the foundation of the kingdom of the Netherlands, was rectified in 1831 by the separation of Belgium from Holland, and the creation of the Belgian monarchy, the neutrality of which, guaranteed by Europe, is of great interest to France. The Government of the Emperor has never had the idea of putting in question a work so full of wisdom and altogether so favourable to France, and which French diplomacy has contributed to establish since 1831.

The French Senate adopted on Thursday week a course which indicates with sufficient clearness the determination of Napoleon III. to exercise his own will in matters wherein Papal supremacy is at stake. By a majority of 116 to 16 votes, the Senate refused to receive a number of petitions asking its interference in behalf of the temporal power of the Pope.

The Moniteur recalls that article of the French Concordat with Rome into memory which says that no bull of excommunication or other similar document issuing from the Holy See has the right of publication in France until approved of by the French Government, so that we have to expect that the present bull, directed against all the spoliators of the domain of St. Peter, will probably be refused publication in France.

The fancy fair for the benefit of the British Charitable Fund will, Galignani informs us, take place during the first fortnight in May. It will be held at the British Embassy, under the immediate patronage of their Excellencies the Ambassador and the Countess Cowley. The following ladies have already kindly consented to act as patronesses:—H. E. Madame Fould, H. E. the Countess de Morny, the Duchess de Bassano, the Duchess d'Istrie, the Countess Walewska, H. E. the Countess Cowley, Lady Rokeby, Baroness James de Rothschild, Baroness Alphonse de Rothschild, Lady Olliffe, Mrs. William T. Moore, Mrs. Swale, and Miss Keir Grant.

SAVOY AND NICE.

The Moniteur of yesterday week published the text of the treaty of the cession of Savoy and Nice by Sardinia to France. The only thing to be added to the summary already published is that a proportionate part of the public debt of Sardinia is to follow the two provinces in the transfer of their allegiance. The treaty, though ratified before, cannot be finally executed by the Sardinian Government until it shall have received the sanction of the Sardinian representatives. King Victor Emmanuel's proclamation, releasing the inhabitants of Savoy and Nice from their former allegiance, is published in the Constitutionnel. The King says that France and Italy are "two sister nations, whose destiny is to march at the head of civilisation."

According to the French despatches the elections in Faucigny and Chablais have turned in the proportion of five to six in favour of annexation to France.

The French troops entered Nice on Sunday, and the accounts of their reception vary according to the source whence they proceed. The Moniteur says that the troops were received with enthusiasm by the people, who strewed flowers before them; but the "National Committee" of Nice declare that the attitude of the population was cold, and that in the evening disturbances were suppressed.

SWITZERLAND.

The Federal Council of Switzerland has informed the National Assembly by message of the annexation of Savoy to France and of the dangers involved in that act. The Assembly take precisely the same view, and promise the Council support in whatever measures they may consider necessary to maintain the true and absolute neutrality of the northern provinces of Savoy. At present the Federal Council is endeavouring to bring this about through the agency of the Great Powers; and Russia, Austria, and Prussia, as well as England, are said, by a telegram from Berne, to have declared their readiness to take part in a European Conference respecting the position in which Switzerland is placed by the annexation of Savoy to France.

On Wednesday the National Council, by 106 against 3 votes, and the Council of State unanimously, voted the extraordinary powers demanded by the Federal Council.

A second note of M. Thouvenel to the Swiss Federal Council declares that the Emperor Louis Napoleon "has no thought of altering any of the legitimate provisions on which depend the neutrality of Switzerland." The treaty by which King Victor Emmanuel ceded Savoy to France provides that the French Emperor shall come to an understanding respecting the neutralised districts with Switzerland and with the Powers which signed the treaties of Vienna. M. Thouvenel thinks that this arrangement should "completely reassure the Federal Council;" but neither the arrangement nor M. Thouvenel's second note prevented the Swiss Council from protesting against any French occupation of the neutralised districts, or from soliciting the convocation of an European Congress.

The Federal Council have resolved to send a Commissioner to Geneva, in order to place the Geneva contingent under the command of Colonel Ziegler. Switzerland has notified to the Powers that she will take energetic measures against any excesses.

Yesterday week about 150 men (Savoyards and members of the Horticultural Society) seized upon the steam-boat Aigle, and made for Thonon. They were pursued in another boat by a body of police and chasseurs, who took thirty of them, and carried them back to Geneva. Upon which the Council of State of Geneva addressed a proclamation to their fellow-citizens, reprobating the attempt, and stating that an inquiry is going on with a view to bring the guilty parties to justice.

ITALY.

THE KINGDOM OF UPPER ITALY.

The Session of the Sardinian Chambers was opened on Monday by King Victor Emmanuel. His Majesty entered the hall of the Senate amidst indescribable applause, and delivered a speech in which he declared that the repulse of the Austrian invasion and the freedom of Lombardy and Central Italy were attributable to the aid of a "magnanimous ally," to the valour of the French and Italian soldiers, and to the concord of the people. The gratitude of present and future generations was due to France for the welfare of Italy. It was necessary to make some sacrifice, and he had made that which was "dearest to his heart." He had concluded a treaty ceding Savoy and Vice to France; reserving, however, the approval of the Sardinian Parliament and the rights of Switzerland. If the Pope should employ spiritual weapons in defence of temporal interests, Victor Emmanuel would know how to maintain the civil liberty and authority which he owed only to God and his people. The most urgent measures required for the consolidation of the new State would be immediately submitted to the Chambers, and progressive liberty would renew the prosperity and vigour of Italy, which must no longer be a field for foreign ambition, but must be the "Italy of the Italians."

It is currently rumoured at Turin that the new kingdom is to be divided into six large Governments—viz., Piedmont, Lombardy, Parma, Modena, Tuscany, and Romagna.

Sardinian troops have entered Florence, where Prince Carignan has issued a proclamation, treating the annexation in the light of the movement for Italian unity.

The protest of Austria against the annexation of Central Italy to Piedmont has been delivered to Count Cavour by the Count Brassier de St. Simon, the Prussian Minister at Turin. Count Cavour has announced to Count Brassier de St. Simon that the answer of Sardinia will be forwarded through the Prussian Embassy at Vienna.

The Grand Duke of Tuscany, who resides at Dresden, has addressed a protest, dated March 24, to all the Courts of Europe against the annexation of his States to Piedmont.

ROME.

The Pope has at length resorted to spiritual arms against the revolted Romagnese and their abettors. A "major excommunication" against all who have promoted, aided, or counselled rebellion, invasion, or usurpation, in the Romagna, was published and placarded on Thursday week at Rome. This document has been accompanied by a protest against the annexation of the Legations to Sardinia, and forwarded to all the foreign Envoys resident in Rome.

The persons arrested at Rome on the occasion of the late riot have been set at liberty, as the official journal announces without any further comment, on the recommendation of General Goyon and the other French officers.

General Lamoricière has, on the invitation of the Pope, departed for Rome, to take the command of the Holy Father's army. The Opinion Nationale states that the chief command of the Papal troops was offered to General Changarnier before General de Lamoricière was mentioned, but declined.

The Constitutionnel, treating of the possibility of the departure of the French army from Rome, says:—"It has always been admitted that we could not remain indefinitely at Rome. The Roman Government having appeared to desire our departure, France waits only that the safety of the Pope be assured, but will not leave Rome until replaced by the army of an Italian Power. Negotiations with Naples have been spoken of, and if the course of events should lead to such an end France certainly will not raise any obstacle."

In case of its evacuation by the French Rome will be occupied by the Pontifical troops. Neapolitan troops will enter the Marches. At Ancona 2000 men of the Papal army are concentrated. General Lamoricière is about to inspect the garrisons.

NAPLES.

No military movement has yet taken place.

It is asserted that the Ambassadors of the Western Powers have remitted collective notes to the Government, in order to determine the King to adopt reforms.

The King has granted several commercial concessions to the inhabitants of Sicily, and has decreed the construction of a network of public roads in the three Calabrian provinces.

AUSTRIA.

Austria has lodged with every one of the great Powers a solemn protest against the annexation of the Italian duchies by the King of Sardinia, on the strength of the Treaty of Zurich, of the Treaties of Vienna of 1815, and of all those treaties of the last century by which the sovereignty of the houses of Lorraine and of Este, and the right of inheritance of the house of Hapsburg, was acknowledged. The document lays stress on the fact that the Sardinian State itself has been a party to most of these treaties, that they are partly the results of exchanges, as in the case of Tuscany, which was given for Lorraine, ceded to France, and that the acceptance by Austria of the peace of Villafranca was altogether owing to the distinct promise of the restoration of the Italian provinces. In making this protest, Austria disclaims any intention to see the peace of the world disturbed.

The Austrian Premier, Count Rechberg, has also given the reply of his Government to the Swiss Federal Council, communicating it to Dr. Steiger, the Swiss Envoy at Vienna. Having ascertained the opinions of the other great Powers on the question, Austria cannot undertake to do anything against the annexation of Savoy to France in general. As far, however, as the question of the neutralised districts is concerned, Switzerland will not lack her neighbour's good services, inasmuch as Austria fully acknowledges the duty which the Treaties of Vienna impose upon her with regard to the support of the claims of Switzerland.

The military commission named by the Emperor of Austria to prepare the budget for 1861 has completed its task. The result is now undergoing definitive classification at the Ministry of Finance, and will be submitted to the new Council of the Emperor in May next.

PRUSSIA.

The Brussels Indépendance states that Queen Victoria is expected at Berlin towards the end of June. This journey is principally to be attributed," says the Indépendance, "to the happy event expected to take place in the month of July in the family of Prince Frederick William, her son-in-law."

The magistrates and authorities of Berlin having presented the Prince Regent with an address on his birthday, his Royal Highness returned a reply, in which he says:—"The severe sufferings which, by God's inscrutable will, have fallen upon our King and lord, and which you with me deeply deplore, continue unchanged, and still impose upon me the heavy duty of guiding the reins of Government. With you I implore the Almighty that, if storms should rage around us, I may succeed in quelling them. I have seen with pleasure that you recognise my exertions for the welfare of Prussia and for the whole of Germany, which are unremitted for the true unity and preservation of both, and will ever so remain. As King and people in Prussia were always one when the cares of the period drew near to them, so will the people show this in our day, and the capital will give an illustrious example."

SPAIN.

There has been a revolutionary outbreak in Spain. General Ortego, with 3000 men, has pronounced for the Legitimist Pretender, Don Carlos. According to a despatch received at the Spanish Embassy General Ortega, Commander of the Balearic Isles, embarked the troops under his command and disembarked them near Tortose. As soon as the troops obtained knowledge of his project they refused to follow him, and General Ortega was obliged to take to flight pursued by his soldiers, who have maintained faithful to the Queen. General Ortega is still at large, but is being closely pursued. Perfect tranquillity prevails everywhere. Private advices say that General Concha sent troops against General Ortega, and that other troops were also dispatched from all parts of Spain to suppress the movement. The insurrection met with little sympathy. Several loyal addresses have been forwarded to the Queen. The Bank of Barcelona has offered 40,000,000 to the Government.

The official Madrid Gazette publishes the preliminaries of peace agreed upon between Spain and Morocco. Morocco cedes to Spain the whole territory from the sea to the hollow road of Aughera, and also a certain portion of territory at Santa Cruz. The convention of 1859 referring to Melilla, Penon, and Albucenas is ratified. An indemnity of twenty millions of piasters is to be paid to Spain. Tetuan will be kept by Spain until this payment is effected. A treaty of commerce is also to be concluded guaranteeing privileges to Spain as to the most favoured nation. A representative of Spain and a missionary establishment to be permitted at Fez. The treaty of peace is to be signed at Tetuan before the 25th of April. All hostilities to cease. The Spanish army, however, to be allowed to chastise the Kabyles.

TURKEY.

A corps-d'armée has left Monastir to encamp between Montenegro and Servia. The son of Prince Milosch has refused to come to Constantinople to receive his investiture.

The Governor of Candia has imprisoned forty two Greek priests who had declared themselves Catholics. The Ambassador of France has interceded in their behalf, and has invoked religious liberty, which has been promised.

UNITED STATES.

The proceedings in the Senate have been entirely of a national character. A bill for the construction of fifty steam ships adapted to the African coast, for the suppression of the slave trade; a joint resolution, authorising the President to negotiate with other nations for the right of search within 200 miles of the western coast of Africa; and an order instructing the Judiciary Committee to report a bill substituting imprisonment for life instead of death, and applying the penalty to persons fitting out slave-ships, were offered or introduced by Mr. Wilson.

The Washington correspondence of the New York Herald reports that the settlement of Spanish claims had given rise to the statement relative to the sale of Cuba to the United States.

Washington letters state that the Senate had a short executive session on the 20th ult., and had taken preliminary measures with the view of resuscitating the Nicaragu Treaty, which was recently rejected. Much feeling is said to prevail about the rejection, as it upsets the calculations of sixteen years, as well as the Treaty of Nicaragua with Great Britain, and the understanding between the United States and Great Britain. The Republicans refused to ratify the treaty, in consequence of the Administration and its supporters insisting on inserting and retaining in it the clause by which the President, and not Congress, should determine on the use of armed force. Letters from Washington also state that Mr. M'Lane, having refused to act upon discretionary or general orders, had received emphatic and explicit instructions to land troops at Vera Cruz for the protection of the American Consulate, and citizens, and property. It is stated that, on the 24th of May and 30th of July last, he was authorised to offer 10,000,000 dollars for Lower California and the right of way from the Rio Grande to Mazatlan, and from Arizona to Guaymas; but that, Juarez desiring a separate treaty for this object, the negotiation finally fell through.

Governor Stewart had vetoed the Missouri Free Negro Bill. The death of Governor Bissell, of Illinois, is reported.

Overland advices from California are to the 28th of February. A well-known citizen of San Francisco is stated to have paid 35,000 dollars for a claim extending over only sixty feet at the Washoe gold-mine, where the excitement continued unabated.

The advices from Oregon are to the 28th of January. An atrocious massacre of defenceless Indians was perpetrated by a band of forty white men on the 26th. It was estimated that 200 had been killed, and the only reason was that they were suspected of having furnished the warlike Indians with arms.

A bill for the abolition of capital punishment was before the New York Legislature. It had passed a third reading by a majority of more than two to one.

A terrible affair had taken place on board an oyster-sloop in New York Bay. The crew had been murdered and the vessel plundered by the mate; at least so it was believed, that person having been captured in the city of Providence, Rhode Island. The evidence against him appeared to be very strong.

INDIA.

The following telegram has been received at the India Office:—

Bombay, March 13.

The following troops have sailed, or will sail, for China:—Her Majesty's 31st Regiment, February 18; 3rd Native Infantry, 20; 100 of the 5th Native Infantry, 20.

The remainder of the 5th Native Infantry, and No. 3 Battery Royal Artillery, will sail in a few days.

The Punjaub Infantry are to sail from Kurrachee to-day.

Six hundred horses and six hundred mules will also be dispatched to China as early as possible.

Mr. Wilson explained in the Legislative Council his scheme for a convertible paper currency for all India on the 3rd of March. Notes of from 5 to 1000 rupees to be issued, to the aggregate value of 5,000,000 sterling. Gold standard condemned.

The ship Clifton Bell, from London, with soldiers' families, arrived at Kurrachee on the 6th of March.

The steamer attached to Bourne's Indus steam-train foundered outside the bar of Kurrachee harbour. Endeavours are being made to raise her.

LATEST NEWS FROM ABROAD.

The following telegrams were received at Mr. Reuter's office on Thursday evening :—

PARIS, Thursday.—The Patrie of this evening publishes the following telegram :—"Naples, April 4, 1860. Seditious persons have attacked the troops in Palermo. The soldiers shooting. Five killed. I bravely replied the insurgents, of whom a great number were killed. The population took no part in the movement. The city is tranquil. The Patrie also publishes the following article signed M. Granchant :—"The new Sicilian treaty announces the abandonment of the tranquil and withstanding the attempts of the English to create agitation, and which are too evident not to be noticed. It is asserted that foreign agents are endeavouring to promote a party which will call for the annexation of Sicily to England. This party, it is expected will fail, because Sicily desires the autonomy of the Italian Islands before her eyes. All the Powers ought not to be less vigilant in order to prevent the repetition of or deplorable an act."

AUSTRALIA.

MELBOURNE, Feb. 17.—In Parliament the Land Bill is progressing. The estimates were nearly voted, and the bill to authorise the purchase of the Geelong Railway was to be brought in on the evening of the departure of the mails. The Government has agreed to the alteration in the land tax on the condition of other members sharing the expenses. The formation of a volunteer corps is progressing. A merchant named Duffy has been committed to prison for extensive forgeries. There has been a great fall in the price of The gold receipts have decreased 30,000 ounces as compared with the same period last year. Wardell has won the cricket match by sixty nine runs.

SYDNEY, Feb. 17.—Parliament met on the 21th of January. Mr. Cooper, the Speaker, has resigned, and Mr. Murray is unanimously elected in his place, and the bringing forward of the estimates has been postponed. Extensive floods have been experienced in the storekeeper's department. The officials have been suspended in consequence. An increased subsidy for the steamers on the Manilla route has been refused. Great floods have caused the destruction of a large amount of property. The railway works are progressing satisfactorily.

Advices from Adelaide are to the 13th of February. Parliament is prorogued until the 3rd of April.

CAPE OF GOOD HOPE.

The Norman arrived at Plymouth on Sunday, with advices to the 21st of February. Her cargo, valued at £12,000, included 239 bales of wool, 50 casks of wine, and other produce to the amount of £1,000.

The disease in the vine has not been so extensive as was first expected.

In the Graaf-Reinet division the loss of stock by the late drought is estimated at £100,000.

Much rambling exists among the proprietors of the Cape Town and Wellington Railway, and little progress, comparatively, has been made in the proposed Wellington Railway and that line from Port Elizabeth to Graham's-town are not as yet in abeyance.

The Cape Parliament was further prorogued until the 21st of March.

The Supreme Court has declared Mohammedan marriages solemnised without banns to be illegal—a decision which will affect a large portion of the colonial population.

Nowhere is the colonial missionary party, dated the 4th of October, states that they are in good health. There is no intelligence from Dr. Livingstone; his wife and family left for England in the Victoria.

The Empress Dowager of Russia, who has been staying at Nice, is rapidly losing her eyesight from cataract.

The Spanish Cortes, by 129 against 12 votes, have granted to M. Salamanca the privilege of constructing the new Portuguese railways.

A letter from St. Petersburg, of the 22nd ult., states that Prince Gortschakoff, Minister of Foreign Affairs, has entirely recovered from his recent indisposition to occupy himself pruitfully with business.

JAPAN.—Friendly correspondence between the Japanese Government and Mr. Alcock, her Majesty's Envoy Extraordinary and Minister Plenipotentiary, has been published. The correspondence extends from the 10th of February, 1859, to January 7 of the present year. Altogether, there are forty-six despatches, letters, and notes, a space of 101 small black pages.

A decree of the King of the Belgians appropriates as follows the 5 per per cent tax on the net proceeds of the gaming-houses at Spa :—Of the sum so obtained, 65 per cent to the town of Spa, 25 per cent to the hospice, and 10 to Chaudefontaine. Those funds are to be exclusively employed in local improvements, under the control of the Government.

A letter from Utah gives an account of a curious social party, which began with a prayer by Prophet Young. The ball was opened by the ball by dancing in the first quadrille, and closed it with another prayer. The party was confined to the rite of the Latter Day Saints, two grooms, and the cricoline limited to two specimens for each suite.

A letter from St. Petersburg says :—"Instructions for carrying out the ukase of emancipation have been addressed to the governors. Among other things, the Emperor has ordered that traders, burgesses, and in general all the inhabitants of towns, shall pass into what is called the class of free cultivators. Hitherto the trad has not been permitted."

MEXICO.—Affairs continued much the same as by Vera Cruz on the 9th of March, with 600 men, and a strong siege train. An attack was made on the 5th of March, which was repulsed. Two papers were issued, Mormon and Mercury, which left Monmouth to aid Mormon, were captured, after a desperate resistance, by the Americans sloop of war Saratoga, off Cruz, after refusing to show colours, and firing on the American flag. The steamers were fired on by the Mexicans. During the engagement the steamers hoisted the Spanish flag. The American lees amounted to three wounded and one killed. Mormon was taken prisoner, and sent to Vera Cruz. The American Minister had been instructed to lend a force for the protection of American interests. Retrenchment had been effected. A letter was sent by Mormon to the British and French Consuls. According to a telegram from Vera Cruz, dated the 27th of March, the capture of General Miramon's forces on the 11th ult., but the bombardment produced little effect. The following day, it is stated, Miramon's troops abandoned his troops, and sought safety on board a French man-of-war, at the city of Tacubaya declared against him, and that the rest of the soldiers would desert him, and betray him into the hands of his opponents. The New Orleans Picayune says that the English Government has determined to meddle between the hostile parties in Mexico. Lord John himself proposed an armed intervention, but the cabinet preferred to act in the form of a general amnesty and religious toleration; adding that if his proposal were rejected, they would withdraw their consent from bills giving the power to British subjects for the outrages committed upon them. Miramon, we are told, is preparing to escape from Mexico. Juarez and his friends were summarily rejected by France.

OFFICIAL LETTER ON SAVOY.—In the House of Commons on Monday night Lord Russell placed upon the table some further correspondence with reference to the affairs of Italy, and made a statement in explanation of it. The correspondence contains the despatch sent by Sir W. Temple to Count Cavour explaining the grounds upon which France required the annexation of Savoy as the price of her assent to the union of Central Italy. The alleged danger to the Italian from the Germans which has just been effected in the territory and population of Italy, was observed that if Savoy, which is so strong in her population and resources, and is placed so advantageously for defence, were to be given to France, Her Majesty's Government must be allowed to remark that a demand for cession of a neighbour's territory made by a Power which is strong in men, and whose former and not very remote policy of territorial aggrandisement brought the rest of Europe into hostile array, could not but give rise to the very State interested in the balance of power and in the maintenance of the general peace. Such a cession would by no means tend to the end for which the claim is founded; because, if a great military Power like France is to demand the cession of a neighbour's territory on the ground that it constitutes geographically its proper scientific defence, it is evident that no State could long exist under the aggression of such powerful neighbour; that night and not right would henceforth be the rule to determine territorial possession, and that the integrity and independence of the smaller States of Europe would be placed in perpetual jeopardy." M. Thouvenel, in his reply, dated March 26, after asserting that Lord John Russell's despatch has not the character of a protest, and that "this divergence does not constitute an opposition of a nature to affect the relations of the Cabinets of Paris and London," declares that the Emperor's Government attached the greatest importance to the preserving of the neutrality of Switzerland, and quotes that clause of the treaty just concluded with Sardinia which pledges the Emperor to come to the armed standing on the question of the neutralised portions of Savoy with the Powers who were represented at the Congress of Vienna.

The disinfectant used for deodorising the Thames this summer will probably be the carbolate of iron; and the cost of this material is estimated at something under £3000.

Early on Tuesday morning a fire broke out in the house of MESSRS. BROWN, tallow-melters, Somerstown. The premises were entirely gutted, and one of the partner's children was burnt to death.

THE THAMES.—The BOAT RACE, in which so much interest has been felt by those interested in aquatic sports, came off between Putney and Mortlake on Saturday. Both crews displayed great skill and spirit, and the race resulted in favour of Cambridge.

The Rev. J. M. Bellew delivered a lecture upon Milton on Monday evening, at the Hall of Science, to a crowded audience. The attendance was respectable, and throughout the evening the audience displayed the greatest interest in the lecturer's observations, the manner with warm and long-continued applause.

THE ROYAL HUMANE SOCIETY CLUB.—The annual dinner of this club took place on Tuesday at the FREEMASONS' TAVERN, and was attended by a large number of members, including a gentleman of the Humane Society who contended so gallantly but unsuccessfully against the University of Cambridge on Saturday. The HON. G. DENMAN, M.P., the president, was in the chair.

THE STATUE OF GENERAL SIR H. HAVELOCK.—The model for the intended statue of Sir Henry Havelock in Trafalgar-square has been completed by Mr. Behnes, the sculptor, and has been exhibited in his studio. The figure stands about twelve feet high, and is calm, erect, simple, and composed; and is described as being every way worthy of the LAWRENCE of Egyptian Hall. It is expected to be placed on the north-east pedestal of Trafalgar-square, in the month of August.

THE LONDON SOCIETY FOR PROMOTING PUBLIC INSTITUTIONS.—The Select Committee on Public Institutions have agreed upon their report. It recommends the opening of portions of the British Museum and of the National Gallery, and other similar institutions, on certain evenings of the week, from eight o'clock to ten, and that they be available for the working classes; and mentions with satisfaction the progress of the half-holiday movement in the metropolis.

BATTERSEA PARK.—The alterations, enlargement, and improvement of the park are in a state of rapid progress. The new carriage-road will add greatly to the beauty and interest of the landscape by which it is surrounded, and the new footpaths will afford a pleasant promenade to the less wealthy classes, and will soon be opened for the inspection and free use of the public. The new entrance-gates will be placed at the end of the convenient spots in the beautiful gardens now forming in the centre of the park.

MR. J. FORSTER, seventy six years of age, and who for some time past has been in a declining state of health, was found dead in the house of his nephew, MR. C. FORSTER, M.P., in Great Queen-street, Westminster-Hall Bar, Mr. C. Forster now conversing with him. It is said that the unfortunate gentleman, who was walking up and down, suddenly threw up his hands, and, leaping with a loud cry, fell upon the floor prone to the pavement. He was found to be most seriously injured and insensible.

THE DEATH OF MR. MACAULAY.—A meeting of the friends of the late Mr. Burnet, presided over by the Earl of Shaftesbury, was held yesterday morning at the Mansion-house, when it was decided that the proposed memorial should take. An opinion was expressed in favour of erecting a monument in St. Paul's Cathedral, but the general feeling generally was in favour of a bronze statue, to be erected in some great public thoroughfare. A committee, with power to add to its number, and the committee were empowered to carry it out.

THE REV. C. H. SPURGEON'S METROPOLITAN TABERNACLE.—A public meeting was held on Monday evening, in New Park-street Chapel, for the purpose of hearing a statement as to the progress of the building fund for the erection of the metropolitan tabernacle. The Rev. C. H. Spurgeon, now in progress, and for adopting measures to obtain subscriptions to complete the building. MR. OLNEY stated the amount of the building-fund up to the present time, from which it appeared that there had been received £17,000 in the week before Christmas, a sum of £1,000 to complete the erection—£2000 of that having been promised on condition of £8000 being obtained within a certain time.

THE CHARGE OF BRAWLING AGAINST MR. ROSIER.—In the Consistory Court of London on Monday, THE CHANCELLOR gave judgment in the case of brawling and interrupting the service at St. George's-in-the-East, on the 15th of January last, by the Rev. Mr. Rosier. The object of the promoter was to show that on the 15th of August, during a riot in the church, Mr. Rosier, one of the Churchwardens, had "brawled and interrupted" Divine Service. The judgment from God upon him; God has struck him dead." Various other charges of a similar nature were also brought against Mr. Rosier, and evidence fully established the evidence offered on behalf of the Rev. Bryan King, and the clergy connected with the district of St. Matthew.

PUBLICATION OF THE SCRIPTURES.—The Select Committee appointed to inquire into the best means of obtaining the Scriptures have sent in their report. They say that many applications have been made to them to extend the circulation of the Bible, and that the Bible Society has not been able to meet the demand. The Committee are of opinion that the best available supply of Irish water be poured in to such an extent as to produce a flood three feet deep. The Irish Society have already completed their works for the diversion of sewerage from the Serpentine river, and the Commissioners of Sewers are about to do the same with the Thames.

BIRTHS AND DEATHS.—Last week the births of 1018 boys and 941 girls (in all 1959 children) were registered in London. In the ten corresponding weeks of 1850-59 the average number was 1,000 boys and 1,000 girls. Last week the mortality was exceedingly high. The deaths, which were in the ten years 1850-59 only 1,000 on an average, in the week have shown a constant increase; for they were 1565 and 1611 in the two following weeks, and then 1,000 in the week ending the 25th of February. In the week 1,000 to have risen 1850-59 the average number of deaths in the weeks corresponding with last week was 1,000. In the week ending Saturday, the deaths rose at the age of 70 years and upwards, of whom one had attained the great age of 100 years. The deaths in this week from bronchitis were 1,000, at the age of 70 years, who had assisted at the victory obtained by Lord Howe on June 1, 1794, at the age of 100 years. Bronchitis carried off 1,000 in the week. Fifteen persons died by burns and scalds :—A variable number from typhus during the last 10 years, has been returned in the weekly tables from 1,000 to 1,000. A female servant was burnt when in a fit; two children or labourers, each aged three years, were burnt to death; and a child was scalded to death by the daughter of a labourer and the daughter of a general dealer; the daughter of a dock labourer was scalded to death by a kettle of hot water.

STATE OF THE CRIMINAL LAW.—ROBERT MASON, a gentleman's servant, was charged at the Mansion-house on Monday with stealing a gold watch, the property of Mr. John Belgey, of Gracechurch-street. The prosecutor stated that he had left the watch and took the prisoner on Friday evening, at Derby, upon a charge of stealing the watch, and that he found it in the prisoner's possession in his pocket, when the prisoner admitted his guilt. The prisoner was committed for trial.—MR. ALDERMAN CARDEW.—Prisoner, you have pleaded guilty. Have you any motive of how you are to get your expenses?—Inspector : No, Sir. Prisoner : I am about to leave the country.—Alderman Cardew : Prisoner : I can allow you your expenses for coming to town yourself, but I will not allow you your expenses for coming to town with anybody else, prisoner.—Inspector : How can I get the amount of his fare to London?—Mr. Inspector, you must pay it out of your own pocket.—Inspector : Perhaps I have still pay it.—Mr. Inspector : It is a pretty thing to ask Mr. Belgey to pay your expenses.—Inspector : Perhaps I can get it from Mr. Belgey, the inspector merely receiving a certificate for his own travelling expenses.—Alderman Cardew : Prisoner, then a prisoner will not be robbed heavily advanced the police money to apprehend the offender and bring him to justice.—Prisoner : Yes, Sir.—Alderman Cardew : Prisoner, you have certificate for expenses incurred in attending the case from him. Mr. Belgey will pay you.—Prisoner : Yes, Sir.

LECTURE BY M. LOUIS BLANC.—On Tuesday morning M. Louis Blanc delivered a lecture at the Royal English and French Literary Institution in Fanes-street, on "The Revolutionary Century," at the Royal Academy of Arts, Somerset-house. Two of his pictures illustrating out that the love of the marvellous prevailed in France during the 17th century, and that the imagination of the people was fed by the romantic ingenuities of the Count St. Germain, who pretended, among other things, that he had lived 2000 years, that he had been the friend of Francis I., and received delicate commissions from Henry VIII. and the Emperor Charles V. The lecturer then spoke of the Duke de Richelieu and him. Madame de Pompadour was one of his devotees, Louis XV. invited him to Versailles, and he was the only man who ever refused to be paid for everything. The lecturer next touched upon the marvels of Mesmer, giving a graphic description of the crisis produced by the wand of Dr. Perin, in which persons affected with all kinds of diseases flocked by thousands to his rooms in the Temple Gate. The second part of the lecture was almost entirely occupied by a graphic sketch of the career of Cagliostro, and of the surprising effect his pretended powers attended in France. M. Louis Blanc did not agree, he said, with the judgment passed upon this remarkable man by Mr. Carlyle. He was something more than a lie swindler and common cheat. He was a deceiver, certainly, and for that deserved to be branded; but he had a higher aim than that of merely dazzling the vulgar; he wished to disseminate the doctrine of the Brotherhood, that strange society springing out of Masonry, and having for its ultimate objects the overthrow of Jesuitism and the improvement of the human race. At the conclusion of the lecture, which was listened to with great attention, M. Louis Blanc received a formal expression of the thanks and good wishes of his hearers.

HENRY FRANCIS RICHARDSON, late secretary to the London Rifle Brigade, has been committed for trial on the charge of embezzling the funds of the corps. In defence it is alleged that there was no fraudulent intention, and that the prosecution has been instituted from spite, while the circumstances would justify a civil action only.

THE VALUE OF A BOX AT HER MAJESTY'S THEATRE.—The box No. 124 in Her Majesty's Theatre, Haymarket, facing the stage, and measuring seven feet six inches by nine feet deep, with the right of admitting thereto six persons nightly, held for an unexpired term of about thirty-one years, was sold at the auction mart on Tuesday for £440.

KEW GARDENS will be open to the public (free) during the Easter holidays. The collection of camellia japonica, or Japan roses, and rhododendrons, from China, Chusan, Assam, Australia, and New Zealand, is now in fine flower. The recent additions to the museums are of a highly attractive character.

ROYAL INFIRMARY FOR DISEASES OF THE CHEST.—On Wednesday a dinner in behalf of the Hospital was given at the Freemasons' Tavern by a clause in the London Tavern—MR. R. W. CROSSLEY, M.P., in the chair. The hospital was established in 1857, and is now in commodious premises, in 1851, by the late Duke of Cambridge and Dr. Isaac Baxter, who respectively filled the offices of president and physician. The sum of £1,000 was collected during the evening.

DISTRIBUTION OF ROYAL CHARITIES.—On Monday morning according to annual custom, the Royal bounties and gate-money were distributed to the aged pensioners in the various workhouses in and around the metropolis, at the Royal Almoner's office, in Middle-row, Holborn. Lord Wilton, Lord Alfred Paget, Lord Colville, the Right Rev. Lord Bishop of Oxford, the Rev. Dr. Jelf, Sub-Almoner; and Colonel Dodgin, Esq., Assistant Secretary, were present. The number of the recipients were nearly eighty years of age.—On Thursday afternoon the annual custom of the distribution of the Maundy money took place at Whitehall Chapel.

GENERAL THEATRICAL FUND.—MR. C. Mr. Tom Taylor occupied the chair on Saturday evening at a dinner at the Freemasons' Tavern, attended by the supporters of this fund. Amongst the company were MR. JUSTICE HILLIARD, M.P., and MESSRS. SERJEANT WILLIAMS, SERJEANT ADAMS, MR. Benjamin Webster, Mr. T. P. Cooke, Mr. Compton, and other distinguished members of the dramatic profession. In the course of the evening Mr. Coates the Chairman remarked that Her Majesty the Queen, who had sent in the thirteenth time an annual subscription of £100 to the General Theatrical Fund, was in every way a kind and liberal patroness of the drama. Her Majesty had graciously sent to the committee a copy of the play, "Used Up," performed in her presence at the London theatres, and by the performers at Windsor Castle, and recalled it the remembrance of the pleasure it had afforded her. The honorary treasurer, in replying to the toast in honour of the institution, stated that during the last year £600 had been distributed to the aged members of the profession. Nineteen annuitants of from £60 to £90 had been granted; but only £1,000 had been invested, and £350 had been voted towards the building of the Dramatic College. The subscriptions during the evening amounted to £390.

COUNTRY NEWS.

A noble monument has just been raised in the Nottingham General Cemetery to the memory of the late Dr. Marshall Hall.

A fatal accident occurred on the line during the engaging of a boat which was leaving the Great Eastern, and the foreman of the carpenters was drowned.

A man at Wick the other day purchased a large skate, and on opening it discovered in the stomach a box of "patent oxygene tubes," which were quite uninjured by the fish.

Lord Chelmsford has signified his consent to become president of the Chelmsford Literary and Mechanics' Institution—a post left vacant by the late Bishop of Rochester.

The Birkenhead Commission, at the meeting on Tuesday, proved of Mr. J. B. Langley, the gentleman conducting a law suit for the principal streets of Birkenhead.

Thomas Chantler, or Chantry, Joseph Webb, charged with the murder of John Hughes, under circumstances of great barbarity, at Bewdley, on the 3rd of January, 1860, was found guilty of "Manslaughter," and sentenced to penal servitude for life.

At the Quarter Sessions held at Lancaster, on Monday, there were not a single prisoner for trial, the unprecedented circumstance in the Chairman, THOMAS GREENE, Esq., was presented with a pair of white gloves.

A BOILER EXPLOSION occurred on Monday at Seaton Burn Colliery, about five miles from Newcastle-upon-Tyne, which caused the death of two men, besides inflicting injuries of a various character on several others. At the time of the explosion about one hundred men were standing at the pit's mouth waiting to descend.

LONDONDERRY ELECTION.—After a sharp siege the seat vacated by the elevation of Mr. Henry to the peerage was by the Liberals, the eminent railway contractor. His professor to be a moderate Conservative, but the election was carried by the Liberals, and Mr. Ross Mackenzie, Q.C. Goes on Liberal. The following were the gross numbers at the close of the poll:—Ross Mackenzie, Q.C., 1,000; Ross, 1,000.

DINNISHEAD CRIME IN THE WESTERN COUNTIES.—The west of England continues to be infested by the Rev. Roger Martin of last week. His Lordship congratulated the grand jury on the meagre calendar, and said he had never known so small a number of prisoners to be taken assizes in Cornwall, Somerset, and Wilts. He attributed the great diminution in crime to the increase of employment afforded by railway extension.

THE BIRKENHEAD DOCKS.—The works committee of the Mersey Docks Board have recommended the construction of two graving docks at Birkenhead—one of a length of 600 feet, and the other 670, by a width of 80 to 100 feet. The committee also recommend that £10,000 should be taken from the dock rates to meet the cost of the works, which is to cost being £112,000. The recommendation of the committee has been adopted.

DEATH OF A MONEY-HOARDER.—MISS MARY WEARY recently died, at the age of seventy-four years, at her house in Bath-street, Bath. For years before her death she did not permit any person to enter her room, which was filled with old newspapers, among which, during last week, £850 was found in cash, and some rolls of notes of the East Cornwall Bank, which had been issued in excess of the bank's circulation, by mistake, years. Several hundreds of pounds were found wrapped up in cotton, and a jug was found filled with sovereigns. Her property is valued at several thousand pounds in cash, and some thousands were found in the bedlick. Nearly a quarter of a century ago Miss Weary's father died, leaving property to the value of £10,000. It is not known yet how much property Miss Weary has left; but it has been estimated at from £20,000 to £30,000.

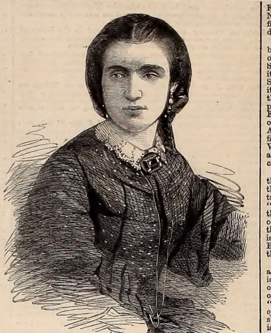
SUICIDE WITH A BURGLAR.—A little before one o'clock on Thursday morning, at Bradley, a village about a mile from Bilston-street, Sheffield, was awakened by a noise in her bedroom, and on looking to the foot of the bed saw a man in the act of pulling off her husband's and her trousers pockets. She at once awoke her husband, and the latter immediately jumped out of bed and seized the man. The latter also by the collar, they struggled together on the floor, but the burglar being the stronger of the two, he got away from them, after cutting off the head of the chateau. A desperate struggle ensued, during which the man bit off the end of Mr. Bradley's finger into the mouth. Mr. Bradley, assistance now arrived, for the landlord's cries of "Police!" and the wife's shrieks of "Murder!" had aroused the inmates of the adjoining houses and a watchman, and these going to the help of Gregory brought the struggle to a conclusion, and the latter was quickly secured.

MURDER.—A maid servant named Sewell, employed by a farmer, named Goodwin, at Cranwell, was murdered on Monday week while alone in the house. She was found by her master lying on the floor of the kitchen, her head resting on a pillow, and her throat cut in a shocking manner, with the back, including the neck, almost severed from the body. It appears that Goodwin, who had been to market, returned to his house about noon, and on entering found the deceased lying as described. Information was given to the police, and a search was made for the murderer, but without success. On the morning of Tuesday week a melancholy addition was made to the list of murders in this county. Two of Mr. Sheldon's keepers were securing the pheasants near Stubham, Herts, when they encountered some men, who refused to leave the preserves. A scuffle ensued between them; the reply was the discharge of two guns. Sanderson was mortally wounded in the head, and the companion received a severe shot discharges wound. Five men have been apprehended on suspicion of having committed the murder. The case of the late Mr. Bailey was killed by a blow aimed at her by one of the female inmates while in a paroxysm of rage. Mr. Bailey, it appears, had been in failing health for several months past. The man Coley, who is suspected of having murdered Elizabeth Hall, a young woman, at Wellingborough, on Sunday, is also charged with having plundered the deceased lady's premises of money, jewellery, and plate, was examined before the magistrates at Stamford on Wednesday week. The medical evidence appeared to be conclusive as to the fact that the poor woman had been murdered. The final examination of the prisoner, Fenton, who stands charged with the wilful murder of Charles Spencer, at Walkeringham, took place before the East Retford bench of magistrates yesterday week. Some additional evidence was called to prove that a brace of pistols similar to those found, by the boy of the murdered man had been seen in the prisoner's house. Medical evidence was also given to the effect that the blood found on the prisoner's clothes was human; and at the conclusion of Mr. Hyndall's evidence the prisoner was fully committed for trial. Having nothing to say nothing, was fully committed to Nottingham to take his trial on the capital charge.

LITERATURE.

THE MAGAZINES FOR APRIL.

Blackwood.—"The Life of the Duke of Wellington," by Brialmont, as amended by Mr. Gleig, forms the first article for this month in Blackwood. It would not be easy to dissent from the opinion that a soldier and a foreigner who, like Brialmont, unites the requisite professional attainments with the large and just views and literary skill of a competent historian, and belongs to a nation whose prejudices are not enlisted against a successful English General, is especially competent to write a biography of this kind, so far as the military portion of it is concerned; while a gentleman like Mr. Gleig possesses singular qualifications for editing, and to a great extent rewriting, that part of the work which deals with the period of the Duke's life which is more mixed up with the social and political institutions of this country. The review of the book is to be continued. In the last number of this serial we had a defence of Nelson, in reference to the affair of Carraciolo, which, however it might not be wholly satisfactory, was welcome, and spoke to one of the strongest sympathies of Englishmen. We cannot say that the continuation of the subject in the article this month entitled "Lady Hamilton" addresses itself by any means with directness to the same sympathies. Beyond the fact, which is, on the whole, proved, that it was owing to Lady Hamilton's influence that Nelson was enabled to victual and water his fleet, and so to press on to the victory of the Nile, we confess we do not see that such a case is made out for the production of the biographical sketch as to neutralise the repulsiveness of the subject. In all charity we think that it would be better if the career of a woman who, undoubtedly singularly gifted, was as certainly, to say the very least, not calculated to shine as an example, was allowed to pass into oblivion. For the rest, the themes chosen in this number, and the mode in which they are discussed, are worthy of all consideration; especially we would notice the friendly manner in which Sir Archibald Alison is indirectly defended against certain slashing attacks which have been recently made on him in a contemporary periodical; and the article entitled "Parliamentary Duelling," which is written with that sort of knowledge which can only be derived from personal observation, and which is quite indispensable to any proper treatment of the inside matters of the House of Commons.



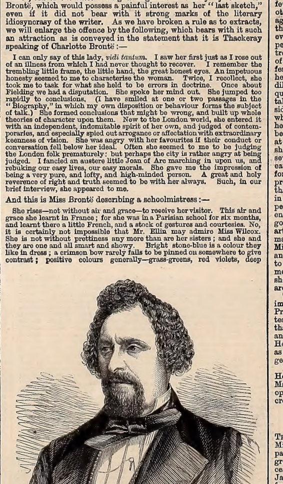
Fraser.—At head of the list of contents stand the first chapters of a new tale entitled "Gryll Grange," by the author of "Headlong Hall." Those who, in times a little past now, have enjoyed Mr. Peacock's peculiar excellences will gladly welcome his newest essay, and we think we may venture to say that they will not be disappointed in the perusal of the story, as far as it has gone. There is a meritorious article in the shape of a sketch of that William of Orange who was nicknamed "The Silent," and we get from it a very adequate idea of the man and of his age. A new contributor to the class of dissertations which have hitherto appeared under the signature of A.K.H.B. launches an essay headed "Why Virtue and Merit are Rarely Rewarded," which is so cognate to those to which we allude, and which have previously appeared, that we are almost inclined at times to think that only the subscribed initials are changed. Dr. Vaughan's "Revolutions in English History," together with a continuation, if we remember rightly, of previous articles under the same title—namely, "Hints for Vagabonds" and "Representation of Every Locality and Intelligence," by Mr. Hare, with further chapters of the "Literary Suburb of the Eighteenth Century," go a great way to make up the bulk of a very good number. The treatise on "Military Education" is every way worthy of perusal, while the short sharp condemnation of that growing species of literary treachery, which is here designated "The Publication-of-Letters Nuisance," and which is àpropos of the recent appearance of Humboldt's correspondence, we confess goes very straight to opinions on the subject which we are bold enough to entertain. "What Are We Coming To?" assumes a shape which has not been very successful of late—namely, that of conversations, or rather of colloquies, on men and things put into the mouths of an imaginary collection of persons; but, in this instance, there is happily not so much, if there is anything, to object to as is usual in this class of article. Although the catalogue we have given is long, it by no means exhausts the list of articles.

The Universal Review.—Very good indeed. "The National Money-box" is continued, and, prosaic as the subject is on the face of it, it partakes as much of the nature of romance in a certain sense as a sketch of Aladdin's cave, or perhaps, better still, of the retreat of the "Forty Thieves," for the talk is of treasure to an extent that makes one's head ache. At the same time there is a practical point of view in reference to the handling of the national millions which is particularly cognoscent. We cannot resist quoting the following sketch of one of our circumlocution offices:—

> The money paid, with slight formality, by the general taxpayer to the collector, has to pass through very mysterious ceremonies on its arrival at the head-quarters of the "department." Sometimes an unhappy individual has occasion to make such a final payment—say for property tax—himself. On arriving at Somerset House, and hunting till he finds the proper portal, out of the many opening into the double quadrangle, he stumbles through a badly-lighted labyrinth of corridors (on some of which the plaster is not yet dry), escaping as he can the pitfal of steps, which open here and there beneath his feet, and are barely discernible in the gloom. Pursuing his inquiries, he gets sent up several wrong staircases, and is bandied about from "No. 69," to "No. 96;" and from "Mr. Jones's office," to "Mr. Jacob's office." It is a rule that nobody knows anything about anybody else's business in Somerset House. At length he actually reaps the reward of perseverance, by discovering the right "office;" where, of course, he proffers the money he has to pay to the elegant gentleman who sits at the table. Of course it is not received, but after being frowned into proper humility, and cross-questioned almost to an inch of his life, he is told to wait whilst certain entries are made in a book, and some hieroglyphics scrawled on a printed "ticket." A bell is then struck (they don't ring bells in Somerset House), and an attendant summoned from the messengers' room, into whose charge he is consigned. For the ensuing twenty minutes he is enabled to obtain as lively an idea of being "taken into custody" as is ever likely to fall within the experience of any honest and solvent Briton who keeps outside the Russian or Austrian frontier. His liveried guardian watches him like a detective policeman. For awhile he might be excused for believing that he was suspected of an intention of stealing money from the place, instead of paying it in. He is led, like a helpless victim (as he is), up stairs and down—from officer to officer—seeing more entries made—more hieroglyphics scrawled, and fresh "tickets" exchanged; until at length he is ushered into a sort of cage, where he stands behind a wire screen until some of the functionaries on the other side can find time to take his cash and give him his quittance. Woe be to him, even then, should he tender gold and one of his sovereigns be light, even by a quarter of a grain! He is ignominiously dismissed, with the sensation of being caught in an act of felony, and has all the work to do over again. One can hardly wonder if next time he should save himself from a repetition of the troublesome process by sending his payment direct to the Chancellor of the Exchequer, under the title of "conscience-money." These formalities are, perhaps, essential—some to prevent blunders, or malfeasance in the office—others, to enable the department to satisfy the morbid longing of the House of Commons for "accounts and papers." To the tax-paying public, nevertheless, they occasion immense trouble and waste of time. Business men, who are obliged to go through much of this sort of work in buying stamps, clearing cargoes, and the like, are forced to keep a regular staff of clerks for this particular purpose.

Not long since, in this review, attention was called to the literature of a kindred country, Denmark; and the success with which the attempt was received fully justified a return to the subject, which is made in the present number in a review of the poetry of "Ewald," which we recommend to attention. Again we congratulate the conductors of this review on the choice of a subject which, under the head of "A New Reading of an Old Story," gives us a most interesting dissertation on Edouard Aroux's "Mysteries of Chivalry and Platonic Love in the Middle Ages"—in short, of the Troubadours and their kind—which is remarkable for its theory on the subject. We can only just refer to one more article, "The Country Gentleman," founded on the memoirs of Assheton Smith, before concluding with the opinion that, on the whole, this is the very best number that has appeared of this able serial.

Macmillan is varied enough, and solid withal, without particularly including among the articles that on the "Preservation of Stone." That on "A Hedgeside Poet," namely, John Withers, an East Anglian peasant, to whom nature gave a portion—great or small time will show, for he is still alive and not old—of that strange gift called the poetic faculty; and the sketch of "An English Painter's Tomb," that of William Hogarth, at Chiswick, are noticeable among the less pretentious articles; Tom Brown still runs his career at Oxford, and the author of that story also contributes a treatise on "Italy Resurgent and Britain Looking On."



MISS E. A. FREETH, PIANIST.

The Cornhill marches on its triumphant way, with its pleasant tales continued, while the variations are as agreeable as the standing dishes, one of the latter being a fragment of a story by Charlotte Brontë, which would possess a painful interest as her "last sketch," even if it did not bear with it strong marks of the literary idiosyncrasy of the writer. As we have broken a rule as to extracts, we will enlarge the offence by the following, which bears with it such an attraction as is conveyed in the statement that it is Thackeray speaking of Charlotte Brontë:—

> I can only say of this lady, vidi tantum. I saw her first just as I rose out of an illness from which I had never thought to recover. I remember the trembling little frame, the little hand, the great honest eyes. An impetuous honesty seemed to me to characterise the woman. Twice, I recollect, she took me to task for what she held to be errors in doctrine. Once about Fielding we had a disputation. She spoke her mind out. She jumped too rapidly to conclusions. (I have smiled at one or two passages in the "Biography," in which my own disposition or behaviour forms the subject of talk.) She formed conclusions that might be wrong, and built up whole theories of character upon them. New to the London world, she entered it with an independent, indomitable spirit of her own, and judged of contemporaries, and especially spied out arrogance or affectation with extraordinary keenness of vision. She was angry with her favourites if their conduct or conversation fell below her ideal. Often she seemed to me to be judging the London folk prematurely: but perhaps the city is rather angry at being judged. I fancied an austere little Joan of Arc marching in upon us, and rebuking our easy lives, our easy morals. She gave me the impression of being a very pure, and lofty, and high-minded person. A great and holy reverence of right and truth seemed to be with her always. Such, in our brief interview, she appeared to me.

And this is Miss Brontë describing a schoolmistress:—

> She rises—not without air and grace—to receive her visitor. This air and grace she learnt in France; for she was in a Parisian school for six months, and learnt there a little French, and a stock of gestures and courtesies. No, it is certainly not impossible that Mr. Ellin may admire Miss Wilcox. She is not without prettiness any more than are her sisters; and she and they are one and all smart and showy. Bright stone-blue is a colour they like in dress; a crimson bow rarely fails to be pinned on somewhere to give contrast; positive colours generally—grass-greens, red violets, deep > yellows—are in favour with them; all harmonies are at a discount. Many people would think Miss Wilcox, standing there in her blue merino dress and pomegranate ribbon, a very agreeable woman. She has regular features; the nose is a little sharp, the lips a little thin, good complexion, light red hair. She is very business-like, very practical; she never in her life knew a refinement of feeling or of thought; she is entirely limited, respectable, and self-satisfied. She has a cool, prominent eye; sharp and shallow pupil, unshrinking and inexpansive; pale irid; light eyelashes, light brow. Miss Wilcox is a very proper and decorous person; but she could not be delicate or modest, because she is naturally destitute of sensitiveness. Her voice, when she speaks, has no vibration; her face no expression; her manner no emotion. Blush or tremor she never knew.

MR. J. W. RAYNOR, MANAGER OF THE TROUPE CALLED CHRISTY'S MINSTRELS.

The Dublin University has generally, and this month it does not fail to have, something curious and out of the way. We particularly allude to the first article, "Grainne O'Mailley, the She-Pirate," which is presented here as a true history, but which any one may be excused as taking for a romance. It was good policy to take that part of Mr. Oliphant's narrative of Lord Elgin's mission which relates to Japan as the basis of a dissertation; for the interest of that part of the subject, to our mind, far exceeds that which attaches to the Chinese division of the work, and, what has been done here is well done. The more serious subjects are comprised in articles on "Ancient Sanscrit Literature," a sketch of the romantic history of Marino Faliero, and an account of a "New Route from San Francisco to New Orleans;" and, besides this, there is the usual quantum of fiction, a solid review of Howitt's "Man of the People," and a discourse on the "Mort d'Arthur;" and this is not all, either.

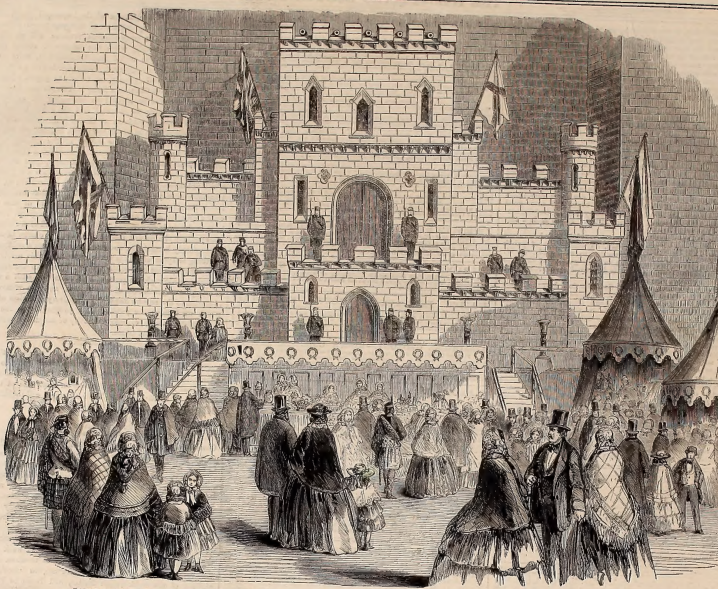
Colburn's New Monthly.—Not only great knowledge of the subject, but a vivacity which is kindred to the matter, characterises an article on "The French Army." A descriptive and historical account of Savoy must be useful as well as interesting just now, and here we have it very well done. In a short notice a special verdict is given on the Shakspeare Question—that is, the matter of Mr. Collins's folio and its emendations—which goes to this, that, while an opinion is stated that Mr. Hamilton proves his case, Mr. Collier is acquitted of positive complicity. The mention that there are papers on the Emperor Frederick II. and Pope and Bolingbroke, àpropos of some of Mr. George Rose's gossiping statements, on Lord Dundonald's Autobiography, on Marine Artillery, on the Wine Question, besides fiction and travels, and a review of Yonge's "Life of the Duke of Wellington," will sufficiently show that the contents of this number are as varied as they are well chosen; and we can congratulate the conductors of this magazine on having produced an excellent number.

The Eclectic.—There is an ecclesiastical tone about this serial on the present occasion. The first article is on the "Kirk of Scotland," the second relates to "Daniel Wilson, Bishop of Calcutta," the third treats of the "Holy Week at Rome," and the seventh is on "Congregational Principles;" so that in some sort four sections of the Christian Church are impartially brought together under one cover. The subject of Book Illustration, which has now reached the importance of a special art and craft, is well treated; and there is a very interesting, and indeed amusing, account of a visit to Edgeworthtown. The "Brief Notices of Books" comprehend thirteen sections, embracing almost every literary variety.

The specialty of the National this month is Mr. Ewing Ritchie's admirable sketch of Mr. Gladstone; and the Englishman's Journal is well filled with matter carefully adapted to its particular views and objects; we may mention as specimens "The General Education of Women," "The Position of Women in France," and the "Hospital for Sick Children." The number of Mr. Lever's One of Them is particularly good this month, for it contains mostly that sketching of a particular class of Irishmen of whose idiosyncrasy he is a master painter.

MISS FREETH.

The subject of the present notice, whose Portrait this week appears in our columns, is the young and talented pianist of whom we have already had occasion more than once to speak in terms of high praise. Miss Freeth, though a native of London, passed the first few years of her life in South Wales. As in the case of so many other musical celebrities, her talent evinced itself at a very early age, and, although her adoption of the musical profession was not then contemplated by her friends, she displayed unmistakable evidences of the vocation for which nature intended her. At a period when others are scarcely able to distinguish between bass and treble clef she had mastered several of the more simple compositions of Beethoven, Mendelssohn, and others. The talent so early manifested was carefully cultivated. Miss Freeth was sent to Paris to pursue her studies under foreign instruction. After two years of careful and diligent labour, she was placed under Emile Prudent, and subsequently under Alexandre Billet. During her residence in Paris the talent displayed by the young English student drew upon her considerable attention, and on several occasions she assisted at concerts, where her performance excited general admiration. It was upon her return to England that Miss Freeth made her first appearance before an English audience, at a concert given for a charitable purpose at Swansea. So much enthusiasm was created on that occasion that shortly after she gave a series of concerts herself and assisted at several others in Swansea, Carmarthen, Neath, and other places. At each of these her performance made a decided sensation, and gained for her considerable local fame. The warm eulogies and encouraging predictions awarded her by the provincial papers have been more than justified by her subsequent career. From her first appearance in London, at one of Mr. Hullah's orchestral concerts (when her performance of Mendelssohn's rondo in E flat gained for her an enthusiastic recall), up to the present time the young pianist has gone on advancing both in public favour and in knowledge of her art. Each time she has appeared in public she has received unusual marks of encouragement from her auditors and from the press. Miss Freeth's style is distinguished by its brilliancy and correctness, and her touch has a certain crispness that gives a bell-like clearness to every note. Her playing is remarkable for its delicacy and refinement no less than its power; and, as the Athenæum has observed, she has elegance, lightness, and a certain originality of style which are attractive.



This is especially noticeable in her rendering of the graceful and imaginative compositions of Chopin, or the descriptive morceaux of Prudent, which (whatever the opinion as to their merits) certainly test a performer's taste. But it is in works of the classical school that Miss Freeth has made the greatest impression upon connoisseurs, and it is there that she may most surely hope to establish her fame. Her rendering of the pianoforte works of Mendelssohn, distinguished as it is by masterly execution and intensity of feeling, proves her genial appreciation of the works of this profound composer.

Miss Freeth's last public appearance was at the concert of Mr. Henry Leslie's Choir, at St. Martin's Hall, on Thursday, the 29th of March, when she performed Beethoven's beautiful sonata in D minor, op. 29, with a brilliancy, finish, and expression which delighted a crowded and highly musical audience.

MR. J. W. RAYNOR.

The proprietor and manager of the popular troupe called Christy's Minstrels is Mr. J. W. Raynor, the gentleman whose Portrait accompanies this memoir. These musicians have now for two years been a great feature in London—first at the St. James's Theatre, and successively at the Surrey Theatre, the Polygraphic Hall, and the St. James's Hall. They owe their combination to Mr. E. P. Christy, from whom they derive their designation of Christy's Minstrels, and first made their appeal to public favour at Buffalo (U.S.) in 1842. Their success was almost without parallel, and at the termination of their performances in that city they commencd a tour through the United States, which extended from 1842 to 1847, with the same gratifying result. Arriving at New York, they established themselves at the Mechanics' Hall in the Broadway, where they remained eight years, giving nightly entertainments to houses invariably crowded, and with a popularity ever increasing. On the retirement of Mr. Christy, with a fortune of not less, it is said, than 500,000 dollars, the direction of the enterprise devolved upon Mr. J. W. Raynor (the basso of the troupe). Under the management of this gentleman increasing success and popular favour have attended the minstrels in the United States, Canada, California, in London, in the provinces, in Dublin before the Viceregal Court, at Oxford before the Prince of Wales, and in Paris, where they were honoured by command at the Tuileries to perform before the Emperor Napoleon III., the Empress, and the Court of France. They made their début in London August 3, 1857. Since then their appearances in public have had no remission, and whatever has been the locality in which the performances have taken place they have been welcomed and encouraged by crowded audiences and warm applause. Mr. Raynor, who has a sonorous bass voice, sings always with immense feeling, and enjoys a high reputation for his powers of pathos. To this has not a little contributed a new song and chorus called "Nelly Gray," composed for him expressly by Mr. Balfe, and written by Mr. John Oxenford, which is received every night with acclamations. Mr. Raynor sings these pathetic verses with great taste and expression, remarkably in accordance with the grace and simplicity of the words, and the attractive melody with which they are associated. The entire troupe, indeed, may claim great credit for their pathetic achievements, both singly and combined. No wonder, therefore, that the Christy Minstrels have a public of their own, and prosper under all circumstances of time and place, and in defiance of competition.

Our Portrait of Mr. Raynor is from a photograph by Mr. John Watkins, Parliament-street.

FANCY BAZAAR RECENTLY HELD IN THE MUSIC HALL, EDINBURGH, ON BEHALF OF THE ARTISAN COMPANIES OF THE EDINBURGH RIFLE BRIGADE

MILITARY BAZAAR, EDINBURGH.

A FANCY bazaar on behalf of the Artisan Companies of the Edinburgh Rifle Brigade was held a short time ago in the Music Hall, Edinburgh. We learn from a local print that the hall was crowded day and night, and that there was a clear gain of £1000 for the benefit of the artisan companies. In the hall was a mimic orchestral fort (represented in our Engraving), behind the battlements of which a band poured its enlivening strains. Among the visitors to the bazaar were the Dowager Countess of Glasgow, the Countess of Rothes, Lady Adelaide Keith Murray, Lady Sellar, Admiral Ramsay, Lady Ramsay, Lady Home, Lady Elizabeth Moore, Lady Elizabeth Cartwright, Lord and Lady Massey, the Marquis of Bute, and most of the notabilities of the neighbourhood. As memento of this magnificent bazaar, a number of stereoscopic views of the interior of the hall were taken, most of which were sold almost as soon as they emerged from the camera. To the officers of the four Artisan Companies, who by their presence and personal exertions contributed so much to the good order and success of the exhibition, much praise is due; to Mr. Seympour, who, it is right to mention, behaved most generously in the matter of arrangements and decorations, equal praise must be given; and Mr. Macaulay, the courteous custodier of the Hall, also deserves great credit.

GREAT FIRE AT BRIDGETOWN, BARBADOES.

A LARGE and valuable portion of the city of Bridgetown, Barbadoes, has been laid in ruins. On the morning of the 14th of February a destructive fire passed over it, sweeping away the principal business establishments, and, in many instances, entire districts. The cathedral was much injured from the explosions around. Trafalgar-square, its greatest ornament, is utterly destroyed. The loss of property is estimated at £300,000, and only £20,000 is said to be insured. The following is a list of the principal stores, lumber-yards, &c., destroyed by the fire:—Mr. J. H. Shannon's provision store; Mr. S. B. Arthur's ditto; Messrs. W. Seon and Co.'s ditto; Messrs. James A. Lynch's ditto; Mr. Samuel Boxill's ditto; Messrs. W. D. Spencer and Co.'s ditto; Messrs. M. B. Isaac and Co.'s ditto; Messrs. W. Kell and Co.'s ditto; Messrs. F. A. Clairmonte and Co.'s store; Mr. J. B. Massiah's lumberyard; Messrs. E. Knight and Co.'s ditto; Messrs. James Smith and Co.'s ditto; Messrs. G. W. McClean and Co.'s ditto; Mr. William Hewitt's ditto; Messrs. J. and G. Alleyne's ditto; Messrs. A. Jones and Co.'s ditto; Messrs. T. Crampton and Co.'s (partially) ditto; Messrs. Barrow and Dunnett's dry goods establishment; Messrs. D. F. Cotton and Co.'s ice and grocery establishments; the Commissariat buildings; Mr. A. G. Drinan's printing-office; Mrs. Chadwell's ditto; Mr. B. T. Young's two hardware stores; Mr. Edward King's ditto; Messrs. Griffith and Jaffray's store; Mr. John Gill's druggist establishment; Mr. Fidler's drug and stationery establishment; Mr. Stuart's druggist establishment; Mr. Catford's establishment; Messrs. P. Killeilyand Co.'s stores; Mr. William Bexill's (partially), timber-yard; Messrs. Trowbridge and Co.'s stores; Mr. MacAlaine's auction mart; Mr. N. H. Walrond's ditto; Mr. Morris's cabinet-maker's shop; Messrs. Curtis's sail-making establishment; Mr. S. Alleyne's provision stores.

PLAN OF BRIDGETOWN, BARBADOES, SHOWING THE PART DESTROYED BY THE RECENT FIRE.

The island of Barbadoes, one of the Caribbees, is the most easterly of the West India Islands. It is about twenty-one miles in length and fourteen in breadth, and most of its land is under cultivation. It lies twenty leagues east of St. Vincent, which may be seen on a clear day; twenty-five from St. Lucia; and twenty-eight south-east of Martinico. The houses of the planters are very numerous along the country, which, with the luxuriant productions of the soil, and the gently-swelling hills, form a delightful scene. Barbadoes appears to have declined both in its population and in its trade. This decline is ascribed to the succession of dreadful hurricanes with which this, with the other West India Islands, has been visited. In August, 1675, Barbadoes was visited by an awful hurricane. Neither tree nor house was left standing, except a few, sheltered by some hill or cliff, and the whole face of the country exhibited one scene of devastation, while the coast was strewed with wrecks, and many lives were lost at sea and on shore. The capital of the island had scarcely risen from the ashes to which it had been reduced, when it was torn from its foundations, and the whole country made a scene of desolation, by the storm of the 10th of October, 1780, in which above 4000 of the inhabitants miserably perished, and the damage of property was estimated at more than one million sterling. On the 11th of August, 1831, it was visited by another dreadful hurricane, surpassing even that of 1780; and the loss of life was estimated at 5000 souls, and the destruction of property was incalculable. Barbadoes was settled in the year 1624 by the English. In 1627 the island was made over, by patent, to the Earl of Carlisle, who afterwards conveyed this right to Lord Willoughby. After the Restoration the legislation of the island was vested in the Crown. Barbadoes is the residence of the Governor-General of all the British Windward Islands, and the see of a Bishop with authority over the same.

Bridgetown, the capital, is situated on Carlisle Bay, at the south-west end of the island; it is two miles in length and half a mile wide. Though irregularly built, it contains—we must now, alas! write contained—many very handsome houses, and a large square adorned with a good statue of Lord Nelson, who is a great favourite in the West Indies. It contains a cathedral, which is spacious and plain, its towers scarcely rising above the roof, for fear of hurricanes, for which reason also the churches are without steeples. Besides the churches there are several chapels, and a great number of schools for whites and blacks. The Council and Assembly meet and hold their sittings in the same building with the common prison; and here also the various law courts are held. There are some very excellent literary and scientific societies in the town, and some good libraries; and it possesses a college, founded by General Codrington. The population of Bridgetown is about 20,000. It was made a city in 1842.

The plan of the town which we have engraved is copied from one sent to the Governor by Mr. Marshall, superintendent of public works at Bridgetown, and was forwarded to us by Mr. J. W. Hossack. Our thanks are also due to other gentlemen who have sent sketches of the town. The parts destroyed by the recent fire are shaded in the Engraving.

By the Parana, which arrived at Southampton last Saturday morning with the West India mails, we have intelligence from Barbadoes to the 12th ult. The Globe and Barbadian newspaper establishments, which suffered severely by the fire on the 14th of February, have been enabled to resume operations by the kind assistance of the other journals. The coroner's inquest ordered by the Governor, though not enabled from the evidence adduced before them to pronounce the fire as positively the act of an incendiary, felt warranted in deciding that the fire, if not wilful, was occasioned by an attempt to rob the premises of Mr. John Alleyne. The Governor, on the jury's recommendation, had offered a reward of 1000 dols. for information that might lead to conviction, if the work of an incendiary. In a message to the Assembly, Governor Hincks, who was on the spot and an eyewitness, ascribes the great loss of property to these causes: 1. The lumber and coal yards in the centre of the city; 2. The narrowness of the streets; 3. The want of organised fire companies; 4. The insufficient supply of water. A sum of £500 has been voted by the Legislature for the relief of the destitute sufferers, and a public subscription for the same object, headed by Governor Hincks and several of the principal mercantile firms with 100 dols. each, lies open at the Colonial Bank and the Treasurer's office.

CALENDAR FOR THE WEEK.

SUNDAY, April 8.—Easter Sunday.
MONDAY, 9.—Easter Monday. Edward IV., King of England, died [of surfeit, 1483.
TUESDAY, 10.—Easter Tuesday. Louis II. of France, died, 879.
WEDNESDAY, 11.—George Canning born, 1770.
THURSDAY, 12.—Odessa bombarded, 1854.
FRIDAY, 13.—Handel died, 1759. Moon's last quarter, 1h. 34m., a.m.
SATURDAY, 14.—Rangoon stormed, 1852.

TIMES OF HIGH WATER AT LONDON-BRIDGE,
FOR THE WEEK ENDING APRIL 14, 1860.

Sunday.		Monday.		Tuesday.		Wednesday.		Thursday.		Friday.		Saturday.
M	A	M	A	M	A	M	A	M	A	M	A	M	A
h m	h m	h m	h m	h m	h m	h m	h m	h m	h m	h m	h m	h m	h m
3 25	3 45	4 5	4 25	4 45	5 7	5 28	5 50	6 13	6 39	7 7	7 39	8 17	8 59

THEATRE ROYAL, HAYMARKET.—Last Week but Two of THE OVERLAND ROUTE.—Monday, April 9, and during the Week, to commence at Seven, with THE OVERLAND ROUTE. Characters by Messrs. C. Mathews, Compton, Buckstone, Mrs. C. Mathews, &c. After which, first time, a new Fairy Romance, with new scenery by Fenton, O'Connor, &c., entitled THE PILGRIM OF LOVE.

NEW THEATRE ROYAL, ADELPHI.—Sole Proprietor and Manager, Mr. B. Webster.—Great attraction for the Easter Holidays.—On Monday, and during the Week, THE DEAD SHOT. Robert Landey (his original character), Mr. B. Webster; and the Fairy Extravaganza of THE FAIR ONE WITH THE GOLDEN LOCKS. Mr. J. L. Toole, Miss Woolgar. Commence at Seven.

ASTLEY'S—Proprietor, Mr. W. BATTY; Manager, Mr. EDWIN HUGHES.—Opens on EASTER MONDAY, APRIL 9, with a Grand Military Spectacle entitled THE HISTORY OF A FLAG. To give every effect to the Spectacle it will be supported by a new and efficient Dramatic Corps. The AMUSEMENTS in the CIRQUE will be supported by a Company of Continental Equestrians, comprising Mdlles. Monet, Marie, Fernando, De Berg, &c.; and Messrs H. Williams, Devereux, Watson, Fernando, and the Wonder of the World, "Jonathan Jack." Clowns, Messrs. Charles Watson and Thorne. The Entertainment concluding each Evening with a Laughable Farce. Doors open at Half-past Six; Performance commence at Seven o'Clock.

CRYSTAL PALACE.—GREAT "ELIJAH" PERFORMANCE by Three Thousand Performers, on WEDNESDAY, MAY 2. Conductor, Mr. Costa. Reserve-seat Tickets in blocks C, G, K, CC, GG, KK, and in the Transept Galleries, will be ready for issue to the public at the Crystal Palace, and at 2, Exeter Hall, at 10 a.m. on Tuesday, April 10. For tickets in the above central blocks early application is desirable.
By order, GEO. GROVE, SECRETARY.

CRYSTAL PALACE.—On Wednesday, May 2, 1860, a GREAT FESTIVAL PERFORMANCE of MENDELSSOHN'S ELIJAH, on the occasion of the Inauguration of the Bronze Memorial Statue of the Composer, provided by public subscription. The Band and Chorus will consist of nearly THREE THOUSAND PERFORMERS. The entire Musical Arrangements being undertaken by the Sacred Harmonic Society—Conductor, Mr. Costa. The Oratorio will commence at Three o'Clock. The Statue, which will be placed for the occasion on one of the upper terraces, will be unveiled at Six o'Clock. A great Torchlight Procession at Dusk.
PRICES OF TICKETS.—Admission Tickets (if purchased on or before the 1st of May), 5s.; by payment at the doors on the day of the Festival, 7s. 6d. Reserved Stalls (arranged in blocks, as at the Handel Festival), in the Area, 5s. extra; or in the corner Galleries, 10s. 6d. extra.
Tickets will be ready for issue at Ten o'Clock a.m. on Tuesday, the 10th of April, at the Crystal Palace, and at 2, Exeter Hall, where, also, plans of the seats may be inspected.
The new Season Tickets will admit on this occasion, subject to the usual regulations. The Programme may be had at the same time, on application as above.

CRYSTAL PALACE.—EASTER HOLIDAYS.—The Palace and Park will open at Nine a.m. on Easter Monday and Tuesday, from which hour trains will leave London-bridge and Pimlico in rapid succession, calling at intermediate stations as often as necessary.
The arrangements will comprise a VOCAL and INSTRUMENTAL CONCERT, in which Mdlle. Piccolomini will sing some of her most popular songs; Mr. Patey and other artists will also take part in it. The Orchestral Band of the Company will be strengthened for the occasion, and perform at intervals. Performances on the Great Festival Organ during the day.
The PICTURE GALLERY will reopen on Easter Monday. The whole series of Cotton Machinery will recommence working, together with the Printing Machines, Furnace Blasts, Centrifugal Pumps, and other Mechanical Illustrations in the Machinery Department.
In the Grounds the OUT-DOOR AMUSEMENTS will commence for the Season, comprising Boating on the Lakes, Archery, Cricket, Rifle Practice, Quoits, Bowls, &c.
The Flowers in the Place are now in great profusion and beauty.
Admission, 1s.; Children under Twelve, 6d.

CRYSTAL PALACE.—An arrangement has been concluded with the SOCIETE DES ORPHEONISTES of FRANCE for the visit of a large body of the members of the society to the Crystal Palace. The performances will take place in the Great Orchestra, in the Centre Transept, on Monday, Tuesday, and Thursday, the 25th, 26th, and 28th of June. The price of admission will be as follows:—
Sets of transferable tickets (one admission to each of the three performances, 12s. 6d. Reserved Seats, 12s. 6d. extra; or, if in the Galleries, 25s.
Applications for these seats will be received, and vouchers issued—as at the Handel Festival—from and after Tuesday, April 10, at the Offices at the Crystal Palace, and at Exeter Hall, where also plans of seats may be inspected.

MR. SIMS REEVES at the MONDAY POPULAR CONCERTS, ST. JAMES'S HALL, on MONDAY EVENING NEXT, APRIL 9, on which occasion the programme will be selected from the works of English Composers. Principal Performers:—Mr. Lindsay Sloper, M. Sainton, Signor Piatti, The London Glee and Madrigal Union under the direction of Mr. Land; Mr. Santley; and Mr. Sims Reeves. Conductor, Mr. Benedict. Stalls, 5s.; Balcony, 3s.; Unreserved Seats, 1s.; may be obtained of Chappell and Co.'s, 50, New Bond-street; Cramer and Co.'s, 201, Regent-street; Hammond's (Jullien's), 214, Regent street; Keith, Prowse, and Co.'s, 48, Cheapside; and at the Hall, 28 Piccadilly.

MR. and MRS. HOWARD PAUL'S FAREWELL SEASON at the ST. JAMES'S HALL, in their Gay, Dashing Entertainment, which will be given EVERY EVENING NEXT WEEK, and on Tuesday and Saturday Mornings, at 3. Mr. Howard Paul in three new Impersonation Songs. The astonishing "Double" of Mr. Sims Reeves, in "Geraldine" and "Fra Poco." Stalls, 3s.; Area, 2s.; Gallery, 1s. Commence at 8. Places may be secured at the Box-office, 28, Piccadilly.

MUSICAL UNION.—ERNST LUBECK, Pianist to the Court of the Hague, will make his début at the first MATINEE, APRIL 17, at ST. JAMES'S HALL. "Son talent est tout à fait extraordinaire, non seulement par un mécanisme prodigieuse, mais par un style musical excellent et irréprochable."—Berlioz. Vide Record, 1859, "Music in Paris." Nominations of Members to be sent, with name and address, to J. ELLA, Director.

THE SISTERS "SOPHIA AND ANNIE" will have the honour of appearing in an entirely new Entertainment (written expressly for them by an eminent author), entitled MERRY MEETINGS, at BELFAST, MONDAY, APRIL 9, and Every Evening the Week.

MR. ALBERT SMITH has the honour to announce the Last Season of his Entertainment in London, his lease of the Egyptian Hall expiring in August next.
On EASTER MONDAY will be revived, in accordance with the very frequently-expressed wishes of his visitors, THE ASCENT OF MONT BLANC, with Pictorial Additions, sketched and photographed during his visit to Chamouni last autumn. The general lecture will include the most popular scenes brought forward during his past nine years' series of tours; and will embrace the Rhine, Switzerland, the Fair of Baden-Baden, the France, the Old Diligence, and many other subjects very popular in their time, but now almost forgotten, which will be introduced from time to time, during these final representations. The Chinese Room and Museum will remain untouched. The Entertainment will be given every evening, except Saturday, at Eight o'clock, and Tuesday and Saturday Afternoons, at Three o'clock.
Extract from the "Times" correspondent's Letter of Tuesday, April 3, 1860.
THE ANNEXATION OF SAVOY.
(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.) CHAMBERY, March 29.
The little abortive excitement which was got up yesterday has completely subsided. The second detachment of French troops which had been expected did not arrive, and—I don't know whether from economy or a feeling of shame—the great majority of the flags have disappeared. With the exception of those at the railway station, the public buildings, and two large ones on the tower of the château, not fifty flags remain in the whole town, to which the windows of the French Consulate contribute a considerable share. The French soldiers have quite lost their attraction; they pass unheeded and uncared for, as you or I would; nay, more so, for an Inverness wrapper announcing the traveller in these regions is an object of no small interest. The sharp-eyed Savoyards spy guineas in modest Scotch woollen trousers, whereas they never suspect anything but sous in red ones. Oh! if the good Helvetic Confederation had intrusted me with getting up an anti French movement in Savoy, it would not have taken long, nor would it have ruined their finances! Some hundred thousand printed schedules, with "Union à la France, - point d'Anglais!" on them; or, if they would have liked to turn the feeling altogether in their favour, it would have cost very little more to add, "Union à la Suisse et deux fois autant d'Anglais." Such schedules would have worked wonders, I am not sure whether they would not have produced a revolution, and that just in the most important part of Savoy—the three neutralised districts. The tocsin would have sounded in all the valleys round Mont Blanc, and the people would have clamoured for Mr. Albert Smith, their patron, who has done already so much for Chamouni, to lead them against the Zouaves.

CHRISTY'S MINSTRELS.—Polygraphic Hall, King William-street, Strand.—Farewell Season in London. Every Evening at Eight, and Every Saturday Morning at Three o'Clock. Tickets and places may be secured at the Hall from Eleven till Four, and at Mr. Austin's, West-end Box-office, St. James's Hall, Piccadilly. Sole Proprietor and Manager, Mr. J. W. Raynor. Secretary, H. Montague.

ALBAIN'S CHOIR and ORCHESTRA.—The COLOURED OPERA TROUPE'S incomparable CONCERTS of Refined NEGRO MUSIC, in Court costume, thus:—Monday April 9, and all the Week, COVENTRY. Address, W. Albain, 21, Newington-crescent, London, S.

EASTER HOLIDAYS.—The SOUTH KENSINGTON MUSEUM, with the Pictures presented by Mr. Sheepshanks, the Pictures of the National Gallery, British School (by authority of the director and trustees), and the Art Schools for male students, will be OPEN FREE every Morning and Evening, from the 9th to the 14th of April, inclusive. Hours, daytime from ten till five; evening from seven till ten.
By order of the Committee of Council on Education.

PRACTICAL GEOLOGY.—KING'S COLLEGE, London.—Professor TENNANT, F.G.S., will give a Course of Twelve LECTURES on GEOLOGY having especial reference to the application of the science to ENGINEERING, Mining, Architecture, and Agriculture. The Lectures will commence on FRIDAY MORNING, APRIL 20, at Nine o'Clock. They will be continued on each succeeding Wednesday and Friday, at the same hour. Fee, £1 11s. 6d. R. W. JELF, D.D., Principal.

CANCER HOSPITAL, LONDON and BROMPTON.
Secretary's Offices—167, Piccadilly.
FORM OF LEGACY.
To the benevolent who desire to become benefactors by will to this institution the following form of legacy is recommended:—
"I give and bequeath unto the treasurer or treasurers for the time being of an institution known by the name of the Cancer Hospital, London, situate at 167, Piccadilly, and also at Brompton Middlesex, the sum of   , to be raised and paid by and out of my ready money and personal effects, which by law I may or can charge with the payment of the same (and not out of any part of my lands, tenements, or hereditaments), to be applied in and towards carrying on the charitable designs of the said institution."
By order, W. J. COCKERELL, Secretary.

MONEY ADVANCED Without Securities.—National Loan Fund, 9, Adam-street, Adelphi, Strand, London. Loans from £5 to £500 with Sureties. Loans from £5 to £200 without Sureties, at extra-risk premium. Bills discounted. Strictest secrecy can be relied on. Forms, 2d. G. LAWRENCE, Manager.

SMART'S WRITING INSTITUTION, 97B, Quadrant, Regent-street (entrance in Swallow-street).—Removed from Piccadilly. Open from Ten till Nine daily. Persons of all ages received (privately), and taught at any time suiting their own convenience. Lessons one hour each. No classes. No extras. Improvement guaranteed in Eight to Twelve Easy Lessons. Separate rooms for Ladies, to which department (if preferred) Mrs. Smart will attend. For prospectuses, terms, &c., apply to Mr. Smart, as above.

POSTAGE OF THE ILLUSTRATED LONDON NEWS.

AT HOME.

Copies bearing the impressed stamp (which must be exposed to view) circulate FREE through the Post Office, for fifteen days from the date of publication, to all parts of the United Kingdom and the Channel Islands; unless addressed to persons within the free delivery of the place where they are posted, when they become liable to a postage of one penny each, which must be prepaid by affixing a postage-stamp. The free delivery of London, so far as applies to this rule, extends to such places only as are within three miles of the General Post Office.

Unstamped copies should have two penny postage-stamps affixed to each.

FOR FOREIGN PARTS.

The impressed stamp is of no service for copies which are to be sent abroad: these must have postage-stamps affixed to them according to the following rates:—

Africa, West Coast of—Penny Stamp
Alexandria—Penny Stamp
Australia—Penny Stamp
Brazils—Penny Stamp
California—Two Stamps
Canada—Penny Stamp
Cape of Good Hope—Penny Stamp
China—Two Stamps
Constantinople—Penny Stamp. Thin paper
Denmark—Penny Stamp. Thin paper
Egypt—Penny Stamp
France—Penny Stamp. Thin paper
Germany—Penny Stamp. Thin paper
Holland—Penny Stamp. Thin paper
India—Two Stamps. Thin paper
Mexico—Penny Stamp
New Zealand—Penny Stamp
Norway—Penny Stamp. Thin paper
Russia—Penny Stamp. Thin paper
Sardinia—Two Stamps. Thin paper
Spain—Two Stamps. Thin paper
Sweden—Penny Stamp. Thin paper
Switzerland—Penny Stamp. Thin paper
United States—Penny Stamp
West Indies—Penny Stamp

An edition is printed on thin paper specially for foreign postage. The postage of this Journal printed on the ordinary stout paper is double to those places which require, as marked in the above list, the thin-paper edition. For further information see "The British Postal Guide," published quarterly, by Kelly and Co., Old Boswell-court.

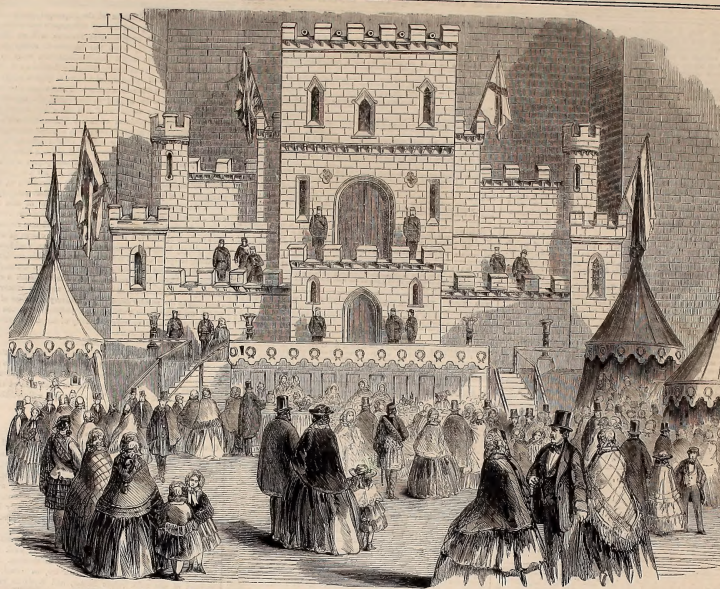
THE ILLUSTRATED LONDON NEWS.

LONDON, SATURDAY, APRIL 7, 1860.

THE alterations which have been proposed in reference to the stamp on newspapers have caused some discussion and some remonstrance to the Chancellor of the Exchequer on one or two points. The entire abolition of the impressed stamp bears on the face of it an aspect of simplicity and freedom, which is very taking in the abstract. It sounds well in its relation to that which is called the removal of all taxes on knowledge, inasmuch as all connection between stamps and newspapers resolves itself into a postal question. Of course complaints are made with regard to the loss of the privilege of retransmission which existed when a stamp was impressed on a journal; but, on the whole, it does not seem that in this respect there is any very reasonable ground for objection to the new state of things which is anticipated. At the same time it is one of the indications, which are becoming tolerably palpable, of a design on the part of the Post Office, if not exactly to place obstructions in the way of the transmission of newspapers through the post, certainly to discourage that transmission, and by so much to diminish the labour of the department. No one, of course, wishes to press unduly on a service which is, on the whole, well performed; but it seems as if the intervention of the question of revenue, which in the case of the Post Office forms an item of importance in the year, was tending to cripple efficiency and to cause a struggle to circumscribe the amount of work required to be done. The time has been when newspapers were treated in the same manner as letters, and their dispatch and delivery were conducted on the same plan. Now, however, it is sought to subject them to the regulations of the book post, which tends to delay and irregularity in delivery; and, in truth, it would almost seem as if entire loss and nontransmission of these troublesome journals was not considered as a very serious offence by the authorities.

One result of the abolition of the impressed stamp and the substitution of a postage-label on all newspapers sent through the post will be that a proportionate revenue will go direct to the Post Office, which, when the impressed stamp gave the privilege of what was called free transmission, went to swell the gains of another department. Why should there not, then, be afforded a corresponding facility of transit to papers which pay as directly to the Post Office as a letter? The revenue derived from this source ought to be applied to increasing the capabilities of the office, by adding to the staff and the other means of conducting the required business of that which is, after all, a branch of the public service in which the public convenience ought to be the first consideration. The device of the Chancellor of the Exchequer by which he proposes to establish a three-halfpenny adhesive stamp to cover the postage of newspapers which weigh more than four ounces is very objectionable on the ground that it will act directly as a penalty on, and an obstruction to, the free transmission of journals which come within that category. The fact is that the excess of weight in newspapers of that class is only a question of an ounce or so, and the consequent increase of bulk is simply inappreciable. There is no sufficient reason why a penny stamp should not suffice for the postal charge of any newspaper simply because the excess over four ounces is seldom, if ever, anything to speak of. It is to be hoped that this matter will be reconsidered, that the subject generally of the transmission of newspapers through the post will be examined with a view to a thorough reorganisation of the system, and the removal of all obstacles to the regular dispatch and delivery of a class of missives which we believe the public think, judging from the opinions that are continually expressed, worthy of the utmost attention on the part of the Post Office.

PARLIAMENT has risen for the Easter holidays, leaving the Budget partially incomplete, and the Reform Bill undebated to any great extent, if we take into consideration the Conservative announcement that five-and-twenty gentlemen on that side of the House desire to be heard upon it. Their addresses will probably remind readers of poetry of the Cavalier lay—



Talking along,
Twenty-five strong,
Great-hearted gentlemen, singing one song.

Church rates, and the very important Bankruptcy Bill, have also to be disposed of, to say nothing of smaller measures, as the Sunday Trading Bill, the Irish Improvement Bill, and the Children's Relief Bill, all of which require careful handling. We have, indeed, had but little manufacture of law as yet this Session; but the debates, both on attempted legislation and on foreign affairs, have been interesting, and frequently important, and the country will not decide that the earlier portion of the Parliamentary season has been wasted.

So begin the holidays. Every kind of amusement is in preparation for the non-political world. Next week opens both the London Operas, and, of course, all the theatres. Meantime the unfortunate actors and actresses are, as usual, made the victims of the week before Easter, and made so in the most ridiculous manner. There may be no performance of dramas, but any performer who likes to take a theatre and read a play, or give any imitations, or comic or other songs, or otherwise to entertain audiences, may do so, and the rule of Lord Chamberlainship is merely to exclude from the boards such frivolous authors as Shakspeare, Addison, Otway, and Knowles, and throw the stage open to jugglers, conjurors, lecturers, impersonators, trained dogs and monkeys, blackfaced minstrels, acrobats, and similar improvers of the popular mind; while the salaries of all the dramatic artists are suspended, it not occurring to a manager to pay people whom he employs at rehearsals only. We think there are certain occasions when both the religious sense and the general feeling of society demands that a similar observance to that of the Sunday should be exacted in all quarters; but the ridiculous inconsistency that puts down the legitimate drama, and robs its professors, while every absurdity is tolerated on the boards, is one of those things which simply require occasional exposure, and must soon be done away with, like the dramatic licensing system itself, which insults the public by prescribing its amusements, and implying that English audiences would patronise demoralising entertainments if officials did not interfere.

May we hope that it will read, fifty years hence, like a piece of unjustifiable satire, invented by the exaggerating mind of some Juvenal in London, that a great deputation attended one of the Queen's Ministers, in 1860, to urge upon the Government the necessity of adopting some measure to prevent "mercantile enterprise" from being so very enterprising as to pursue a system of false marks and false measures, in order to cheat the public? Posterity will, we trust, think that the report was only a skit, and that though the small traders in and about what is now the New-cut, and may then be Leopold-street or Beatrice-road, were in the habit of cheating the poor with pieces of lead secreted under the goods scale, or with pewter measures with false bottoms, such devices were never practised by respectability. In the hope that posterity will be so merciful, and that the bill which is to be submitted to the law officers of the Crown will be very effectual, we will endeavour to keep up the hallucination, and not damage our generation more than we can help in the eyes of our grandchildren, who will have enough to look dubiously at when they compare our police reports with some of our swagger.

A person named Rosier, who is stated by the witnesses to have been very active in promoting the disturbances in St. George's-in-the-East, has been brought before Dr. Twiss, the Judge of the Consistory Court, for "brawling." We have expressed so strongly our conviction that all parties to this miserable business were wrong—the priests for their struggle for mummery and millinery, and the ruffianly mob for bringing brutality to put down such follies, and the police authorities for not making examples of the rioters—that we may be spared more than a note of this new phase of the proceedings. Rosier thought—the ignorance of the class who set themselves up as reformers by violence is worth noticing—that he was to have a jury, and, of course, relied upon the party feeling which finds its way, too often, into the jury-box. But the case is heard by a single, dispassionate Judge, who knows nothing of clamours and feelings, and will decide upon the evidence and in conformity with

FANCY BAZAAR RECENTLY HELD IN THE MUSIC HALL, EDINBURGH, ON BEHALF OF THE ARTISAN COMPANIES OF THE EDINBURGH RIFLE BRIGADE

MILITARY BAZAAR, EDINBURGH.

A FANCY bazaar on behalf of the Edinburgh Rifle Brigade was held a short time ago in the Music Hall, Edinburgh. We learn from a local print that the hall was crowded day and night, and that there was a clear gain of £1000 for the benefit of the artisan companies. In the hall was a mimic orchestral fort (represented in our Engraving), behind the battlements of which a band poured its enlivening strains. Among the visitors to the bazaar were the Dowager Countess of Glasgow, the Countess of Rothes, Lady Adelaide Keith Murray, Lady Seliar, Admiral Ramsay, Lady Ramsay, Lady Home, Lady Elizabeth Moore, Lady Elizabeth Cartwright, Lord and Lady Massey, the Marquis of Bute, and most of the notabilities of the neighbourhood. As mementos of this magnificent bazaar, a number of stereoscopic views of the interior of the hall were taken, most of which were sold almost as soon as they emerged from the camera. To the officers of the four Artisan Companies, who by their presence and personal exertions contributed so much to the good order and success of the exhibition, much praise is due; to Mr. Seymgeour, who, it is right to mention, behaved most generously in the matter of arrangements and decorations, equal praise must be given; and Mr. Macaulay, the courteous custodier of the Hall, also deserves great credit.

GREAT FIRE AT BRIDGE-TOWN, BARBADOES.

A LARGE and valuable portion of the city of Bridgetown, Barbadoes, has been laid in ruins. On the morning of the 14th of February a destructive fire passed over it, sweeping away the principal business establishments, and, in many instances, entire districts. The cathedral was much injured from the explosions around. Trafalgar-square, its greatest ornament, is utterly destroyed. The loss of property is estimated at £300,000, and only £30,000 is said to be insured. The following is a list of the principal stores, lumber-yards, &c., destroyed by the fire:—Mr. J. H. Shannon's provision store; Mr. S. B. Arthur's ditto; Messrs. W. Seon and Co.'s ditto; Messrs. James A. Lynch's ditto; Mr. Samuel Rexill's ditto; Messrs. W. D. Spencer and Co.'s ditto; Messrs. M. B. Isaac and Co.'s ditto; Messrs. W. Keil and Co.'s ditto; Messrs. F. A. Chairmonte and Co.'s store; Mr. J. B. Massiah's lumberyard; Messrs. E. Knight and Co.'s ditto; Messrs. James Smith and Co.'s ditto; Messrs. G. W. McClean and Co.'s ditto; Mr. William Hewitt's ditto; Messrs. J. and G. Alleyne's ditto; Messrs. A. Jones and Co.'s ditto; Messrs. T. Crumpton and Co.'s (partially) ditto; Messrs. Barrow and Dummett's dry goods establishment; Messrs. D. F. Cotton and Co.'s ice and grocery establishments; the Commissariat printing-office; Mrs. Clinckett's ditto; Mr. B. T. Young's two hardware stores; Mr. Edward King's ditto; Messrs. Griffith and Jeffray's store; Mr. John Gill's druggist establishment; Mr. Fidler's drug and stationery establishment; Mr. Stuart's druggist establishment; Mr. Catford's establishment; Messrs. P. Kirkelly and Co.'s stores; Mr. William Boxill's (partially), timber-yard; Messrs. Trowbridge and Co.'s stores; Mr. MacAlpine's auction mart; Mr. N. H. Walrond's ditto; Mr. Morris's cabinet-maker's shop; Messrs. Curtis's sail-making establishment; Mr. S. Alleyne's provision stores.

The island of Barbadoes, one of the Carribees, is the most easterly of the West India Islands. It is about twenty-one miles in length and fourteen in breadth, and most of its land is under cultivation. It lies twenty leagues east of St. Vincent, which may be seen on a clear day; twenty-five from St. Lucia; and twenty-eight south-east of Martinico. The houses of the planters are very numerous along the country, which, with the luxuriant productions of the soil, and the gently-swelling hills, form a delightful scene. Barbadoes appears to have declined both in its population and in its trade. This decline is ascribed to the succession of dreadful hurricanes with which this, with the other West India Islands, has been visited. In August, 1675, Barbadoes was visited by an awful hurricane. Neither tree nor house was left standing, except a few, sheltered by some hill or cliff, and the whole face of the country exhibited one scene of desolation, while the coast was strewed with wrecks, and many lives were lost at sea and on shore. The capital of the island had scarcely risen from the ashes to which it had been reduced, when it was torn from its foundations, and the whole country made a scene of desolation, by the storm of the 10th of October, 1780, in which above 4000 of the inhabitants miserably perished, and the damage of property was estimated at more than one million sterling. On the established law. Dr. Twiss's judgment is reserved until the 17th inst. The Bishop of London, it is stated, is actively interfering with the absurdities on the other side.

PLAN OF BRIDGETOWN, BARBADOES, SHOWING THE PART DESTROYED BY THE RECENT FIRE.

Social reformers, who find their great difficulty in removing the children of the humbler classes from the evil influences with which they are as it were saturated from almost infancy, will not be surprised to hear that the body which does more than any other to make thieves of the younger population—we mean, of course, the marine-store dealers—have an organisation for the purpose of self-defence against society. Mr. Henry elicited the fact in hearing a case on Tuesday, in which, notwithstanding the defence and the ingenuity of the solicitor of the accused, a verdict was returned by the marine-store dealer for trial, and refused to take bail. The association is ludicrously called the "Marine-store Dealers' Mutual Improvement Society," and its object, as frankly explained by its advocate, is to defend the members "in the case of purchasing goods specially, but for possession, or anything of that sort." Considering the fearful mischief done by these dealers, whose dens, with their vulgar and flaming advertisements, are in every respectable mode of easy access by children and servants, and who impudently flout our kitchens with their incentives to "utilise" everything, no matter how trivial, it may be a question whether this kind of organisation could not be advantageously met by another—of a police character. Transportation for the second offence would surely not be pressing "mutual improvement" too forcibly upon the very worst class of persons in the kingdom—persons who cause more corruption of morals in their unhappy districts than a whole brigade of schoolmasters and religious teachers can repair.

No reader of the ILLUSTRATED LONDON NEWS will, we trust, be indifferent to the fact that the great annual Exhibition of British Art is once more being prepared. Tuesday is the last day for sending in the pictures and sculpture to Trafalgar-square. The impossibility of forming a general impression as to the character of the exposition must be evident, and equally evident, therefore, the value of "rumour, that wayward lying by half surpasses—or fall short of—most previous exhibitions." But some remarkably good men have been working remarkably hard, and that is a guarantee for something remarkable.

THE REVENUE.

The account for the quarter ending on Saturday last, March 25, shows a total increase of more than £600,000, as compared with the corresponding quarter of last year. Out of this sum about £1,200,000 is derived from malt, spirits, and paper. £3,219,000 are yielded by the income tax, owing to the increased rate, and there are small increases under the heads of Stamps, Post Office, and Miscellaneous Items. There is a decrease of £265,000 on Customs, arising from the operation of the commercial treaty with France. The total receipt for the year gives an increase of £5,612,000. The only item experiencing a decrease is that of "Miscellaneous," which last year included a large sum for the sale of old surplus stores after the Crimean war. Although there appears such an increase of £342,000 on Customs; this would have been even larger but for the special causes of temporary decrease. The real increase is derived from tea, tobacco, and currants. On Excise there is an increase of £2,459,000, proceeding from almost every item—malt, spirits, paper, and hops yielding a large increase. On the year the increase in income tax, owing to the additional 4d. imposed this year, is £2,313,000. Assessed taxes yield £95,000 on the year. The whole sum received in the year exceeds £71,000,000, being a million and a half beyond the calculations of Mr. Gladstone in July last.

	The Year ended March 31, 1859.			Quarter ended March 31, 1860
	Net Receipt.	Increase	Decrease	Net Receipt.	Increase	Decrease
	£	£	£	£	£	£
Customs.. ..	24,465,902	849,959	..	5,356,618	..	265,677
Excise	20,301,650	2,459,000	..	4,502,000	1,220,000	..
Stamps	8,643,136	37,000	..	2,139,010	60,017	..
Taxes	3,207,000	95,000	..	413,000	95,000	..
Property Tax	5,950,106	2,313,210	..	6,002,000	3,219,000	..
Post Office ..	1,400,000	115,000	..	350,000	25,000	..
Crown Lands	..	284,479	4,521	75,000	2,400	..
Miscellaneous	1,591,384	..	374,200	1,000,000	1,000,000	..
Totals ..	71,560,607	5,956,740	374,369	20,119,367	5,621,417	793,677
		£5,612,388			£5,049,740
		Net Increase.			Net Increase

WILLS AND BEQUESTS.

Major-General Brunel: The will of the late Major-General Henry Otho Brunel, R.A., of Rosemount, Wandsworth-common, who died on the 19th of December last at 50, Bedford-square, was proved on the 16th inst. by Mr. M.A., senior Chaplain, Royal Artillery, and Edward B. Cresswell, Esq., Wandsworth-common, the executors. The will was made on the 3rd of January, 1857, and he died on the 7th of March last, of paralysis, at the age of seventy-two. He described himself in his will as a widower, with all the formalities, absolutely, and directed that the sum of £11,000 in the funds in his name, or such part thereof as should be held in trust for his wife, should be invested in the names of trustees for her life, and at her death for their four daughters equally, with accumulations. He has made no provision by will for his only son Thomas, from his being amply provided for.

R. L. Shepherd: The will and codicil of the Lieut.-Colonel, late of Rochampton, Surrey, and of Ignford Hall, near Brandon, Norfolk, who died at Lucknow, on the 16th of February, were proved on the 20th inst. by the principal registry by Messrs. Tyssen and Co., solicitors, Frederick-place, Old Jewry, the great trustee, on the 5th of May, 1857, and Mr. Charles Merrie Louise Lyon Stephens, the relict and sole executrix, who administered to the personal estate, having sworn the value of the effects not exceeding Sir Richard B. W. Bulkeley, Bart., M.P.; Sir John Wm. Lubbock, Bart., and Alexander Beaty Esq. (the latter having appointed executors by the will of Messrs. of Baron Robinson, deceased). To each of his trustees he has left a legacy of £500. He has bequeathed to his wife the residue of the legacy of £3000, and the residence and estate of Rochampton, with all the furniture and effects, and has made and bequeathed to her an annuity of £200 per annum absolute use. He also bequeaths to her the mansion and estate of Ignford Hall for her life, together with the sum of £1000 to enable her to purchase the interest, dividends, and proceeds for her life, as well as the life interest in the residue of his property, and has made numerous other bequests and annuities to his relatives and personal friends; but the bulk of his property is bequeathed to his widow for her life, and at her decease it is left to the issue of his uncle, William Lyne, and of his deceased uncles, Joseph Lyne, Edward Lyne, Edward Joseph Lyne, and Joseph Lyne, of Bath. Dec. 8, 1853, and the codicil Oct. 20, 1859, and witnessed by M. Tatham and M. M. Tatham, solicitors, Chancery-lane, London.

E. W. Collard: The will and two codicils of the late Frederick William Collard, of Clapham, pianoforte-manufacturer, who died on the 31st ult. at Stuttgart, 1859, at the advanced age of eight-eight, were proved in the Prerogative Court of the Bishop of March, by Frederick William Collard, the nephew, of Buckingham, of Regent street, music-publisher; and Henry Fox Bohn, of York-street, Covent-garden, publisher, the executors, to whom probate was granted to the personal effects under £100,000. He has left to each a brother, Mr. Alexander Collard, of Clapham, £12,000, and Mr. Alfred Collard £10,000. He leaves to his nephew an annuity of £1000, and all his household furniture, plate, and effects, and to his niece Mrs. Bohn an annuity of £500, and to his sister Phœbe Collard an annuity of £50; to his godson, Alfred Bevington Collard, the son of his nephew, Frederick William Collard, he has devised his freehold at Brompton, Devon, which he had lately purchased. There are numerous legacies to the various members of his family—viz., his brother, sisters, uncles, nephews, nieces, cousins, and to other relatives and friends. To his faithful servant, Susan Hodgins, the interest of £1000 for her life, and at her demise that amount to be sunk in an annuity for the life of her daughter, to be for the time free from her control. All legacies to be free of legacy duty. The residue, which forms the principal part of his property, he leaves to be divided into four shares between his two nephews, Charles Lesley Collard and Frederick William Collard, who are brothers, and were in partnership with him. The will bears date the 19th of June, 1858, and the codicils in 1859 and 1860.

THE COURT.

The Queen and the Prince Consort, accompanied by the Prince of Wales, Princess Alice, Prince Alfred, Prince Arthur, Prince Leopold, and the Princesses Helena, Louisa, and Beatrice, left Buckingham Palace on Monday afternoon for Windsor Castle. Her Majesty was escorted by a detachment of Lancers, and by the brakmen of the Royal Stag-hounds the way, whence the Royal party proceeded by a special train to Windsor, where they arrived about half-past four o'clock. On the arrival of the train the cattle the Queen and the Prince Consort, accompanied by Princess Alice, paid a visit to the Duchess of Kent at Frogmore.

On Tuesday the Queen, accompanied by the Prince of Wales, Princess Alice, and Princess Louisa, walked in the garden, and visited the Duchess of Kent. In the afternoon the Duchess of Kent and the Princess of Leiningen visited the Queen at the Castle.

On Wednesday the Queen and the Prince Consort, accompanied by the Princess of Wales, drove out in the afternoon in the Great Park and Forest.

On Thursday Prince Alfred was confirmed in the private chapel of Windsor Castle.

The Queen will hold Drawingrooms at St. James's Palace on the follow ing days:—Wednesday, April 25; Wednesday, May 9; and Thursday, May 24, to celebrate her Majesty's birthday. The Knights of the several orders are to appear on the latter day at the Throne in the Court of Kings. The Queen will hold a Levée at St. James's Palace on Saturday, the 21st of April, at Noon precisely. Her Majesty will hold Audiences previously Drawingroom and another Levée in the month of June. The precise dates will be announced hereafter.

On Sunday last the Rev. Dr. Vaughan preached the sermon in the private chapel at Buckingham Palace.

Mr. Southwell, the photographer of Baker-street, has had the honour of obtaining numerous instances of permission to take his instrument to Osborne and the Prince Consort, and other members of the Royal family.

The Earl and Countess of Clarendon and the Hon. Miss Villiers have left their residence in St. James's Palace on Saturday for Kew for the remainder of the season.

His Excellency the Ambassador of France and the Countess de Persigny will leave Albert-gate House to-day for Paris, where they intend to pass the Easter recess.

The Marchioness of Salisbury has left town on a visit to the Earl and Countess of Jersey, at Middleton Park.

The Earl and Countess of Derby and Lady Emma Stanley have left town for their residence, Knowsley, for the Parliamentary recess.

The Earl and Countess of Yarborough and Lady Sophia Pelham are staying at the Royal Victoria Hotel, St. Leonard's-on-Sea.

Viscount Combermere has left Belgrave-square a few days since for Combermere Abbey, Cheshire.

The Bishop of London and Mrs. Tait are staying at the Royal Victoria Hotel, St. Leonard's-on-Sea, during the Right Rev. Prelate his improved since his arrival at this salubrious place.

The Right Hon. Earl Percy, M.P., and Lady Emily Peel, have left Whitehall gardens for their château at Genoa.

Lady Molesworth has left town for Pencarrow, her seat in Cornwall, for the Easter recess.

In consequence of the death of the Dowager Countess of Elgin, Lord Elgin's marriage will be postponed for a short time.

A matrimonial alliance is arranged, and will soon take place, between Lady Elizabeth Yorke, eldest daughter of the Earl and Countess of Hardwicke, and Mr. Alexander Yorke, second son of the late Right Hon. Sir Joseph Yorke, G.C.B., Admiral of the White, and Master of the Robes.

The Bishop of London and Mrs. Tait are staying at the Royal Victoria Hotel, St. Leonard's-on-Sea, during the Right Rev. Prelate his improved since his arrival at this salubrious place.

The Right Hon. Earl Percy, M.P., and Lady Emily Peel, have left Whitehall gardens for their château at Genoa.

Lady Molesworth has left town for Pencarrow, her seat in Cornwall, for the Easter recess.

In consequence of the death of the Dowager Countess of Elgin, Lord Elgin's marriage will therefore be postponed for a short time.

A matrimonial alliance is arranged, and will soon take place, between Lady Elizabeth Yorke, eldest daughter of the Earl and Countess of Hardwicke, and Mr. Alexander Yorke, second son of the late Right Hon. Sir Joseph Yorke, G.C.B., Admiral of the White, and Master of the Robes.

The Bishop of London and Mrs. Tait are staying at the Royal Victoria Hotel, St. Leonard's-on-Sea, during the Right Rev. Prelate his improved since his arrival at this salubrious place.

The Right Hon. Earl Percy, M.P., and Lady Emily Peel, have left Whitehall gardens for their château at Genoa.

Lady Molesworth has left town for Pencarrow, her seat in Cornwall, for the Easter recess.

In consequence of the death of the Dowager Countess of Elgin, Lord Elgin's marriage will therefore be postponed for a short time.

A matrimonial alliance is arranged, and will soon take place, between Lady Elizabeth Yorke, eldest daughter of the Earl and Countess of Hardwicke, and Mr. Alexander Yorke, second son of the late Right Hon. Sir Joseph Yorke, G.C.B., Admiral of the White, and Master of the Robes.

MUSIC.

Mr. Gye has put forth his prospectus of the approaching Royal Italian Opera season, and the programme is a strong one—which, indeed, it would need to be, in order to be able to compete with the tuneful host mustered by Mr. Smith at Her Majesty's Theatre. Of the old stagers Mr. Gye retains Mario and Tamberlik, the latter of whom is engaged for twelve nights, and is to make the grand revival of Meyerbeer's "Robert le Diable" his first appearance. It is said that this is his farewell season, but there is no doubt, we believe, that it will be an. Her engagement is extended beyond twelve nights; but the public may be assured that, at its close, they will never again see or hear the great dramatic singer that has existed during the present century. Mr. Gye has also engaged to have Madame Penco, Madame Didiée, Marie, Tamberlik, Gardoni, Neri-Baraldi, Graziani, Ronconi, Naglietti, and Zelger. Of the new comers we are to have Mdlle. Adelina Patti, a child of nine years old, encircled by the nimbus. A great amount of astronomic information was imparted to the audience, relative to the sun, the moon, the stars, the planets in general, and the earth in particular, and the lecture was illustrated by a number of beautiful diagrams.

At the STRAND, Chevalier Antonio Pelotti, announced as the celebrated Roman musician and improvisatore, will sing and play his original and modern accompaniments, which at once entitled him to a distinguished and modern position among improvisatori of the day. Also, Mr. Arnold a theme for the week at the STRAND, where Professor Pepper has astonished the audience with his magic illusions.

At SADLER'S WELLS Miss Julia St. George gave her usual entertainment, entitled "Life in London, or Tom, Jerry, and Logic." Miss St. George displays talent as an accomplished singer and clever delineator of character-parts.

At the ADELPHI Mr. Wright has commenced a series of his quaint delineation; which, with Mr. J. P. Wetton's poses, and Miss Poole's and Mr. Paulton's dancing, attract numerous audiences to this favourite house.

At the POLYTECHNIC HALL the Christy Minstrels appeared in what they announce as their farewell visit, which accordingly was received with regret.

At the EGYPTIAN HALL Mr. Stirling announces the last nights of his "China," while Mr. and Mrs. German Reed have continued their popular entertainments with undiminished success. Mr. Reed's "Gossips" and "Glees" are among the best productions of the day, and Mrs. German Reed's vocalisation, combined with her extraordinary power of facial expression, renders her entertainment a most delightful one. Mr. Reed announces that this is the last week of the present season. Mr. W. S. Woodin advertises his approach to London, and has been engaged during the week in the country, preparatory to his return to the metropolis.

MIDDLESEX COUNTY LUNATIC ASYLUM.—On Tuesday se'nnight a concert was given to the patients in one of the large dining-halls of this asylum at Hanwell, by the kind permission of Dr. Hood. The number of female and fifty male patients were present, and a large number of attendants also assembled to hear the performances. Dr. Hood presided at each department, and others of the medical staff. The performers consisted of Mr. Lazarus, who played a fantasia on the clarionet, Mr. Pratten, flute-solos and solos for violoncello, violin, and flute by the great composers were performed by Mr. Blagrove, Mr. Lucas, and Mr. Goldwin, and other instrumental executants. Four part songs and negro melodies also formed part of the programme, and were sung by a number of the male and female officers and nurses of the patients. Mr. Tolley, one of the resident medical officers of the establishment, sang with much taste and effect a pathetic ballad, and was encored at the great beauty and pleasing effect of music upon the minds of the patients. Dr. Hood and the medical officers of the establishment are to be highly added in contributing to the pleasure of so large a number of afflicted persons.

SHIPWRECK AND CANNIBALISM.—Last Saturday, at Lloyd's, Captain Brown, of the ship Francis Spaight, from Sydney to Cork, with a cargo of sunken reef, in lat. 5 45 W., long. 165 53 E. The ship broke up immediately, and the crew took to the boats. They were in a most destitute condition, and many days they were exposed to a scorching sun, and suffered dreadful privations, and, to avoid starvation, ultimately they resolved on the frightful alternative of killing one of their number to serve as food for the rest, and the lot fell upon a negro, who was speedily killed and devoured. A second negro was doomed to the same fate, but jumped overboard in the vain hope of escaping, but was fired at and killed. His body served to keep the wretched men alive till the 24th of September, when they were picked up and landed at Bourbon in a state deplorable.

DURHAM COLLEGE.—The income arising from the estates of the college for the past year was £11,493 7s. 8d., an increase of £459 1s. 4d. on the income of 1859. The increase of this college has been progressively increasing since 1854, when the income amounted to £8,097 19s. 7d., or £3,395 8s. 0d. less than last year's income.

THE THEATRES, &c.

ROYAL DRAMATIC COLLEGE.—The success of the performances at Covent Garden on Thursday week, in aid of the funds of the Dramatic College, exceeded the expectations that had been formed by the projectors. The management was under the direction of Mr. Anson, the secretary of the institution, Mr. Creswick, Mr. Howard, and Mr. Sims. The performances were inaugurated—the titles and cast of which we subjoin:—

"Money."—Sir John Vesey, Mr. F. Matthews; Sir F. Blount, Mr. Belford; Evelyn, Mr. Creswick; Graves (old retainer character), Mr. H. Webster; Benjamin Stutt, M.P., Mr. Keeley; Lord Glossmore, Mr. Harcourt Bland; Sharp, Mr. Sims; Jones, Mr. Miller; Gibbs, Mr. Parker; Clerk, Mr. Young; Georgiana Vesey, Miss Bufton; Lady Franklin, Mrs. H. Marston.

"A Sheriff's Peerage."—Lord Avon, Mr. Belford; Sir Charles Bramble, Mr. David Fisher; Skylock, Mr. Phelps; Antonio, Mr. Ryder; Bassanio, Mr. Addison; Launcelot, Mr. H. Bedford; Gobbo, Mr. Charles Fenton; Lady Peasle, Miss Amy Sedgwick; Nerissa, Miss Bufton.

"Sweethearts and Wives."—Sir G. Duff, Mr. Creswick; Lieutenant Pike, Mr. T. J. Hudson; Baker, Mr. H. Reeves; William, Mr. F. T. Cooke; Gustavus, Mr. Addison; Mrs. Duff, Miss Cooper; Lucy Duff, Miss Mitchell; Mrs. Baker, Mrs. H. Marston; Mrs. Friend, Susan, Miss Woolgar (Mrs. A. Mellon); Dolly Mayflower, Miss Amy Sedgwick.

"Mischief-Making."—Mr. Mitchell, Miss Glyn; Physician, Mr. O. Peel; Gentlewoman, Madame Simoni.

Upon the boards being cleared for the theatrical recitals: Miss L. Pyne, Mr. W. Harrison, Mr. Paul Bedford, and Mr. Sims Reeves.

The Chapel Royal choristers, under Mr. Peter Tearle, Mr. Chippendale, Joseph Surface, Mr. Howe; Charles Surface, Mr. Charles Mathews; Sir Oliver Surface, Mr. Charles Kemble.

Vocal Music—Miss Louise Pyne, Madame Catharine Hayes, Mr. W. Harrison.

"Box and Cox."—Box, Mr. J. B. Buckstone; Cox, Mr. Compton; Mrs. Bouncer, Miss Griffiths.

Christy's Minstrels, "B. B."—Mr. Benjamin Bobbin, Mr. F. Robson; Signor Brocolini, Mr. C. Clarke; Bob Hatton, Mr. Barnes Wigan; Jon, Mr. H. Cooper; Mrs. Punchour, Mrs. Stephens; Dorothy, Mrs. Keeley.

Mr. R. Mackenzie, Mr. Sims Reeves, stage and acting managers; Mr. A. Mellon conductor of the music.

It is not difficult to see that the public favourites will soon again be assembled with one purpose within the walls of an edifice to grant a London theatre. That the audience felt this was apparent, for each new appearance was greeted with more than ordinary zest, and Mr. T. P. Cooke, perhaps, receiving the loudest. The admirable effect of the union of the Dramatic College was to induce a hope that the present management of theatres, both in principle and fact, precludes the possibility of the establishment of such in favour of the drama in general. A theatre is much wanted in which the highest efforts of the literary genius should be allowed to culminate. That it would be a ministry moderately successful no one will question, but that the subject can doubt for a moment. Appeal in favour of such an opinion might be made to the numerous estates on the present management.

It will be recollected that the Dramatic College was founded the year before last, and that it has been ever with satisfaction that it already affords the required support to its aged and worn-out dramatic actors and actresses, who, while the buildings are in progress, receive their allotted pensions.

LYCEUM.—On Saturday Madame Celeste closed her present season at this theatre with performances for her benefit, consisting of "Suzanne"; an act of "Ours"; and "The Green Bushes." Colonel Addison, entitled "117, Arundel-street, Strand;" and "The Abbé Mudbrook," in which Madame Celeste delivered a farewell address, in which she stated that "she had opened the theatre under difficulties and disadvantages, and had struggled through them in the hope that her actual performances had not been unworthy. Advertisements of French artists, she had determined to conduct the theatre in an English spirit, and had produced pieces of the highest merit. That the 1st of October next she would commence a lease of the theatre for a term of years." The speech was received with well-deserved applause.

ENTERTAINMENTS.—Drama during this week, by the express determination of Mr. Anderson, has been thrown into the shade by the rage for an inferior class of amusements. We had hoped that the authorities were about to put a stop to the exhibition of the Living Skeleton, a more moral and intellectual exhibition to retain the stage during the period of majesty's Theatre is closed, and, we believe, will be so for a month, and we have to regret the usual round of Easter-week entertainments.

We have to add that Mr. Anderson, at the POLYTECHNIC, has presented a rational as well as attractive bill. Miss Amy Sedgwick, on Monday, gave us a display of quality in dramatic power. The illustration of proces was judicious, and displayed her powers in dramatic descriptive, and lyrical vocalisation. Mr. Pepper's "Ghost" is still a source of attraction. Thompson's "Lady Clara Vere de Vere," and "Blackeye," Dickens' Sketch Book, and Cruikshank's "Loyal and Disloyal" are highly appropriate illustrations. These composed the first part of the reading; the second consisted of Thackeray's "Bedford Row Conspiracy," "Jeames's Diary on Love and Lady Tyrrell, the episode of "Mazeppa and Hetman," and an episode from "Don Quixote," and Cruikshank's "Bottle," which by-the-bye is one of the elite volunteers. There was ample room and verge enough" to display the powers of Mr. Anderson, and Mr. Pepper's ghost was complete.

At the PANTHEON Mr. Adams exhibited his celebrated orrery, accompanied with an astronomical lecture, in which he endeavoured to explain the great discovery of Copernicus, and which is now universally received by the scientific world. The lecturer illustrated the leading phenomena of the planet Tellus—the Earth in question—by the aid of a large number of orbital diagrams, and showed how it moved round the sun, encircled by the zodiac. A great amount of astronomical information was imparted to the audience relative to the sun, the moon, the stars, the planets in general, and the earth in particular, and the lecture was illustrated by a number of beautiful diagrams.

At the STRAND, Chevalier Antonio Pelotti, announced as the celebrated Roman musician and improvisatore, will sing and play his original and modern accompaniments, which at once entitled him to a distinguished and modern position among improvisatori of the day. Also, Mr. Arnold a theme for the week at the STRAND, where Professor Pepper has astonished the audience with his magic illusions.

At SADLER'S WELLS Miss Julia St. George gave her usual entertainment, entitled "Life in London, or Tom, Jerry, and Logic." Miss St. George displays talent as an accomplished singer and clever delineator of character-parts.

At the ADELPHI Mr. Wright has commenced a series of his quaint delineation; which, with Mr. J. P. Wetton's poses, and Miss Poole's and Mr. Paulton's dancing, attract numerous audiences to this favourite house.

At the POLYTECHNIC HALL the Christy Minstrels appeared in what they announce as their farewell visit, which accordingly was received with regret.

At the EGYPTIAN HALL Mr. Stirling announces the last nights of his "China," while Mr. and Mrs. German Reed have continued their popular entertainments with undiminished success. Mr. Reed's "Gossips" and "Glees" are among the best productions of the day, and Mrs. German Reed's vocalisation, combined with her extraordinary power of facial expression, renders her entertainment a most delightful one. Mr. Reed announces that this is the last week of the present season. Mr. W. S. Woodin advertises his approach to London, and has been engaged during the week in the country, preparatory to his return to the metropolis.

THE PILEY LIFE-BOAT PROCEEDING TO THE RESCUE OF A SHIPWRECKED CREW.—SEE PAGE 393.

PROCESSION OF SIKH CHIEFS AND OTHERS AT LAHORE, FEB. 11, ON THE OCCASION OF A DURBAR (LEVEE) HELD THERE BY THE GOVERNOR-GENERAL AND THE COMMANDER-IN-CHIEF.—SEE NEXT PAGE.

SKETCHES IN PARLIAMENT.

THERE has been something in the mind of the Opposition of late which has tended to give them a sort of courage which is akin to audacity. It is nearly palpable that they suppose that the ranks behind the Ministerial benches are wavering. It is no doubt true that Liberal members have been picking at Mr. Gladstone's details, and that, to some extent, his trumpet has of late given an uncertain sound. In his demeanour and his mode of conducting his peculiar matters there is no longer that rushing, riding over every obstacle that characterised him when the budget first dashed full-rigged and all a-taunto in the Parliamentary waters. He tries to soothe; he yields; he is meek, and at times beseeching, as when he used such an argument as that the revenue would lose a thousand pounds a day if certain measures did not become law before Easter. Lord Palmerston, too, has been gentle and forbearing, and "putting it to the House" in the most dulcet and conciliatory of tones. There is no reason to believe that the Chancellor of the Exchequer has abated any confidence he has felt in his plans, and still less that he experiences any diminution of confidence in himself. The reason of the change which has evidently come over the Ministry and the Opposition is to be found elsewhere, and it is easily named by the words "Lord John Russell." It is no use disguising the matter, but it has been the fortune of that statesman for the last ten or twelve years, if not more, to be the bête noir of every Government to which he has belonged. A moment's consideration of the events of this Session will show that all the mortifications and all the failures of the Government have been in Lord John Russell's department. It is he who has to stand up before the House and to declare unreservedly that he has been hoodwinked and outwitted in his foreign policy, and that he has been treated, especially by French diplomacy, as something very like a nonentity. Albeit unused to the melting mood, there was something tearful in the manner in which he announced, not long ago, that all was over as regarded his efforts in foreign affairs. Then, again, take his Reform Bill. It is never mentioned by gentlemen opposite but in a tone of the utmost derision, and all the sneers and jokes at the measure are received by the Ministerialists sometimes as a matter of course, but generally with sympathy from a ludicrous point of view; while his own colleagues in the Ministry, when they have been compelled, in the frequent discussions which have occurred of late as to the arrangement of the business of the House, to allude to it, have avoided any mention of it as long as possible, and, when forced to touch on it, it has been with only half-suppressed smiles. As an illustration of Lord John's weak position in the House take the occasion of his moving, during the absence of Lord Palmerston, that Government business should take precedence of motions on Thursdays between Easter and Whitsuntide. Why, it raised a contemptuous storm, which was only allayed by the joint efforts of Lord Palmerston, Mr. Gladstone, and Sir George Grey, who, with a difficulty which would not otherwise have arisen, contrived at last to effect a compromise. Then, is it not odd, that every evening when one reaches the House, one is regularly informed on the best authority that Lord John has resigned?

It is this condition of things which has produced speeches from Mr. Disraeli on several occasions which in tone and demeanour have contrasted strongly with his style in the earlier part of the Session. His last oration on the income tax was a striking specimen of this. Not only was it characterised by downright bearding of Mr. Gladstone, and laudation of himself and his measures (which were crushed in former days by his rival) on that question; but he has tried a perilous experiment on the House itself, which he is not apt to do, by reproducing last week, almost word for word, but certainly argument for argument, and illustration for illustration, of a previous address on the subject; and it is not too much to say, that he repeated and reiterated, and went over the same ground again and again, in a way worthy of Sir Fitzroy Kelly, or the excellent and amiable, but wordy, member for Wallingford.

Notwithstanding his new-born intrepidity, as we have hinted before, Mr. Disraeli has been a strange exception to the admirable speaking which has characterised the House of Commons during the present Session. He has made but one good speech, and that on the second reading of the Reform Bill; and it is not too much to say that that one was so admirable in all its parts that it went far to compensate for his general deficiency in coming up to the mark. It may not, perhaps, have been commonly noticed that Lord Stanley has been singularly quiescent this year. He has hardly opened his mouth. He has been a good deal absent from the House, and, when there, has seemed to prefer lounging in the gallery to sitting in review order on the front Opposition bench. There was some significance, too, in his not having voted this time against the abolition of church rates, which he has hitherto done. Well, in the last few days he has reappeared, has been pretty regularly in his place, and has spoken, though very briefly, several times. Is this, too, a symptom of the existence of a belief in the minds of the Opposition that there are chinks becoming visible in the Ministerial phalanx? In reference to this, too—why, we cannot tell—but mild, gentle Mr. Walpole appears to be looking knowing; and on one occasion the other day there was something very peculiar in the way in which he rose to discharge his functions of arbiter, when there is a dispute about the arrangement of business or the rules of the House. There was unusual complacency, and a tone or warning to Government, in the style in which he interposed in his character of the vir pietate gravis, whose mission is to soothe down excitement and preach away irritation. Without pretending to any depth of knowledge in Parliamentary meteorology, we cannot help thus far insinuating our belief that there are indications of rough weather to come. Is Lord John about to make himself the Jonah, but with the secret hope that his self-immolation will be without avail to save the Ministerial ship?

As a rule, the work of the past week has been rather of the nibbling order. The debate on the Wine Licensing Bill was no great things, as might be expected from the subject, although it gave Mr. Ker Seymer an excellent opportunity for one of those jolly, rollicking speeches for which he is known, and which present the somewhat anomalous circumstance of a country gentleman, in every sense of the term, exhibiting himself as a speaker full of point and humour, which, engrafted on his natural bonhomie and a straightforward earnestness which belong to him, render him very effective in his peculiar way; while Mr. Gathorne Hardy was enabled to display a power of talking against time which proved him a master of the art with the qualification that the intention was, perhaps, a little too palpable. On the whole, the feature of the week was Sir Robert Peel's oration on the subject of the independence of Switzerland. Considering the amount of good things which were included in it, it is a pity to be obliged to say that it was a failure. If we were compelled to give a reason for this, we should say that, in the first place it was too long. If he had avoided much of the parenthetic and digressive matter which he introduced into it—if he had been contented with one instead of half a dozen attacks on the member for Birmingham, resisting the temptation offered to him by his first success in that respect, and had compressed his speech into the space of three quarters of an hour instead of extending it to an hour and a half, and thus passing the critical hour of seven—he would have done better. Then, too, if he had reduced his French quotations to one ninety-ninth part of the whole which he delivered, he would have spared most of his hearers the pain of endeavouring to express their apprehension of his meaning by that spasmodic laughter and hollow cheering which accompanied the evident difficulties of mental translation. As it was, the significant fact was apparent that, instead of producing a debate, his eloquence did not elicit a single word, and the chilling silence and the immediate passing on to other matters which succeeded his speech, will probably be taken as a compliment by the Emperor of the French paid to him by the House of Commons. It is to be noted that on this occasion Mr. Horsman quietly took a seat in the gallery during the greater part of the time Sir Robert was speaking, and made not the slightest sign of an intention to profit by this most legitimate opportunity of delivering one of his philippics. Truly there is something in the expression of opinion by a constituency.

No one can doubt that the Lower House at least has heartily earned its Easter vacation; but certainly one hardly remembers such a fuss being made about getting matters straight for the adjournment. The state of things was just like the preparation for the actual end of the Session—a sitting of both Houses on the Saturday, suspension of standing orders in the Lords to pass bills through all their stages, and the early meeting of the Commons on Tuesday, together with the appearance of the House, was suggestive of August rather than of April. Although looking jaded and weary, the few members present on the last evening still held on to their tendency to speak up to the last moment, and it was evident that the House, as a House, though languid with excess of talk, necdum satiata recessit.

IMPERIAL PARLIAMENT.

HOUSE OF LORDS.—SATURDAY.

The House met at twelve o'clock, and the Royal assent was given by commission to several bills.

The Income Tax and Stamp Duties Bills were brought up, and notice was given of the suspension of the standing orders on Monday in order that they might go through all their stages on that day.

HOUSE OF COMMONS.—SATURDAY.

THE INCOME TAX—The Income Tax Bill was read a third time, after a discussion originated by Mr. HENLEY, who complained of the manner in which the bill was passed through Committee on Wednesday last, but which the CHANCELLOR of the EXCHEQUER stated was done with the distinct assent of the House.

THE STAMP DUTIES BILL.—On the motion for the third reading of the Stamp Duties Bill, Sir H. CAIRNS pointed out an informality in the bill, inasmuch as it did not carry out the resolution on which it was founded, which declared that the stamp duty of one penny on contract notes for the sale of stock was to be imposed on condition of the repeal of 7 George II., commonly called Sir John Barnard's Act, which was not in fact done by the clause which professed to repeal it.—The CHANCELLOR of the EXCHEQUER proposed to recommit the bill and to strike out the clause in question.—A debate followed, in which Mr. Disraeli and other members of the Opposition objected to this course, but it was at length agreed to. The clause was struck out.

REPEAL OF SIR J. BARNARD'S ACT.—The CHANCELLOR of the EXCHEQUER then moved for leave to bring in a bill to repeal the 7th Geo. II., c. 8 (Sir J. Barnard's Act), which caused some discussion, Mr. WISE and Mr. E. JAMES inquiring whether it was proposed to derive public revenue from a stamp on stock-jobbing transactions, and the latter gentleman intimating that if so it would be necessary also to repeal an Act of 8th and 9th Victoria, entitled the Wagering Act.—The CHANCELLOR of the EXCHEQUER pointed out that Sir J. Barnard's Act not only made time bargains penal, but struck at a much larger class of operations, which were indispensable to trade and business transactions.—The bill was then read a first time, and the second reading fixed for the 19th of April.

HOUSE OF LORDS.—MONDAY.

Lord EBURY gave notice, for after Easter, of a motion praying that a Royal Commission might be issued to inquire into the subject of the revision of the Book of Common Prayer.

The Dwellings for Labouring Classes (Ireland) Bill was read a third time and passed.

The Marquis of CLANRICARDE moved for a return of all towns in Ireland, exclusive of Parliamentary boroughs, containing a population of 4000 or upwards, specifying the county in which each such town is situated, and showing the number of occupiers rated at above £4 and under £6, and at £6 and upwards but under £8, and at £8, urging that the Reform Bill for Ireland was imperfect in its dealing with small boroughs; and suggested that they should be grouped in the same way as was done with the Scotch burghs.—The Duke of NEWCASTLE declined to discuss the question now, but said there was no such analogy between the circumstances of the two countries as to render such an arrangement practicable.

Lord EBURY asked whether it was the intention of her Majesty's Government to allow any part of the site of old Smithfield Market to be appropriated for building purposes?—The Duke of NEWCASTLE said that a bill on the subject had been prepared and was under consideration. The Government was not pledged to any plan.

The Stamp Duties Bill and the Income Tax Bill were read a second time, and, the standing orders having been suspended, were passed through Committee, read a third time, and passed.

HOUSE OF COMMONS.—MONDAY.

Sir W. Russell and Mr. Warner took their seats for Norwich; and the O'Conor Don for Roscommon.

ITALIAN AFFAIRS.—Lord J. RUSSELL, in producing some papers relating to the affairs of Italy, said that they contained despatches in which there was a statement that the Government intended to keep the question of the neutrality of Switzerland apart from that of the annexation of Savoy; and also that they had no objection to a conference on the question relating to the provinces of Chablais and Faucigny; and it was hoped that this subject would be treated seriously, and in such a manner as would be satisfactory to Switzerland and meet with the approval of the Powers of Europe.

GENERAL BUSINESS AFTER EASTER.—Lord J. RUSSELL moved that, on Thursdays after Easter and till Whitsuntide, Government orders of the day have precedence of notices of motion.—Colonel W. PATTEN objected to this step being taken so early in the Session; at the same time he thought that the Government had been so much interfered with on Fridays that something must be done in order to give the Government sufficient facilities for carrying on their business.—After a considerable discussion, which ran principally against the proposition of the Government, Sir G. GREY proposed to modify the motion by adding the words that "notices of motion have precedence on Fridays."—Mr. AYRTON suggested that the difficulty might be met by arranging that all orders of the day, whether belonging to Government or private members, have precedence on Thursdays.—On a division the amendment was carried, the numbers being—For the amendment, 150; against it, 126. A division was then taken on the motion as amended, which was carried, the numbers being—For the motion, 142; against it, 117.—Mr. DISRAELI pointed out that by the change which had been made the Church Rate Bill could not come on on the first Thursday or the Reform Bill on the first Friday after Easter, as arranged.—Lord PALMERSTON said that it was intended to take the Navy Estimates on the first Monday after Easter, on the Thursday finance, and on the Monday following the Reform Bill.

THE ANNEXATIONS BY SARDINIA.—In answer to Mr. Hennessy, Lord J. RUSSELL said that the Government had advised the Queen to consider Modena, Parma, Tuscany, and Bologna as a part of the dominions of the King of Sardinia.

THE CUSTOMS ACTS.

The House then went into Committee on the Customs Acts, and took the resolutions relating to the charges of a duty of 1d. on certain articles, and of 1s. 6d. on bills of lading connected therewith, to charges on goods removed under bond, and charges on operations in warehouses.

The CHANCELLOR of the EXCHEQUER stated that alterations had been made in the first resolution which caused the amount to be derived from it to be £70,000 less than the £300,000 originally expected. He proposed to postpone that relating to charges on operations in warehouses, as some objection was made to it. Altogether there would be a diminution of revenue expected on the three charges of £100,000, owing to the modifications which had been made in them.

Some debate of a desultory character ensued on each of the resolutions.

On that relating to charges on goods removed under bond, Mr. DALGLISH moved an amendment which would have had the effect of preventing the imposition of the duty on "removal." A division was taken, when the amendment was lost, the numbers being—For the amendment, 50; against it, 64.

The resolutions were finally agreed to and the House resumed.

REFRESHMENT HOUSES AND WINE LICENSES BILL.

The adjourned debate on the second reading of this bill was resumed.

Mr. CROOK, on the part of the temperance societies, moved that the bill be read a second time that day six months.

Mr. DIGBY SEYMOUR seconded the motion, not in the same interest as the mover, but on the general grounds of the bill being opposed to the best interests of the country, as adding to the already too great facilities for the sale of intoxicating liquors. He denied that French wines would become popular in this country, unless they were qualified with brandy, which would not be the cheap wholesome wines which Mr Gladstone professed to introduce. One evil of the measure was that with the extension of the licensing system the powers of the police were greatly increased.

Mr. K. SEYMER thought this was the best part of the Budget, and he knew that therefore it would be most opposed. He argued very pointedly in favour of the bill, but at the same time suggested some modifications in the measure.

Mr. HARDY spoke in opposition of the bill, taking the view that it increased very considerably the evils of the present system of the sale of strong liquors, a system which he had endeavoured to remedy by legislation. The beershop system had been a great failure, and had proved an evil of great magnitude, and it was now proposed to add to that system by allowing those shops to have wine licenses. He denied that the arrangements of the bill were founded on free trade. As to the refreshment-houses, there was no house that might not be brought within the meaning of that word, and so be entitled to a wine license; while the bill neutralised the power of the magistrate, and placed entire irresponsible power in the hands of the police. He did not believe that the bill would be efficacious as a measure of revenue.

On the motion of Mr. AYRTON the debate was adjourned to Thursday, the 19th inst.

HOUSE OF LORDS.—TUESDAY.

The Royal assent was given by commission to several measures, including the Stamp Duties and Income Tax Bills; and other bills were advanced a stage.

Their Lordships adjourned till Tuesday the 17th inst.

HOUSE OF COMMONS.—TUESDAY.

NEWSPAPER STAMPS.—In answer to Mr. W. Ewart, Mr. LAING said that there was no alteration in the decision of the Government as to the impressed stamp on newspapers, especially as to retransmission by post.

INDIAN ADMINISTRATION.—In answer to Lord Stanley, Sir C. WOOD said that it was his intention to introduce bills for the reconstruction of the Council of the Governor-General of India, for the amendment of the law relating to the civil service of India, and for the union of the Supreme and Suddar Courts, after Easter.

ADJOURNMENT OF THE HOUSE.—It was resolved, on the motion of Lord Palmerston, that the House, at its rising, should adjourn until Monday, the 16th instant.

THE REFORM BILL.—Sir J. PAKINGTON inquired whether the returns which had been delivered gave an accurate statement of the number of voters who would be added to the electors, in the event of the passing of the Reform Bill, as he believed them to be delusive?—Mr. C. VILLIERS said that the return was the most complete and accurate that had ever been presented to the House. There was no such discrepancy between the rental and the rateable value of houses under £10 as stated by Sir J. Pakington, nor was there any such error in the overseers' lists of electors as he supposed, every possible care having been taken beforehand in order to make the preparation of the return certain.—Mr. E. JAMES said that the return did not contain the number of tenements rated to the owners instead of the occupiers, which would give 200,000 or 300,000 more possessors of the franchise under the Reform Bill instead of the number now estimated.—Some discussion followed on this subject, in the course of which Mr. DEEDES suggested the postponement of the Reform Bill until after the next census.—Lord PALMERSTON said that any return on the subject of the electoral franchise that any member chose to move for the Government would grant.

THE TREATY OF TURIN.—Mr. A. KINGLAKE gave notice that on the first day after the holidays he should ask for information as to the territorial changes made by the Treaty of Turin, and also with regard to the recent despatch of M. Thouvenel.

LAND IMPROVEMENT (IRELAND).—Mr. HENNESSY obtained leave to bring in a bill to facilitate the improvement of land in Ireland.

IRISH ECCLESIASTICAL COURTS.—Mr. E. P. BOUVERIE obtained leave to bring in a bill to abolish the jurisdiction of the ecclesiastical courts in Ireland in cases of defamation and brawling.

The Adulteration of Food Bill passed through Committee.

The House adjourned for the Easter holidays.

CHURCH, UNIVERSITIES, &c.

The Queen has appointed the Rev. W. W. Jackson (Chaplain to the Bishop of Barbadoes and Chaplain to the Forces) to the bishopric of Antigua.

The Queen has granted unto the Very Rev. Thomas Garnier, B.C.L., the deanery of her Majesty's Cathedral Church of Lincoln, void by the death of John Giffard Ward, M.A.

The Ven. John Sutton Utterton, Archdeacon of Surrey, and Vicar of Farnham, has been appointed to the Stall in Winchester Cathedral, vacant by the death of the Rev. Dr. Williams. It has a fixed income of £500 per annum.

The Rev. John Wadsworth, Master of the Grammar School, Castletown, Isle of Man, has been ordained deacon by the Lord Bishop of Sodor and Man, and licensed to the curacy of St. Mary's Government Chapel.

The anniversary festival of St. Mark's College, Chelsea, will be celebrated, as usual, on St. Mark's Day, Wednesday, April 25. The services will begin at half-past ten a.m., and half-past four p.m. The sermon will be preached by the Dean of Westminster.

A purse containing fifty sovereigns, and a pocket communion service, suitably inscribed, have been presented by the congregation of St. John's, Deptford, to the Rev. J. P. Courtenay, as a farewell token of their regard.

A handsome Carrara marble monument, designed and executed by Mr. Physic, has just been erected in memory of her Grace the late Duchess of Cleveland, in Staindrop Church, Darlington, in the vicinity of Raby Castle.

The new chapel which has been recently erected in the grounds of the Hospital for Diseases of the Chest at Victoria Park was opened for Divine worship on Sunday last. The building, which has cost a sum of nearly £2000, is the gift of an anonymous friend of the charity, for the use of the patients residing in the hospital.

The anniversary of the Additional Curates Society will be held on April 25, when the Lord Bishop of Oxford will preach, at eleven a.m., at the church of St. Martin-in-the-Fields, and a public meeting will be held Willis's Rooms, King-street, under the presidency of the Archbishop of Canterbury, at 2.30 on the same day.

The annual meeting of members of the National Society will be held on Wednesday, June 13. Tuesday, June 12, will be the day for the annual meeting of the secretaries. By permission of the Dean, a full choral service will take place in Westminster Abbey, on Friday, May 4, at three o'clock p.m., when a sermon will be preached on behalf on the society by the Lord Bishop of Oxford.

A movement is going on in the Church of England—the object being to urge the immediate increase of the episcopate in England and Wales. A declaration setting forth the desirability of adding to the number of Bishops has been signed by upwards of four thousand clergymen; and a committee—consisting of the Deans of Canterbury, York, and Westminster, the Archdeacon of St. Albans, and other eminent clergymen—has been formed to promote the scheme.

ECCLESIASTICAL COMMISSION.—A supplement to the Gazette of yesterday week, published last Saturday, contains a series of notifications by the ecclesiastical commissioners of various arrangements for the formation of chapelries in different districts, rights of presentation, &c., to which the consent of the Queen in Council has been given, and which will forthwith take effect; also authorising and giving validity to the sale of property belonging to cathedral bodies and others, in pursuance of recommendations of the commissioners submitted to her Majesty. A notice is also appended from the Cambridge University commissioners relating to new statutes and supplementary statutes for regulating the discipline and government of the College of St. Catherine and Christ's College, Cambridge, together with certain foundations at St. Catherine's. The statistics are given at length, and the time for their being brought into operation is to be determined by the Master and Fellows, without prejudice to those interests which have not yet expired, as they shall deem most expedient.

PREFERMENTS AND APPOINTMENTS.—Rectories: The Rev. A. G. W. Blunt to St. Luke's, Chelsea; Rev. W. D. Johnston to Milton next Gravesend; Rev. J. D. Kelly to St. James's, Manchester; Rev. P. Williams to Rewe, Devon; Rev. H. Worsley to Norwood, Middlesex. Vicarages: The Rev. F. T. Gill to Warfield, Berks; Rev. R. Gould to Stratfield, Mortimer, Berks; Rev. H. F. Newbolt to St. Mary's, Bilston; Rev. C. A. Stevens to Goudhurst, Kent. Incumbency: The Rev. P. B. Maddock to Staverton, Trowbridge. Perpetual Curacies: The Rev. S. Bentley to St. Mary Magdalene, Bridgnorth; Rev. J. W. S. Simpson to St. Mary's, Lowton-common, Lancashire; Rev. E. Woodhouse to Scad, near Stroud. Curacies: The Rev. G. W. Fosbery to Sheffield, Cambridge; Rev. S. Y. N. Griffith to St. Ebbe, Oxford; Rev. G. W. Ninis to Christ Church, Glodwick, Lancashire; Rev. J. R. Shaw to Brough-under-Stainmore, Westmoreland.

The death of the Honourable Victor Alexander, "Master of Kinnaird," eldest and only surviving son of Lord Kinnaird, is announced.

Mdlle. Victoire Balfe has just been united at St. Petersburg to Sir John Fiennes T. Crampton, Bart., K.C.B., her Majesty's Minister at the Court of Russia.

The receipts of the Wesleyan Methodist Missionary Society for the past year amounted to £140,000 within a few shillings. This amount includes the munificent legacy of the late Mr. Pooll, of Road, Somerset, the net proceeds of which were £9000. Compared with the receipts of the previous year there is an increase of nearly £11,000.

On Tuesday forenoon the new Congregational Church recently erected at Markham-square, Chelsea, and which will accommodate above 1000 occupants, was opened for the performance of Divine service. All the seats are open. There are galleries on each side of the aisles and at the western end. Under the floor of the church are the schools. The contributions for the erection of the building were all voluntary.

The ceremony of laying the foundation-stone of the Western College, at Plymouth, took place on Tueday, amidst much rejoicing The College was established, in 1752, to educate young men for the Christian ministry amongst Congregational Dissenters. It at present contains twenty students preparing for the university, and facilities are afforded for the admission of lay students.

The authorities have decided on establishing a sanatorium and invalid establishment at the Cape of Good Hope for the reception of the sick and disabled troops belonging to the various corps serving in China.

The secretary of the Royal Astronomical Society recommends a sharp look-out to be kept until the 10th inst. for the approaching conjunction of Lescarbault's planet with the sun, and invites communications from astronomical observers on the subject.

MR. ALCOCK IN JAPAN.—In our notice (March 24) of Kemish's "Japanese Empire" we stated, on the authority of that work, that Mr. Alcock, her Majesty's Plenipotentiary in Japan, was accompanied by his wife. This, it appears, is an error, Mr. Alcock having been a widower since 1853.

TOWN AND TABLE TALK ON LITERATURE, ART, &c.

THE Highgate Choral Opera is to open on the 16th of April. At first it was there for operatic entertainments was built by Sir John Vanbrugh, and managed by him. Will Mr. E. T. Smith thank us for getting in print for the first time the following extract from a letter written by Vanbrugh to an English Duke:—

"July 27, 1708. I feel so much money by the Opera this last winter that I was glad to get rid of it, and just now have parted but upon villainous terms with three in London. The occasion of the loss was three things. One, that half the money was spent before the subscriptions came in, and was lent me by Lord Chamberlain, upon a supposition that there would be immense gain, obliged me to some abatement, and the rest I was forced to lose entirely, having the same notion of the profits, would not come in any subscription; and the third was that, though the sale was beyond all my care or wish to the usual, the gallery people (who thither had only thronged out of curiosities not tasting more of the entertainment—that upon the whole matter there was barely money to pay the performers and other daily charges, and for the subscribers' money, that fell into the undertakers. I might add a fourth reason, which is that I never could look after it myself, but was forced to leave it to others. My feeling has never since been so disagreeable as I believe will go through with it very well—nor will be want subscriptions to help him. I don't doubt but what Mr. Clayton will be very much obliged to you and find his account, and if once a peace comes there will be many things to suggest more which are worthwhile."

Mr. Gye will, doubtless, like to read what his predecessor wrote more than one century and a half since.

Another hitherto unpublished Vanbrugh bit will not be out of place at this time:—

"Mey 31, 1706.—As to myself, I have parted with my whole concern in the opera to Mr. Rowby, only reserving my rent; so that he is entire possessor of the house, and many people think will make money of it; and indeed I hope he has a good deal of money in his pocket that he got before by the acting company, and is willing to venture it all upon one throw.

I must give your Lordship one confession by the way, which is this, that I have got reason to believe that Valentini [Giovanni Valentini] has got my lord Nicolini's coming will undermine do all he can to discourage him, for he has his interest with Mr. Rowby, who is the only man to deal with."

"Van" had difficulties, which his admirable wit could not carry him through, for he wrangled with singers and with Sarah Duchess of Marlborough.

"We knew Mrs. Jameson," said a scholar well fitted to pass an opinion, and who stood almost unseen by her coffin at Kensal-green: "Mrs. Jameson knew more about Art than, with deference to her, I and, my friend Professor Waagen knows. With what feeling she writes (for he would still speak of her as living); how she, in words, enters into her very soul of a picture! and what a debt she owes the very pedigree from first to last of every celebrated work of Art." We could not but concur with our friend, for we, too, know Anna Jameson when she was Anna Murphy, and, taught by an intelligent father, was fain to take the very second rank in Art. Let us, however, remember how she acquired a love for Art and a true understanding of its worth. Mrs. Jameson's Handbooks to the public and private galleries of Art in England are among the best and most useful contributions to the artistic literature of England. It is to be hoped that her many manuscript notes on pictures will fall into good hands, and that the world may be made still wiser by what she knew.

There is little new in Art. The Academy opens in the customary course of the London season, are busy with their palettes and brushes. There has been a good sale of English pictures at Christie's; and there is one cheering look forward, that we may have a Society of Arts—an exhibition of the works of the late Sir William Ross, a prince among miniature-painters in his time, and, we will add, in any time.

Another death. We are getting into a column of blank. Art has this week lost Rosenstio Cellini, sculptor, known to all who know art by his fourteen Cellini bas-relief of wall in making silver and gold copies are not dear (no mean skill) that any one can possess a reproduction.

Rags and paper once more. Bulwer voted against it. Brother novelists, how you differ!

A writer in Blackwood has been abusing Fielding and "Tom Jones." Professor Aytoun, this must not be. Of course, the conversation will be an article abusing Scudéri. But will men north of the Tweed stand an abuse of Smollett?

It was well observed the other day that, while the country is demanding a knowledge of Hindustanee, and the Government will not serve his country in Hindustan, Mr. Wilson, who does not know a word of the native language of India, is sent to India to manage India.

We have received from Paris, in the shape of a thick octavo volume, the catalogue of a sale which is to take place on the 30th inst. at 28, Rue de Rome-Estrahn. The object of the sale is to dispose of a large collection of autographs and original manuscripts belonging to M. Lucas de Montigny. Among these are manuscripts by Count Mirabeau, historical documents relating to the League and the Revolution, and autographs of Catherine de Medici, of Henry II., and of an immense number of persons eminent in politics and literature.

NAVAL AND MILITARY INTELLIGENCE.

Captain Francis Gee has been appointed a Military Knight of Windsor.

The Gazette of yesterday week notifies Sir James Scarlett's appointment to be Adjutant-Generalship.

The Duke of Cambridge, as General Commanding-in-Chief, held on Thursday week, at the Horse Guards, a levee, which was fully attended.

It is officially announced that on and after the 1st of July next the minimum age of candidates for direct commissions in the army will be fixed at eighteen years.

Last Saturday a return was issued showing that there is barrack accommodation for infantry, 58,591; for cavalry, 8695; and for artillery, 8497. In camp, 21,075 men can be accommodated.

There are now five Field Marshals in the English service—the King of the Belgians, the Prince Consort, Lord Combermere, Lord Strafford, and Lord Seaton, whose promotion took place yesterday.

A despatch was received at Devonport yesterday week by Port Admiral Sir Thomas Pasley, K.C.B., directing him to have that portion of the Channel squadron now at Plymouth prepared to proceed to Gibraltar, should orders arrive to put out on Saturday morning.

A district order issued at Portsmouth on Saturday announces that her Majesty having been pleased to require the services of Major-General Sir Thomas Scudamore, K.C.B., as Inspector-General of Fortifications in the command of the south-west district by Major-General Lord William Paulet, C.B.

The Newcastle Chronicle says that an Armstrong gun, with a gun-carriage of nine miles' range, has left the ordnance works near Newcastle. The destination of this terrific piece of artillery we cannot, for the present, state, but it will be subjected to the tests necessary to prove the capabilities of the piece.

A party of 150 non-commissioned officers and men of various cavalry regiments arrived at Chatham yesterday straight from Cahirciveen, having disembarked at Crawsyard from the troop-ship Montrose. The whole of the men have completed the term of service for which they enlisted, and have been sent home from India to be discharged.

The address of the nobility and gentry and of the citizens of Dublin to Lord Seaton, on his retirement from the office of Commander of the Forces, adopted at a public meeting, held at the Mansion House, was presented on Thursday week. The presentation, which was by the Lord Mayor, accompanied by a most influential deputation, took place at the Grand Hall of the Royal Hospital. A numerous and distinguished company of ladies, military and citizens were marshalled on the occasion to pay a tribute, by their presence, to his Lordship.

FINE ARTS.

SOCIETY OF BRITISH ARTISTS.

THERE is a peculiarity in the operations of the Society of British Artists, and those who work in concert with them, which always invests the exhibition in Suffolk-street with an interest special to itself, and not to be found elsewhere. The society is an uncorporated body of thirty members, who have been in the habit of working for their own exhibition during a succession of years, and many of whom do not exhibit anywhere else. Excluded from any chance of academic honours by the very fact of their being here, they seem to take a pride in putting forth their best strength every year, each in his particular line, for the honour of the house. From time to time the best among the body have been elected to the Academy, but talent of no mean order withdrawn from this society, the members of which are content to remain in their own ranks, rather than to abandon their free confederacy here for the chance of acceptance in the honourable but stiff and proscribed circle above mentioned. A sufficient amount of doubt and hazard to prevent it being generally adopted, and the consequence is that the esprit de corps of the society flourishes, and members, content with their exhibition taken as a whole, and upon a series of years, show unquestionable evidences of progress. Another peculiarity in the working of the society generously throw open their walls, are numerous, but of a miscellaneous order, and many of them of an amount of merit hardly removed from the rank so significantly described in the one drawing word "respectable," and their presence in considerable numbers, by diluting the average quality of the exhibition, has also operated to a prejudicial effect in the impression left upon the mind of the visitor. There are not wanting, in fact, many indications of decay in Suffolk-street Exhibition; and we must look to artists themselves, and to the public who patronise art, to supply what is required to effect the desired object. The present exhibition, although the general prospects of art patronage for the season now opening, we may state with confidence, is one of the best we have seen for many years. Sculpture, upwards of 2,000 worth of pictures were disposed of; and, judging from the work now in progress, we are inclined to augur well of the public taste in the matter of selection.

To proceed now to the exhibition before us. Two full members of the society, Mutchler and Baker, are still faithful in their allegiance to historic art, to which they usually pay homage in one picture, and landscape in another—sometimes in a picture in which conformity with the requirements of the highest class of art; and, indeed, in these instances, the latter may be said to have their truest efforts have always found a numerous circle of admirers, and have very frequently been purchased before the season has been half over. Mr. Hurlstone's favourite effort this year is a large picture on the subject of the reception of Queen Margaret and her son Edward prince of Wales at the court of Louis XI., previous to the fatal battle of Hexham (179); but he has treated it with so much originality of perception and execution, that we are inclined to consider it to make it entirely his own. In the first place, instead of one robber we have three, who, rushing forward upon their prey with warm zeal, have overstepped the threshold of the line of legitimate power, and most ingeniously studied. The foremost of these figures, with his face turned towards the queen, is a masterly piece of fine accurate drawing. The attitude of the Queen, with her right hand uplifted, while she clasps the object of her young son to her knees, is somewhat overstudied; and, consequently, the expression of the countenance, which is that of terror as of one who would invoke vengeance, lacks force. The expression of the heroic mother who had led her troops to battle in defence of her son's rights, and who now finds herself almost at the mercy of a common prowling robber, suddenly adopted the pitiful resolution of the moment, setting to flight her foes and gaoler, exclaiming, "Approach, my friend! to you I commit the treasure of your King's son." The Prince himself, it must be added, is of a commonplace type; and the same unhappy want of the true spirit of the ideal heroic with which poetic license might have invested it, is to be found in the figure of the Queen, by the artist's own confession, the only exception which struck us to the general perfection of drawing displayed in the picture. Waiving these objections, however, we must again congratulate the Professor upon his success, one—good in intention, the composition finely conceived, and the grouping skilfully arranged, so as to secure an appropriate breadth and depth and air in a canvas which ran the risk of appearing meagre. The rich and grand costume of the period has been carefully studied by the distant vista obtained through the tangled forest, and the little glimpse of the open country on the right. The colouring is a grave and sober one, but the harmonies are most pleasing, consisting chiefly of rich tints of crimson, orange, russet, green, and dull blue in combination with grey tones, to which the bright flesh of the young Prince's costume is the only exception and drawback. Mr. Hurlstone has done full justice to himself in the choice of his historical art of the season, for the rest employs his pencil in the more profitable walk of portraiture, of which he exhibits four very satisfactory specimens.

Salter takes up a subject of some interest in the annals of the more loyal portion of the people of England which he has also chosen commemorated by the painter—viz., "The First Meeting of Charles I. and Henrietta Maria, Queen of England." The story is well known how, after a stormy passage, the young Princess arrived at Dover, greatly fatigued, on Sunday evening, June 24, 1625, whither, as an almost immediate consequence, the bridegroom to receive her. The impromptu meeting was a hurried one, but wrought a wonderful effect on the spirits of the young couple, who, looking to the matrimonial ceremonies of princes in those days. Henrietta, taken by surprise at the unexpected arrival of her betrothed, threw herself at his feet, and pressed his hand to her lips, forgot the long-set speech she had been taught before leaving home, and muttered a few wild phrases of admiration and devotion. Charles raised the arms round her with gallantry, raised her, and "kissed her with much affection." Such is the account of Sir Simonds D'Ewes, who was of Reckingham, on the King's side, the Duke and Duchess de Chevreuse, Madame de Motte, the Queen's Confessor, Father Sabuy, on the other, looking on with starched gravity and decorum. Salter, therefore, so inconsistent with their notions of Court etiquette. Mr. Salter has added a little to the story, by making the Duke of Buckingham, Marie, covered with pallor, but full of speech, had she words to speak, to a degree of nervousness unusual in her, and who, when she turned forward to receive her, at all unworthy of such a prize. One is almost moved to pity for the unfortunate rival destiny—destiny not of their own earning—which was in store for the unconscious and confiding pair. The other figures are well introduced, and with due regard to the dignity and importance of the occasion, and the whole being taken from acknowledged portraits. The costumes, which are not so richly wrought as they might be, are in keeping with the time, and the flesh modelling is of the highest order of executive art. The only fault we find is in the picture as a whole, it is rather overcrowding and want of air—a requirement which the artist has evidently felt in the close pursuit of the individual beauties of his subject. "The Sons of the Clergy" is the title of a picture by Frith, which illustrates the interview between Shylock and Jessica when the former admonishes the latter to "stop his ears to his father's prodigal son," and to have nothing "to prodigal Christian." The face of the Jew is studied upon an entirely new model, displaying great passion and agony of mind, but with touch of which we cannot approve, as being hardly suggested in the composition of the hard-hearted, hard-headed, cool-blooded Jew. Nevertheless, as an individual and most carefully-elaborated study from nature, introduced apropos of an important Shakspearean creation, this picture will be considered to deserve from the numerous admirers of everything Shakspearean.

Eight contributions by A. J. Woolmer, all luxuriating in his usual mixture of pale pink, green, and yellow, serve to show how much easier it is for an artist to acquire than to get rid of mannerism. Why will he not be encouraged to attempt something new—something more substantial, with a nearer approach to nature and truth, than these impossible golden-haired nymphs in white satin, lounging in an impossible atmosphere, which, to repeat a quotation adopted by himself, > is but daylight sick;

> It looks a little paler?

It may be sufficient to enumerate as of this class the "Moonlight Scene from 'The Merchant of Venice'" (15); "Lucy Ashton in the Mermaid's Cave" (158); "A Seashore at Eventide," with a mottled sky (234); and "Lucy Ashton" (256). There is an interesting engraving furnished, with late and little lapping complete. In the little picture "In the Fresh Haricot, Florence" (31), we discover a slight approach to wholesome and agreeable harmony, the pale cerise dress and round hat of the single figure falling in very nicely in the centre of the canvas.

Hemsley is great in depicting the philosophy of ugly-boy-dom. One urchin, in especial fascinates by his particularly fond of intro-ducing, as a sort of "chorus," on all sorts of occasions—comic and serious. "A very Longest Baby" (43) has a grinning with excess of delight at the youngest baby, whilst his younger brother, "No 2," is a paragon of jealousy and scowls, and kicks his boot and sock off in the enjoyment of the fun. "Bo-peep" (58) has a laughing child-enchantment at the unfortunate cockmaid, who is "moved to tears" (140) in the presence of a pitiful case of distress. The success of this clever artist, like that of Woolmer, would be much improved by extending his stock of materials and diversifying his subjects.

T. Roberts, the worthy secretary of the society, has adopted a class of subject which introduces persons and incidents of every-day life in combination with fairies and elves, and other creatures appealing direct to the sympathies of the multitude. Such, last year, was his charmingly-told story of the "Discontented Pixies," and under the crushing effects of an unfavourable "Opinion of the Press;" and such this year is "The Fairy Well" (7), on the Welsh model, which the society sympathetic contemplates with engrossing joy, as a filial tenderness at seeing their baby fit up in its gayest hues, lighting up the gloomy court beneath, which, during the long, hard winter has been the abode of damp and darkness. In "The Shadow on the Wall" (10) we have a group of boys in a cottage-room, two of whom as performing the "rabbit-on-the-wall trick," to the great delight of the company, while a little group full of truthful character, and happily free from affectation.

Hemsley, too, and full of cheerful spirit, are J. J. Hill's studies of peasant life, as in "Going to Work" (17), "Going Home" (21), how prudent is the game of that yellow-haired shepherd boy, as he protects his love in the rear of the lowly baby, who seems so much pleased as she receives his by no means unwelcome homage! and how the fresh-faced girl is trudging up with a sunny face, the best of the general brightness of that auspicious evening! "The Rush-gatherers on Loch Corrie" (103) introduces us to a wild bit of lake scenery, with a boat containing a man and boy, the latter busily inhaled with a clean and joyous mouth. "The Glenner" (431) shows how beauty is found in the most unexpected places. A rough, ragged-as plush bonnet, and the pale crimson bodice, patched and darned in many places, with the dirty-white chemise in the opening, with a pleasant landscape background, make up a very picturesque adjunction to a very pretty face.

In a somewhat similar vein, but invested with a sentiment and in a mode of treatment all his own, are E. J. Cobbold's pastorals of humble life. In "Gathering Sticks" (18) we have a study of the artist's character. He sometimes, it is true, repeats himself a little, or comes very near to it, as in the case of "Going to Work" (19), consisting of a wild mountain heath, with a group of five peasant girls chatting, which, on our recollection serves, is very similar to a picture we remember to have seen by the same hand before. But he does not imitate anybody but himself, and when he does that he has a persuasive way of his own that completely beguiles us into the belief that he is almost impossible to quarrel with him. "Helping Baby over the Stile" (20) is, to a charming little child, which strikes us as not altogether new in the strictest sense of newness, but which nevertheless accept with welcome. In No 297, where a female is seeking the aid of her companion sister "Mid the Flowers of Wild Flowers," we sniff the invigorating sea-breeze from the high down which they are crossing, and feel that "Girl is Girl" still, and is a subject of extreme beauty and interest; and full of mirth and humour, as evidenced by "Going Home" (297), in which our young girls are carrying a young child in a basket, who bravely smiles delight.

Queen Elizabeth in her old age, sprawling on the floor in a paroxysm of rage, and "Cromwell dissolving the Long Parliament," in the "untimely death of the Earl of Essex," as dolorous Lord Campbell would have termed it, are remarkable subjects that never be made either pretty or picturesque upon canvas. Mr. Montague's effort (29) must be set down as a failure, and with the same subject we have seen before that we imagine it to be the same. It is hardly possible that two artists can have treated the same idea with the same kind of failure.

"Paris in 1848" (38), by A. Ludovici, represents mischief which is a little out of date—Paris was, in fact, in her glory on the fourth or fifth day, with musket in hand, looking out anxiously from the window, and with the barricade in the street strife which is raging and rolling onward towards the site of his dwelling. There is no pictorial merit in the work to redeem its want of enduring interest. "Le Bon Vieux Temps" (39), by the same artist, is more successful, when transferring to canvas the melancholy and indulgent fatherly of "Old Times," equipped in pale blue knickers, with modest wreath of white flowers round her head.

We have also been pleased in receiving the important department of landscape untouched for a subsequent occasion.

THE NATIONAL GALLERY.

The National Collection has just received another considerable accession of strength—in numbers at least, in some thirty pictures, a score or more of which are of considerable merit, from the bye ays of various schools—Italian, German, Flemish, and French, and of various degrees of excellence. We cannot but regret that their individual value, however, their appearance amongst us makes the best worst of their position, and renders it difficult to find room for any more additions, and two screens running across the prize pat room painfully attest the dilemma to which the directors are now reduced in their desire to make the collection worthy of the nation as a school of art.

We have not space at present to criticise seriatim these new additions. We must content ourselves with a glance at the more prominent of them. The most important is that of Guido's "Aurora," painted at the end of the fifteen century, is represented in a large and important work—"The Madonna and Child Enthroned," various saints attendant, with the donor of the picture, a Franciscan monk, by the representation of the dead body of Christ above. Another interesting work of the same school is the "Madonna and Child" of Madalene in the Garden," by Francesco Mantegna, the son of Andrea, and who assisted his great parent in some of the most important of his fade drawing, firm outline, and broad treatment of light and dark. By Titian we have a brilliantly-painted "Madonna and Child, with St. John the Baptist," which, although not equal to the Bridgewater Madonna, Giulio Romano's bold but sometimes somewhat coarse style is seen in a very favourable light in "The Adoration of Cornelius," introducing the conference of Scipio, and "The Abduction of the Sabines." Another Italian picture worthy of notice is "The Rape of Sabines."

Angelo Bronzino's proximate picture, "Venus, Cupid, Folly, and Time," is not altogether satisfactory, and is an instance of the extravagance into which the immediate followers and admirers of Michael Angelo fell when attempting to emulate his grand mystic creations. "The Daphnis and Chloe," by Paris Bordanon, is a fine early work, by the most eminent painter of Venetian school of Belgium. Amongst other works of the Italian school are two Salvio—or rendings, the other bearing a standard—by Girolamo da Santa Croce; "The Adoration of the Magi," by Dosso Dossi; "The Woman taken in Adultery," by Marcello da Ferrara; and "Judith and Holofernes," by Andrea Schiavone, the latter being a fair specimen of Perrarese schools. Of the German school of the fifteenth century we have a striking example in "The Death of the Virgin," by Martin Schoen; and of the same school a century and a half later—changed in character—a "Pan and Syrx," by Bolten-hammer. Of the Flemish school is a curious "Magdalene Hanging," in which the native mind, in the type of face and costume, is followed with singular fidelity, and a total abnegation of ideal treatment.

The National Portrait Gallery, 29, Great George-street, Westminster, will be freely open, without tickets, on Monday, Tuesday, and Wednesday in the Easter week, from ten to five o'clock. At other times admission is limited to Wednesdays and Saturdays, between the hours of twelve and five.

EASTER PASTIMES IN SYRIA.

Of all festivals observed by the Greek Church in Syria (not even excepting Christmas), Easter is by far the most exhilarating and pleasing. The season of the year is delicious; and by the seacoast, near the valley of the Orontes, the whole of nature is clad in summer garments; whilst the balmy air is laden with the sweet scents of roses, which grow in wild profusion even in the very hedges which separate the mulberry plantations from each other. Every face is radiant with joy; every voice is tuned to mirth. The long and dreary season of Lent—so rigidly observed by the Syro-Greek peasantry, who abstain not only from meat but also from eggs, milk, and butter, and clothe themselves in tattered, soiled, sombre garments, emblematical of repentance in dust and ashes—has at length come to a close; and as the brilliant sun of a Syrian morning throws its golden mantle over valley and hill, and makes the placid waters of the beautiful bay sparkle like brilliants, there may be encountered a multitude of gaily-attired men, women, and children, who seem to start into life like butterflies freshly burst forth from the chrysalis, all wending their way homeward from early mass at the rustic village church on the summit of a hill, up whose abrupt sides clamber grape vines innumerable, where the venerable old priest has just given them absolution, and they are about, with a forty days' appetite, to fall to and devour the savory viands awaiting them at home. There is something exceedingly picturesque in the costume of the peasantry about ancient Seleucia. The snowy-white loose inexpressibles of the men (for they all begin to wear summer clothes on Easter Day), fastened at the waist by elegant Tripoli silk cords, contrast with the gaily-striped abah, or coat of many colours, which is doubtless of the same pattern as the one worn by Joseph; the brilliant red shoes, and tarboushe, the latter encircled with a gaily-coloured handkerchief—all these look bright and lively, for every one that can possibly manage it makes a point of getting a brand-new suit every Easter Day. Neither are the women and girls of the village one whit behind the men and boys as regards costume. They also have a great deal of snowy-white about their garments, which contrasts well with the handsomely-braided jackets and vests of blue, red, and green, and their gaily-tinselled fez, many of their really beautiful faces set off by a tiara of gold coins worn over the forehead; their long, black, glossy hair hanging in long plaits behind, from the end of which tinkle coins of all sizes and descriptions.

PEASANT GIRLS DANCING IN A CIRCLE.

Everybody greets everybody with the salutation "Christ is risen!" and the reply invariably is, "He is, indeed, risen!"

After a substantial breakfast the shebab, or young unmarried men, of the village resort, under a chosen chief of the festival, to an open plain, near the residence of the chief landed proprietor, where, in his presence, the old priest, friends, and head men of the village, who are seated on rugs with divan cushions to recline against (as represented in the accompanying illustration) indulge in athletic games, never for a moment losing their tempers or suffering defeat, however ignominious, to give rise even to a frown or an angry word. In the foreground are two lads, sons of the proprietor, who are amusing themselves at that favourite Syrian Easter pastime, baida; they are each furnished with gaily-coloured, hard-boiled eggs, of which every house in the village has a supply of some hundreds; for Christmas in England without turkey and plum-pudding would not be more terrible than Easter without coloured eggs to the Syro-Greek peasant. The boys are knocking the eggs together at the sharp end of the oval to see who has got the hardest. The egg which first cracks is lost, and is immediately devoured by the winner. The little villain to the right, who has the appetite of a vulture and made a most astounding breakfast, has since that meal was eaten swallowed fifteen hard-boiled eggs, and he means to try and eat fifteen more, to give him an appetite for his dinner.

At the same time that the shebab are at athletic games, all the young and comely maidens of the village, who have decorated their tarboushes with garlands of fresh flowers, repair, under the superintendence of an old one-eyed harridan (who is the prima donna of the village), to the house of the proprietor, where under the wooden balcony they dance in circles round the one-eyed witch, who claps her hands to accompany her own shrieking, and capers about in circles. Up in the balcony are the wife and daughter of the chief Greek landed proprietor, and these girls are the daughters of the peasantry employed by him upon the estate. The old lady is muffled up round the head and under the chin, for, although the sun is shining brightly, the weather is yet cold, and the distant Mount Casius is still snowcapped. The Bay of Antioch is seen in the Sketch, and the distant headlands of Latakia.

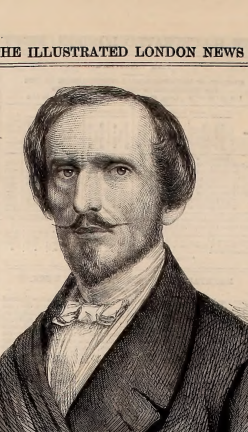
So passes the day till close upon sundown, by which time thousands of eggs have been won and lost and devoured. Then the hungry peasants go home to dinner, and whole sheep, made into savory meat, disappear in a most alarming manner. The cocks and hens have taken up their nightly roost inside the cottage, the donkey has walked into his corner, darkness envelops the earth, and the peasant closes his cottage-door for the night. Ten minutes afterwards he and his household are slumbering the tranquil sleep of a life of temperance and healthy exercise.

THE "SHEBAB" (YOUNG UNMARRIED MEN) ENGAGED IN ATHLETIC SPORTS.

BARON RICASOLI.

THE Portrait which we give of this distinguished Tuscan statesman, who has taken so prominent a part in the great events which now attract the attention of Europe, derives interest, not only from the celebrity of its subject, but from the remarkable conformity of the countenance to the known character of the man. The high cheekbones belong more to the Celtic than to the southern type, while the harshness thus produced is tempered by the regularity and calm dignity of the other features. The whole head, joined to the erect and unbending figure, is strongly expressive of that calm and resolute will which is described as characteristic of his mind.

Of the antecedents of this Tuscan patriot little is recorded. In the year 1848 he was the "Gonfaloniere" (or Governor) of the city of Florence and Deputy of the Legislative Assembly; but, finding himself unable to resist the ruinous course followed by the Grand Duke's Government, he resigned his official situation, and continued to reside in Florence with his family in a private station. After the movement in 1849, which brought about the restoration of the Grand Ducal Government, Ricasoli, with his family, left Tuscany and took up his residence in Switzerland, where the free institutions and simple habits of the people were congenial to his spirit. He returned to Tuscany in 1859, from which time he exercised, in vast improvements on his own estates, that activity of mind and tenacity of purpose which belong to his character.



On the expulsion of the Grand Duke, in the beginning of last year, Baron Ricasoli was placed at the head of the Provisional Government. In this position he took a leading part, along with Farini, in bringing about the annexation to Piedmont of Tuscany and the other States of Central Italy, and originated the movement whereby this measure was resolved upon by the almost unanimous votes of the people of those States. Among other stirring appeals made by him to the patriotic spirit of his countrymen, his speech, when he delivered standards to the National Guard in front of the Campo Santo, is especially remarkable. "If," he said, "the departed heroes who sleep in this consecrated earth brought hither from Jerusalem by our crusaders, could hear this day of ours, they would ask—Is it against Genoa or Venice war is waged? No! Italians now don't fight each other; we all rally round one King—Victor Emmanuel; municipal jealousies are of the past. It is for us, and not for strangers, to decide on what suits our country. Romagna has decreed, Tuscany has adjudicated on the issue. Foreign Powers may seek to suffocate our peninsula by obstructions to its free breathing. We breathe at last, and, save at Rome, Naples, and Venice, our lungs inhale national vitality. midst a decrepit fog in Rome's temporal sceptre. Mix not up the faith of your waters with that nuisance. They are distinct, and in our day incompatible. Soldiers! sons of the crusaders whose bones repose in this soil! keep your faith intact. In my veins there flows a blood that has for ages been at the service of our religion; and, as a Catholic, I feel it my duty to denounce the fraud and artifices of a worldly and profane Court, as much adverse to true Christianity as to national happiness."

When the whole Tuscan people, with one mighty voice, had declared for annexation to the kingdom of Piedmont, it became the pleasing duty of Ricasoli to complete the work by tendering the allegiance of his countrymen to King Victor Emmanuel. For this purpose he arrived at Turin on the 15th of last month. There, at a formal audience, he presented to the King the official documents, which showed that the people had voted for annexation by a majority of 630,000 to 756, and tendered the sovereignty of Tuscany to his Majesty. The King accepted the tender; a decree was signed accordingly, and Tuscany is now a constituent part of the kingdom of Piedmont.

The King of Sardinia issued a decree last week appointing Baron Ricasoli Governor-General of Tuscany.

LORD CANNING AND LORD CLYDE AT LAHORE.

THE Governor-General of India, accompanied by the Commander-in-Chief, has lately been making a triumphal tour through the North-west Provinces, and holding durbars (levees) at all the chief cities. On Saturday, the 11th of February, their Lordships arrived at Lahore, the ancient capital of the Punjaub, where all the principal Sikh chiefs were gathered to attend a grand durbar. They were drawn up in a line across the Maidan, at the Sumun Boorj, about 1000 in all, attired in their brightest costumes, and shining like flower-beds in the morning sun—a sight of such splendour that it is only a chance once in a life to see. There were men from all parts of the Punjaub—some from the sandy deserts of the Indus, and from the Salt Hills; men with long black hair from the mountains; rich merchants from Umritsir; learned pundits (called Khalehs); brave soldiers and fanatic priests; old men with beards to their waists. The common type of the Sikh was, of course, the most plentiful. He generally ties all his hair up in his turban, bringing the folds close down over the sides of his face, with large rings in his ears, his legs being encased in very tight nether garments. The legs of the Sikhs are all destitute of calf, but they are called, from their power of endurance, "the iron legs." Perhaps are not the fashion which a Sikh dandy follows; on the contrary, it is said that the outré swells get their pants sewed on their legs. This costume does not look so well when the wearer is on foot as it does when he is on horseback, and the Sikhs are all perfect equestrians. When the Lord Sahib appeared, Mr. Temple, Commissioner at Lahore, gave the signal, and, at their head, he led this brilliant mass off at full charge. Most of those men had fought against us, and they were the bravest enemies we have met in India. But that moving mass, with all its attending equipage of Eastern pomp, was now on a mission of peace, to manifest its homage to the power of England. After a few introductions the Sikhs turned round, and followed in the procession, which wound round the Hazoori Bagh to Anarkulee, where were the troops of the station, commanded by General Windham, and the cortége. From this the procession moved on slowly to camp. This is stated to be by far the finest turn-out that has yet been to greet the viceregal progress. The Sketch which we engrave was taken just after the Sikhs joined the procession, as it neared the Hazoori Bagh. The white building among the trees is Runjeet Singh's tomb, to the left of which is the fort, firing a Royal salute. The figure to the right of the Governor-General is Sir Robert Montgomery, Lieutenant-Governor of the Punjaub.

BARON RICASOLI, GOVERNOR-GENERAL OF TUSCANY.

In the evening his Excellency and Countess Canning, accompanied by the Commander-in-Chief, the Lieutenant-Governor, and others, visited the illuminations in the city.

On Monday, the 13th, the Viceroy held a levee for the reception of the civil and military officers of the station; and on Tuesday his Excellency granted a private interview to the Rajah of Kuperthlah, and afterwards held a grand durbar, at which about three hundred and fifty of the chief Sirdars were present. The usual ceremonies having taken place, his Excellency made the following speech:—

"Sirdars of the Punjaub,—I have long wished to visit your country and to be among you. I need not tell you that this wish has been greatly strengthened by recent events, and by the recollection of the services which you and your fellow-countrymen have lately rendered to the British Government. In other parts of India I have seen many distinguished chiefs, of ancient lineage and large influence, who have proved themselves faithful feudatories of the Crown, and many of lower degree, who have been faithful subjects in the midst of great discouragement and danger; but in the Punjaub I have found a whole nation of brave and loyal men. In the name of the Queen I thank you for your fidelity, and courage, and true service, Sirdars! I have seen with pleasure the signs of prosperity with which the Punjaub abounds;—cultivation extended, commerce increasing, life and property secure, the people orderly and contented. I know that you are not insensible of the value of these benefits to your country, and I am about to call upon you to take your part in extending and confirming them. It is not in times of war and trouble only that the Government of the Queen claims your services; and some among you will shortly be invited to assume the duties which belong to the hereditary chiefs and landholders of a loyal people in times of peace. For this purpose certain powers in magisterial and revenue matters will be conferred upon a limited number of you. The Lieutenant-Governor will determine to whom they can be most usefully intrusted, and will explain to you their scope and purpose. In the exercise of them, your best guidance will be the wise and friendly advice which you will never fail, upon this as upon all other occasions, to receive from Sir Robert Montgomery. But remember that each man who shall receive these powers will receive them to be used, not carelessly or for private purposes of his own, but earnestly for the public good, and especially for the expediting of justice and the maintenance of order among those around him.

Sirdars! I look forward with confidence to the proof which, by a right use of these powers, you will give to India and to England that the chiefs of the Punjaub are not more conspicuous for their fidelity and bravery in danger than for their intelligence, justice, and respect for the law, when quiet and prosperity are undisturbed."

LIFE-BOAT SERVICES.

OUR Illustration on page 336 represents one of the life-boats of the Royal National Life-boat Institution proceeding to the rescue of a shipwrecked crew on the east coast of England, where ship-wrecks are of frequent occurrence, and where the services of life-boats are constantly in stormy weather called into requisition. The ship has struck on the outer ridge of rocks off Filey-bridge, on the Yorkshire coast, and, having beaten over it, is drifting onto Scarborough Bay. The original picture was painted by Mr. Samuel Walters, of Bootle, near Liverpool. He was induced to prepare it, at considerable trouble, by a peculiar process of photographing, in order to bring before the public a correct and picturesque view of one of these valuable life-boats, with the intention of exciting a more general appreciation of their great service in cases of shipwreck, and of inducing the benevolent to extend their support to an institution whose life-boats even during the last twelve months have been the means of snatching two hundred and eighteen of our fellow-creatures from a watery grave. On twenty-nine occasions it happened that when the life-boats had put off in reply to signals of distress the vessels had either got out of danger or their crews been rescued by other means. Life-boats' crews also assembled several times to give assistance, but were not required to put off to sea. For these valuable exertions the total sum paid to life-boats' crews was £733 18s. 9d. On these occasions, and on those of quarterly exercise, the life-boats were manned probably by no less than four thousand persons. Nearly all the services took place in stormy weather and heavy seas, and often in the dark hour of the night. Such practical proofs as these of the great value of the Royal National Life-boat Institution in a maritime country like ours cannot possibly be overrated. It has now one hundred and one life-boat stations under its management. On an average each station requires £30 a year to maintain it in a state of thorough efficiency. This good work can only be perpetuated by permanent endowments and the continued support of the public to the National Life-boat Institution.

GOVERNMENT STEAM-TUG FOR SHALLOW RIVERS IN INDIA.—SEE SUPPLEMENT, PAGE 333.

We append a list of the life-boat stations of this institution, as it cannot fail to be of essential service to mariners and sea-going passengers. These boats form a truly noble fleet—outnumbered, to be sure, by the navies of commerce and of war, but the largest life-saving fleet that the world has yet seen:—

ENGLAND.—Northumberland: Berwick-on-Tweed, North Sunderland, Boulmer, Alnmouth, Hauxley, Newbiggin, Cullercoats. Durham: Whitburn, Seaton Carew. Yorkshire: Middlesborough, Redcar, Saltburn, Filey, Bridlington, Hornsea. Norfolk: Cromer, Mundesley, Bacton, Palling, Winterton, Caistor, Yarmouth (two boats). Suffolk: Lowestoft, Pakefield, Southwold, Thorpeness (two boats), Aldborough. Kent: Kingsgate, Walmer, Dover, Dungeness. Sussex: Camber, Rye, Hastings, Eastbourne, Newhaven, Brighton. Isle of Wight: Brooke, Grange. Dorset: Lyme Regis. South Devon: Exmouth, Teignmouth. Cornwall: Fowey, Lizard, Sennen Cove, Penzance, St. Ives, Newquay, Padstow, Bude Haven. North Devon: Appledore (two boats), Braunton. Cumberland: Silloth. Lancashire: Lytham, Fleetwood. Isle of Man: Castletown.

WALES.—Glamorganshire: Porthcawl. Carmarthen: Llanelly, Carmarthen Bay. Pembrokeshire: Tenby, Fishguard. Cardiganshire: Cardigan. Merionethshire: Aberdovey, Barmouth. Carnarvonshire: Portmadoc. Flintshire: Rhyl (Tubular). Anglesea: Llanddwyn, Rhoscolyn, Holyhead, Cemlyn, Moelfre, Penmon.

SCOTLAND.—Ayrshire: Ayr. Caithness: Thurso. Banffshire: Banff. Elginshire: Lossiemouth. Aberdeenshire: Fraserburgh. Fifeshire: St. Andrews. Haddingtonshire: North Berwick.

IRELAND.—County Antrim; Portrush. Down: Groomsport, Tyrella, Newcastle (Dundrum Bay) Louth: Dundalk, Drogheda. Dublin: Skerries. Wicklow: Wicklow, Arklow. Wexford: Cahore, Wexford, Rosslare Fort, Carnsore. Waterford: Tramore, Dungarvan, Ardmore. Cork: Youghal, Ballycotton. Mayo: Westport.

NATIONAL SPORTS.

CROXTON Park, which is still faithful to the old régime of heats in its Farmers' Plate, held a very pleasant anniversary on Friday. Gentlemen riders were "up" in four out of the eight races; and the finish for the Granby Handicap, which was left to one of them and Aldcroft, on the very racing-like Tommy Noble, terminated in a dead heat. The past week has been a blank with the exception of one steeplechase meeting, but on Monday next the curtain rises on the Newmarket Craven. Sweetsauce, Arethusa, Paleface, and Apollyon are all in the 50 sov. R.M. Stakes on Monday, for which Richmond is not likely to go; and Fravola and Madame Eglantine (whose views on leaving the post are, we trust, altered by a winter's reflection) in the 25 sov. Stake. The Newmarket Handicap is on Tuesday, and embraces Simple Simon, 6st. 7lb., and Athos, 6st. 12lb. Scent is one of the seventy-nine in the Four-yr-old Newmarket Biennial on the same day; and Lupellus, Viatka, Loiterer, and Umpire in the Three-yr-old. The latter colt has hardly cantered all the winter, and a hoarding has been put round his paddock to baffle the touts. On Thursday Promised Land, Marionette, and North Lincoln are in the Claret; and Gamester, Drogheda, and Musjid in the Port on Friday. Catterick Bridge Races will also be held on Wednesday and Thursday, and Thirsk on Friday and Saturday. Henley-in-Arden and York have their steeplechases on Monday; the Essex and Suffolk Hunt on Tuesday; the Southdown Hunt on Thursday; and Abergavenny on Thursday and Friday.

The Sporting Magazine of this month is embellished with a portrait of Lord Derby's Longbow, after Harry Hall. The original painting is, we believe, hung up in the dining-room at Knowsley, as a companion to that of the renowned Sir Peter. His race with Pelion for the Eglinton Stakes at Doncaster, and his easy victory in a field of twenty-eight for the Stewards' Cup at Goodwood, under 9st. 4lb., form part of the memoria technica of every turfite of eight years' standing. He is the sire of nine or ten winners; and we find from the list of sires in the same number that his grandsire, Touchstone, has twenty-four scions at the stud, while Melbourne has sixteen and Birdcatcher eleven. There are, besides the above, some of less note in the country, as well as several abroad.

Lord Stamford's hounds have had excellent sport this season. Annexed is a short account of some of the runs:—On Monday, the 19th ult., from Scraptoft, one of the finest runs of the season, killing one fox, after 55 minutes, at a racing pace, close to Hungarton; in the afternoon, a fast ring of 35 minutes from Billesdon Coplow; the hounds whipped off at Quenby. On Tuesday, the 27th, a capital day's sport on the Forest, with a kill. On Wednesday, the 28th, an equally good day, from Bunay, killing one fox. On Saturday, the 31st, a magnificent run of an hour and fifteen minutes from Lord Aylesford's, to ground in Harby Hills, near Belvoir Castle; ten miles from point to point; distance run about twelve miles. Monday, the 2nd, a capital hunting run of an hour and twenty minutes from Ashby Pastures, losing one fox, in a very heavy thunderstorm, one field from Owston Wood. Tuesday, the 3rd: Meet, Bradgate House; found in Bradgate Park; fox headed, making for the open country; turned short back in the park, and ran through Benscliff to Ulverscroft Abbey, back through Benscliff, by Sir F. Heygate's, to Swithland Wood, from there into Bradgate Park by Anstey village, leaving Beaumont Leys to the right, and the hounds ran into him in the open close to Birstall; an hour and twenty minutes without a check, the pace from first to last so severe that, out of nearly two hundred, Lord Stamford, Mr. Herrick (who joined in for the last part), Treadwell, and one or two farmers, only were in at the finish.

The subscription for the late Will Goodall's wife and family has reached £1800, which is a noble tribute to his memory. We understand that his executors have received permission from his Grace the Duke of Rutland to publish the Belvoir Hunting Diary which poor Will kept during the whole of his career. It is written with a spirit and a vividness of description very characteristic of the man. Harry Sebright, huntsman to Lord Henry Bentinck, has recovered the effects of the severe kick from a young horse which laid him up for a time; and Will Derry has been acting as kennel huntsman to Mr. Henley Greaves since George Wells's death, while James Maiden, the very clever first whip, has hunted the hounds. Sir Maurice Berkeley's have done well in the frost, and have had, on the whole, a better season than the one previous. Up to last Saturday they had killed fifty-eight and a half brace of foxes. Major Fletcher, who has hunted the East Lothian hounds for five seasons, succeeds to the South Berkshire country, and George Whitemore, the present huntsman, goes, we hear, into Devonshire. Mr. Croome keeps on the V. W. H., as the amount of subscription which was lacking has been made up. After having had their sport so much interrupted the masters are loth to leave off, and not a few will hunt, if not advertise, their meets up to the middle of April. Mr. Percy Williams's sale of hounds and hunters will take place at the Rufford kennels next Friday. The Captain can be ill spared from the hunting ranks, and we trust that ere long he may find a country to his mind. It is said that another drag-hunt will come off in Limerick this month.

Cambridge has triumphed over Oxford in the boat race by a length, thus reversing the luck of '59. From Hammersmith-bridge to Barnes Railway-bridge the struggle was one of the most severe that

E'er was proof of oarsmen's thew,
Or theme for minstrel's lay.

When are we to have a really stirring lay from the Professor of Poetry on a subject so dear to all academic hearts?

RIFLE-SHOOTING IN SWITZERLAND.—(To the Editor.)—On the 10th, 11th, 12th, 13th, 14th, 15th, and 16th of June next the first Tir Cantonal will be celebrated with more than usual éclat at Geneva. Subscriptions and gifts of various kinds for prizes have been and are in the course of being collected. The committee of the Carabiniers Genevois invite any of the English riflemen who may be so disposed to come and enter into a friendly combat for superiority with the Minié rifle. The whole will conclude with a grand fête and ball, to which the riflemen will be invited, and it will have all the characteristic features of a Swiss national festival. I shall be glad to furnish all persons who may be desirous of accepting this amicable invitation with the rules and regulations of the Tir. CHARLES VANSITTART, 3, Quai du Mont Blanc, Geneva, March 29.

THE WEATHER.

RESULTS OF METEOROLOGICAL OBSERVATIONS AT THE KEW OBSERVATORY OF THE BRITISH ASSOCIATION
Lat. 51° 28' 6" N.; Long. 0° 18' 47" W.; Height above sea 34 feet.

DAY.	Barometer Corrected. (Daily means of)	Temperature of the Air.	Dew Point.	Relative Humidity.	Amount of Cloud.	Minimum read at 10 A.M. (Thermometer)	Maximum read at 10 P.M.	Wind: General Direction.	Wind: Movement in 24 hours.	Rain in 24 hours. Read at 10 A.M.
	Inches.	°	°		0-10	°	°		Miles.
March 28	29·697	50·0	40·1	·71	8	42·4	56·3	W.	407	·000
„ 29	29·525	49·3	42·9	·80	8	47·8	57·3	W. WNW.	426	·033
„ 30	29·622	44·8	41·2	·88	10	42·5	50·7	SE. S. SW.	330	·013
„ 31	28·939	46·7	43·6	·90	10	45·4	51·3	SW. SSW.	517	·000
April 1	29·121	46·6	35·0	·67	10	45·2	54·4	NNW.	512	—
„ 2	29·113	42·9	35·2	·77	10	38·8	46·4	S.	443	·440
„ 3	29·594	43·5	36·0	·77	7	36·9	53·6	W. SW.	325	·240

The following are the readings of the meteorological instruments for the above days, in order, at half-past nine a.m.:—

Barometer (in inches), corrected	29·723	29·557	29·742	29·203	29·137*	29·125	29·505
Temperature of Air	51·4°	51·8°	46·1°	48·6°	49·8°	44·9°	45·2°
Temperature of Evaporation ..	43·9°	49·5°	43·1°	46·6°	43·8°	41·1°	41·1°
Direction of Wind	W.	W.S.W.	S.E.	S.S.W.	N.N.W.	S.	W.

* This day's observations were made at 10 a.m.

MONETARY TRANSACTIONS OF THE WEEK.

(From our City Correspondent.)

DURING nearly the whole of the week there has been a very active demand for money for commercial purposes, and, in numerous instances, the rates for accommodation in Lombard-street, and at the large discount-houses, have exceeded those demanded by the Bank of England. It is, however, satisfactory to find that the engagements which fell due on the 4th were tolerably well met. In order to meet the great pressure for money the Bank has discounted freely; but "out of doors" the rates for short periods have ruled as high as 4⅝ to, in some instances, 5 per cent. The extent of the discount business of the Bank may be gathered from the fact that within the last three weeks "other securities" have advanced more than three millions sterling!

Compared with the previous week, there has been an improved feeling in the market for most Home Securities, and prices have exhibited an upward tendency. The amount of business done, however, both for Money and Time, has not been very extensive. Owing to some rather heavy sales, the Unfunded Debt has given way in price. In the market for Indian Securities the transactions have been on a very moderate scale.

The imports of the precious metals, including £488,000 in silver by the West India steamer, have been about £650,000. A portion of the gold has been disposed of for export purposes; but the silver market has ruled heavy, and the price of bars has fallen to 61⅝d. per ounce standard. In Mexican dollars scarcely any business has been passing; and the shipments by the steamer for India have been only £122,458, of which £107,984 is silver, and £14,474 gold.

The discount-houses are now giving 3½ per cent for money "at call" and 4 per cent subject to seven days' notice of withdrawal.

Notice has been given of a fresh issue of Victoria Government Debentures of £2,650,000 sterling. Tenders will be received at the London and Westminster Bank till the 11th inst., and which must be accompanied with a deposit of 5 per cent.

The dealings in the shares of the newly-formed companies have continued limited; nevertheless no change of importance has taken place in the quotations. Ocean Marine Insurance have realised 3 to 3¼ prem.; Universal, ½ to ¾ prem.; and Bank of Turkey, 1½ to 1¼ dis.

The purchases for the sinking fund of the Three per Cent Loan have been completed. The operations amounted to £65,400, at 70 to 71.

On Monday no change of importance took place in the value of National Securities:—Consols, for Money, ranged from 93⅞ to 94⅛; for the Account, 94 to 94¼; and Exchequer Bills, 15s. to 18s. prem.; Indian Stocks were flat; the Bonds marked 1s. dis.; the Four per Cent Debentures, 1858, 96¾; the Five per Cent Rupee Stock was 97½ to 97¾; and the Five-and a Half per Cent, 103½ to 103¾. There was more firmness in the market generally on Tuesday, at enhanced quotations:—Consols, for Money, sold at 94⅛ ½ ⅝; and 94½ ⅝ for the Account; the New Two-and-a-Half per Cents marked 78; Rupee Stocks were steady; the Five per Cents marked 98 and 97¾; the Five-and-a-Half per Cent, 103½ ¾; India Stock realised 218; Ditto Five per Cent, 104¼ ⅜ ½; the Debentures, 1858, 96¾ ⅞ 97; Ditto, 1859, 96½ ¾; and the Bonds, 1s. discount. On Wednesday the dealings in Home Stocks were limited, yet prices ruled steady:—Consols, for Money, were 94⅜ ⅝ ½; for the Account, 94⅝ ⅝ for the May settlement; India Stock was firm, at 220; Ditto, New, 104⅜ ½; and the Five per Cent Enfaced Paper, 97¾ 98; Exchequer Bills were quoted at 8s. to 12s. premium.

There has been a better feeling exhibited on the Paris Bourse this week, and prices have somewhat recovered from the late heavy decline.

The report that a new Turkish loan is in contemplation has been officially contradicted.

Compared with last week the Foreign House has been somewhat buoyant, and prices almost generally have been on the advance. The leading quotations are as follows:—Brazilian Five per Cents, 1843, 100½; Brazilian Four-and-a-Half per Cents, 1858, 89½; Chilian Six per Cents, 102 ex div.; Dutch Two-and-a-Half per Cents, 66½; Dutch Four per Cents, 99½ ex div. Grenada Three-and-a-Half per Cents, New Active, 15; Ditto, Deferred, 4¼; Mexican Three per Cents, 21⅛; Peruvian Four-and-a-Half per Cents, 91½; Peruvian Three per Cents, 71 ex div.; Portuguese Three per Cents, 1853, 42; Russian Five per Cents, 108; Russian Four-and-a-Half per Cents, 96½; Russian Three per Cents, 64½; Sardinian Five per Cents, 83½; Spanish Three per Cents, 46½; Ditto, New Deferred, 34⅝; Ditto, Passive, 14⅝; Ditto, Committee's Certificates of Coupon, not funded, 4½; Turkish Six per Cents, 79; Ditto, New, 60¾; Turkish Four per Cents, 101; Venezuela One-and-a-Half per Cents, 13¾.

The market for Joint-stock Bank Shares has ruled firm, and a fair business has been transacted in it, as follows:—Australasia, 69¾; Bank of Egypt, 21¾; Chartered of India, Australia, and China, 20½ ex div.; Commercial of London, 20; English, Scottish, and Australian Chartered, 16½; London Chartered of Australia, 22½; London and Westminster, 57¾; London Joint-stock, 31; National Provincial of England, New, 24½; New South Wales, 39; Oriental, 44⅝; Ottoman, 17½; Union of Australia, 45½; and Union of London, 29½.

Colonial Government Securities have been in rather limited request; nevertheless, prices have been maintained. Canada Six per Cents have realised 100⅝; New South Wales Five per Cents, 1888 and upwards, 100; and Victoria Six per Cents, 107½ ex div.

Miscellaneous Securities have been dealt in to a moderate extent only, yet prices have ruled firm:—Australian Agricultural have marked 32½; Berlin Waterworks, 4⅝; Crystal Palace, 26½; Ditto, Six per Cent Perpetual Debentures, 104; Electric Telegraph, 107; Ditto, New, 15½; London General Omnibus, 1⅝; Madras Irrigation and Canal, 3⅛; Oriental Inland Steam, 8; Peel River Land and Mineral, 50; Peninsular and Oriental Steam, 79½; Ditto, New, 29½; Red Sea and India Telegraph, 17¾; Rhymney Iron, 22½; Royal Mail Steam, 53; Scottish Australian Investment, 127½; South Australian Land, 35½; East and West India Dock, 129; London, 70; Regent's Canal, 20½; West Middlesex Waterworks, 107.

A fair average business has been passing in the Railway Share Market, and prices have somewhat advanced. The supply of stock in the hands of the dealers continues very moderate. The total dividend of the South Austrian and Lombardo-Venetian Company for the past year, including the 7½ francs already paid, will be at the rate of 12½ per cent. The following are Wednesday's official closing quotations:—

ORDINARY SHARES AND STOCKS.—Ambergate, Nottingham, and Boston Junction, 6⅝; Caledonian, 90½; East Anglian, 17½; Eastern Counties, 55; Eastern Union, A Stock, 37; Ditto, B Stock, 26; Edinburgh and Glasgow, 78½; Edinburgh, Perth, and Dundee, 29; Glasgow and South-Western, 99½; Great Nothern, 112; Ditto, A Stock, 115½; Great Western, 68¾; Lancashire and Yorkshire, 102⅜; London and Blackwall, 68½; London and Brighton, 110; London and North-Western, 98⅜; Ditto, Eighths, 9⅝; London and South-Western, 92¾; Londonderry and Enniskillen, 12½; Manchester, Sheffield, and Lincolnshire, 42½; Midland, 117¼; Ditto, Birmingham and Derby, 93½; Newport, Abergavenny, and Hereford, 10⅝; North British, 60⅝ ex div.; North-Eastern—Berwick, 93¾; Ditto, Leeds, 47¼; Ditto, York, 77½; North Staffordshire, 14; Oxford, Worcester, and Wolverhampton, 42; Scottish North-Eastern—Aberdeen, Stock, 33¾; South-Eastern, 88; South Devon, 48; South Wales, 67.

LINES LEASED AT FIXED RENTALS.—Chester and Holyhead Five-and-a-Half per Cent, 122; Lancaster and Carlisle, 208½; Midland—Bradford Preference Stock, 95½; Northern and Eastern, 57; Preston and Wyre, 45.

PREFERENCE SHARES.—Eastern Counties Extension Five per Cent, No. 1, 112; Ditto, No. 2, 110½; Great Northern Five per Cent, 117; Great Western Redeemable, Four-and-a-Half per Cent, 99¾; London and Brighton Four per Cent, Stock, 67½; Londonderry and Enniskillen, 12; Manchester, Sheffield, and Lincolnshire Six per Cent, 126½; Ditto, £6 Shares, 4⅞; Ditto, Three-and-a-Quarter per Cent, 69; North-Eastern—Berwick, 95; South-Eastern Four-and-a-Half per Cent, 101¼.

BRITISH POSSESSIONS.—Bombay, Baroda, and Central India, 97½; Calcutta and South-Eastern, ⅛ prem.; Ceylon, 6¼; East Indian, 102; Grand Trunk of Canada, 35½; Ditto, Seven per Cent Debenture, 1862, 85½; Ditto, 1867, 74; Ditto, 1872, 72¾; Great Indian Peninsula, 99¼; Great Western of Canada, 12¼; Scinde, 100¾.

FOREIGN.—Bahia and San Francisco, 6⅞; Buenos Ayres and San Fernando, 5½; Great Luxembourg, 6⅝; Lombardo-Venetian, 11⅝; Recife and San Francisco, 11⅞; San Paulo, 1⅝; Southern of France, 20.

Thursday Afternoon.

About an average business has been passing in Home Securities to-day, and prices have ruled steady:—Consols having been done at 94⅜ ½. The Unfunded Debt is flat. Most Foreign Bonds and Railway Shares command full quotations.

THE MARKETS.

CORN EXCHANGE, April 2.—Our market, to-day, was very scantily supplied with English wheat, in somewhat improved condition. Although the demand was far from active, the whole of the samples offered were disposed of at last week's advance in the quotations. There was a slight improvement in the inquiry for foreign wheat, at full prices; but floating cargoes off coast were a slow inquiry. The few samples of barley on offer were disposed of at extreme rates; but the inquiry for malt was restricted to small parcels for immediate use. Oats were firm in price; yet, owing to the want of adequate supplies, the business done in them was very limited. Beans, peas, and flour changed hands steadily, at full quotations.

April 4.—Wheat sold steadily, at quite Monday's currency. For all spring corn there was a fair inquiry, at full quotations. Flour supported previous rates. No market will be held here on Friday next.

Arrivals this Week.—English: wheat, 1460; barley, 810; malt, 1580; oats, 1030; flour, 104. Foreign: wheat, 300; oats, 600; flour, 30 sacks, 100 barrels.

English.—Wheat, Essex and Kent, red, 41s. to 51s.; ditto, white, 44s. to 57s.; Norfolk and Suffolk, red, 41s. to 51s.; rye, 30s. to 32s.; grinding barley, 26s. to 27s.; distilling ditto, 29s. to 31s.; malting ditto, 30s. to 45s.; Lincoln and Norfolk malt, 49s. to 68s.; brown ditto, 48s. to 49s.; Kingston and Ware, 53s. to 68s.; Chevalier, 68s. to 72s.; Yorkshire and Lincolnshire feed oats, 20s. to 25s.; potato ditto, 26s. to 30s.; Youghal and Cork, black, 20s. to 25s.; ditto, white, 22s. to 28s.; tick beans, 34s. to 36s.; grey peas, 34s. to 35s.; maple, 37s. to 38s.; white, 36s. to 38s.; boilers, 38s. to 4?s. per quarter. Town-made flour, 40s. to 42s.; town households, 33s. to 39s.; country marks, 32s. to 34s. per 280lb.; American, 24s. to 28s. per barrel; French, 31s. to 38s. per sack.

Seeds.—There is rather more inquiry for both red and white clover seed, at full quotations. All other seeds move off slowly, on former terms.

Linseed, English crushing, 54s. to 58s.; Calcutta, 51s. to 52s.; hempseed, 37s. to 40s. per quarter; coriander, 14s. to 16s. per cwt.; brown mustard seed, 9s. to 14s.; ditto, white, 11s. to 14s.; tares, 7s. to 7s. 6d. per bushel; English rapeseed, 62s. to 66s. per quarter. Linseed cakes, English, £9 10s. to £10 10s.; ditto, foreign, £9 10s. to £11 0s.; rape cakes, £5 0s. to £6 0s. per ton. Canary, 50s. to 54s. per quarter. Red clover seed, 44s. to 55s.; white ditto, 80s. to 87s. per cwt.

Bread.—The prices of wheaten bread in the metropolis are from 7d. to 7½d.; of household ditto, 5d. to 6½d. per four-pound loaf.

Tea.—For all kinds, although the supply on offer is only moderate, the demand rules very inactive, at about last week's currency.

Sugar.—Privately, as well as at public sale, the transactions in all raw sugars have been much restricted, and, in some instances, prices have shown a drooping tendency. In the refined market very little is doing, at 51s. to 51s. 6d. per cwt. for common brown lumps. In the value of crushed and pieces no change has taken place.

Coffee.—Very full prices have been realised for all kinds; but the business doing is somewhat restricted.

Rice.—Our market is less active, and the extreme prices of last week are hardly obtained. Moulmein has sold at 8s. 9d. to 9s. 6d.; and Bengal, 11s. to 13s. per cwt. The stock is about 20,000 tons less than at this time last year.

Provisions.—Selected samples of butter have sold on former terms; but inferior qualities have ruled heavy, at a decline of from 2s. to 4s. per cwt. Bacon continues to move off freely, at very full prices. Hams and lard rule steady.

Tallow.—Very little business has been done in this market, and prices have shown a drooping tendency. P.Y.C., on the spot, has changed hands at 53s. 9d.; and for delivery during the last three months, 52s. 6d. per cwt. Town tallow is 54s., net cash. Rough fat, 2s. 11½d. per 8lbs.

Oils.—Linseed oil has found buyers at 28s. to 28s. 3d. per cwt., on the spot. Rape is quiet, at £14 10s. for foreign refined, and £43 to £40 10s. for foreign. Olive sells slowly, at £31 for Gallipoli. In cocoanut very little is doing, at £41 10s. to £45; and fine palm is sold at £43. English turpentine is quoted at 34s.; and American, 35s. to 35s. 6d. per cwt.

Spirits.—Rum is in moderate request, at about stationary prices. Proof Leewards is quoted at 1s. 8d. to 1s. 9d.; and proof East India, 1s. 7d. to 1s. 8d. per gallon. The value of brandy ranges from 8s. to 11s. 7d. per gallon. Grain spirits are steady in price.

Hay and Straw.—Meadow hay, 60s. to 95s.; clover ditto, 80s. to 110s.; and straw, 27s. to 34s. per load. Trade steady.

Coals.—Best house coals, 20s. 6d. to 21s. 3d.; seconds, 18s. to 19s.; Hartley's, 15s. 3d. to 16s.; and manufacturers', 12s. 6d. to 15s. per ton.

Wool.—The market, almost generally is in a healthy state, but the business doing in it is very moderate. In prices no change has taken place.

Potatoes.—The supplies are moderate; nevertheless, the demand, generally, is inactive, at from 70s. to 160s. per ton.

Hops.—Our market is very moderately supplied with good and fine hops. For such there is a steady consumptive demand at full prices. All other kinds command very little attention. Mid and East Kent pockets, 84s. to 147s.; Weald of Kent, 65s. to 84s.; and Sussex, 63s. to 80s. per cwt.

Metropolitan Cattle Market (Thursday, April 5).—About an average supply of beasts was on offer in to-day's market, in but middling condition. All breeds moved off heavily, at barely Monday's quotations. We have to report a dull sale for sheep. In prices, however, no change took place. The show of lambs was very limited for the time of year, and the demand for them was extremely active, at from 6s. to fully 7s. 8d. per 8lbs. About 400 came to hand from the Isle of Wight. Calves moved off freely, at full prices; but pigs and milch cows commanded very little attention. Per 8lb. to sink the offal: Coarse and inferior beasts, 3s. 4d. to 3s. 6d.; second quality ditto, 3s. 8d. to 4s. 0d.; prime large oxen, 4s. 2d. to 4s. 6d.; prime Scots, &c., 4s. 6d. to 4s. 8d.; coarse and inferior sheep, 3s. 8d. to 4s. 0d.; second quality ditto, 4s. 2d. to 4s. 8d.; prime coarse-woolled ditto, 4s. 10d. to 5s. 4d.; prime Southdown ditto, 5s. 6d. to 5s. 8d.; large coarse calves, 5s. 0d. to 5s. 6d.; prime small ditto, 5s. 8d. to 6s. 0d.; large hogs, 3s. 6d. to 3s. 10d.; neat small porkers, 4s. 2d. to 4s. 10d.; lambs, 6s. 0d. to 7s. 8d.; suckling calves, 19s. 22s.; and quarter-old store pigs, 23s. to 29s. each. Total supply: Beasts, 1050; cows, 111; sheep, 5160; calves, 230; pigs, 300. Foreign: Beasts, 203; sheep, 400; calves, 130.

Newgate and Leadenhall.—The supplies of meat are seasonably good. Lamb and veal are in active request, at very full prices; otherwise the trade is heavy. Per 8lb. by the carcass:—Inferior beef, 2s. 6d. to 2s. 10d.; middling ditto, 3s. 0d. to 3s. 4d.; prime large ditto, 3s. 6d. to 3s. 10d.; ditto small ditto, 4s. 0d. to 4s. 2d.; large pork, 3s. 6d. to 4s. 2d.; inferior mutton, 3s. 2d. to 3s. 6d.; middling ditto, 3s. 8d. to 4s. 2d.; prime ditto, 4s. 2d. to 4s. 4d.; veal, 4s. 4d. to 5s. 2d.; small pork, 4s. 6d. to 5s. 0d.; lamb, 6s. 4. to 6s. 10d.

ROBERT HERBERT.

THE LONDON GAZETTE.

FRIDAY, MARCH 30.

WAR OFFICE.

1st Regiment of Dragoon Guards: Lieut. L. W. Atkinson to be Lieutenant.

1st Dragoons: E. B. Hutton to be Cornet. 6th: Surg. G. A. Turnbull to be Surgeon.

17th Light Dragoons: Lieut. Col. J. Lawes, Major V. Baker, to be Lieutenant-Colonels; Capt. R. P. Smith to be Major; Lieut. B. P. Baumgarten to be Captain; Cornet W. M. Maunder to be Lieutenant; H. D. Evans to be Cornet. 12th: Surg. F. H. Baxter, M.D., to be Surgeon. 13th: Lieut. R. W. Renshaw to be Captain; Cornets T. G. Johnson, H. S. L. Wilson, to be Lieutenants; Ensign W. Harle to be Cornet. 16th: Lieuts. G. Webster, H. C. Wilkinson, to be Lieutenants.

Royal Artillery: Brevet Major A. Vandeleur to be Captain; Lieuts. T. L. Still, J. Hanwell, to be Second Captains.

Military Train: C. S. Campbell to be Ensign.

1st Foot: L. Norman to be Ensign. 6th: R. Graeme to be Ensign. 17th: Lieut. W. R. Corballis to be Lieutenant. 18th: Major and Brevet Col. G. J. Carey to be Major. 21st: J. J. Warner to be Ensign. 22nd: R. D. Backhouse to be Ensign. 24th: Ensign F. M. Pearson to be Lieutenant. 25th: Ensign E. Webster to be Ensign: W. T. Morgan to be Ensign; W. G. Knox to be Ensign; G. Dixon to be Ensign. 28th: S. J. M'Kenna to be Ensign. 31st: T. Stanier to be Ensign. 48th: Ensign E. C. Brown to be Lieutenant; Lieut. J. Rawlins to be Adjutant. 57th: P. E. Powys to be Ensign. 60th: Lieut. A. Carlisle to be Captain. 61st: J. G. Hamilton to be Lieutenant. 70th: Lieut. W. H. Ralston to be Captain; Ensign J. F. A. Grierson to be Lieutenant. 73rd: J. P. Clarke to be Ensign. 77th: J. Potts to be Ensign. 79th: J. Busfeild to be Ensign. 97th: M. Davis to be Ensign.

BREVET.

General the Right Hon. John Lord Seaton, G.C.B., G.C.M.G., to be Field Marshal.

Lieut. Col. and Brevet Col. J. Lawrenson to have the temporary rank of Major-General while holding the appointment of Inspector-General of Cavalry in the United Kingdom. Lieut.-Col. and Brevet Col. Lord G. A. F. Paget, C.B., to have the temporary rank of Brigadier-General while in command of a brigade. Col. Sir R. Napier, K.C.B., to have the local rank of Major-General in China. Brevet Major R. Parke to be Lieutenant-Colonel in the Army. Capt. M. Thomson to be Major in the Army. Capt. W. G. R. Masters to be Major in the Army.

The undermentioned promotions to take place consequent on the promotion of Colonel F. Warde to be Major-General:—Lieut.-Col. W. C. Forrest to be Colonel. Brevet Major W. Warde to be Lieutenant-Colonel. Capt. S. H. S. Inglefield to be Major.

The under-mentioned promotions to take place under the provisions of the Royal Warrant dated January 27, 1860. To have the honorary rank of Major: Capts. G. T. George, G. S. Naylor, H. B. Adams; Paymasters H. Duberly, B. J. Elrington, J. G. H. Holmes, E. E. Frith, W. Featherstonhaugh, B. T. Walshe, G. F. Rosser, W. J. Bampfield, O. Nicolls, J. Corner, W. Brunnel, J. M. Hewson, H. S. Michell, M. Matthews, F. L. Bennett, J. Howes, J. W. Marshall, R. Webster, D. F. Chambers, W. F. Nixon, J. D. Swinburne, C. F. Heatly, P. Blake, L. F. Bernard, V. Rizzo, E. G. Cubitt, J. Stephenson, E. Griffiths, F. Fenoran, H. S. S. Burney, J. Wheatley, J. B. Travers, C. B. Roche, T. M. Creagh, G. T. Benson, G. F. Erskine, S. Lawson, E. A. Hawker, M. R. Campbell, R. T. B. Boyd, A. Corcoran, J. H. Matthews, J. M. Kennedy, C. H. Peirse, C. J. Furlong, J. Robinson, R. C. Craigie. To have the honorary rank of Captain: Paymasters J. Biggs, C. Sewell, H. Dixon, W. A. Kidd, F. R. Maunsell, F. B. Foster, G. E. Huddleston, A. Sievwright, W. Macdonnell, R. M. Tilgman, J. M. Gibbs, T. Smith, J. Twibill, S. Benison, J. D. Blythe, H. W. Sibley, J. Nowlan, F. W. Fellows, W. Marriott, F. Fitzpatrick, J. A. Pope, R. Smyth, M. Thompson, J. Cartmail, R. T. Hearn, W. F. Scott, J. Webster, R. Scott, H. Leigh, J. E. Large, M. W. L. Coast, H. Dudley, J. G. Gurney, D. Bartlett, E. M'Mullin, S. Williams, G. Bodie, A. Fair.

BANKRUPTCY ANNULLED.

J. WARD, jun., Queen-street, Pimlico, glass dealer and lead merchant.

BANKRUPTS.

J. ELGAR, Fletton, Huntingdonshire, wholesale grocer and tallow-chandler.—H. J. SMITH, Newbury, Berkshire, corn-dealer.—W. SHARP, jun., New Bond-street, underwriter.—T. MILLS, Leicester, elastic web manufacturer.—P. TAYLOR, Saffron Walden, Essex, licensed victualler and ironmonger.—H. CONEY, Manchester-villas, Townshend-road, Regent's Park, builder.—G. W. NEALES, New Oxford-street, upholsterer and perambulator manufacturer.—C. LANGRIDGE and J. MIDGLEY, Manchester, drysalters.—A. WOOTTON, Bloxwich, Staffordshire, timber merchant.—T. SIMMONS, Cheapside, and Peckham, warehouseman.—J. LEGGE, Walsall, Staffordshire, iron manufacturer and beer retailer.—G. C. NOBLE, Northampton, builder and beer-house keeper.—C. A. GIBSON, late of Bristol, timber merchant.—J. OLDROYD, Batley, Yorkshire, blanket manufacturer.

SCOTCH SEQUESTRATIONS.

A. WILSON, Coulmore, Rosshire, farmer.—W. FAIRBAIRN, Hamilton, Lanarkshire, carter.—C. GALBRAITH, Edinburgh, timber merchant.—J. GOURLAY, Dumfries, plumber.—T. MUIR and W. STEEL, Port Dundas, Glasgow, saw millers.

TUESDAY, APRIL 3.

BANKRUPTS.

E. UNDERWOOD, Soham, Cambridgeshire, grocer.—R. GOLDIE, Oundle, Northamptonshire.—W. FAITHFUL, Ironmonger-lane, City, linen-agent.—W. H. UNWIN and J. GREENWOOD, Limehouse, Middlesex, builders.—J. UNDERWOOD, M'Lean's buildings, New street-square, City, wholesale stationer.—J. CLARKE, Lichfield, grocer.—J. OLDROYD, Batley, Yorkshire, blanket-manufacturer.—J. SLATER, Leeds and Oulton, Yorkshire, stone-merchant.—J. W. GRAVES, Birkenhead, Cheshire, chemist.

SCOTCH SEQUESTRATIONS.

G. G. DODDS, Strathaven, Lanarkshire, coalmaster.—J. M. HALL, Edinburgh, doctor of medicine.—W. O. CAMPBELL, Kirkwall and Plainstanes, Stromness, grocer.—E. MOXHAM, Stornoway, Ross-shire (late of Neath, Glamorganshire), architect.—J. M. ANDERSON, Glasgow, ironmonger.—H. C. GRIFFITHS, Glasgow, professor of music.—A. STEWART, Irvine, Grocer.

 The charge for the insertion of Births, Marriages, and Deaths is Five Shillings for each Advertisement.

BIRTHS.

On the 29th ult., at Flintfield, Millstreet, county Cork, the wife of A. da Silva Lima, of a son.

On the 16th ult., at Eversholt House, near Woburn, the wife of Dashwood Watts Ricketts, Esq., of a son.

MARRIAGE.

On Saturday the 31st of March, at Upton Old Church, by the Rev. Joseph Tarver, M.A., of Newport Pagnell, Bucks, assisted by the Rev. John Adam Cree, M.A., of the parish of Upton, Henry Tarver, Esq., of Eton College, to Henrietta, youngest child of William Miller, Esq., late of the Royal Artillery.

DEATHS.

On Sunday, at Devonshire-terrace, Hyde-park, Thomas Keogh, Esq., Secretary to the Board of Inland Revenue, aged 64.

On the 26th ult., at Scinde House, Clapham Park, the widow of General Sir William Napier, K.C.B., whom she survived only six weeks, aged 70.

On the 31st ult., at Bray, county Wicklow, Christina Mary Frances, wife of Joseph Bourke, deeply lamented, aged thirty-five years.

On the 7th ult., at Market Drayton, in his fourth year, Berkeley Eugene, and on the 27th ult., in his seventh year, James Francis, the sons of Captain Horner.

On the 21st ult., at Malta, Thomas Alexander Telfer, Esq., R.N., secretary to Rear-Admiral Codrington, C.B., son of Deputy Commissary-General Telfer, aged thirty-four.

NEW MUSIC, &c.

MESSRS. ROBERT COCKS and CO.'S MUSICAL PUBLICATIONS. To be had of all Musicsellers and Booksellers.
MARGUERITE. Song. By the admired Authoress of "Fading Away." 2s.
WHEN SILENT EVENING COMES. Sacred Song. By the admired Authoress of "Fading Away." 2s.
DEAR VOICES OF HOME. Ballad. By the Authoress of 'Fading Away." 2s.
"A delightful, quiet, domestic song, possessing all the soothing tenderness for which this lady's compositions are so much esteemed." Vide Glasgow Sentinel.
SIX SACRED SONGS, by Miss M. LINDSAY (Mrs. J. Wortington Bliss), with uniformly decorated title, price 2s. 6d. each—viz., The Borderland, Christian Submission, Resignation, Jacob, the Lord will Provide, the Pilgrim's Rest. These sacred songs, from their originality, sweetness, and extreme pathos, are winning universal favour.
STEPHEN GLOVER'S LATEST DUETS.—Castanet and Gay Guitar, 2s.; Angels are Watching Us, 2s. 6d.; The Roving Minstrels, 2s 6d.; The Murmur of the River, 2s. 6d.: The Merry Bells, 3s. (the words of each by J. E. CARPENTER, Esq.) Also may be had Stephen Glover's highly favourite duet, What are the Wild Waves Saying? (words by J. E. Carpenter, Esq.), 2s. 6d.
LOVING HEARTS AT HOME. Ballad. By J. R. THOMAS. Just published. 2s. Mr. Thomas may be called the lyrist of the domestic affections. His effusions, rapid and spontaneous, are always powerful in diffusing a sweetness round the fireside.
THEY ARE COME—THE PALE PRIMROSES. Ballad. By W. T. WRIGHTON. The Poetry by J. E. CARPENTER, Esq. 2s. One of the loveliest of the melodies by this much-admired composer.
MERRILY ROW. New Barcarolle. By J. R. THOMAS. Price 2s. "The melody of this song is very sweet, and its arrangement good. It is worthy to be a companion to Moore's celebrated 'Canadian Boat Song,' and will no doubt find a large circle of admirers."—Vide Illustrated News of the World.
London: Published by ROBERT COCKS and Co., New Burlington-street; and to be had of all Musicsellers.

EWER and CO., 87, Regent-street, London, By Special Appointment, Musicsellers in Ordinary to her Majesty, beg to announce that their UNIVERSAL CIRCULATING MUSICAL LIBRARY will be opened to Subscribers on the 1st of June next. Prospectuses of the Library, which will be one of the most valuable and complete in existence, may be had on application.

O FOR THE WINGS OF A DOVE! Sacred Song for a deep Voice. Words by BARTHOLOMEW. Music by MENDELSSOHN. Sent free for 18 stamps.
EWER and Co., 87, Regent street.

EILEEN A ROON. New Irish Song. By ALTHAUS. Sent free for 15 Stamps.
London: EWER and Co., 87, Regent-street; Dublin: H. Russell.

SOON AND FOR EVER. New Sacred Song. By R. T. HARVEY.—"A beautiful subject treated with pathos and effect."—Review. Published at 2s., sent free for 12 stamps.
D'ALCORN, 8, Rathbone-place, W.

CHEAPEST MUSIC REPOSITORY in England.—All the New Music Half-price. Catalogues, one stamp. Country orders sent per return of post.—H. D'ALCORN (removed to), 8, Rathbone-place (eight doors from Oxford-street), W.

ALL MUSIC HALF-PRICE, free for Stamps. Country orders executed by return. Catalogues free. The cheapest house in London.
FOSTER and L'ENFANT, 18 Rathbone-place, W.

EVANS and CO.'S HALF-PRICE MUSIC WAREHOUSE, 77, Baker-street, Portman-square, W. Country Orders executed by return of post. Payment taken in postage-stamps. Catalogues gratis.

THE MANSE GARDEN; or, Pleasant Culture of Fruit-trees, Flowers, Vegetables, and Sweet Herbs, for the Beauty and Profit of the Villa or Farm. By N. PATERSON, D.D. Ninth Thousand. With numerous Additions and Improvements. Crown 8vo, cloth, 2s.
London: JAMES BLACKWOOD, Paternoster-row.

THE AQUARIUM.—LLOYD'S DESCRIPTIVE LIST, 128 pages, and 88 cuts, for 14 stamps. Apply direct to W. Alford Lloyd, Portland-road, W.

SECONDHAND BOOKS, clean, and in good condition, at very low prices. Catalogues (just published) sent ce by post on receipt of one stamp.—WILLIAM NIELD, Bookseller, Granby-hill, Clifton.

CHEAP BOOKS at BULL'S LIBRARY.—Surplus Copies of Tennyson's "Idylls," "Adam Bede," "Life for a Life," "Friends in Council," and many other Books, are now on Sale at greatly reduced prices. Catalogues sent gratis and post free.
Bull's Library, 19, Holles-street, Cavendish-square, W.

ONE-GUINEA BOXES of ILLUMINATING COLOURS AND MATERIALS. Also, guinea-and-a-half, two-guinea, and three-guinea ditto. Fitted very complete.
WINSOR and NEWTON, 38, Rathbone-place, London, W.

NOTICE.
THE GENUINE and ORIGINAL BOND'S PERMANENT MARKING INK bears the address on the label, 28, Long-lane, West Smithfield, City.

FREDERICK DENT, Chronometer, Watch, and Clock Maker to the Queen and Prince Consort, and maker of the Great Clock for the Houses of Parliament, 61, Strand, and 34, Royal Exchange.
No connection with 33, Cockspur-street.

FOR FAMILY ARMS send to the Royal Heraldic Office name and county. Arms quartered and painted. Plain Sketch, 2s. 6d.; in Colours, 5s. Family Pedigrees traced. 21s. The Manual of Heraldry, 400 Engravings 3s. By T. CULLETON, Lecturer on Heraldry at the Mechanics' Institute 25, Cranbourn-street (corner of St. Martin's-lane), W.C. The Science of Heraldry taught.

CREST DIES cut, 5s.; Book Plate engraved with Arms, 10s.; ditto Marking Plate, 5s; Crest engraved on Seals or Rings, 6s. 6d.; Initials, 1s. 6d. per letter; Livery Button Dies, 38s. per pair; Embossing Press for Stamping Paper with Crest or Address, 15s.—T. CULLETON, Heraldic Engraver to the Queen, H.R.H. the Duke of Cambridge, and Princess Mary, by appointment 30th of April, 1852, and Diesinker to the Board of Trade, 25, Cranbourn-street (corner of St. Martin's-lane), W.C.

WEDDING CARDS—For Lady and Gentleman—50 each. 50 Embossed Enamelled Envelopes, with Maiden Name printed inside, 13s. Sent free for stamps. A Copper Plate Engraved in any style and 50 Visiting Cards for 2s, Post-free. T. CULLETON, Seal Engraver, 25, Cranbourn-street, corner of St. Martin's-lane, W.C.

THE PEN SUPERSEDED.—MARK YOUR LINEN.—The best and only method of marking linen, silk, stockings, coarse towels, &c., so as to prevent the ink washing out, is with CULLETON'S PATENT ELECTRO-SILVER PLATES. By means of this novel invention a Thousand Pieces of Linen can be marked in one Hour, with Initials, Name, Coronet, or Crest; with directions for use. Sent post-free for stamps. Initial Plate, 1s.; Name, 2s. 6d.; Set of Movable Numbers, 2s. 6d.; Crest, 5s.
T. Culleton, Patentee, 25, Cranbourn-street, corner of St. Martin's-lane, W.C.

COLLARD and COLLARD Walnut-wood SEMI-COTTAGE PIANOFORTE.—To be SOLD, a bargain, a beautiful Instrument of the above description, 6¾ octaves, repetition action, and charming tone. Warranted not three months old. To be seen at P. HOLCOMBE'S, 38, Berners-street, Oxford-street, W.

SCIENTIFIC PRESENTS. — Collections of Minerals, Rocks, recent Shells, and Fossils to illustrate the study of Geology and Mineralogy, can be had at 2, 5, 10, 20, 50, to 100 guineas each, of J. TENNANT, Geologist, 149, Strand, London.

ORNAMENTS for the DRAWING-ROOM, LIBRARY, &c.—An extensive assortment of ALABASTER, MARBLE, BRONZE, and DERBYSHIRE SPAR ORNAMENTS.—Manufacturer and Imported by J. TENNANT, 149, Strand, London.

WILLIAM S. BURTON'S GENERAL FURNISHING IRONMONGERY CATALOGUE may be had gratis and free by post. It contains upwards of 400 Illustrations of his illimited Stock of Electro and Sheffield Plate, Nickel Silver, and Britannia Metal Goods, Dish covers and Hot-water Dishes, Stoves, Fenders, Marble Chimneypieces, Kitchen Ranges, Lamps, Gasaliers, Tea Urns and Kettles, Tea-trays, Clocks, Table Cutlery, Baths, and Toilet Ware, Turnery, Iron and Brass Bedsteads, Bedding, Bed room Furniture, &c., with Lists of Prices and Plans of the Sixteen Large Show-rooms, at 39, Oxford, W.; 1, 1a, 2, and 3, Newman-street; and 4, 5, and 6, Perry's-place, London. Established 1820.

TO LADIES.—SEASON 1860.—Richly Perforated Tissue for Stove Aprons in an entirely Novel Style eight stamps per packet; six for forty stamps. White, coloured, or mixed.—ROBERT PETERS, Tevil, Maidstone.

LONDON and NORTH-WESTERN RAILWAY.—Marcus' Cheap Easter Excursion. From the Euston-square Station at 6.45 a.m., on Monday, April 9. To Rugby, Leamington, or Coventry, 6s. and 10s. 6d.; Birmingham, 7s. and 12s.; Walsall or Dudley Port, 7s. 6d. and 12s. 6d.; Wolverhampton, 8s. and and 13s. Returning the same Evening. For further particulars see small bills, which may be had at the Company's Branch Offices. Tickets and Bills at the Euston Station; or of H. R. Marcus, 23, Crosby Hall Chambers, Bishopsgate street, City, E.C.

BOARD, &c.—A GENTLEMAN requires a COMFORTABLE HOME with some respectable family residing in a cheerful part of the country, or near the seaside. Terms not to exceed One Guinea a week; the dinner hour not later than Two o'clock. Address, with all particulars, to D. R., Mr. Betty's, Chemist, 1, Gloucester-gate, Regent's Park, N.W.

TO BE SOLD, situated at HAWKHURST, KENT, a superior Freehold RESIDENCE, in the Elizabethan-Gothic style, delightfully situated and containing nine bedrooms, bathroom (with hot and cold water supplies), elegant hall, dining-room (22 ft. by 15 ft. 6 in.), drawing room (30 ft. by 16 ft.), library or breakfast-room, cloak-room, kitchen and numerous offices, icewell and excellent cellarage, perfect drainage. The outlay altogether has been most lavish in the erection of this superior residence. The principal staircase is of solid oak; the windows on the ground-floor are fitted with plate-glass, with patent revolving shutters. The ceilings are moulded in the most costly style; the house is approached by a drive from the road; the grounds comprise nearly an acre; there is an abundant supply of good water; the subsoil is a dry sandstone. For particulars apply to Mr. Robert Partridge, Witham, Essex.

EGGS for SITTING.—A few Sittings of BRAHMA EGGS, from birds of the highest quality, one guinea per dozen, box and packing included. Post-office orders to PAUL GARBANATI, 14, Marylebone-street, Regent's-quadrant.

NEW DWARF BEDDING TROPÆOLUMS. Tom Thumb, yellow, price per packet, 1s.; Tom Thumb, beauty-spotted, price per packet, 1s.; Tom Thumb, scarlet, per packet, 6d. For further particulars see Carter's "Gardener's Vade-Mecum," forwarded free of charge, on application to JAMES CARTER and CO., 237 and 238, High Holborn, London.

SUPERB FLOWER SEEDS, post-free, at the annexed prices:—100 fine hardy annuals. 5s.; 50 ditto, 3s.; 36 ditto, 2s. 6d.; 12 ditto, 1s. 2d. Catalogues, with sample packet, 2d.—From B. W. KNIGHT, Florist, 67, High-street, Battle, Sussex.

SPECTACLES.—Important Improvement in the construction of LENSES for SPECTACLES.—The improved method of grinding and polishing these glasses renders them so brilliantly transparent that aged or young persons, suffering from most defective vision, are by their aid enabled to see clearly and distinctly for any length of time without the eyes becoming fatigued. They do not require the frequent changing to stronger magnifying powers, which is so injurious to the sight. The most eminent members of the medical faculty approve and recommend them. Illustrated catalogues, containing prices of spectacles, opera or field glasses, telescopes, &c., post-free on receipt of two stamps.—KEYZOR and BENDON, Opticians (successors to Harris and Son), 50 High Holborn.

WALLER'S PLICATURA NEW FRIZZETTES for Dressing Ladies' Hair in the New Style, £1 1s. and 15s., with INSTRUCTIONS FOR DRESSING, on receipt of amount in stamps and exact colour of hair. JEANNE D'ARC FRIZZETTES, 2s. 6d. and 3s. 6d. each.—W. Waller, Coiffeur, 9½, Great College-street, Camden New Town, N.W.

ROWLANDS' MACASSAR OIL possesses Extraordinary Properties FOR PROMOTING THE GROWTH, RESTORING, AND BEAUTIFYING THE HUMAN HAIR.
It prevents Hair from falling off or turning grey, strengthens weak Hair, cleanses it from Scurf and Dandriff, and makes it Beautifully Soft, Pliable, and Glossy.
In the growth of THE BEARD, WHISKERS, AND MUSTACHIOS it is unfailing in its stimulative operation. For Children it is especially recommended as forming the basis of a Beautiful Head of Hair. Price 3s. 6d., 7s., 10s. 6d. (equal to four small), and 21s. per bottle. Sold at 20, Hatton-garden, and by Chemists and Perfumers.

CAUTION to LADIES.—The only genuine KALYDOR is ROWLAND'S, so universally esteemed for its improving and beautifying effects on the Complexion and Skin. All other preparations under the title of "Kalydor," "Kalydor Soap," "Kalydor Lotion," &c., are impositions, and contain not a particle of the ingredients of the genuine article, the preparation of which is confined solely to the knowledge and practice of A. ROWLAND and SONS, 20, Hatton-garden, London.

RIMMEL'S RIFLE VOLUNTEERS' BOUQUET is the fashionable Perfume for this season. Price 2s. 6d. Entered at Stationers' Hall. Sold by all Perfumers and Chemists.—Rimmel, 96, Strand; 24, Cornhill; and Crystal Palace.

SPANISH FLY is the acting ingredient in ALEX. ROSS'S CANTHARIDES OIL, which produces whiskers and thickens hair. Sold at 3s. 6d., 5s. 6d., and 10s. 6d.; or per post, 54, 84, or 144 stamps. Alex. Ross, 248, High Holborn.

UNSIGHTLY HAIR REMOVED from the Face, Arms, or Neck by ALEX. ROSS'S HAIR-DESTROYER or DEPILATORY. Sold at 3s. 6d., 5s. 6d., and 10s. 6d.; or, per post, 54, 84, or 144 stamps. The Hair dyed any shade, by Alex. Ross, 248, High Holborn.

DECAYED TEETH RESTORED—TEETH REPLACED.—Mr. ESKELL'S OSTEOPLASTIC ENAMEL STOPPING, guaranteed the same colour as the natural tooth. Post-free for thirty stamps: directions inclosed. Mr. Eskell's Patented INCORRODIBLE ARTIFICIAL TEETH, at 10s. each (including all charges), on the never-failing and painless principle of SELF-ADHESION. Comfort and perfection combined. Loose teeth fastened, &c. Consultations free.—314, Regent street (facing the Polytechnic), and Bennett's-hill, Birmingham. Established 1847.

PULVERMACHER'S
GALVANIC ANTI-RHEUMATIC CHAIN-BANDS for SELF-APPLICATION. Unequalled and certain as are the effects of the Chain bands in all kinds of rheumatic pains, still more remarkable and speedy is the relief they afford in neuralgia, tic-douloureux, head and tooth ache, &c. Even the most inveterate cases of paralysis, epilepsy, deafness, gout, sciatica, lumbago, indigestion, nervous debility, &c., disappear in a comparatively short time. For convincing and authentic documents of cures read the "Improved Medico-Galvanic System of Self-Application," &c. 1s., through all Agents and Booksellers. Chain-bands, 5s., 10s., 15s., 22s., according to power.—J. L. Pulvermacher and Co. 73, Oxford-street, adjoining the Princess' Theatre, London, and all Chemists.

INFANTS' NEW FEEDING-BOTTLES.—From the "Lancet"—"We have seldom seen anything so beautiful as the Feeding-bottles introduced by Mr. ELAM 196 Oxford-street. They are quite unrivalled." 7s. 6d. each.

TO LADIES NURSING.—ELAM'S NEW NIPPLE-SHIELD for taking away all pain whilst nursing preventing and immediately curing cracked or sore nipples.—BENJAMIN ELAM, 196, Oxford-street. 4s. 6d.; by post 9d. extra.

STOOPING of the SHOULDERS has been REMOVED in many Thousand Cases the last Twelve Years by the Patent Chest Expander. Full particulars forwarded on receipt of postage-stamps by ALFRED BINYON, 4, Great Marlborough-street, London.

DR. DE JONGH'S
(Knight of the Order of Leopold of Belgium)
LIGHT-BROWN COD LIVER OIL, Administered with the greatest success in cases of CONSUMPTION, BRONCHITIS, ASTHMA, COUGHS, RHEUMATISM, GOUT, GENERAL DEBILITY, DISEASES OF THE SKIN, RICKETS, INFANTILE WASTING, AND ALL SCROFULOUS AFFECTIONS.

OPINION OF A. B. GRANVILLE, Esq., M.D., L.R.C.P., F.R.S., Author of "The Spas of Germany," "On Sudden Death," &c.
"Dr. Granville has found that DR. DE JONGH'S Cod Liver Oil produces the desired effect in a shorter time than others, and that it does not cause the nausea and indigestion too often consequent on the administration of the Pale Newfoundland Oils. The Oil being, moreover, much more palatable, Dr. Granville's patients have themselves expressed a preference for Dr. de Jongh's Light Brown Cod Liver Oil."

Sold ONLY in IMPERIAL Half Pints, 2s. 6d.; Pints, 4s. 9d.; Quarts, 9s.—capsuled and labelled with DR. DE JONGH'S stamp and signature, WITHOUT WHICH NONE CAN POSSIBLY BE GENUINE—by respectable Chemists.
SOLE CONSIGNEES,
ANSAR, HARFORD, and CO., 77, STRAND, LONDON, W.C.

BLIGHTS, MILDEW, BED-BUGS.—GISHURST COMPOUND, patented for preventing and destroying these and other pests—see "Gardener's Chronicle," "Cottage Gardener," and "Field." In boxes, 1s., 3s., 10s 6d. Retail of all Nursery and Seeds Men; wholesale of Price's Patent Candle Company.

WANTED, LEFT-OFF CLOTHES, Uniforms, Outfits, Miscellaneous Property, &c. The highest price given. Ladies or Gentlemen waited on by addressing to Mr. or Mrs. HART, 31, Newcastle-street, Strand, W.C. Parcels sent, the utmost value in cash immediately remitted. Established 1801.

VALENCIENNES LACE, made with genuine linen thread, scarcely distinguishable from the real French, very durable, yet sold at one-tenth of the price. Samples post-free. BAKER and DOWDEN, Upper Eaton-street, Eaton-square, S.W.

NOTICE TO LADIES.—KING and CO., Silkmercers, &c., 243, Regent-street, respectfully beg to announce that, in consequence of their system of sending patterns post-free having been adopted by several London firms, in future, if ladies should by chance prefer the patterns sent by other houses, King and Co. will supply the same goods 15 per cent less in price.

PATTERNS of SILKS, &c., sent post-free to any part of Europe, Asia, Africa, America, and the Colonies.
Address to KING and CO., Regent-street, London.

NEW CAMBRICS, DUTY-FREE, at KING'S, 243, Regent-street.

Swiss Cambrics	3s. 9d.	the Full Dress.
French Cambrics	5s. 0d.	"
Double-skirt Cambrics	7s. 6d.	"
Corded Cambrics	8s. 6d.	"

Patterns sent post-free.—Address to King and Co., Regent st., London.

NEW MUSLINS DUTY-FREE, at KING'S, 243, Regent-street.

Finest Organdie Muslins	5s. 0d.	the Full Dress.
Finest Chintz Muslins	7s. 6d.	"
New Striped Muslins	8s. 6d.	"
New 5-Flounced Muslins	6s. 6d.	"
New 7-Flounced Muslins	10s. 6d.	"
Finest French Flounced Muslins	18s. 6d.	"

Patterns sent post-free.—Address to King and Co., Regent-st., London.

SPRING FABRICS DUTY-FREE, at KING'S, 243, Regent-street.

New Balzarines	7s. 6d.	the Full Dress.
Striped, Checked, and Chené Mohairs ..	10s. 6d.	"
Double Skirt Mohairs	12s. 6d.	"
New 5 and 7 Flounced Mohairs	15s. 6d.	"
New Grenadines	17s. 6d.	"
New Spring Reps	£1 2s. 6d.	"

Patterns sent post-free.—Address to King and Co., 243, Regent-street, London.

BLACK SILKS, DUTY-FREE, at KING'S, 243, Regent-street.
French Glacé Silks, £1 1s. the Full Dress.
Ducapes, £1 10s.
Gros Royals, £1 15s.
Widows' Silks, £1 19s. 6d.
Flounced Silks, £2 10s.
Moire Antiques, £3 3s.
Patterns sent post-free. Address to King and Co., Regent-st., London.

NEW SPRING SILKS at KING'S, 243, Regent-street, all duty free
French Foulard Silks, 15s. Full Dress.
Shepherd's Plaid Silks, £1 1s. 0d.
New Striped and Checked Glacé Silks, £1 5s. 0d.
New Crossover Silks, £1 10s. 6d.
New Satin Cannellé Silks, £1 12s. 6d.
Shaded Glacé Silks, £1 15s. 6d.
Plain French Silks, £1 15s. 6d.
New Striped Poult de Soies, £1 17s. 6d.
Brocaded Poult de Soies, £1 19s. 6d.
Flounced Silks, £2 2s.
Doubles-kirt Silks, £2 18s. 6d.
Moire Antiques, £3 3s.
Patterns post-free.—Address to King and Co., Regent-street, London.

2s. 6d. LADIES'! 2s. 9d. GENTLEMEN'S!! Very Best PARIS KID GLOVES.
1s. 6d. Ladies', 1s. 6d. Gentlemen's, best Alpine Kid.
BAKER and CRISP, 221, Regent-street.
Samples pair for two extra stamps.

LAST YEAR'S MUSLINS!—BAREGES!! Balzarines, Mohairs, &c., at half the original cost. Patterns sent free.
BAKER and CRISP, 221, Regent street (entrance Maddox-street).

READY-MADE DRESSES, 5s. 6d!! Our New Two-Flounced Cambrics 8s 9d. Our New Flounced Barège d'Anglais, 7 and 9 Flounces, Trimmed with Silk, 25s.
All the Novelties in Mohairs, elegantly trimmed, and Jacket complete, from 14s 6d.
Engravings and Patterns sent free.—BAKER and CRISP, 221, Regent-street (only entrance in Maddox-street).

MOIRE ANTIQUES.—Patterns post-free!!! The Royal Court Moire Antiques, 2 guineas, worth £4, in every colour.
BAKER and CRISP, 221, Regent-street (only entrance the corner).

BLACK SILKS—Half Price!!! £1 5s. 6d. Rich Black Ducapes.
Rich Black Glacé, £1 15s. 6d. to 60s. Patterns free.
BAKER and CRISP, 221, Regent-street (entrance Maddox-street).

FORD'S ZOUAVE JACKETS for Dinner or Evening Dress, of Lyons Velvet or Cachmere, embroidered with gold, worn open from the throat à la Zouave, displaying a White Silk or Muslin Vest underneath. Price 21s. Illustrations free.

FORD'S ZOUAVE JACKETS, beautifully fitting and elegantly embroidered. Superfine Cloth, black or coloured, with military braiding, 21s. Directions for self-measurement post-free.—T. Ford's Mantle Rooms, 42, Oxford-st.

FORD'S ZOUAVE JACKETS, in Lyons Velvet, black as well as every colour, lined throughout, 42s., 63s., and 84s., all sizes, ready. Choice ad infinitum. Cachmere Jackets, beautifully braided, 21s.

FORD'S AIXA JACKETS.—The new "Adeline," a very pretty Zouave, half-fitting in front and tight at the back, terminating in a very stylish and coquettish little basque about two inches deep, with a lacework of braid at the hips, similar to that shown on the sleeve.—Price, plain, 15s; beautifully braided and ornamented, 21s. Illustrations free.

FORD'S HALF-GUINEA CLOTH JACKET of superfine Cloth, Tight or Loose, for in or out door Wear. All sizes ready. Some too large even for the stoutest persons. Two Jackets sent carriage-free.—Thos. Ford, 42, Oxford-street, London.

FORD'S ZOUAVE JACKETS, in Muslin and Lace with novel and beautiful Trimmings. Price 21s. Ford's Zouave Marcella Jackets, white or buff, with Vest, complete One Guinea. Illustrations free.

FORD'S ZOUAVE JACKETS, for morning wear, of mixed fabrics, braided in scroll and pine patterns, made with Vest to match, from 25s. Patterns and Illustrations free.—Thomas Ford, Mantle Rooms, 42, Oxford-street, London, W.

FORD'S ZOUAVE JACKETS.—Ladies who are desirous of obtaining Jackets of choice and elegant styles, and distinguished for superior fit and quality, are invited to inspect an immense assortment of beautiful patterns, made in various materials, and kept ready in all sizes. Illustrations and Directions for Self-measurement, perfectly plain and simple, post-free.
Thomas Ford, Mantle Rooms, 42, Oxford-street, London, W.

ENORMOUS PREPARATIONS FOR THE LONDON SEASON.—SHAWLS, CLOAKS, and SILKS at greatly reduced prices, owing to the total abolition of all duties upon India, China, and French manufactured goods. FARMER and ROGERS are now prepared with their New Designs for the Season, and solicit attention to their recherché variety of Paris and London Fashions. 171, 173, 175 Regent-street, W.
India Shawls Bought and Exchanged.

COMMERCIAL TREATY with FRANCE!! (SPRING SILKS DUTY FREE!!)
Just received from the Custom House, Two Cases of the above Goods, which are now on Sale, at the following Reduced Prices:—
12,000 yards new Fancy Silks (various), wide width, 2s. 2½d. per yd.
Rich Striped and Checked do., 23s. 9d. to 29s. 6d. the Dress.
Elegant Cannellé and Crossbar do., 31s. 6d. to 52s. 6d. the Dress.
Flounced Silks in great variety, 19s. 6d. to 4½ guineas.
Patterns for inspection postage-free.
Observe the Address, BEECH and BERRALL,
The BEEHIVE, 63 and 64, Edgware-road, London, W.
N.B. All Silks left over from 1859 have undergone a great alteration in price, to effect an immediate clearance.

NOVELTIES FOR THE SPRING!!! In Fancy-Dresses, including Mohair, Grenadine, and other New Fabrics, now on Sale at BEECH and BERRALL'S, THE BEEHIVE, 63 and 64, Edgware-road, London, W., at a reduction of 25 per cent from last month's prices.
N.B. 400 pieces of Plain French Barèges, in all Colours, will be offered (duty free), at 6½d. per yard; former price, 1s. 0½d.
Patterns for inspection postage-free.

COMMERCIAL TREATY WITH FRANCE.
REDUCTION IN PRICE OF NEW SPRING SILKS.
JAMES SPENCE and CO., 77 and 78, St. Paul's Churchyard, beg to state that, in consequence of the Abolition of Duty on French Silks, and the competition already begun to be exhibited in the Home Markets, they have succeeded in securing several large lots of NEW SPRING SILKS, at 6d., 9d., any 1s. per yard under the regular prices.

No. 1. Fancy Checks, 21s. the Dress	ALL WIDE WIDTH.
No. 2. New Crossover Cannellé Stripes, 25s. 11d. the Dress.
No. 3. Choice Patterns, various, 29s. 6d. the Dress.	PATTERNS SENT POST-FREE.
No. 4. Black Ducapes, from 2s. 6d. to 4s. 6d. per yard.
No. 5. Black Glacés, from 2s. 9d. to 6s. 6d. per yard.	ALL WIDE WIDTH.

Also, rich Moiré Antiques, from 55s. to Six Guineas; Flounced Robes, Poult de Soies, Barathens, Ottomans, Watered Silks, &c. Patterns sent post-free.
Address—JAMES SPENCE and CO., 77 and 78, ST. PAUL'S CHURCHYARD, E.C.
Shut on Saturdays at Five o'clock p.m.

TO DRAPERS, MILLINERS, and DRESSMAKERS.
Matching Orders carefully and promptly attended to.
Cut Lengths at the lowest Trade Prices.
Foreign Fabrics imported direct, with all the advantages of the New Tariff.
JAMES SPENCE and CO., Silkmercers, &c., 77 and 78, St. Paul's-churchyard, Shut on Saturdays at 5 o'clock.

SILKS EXTRAORDINARILY CHEAP.
NEW SPRING PATTERNS.
Shepherd's Check Silks, £1 1s., Full Dress.
Piccolomini Bars, £1 1s. 6d.
The New Rifle Stripes, £1 5s. 6d.
Striped, Checked, and Crossover Poult de Soies, £1 7s. 6d.
Jaspar Bar and Bayadère Glacés, £1 9s. 6d.
Rich Reps, Taffetas, £1 11s. 6d.
Real Silk Droguets, £1 15s. 6d.
Novelties in French Silks, £1 17s. 6d.
Rich Brocaded Silks, £1 19s. 6d.
Black and Coloured Flounced Silks, £2 2s.
Extra Rich Bayadère Flounced Silks, 2½ Guineas.
Rich Moire Antiques, £3 3s.
Household and Family Linens! Mohairs! the New Reps! Droguets, and other Spring Piece Fabrics! Ribbons! Lace! Gloves! Hosiery, &c., equally cheap! Patterns post-free, Engravings of the New Jackets and Mantles post-free.
AMOTT BROTHERS, 61 and 62, St. Paul's-churchyard.

THE TIME TO BUY MUSLINS CHEAP. Last Year's Muslins clearing out. Retail Drapers, Shippers, and Families will save immensely. Patterns post free.
THE FRENCH MUSLIN COMPANY, 16, Oxford-street.

NEW FRENCH BREAKFAST DRESS, 8s. 6d.; if made up ready for wear to the latest fashion, 10s. 6d. The Two Guinea three-flounced Silk made with material for Bodice. The Five-Guinea Black Lyons Velvet Dress made with Bodice.

NEW MOHAIR MADE-UP DRESS, 14s. 9d., prettily trimmed with Velvet and French Glacé, in all shades. If Jacket made also, 18s. 6d. Remarkably pretty in Mourning.

FRENCH NOVELTIES MADE UP.—Our New Made-up Dresses have just arrived. The change in fashion this season is remarkable. The reduction in price, owing to the French treaty, is greater on made-up Dresses than on any other article.

VELVET JACKETS Embroidered in Gold. Clearing out at half-price. The Guinea-and-Half Velvet Jacket, tight and loose. Cashmere Opera Jackets, 12s. 9d.

THE HALF-GUINEA CLOTH JACKET.
White Muslin Jackets, 9s. 10½d.
Black Lace Jackets, 12s. 9d.
The Military Braided Cloth Jacket, 13s. 9d.
Illustrations free.
THE FRENCH MUSLIN COMPANY, 16, Oxford-street.

NEW SILKS FOR APRIL. Patterns sent post free.
PETER ROBINSON respectfully requests his Customers and Ladies in general to write for PATTERNS of his NEW SPRING SILKS, comprising several large cases of VERY CHEAP FRENCH SILKS, all imported duty free.

Shepherd-Plaid Silks	at One Guinea		the Full Dress.
Striped and Checked Silks	"	£1 5s. 9d.	"
Extra Rich Checks	"	£1 7s. 9d.	"
Chené Silks	"	£1 9s. 6d.	"
The New Dorrity Silks	"	£1 9s. 6d.	"
Rich Bayadère Bars	"	£1 7s. 9d.	"
Brocades	"	£1 12s. 9d.	"
The Rifle Stripe	"	£1 12s. 9d.	"
Plain Coloured Glacés	"	£1 15s. 9d.	"
Gros de Paris	"	£1 15s. 9d.	"
Rich Satin Bars	"	£1 15s. 9d.	"
French Chené Silks	"	£1 15s. 9d.	"
Rich Gros d'Afriques	"	£1 17s. 9d.	"
Several Elegant Styles	"	£1 19s. 6d.	"

Cheap Moire Antiques.
Cheap Flounced Silks.
ALL THE LATEST FOREIGN PRODUCTIONS, from Two Guineas to Twenty Guineas.
Patterns post-free.
PETER ROBINSON, 103, 105, 106, 107, 108, Oxford-street, W.

PETER ROBINSON'S NEW SPRING DRESSES.
Patterns post free.
Now ready, a great variety of New Fabrics Suitable for THE PRESENT AND APPROACHING SEASON.
"THE JASPER DROGUET," A most distinguished Novelty, £1 6s. 9d. the Extra Full Dress.
THE NEW SILK CHALLIES, 16s. 9d., 18s. 9d., and 21s. the Full Dress.
SILK POPLINETTES (IN BRILLIANT COLOURS), £1 9s. 6d. the Full Dress.
An immense assortment of "WASHING MOHAIRS," 8s. 9d., 9s. 9d., 11s. 9d., 12s. 6d., and 14s. 9d. the Full Dress.
FULL FLOUNCED DOUBLE MOHAIRS (20 Yards) 16s. 9d. the Robe. Trimming included.
103, 105, 106, 107, 108 OXFORD STREET, W.

A CHOICE ASSORTMENT OF NEW
FRENCH BRILLIANTS, CAMBRICS, and PIQUES, Fast Colours, in every style of pattern suitable for LADIES' MORNING WRAPPERS.

SPECIAL!!!
SEVERAL HUNDRED
RICH FLOUNCED BAREGE ROBES suitable for Dinner, Evening, or Summer wear (20 to 22 yards each), 18s. 9d., the Robe, Trimming included, worth from 1½ to 2 guineas.
A great variety of patterns sent for selection post-free.

1000 PIECES PURE MOHAIR, 8s. 9d. and 8s. 9d. Full Dress, worth 14s. 6d.
PETER ROBINSON, 103, 105, 106, 107, 108, Oxford-street, W.

THICKEST CHENILLE NETS, 2s. 11d. also at 1s. 3½d., 1s. 6½d., 1s. 11½d., 2s. 6d.
With Gilt Ornaments, Rings, Stars, Roses, Acorns, &c., 4s. 3d. each
Silk Braid Nets, all colours, 1s. 4½d. each.
Gold and Silver Nets, 1s. 3d.; with Tassels, 1s. 6d.
A large assortment of Gilt Clasps for Waistbands, 1s. 6d., 1s. 11½d., 2s. 6d.
Forwarded on receipt of stamps, and two extra for postage.
PETER ROBINSON, 103, 105, 106, 107, 108, Oxford-street, W.

FRENCH SILKS DUTY FREE. GRANT and GASK (late Williams and Co.) have just received a large importation of New French Silks, which they are enabled to sell at greatly-reduced prices in consequence of the abolition of the duty. Grant and Gask beg also to state that the whole of their extensive Stock of French Silks, Barèges, &c., have been reduced in price from 10 to 15 per cent. Orders for Wedding Trousseaux, Court Trains, and Family Mourning executed in the first style, under the superintendence of an experienced manager.
Patterns forwarded to the Country.
59, 60, 61, and 62, Oxford-street; and 3, 4, and 5, Wells-street.

SERVANTS' LIVERIES.—The best, at moderate prices, furnished, for cash payments, by H. J. and D. NICOLL, 114, 116, 118, 120, Regent-street, W.; 22, Cornhill, E.C., London; and No. 10, St. Anne's-square, Manchester.

RIFLE CORPS.—The Materials recommended by Government may be seen at Messrs. NICOLL'S, Army Dépôt, Regent street, London. As every suit of uniform will be made from measures taken by skilled foremen, gentlemen are requested to call there in preference to making appointments to be waited on at their own homes. Cash payments being required, the best articles are produced for very moderate prices.—H. J. and D. Nicoll, 114, 116, 118, 120, 142, 144, Regent-street, W.; 22, Cornhill, E.C.; and 10, St. Anne's-square, Manchester.

NEW MUSIC, &c.

D'ALBERT'S KATHLEEN MAVOURNEEN WALTZ. "One of the loveliest waltzes ever written, founded on the favourite song of 'Kathleen Mavourneen.'" Beautifully Illustrated 4s.—Chappell and Co., 50, New Bond-street.

D'ALBERT'S NEW QUADRILLE, ERIN GO BRAGH, on Irish National Airs, beautifully illustrated in colours. Price 4s.—Chappell and Co. 50, New Bond-street.

D'ALBERT'S NEW VALSE, PEREA NENA. Just out. Beautifully illustrated in Colours. Price 4s.
Chappell and Co., 50, New Bond-street.

D'ALBERT'S NEW QUADRILLE, MADRID. Just out. Beautifully illustrated in Colours. Price 4s.
Chappell and Co., 50, New Bond-street.

D'ALBERT'S NEW VALSE, SULTANA. Just out. Beautifully illustrated in Colours. Price 4s.
Chappell and Co., 50, New Bond-street.

D'ALBERT'S NEW POLKA, THE BIG SHIP OR GREAT EASTERN POLKA. Splendidly illustrated in Colours. Price 3s.
Chappell and Co., 50, New Bond-street.

D'ALBERT'S RIFLE CORPS POLKA. Just published, splendidly Illustrated with Sketches from some of the celebrated Rifle Corps. Price 3s.
Chappell and Co., 50, New Bond-street.

D'ALBERT'S RIFLE CORPS WALTZES. By this celebrated Composer. Price 4s. Just out.
Chappell and Co., 50, New Bond-street.

FLORAL HALL, COVENT GARDEN.—The BAND of the COLDSTREAM GUARDS performed with the greatest success—
D'Albert's Nelly Gray Valse.
D'Albert's Campbell Minstrel Quadrilles.
D'Albert's Rifle Corps Polka.
D'Albert's Charlestown Quadrilles.
D'Albert's West-end Polka.
D'Albert's Reigning Beauty Valses.
Chappell and Co., 50, New Bond-street.

MISS POOLE'S FAVOURITE BALLADS, sung by her with rapturous applause at the Monday Popular Concerts, given weekly at the St. James's Hall.
JUANITA. Composed by the Hon. Mrs. NORTON. 2s.
BARNEY O'HEA. Composed by SAMUEL LOVER. 2s.
SOMEBODY CARES FOR ME. Composed by ALICE FOSTER. 2s.
Chappell and Co., 50, New Bond-street.

KUHE'S DER FREYSCHUTZ. Fantaisie de Salon pour le Piano. Price 4s., post-free.
Chappell and Co., 50, New Bond-street.

KUHE'S SOUVENIR DE LEFORT, pour le Piano, introducing the Popular French Romances sung by M. Lefort with the greatest success. Price 4s. One of the most effective morceau de Salon by this celebrated composer.
Chappell and Co., 50, New Bond-street.

NEW SONGS, &c., by VINCENT WALLACE (Composer of "Lurline"), just published:—
SWEET EVENING STAR. Price 2s. 6d.
THE BELL-RINGER. Price 2s. 6d. Sung by Miss Palmer at the Monday Popular Concerts with the greatest success, and redemanded.
PRETTY THINGS YOUNG LOVERS SAY. Price 2s.
VOICES, LINGERING VOICES. Duet. Price 2s. 6d.
Chappell and Co., 50, New Bond-street.

NEW SONG, ALL THINGS ARE NOT WHAT THEY SEEM. Composed by C. COOTE, Jun. Words by LONGFELLOW. Price 2s. Sung with distinguished success by Mr. George Buckland.
Chappell and Co., 50, New Bond-street.

MELLON'S OPERA, VICTORINE. I NEVER CAN FORGET. Price 2s. "A ballad which always elicits an unanimous encore."—Era.
THIS FLOWER, DEAR MAID. 2s. "Melodious and graceful. The growing popularity of this ballad is not at all surprising when it is remembered how easily the tune is retained after being once heard."—Times.
LOVE'S DREAM IS O'ER. Price 2s. "Melodious and graceful."—Times. Chappell and Co., 50, New Bond-street.

CHAPPELL'S 100 COUNTRY DANCES, HORNPIPES, REELS, and STRATHSPEYS for the VIOLIN, containing all the old English favourites. Undoubtedly the best collection ever published in one book. Price Eighteenpence, post-free. Chappell and Co., 50, New Bond-street.

CHAPPELL'S EIGHTEEN AIRS, with VARIATIONS, arranged as easy SOLOS for the VIOLIN, price 1s. 6d.
Chappell and Co., 50, New Bond-street.

BRINLEY RICHARDS' NELLY GRAY, the popular one, as sung by Campbell's Minstrels, arranged for the Pianoforte. Price 3s. Order the Campbell's "Nelly Gray."
Chappell and Co., 50, New Bond-street.

SISTER ELVES.—Vocal Duet for two Ladies' Voices. By STEPHEN GLOVER. "One of the prettiest duets by this popular Composer, and sure to become a great favourite." Price 3s.
Chappell and Co., 50, New Bond-street.

TO PURCHASERS of PIANOFORTES.—CHAPPELL and CO. have a large stock of SECONDHAND PIANOFORTES for Sale, by BROADWOOD, COLLARD, ERARD, &c., &c., at very reduced prices. Also, new Instruments of every description.—CHAPPELL and CO., 50, New Bond-street.

CHAPPELL'S FOREIGN MODEL PIANOFORTE, price Fifty Guineas. This instrument has (unlike the ordinary Cottage Pianoforte) Three Strings and the fullest Grand Compass of Seven Octaves. It is strengthened by every possible means to endure the greatest amount of wear, and to stand perfectly in any climate. The workmanship is of the best description; the tone is round, full, and rich; and the power equal to that of a Bichord Grand. The case is of the most elegant description, in rosewood; the touch elastic, and the repetition very rapid. Every possible precaution has been taken to ensure its standing well in tune. Chappell and Co. especially invite the attention of the public, the profession, and merchants, to the Foreign Model, feeling assured that no Pianoforte, in all respects comparable, has hitherto been made in England at the same price. Every instrument will be warranted, and if desired) exchanged within twelve months of the purchase.—50, New Bond-street, London.

HARMONIUMS at CHAPPELL'S.—The HARMONIUM by ALEXANDRE is the only instrument of the kind that remains in tune; from the simplicity of its construction is but slightly affected by changes of weather, and is alike calculated for the Church, Chapel, School, or Drawing-room.
No. 1. In oak case, one stop, 5 octaves, 10 guineas.
2. In mahogany case, one stop, 12 guineas.
3. In oak case, 3 stops, 15 guineas; rosewood, 16 guineas.
4. With five stops—oak, 22 guineas; rosewood, 23 guineas.
5. Eight stops—oak, 25 guineas; rosewood, 26 guineas.
6. Twelve stops, oak or rosewood, 35 guineas.
7. One stop, and percussion action, in oak, 16 guineas.
8. Three stops, and percussion action, in rosewood, 20 guineas.
9. Eight stops, percussion action, oak or rosewood, 32 guineas.
10. Twelve stops, percussion action, in oak, 40 guineas.
11. Twelve stops, percussion action, large size, in rosewood, 45 guineas.
12. The new patent model—15 stops, percussion action, expression à la main, &c.; the most perfect Harmonium that can be made, in handsome oak or rosewood case, 55 guineas.
Full descriptive lists on application.
Chappell, 50, New Bond-street.

THE ALEXANDRE HARMONIUM at Six Guineas, perfect for Class Singing, Private Use, or for the School-room.—Chappell and Co., 50, New Bond-street.

THE PATENT DRAWING-ROOM MODEL HARMONIUM, the best that can be made, price 60 guineas. Illustrated Catalogues of Pianofortes and Harmoniums upon application to Chappell and Co., New Bond-street; or 13, George-street, Hanover-square.

CLEMENT WHITE'S NEW SONGS.
FOLLOW ME, Soprano or Contralto .. .. .. 2s.
THE LONE OLD TREE, for any voice .. .. 2s.
Metzler and Co., 37, 38, and 35, Great Marlborough-street, W.

GERALDINE. New Song, introduced by Mrs. Howard Paul in her impersonation of Sims Reeves. By WALLERSTEIN. Illustrated in Colours. Price 2s. 6d., post-free.
Metzler and Co., 37, 38, and 35, Great Marlborough-street, W.

FOUR-IN-HAND GALOP. J. BROWNE. The latest and best by this popular Dance-writer. Illustrated in Colours. Price 3s., post-free
Metzler and Co., 37, 38, and 35, Great Marlborough-street W

NEW MUSIC, &c.

HENRY FARMER'S NEW PIANOFORTE TUTOR.—"The most useful and best instruction-book we have seen." Price 4s.—London: Joseph Williams, 123, Cheapside.

HENRY FARMER'S RIFLE GALOP, splendidly illustrated by BRANDARD. Solos, 4s.; Duets, 3s.; Septets, 3s. 6d.; Orchestra, 5s.—London: Joseph Williams, 123, Cheapside; Wholesale Warehouse, 6, Milk-street, E.C.

HENRY FARMER'S GEMS OF CHRISTY MINSTRELS, easily arranged for the Pianoforte. Price 3s. post-free.—London: Joseph Williams, 123, Cheapside.

HENRY FARMER'S JUPITER QUADRILLE. Beautifully illustrated in Colours by BRANDARD. Solos, 4s; Duets, 4s.; Septet, 3s. 6d.; Orchestra, 5s. London: Joseph Williams, 123, Cheapside; and 6, Milk-street, E.C.

HENRY FARMER'S BLANCHE VALSE. Illustrated in Colours by BRANDARD. Solos, 4s.; Duet, 4s.; Septet, 3s. 6d; Orchestra, 5s.
London: Joseph Williams, 123, Cheapside; and 6, Milk-street, E.C.

VISIONS; or, They Rise Before Me One by One. English and German Words. English Version by Mrs. J. BOUCHER. Music by F. GUMBERT 2s., post-free.
London: Joseph Williams, 123, Cheapside; and 6, Milk-street, E.C.

C. W. GLOVER'S New Song, DO THEY THINK OF ME AT HOME. Written by J. E. CARPENTER. Price 2s., post-free.
London: Joseph Williams, 123, Cheapside.

G. A. MACFARREN'S New Song, WHEN SHALL WE MEET AGAIN? Sung by Miss Louisa Vinning. Is effective and touching—it lies within a moderate compass. Price 2s., post-free.—London: Joseph Williams, 123, Cheapside.

G. A. MACFARREN'S LITTLE CLARINA'S LESSON-BOOK for the PIANOFORTE. Parts 1 to 4, each 2s. 6d; complete, 8s. "It contains all that is essential to instruct the youngest child."—Globe.
London: J. Williams, 123, Cheapside.

STEPHEN GLOVER'S New Song, THE CHILD'S GOOD NIGHT TO THE FLOWERS. Words by Miss Kate Wilkinson. Dedicated to H. Wilberforce, Esq. Price 2s., post-free.—London: Joseph Williams, 123, Cheapside.

NEW SONG.—WE MEET AGAIN, THOUGH MANY YEARS. Written by Mrs. J. BOUCHER; Music by KUCKEN. Price 2s., post-free.
London: Joseph Williams, 123, Cheapside, E.C.

NEW SONG.—MAIDEN, ARISE. Written by Mrs. J. BOUCHER; Music by P. HEWISON. Price 2s., post-free.—London: Joseph Williams, 123, Cheapside, E.C.

C. W. GLOVER'S NEW SONGS (Words by Mrs. J. BOUCHER), HOME OF MY CHILDHOOD, and DAYLIGHT IS FADING. Price 2s. each, post-free.
London: Joseph Williams, 123, Cheapside, and 6, Milk-street, E.C.

WILL YOU LEAVE THE LAND, JESSIE? New Song, written and Composed by J. W. CHERRY. Price 2s., post-free.
London: Joseph Williams, 123, Cheapside, and 6, Milk-street, E.C.

VOLUNTEER RIFLE CORPS' GRAND MARCH, for the Pianoforte by R. ANDREWS. Illustrated by BRANDARD. Price 3s., post-free.
London: Joseph Williams, 123, Cheapside, and 6, Milk-street, E.C.

THE MODERN SINGING-MASTER ON THE ART OF SINGING. By F. BUSSE. Illustrated with 126 Exercises. Translated by J. A. Hamilton. Price 7s. 6d.
London: Joseph Williams, 123, Cheapside, and 6, Milk-street, City.

THE FRIEND'S GIFT: a Collection of the most Popular Tunes, arranged in a very easy and simple manner, and fingered for the Piano. By J. BRUNNER. In Twelve Books (from twelve to sixteen tunes in each). Price 2s. each.
London: Joseph Williams, 123, Cheapside, and 6, Milk-street, E.C.

CHARLES W. GLOVER'S NEW SONGS—"The Home that I left long ago," and "A Song of Welcome." Written by Mrs. ABDY. 2s. each, post-free.
London: Joseph Williams, 123, Cheapside, E.C.

NEW VOCAL DUET, SING, MAIDEN, SING. Written by J. E. CARPENTER; composed by CHARLES W. GLOVER. 2s. 6d. post-free.
London: Joseph Williams, 123, Cheapside, E.C.

NEW VOCAL DUET, THE FISHER'S EVENING SONG, for two Sopranos or two Tenors. Written by Mrs. BOUCHER. Composed by F. KUCHEN. Price 2s. 6d., post-free. London: Joseph Williams, 123, Cheapside.

RICARDO LINTER'S QUEBEC QUADRILLE. Illustrated with a View of Quebec, in Colours, by BRANDARD. Price 3s.
London: Joseph Williams, 123, Cheapside, and 6, Milk-street.

FADING LEAVES. Words by Mrs. BOUCHER. Music by G. A. MACFARREN. "This melodious and touching ballad is well worthy of its composer's name."—Morning Herald. Price 2s. post-free.
London: Joseph Williams, 123, Cheapside, and 6, Milk-street.

THE MOTHERLESS CHILD (They chide me that the tears will fall).—Written by Mrs. J. BOUCHER; composed by FRED. GUMBERT. Price 2s., post-free.
London: Joseph Williams, 123, Cheapside; and 6, Milk-street, E.C.

THE LORD IS MY SHEPHERD. By R. TOPLIFF. Post-free, 2s. Another beautiful production of this celebrated writer on sacred themes, of which there are eighteen, entitled "Scripture Melodies."—J. Williams, 123, Cheapside.

TO MERCHANTS, SHIPPERS, AND FOREIGN RESIDENTS.
JOSEPH WILLIAMS, 123, Cheapside, the Publisher of Henry Farmer's celebrated DANCE MUSIC, is prepared to forward to any part of the world MUSIC of all kinds, including the newest and most popular compositions, in large or small quantities, on the most advantageous terms.

NEW POLKA.—THE LADIES' RIFLE CORPS POLKA. Price 3s. By L. BERNARD, Author of the Johnny Sands Quadrilles, The Break of Day Schottische, The Very Last Polka, &c. The popular song of "The Ladies' Rifle Corps" forms the subject of this attractive Polka, which may be pronounced as one of the best that has appeared for a long time.
Duff and Hodgson, 65, Oxford street.

NEW VOCAL DUET, FAIRY DREAMS. Price 2s. 6d.—Mr. Stephen Glover, the composer of "What are the wild waves saying?" "Two Merry Minstrels," &c., has just published "Fairy Dreams," duet, for soprano and contralto, which will equal in popularity any of his former compositions.
Duff and Hodgson, 65, Oxford-street.

NEW SONG.—OLD FRIENDS AND OTHER DAYS. Composed by W. VINCENT WALLACE. Price 2s. 6d. This is the last production of the distinguished composer of the highly-successful Opera of "Lurline." It is written for Miss Fanny Huddart, and will be found a perfect gem by all contralto voices.—Duff and Hodgson, 65, Oxford-street.

LANGTON WILLIAMS' most admired SONGS:—
I'VE ALWAYS A WELCOME FOR THEE. 12th Edition. "One of the sweetest ballads of the day." Price 2s.
ADELE, I MISS THY KIND AND GENTLE VOICE. 4th Edition. Sung by Miss Lascelles. Price 2s.
EFFIE SUNSHINE. 6th Edition. Sung by Miss Poole. Price 2s. 6d.
YOU'LL SOON FORGET KATHLEEN. Irish Ballad. New Edition. Price 2s.
CLARINE, 'TIS A FORM THAT REMINDS ME OF THEE. 3rd Edition. Sung by Miss Lascelles. Price 2s.
All post-free for stamps.
W. Williams and Co., 221, Tottenham-court-road.
All New Music Half-price.

MUSIC HALF PRICE and Postage-free.—The High Price of Music.—All full-price Music forwarded to any part of the kingdom on receipt of Postage-stamps to the amount of half the published price. Catalogues gratis and postage-free.
Oetzmann and Co., 32, Wigmore-street, Cavendish-square, W.

NEW MUSIC, &c.

BRINLEY RICHARDS' RIFLEMEN FORM MARCH, performed by the Band of the Royal Horse Guards. Arranged for Pianoforte by Brinley Richards. Price 2s. 6d.
Boosey and Sons, Holles-street.

KUHE'S DOMINO NOIR, new brilliant Fantasia for Pianoforte. Price 3s.—Published this day by Boosey and Sons, Holles-street.

KUHE'S ZAMPA, brilliant Fantasia for the Pianoforte. Price 3s.—Boosey and Sons, Holles-street.

SCHLOESSER'S NEW GRAND DUETS on "Martha," "Traviata," and "Dinorah," for Pianoforte. Price 5s. each. Published this day by Boosey and Sons, Holles street.

AN EVENING WITH BALFE. By RUDOLF NORDMANN. Mélange for the Pianoforte. Price, Solo, 4s.; Duet, 5s.
Also, by NORDMANN, AN EVENING WITH THE CHRISTY MINSTRELS. Solo, 4s.; Duet, 5s.—Boosey and Sons, Holles-street.

ROSSINI'S STABAT MATER.—New and complete Edition. Arranged for the Pianoforte by HENRY SMART. Price 3s.; or, handsomely bound in cloth, 5s. Also MOZART'S TWELFTH MASS, in the same form.
Boosey and Sons, Holles-street.

SHILLING EDITION of DE BERIOT'S AIRS for the VIOLIN, Nos. 1 to 7, complete, with all the Variations, in One Book, price 1s. Also, Booseys' 100 German Waltzes for the Violin, by Strauss, Lanner, and Labitzky, price 1s. Pianoforte part to De Beriot's Airs, price 3s. 6d.
Boosey and Sons, Holles-street.

JUVENILE DANCE MUSIC, price 1s. each Set. Satanella Quadrille (complete), 1s.; Maud Valse, 1s. Pantomime Galop, 1s.; Konigsberg Polka, 1s.
Boosey and Sons, Holles-street.

GOLLMICK—DRIPPING WELL, Morceaux Fantastique for the Pianoforte. Third Edition. Price 3s. One of the most popular original pieces of the day.
Boosey and Sons, Holles-street.

THE JUVENILE PIANOFORTE ALBUM, price 3s. 6d., contains 12 Pianoforte Pieces from "Dinorah," and the newest Operas, beautifully bound and illustrated.
Boosey and Sons, Holles-street.

LAURENT'S DONNA JULIA VALSE. Illustrated in Colours. Price 4s.
The best original composition of this favourite author.
Boosey and Sons, Holles-street.

24 CHRISTY'S MINSTRELS' SONGS for 2s. 6d.—A New Edition of BOOSEYS' CHRISTY'S MINSTRELS' ALBUM is published this day, double the former size, containing in one book, music size, price 2s. 6d. (post-free), Christy's Minstrels' twenty-four best Songs, with Choruses and Pianoforte Accompaniments, and all the words under the music.
Boosey and Sons, Holles-street.

THE POPULAR SONGS of the SEASON. Sung by Madame Dolby, Madame Louisa Vinning, Wilbye Cooper, and Sims Reeves:—

	s. d.		s. d.
Janet's Choice, by Claribel	2 6	When You and I were Young, by Allen	2 0
Don't Come Teazing Me, Sir, by Hatton	2 6	O Tender Shadow, by Meyerbeer	3 0
Sweetheart, by Balfe ..	2 0	Margaretta, by Balfe ..	3 0
The Bird of Song, by Hatton	2 0	The Maid I Love hath many a Grace, by Hatton ..	2 0
Thou Art so Near by Reichardt	3 0	You Chide Me for Loving, by Berger	2 0
O, Live, or Let Me Die, by Meyerbeer	2 0	The Quadroon Girl, by Balfe	2 6
It was Fifty Years Ago, by Hatton	2 0	The Song of Love and Death, by Balfe	2 0
Why Don't He Tell Me So? by Berger	2 0	Sweet Katie, by Callcott ..	2 0
Swifter than the Swallow's Flight, by Berger ..	2 0	Magenta, by Balfe	2 0
		Love me little, love me long, by G. Linley ..	2 0

Boosey and Sons, Holles-street.

CHOPIN'S MAZURKAS. Edited by J. W. DAVISON. Published this day, price 8s., music size, CHOPIN'S MAZURKAS FOR PIANOFORTE, complete, with Portrait, and Biographical Critical Preface by J. W. Davison. This edition is very beautifully engraved, and printed on the best paper.
Boosey and Sons, Holles-street.

DUSSEK and WOELFL. Edited by J. W. DAVISON. Published this day, in one vol., price 4s. (music size), uniform with Chopin, Dussek's plus ultra and Woelfl's ne plus ultra Sonatas for Pianoforte (as performed by Miss Arabella Goddard), with a biography of each Author and a critical account of their works, by J. W. Davison.

MENDELSSOHN'S SONGS WITHOUT WORDS. Edited by J. W. DAVISON. Published this day, price 6s., large size (uniform with Chopin and Dussek), a New Edition of MENDELSSOHN'S SONGS without words, complete with Portrait and Preface. By J. W. Davison. Another Edition (the original) is published in 4to, beautifully bound, price 7s. 6d.
Boosey and Sons, Holles-street.

BRINLEY RICHARDS' THOU ART SO NEAR.—Richardt's celebrated song arranged for Pianoforte by Brinley Richards, price 4s.
Boosey and Sons, Holles-street.

THE RIFLE RECRUITING CALL, Martial Song of the Volunteers. Illustrated. 2s. 6d., post-free.
London: Wessel and Co., Hanover-square. Edinburgh: M. Cobham, India-street.

DAV. ALBERT'S NEW VALSE, WOOD VIOLETS, for 4s.; Duets, 4s.; Orchestra, 5s.
THE MACGREGOR QUADRILLE, by D. ALBERT, for 4s.
THE SWEET ANNIE POLKA, by D. ALBERT, for 3s.
THE WEST-END SCHOTTISCHE, by D. ALBERT, for 2s. 6d.
Venn and Co., 65, Baker-street.—All Music Half-price.

D'ALBERT'S LURLINE WALTZES. Just published.
Cramer, Beale, and Co., 201, Regent-street.

D'ALBERT'S LURLINE POLKA. Just published.
Cramer, Beale, and Co., 201, Regent-street.

D'ALBERT'S LURLINE QUADRILLES. Just published.
Cramer, Beale, and Co., 201, Regent-street.

LURLINE.—WALLACE'S NEW GRAND OPERA, for the Pianoforte, as Solos and Duets. By W. H. CALLCOTT. Also, Fantasias and Rondos from "Lurline," by Wallace, Favarger, and other eminent composers. Valses and Quadrilles from "Lurline."
Cramer, Beale, and Co., 201, Regent-street.

LURLINE.—The following are the favourite Pieces in WALLACE'S new and successful Opera, LURLINE:—"Under a Spreading Coral," "Take this Cup of Sparkling Wine," "Flow on, oh, Silver Rhine," "When the Night Winds;" "Sweet Spirit, hear my Prayer," sung by Miss Pyne; "Gentle Troubadour," sung by Miss Pilling; "Our Bark in Moonlight Beaming," "Sweet form, that on my dreamy gaze;" "The Chimes of Home," sung by Mr. Harrison; "A Father's Love;" "Love, Transient Passion," sung by Mr. Santley.
Cramer, Beale, and Co., 201, Regent-street.

LURLINE.—The TROUBADOUR WALTZ, from "Lurline," performed at Buckingham Palace and the Royal Volunteers' Ball at the Floral Hall, Covent-garden.
Cramer, Beale, and Co., 201, Regent-street.

LURLINE.—D'ALBERT'S POLKA, VALSES, and QUADRILLES from Wallace's Grand Opera, "Lurline."—Cramer, Beale, and Co., 201, Regent-street.

PIANOFORTES.—CRAMER, BEALE, and CO.—NEW MODEL OBLIQUE GRAND PIANO, and every description, warranted. Lists of Prices and Terms for Hire, post-free. 201, Regent-street.

HARMONIUMS.—CRAMER, BEALE, and CO.—Description and List of Prices, post-free. Also, SECONDHAND HARMONIUMS in great variety.
201, Regent-street.

MUSICAL-BOX DEPOT, 32, Ludgate-street, NICOLE'S celebrated Large Musical-boxes, at £1 per Air. Operatic, National, or Sacred. Snuff-boxes, 14s. 6d. to 40s. each. Catalogues of Tunes and Prices gratis and post-free on application to WALES and M'CULLOCH, as above.

NEW MUSIC, &c.

ADMIRED PIANOFORTE MUSIC, as Solos and Duets. By J. T. STONE. La Rose Charmante, valse brillante, solo 3s., duet 4s.; La Pensée, fantaisie à la mazurka, solo 3s., duet 4s.; La Fontaine Etincelante, morçeau de salon, solo 3s., duet 4s.; La Belle Fuchsia, Schottische brillante, solo 2s., duet 3s., Marche Triomphale, solo 3s., duet 4s.; La Garde Imperiale, fantaisie militaire, solo 2s. 6d., duet 4s. "The author's pianoforte works are characterised by a thorough knowledge of the science of harmony, and a perfect appreciation of the capacity of the instrument."—Illustrated News of the World, May 21, 1859. A Catalogue of the above Author's Pianoforte Works may be had gratis and postage-free on application to the publishers, or to Mr. J. T. Stone, 40, Berners-street, W.
London: D'Almaine and Co., 104, New Bond-street, W.

BEATRICE SCHOTTISCHE, by J. T. STONE. As played by the Band of the Coldstream Guards at St. James's Palace, also by Coote and Tinney's Band at Willis's Rooms. Solo 2s. 6d., duet 3s., septet 3s. 6d., full orchestra 5s.—"Facile, playful, piquant; in brief, just what dance music should be. The author's compositions are widely known, and as extensively admired."—Morning Advertiser, March 31, 1859.
London: D'Almaine and Co., 104, New Bond-street, W.

MEYERBEER'S CORONATION MARCH, from "Le Prophète" (by permission of Messrs. Cramer and Co.), No. 16 of the CLASSICAL ORGANIST, a selection of celebrated compositions from the works of the great masters, arranged from the orchestral scores for the organ, with pedal obligato, by J. T. STONE. Price 3s. each. Vols. 1, 2, and 3 are now published, price 15s. each. A specimen copy may be had gratis, and postage-free, on application to the publishers, or to Mr. J. T. Stone, 40, Berners-street, W. The copyright of the Classical Organist is the sole and exclusive property of Messrs. D'Almaine and Co., 104, New Bond-street, W.

SANTA MARIA and MARCIA RELIGIOSO in Meyerbeer's celebrated Opera DINORAH, arranged from the Orchestral Score for the ORGAN, with Pedal Obligato, by J. T. STONE. Price 3s.—Boosey and Sons, Holles-street.

LA, CI DAREM LA MANO. Fantasia on the "Duettino" from Mozart's Opera "Il Don Giovanni." By J. T. STONE. Price 3s, post-free.
London: Brewer and Co., 23, Bishopsgate-street Within.

THEORETICAL and PRACTICAL INSTRUCTIONS in the ART of SINGING. By J. T. STONE. Price 6s., post-free. Containing a concise description of the nature, formation, and compass of the voice, directions for acquiring a perfect intonation, followed by exercises, vocalisations, and solfeggi.
London: Brewer and Co., 23, Bishopsgate-street Within.

THE CAMERON MARCH. By J. T. STONE. Illustrated by BRANDARD; Solo, 2s. 6d; Duet, 3s. Also, by the same Author, Prince of Wales Band March, illustrated with a Portrait of H.R.H. the Prince of Wales. Solo, 2s.; Duet, 3s.
London: Brewer and Co., 23, Bishopsgate-street Within.

ALABAMA QUADRILLE. By J. T. STONE. Beautifully illustrated in Colours by BRANDARD. Solo, 3s.; Duet, 4s.; Orchestra, 5s., post-free
London: Joseph Williams, 123, Cheapside, and 6, Milk-street, E.C.

LA BELLE ECOSSAISE QUADRILLE. By J. T. STONE. Beautifully illustrated in Colours by BRANDARD. Solo, 3s.; Duet, 4s.; Orchestra, 5s., post-free.
London: Joseph Williams, 123, Cheapside, and 6, Milk-street, E.C.

LES JOLIES FILLES D'ANGLETERRE QUADRILLE. By J. T. STONE. Beautifully illustrated in Colours by BRANDARD. Solo, 3s.; Duet, 4s.; Orchestra, 5s., post-free.
London: Joseph Williams, 123, Cheapside, and 6, Milk-street, E.C.

LLANGOLLEN QUADRILLE, on Welsh Airs. By J. T. STONE. Beautifully illustrated in Colours by BRANDARD. Solo, 3s.; Duet 4s.; Orchestra, 5s., post-free.
London: Joseph Williams, 123, Cheapside, and 6, Milk-street, E.C.

KILLARNEY QUADRILLE, on Irish Airs. By J. T. STONE. Beautifully illustrated in Colours by BRANDARD. Solo, 3s; Duet, 4s.; Orchestra, 5s., post-free.
London: Joseph Williams, 123, Cheapside, and 6, Milk-street, E.C.

TURIN QUADRILLE, on National Italian Airs. By J. T. STONE. Beautifully illustrated in Colours by BRANDARD. Solo, 3s; Duet, 4s.; Orchestra, 5s., post-free.
London: Joseph Williams, 123, Cheapside, and 6, Milk-street, E.C.

FOR FAMILY ARMS send Name and County to the HERALDIC OFFICE, 44, High Holborn, W.C. Sketch and Description, 2s. 6d.; in Colour, 5s.; on Vellum, 21s. Official Seals, Dies, and Diploma Plates in Mediæval and Modern Styles.

STAINED GLASS.—Your Arms, Crest, and Motto, size 18 in. by 11 in., 30s. Designs and Estimates for Memorial Windows, Monumental Brasses, Monograms, &c. Illustrated Price-lists post-free.—MORING, Heraldic Artist, High Holborn.

SOLID GOLD, 18-carat, Hall-marked, Sardonyx or Bloodstone RING, Engraved Crest, Two Guineas. Larger size Engraved Arms, Crest, and Motto, 75s. Desk-seals, Pencil-cases, &c.—MORING, 44, High Holborn, W.C.

WATCHES.—A. B. SAVORY and SONS, Watchmakers, 11 and 12, Cornhill, London (opposite the Bank). First-class Patent Detached Lever Watches with the latest improvements and maintaining power, to continue going whilst being wound, recommended for accuracy and durability.

PRICES OF SILVER WATCHES.

Patent Lever Watch, jewelled, enamel dial and seconds ..	£4 14 6
Ditto, jewelled in four holes, and capped	6 6 0
Ditto, the finest quality, jewelled in six holes	8 8 0

Silver Watches, in Hunting Cases, 10s. 6d. extra.

GOLD WATCHES.—SIZE FOR LADIES.

Patent Lever Watch, with gold dial, jewelled	11 11
Ditto, with richly-engraved case	12 12
Ditto, with very strong case, and jewelled in four holes ..	14 14

GOLD WATCHES.—SIZE FOR GENTLEMEN.

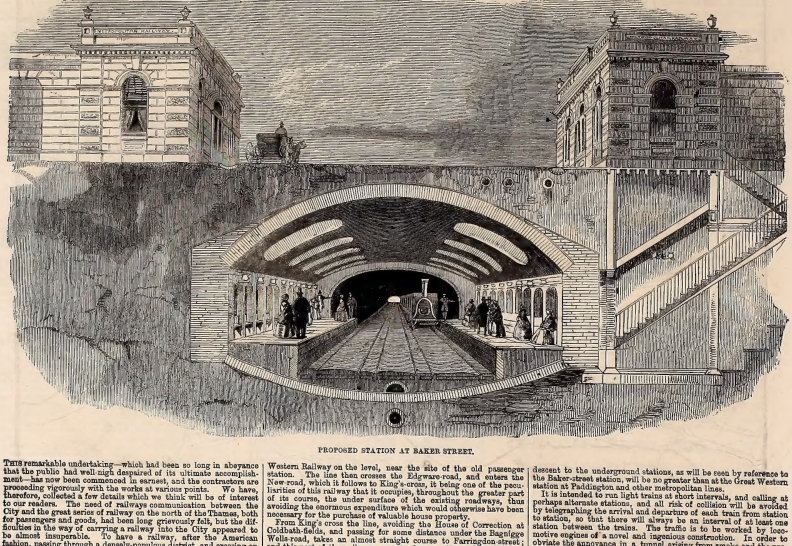
Patent Lever Watch, jewelled, enamel dial, and seconds ..	10 10 0
Ditto, in stronger case, and capped	13 13 0
Ditto, jewelled in six holes, and gold balance	17 17 0

Gold Watches in Hunting Cases, £3 3s. extra.
List of prices with remarks on Watches, gratis and post-free.

FRODSHAM and BAKER, 31, Gracechurch-street, City, established 1800, Chronometer-makers to the Admiralty, Clockmakers to the Queen.—POCKET CHRONOMETERS, Duplex and Lever Watches, of the most improved construction, at moderate prices. Astronomical and other Clocks.

DENT'S CHRONOMETERS, WATCHES, and CLOCKS.—M. F. Dent, 33, Cockspur-street, Charing-cross, Watch, Clock, and Chronometer Maker by special appointment to her Majesty the Queen.—33, Cockspur-street, Charing-cross.

GORHAM'S KALEIDOSCOPIC COLOUR-TOP "Combines entertainment with sound instruction, and will, we have no doubt, be largely purchased."—Builder. Price 21s., and 25s.—SMITH, BECK, and BECK, 6, Coleman-street, and ELLIOTT BROTHERS, 30, Strand.



OPERA, RACE, and FIELD GLASSES, in every variety of style and mounting, at CALLAGHAN'S, 23a, New Bond-street (corner of Conduit-street). Prices from 30s. N.B. Sole agent for the celebrated Opera Glasses and Photographic Lenses made by Voigtländer, Vienna.

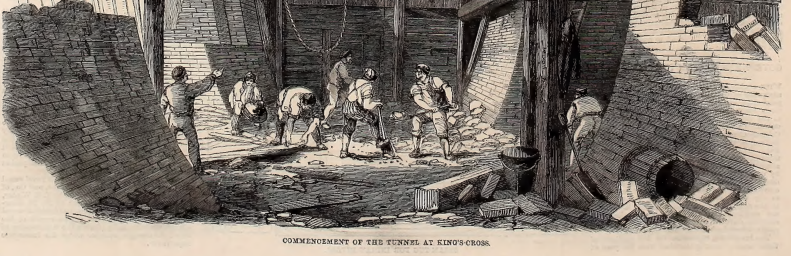
SPORTSMEN and GENTLEMEN of the ARMY and NAVY.—S. and B. SOLOMONS, Opticians, 39, Albemarle-street, Piccadilly, opposite the York Hotel. Portability combined with great power in FIELD, RACECOURSE, OPERA, and general out-door day and night powerful Waistcoat-pocket PERSPECTIVE GLASSES, weighing only four ounces each, containing 12 and 18 lenses, constructed of German glass, will show distinctly a person to know them at 2½ and 3 miles. They serve every purpose on the Racecourse and at the Opera-house. Country scenery and ships are clearly seen at 8 to 10 miles. They are also invaluable for Shooting, Deerstalking, and Yachting. Her Majesty's Coast Guards are making use of them as day and night glasses. The term for them are powerful and brilliant telescopes for both eyes. The most powerful Telescopes, possessing such extraordinary power that some, 3½ inches, with an extra astronomical eyepiece, will show distinctly Jupiter's moons, Saturn's ring, and the double stars; with the same Telescope a person can be seen and known three-and-a-half miles distant, and an object from fourteen to sixteen miles. They are in endless variety, of larger and all sizes, with increasing powers, and are secured by her Majesty's Royal Letters Patent.

SPECTACLES.—Optical Improvements, to enable persons at an advanced age to read with ease, and to distinguish objects with perfect distinctness.—Messrs. SOLOMONS have invented SPECTACLE LENSES of the greatest transparent power. The valuable advantage derived from this invention is that vision becoming impaired is preserved and strengthened; very aged persons are enabled to employ their sight at the most minute occupation; can see with these lenses of a much less magnifying power, and they do not require the frequent changes, to the dangerous effects of further powerful assistance.—39, Albemarle-street, Piccadilly.

DEAFNESS.—A newly-invented Instrument for extreme cases of Deafness, called the Sound Magnifier, Organic Vibrator, and Invisible Voice Conductor. It fits into the ear so as not to be in the least perceptible: the unpleasant sensation of singing noises in the head is entirely removed. It affords instant relief to deaf persons, and enables them to hear distinctly at church and at public assemblies. Every other kind of hearing Instrument, Messrs. SOLOMONS Opticians, 39, Albemarle-street, Piccadilly W.

THE METROPOLITAN RAILWAY.

PROPOSED STATION AT BAKER STREET.



THIS remarkable undertaking—which had been so long in abeyance that the public had well nigh despaired of its ultimate accomplishment—has now been commenced in earnest, and the contractors are proceeding vigorously with the works at various points. We have, therefore, collected a few details which we think will be of interest to our readers. The need of railways communication between the City and the great series of railway on the north of the Thames, both for passengers and goods, had been long grievously felt, but the difficulties in the way of carrying a railway into the City appeared to be almost insuperable. To have a railway, after the American fashion, passing through a densely-populous district, and crossing on the level our overcrowded streets and thoroughfares, was utterly out of the question; and scarcely less so to carry an unsightly viaduct through the heart of the metropolis. The only alternative was that adopted by the Metropolitan Company—namely, that of an underground communication, by which the most densely-crowded districts could be traversed without the slightest annoyance or obstruction to the existing traffic. A reference to the map will show that the railway starts from opposite the Great Western Railway Hotel at Paddington, with a fork up the South Wharf-road to join the Great Western Railway on the level, near the site of the old passenger station. The line then crosses the Edgware-road, and enters the New-road, which it follows to King's-cross, it being one of the peculiarities of this railway that it occupies, throughout the greater part of its course, the under surface of the existing roadways, thus avoiding the enormous expenditure which would otherwise have been necessary for the purchase of valuable house property.

From King's cross the line, avoiding the House of Correction at Coldbath-fields, and passing for some distance under the Bagnigge Wells-road, takes an almost straight course to Farringdon-street; and this part of the railway, except when passing under roadways, will be in open cutting.

In addition to the principal terminal stations at Paddington and Holborn-hill, commodious passenger stations will be erected at the Edgware-road, Baker-street, in the triangular plot of ground opposite Trinity Church, Regent's park, Hampstead-road, Euston-square, and King's-cross. The terminal stations, and the Edgware-road, Regent's-park, and King's-cross stations, will be open, or covered with a glass roof; the others, as that at Baker street (vide engraving), will be commodious, airy, and well lighted with gas. The ascent and descent to the underground stations, as will be seen by reference to the Baker-street station, will be no greater than at the Great Western station at Paddington and other metropolitan lines.

It is intended to run light trains at short intervals, and calling at perhaps alternate stations, and all risk of collision will be avoided by telegraphing the arrival and departure of each train from station to station, so that there will always be an interval of at least one station between the trains. The traffic is to be worked by locomotive engines of a novel and ingenious construction. In order to obviate the annoyance in a tunnel arising from smoke and the products of combustion, the locomotives will have no firebox, but will be charged with hot water and steam at a certain pressure to be supplied by fixed boilers at the termini, and will be furnished with a large heater to assist in maintaining the temperature. It is estimated that each locomotive will thus carry with it sufficient power to enable it to effect the double journey. In order to test the efficiency of locomotives constructed on this principle the directors have instructed Messrs. Stephenson and Co. to build a broad-gauge engine, which will be employed in the construction of the works.

The general character of the archway may be gathered from the

COMMENCEMENT OF THE TUNNEL AT KING'S-CROSS.

PLAN OF THE METROPOLITAN RAILWAY.

Engraving of the Baker-street station, and the mode of construction is shown by a Sketch of the works as actually in progress at King's-cross. The ordinary process is to open the ground, construct the archway, and then replace the surface. In this manner the whole of the New road will be taken up and relaid in sections. This is not only a much cheaper process than that of tunnelling, but it admits of the work being finished in a much more complete style, and rendered perfectly watertight.

The works have been commenced at the Great Western station and at the Great Northern station to secure a ready outlet for the immense mass of excavated earth, gravel, &c.; and a large portion of the preliminary work of the reconstruction of the sewers has been already accomplished. The directors are rapidly possessing themselves of the land, and there is every reason to hope that the commencement of the year 1862 will find the line open and in active work. The company obtained their first Act in 1855, but the breaking out of the Crimean war, and the disturbances of the monetary system resulting therefrom, rendered it impossible to obtain the capital necessary for carrying out the undertaking. After many unsuccessful efforts in various directions the directors succeeded in obtaining the necessary assistance from the Corporation of London, who became shareholders to the extent of £200,000.

The capital of the company consists of £850,000, in shares of £10 each: of this amount £200,000 is held by the Corporation, £175,000 by the Great Western Railway Company, and the remainder by the general public. The contractors are Messrs. Smith and Knight, and Mr. Jay, both firms being well known in connection with works of this description. Messrs. Smith and Knight are constructing the western portion of the line from Paddington to Euston-square, and Mr. Jay the eastern portion from Euston-square to Farringdon street.

We are informed that early in May a grand demonstration will be made at the Paddington station to inaugurate the commencement of this undertaking, which, as it regards its bearing on the comfort and prosperity of this great metropolis, is second to none in interest and importance.

GOVERNMENT STEAM-TUG FOR INDIAN RIVERS.

With a view to the effective development of the navigation of Indian rivers a commission was appointed in 1857 to visit the principal European rivers for the purpose of collecting information as to the class of steam-boat best adapted to shallow waters. The commission consisted of Major (now Colonel) Crawford, of the Indian Engineers; Capt. Balfour, of the Indian Navy; and T. B. Winter, Esq., M.I.C.E. Having thoroughly investigated their subject, the commission recommended the adoption of vessels of the peculiar character shown by our Engraving, and which may be popularly designated "spoonshaped," from the tapering curved form, and the absence of keel, cutwater, or any other projecting surface. Subsequently to the reception of the report, Mr. T. B. Winter, the engineer member of the commission, was officially directed to prepare detailed plans and specifications for building these tug-boats.

The Illustration represents the first specimen of these vessels, recently launched from the yard of Messrs. Laird, Sons, and Co., of Birkenhead, and intended to be used in towing barges upon the River Ganges.

The principal object in view has been to obtain exceedingly light draught, combined with great strength and sufficient power to overcome the rapid currents of Indian rivers, which frequently run about five miles per hour. The engineer may be said to have succeeded in producing this vessel lightly at rest upon the water, seeing that, although she exceeds 230 feet in length, her draught is only two feet with her engines, boilers, fuel, and cargo aboard. This has been effected by the almost exclusive adoption of the puddled-steel, manufactured by the Mersey Steel and Iron Company, in the construction of her hull, in lieu of the iron ordinarily used in shipbuilding. In such rapidly-flowing rivers, abounding in cross currents, as are met with in India, great facility for steering becomes indispensable, for, should a vessel of this length not be thoroughly under control, she rides being run on some one of the numerous sandbanks, probably remaining there unrecoverable for many weeks. To provide against any such mishap very large rudders have usually been adopted; but these frequently become disused by coming in contact with the banks when swinging round the river's numerous sharp bends. Moreover, when towing barges, should the tug-steamer get foul of any obstacle ahead, the barge immediately behind is liable to run into the rudder, and considerable damage result from the collision.

Precaution has been taken to obviate the possibility of any such mishap in connection with the present vessel by the adoption of a novel description of steering apparatus, patented by Mr. A. Chaplin, of Glasgow, and somewhat resembling rising keels in principle, but not at an angle which experience has proved to be the most effective. These blades are each hinged in the vessel, and are so arranged that, while one is lowered into the water, the other rises out of it, and when they are at half stroke both are within the boat. Thus, when the starboard blade is down, the port blade is inboard, and, vice versâ, and when in a position equivalent to an ordinary rudder amidships, both blades are inboard. By this arrangement the whole steering apparatus is contained within the ship's own length, and consequently there is no rudder to "come to grief" under the circumstances pointed out above. Both ends of the steamer are fitted with these blades, which can be worked either conjointly or separately, and were found at a recent trial of the steamer to exercise the most perfect command over the vessel. The cabins, placed above the deck, are composed of Venetian panelling; and, for the purpose of securing perfect ventilation, fresh air is constantly supplied thereon by means of a fan driven by steam power. The vessel is fitted at each end with one of Brown's patent capstans, and is provided with remarkably heavy anchors and other ground tackle.

The following are the principal dimensions of the steamer, which it is not intended to use as a passenger-boat, but as a tug for the purpose of towing passenger and goods in barges:—Length on two-feet water-line, 230 ft.; ditto over all, 239 ft.; beam (moulded), 33 ft.; depth (ditto), 9 ft.; ditto to top of fore and aft arch girders, 14 ft.; draught of water, loaded, 2 ft.; displacement at two-feet draught, 352 tons; ditto per inch, at two-feet ditto, 18 tons; engines (nominal), 110 horse power; ditto (effective), 404 horse power.

In order to secure requisite strength two arch-girders have been introduced in the construction of the vessel, running fore and aft, and rising to a height of fourteen feet. These resemble in principle the girders by which the American river steamers have so long been successfully strengthened, but are much lighter in appearance from being made of steel. The American boats generally draw about five or six feet of water, but, two feet being the limit assigned in the present instance, Mr. Winter has had to surmount very considerable difficulty.

The engines, which have been so arranged that either paddle-wheel can be worked quite distinctly from the other (thus enabling the vessel to be steered by her wheels alone in the event of any derangement occurring to the steering gear), are a pair of horizontal cylinders, 38½ inches diameter and 6 feet stroke, working about 50 strokes per minute; the diameter of the paddle-wheels being 21 feet, in order that the engines may be under the most perfect control in those frequent emergencies attending the navigation of Indian rivers they have been constructed to drive the paddles only—the air-pump, feed and bilge pumps, &c., being worked by auxiliary donkey-engines, an arrangement which has been practically found to afford greater working facilities than the ordinary plan of doing all the work of a vessel by the one pair of engines. This principle is being adopted on board the four new Atlantic steamers now in course of construction for the Galway mail-packet service.

Both the hull and machinery of this novel vessel have been built by Messrs. Laird, Sons, and Co., of Birkenhead, to drawings prepared by T. B. Winter, Esq., consulting marine engineer, of No. 28, Moorgate-street, to whom the Council of India intrusted the practical carrying out of the report of the official commission by placing the construction of this light draught steamer under his immediate supervisor.

STEAM-TUG FOR INDIAN RIVERS.

At the recent trial-trip on the Mersey the vessel ran above twelve miles per hour alone, and afterwards towed the powerful tug-boat Fire King nine miles per hour, with her wheels kept standing and dragging through the water. The Fire King was next made to use her full steam power against the new steam-tug; but with this amount of resistance, added to the great friction of the vessel's large flat bottom, she towed the other boat nearly six miles per hour. This was a very satisfactory experiment, inasmuch as it has often been questioned whether steamers of such exceedingly light draught as the vessel now described would prove efficient tugs. The Fire King is one of the best ordinary tugs of the port of Liverpool, and her floats had a deep hold on the water during the experiment. The generally successful results achieved on the trial of this new description of light-draught steamer justify belief that their introduction on the various rivers of India will prove a most serviceable addition to the existing means of conveying troops and stores.

THE FARM.

THE Royal Agricultural Society will be shortly in the predicament of a Paris, deciding which, not of three, but of four, beauties is to win the golden apple of its 1861 favours. Independently of York having had the meeting only twelve years ago, and Hull being so completely in a seabound corner of the county, there seems to be a strong feeling in Yorkshire that the mighty West Riding is entitled to priority this time, and that the contest will ultimately rest between Leeds and Doncaster, the latter the favourite for choice. Sheffield does not even send in a claim, but is naturally very anxious that its neighbour Doncaster should be the chosen one, in order that it may pour in its thousands by train to the Town Moor on "the shilling," as it does annually on the St. Leger, day. It appears that Doncaster can offer seventy-five acres of light land for the trial of implements and steam ploughs, close to the showyard; and that, if heavy land is wanted, another corporation estate about a mile off is available. This advantage of concentration is one which the society have scarcely ever had presented to them before, and upon it, as well as their railway facilities, leviathan station, and boundless inn and lodging conveniences, the Doncastrians take their stand. The required £1500 guarantee is being very quickly made up; but they hope soon to say "that £2000 is at the service of the society, and that the local expenses, as well as those of the committee, will be defrayed." Leeds has gone to work in earnest as regards the guarantee, and about that there will, of course, be no difficulty; but its Yorkshire rivals declare that Woodhouse Moor is not easily accessible; that, according to the reports of its own newspapers, its inn accommodation is wretched; that with regard to railways it is placed in a cul de sac; and that "its atmosphere would not be congenial for our country cousins," who are, moreover, rather jealous that an agricultural meeting should be held in such a purely manufacturing district. However, "the capital of the West Riding" must be very confident in its ability to satisfy the committee of inspection on all these points, or it would hardly have put forward its claim so strongly. Such is the momentous question which has to be decided by the council in Hanover-square on May 2.

There never was such a mixing up of Shakspeare and shorthorns in the minds of the visitors to the good town of Stratford-upon-Avon as there was Wednesday week, when Mr. Adkins of Milcote's herd was dispersed into all lands, under Mr. Strafford's ruthless glass. Mr. Adkins is well known as one of the very best farmers in Warwickshire, and the fame of his herd rested on their Knightley and "Arbuthnot-Charmer" blood, along with very fine dairy qualities, a combination of excellence which fully accounts for the splendid average of £61 18s. for the fifty-one lots. Of this, the thirty-seven females made £66 17s., and the fourteen males £48 15s. The Dukes of Devonshire and Sutherland, Lords Dartmouth and Willoughby de Broke, and Messrs. Langston, M.P., Bramston, M.P., Oliver, Howard, Ayres, &c., were among the purchasers; and Messrs. Wells, Hailes, Tracey, and Noakes kept up the "Kentish fire" pretty smartly, and took back eleven lots to their land of hopyards. Charmer 6th, a very beautiful heifer, fetched the head price, 160gs., after a spirited rally between her purchaser, Mr. Pawlett, the celebrated breeder of Leicesters, and Mr. Oliver, who is founding a new shorthorn herd at his residence near Towcester.

The Irish Farmer's Gazette avers that a heifer of a year and eleven days, which has been entered at the coming Dublin show, has produced a calf. It is to be hoped that she will come there with her infant prodigy at her side. Mr. Eastwood's famous roan cow Rosetta, so well known as a challenge-cup holder in the Irish showyards, and second at the Warwick Royal last year, has had a Royal Butterfly heifer calf; and the bull calf by the same royal winner from Frederick's Fidelity has been sold by Colonel Towneley for a long price. Precursor has also been let, which makes the eighth bull that has been sold or let from the Towneley herd since the beginning of the year. There is no lack of calves to make up the home numbers, as Pride, by Fourth Duke of York, has just produced a Royal Butterfly bull calf; and Rose of Towneley, who won the head fat cow prizes at Smithfield, Birmingham, and York last Christmas, has also proved in calf—a piece of luck which is never likely to befall Beauty's Butterfly. This beautiful white, to whose glories Punch tuned its lyre, has no more Christmas fat stock "worlds left to conquer," and, as her owner cannot bear to kill her, she is kept as a beautiful object for his park. Hopewell, one of the best bulls Mr. Richard Booth has had of late years, died a short time since. He has left only three calves at Warlaby—to wit, a roan bull calf from the handsome Chastity, a white bull calf from Campfollower, and a roan heifer calf from old Welcome.

THE INCOME TAX BILL.—This bill provides that there shall be charged, collected, and paid for one year, commencing on the 6th day of April, 1860, for and in respect of all property, profits, and gains mentioned or described as chargeable in the Act passed in the Session of Parliament held in the 16th and 17th years of her Majesty's reign, chap. 34, either by assessment, contract of composition, or otherwise, the following rates and duties upon the annual value or amount of any property, profits, or gains (except property, profits, and gains described as chargeable under schedule B of the said Act), the rate or duty of 10d. for every 20s. of the annual value or amount of all such property, profits, and gains respectively; and for and in respect of the occupation of lands, tenements, hereditaments, and heritages described as chargeable under schedule B of the said Act, the rate or duty of 5d. in England and 3½d. in Scotland and Ireland, respectively, for every 20s. of the annual value thereof.

FRAUDULENT TRADE MARKS.—A deputation from the manufacturing towns of the north, accompanied by Mr. Roebuck, M.P., Mr. Thomas Bazley, M.P., Mr. William Scholefield, M.P., and Mr. J. P. Brown Westhead, had an audience on Monday with Mr. Milner Gibson, at the Board of Trade, to complain of the practice of putting false labels upon goods. Mr. Brook, jun., referred especially to the custom of giving short lengths on reels of cotton, and handed to Mr. Gibson a reel of cotton marked as containing 100 yards, but in which there were only 45; and also reels marked 300 yards, but containing only 200 yards. Mr. Gibson asked if the law did not deal already with the short measures? Mr. Roebuck said, "Yes, but by a very roundabout process, and we wish to obtain an enactment enabling us to proceed summarily as a fraud." Mr. Ashworth said there were reels sold in which the maker's name was false, the length was false, and the quality was false. They could not ascertain who manufactured them. If they asked the dealer, he would say he did not know the length was short, as he never measured it, and he (Mr. Ashworth) thought this should be rendered compulsory. The question was not an insignificant one, involving two or three thousand pounds, but hundreds of thousands of pounds were invested in that trade. There was another branch in which this system was carried on; he referred to the jaconnots for lining coats; these were rolled up very tight, and tied in parcels labelled twenty or twenty-four yards, but in reality there were only eighteen yards; this was sometimes reduced even to a still lower number, and there was nothing to prevent its going on further. There was no individual remedy; therefore they came to the Government to ask them to make a law which would protect the honest trader. It was customary for many houses to give orders for goods purporting to be of certain lengths, but to contain a less quantity, and if one manufacturer did not do it another would. After some conversation, Mr. Roebuck said there was a man in America named Collins who had a great reputation for the axes he made; every one used Collins's axe, and the Birmingham manufacturers consequently made similar axes, which they stamped with the name of Collins, and sent to America for sale. This was done by every house in Birmingham, excepting three. It was then arranged that a draught of a bill should be prepared to be submitted to the law officers of the Crown with a view of meeting the case. The deputation, having thanked Mr. Milner Gibson, then withdrew.

A number of Armstrong guns which recently passed through the various descriptions of proof at the practice-range are now being shipped for Milford Haven, Pembroke, and other coast stations.

CHESS.

TO CORRESPONDENTS.

W. N., Walsall.—They are both defective; and even if correct would be much too simple to pass muster.

WHITE KNIGHT.—Ingenious; but White can force mate in three moves by 1. Kt to Q Kt 3rd. A remedy may, perhaps, be found in the addition of a Black Pawn at Black's Q R 5th.

W. PAVITT.—All imperfect. Better far to concentrate your attention on one position than diffuse it over so many.

PALAMEDES.—You have omitted a Black Kt at Q 4th, apparently, in Mr. Turton's problem. With that addition, the position forms a very clever four-move stratagem.

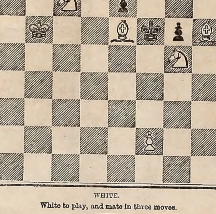
SARDINIAN, POTATOE STARCH.—Assuredly; what is the impediment to his doing so? He has not moved his King.

LIONEL.—The meeting of the British Chess Association is appointed, we believe, to be held at Cambridge this year.

A. ALFREDY, PONS.—Quoad problema, 839; you are right. Mate, as we subsequently mentioned, can not be accomplished in less than five moves.

M. P.—The new French chess periodical La Régence can now be obtained here, we are told, without difficulty or additional expense. The London publishers are Messrs. Barthes and Lowell, foreign booksellers, 14, Great Marlborough-street, Oxford street.

 Problems by J. B., of Bridport, W. Wrimshaw, Konrad. Bayer, A Swedish Amateur, W. Manners, T. Harrison, J. Gilbert. F. Deacon, G. M., White Knight, Palamedes, W. T. Pierce, J. B. Paige, C. Schnitzler, and Engreb, are received, with thanks.



SOLUTIONS OF PROBLEM No. 839, by Anna, Philo Chess, D. D., P.Q.R., A D., Max, Miles, A. Alfredy, Rifleman, P. S., Clayton, Fawcon, B. T., W. K., Iodine, M. P., Box and Cox, Lex, P. G., I H. S., Nemo, Northlands, Beeslack, F. N., Loch Libo, Nigel, R. W. G., Omicron, Pawn, Morden Hall, T. S., Delta, The Elephant, R. S., Malines, Parvulus, H. S., Alpha, Little Dorrit, Orlando, W. T. P., C. S., G. R. V., W. S. Pavitt, I. Gilbert, S. B. Y., W. A., B. K. E., C. Schnitzler, Paganini, R. D., Herbert, Medicus, Phiz, Bandog, Derevon, J. M. of Sherburn, H. R., Kalaf, F. S. A., R. S., Ma Ines, Engreb, T. D., M. E. S., Purfleet, Diggory, G. T. L., Vernon, Czar, W. P. T., I. P. M., S. C., B. L., Felix, Ducange, I. T. F., H. G. L., T. W. A., Reading, Larry, J. S., are correct. All others are wrong.

SOLUTIONS OF PROBLEM No. 840 by Lex, Miranda, I D., M. P., Medicus, I. W. of Sherburn, Diggory, H. T., Box and Cox, S. T., F. R. S., Herbert, Cookham, Engreb, T. W. G., Omicron, Anna, P. T., Sim, Paganini, B. W., M. D., Parvulus, O. P. Q., Delta, R. G. A., C. Schnitzler, Banbury, S. Pavitt, Dover. T. J. of Hanworth, Antiquary, Miles, A. Z., G. O., N. F. E., Mrs. Pillicoddy, I. R. W., John North, Beeslack, T. N. B., Orlando, G. M. D., Sawbones of Guy's, Rector, Northlands, Percy, S. M., Kalat, C. Schenin, I. Gilbert, C. E. B., T. F., Rifleman, Etoniensis, G. L. N., Scotia, C. W. St. George's Club, Max, Yankee, F. B., Peterkin, S. N., Mary, Sam Slick, Œdipus, An Old Subscriber, T. O. V., Histrion, A Clerk, T. W. G., Red-tape, Cecilia, A. B. C., Radulpho, Ernest, M. L. R., Nemo, Henry, E. D. W. Sidney, are correct. All others are wrong.

PROBLEM No. 842.

By J. B., of Bridport.

BLACK.

WHITE.

White to play, and mate in three moves.

CHESS IN RUSSIA.

An elegant little Partie played between Mr. Petroff, the chief player in Russia, and Mr. Hofmann (La Régence).

(Giuoco Piano).

WHITE (Mr. H.)	BLACK (Mr. P.)
1. P to K 4th	P to K 4th
2. Kt to K B 3rd	Kt to Q B 3rd
3. B to Q B 4th	B to Q B 4th
4. P to Q B 3rd	Kt to K B 3rd
5. P to Q 4th	P takes P
6. P to K 5th	Kt to K 5th

(The best move here is thought to be 6. P to Q 4th, but 6. Kt to K 5th leads to an animated game.)

WHITE (Mr. H.)	BLACK (Mr. P.)
7. B to Q 5th	Kt takes K B P
8. K takes Kt	P tks P (dis. ch)
9. K to Kt 3rd

(The play recommended by some of the chief authorities.)

WHITE (Mr. H.)	BLACK (Mr. P.)
9.	P takes P
10. Q B takes P	Kt to K 2nd
11. Kt to K Kt 5th	Kt takes B
12. Kt takes K B P	Castles

(This is very ingenious, and quite unlooked for.)

WHITE (Mr. H.)	BLACK (Mr. P.)
13. Kt takes Q

(An irresistible temptation.)

WHITE (Mr. H.)	BLACK (Mr. P.)
13.	B to K B 7th (ch)
14. K to R 3rd	P to Q 3 (dis. ch)
15. P to K 6th

(He would obviously have been mated on the move by Kt to K B 5th if he had interposed either the Queen or Pawn.)

WHITE (Mr. H.)	BLACK (Mr. P.)
15.	Kt to K B 5 (ch)
16. K to K Kt 4th	Kt takes K P
17. Kt takes Kt	B takes Kt (ch)
18. K to Kt 5th	R to K B 4th (ch)
19. K to Kt 4th	P to K R 4th (ch)
20. K to R 3rd	R to K B 6th (double ch and mate).

Between Messrs. DE RIVIERE and F. DEACON.

(King's Bishop's Opening.)

BLACK (Mr. F. D.)	WHITE (M. de R.)
1. P to K 4th	P to K 4th
2. B to Q B 4th	Kt to K B 3rd
3. P to K B 4th	P to Q 4th
4. P takes Q P	P to K 5th
5. P to Q 4th	Kt takes P
6. Q to K R 5th	P to Q B 3rd
7. Kt to Q B 3rd

(Q to K 5th (ch) would have been far better.)

BLACK (Mr. F. D.)	WHITE (M. de R.)
7.	B to Q Kt 5th
8. K Kt to K 2nd	Castles
9. Castles	Kt takes Kt
10. P takes Kt	B takes Q B P
11. B to Q R 3rd	P to K Kt 3rd
12. Q to K Kt 5th	B takes Q P (ch)
13. K to R sq	B takes R
14. B to K 7th	Q to Q 2nd
15. R takes B	R to K sq
16. B to K B 6th	Q to K B 4th
17. Q to K R 4th	Kt to Q 2nd
18. B to Q B 3rd	P to Q Kt 4th
19. Kt to K Kt 3rd	Q to Q B 4th
20. B tks K B P (ch)	K takes B
21. Q tks K R P (ch)	K to K 3rd
22. Kt takes K P	Q to K R 4th
23. Kt to K Kt 5 (ch)	K to Q 3rd
24. Q to K B 7th	R to K 2nd
25. B to K 5th (ch)	Kt takes B
26. Kt to K 4th (ch)	K to Q B 2nd
27. Q takes R (ch)	Kt to Q 2nd
28. Kt to K B 6th	Q to Q B 4th
29. Kt to K 8th (ch)	K to Kt sq
30. Kt to Q 6th	P to Q R 4th
31. Kt takes B	K takes Kt
32. Q to K 8th (ch)	K to Kt 2nd
33. Q takes Kt (ch)

And, owing to the lateness of the hour, the game was given up as a drawn battle.

CHESS ENIGMAS.

No. 1147.—By W. Grimshaw.

White: K at K R 8th, Bs at K Kt 5th and Q R 6th, Kts at K Kt 6th and K B 2nd, Ps at K Kt 2nd, K B 4th, K 3rd, and Q 2nd.
Black: K at K R 4th, Rs at Q B 3rd and 5th, Ps at K B 2nd, K 3rd, Q 4th, and Q B 2nd.

White to play, and mate in four moves.

No. 1148.—By J. Gilbert.]

White: K at K B 8th, R at K 3rd, Bs at K Kt 6th and K B 2nd, Kts at Q 6th and Q Kt 6th, Ps at K B 3rd and 5th.
Black: K at Q 5th, R at K B 5th, B at Q B 5th, Kt at Q Kt sq, P at Q 4th.

White, playing first, mates in four moves.

No. 1149.—By L'Anonyme de Lille (La Régence).

White: K at K R sq, R at K R 7th, B at Q B 5th, Kt at Q Kt 7th, Ps at K Kt 6th, K 7th, and Q R 5th.
Black: K at Q 2nd, Kt at Q Kt sq, Ps at Q B 3rd and Q R 3rd.

White to play, and mate in three moves.

CHESS MATCH BY TELEGRAPH BETWEEN MANCHESTER AND LIVERPOOL.

In the contest between these clubs a year ago Liverpool, it will be remembered, came off triumphantly by scoring three games to their opponents' one game. Last week the return battle was played, and Manchester amply redeemed its laurels by winning five games to one. The following are the names of the combatants and the detailed result of play:—

	Manchester.			Liverpool.
No. 1. Board	Mr. Kipping	(adj.)	versus	Mr. Schull	(adj.)
No. 2. "	Mr. Payne	0	"	Mr. Smith	1
No. 3. "	Mr. Wood	1	"	Mr. Sparke	0
No. 4. "	Mr. Pindar	1	"	Mr. Sinclair	0
No. 5. "	Mr. Gregson	1	"	Mr. Soul	0
No. 6. "	Mr. Hamel	1	"	Mr. Ashton	0
No. 7. "	Mr. Cohen	1	"	Mr. Steel	0
	Totals	5			1

EPITOME OF NEWS.—FOREIGN AND DOMESTIC.

The Queen and Prince Consort have consented to extend their patronage to a gala to be held in aid of the York charities in June.

The Queen has appointed Major-General Pringle Taylor, K.H., to be Lieutenant-Governor of the Island of Jamaica and its dependencies.

A special meeting of the Great Ship Company is called for the 13th inst., to confirm the special resolutions passed on the 6th ult.

Joseph Castle, convicted of the murder of his wife, at Luton, was hanged last Saturday in front of the County Prison, Bedford.

It is said that Goverement has prepared a bill for the abolition of the toll system of the country, by substituting an assessment.

The deliveries of tea in London estimated for last week were 898,084lb., a decrease of 7344lb., compared with the previous statement.

The proposed reduction in the duties on sugar, coffee, and cocoa, in France, will, it is calculated, diminish the customs receipts by 53,000,000f.

A French scientific mission, lately sent to Abyssinia, found civil war raging in the country; and in consequence, after incurring some risk, it had retired to Aden.

The Emperor of Austria has published an ordonnance intended to promote the cultivation of tobacco in Hungary, Croatia, Transylvania, the Waivodine, and the Banat.

The Abbé Huc, formerly a missionary in China and Thibet, and well known for his excellent work on this last-named country, has just died in Paris, after a short illness.

Reckoning exports and imports, and including specie of all kinds, the external trade of Great Britain may probably now be estimated at £400,000,000 sterling per annum.

The Tuscan Government has decreed that all property in mortmain shall be redeemable at the cost of a capital bearing interest equal to the annual value of the property.

The opening of the Liverpool New Free Public Library, erected at the sole expense of Mr. William Brown, late M.P. for South Lancashire, has been fixed to take place in October next.

Mr. William Jack, B.A., of St. Peter's College, Cambridge, and Mr. John Kerr, B.A., of Trinity College in the same University, have been appointed assistant inspectors of schools in Scotland.

Owing to the expense and liability to injury of submarine cables, the Mersey Dock Board have agreed to construct a portion of the Holyhead cable, between Lynas and Colwin, over the land.

At the Thames Police Court yesterday week a boy named Hall, in the service of a tradesman in Stepney, was sent to prison for fourteen days for wanton cruelty to his master's cart-horse.

At Sheffield, on Thursday week, the non-commissioned officers and privates of the 84th Regiment were each presented with a knife of first-rate quality by Alderman Robert Jackson, the Master Cutler.

The Queen has approved of Mr. Henry Rostand as Consul in the Mauritius for the Sublime Ottoman Porte; and of Don Mariano de la Roca as Consul at Gibralta for the Queen of Spain.

The pulpit in which Jeremy Taylor used to preach is now in the library of the Bishop of Down and Connor, at the Palace, Holywood; having been placed there by his Lordship's worthy predecessor, Bishop Mant.

The Photographic Society has obtained, by arrangement with the Council of King's College, the use of apartments in Somerset House. The meetings of the Society will, in future, take place in that locality.

The reception of Father Lacordaire as a member of the French Academy will take place in May. M. Guizot will reply to the address of the new Academician.

Sir John Lawrence, owing to illness in his family, was unable to visit Glasgow on Tuesday, for the purpose of being presented with the freedom of the city.

The widow of Captain Testu, late of the 49th Regiment, who was killed by an unfortunate accident on the Lyons Railway in August last, when the regiment was on its way home from Italy to the St. Maur Camp, has recovered from the company 70,000f. damages.

It is announced that the railway from Bolougne to Calais is shortly to be commenced, and is to be concluded as quickly as possible. It is to unite with the Paris and Calais Railway at Pont de Briques, in the Pas de Calais.

At the Guildhall, yesterday week, Mr. Stapley, a farmer, and Mr. Chesterfield, a butcher, both living in Lincolnshire, were committted for trial on a charge of sending a large quantity of putrid meat to the London market.

In the budget of the Marine Department of France, now before the Council of State, a credit of 130,000f. for maritime pisciculture—that is, the artificial breeding of fish on the coasts—has for the first time been introduced.

The English Government, according to a telegram from Berlin, has required the Hanoverian Cabinet, which was raising fresh difficulties respecting the redemption of the Stade dues, to state its requirements on or before the 14th of May.

The quarantine of three days' observation on vessels arriving from British ports has been removed by the Local Board of Health at Malaga, and such vessels will henceforth be admitted to free pratique immediately on arrival.

In the Sheriff's Court, on Thursday week, the jury assessed the damages sustained by Miss Paxton, a niece of Sir Joseph Paxton, at £300 in consequence of a breach of promise of marriage by the Rev. Henry Robinson, Chaplain to the Forces at Walmer.

Advices from Alexandria of the 19th ult., state that Sulieman Pacha died very suddenly some days before. He had been smoking with some friends, when his head dropped. They believed him asleep, but, on trying to rouse him soon afterwards, found it was the sleep of death.

The Prince of Orange has presented Mr. Henry Dykes, traffic-superintendent of the Bristol and Exeter Railway, with a gold goblet, as an acknowledgment of the attention shown to his Royal Highness on the occasion of his recent journey from Ramsgate to Torquay.

At a recent meeting of the Apiarian Society, the secretary described the successful introduction into this country of the Apis Ligustica, or Ligurian bee, a distinct species from the ordinary honey bee. It is regarded as of great value as an abundant honey-collector.

Henceforward book packets addressed to Gottenburg may be forwarded by the Swedish mail-packets from Hull at the following rates of postage:—Not exceeding 4 oz., 3d.; under 8 oz., 6d.; under 1lb., 1s.; and every additional half-pound or fraction of half-pound, 6d.

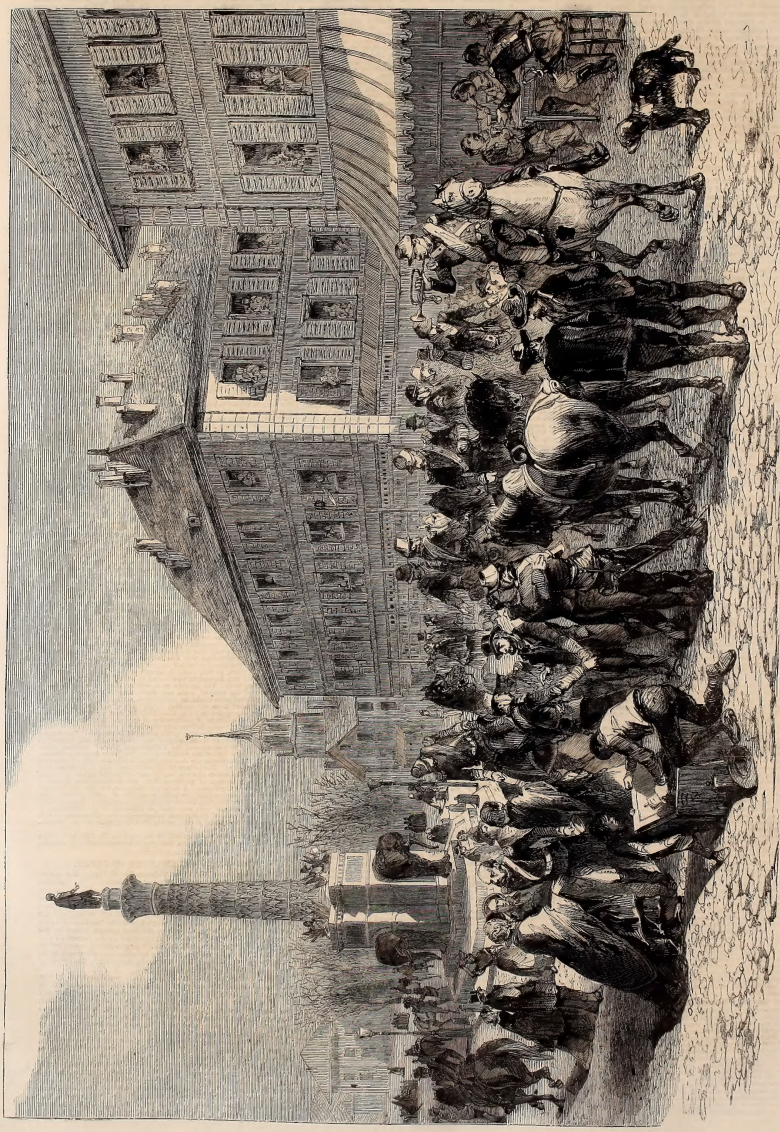
The French Government has accorded a silver medal to a customs officer named Stromsten, of Porto, in Finland, for having displayed great courage in saving the captain and crew of the French merchant ship the Perignon, of Rouen, wrecked near Borga, in that province.

The visitors to the South Kensington Museum last week numbered, 10,326. On Monday, Tuesday, and Saturday (free days) there were 4256; on Monday and Tuesday (free evenings), 4589. On the three students' days (admission to the public 6d.), 1380; students' evening (Wednesday), 401.

The Governments of Prussia and Nassau last month signed a convention relative to the construction of two railways—the first from Cologne, by Gressen to Weitzlar; and the second from the fortress of Ehrenbreitstein to Weitzlar, along the valley of the Lahn. The works are to begin immediately.

The report of the Berwick-upon-Tweed Election Committee declares that Mr. Marjoribanks has been duly elected, that extensive bribery prevailed at the last election, but that it was not committed with the sanction or authority of Mr. Marjoribanks, or of Mr. Hodgson, the Conservative candidate.

"Since the conclusion of the treaty of commerce with England," says the Journal du Havre, "agents of London firms have been visiting our vineyards to purchase wines and brandies. In Provence and Languedoc alone purchases already exceed the sum of 20,000,000f., and at Cognac 15,000 hectolitres of brandy have been bought."



From recent inspection of the works of the Northern High Level Sewer, both at Old Ford and along the line, we are able to state (says the Builder) that fully three-fourths of the contract work are completed, and there will be no difficulty in finishing the remainder within a period of about two months after the time originally named.

In the late Marquis of Waterford's will, the words "To my brother, Lord John Beresford, and to his children in succession," occurring in one place, and in another, "To my brother, Lord John Beresford, and his children in succession," has given rise to considerable litigation; no less than four different constructions being contended for on behalf of the different parties interested.

A bazaar on an extensive scale, and under very high patronage, is to take place at the Athenæum, Cork, on her Majesty the Queen's birthday, the 24th of May next, for the benefit of the orphan girls of sailors and marines belonging to the Cork district who lost their lives at Lucknow under the late gallant Sir Wm. Peel; and in China under Sir Michael Seymour and the Hon. Sir Wm. Keppel.

ENTRY OF THE FRENCH TROOPS INTO SAVOY.—SEE PAGE 342.

DEPARTURE OF THE PIEDMONTESE GARRISON FROM CHAMBERY.—SEE NEXT PAGE.

CHAMBERY, SAVOY.

The pretty town of Chambéry is the first town in Savoy passed by travellers on their way from France to Italy viâ Grenoble. During the late Italian campaign vast numbers of the French troops, first of all conveyed to Lyons, subsequently passed through this place, whence they proceeded by rail to St. Jean de Maurienne.

Chambéry is situated at the distance of ninety miles north-west of Turin. It contains nearly 16,000 inhabitants, is an archbishopric, and possesses a College of Jesuits, an academical society, an agricultural society, a museum, library, &c. Its commerce has not hitherto been very important, but it is likely to improve under the new régime, especially as it will shortly be more than ever on the high road to Italy, communication with which must necessarily become more frequent when the railway passing under the Alps (now in course of execution) shall be completed.

Chambéry is a modern town. From the twelfth to the thirteenth century it was the chef-lieu of a private lordship, and was subsequently (1232) ceded to Thomas I., Count of Savoy. From 1792 to 1815 it belonged to France, and was the capital of the department of Mont Blanc. As forming a part of the present French empire it will still preserve its dignity by becoming the capital of a new department, and, consequently, the seat of an important local and municipal administration.

ENTRY OF THE FRENCH TROOPS INTO SAVOY.

On the 25th of March the French troops commenced their advance into Savoy by the way of Susa and Mont Cenis, the march over which was not one of the most delightful, as the snow at this season is still remaining. Upon the 80th Regiment of the Line was conferred the honour of proceeding to the peaceful though military occupation of the annexed province—an occupation which, if we may judge by the cordial reception the French troops met with from the inhabitants, was equally flattering to both parties.

Our Illustration represents the arrival of the first battalion of the regiment at Lans-le-Bourg, a small place on the plateau at the foot of Mont Cenis, and which is approached by a bridge over the River Arc, at this time of year only a shallow stream, but which frequently becomes a rapid current when the melting of the snows takes place.

A great number of the inhabitants and peasants from the neighbouring districts, in some cases accompanied by their priest, awaited the arrival of the battalion, gaily headed by its hirsute drum-major, at the entrance to Lans-le-Bourg, where the Imperial troops halted. The next day they proceeded to Modane, thence to St. Jean de Maurienne, arriving by railway at Chambéry on Thursday, the 29th ult. At the station the soldiers of the army of Italy were received with great enthusiasm, amidst repeated cries of "Vive la France!" "Vive l'Empéreur!" and other exclamations favourable to the new order of things; and in the evening the town of Chambéry was illuminated in honour of its new garrison, and to celebrate the addition of this ancient jewel of the house of Savoy to the Imperial Crown of France.

DEPARTURE OF THE PIEDMONTESE GARRISON FROM CHAMBERY.

The Piedmontese garrison left Chambéry on the 26th of March. The troops mustered on the Place in marching costume, and at one o'clock started for the railway. A large number of people had flocked to witness the departure of the soldiers, whose uniform good behaviour had obtained for them the highest respect of the population. Between the coming of one garrison and the leaving of another a feeling of delicacy prevented anything like an extraordinary demonstration taking place while the Piedmontese soldiers were about to leave. The popular bearing was, at the same time, dignified and respectful.

Our Engraving shows the troops assembled on the Place previously to their proceeding to the railway which was to convey them to St. Jean de Maurienne, whence they were to proceed by regular daily marches to the other side of the Alps.

On the departure of the soldiers of Victor Emmanuel the town of Chambéry was given up to the care of the National Guard till the arrival, on the 29th, of the Imperial troops of the 80th Regiment of the Line, which was the signal for a grand demonstration: the French tricolor was hoisted in all directions; the band accompanying the battalion played "Partant pour la Syrie;" and the campaigners from Italy marched into their fresh quarters amidst the apparently-cordial congratulations of their new fellow-countrymen.

The Metropolitan Tollgate Question.—Just at the close of the Session of 1857 Lord Palmerston, in the House of Commons, and Earl Granville, in the House of Peers, promised that the Government should put themselves, as soon as possible, in communication with the metropolitan road trustees, with the view of removing some of the toll nuisances in the metropolis, Earl Granville observing that the difficulties which had arisen since the Earl of Lonsdale's improvements were increasing instead of diminishing. After three vacations, and the issue of a report of the Royal commission, the Under Secretary of State, Mr. Clive, in answer to a question from Mr. Duncombe, very coolly stated, on the 20th ult., that, though the Government were in communication with the road commissioners, he did not see any probability of a bill being introduced this Session. The resolution of the House of Commons for a Royal commission was passed on the 12th of May, 1858; and the commission was issued under Lord Derby's Administration on the 2nd of July, 1858. The report was made on the 12th of July, 1859. The Metropolis Roads Commission has a direct interest with the parishes in delaying the matter; and it is not fair for the Home Office to wait year by year and month by month for its opinions. Contrast these slow movements with the Dublin case. A Royal commission was (voluntarily) issued in 1854; reported on the same year; a bill was introduced and passed the next year, and its operation commenced in January, 1856. Now all the turnpikes are down. Red tape and vested interests seem to have influence to procrastinate this matter in London; but no one knows better than Sir George Lewis that a coercive measure is essential in this as in all metropolitan improvements; and it is, therefore, to be hoped that he will not allow his department to add to the difficulties which Lord Granville three years ago complained were not diminishing. A Minister ought to arrest the progress of evil, and not blindly let it run on gaining in strength. This was the case with the Thames, and the metropolis might have been poisoned because the difficulties of effecting the purification of the river were not vigorously grappled with. Let the toll question rest a few months more, and the gates on the Middlesex side will be again let by auction under Lord Lonsdale's commission, for the benefit of road-surveyors and toll-farmers, and the nuisance across such public thoroughfares as the City-road and Islington High-street will continue another year; and official sloth will thus offer a premium for the rapid resurrection of "Rebecca" in the metropolis. The fathers of both Sir George Lewis, the Home Secretary, and Mr. Clive, the Under Secretary of the Home Department, were commissioners on the Rebecca riots, and those tumults did more to settle the pike question in South Wales than twenty years of remonstrance and complaint. Can it be that Lord Palmerston's Government has a Chancellor of the Exchequer able to grapple with all the difficulties of customs, dues, and duties between England and France; and a Home Secretary who cannot stand his ground against a solitary London pikeman? But this is assuming that Sir George Lewis will not exert himself at all; and this hypothesis may certainly be unfair, because we find that a memorial was sent to him within the past month from 407 companies, merchants, brewers, manufacturers, and professional men; and, on a request being made to him to receive a deputation, he postponed the interview until his bill was circulated, which he stated he would shortly be prepared to introduce. Supposing Kennington gate, which has occasioned so much complaint as a nuisance and obstruction on the Derby Day, were to be demolished by a quarrelsome mob, who would be to blame—the Government for permitting such things, or the people who took the law into their own hands? If any one will undertake to calculate the vexations, losses, and accidents this gate causes he would prove a case in justification of such a mode of removal.

Artists' General Benevolent Institution.—The annual festival of this society was held last Saturday at the Freemasons' Tavern,—the Right Hon. W. E. Gladstone in the chair—and the number of gentlemen present was about 200. The company included Sir Charles Eastlake, Sir R. Murchison, Earl Stanhope, Charles Landseer, T. Creswick, F. Taylor, Mr. G. Hurlstone, and many other celebrities connected with the artistic world. According to the report, the income of the institution, which was founded in 1814, amounted last year to £1893, and the sum of £1028 was distributed during that period among the widows and orphans of deceased artists. Mr Gladstone received a most cordial welcome. His speech, on proposing the special toast of the evening, elicited fervent applause. He dwelt feelingly on the position of those whom it was the object of the institution to assist, and eloquently enlarged upon the elevating influences of art, the characteristics of its professors, and their peculiar claims on the sympathy and appreciation of the public. A variety of toasts were, in the course of the evening, proposed and acknowledged. The subscriptions, in the aggregate, amounted to about £750.

OBITUARY OF EMINENT PERSONS.

THE EARL OF LONGFORD.

The Right Honourable William Lygon Pakenham, second Earl of Longford, and Baron of Longford, in the Peerage of Ireland, and Baron Silchester, of Silchester, in the county of Southampton, in the Peerage of the United Kingdom, was the eldest son of Thomas, the first Earl, by his wife, Georgiana Emma Charlotte, daughter of William, first Earl Beauchamp, and was nephew of the late gallant Generals, Sir Edward Michael Pakenham, G.C.B., and Sir Hercules Robert Pakenham, K.C.B., and of the Hon. Henry Pakenham, present Dean of St. Patrick's, and Registrar of the Order of St. Patrick; and one of his aunts was the late Duchess of Wellington, wife of the great Duke. He was born the 30th of October, 1817, and, having entered the British service, became a Captain of the 2nd Life Guards in 1848, and a Major in 1859. He succeeded to the family honours on the 24th of May, 1835, at the demise of his father. His own death occurred on the 27th ult.; and, as he was never married, the succession devolves on his next brother, William Lygon Pakenham, now third Earl of Longford, who was born the 31st of January, 1819, and who is a Colonel in the Army, a C.B., and a Knight of the Legion of Honour.

LADY STRATHEDEN.

The Right Hon. Mary Elizabeth Baroness Stratheden in her own right, and Lady Campbell by marriage, whose lamented death occurred, after a brief illness, at Stratheden House, Kensington gore, on the 25th ult., was the elder daughter (by his first wife, Louisa Henrietta, daughter of Peter Campbell, Esq., of Kilmorey, in the county of Argyle) of Sir James Scarlett, a famous advocate, who, after filling the offices of Attorney-General and Lord Chief Baron of the Exchequer, was, on the 12th of January, 1835, created Baron Abinger, and died on the 7th of April, 1844. Her Ladyship was also the sister of the present Lord Abinger, of Major-General the Hon. Sir James Yorke Scarlett, K.C.B., of the distinguished diplomatist the Hon. Peter Campbell Scarlett, C.B., and of the Hon. Lady Currey. Lady Stratheden was married, on the 8th of September, 1821, to the able lawyer, statesman, and writer, John Campbell, then a barrister of the Oxford Circuit, and now Lord Chancellor of England. In 1836, on the 22nd of January, while her husband was Attorney-General, her Ladyship was created a peeress in her own right as Baroness Stratheden, of Cupar, in the county of Fife, with remainder to her heirs male by her husband, Sir John Campbell. In 1841, on the 30th of June, Sir John Campbell, then Lord Chancellor of Ireland, was himself created Baron Campbell. His wife, Lady Stratheden, leaves issue by him three sons and four daughters; two of the latter are married—viz., the eldest, the Hon. Louisa Madeline, the wife of the Rev. W. S. White, M.A., of the Brae, Rector of Potter Hanworth, Lincolnshire, and the Hon. Edena, the wife of the Rev. W. A. Duckworth, Rector of Puttenham, Surrey. Lady Stratheden is succeeded by her eldest son, William Frederick, now Baron Stratheden, who was born on the 15th of October, 1824, and who, by this inheritance, becomes a senior peer to his father, Lord Campbell, the barony of Campbell being of later creation than that of Stratheden. Should, therefore, Lord Campbell cease to be Lord Chancellor, his son, Lord Stratheden, will take precedence of him, unless, indeed, so anomalous a circumstance be prevented by the promotion of the eminent Chancellor to a higher title in the peerage, such as a viscounty or an earldom.

The Baroness Stratheden descended, through her father, from an ancient family in the eastern counties, who possessed landed estates and manors in Norfolk and on the borders of Essex and Suffolk, from the fourteenth down to the end of the seventeenth century, when one branch of the family settled in the island of Jamaica. The great grandfather of the deceased Peeress, James Scarlett, Esq., had numerous landed estates, and acquired a large fortune in Jamaica. Baroness Stratheden's grandfather, Robert Scarlett, Esq., of Duckett's Spring and Cambridge estates, in Jamaica, married the great-granddaughter of Henry Laurence, President of Cromwell's Council after he became Protector, a family of great antiquity and reputation in England, whose lineal ancestor, Sir John Laurence, was knighted at Acre by Richard I. Lady Stratheden's mother was the second daughter of Peter Campbell, Esq., of Kilmorey, in Argyle, a descendant of the distinguished Highland family of Auchinleck. Mr. Campbell, of Kilmorey, inherited a Scotch estate at Lochgilhead, in the county of Argyle, still in the possession of the family, and belonging now to Sir John Orde, Bart., who married Mrs. Campbell's granddaughter, Eliza Campbell. Mr. Campbell had also several large properties, yielding a great income, in Jamaica, which were subsequently sold, for little value, to Mr. Gladstone, the father of the present Chancellor of the Exchequer.

SIR C. MONTALIEU LAMB, BART.

Sir Charles Montalieu Lamb, second Baronet, of Burville, in the county of Berks, and Knight Marshal of the Household, was the eldest son (by his second wife, Anne, third daughter of Lieutenant-Colonel Montalieu, Baron of St. Hypolite) of Sir James Bland Burges, M.P. for Helstone, and an author of note, who was appointed Under Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs in 1789, and who in 1795 was made Knight Marshal, with remainder to his son, and was on the 31st of October of the same year created a Baronet. Sir James in 1821 assumed by sign manual the surname of Lamb only, and the arms of Lamb quarterly with those of Burges. His eldest son, and successor at his death, Oct. 13, 1824, Sir Charles Montalieu Lamb, the subject of this notice, was born July 8, 1785, and was for some years Lieutenant-Colonel of the Ayrshire Yeomanry. He married, first, Jan. 28, 1815, Mary, Dowager Lady Montgomerie, daughter and coheir of Archibald, eleventh Earl of Eglinton, by whom (who died June 12, 1848) he had an only child, Charles James Savile Montgomerie, who married, and died in 1856, leaving two sons and two daughters. Sir Charles married, secondly, Oct. 28, 1853, Frances, eldest daughter of the Rev. William Margesson, of Van and Oakhurst, Rector of Watlington and Vicar of Mountfield, Sussex, by Mary Frances, his wife, eldest daughter of Bryan Cooke, Esq., of Owston, in the county of York, and Gwnysaney, in the county of Flint. By this second marriage Sir Charles has no issue. His place of Knight Marshal was made certain by appointment the 30th of January, 1825. He died on the 21st ult., and is succeeded by the son of his only child, his grandson, now Sir Archibald Lamb, who is the elder son of the late Charles James Savile Montgomerie Lamb, Esq., by his wife, Anna Charlotte, eldest daughter of Arthur Grey, Esq., of Bersted, Sussex, and who is in his fifteenth year. This family of Lamb, formerly Burges, a name derived from Bruges, in Flanders, fixed its abode near Reading temp. Henry VII. The immediate ancestor of the present Baronet was Colonel Roger Burges, a brave and devoted Cavalier, who repulsed Cromwell himself at Faringdon, who was taken prisoner at Naseby, and who afterwards defended Guernsey for the King when every other Royalist garrison had submitted, and who only surrendered, on honourable terms, when the battle of Worcester made further resistance hopeless.

Lord Fitzgerald and Vesey died on the 30th ult., at Annesfort, in the county of Cavan.

The Countess Dowager of Elgin died on Sunday, at Paris, after a protracted illness.

Colonel William Mure, of Caldwell, author of "The Critical History of the Language and Literature of Ancient Greece," and one of the most learned and accomplished scholars of the present age, died on the 1st inst., after an illness of some months' duration. The gallant and learned Colonel was in his sixty-second year.

Erratum.—In the notice of the late Sir Peter Buckworth Herne Soame, Bart., his brother John was stated to have been Vicar of East Hendred, instead of his uncle John, who was the Vicar. Sir Peter's brother John is his successor, and is now Sir John Buckworth Soame, the eighth and present Baronet.

SCIENTIFIC NEWS.

Of the Bombay Medical and Physical Society's Transactions number 4 has just arrived in England. It contains valuable information for persons about to go to India. We would specify the Chemical Notes of Professor Haines, including analyses of the waters; and a series of nine Medico-Topographical Reports by the civil and military surgeons of the Presidency. The appendix contains accounts of a number of cases of coup-de-soleil, snake-bites, &c.

Section of Angles.—In this month's Photographical Magazine Mr. Thomas Tate gives an engraving with a description of his new instrument for the mechanical trisection and multisection of an angle. It is of simpler construction than the instrument invented by Professor Christie, and is considered by Mr. Tate to be more accurate.

Mr. Darwin's Hypothesis "on the Origin of Species" is further discussed in the April numbers of the Annals of Natural History, and of the Westminster, British Quarterly, Medico-Chirurgical Reviews.

Dr. John Davy (brother of the celebrated chemist) has communicated to the Edinburgh New Philosophical Journal some miscellaneous observations containing details of experiments relating to the following interesting subjects:—1. The tadpole; the nature of the jelly surrounding the ovum for its nourishment and protection; the vitality of the tadpole in raised temperatures, in salt water, &c. 2. The new-laid egg. 3. The growth of birds—viz., the martin, the common fowl, the turkey, and the goose, under certain modes of nutrition. 4. The specific gravity of birds—viz., the martin, water-ouzel, snipe, wood-owl, merlin-hawk, and wren; and, 5. The stomach of the fish, in relation to digestion—the salmon-trout and dog-fish being taken as examples.

The Mammoth Tree (Wellingtonea gigantea) of California, the largest and most magnificent tree known on the face of the earth, averaging three hundred feet in height and ninety feet in circumference, is described and figured by Mr. Andrew Murray, in his "Notes on Californian Trees," in the new number of the Edinburgh New Philosophical Journal.

New Planet.—M. Luther, writing from Bilk on the 25th of March last, announces his discovery of a new planet of the eleventh magnitude, at 11 p.m. on the preceding night. This planet will be the fifty-eighth of the group.—Cosmos.

The Mycetozoa.—Professor A. De Bary, of Freiburg, in an interesting paper translated in the Annals of Natural History for April, describes the above-mentioned group of microscopical organisms, and endeavours to prove them close allies of the Rhizopoda, and therefore members of the animal kingdom. Magnified specimens are figured in an engraving.

Luminosity of Meteors.—Mr. R. Greg, in the Philosophical Magazine, endeavours to prove that meteors do not derive their luminosity from solar reflexion, as Sir J. Lubbock and others suppose, and promises to give his observations on the probable cause at a future time.

The Snail Leech (Glossiphonia emarginata) found in Scotland by Sir J. Dalyell, and described by him in his "Power of the Creator Displayed" as Hirudo flava, has been found in Bala Lake, and also in a small stream in Warwickshire, by the Rev. W. Houghton, and is described by him in the Annals of Natural History.

ROYAL INSTITUTION LECTURES.

Professor Tyndall's concluding lecture "On Light" was given on Thursday, last week, when the consideration of the beautiful phenomena of polarised light was resumed and illustrated by experiments. It was shown that some crystals of quartz possess the property of turning the plane of polarisation to the right and some to the left, and that these exhibit complementary colours. Professor Faraday found that the plane of polarisation may be caused to rotate by means of electricity and magnetism. This was shown. A piece of heavy glass (silicated borate of lead) was placed between the poles of an electro-magnet, unconnected with the Voltaic battery. A polarised ray of light was sent through the glass, and the apparatus so turned that the ray was extinguished and no light appeared on the screen. On the magnetic action being excited by contact with the battery, so as to magnetise the glass, the light reappeared, and remained so long as contact continued, but vanished when contact was broken. These phenomena were repeated at pleasure. The nature of the solar spectrum was then further discussed. It is constituted of three series of rays:—1, those exciting heat and not light; 2, those exciting both light and heat; and 3, those which produce chemical action. Dr. Tyndall showed how the chemical rays, though obscure, may be rendered luminous by being thrown upon certain substances, especially uranium glass and a solution of sulphate of quinine. The lecture was concluded by an exhibition and explanation of the brilliant phenomena produced by the electrical light in Mr. Gassiot's vacuum-bulbs, phosphorescent-tubes, &c. The tubes of uranium glass, an induction-coil, and other apparatus employed were kindly brought by Mr. Ladd, of Chancery-lane, who also assisted in the manipulation.

The Friday Evening Discourse (on Acids and Salts) was delivered by Dr. William Odling, F.R.S., Sec. Chem. Soc.—Lord Wensleydale in the chair. The lecturer considered that the theoretical views which had sufficed to associate and explain the chemical relations of mineral bodies had completely failed with regard to organic bodies, and were, consequently, displaced by others of a more comprehensive character. It was natural, therefore, to inquire whether these new views, which were essential for the interpretation of the phenomena of organic chemistry, might not throw some additional light upon the simpler phenomena of mineral chemistry, and especially upon the constitution and correlation of the mineral acids and their salts. The doctrine of series affirmed that chemical compounds might be arranged in series, the successive members of each of which differed from one another in composition by a common increment; and that this relation of composition was nearly always associated with a relation of properties, the exact nature of which varies with the nature of the increment. The doctrine of substitution affirmed that in very many bodies one or more elementary atoms might be displaced by some other atoms or groupings, and that the bodies resulting from this displacement correspond in constitution with the normal bodies from which they were derived. The doctrine of substitution gave great assistance to the doctrine of series, for when, as frequently happened, a gap existed in any series, that gap could very frequently be filled up by a substitution representative of the missing body. The lecturer then applied these views to elucidate the nature of the mineral acids and their salts. He showed how the principal mineral acids might be arranged in series, the proximate terms of which differed from one another by an atom of oxygen, and that the members of any series had the same basicity, and were mutually convertible by the addition or subtraction of oxygen. Dr. Odling's views were elucidated by many striking experiments.

Dr. Lankester gave the last of his course of lectures on "The Animal Kingdom in Relation to the Industry of Man" on Saturday last, the subject being "Animal Secretions and the Utilisation of Waste." Animal secretions were divided into those used for dyeing and those used as perfumes. The colours obtained from the decomposition of bile and urate of ammonia were first spoken of. The history of the substances used as perfumes, and known under the names of civet, musk, ambergris, and castor, was next given. The production of perfumes from the decomposition of animal matters was also illustrated. A variety of instances was brought forward of the utilty of waste substances in the production of useful articles. Silk waste, wool waste (shoddy), leather clippings, bone shavings, bones, grease, soapsuds, and sewage were examined as instances of the utilisation of waste. The process of dyeing from prussian-blue was illustrated, as well as the uses of the animal scents, exemplified by specimens from Messrs. Piesse and Lubin.

The Friday evening meetings will be resumed on the 20th inst., when Dr. Spencer Cobbold will deliver a discourse on the natural-history sciences.

THE GREAT SALAMANDER OF JAPAN.

The fine example of the Great Salamander of Japan, the arrival of which in the gardens of the Zoological Society, in the Regent's Park, has lately created so much interest, was procured by Captain Taylor, of the ship Tung Yu, in the market of one of the ports of the Japanese empire about two years ago. It has since been kept by Captain Taylor in a wooden tub on board his vessel, and fed principally on living eels. A few days ago it was transferred to the possession of the Zoological Society, and is at present placed in the Reptile House on the south side of the gardens in the Regent's Park, until a large slate tank now in course of preparation is ready, which will afford a suitable residence for the monster, and allow him to be exhibited in a more convenient manner to the public. The length of the Salamander is 2ft. 9in. or thereabouts.

The Great Salamander (Sieboldia maxima) was discovered by the celebrated Dutch naturalist, Dr. von Siebold, in Japan, and is described at full length in the "Fauna Japonica" of that author and M. Temminck. As we are informed by Dr. von Siebold, it inhabit the elevated mountains of the Island of Niphon, in the Japanese empire, situated between the 34th and 36th degrees of north latitude, frequenting the streams and small lakes of the basaltic range of mountains, and subsisting on fishes, frogs, newts, and worms. The Japanese tell wonderful stories concerning the power of regeneration of lost parts existing in this animal, alleging that even if all its limbs are cut off it will reproduce them as perfect as before.

The Sieboldia is remarkable for being the largest existing species of true amphibian animals now known to exist, nearly rivaling in that respect even the celebrated gigantic fossil salamander of Scheuchzer (Andrias scheuchzeri), which that naturalist mistook for a fossil man, and originally described as Homo diluvii testis. It is not a true salamander; that is to say, it does not belong strictly to the same

(Continued on page 344.)

NEW BOOKS, &c.

Now ready,
THE CORNHILL MAGAZINE, No. 4 (April 1860). Price One Shilling. With Two Illustrations.
SMITH, ELDER, AND CO., 65, CORNHILL.

Immediately, dedicated to the Right Hon. W. E. Gladstone, M.P.
THE PROVINCE OF REASON. A Criticism of the Principles Leading on the "Limits of Religious Thought." By the Rev. JOHN YOUNG, LL.D., Author of "The Christ of History," "The Mystery, or Evil and Good." Post 8vo, 6s. cloth.

Immediately,
LOUDON'S (Rev. F. D.) SERMONS, principally Chapel Discourses. Chapel. Post 8vo. First Series, 2 vols., 12s. cloth. Second Series, 2 vols., 12s. cloth. Third Series, 1 vol., 6s. cloth.
SMITH, ELDER, AND CO., 65, CORNHILL.

Immediately, 2 vols. 8vo. 24s. cloth.
SARGANT (W. L.) ROBERT OWEN and his SOCIAL PHILOSOPHY.
SMITH, ELDER, AND CO., 65, CORNHILL.

Now ready, demy 8vo, with Portrait, 16s. cloth,
SIR JAMES PRIORS LIFE OF EDMOND MALONE, Editor of "Shakspere." With Notices from his Manuscript Anecdotes.
SMITH, ELDER, and Co., 65, Cornhill.

Immediately, post 8vo, cloth.
MACKAY'S (Charles) A MAN'S HEART. A Poem.
SMITH, ELDER, AND CO., 65, Cornhill.

Just ready, square 8vo, 15s., antique cloth, red edges,
THE BOOK OF JOB, DONE INTO ENGLISH VERSE, by the Rev. JOHN OF WINCHCOMBE.
SMITH, ELDER, AND CO., 65, Cornhill.

Now ready, post 8vo, 4s. cloth,
PRYCE'S IS IT NOT WRITTEN? Being the Substance of Scripture against Romanism.
SMITH, ELDER, AND CO., 65, Cornhill.

Now ready, Second Edition,
TRANSFORMATION; or, the Romance of Monte Beni. By NATHANIEL HAWTHORNE, Author of "The Scarlet Letter," &c. 2 vols.
SMITH, ELDER, AND CO., 65, Cornhill.

NEW NOVEL.—Now ready,
GREYMORE. A Story of Country Life. 3 vols.
SMITH, ELDER, and Co., 65 Cornhill.

Just published, post 8vo, 10s. 6d. cloth,
ROBERTSON'S (late of Brighton) EXPOSITORY LECTURES ON ST. PAUL'S EPISTLES TO THE CORINTHIANS.
SMITH, ELDER, AND CO., 65, Cornhill.

Immediately, New Edition, 3s. 6d. cloth,
KATHIE BRANDE; or, the Fireside History of a Quiet Life. By HENRY MORLEY, Author of "Sylvan Holt's Daughter," "Against Wind and Tide" &c.
SMITH, ELDER, and Co., 65, Cornhill.

Now ready, with a Frontispiece price 6s. cloth,
MEMOIRS OF A CAVALIER, and other Tales, collected and edited from the Papers of the Family of the Worth of Shilbottle. By DANIEL DEFOE.
SMITH, JARROLD, AND HALLDAY, 51, Paternoster-row.

Just ready, price 6s., cloth gilt,
ECHOES IDEALAND: a Selection of New and Original Poems by "FRANK NORMAN." Fcap 8vo, cloth, elegant. London: WARD and LOCK.

Just published,
THE MILL ON THE FLOSS. By GEORGE ELIOT, Author of "Scenes of Clerical Life," and "Adam Bede."
EDINBURGH: WILLIAM BLACKWOOD and SONS, Edinburgh and London.

THE TREATY WITH FRANCE AND THE REVISION OF THE TARIFF DUTY.
THE ENGLISHMAN'S DOMESTIC MAGAZINE. 64 Monthly. No. 1 will be ready on April 25, and contains a Portrait of the Emperor Napoleon III., and Illustrations of the Treaty with France and the Extension of the Paper Duties. Another Portrait and Illustration will accompany the Supplement to No. 2, which must be ordered early.
No. 1 of VOICES OF THE NATIONS, specially engraved, printed, and published by hand in Paris, for this Magazine.
"A BRAHMIN WOOD-WORK PATTERN, in 10 or 20 various Designs, forms No. 1 of the Original Serials Department.
"A GOOD SERVABLE SILKEN thread in 32 pieces, on which will be printed the Tariff Duties, forms No. 1 of the Series of Articles on Subjects of Ladies' Work, and is ready to select one for working.
Information, Bulletins in full other particulars relative to the ENGLISHMAN'S DOMESTIC MAGAZINE, may be had, gratis, and post-free from the Publishers,
S. O. BEETON, 18, Bouverie-street, London, E.C.

THE ART of ILLUMINATING, as Practised in Europe from the Earliest Times. Illustrated by INITIAL LETTERS and ALPHABETS, selected from the British Museum, Bibliothèque Nationale, Munich, and other valuable collections. By HENRY SHAW, F.S.A., Author of "Dresses and Decorations of the Middle Ages," "Specimens of Ancient Furniture," Architect. Published in 12 or 3 Parts, price 2s.—London: DAY and SON, Lithographers to the Queen.

NOW PUBLISHED, A PURE MIND IN A PURE BODY—THAT'S HEALTH. Post 4to free, 1s. 2d., or by letter to the Author, free from Mercury, 1s. 6d. Sent to all parts of the kingdom.—Dr. HOLLOWAY, 244, Regent-street, London.

CHRIST BLESSING LITTLE CHILDREN. Original Composition, upon an unusually large scale, by the marvellous Painting by J. E. WATT, after the well-known Picture by the late Sir DAVID WILKIE, R.A., of "Christ Blessing Little Children," which will be published with the necessary sanction for it (it comes within the Queen's Gift), to obtain this fine Engraving for any subscriber of the public, virtually free of charge, on application to DAY and SON, Lithographers to the Queen, 6, Gate-street, Lincoln's-inn-fields.

DAY and SON, Lithographers to the Queen, beg to call the attention of the Art-manufacturing trade, and all others engaged in Decorative Art, to the Specimens of Chromo-Lithography now being executed by them for Messrs. Owen Jones and Digby Wyatt, Decorative Artists, and Messrs. Bell and Daldy, Publishers, for the forthcoming Illustrated Work, entitled "Examples of Chinese Ornament," selected from objects in the South Kensington Museum, and other valuable collections. By Messrs. OWEN JONES and DIGBY WYATT. Also to the Specimens of Chromo-Lithography now being executed by them for Messrs. Day and Son, Publishers, from the Original Drawings of Mr. OWEN JONES, Architect, Professor of Ornamental Art at Queen's College, and Architect to the Great Exhibition of 1851, illustrative of his Work on the Alhambra, to be published in Parts, each containing 6 or 8 Plates, price 21s.—London: DAY and SON, Lithographers to the Queen.

WHAT WILL THIS COST TO PRINT? is a thought often occurring to literary authors, public characters, and others, who contemplate publishing a book, pamphlet, or periodical. To such, and to all who require information on the subject, a Book of Hints, and information for authors on application to CLARK and SON, 23, Hatton-garden, London.

NO CHARGE MADE FOR STAMPING PAPER and ENVELOPES with ARMS, CREST, or INITIALS. Steel Dies Engraved in the best manner. ENVELOPES, 4s. per 100; Cream Note Paper, 4s. per ream; Black-bordered Note, 5s. per ream for 1s.; Foolscap, 9s. per ream. At 37 RUPERT-STREET, Haymarket.

WEDDING CARDS, WEDDING BREAKFAST, &c. Note in the Centre, Envelope Lined, Bordered and Stamped in Silver, with Arms or Crest, in the latest Fashion. Best Cream Note, 4s. per ream. Wedding Cake Boxes, Frilled Paper, and Ornaments. RODRIGUES, 42, Piccadilly.

WEDDING and BIRTHDAY PRESENTS. Writing Cases, Dressing Cases, Travelling Bags, Work Boxes, Desks, Bagatelle Boards, Chess Boards and Men, Backgammon Boards and Tables, Cribbage Boards, Dominoes, Dissected Maps, Reading Desks, Envelope Cases, Blotting Books, Albums, Playing Cards, Portfolios, Paper Weights, Inkstands, Bibles, Prayer Books, Church Services, Hymn Books, Pocket Books for Presentation; to be had at RODRIGUES' well-known Establishment, 42, Piccadilly.

TEETH WITHOUT SPRINGS.—GABRIEL'S Patent Tube Teeth are the best Stone enamel combined with new system of self-adhesion and capillary attraction, combined their use requires neither springs, wires, ligatures, or any operation, and therefore are free from all risk of loss or pain, which is warranted to remain pure and sound in any climate, and to restore articulation, mastication, and speech, and without any operation, with fabulous materials and wear incessantly, at less than half the ordinary cost, by Messrs. Gabriel Brothers, Surgeon-Dentists, 33, and 34, Ludgate-hill. Particularly observe—stationary, up the private passage, next Messrs. the Silversmiths, and not at 33 only, but 33 and 34, Ludgate-hill. Established 1815. See pictures.
Gabriel's Celebrated Preparation—the Patent White Enamel, for rendering the Teeth white, pearl-like, and beautiful. Sold by all Chemists, at 2s. 9d. per box.
"Gabriel's Tubulas" should be read by all suffering a dentist. It will save a world of pain, inconvenience, and, consequently, from such a source, may be confidently relied on."—U.S. Gazette.
American Mineral Tooth Brush 2s. 6d. the set, warranted.

HOSPITAL FOR CONSUMPTION, &c. BROMPTON.—SUBSCRIPTIONS, Donations, and Legacies are URGENTLY NEEDED to MAINTAIN in full vigour this charity, which has no endowment.
FRANCIS ROSS, Hon. Sec.

NEW ART-UNION.—Limited to 5000 Subscribers. Subscription 1ol. with CHOICE PRINT. 10s. DAY and SON, Lithographers to the Queen, 6, Gate-street, Lincoln's-inn-fields, London.

SHIP TAVERN, GREENWICH, April 1, 1860.—THOMAS QUARTERMAINE begs to inform his friends and the public that he has REMOVED from the above premises to the Ship Tavern, Greenwich, where he will be happy to meet his patrons on Tuesday next, having now quite given up the Crown and Sceptre to his son, who will be glad to see his friends. The Ship will be open for the transaction of railway station is only 200 yards off. The Ship has extensive stabling, and good sheds.

DANCING.—Mr. BLAND and DAUGHTERS (late LESSONS DAILY to Adults in the Valse Galop, Lancers, &c., at the Royal Academy, 9, Argyll-street, Regent-street.

THE IRON BRIDGE ASSOCIATION, 58, Pall-mall, London, manufacturers and erect Iron Bridges, Roofs, and Wharf Buildings, for railway companies in California, Chili, Demerara, Jamaica, Peru, Trinidad, and Venezuela.

THE AGRICULTURAL ENGINEERS' COMPANY (LIMITED), Penton Place, Upper Tennis-street, London. Established for the SALE of AGRICULTURAL IMPLEMENTS.—Steam Engines—Railway and Contractors' Plant—Locomotive Engines—Mining Machinery—Brick and Tile Machines—Sawing and Planing Machines—Manufacture of Tools and Machine Forms and Instructions upon application.

THE NEW BREAD MANUFACTURE. Applications for information respecting Loaves may be made to Messrs. DAUGLISH and CO., Engineers, 16, Mincing-lane, London, Machinery and the Foreign Patents, to Messrs. BARRETT, EXALL, and ANDREWS, Reading.

WASHING-MACHINE.—A New Patent. It washes on an entirely new principle, and cleanses so thoroughly that little or no labour then remains for the operator. Prospectuses free by post.—WILLIAMSON, Engineer, 134, High Holborn.

MONEY ADVANCED Promptly from a Private Capitalist on Mortgage or Personal Security. Moderate. DOWSE and ELLINGHAM, 27, Gresham-street, Bank, E.C.

MOMENTS, TOMBS, CHIMNEY-PIECES, &c. MARBLE WORKS. CHARLES RICHARDSON, Marble Mason to the British and Foreign Marble Collector, 37, Newman-street. Manufactory, Wharf-road, Brunswick, and 37, Newman-street, Oxford-street, London.

MECHI and BAZIN'S DESPATCH-BOX 276, Wood-street, Cheapside, Invite Author, one and all, to visit their Show-room and also, direct with real Russia and Chili Hides, their Manufactory, 112, Long-acre. Despatch-Box, 21s. to 10 guineas; writing and dressing cases, tourists' cases, ladies' companions, reading and writing cases, writing desks, portfolios, blotting books, envelope cases, and every description of travelling requisite. Mechi and Bazin, 112, Long-acre, and 276, Wood-street, Cheapside.

LEAP YEAR.—PIESSE and LUBIN'S New BOUQUET for the Season 1860.
"It has a delicate perfume, and is very choice.
This and a thousand other novelties are the choice in bottles at 2s. 6d. each.
2, New Bond-street, W. (Copyright.)

BENZINE COLLAS CLEANS GLOVES, &c. in 10 minutes, and have them on the hands while cleaning. Sold by all Perfumers, Chemists and Perfumers. Depôt, 24 Great Russell-street, Bloomsbury.

LADIES' ORNAMENTAL HAIR.—STACEY and CO. have always in stock a large and choice FASHIONABLE assortment of every colour. Also the Princess of Wales's Coronet Braid, Plaits, Bandeaux, Chignons, Curls, Ringlets, Wigs, Scarfs, Caps, &c. Private rooms for the convenience of ladies. Price lists, with directions for self-measurement, forwarded free by post. Observe the only address, 6, Burlington-arcade, Piccadilly.

THE PICTAURA NEW FRISSETTES. for CURLING HAIR, and producing the most beautiful and natural curls in the New Style, destroyed and made only by W. WOOLLEY, 2, Leicester-square, London.

HOUSEHOLD LINEN DEPARTMENT.—
JOHN HARVEY, 373, 374, 375, 376, 377, Strand, and 42, Ludgate-hill, solicits the attention of the Nobility, Gentry, and Families furnishing, to their very extensive Stock of every article in DRAPERY and HOSIERY, including SILKS, MUSLINS and Slip-clothes to match, Crapes and Barèges, Shawls, Mantles, Cloaks, Dresses, Bonnets, and Millinery, with from 1 to 2 yards wide; Embroideries, Laces, Fringes, Gimps, Ribbons, Gloves, Hosiery, Haberdashery, Perfumery, Fancy Goods, and numerous other articles, all of the best quality, and upon economic terms of sale. Families waited upon at home in London.

SILKS, Rich, Plain, Striped, and Checked Silks, at 2ls. 6d. per dress of 12 yards, the best value ever offered to families. Patterns sent free by post. Also patterns and prices of 2000 pieces of Fancy Dress Goods, all marked at the same rate of remarkable cheapness. Carriage paid upon amounts above 40s.
PETER ROBINSON, 103, 104, 105, Oxford-street.

FRENCH GLACE and other rich Silks, Moiré Antiques, and Fancy Dress Silks, in every variety, to be sold regardless of patterns, and prices for immediate cash, by JOHN HARVEY, 373, 374, 375, 376, 377, Strand, and 42, Ludgate-hill. Patterns sent free by post.

FRENCH SILKS, MOIRE ANTIQUES, at 7s. 6d. per yard, are the best value ever offered to the public. Patterns sent free by post. Also patterns and prices of 2000 pieces of Fancy Dress Goods, all marked at the same rate of remarkable cheapness. Carriage paid upon amounts above 40s.
PETER ROBINSON, 103, 104, 105, Oxford-street.

THE FASHIONABLE FRENCH STRAW BONNETS, elegantly trimmed, 12s. 6d. to 21s. All Straw Bonnets, Hats, Flowers, Feathers, and Ribbons equally moderate. Rich Lyons Velvet, 2s. 6d. per yard. Rich Velvet Bonnets, Velvet Hats, Velvet Cloaks, Velvet Jackets, Velvet Dresses, &c. Model Millinery Establishment, 103, 104, 105, Oxford-street.

IMPORTANT to LADIES requiring READY-MADE LINEN.—MESSRS. JAY have the largest and most varied assortment of Ready-made Linen in the kingdom, at moderate prices. Sacks of prime, dry flour by post, by addressing to JAY'S, The London General Mourning Warehouse, 247, 249, 251, 253, Regent-street, Corner of Jermyn-street.

BLACK GLACE SILKS. A REDUCTION in the PRICES of SILKS.—Purchasers of SILKS at MESSRS. JAY'S will be glad to learn that a REDUCTION from the former prices of their FRENCH SILKS
IS NOW MADE, in accordance with the said reduction:
JAY'S MOURNING SILK DEPARTMENT.
JAY'S HALF MOURNING DEPARTMENT.
JAY'S MOURNING MILLINERY, JEWELLERY, FANS, PARASOLS, &c.
JAY'S MANTLE DEPARTMENT.
THE LONDON GENERAL MOURNING WAREHOUSE,
247, 249, 251, 253, Regent-street.

MOIRES, 2, 3, 4, Chemists.
MESSRS. JAY have received from Lyons the newest Fashions in
THE LONDON GENERAL MOURNING WAREHOUSE.
247, 249, 251, 253, Regent-street.

NOVELTIES FOR THE SPRING 1860.
SEWELL and CO. are making a brilliant display in every department of SILKS, MANTLES, and all kinds of DRESS GOODS. A magnificent lot of rich silks are offered to ladies purchasers of a Dress, at 2 guineas, 3 guineas, 4 guineas, and upwards.
SEWELL and CO. are also disposing of a splendid lot of BURNOUS SERGES, in every shade, at 1s. 6d. per yard, 1s. 9d. per yard, 2s. per yard.
Complete Dress, Five-Guinea, Robe.

FAMILY MOURNING.—At PETER ROBINSON'S FAMILY and GENERAL MOURNING ESTABLISHMENT.
This Warehouse is the most economical and convenient of its kind in the World, as every article of Mourning can be obtained in one room. Having Alike. The best articles only are purchased, and orders, large or small, are executed at the most moderate charges.
Every article is kept ready made up for immediate wear, including Widows' and Children's Mourning; or may be purchased by the yard, and made on the premises by the most skilful workpeople. Estimates, if required, may be forwarded by a dressmaker or milliner if necessary.
Address as above, 103, Oxford-street, London.
(Established as a Mourning Warehouse in 1803.)

BLACK SILKS OF FRENCH MAKE.
BLACK SILKS.—The richest, best, and cheapest Stock in London is Black Gros de Rhins, 2½ yds. wide.
Black Gros grain, from 2½ to 5 yds. wide.
Black Royales, 6/4 to 8/4 Brem.
Black Figured and Striped Gros de Rhin, 6/4 to 8/4 Brem.
Patterns Free.
Messrs. PETER ROBINSON'S
Flounced Silk Dresses, 5½ to ten guineas.
Rich Silk skirts, elegantly trimmed, with or without crape, from 21s. each.
AT PETER ROBINSON'S FAMILY MOURNING WAREHOUSE,
103, Oxford-street, London.

EVENING DRESSES in Black Tulle, Barège, Grenadine and other fabrics.
Messrs. PETER ROBINSON'S Mourning Warehouse, &c.,
AT PETER ROBINSON'S FAMILY MOURNING ESTABLISHMENT,
103, Oxford-street, London.

MOURNING MANTLES and BONNETS, the Newest and Prettiest Shapes, and the only Warehouse in London to select from is at PETER ROBINSON'S, Messrs. PETER ROBINSON'S GENERAL MOURNING WAREHOUSE, 103, Oxford-street, London.

BLACK BAREGES that will not spill, but are GRENADINES of somewhat permanent dye, are fashionable for Dresses and Mantles.
Also the CRAPE BALZARINE so universally admired, at PETER ROBINSON'S Mourning Warehouse, &c.
Address PETER ROBINSON, FAMILY MOURNING WAREHOUSE,
103, Oxford-street, London.

CHRISTENING ROBES, 21 Guineas. Robes' Cloaks, 7 Guineas.
Baby Linen, Baskets.
Mrs. W. G. TAYLOR.

BABIES' BERCEAUNETTES, Baskets to match, 2 Guineas.
Mrs. W. G. TAYLOR, Basket-street.

MARRIAGE OUTFITS
Ditton Bakery, Sc. 64.
Mrs. W. G. TAYLOR, Basket-street.

LINSEY RIDING HABITS for LITTLE GIRLS 9 Guineas.
Ladies' Riding Habits, 5 to 9 Guineas.
Mrs. W. G. TAYLOR, Basket-street.

LADIES' RIDING TROUSERS, Chamois Leather, with black feet 21s. per pair.
W. G. TAYLOR

LISENDIPATORES TO THE QUEEN BY APPOINTMENT.
BABIES' BASSINETS, Hampered ready for use, and made from her carriage.
Mrs. W. G. TAYLOR.
Trimmed Baskets for Carriage.
CAPPER, SON, and CO., 69, Cornmarket-street, London, E.C.
Descriptive Lists and Prices forwarded by post.

Best post-free, Descriptive Lists of COMPLETE SETS of BABY LINEN, UNDERCLOTHING, and LAYETTES,
throughout the kingdom free of carriage.
CAPPER, SON, and CO., 69, Cornmarket-street, London, E.C.

LISENDIPATORES TO THE QUEEN BY APPOINTMENT.
Established in 1778.
LADIES' WEDDING OUTFITS, sent home free of carriage.
Descriptive Lists, with Prices, forwarded by post.
CAPPER, SON, and CO., 69, Cornmarket-street, London, E.C.

CHILDREN'S FROCKS and PELISSES, New Styles, for Spring, 1860, are now ready at SEWELL and CO.'S, White Frocks, 6d. to 2ls. SUNDS, the Juvenile Depôt, 329, Regent-street, corner of Vere-street, Oxford-street.

LADIES' LINEN, one-third less than the usual prices; Marriage Trousseaux, and India Outfits, best materials and workmanship.
NUNNS, 29, Regent-street, adjoining the Circus, Oxford-street.

INFANTS' CLOAKS, one guinea, Cashmere, Merino, and Velvet, a particular style. A large and choice assortment of handsome Christening Robes, from one guinea. Infants' Baskets, Hampers, Cots, Bassinettes, adjoining the Circus, Oxford-street.

BABY LINEN, one-third less than the usual charges. Every requisite for infants, best materials, workmanship, and fit. The Juvenile Depôt, 29, Regent-street, adjoining the Circus, Oxford-street.

ZOUAVE JACKETS, various styles, 7s. 6d. All the New Cloaks, Mantles, and Shawls, for Spring, in great profusion.
NUNNS, 29, Regent-street, adjoining the Circus, Oxford-street.

DO YOU WISH YOUR CHILDREN WELL DRESSED? Take them to D. NICHOLSON and CO., 51 and 52, St. Paul's-churchyard, the Juvenile Depôt of Cheapside, and the Premises in London. Retail for D. N. and Co.'s Plan of Juvenile Dressing, Illustrated Sheets, Gratis, and Post-free.

BOYS' DRESSES, for SCHOOL or WARDROBE.
The Knickerbocker Suit, complete, from 18s.
The Eton Suit, complete, from 21s.
Competing either an elegant Tunic and Trousers, or a Pocket-Vest and Trousers, from 25s. 6d. The Vest and Trousers are specially adapted to the season, and allowed to be the prettiest and most fashionable Costume ever produced for Boys.
D. NICHOLSON and CO., Juvenile Depôt,
51 and 52, St. Paul's-churchyard.

Complete suits for children of every age sent to any part of the kingdom at a moment's notice.

OUTFITS for INDIA and CHINA supplied by THEOBOLD and GLENNY, 195, Strand, London.

DUNN'S TAILORS' LABOUR AGENCY, 4, Bedford-row, Holborn, London, for the benefit of tailors sympathy—It supplies Clothing Adult and Juvenile, as Cheap as any Establishment in London. Country Orders Punctually Attended to.

THOMAS D. MARSHALL'S ELASTIC BOOTS.—Ladies, Gentlemen, and Children's Boots, Shoes, and Slippers, for Comfort, Ease, and Durability, unequalled. Lists of prices sent free by post.—THOMAS D. MARSHALL, 4, Bedford-row, Holborn, London.

WANTED LEFT-OFF CLOTHES for ASHANTI.—Mr. and Mrs. JOHN SMALES, 259 and 260, Strand, opposite Somerset House, are desirous of receiving liberal supplies in cash for Ladies', Gentlemen's, and Children's Clothes, Boots, Furniture, Jewellery, Plate, Books, Miscellaneous Property, &c. Letters attended to. Parcels from the country, the utmost value returned same day. Residence, London and Westminster Bank.

WANTED to PURCHASE LEFT-OFF CLOTHES, Regimentals, Jewellery, Plate, &c. for Cash, at the highest value. Ladies or Gentlemen waited on by addressing to Mr. DAVIS, 64, Duke-street, and 41, Hertford-street, Manchester square, W. Parcels sent. P. O. orders remitted. Established 1800.

WANTED LEFT-OF CLOTHES, Uniforms, Jewellery, Plate, Miscellaneous Property, and Cash, to any amount. Ladies or Gentlemen waited on by addressing to Mr. or Mrs. G. H. ISAACS, 7, Parkgate, Knightsbridge, S.W. Parcels valued, and the utmost value in cash immediately remitted. Established 1820.

P. and S. BEYFUS' £28 DINING-ROOM SUITE consists of:
Six mahogany chairs in morocco and hair.
One easy chair, ditto ditto.
Dumbtin couch, do. do.
Six telescope dining tables to dine 12 persons.
Set of Fenders and Fire-irons, Fitted with trays and octagonal crumbers.
City Furniture Warehouse, 31, 32, 33, City-road.

P. and S. BEYFUS' £35 DRAWING-ROOM SUITE consists of:
Rosewood Couch, Cabinet Lee-chair, or gipsy, and chair to match.
Chiffonier, with marble top, plate glass back, and ormolu mounts.
Loo table, with marble top, and rich carved centre.
Pair occasional tables, ditto
Chimney glass, ditto ditto
Two pianos—naked chairs;
Pair Venetian blinds;
Pair Brussels carpets, fitted
Complete set fire-irons.
City Furniture Warehouse, 31, 32, 33, City-road.

P. and S. BEYFUS' £26 BEDROOM SUITE consists of Superior mahogany bedstead, with rich damask furniture.
Palliasse and wool mattress;
Superior feather bed, bolster, and pillows
Waterproof sheet, to keep dry
Dressing-table, with glass
Bedside table and glass
Mahogany towel-horse;
Pair chairs to match
Superior japanned wash-basin and jug
Six servants' bedroom cupboards
Set of bedroom carpets.

P and S. BEYFUS Pay the Carriage for £ Goods to any part of the Kingdom.
P. and S. BEYFUS' Illustrated and endeavour any article not approved.
P. and S. BEYFUS forward their complete Catalogue, Illustrated by 100 Engravings, free by post on application.—P. and S. BEYFUS, City Furniture Warehouses, 31, 32, and 33, City-road.

J. MAPLE and CO. for FIRST-CLASS FURNITURE.

J. MAPLE and CO. for CARPETS. Manufactured Brussels, 2s. 3d., 2s. 6d., 2s. 9d., 3s. per yard.
145, 146, 147, Tottenham-court-road

GARDNER'S CUPS are the BEST.—The Queen's most splendid, and the Prince of Wales's, and the Royal Family's, and the Nobility's Cups, are Gardner's, designed, manufactured, and supplied by him. Gardners Dessert Services, Tea Services, Table Glass, Chandeliers, Lustres, &c. 453, STRAND.

PAPERHANGINGS.—The cheapest house in London for every known style of PAPERHANGINGS is CROWN Warehouse, 74, Great Portland-street, Oxford-street. Estimates free.

DON'T BEAT YOUR CARPETS: have them cleaned by steam, at 1d. per yard, by machinery, and not exposed to beat pores; 4d., 6d., &c. per yard. Lace, muslin, and chintz curtains cleaned. Feathers dressed, curled, and purified. Bedding thoroughly cleaned, purified, and exposed to the sun and air. Orders by post promptly attended to.—STEPHENSON and SON, STEAM CLEANING and DYEING COMPANY Wharf-road, City-road, N.

FINE WINES and SPIRITS at the lowest prices.—Pure old Port and Sherry, 24s. per gallon; Champagne, 36s. per dozen; Claret, 12s. per dozen; Brandy, 16s. per gallon; Gin, 10s. per gallon; carriage free.—PORTER and ENGLISH, 67, Oxford-street.

WINE NO LONGER AN EXPENSIVE LUXURY.—Pure Sherry, 16s. per gallon; Port, 18s.; Claret, 9s.; Champagne, 30s.; Sixth, 42s.; Hock, 36s.; Moselle, 36s.; Burgundy, 36s.; Cognac Brandy, 50s.; Hollands, 40s. per doz.; Colonial Brandy, 18s. per doz. Terms cash. Sent free. PORTER and ENGLISH, 67, Oxford-street.

ABERDEEN TONGUES from the A. B. Curing Establishment.—Purchasers through this house are much superior to quality to any obtained elsewhere. Prices from Lewis Grant, Aberdeen. Terms, cash. Orders by post, with remittance, small, or high character, address 82, per St., Ipswich.
LEWIS GRANT, 11, Old Broad-street, E.C.

CROSSE and BLACKWELL, Purveyors in Ordinary to the Queen, hereby invite attention to their Pickles, Sauces, Tart Fruits, and other Table Delicacies, which have been pronounced by the Public Analyst to be perfectly free from impurities and grocery. C. and B. have for many years enjoyed the high honour of supplying the Royal Table with their Manufactures, and trust to merit to continue the unprecedented Climate, Grocers, &c.; and wholesale of Crosse and Blackwell, Soho-square, London.

HORNIMAN'S PURE TEA is "always good and invariably the same," and is supplied with increased discount to the Clubs generally at the low-priced tavern; solutent leaves as the Public Analyst, Dr. Hassall, in his "Food and its Adulterations," p. 615. Sold in Packets, 2s., 3s., 4s., 5s., 6s., 8s., and 10s. each, by all Grocers.
Caution.—Beware of Spurious Imitations, which are sometimes substituted for Horniman's Pure Tea. Observe the Name and Address, Horniman and Co., Manufacturers, Garden, Farringdon, London.

HEWITT'S LARGE CHINESE TEA WAREHOUSE, 18, Fenchurch-street, City, and Baker street Bazaar, Portman-square. Tea Gardens, Canton, Hyson, Souchong, &c.

PEEK, FREAN, and CO.'S AERATED BREAD, SHREWSBURIES, and RIFLE BISCUITS, Manufactured by Dr. Dauglish's Process, are sold by all Grocers, and packed from all Grocers in town and country.

REDUCED PRICE, 2s. 6d. per tin.
THE ALBERT BISCUIT, manufactured by McANDREW and CO., Edinburgh, the original proprietors of these celebrated Biscuits are continually being received by Grocers and Confectioners in London, Liverpool, and Leeds Warehouse, 137, Oxford-street, W. Sent to all parts of London.

PATENT CORN FLOUR.

"This is superior to anything of the kind known."
The original and only genuine. Sold in packets, 1d., 2d., 4d., and 8d. Quin, 6d. Red Lion-street, Holborn, London. Retail of all.

EPPS'S HOMŒOPATHIC COCOA.—In this delicious cocoa, nothing but the finest quality of cocoa is used, and it is a desirable beverage for Breakfast, Luncheon, or Supper. Sold in packets, 1d., 2d., 4d., and 8d. each, by all Grocers. Epps and Co., Homœopathic Chemists, 112, Great Russell-street, London.

HOMŒOPATHIC COCOA.—TAYLOR BROTHERS' Homœopathic Cocoa is unequalled as an article of diet for Invalids, Children, and Persons of delicate Constitutions. Sold by all Grocers, in packets, at 1d. 2d. per lb.

£10,000 DAMAGES.—The Proprietors of the CELEBRATED CHEMICAL MANURE, which has been used by Gardeners, Florists, &c., against selling any imitation of their Manure, have the pleasure to announce that the Jury in the Court of Queen's Bench, Westminster, on the early part of the 30th of November, 1859, thus are equally liable to the Public and the Trade in the manner of the Manure.
Sold in Packets, 1s. each.

BEAUTIFUL FLOWERS.—100 Papers of Flower seeds for present sowing for 5s.; 52 Sorts for 2s. 6d. 12 for 1s. Post-free. Descriptive Catalogues gratis. Country Orders, per rail or coach, double value. Flowers, fine double stocks (wallflower), and new cinerarias, 1s. per packet. All the above post-free. At Messrs. COLDING'S, Seedsmen, Hastings.

FLOWER SEEDS.—Twelve Varieties, fine, individually assorted, with blanks for their successful management, 1s. 6d. post-free. Descriptive Catalogue gratis.—Mr. HENRY HOOPER, Seedsman, Hastings.

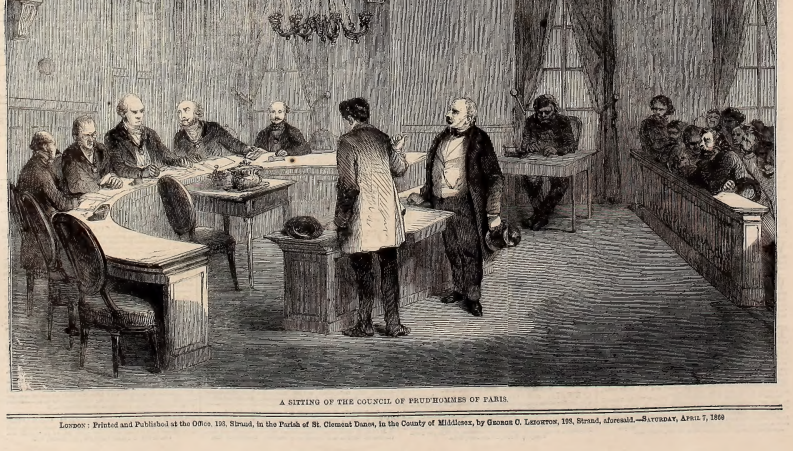
FRUIT-TREES.—TANNED GARDEN NETTING, for preserving fruit trees from frost, bright, and black, 2d. per yard; 7 yards wide, 1s. per yard; 14 yards wide, 2s. per yard. Can be had of CHAS. FARLOW, 191, Strand, W.C.

(Continued from page 342.)

genus of animals as the common salamander of Europe (Salamandra maculata). It is a member of a less highly organised group of beings, almost intermediate in character between fishes and reptiles, and has as its nearest relatives the curious menopoma of the United States of America, which is popularly known by the very similar name of "hell-bender." Should any of our American subscribers be able to supply the Zoological Society of London with living specimens of this latter animal, we are sure that such a present would be most welcome to the society, and that, at the same time, the donors would be conferring a great benefit on science by giving an opportunity for these two strange allies to be brought together and compared. The menopoma, we may remark, has never yet been brought alive to Europe.

THE GREAT SALAMANDER OF JAPAN (SIEBOLDIA MAXIMA) RECENTLY PLACED IN THE ZOOLOGICAL SOCIETY'S GARDENS, REGENT'S PARK.

THE FRENCH COUNCILS OF PRUD'HOMMES.



A CONTEMPORARY stated a short time since that Lord Brougham was engaged in investigating the organisation and application of the French system of Prud'hommes, and that his Lordship had sent a well-known literary gentleman to Paris for the purpose of acquiring information on the subject, to be subsequently spread over the United Kingdom in a series of lectures to be given by the latter. We cannot too much approve the motives of the noble Lord, who, no doubt, thinks that the introduction of a similar institution into England would be attended with the most beneficial results, more especially as a means for avoiding recourse to those pernitiously-recurring strikes that have caused so much injury to the employers and to the employed in this country. It was with the view to preventing such extreme measures that these Councils, composed of masters and workmen, were definitively adopted for the regulation of a vast amount of matters relating to trade and labour, on the principle that peach in the workshop is a necessary element of national prosperity.

The origin of the title Prud'homme is very ancient. It dates as far back as the reign of Philippe le Bel (1285), at which period the city authorities of Paris adopted a resolution for electing twenty-four prud'hommes, charged to give advice and interpose their good counsel for the benefit of their fellow-citizens. In 1452 an institution of Prud'hommes was established at Marseilles, called the Prud'hommes Pêcheurs, who had the power of settling all disputes, without appeal, that might arise between the fishermen of that seaport; and in 1493 an edict of Louis XI. authorised the councillors, citizens, and inhabitants of Lyons to nominate a prud'homme, empowered to settle the differences arising between the different merchants who used to frequent the fairs held in that city. After a period of two centuries, during which industry and commerce laboured under severe restrictions, the Prud'hommes reappeared in a sort of judicial form, as counsellors to magistrates; such were the prud'hommes assessors of the justices of the Peace established by the law of the 24th of August, 1770. From that time the system, as applied to the settlement of disputes between masters and their workmen, has been continually extending under the simple name of Prud'hommes, well employed to signify "honourable men," who, by their kindness, their prudence, and their probity, enjoyed a great measure of public esteem and public confidence. The same principle of morality has been observed up to the present time in their selection, but the functions of the Prud'hommes have augmented in importance with the additional attributions granted by successive laws and ordonnances to an institution which has become remarkable for the benefits it has conferred, especially upon the working classes.

Of course, in a matter of such vital importance to commercial interests, legislative enactments have often introduced material modifications, all having a tendency to improve the institution. A complete history of these changes may be found in a work entitled "Législation Industrielle, contenant le Code des Prud'hommes" (Paris, 1855). We cannot here even glance at them, but as the question is becoming one of great interest we will briefly describe the principal features of the organisation of the Councils of Prud'hommes, as definitively reconstituted in June, 1853). Independently of the president and vice-president, appointed by the Emperor, each of these Councils is composed of twenty-six members, thirteen of whom are masters and thirteen foremen or ordinary workmen. The masters are elected by their own body, and the workmen form one part of the Council are also nominated by their equals: the latter are entitled to claim a pecuniary indemnity for their services, paid by the city. Half the members retire from office every three years, but they are re-eligible. The decisions of the Councils are final and without appeal when the amount in dispute does not exceed 25; beyond that sum their judgments are subject to appeal before the Tribunal of Commerce. To constitute a council at least five members, exclusive of the president, must be present.

In a large city like Paris, where there is an aggregation of such a variety of trades, it has been found necessary to divide these Councils into four sections, holding their sittings at different hours —viz., the Council on Metals, the Council on Tissues, the Council on Chemical Products, and the Council on Miscellaneous Industries. Before proceeding to a hearing, however, there is always an endeavour made to settle the dispute by conciliation, as it is termed, for which private rooms are set apart; and it is rare, now that the institution has become well known and respected for the justice of its decisions, that the efforts of the Prud'hommes fail to reconcile the opposing interests. In fact, the statistical returns show that ninety-seven out of every hundred disputes are annually arranged by the conciliatory means mentioned.

We have engraved in our present Number an illustration of one of the regular sittings of the Paris Council, on which occasion the ultimate decision of the Council was requested, and given in favour of the workman, whose claim was found to be just. The five prud'hommes, their secretary, the workman and the master, the auditory, and the objects the price of the labour on which was in dispute, are all shown in our Engraving. In all the great commercial centres of France there exists a Council of Prud'hommes. The number of these Councils is continually increasing with the rise and progress of different towns, whose inhabitants have learnt to appreciate the value of the conciliatory spirit and equitable decisions of the Prud'hommes in cases which might otherwise terminate with mutual disadvantage to the parties directly interested in a speedy and just settlement of their often trivial litigations.

A SITTING OF THE COUNCIL OF PRUD'HOMMES OF PARIS.

LONDON: Printed and Published at the Office, 198, Strand, in the Parish of St. Clement Danes, in the County of Middlesex, by GEORGE C. LEIGHTON, 198, Strand, aforesaid.—SATURDAY, APRIL 7, 1860

THE ILLUSTRATED LONDON NEWS.

No. 1026.—VOL. XXXVI.] SATURDAY, APRIL 14, 1860. [WITH A SUPPLEMENT, FIVEPENCE

PROSPECTS.

THERE is some analogy between the condition of the social and political and that of the natural atmosphere at the present moment. Fitful and uncertain gleams of sunshine alternate with dark clouds charged with chilly showers, and no one exactly knows what preparation to make with reference to the weather. At one moment hopes are excited that the coming spring will be allowed to struggle into actual existence without its season bringing with it a counterpart to the action of last year; and the next moment every expectation seems turned towards the chance of a renewal of turmoil and disturbance in Europe. It is quite true that there are no outward signs of warlike preparation, such as were but too palpable in the vernal season of 1859; but there is a feverish excitement pervading the nervous system of the Continent, the pulsations of which cannot but be sympathetically felt in this country. In the very centre of that system which goes to make up the comity of European nations, the state of Switzerland is confessedly alarmed and anxious if not active. Prussia is supposed to be quietly feeling her way with the Germanic Confederation, while within her own limits she is strengthening her armed force, and preparing for any eventuality. Austria holds somewhat contemptuously aloof; but, if half we hear be true, she is not far from being ready to come to blows with Sardinia, if the opportunity should occur, which it is supposed may be afforded by some outbreak in Venetia, in the nature of an appeal to the King of Central Italy. Then there are symptoms that the fatuity of the reigning Monarch of Naples will bring up the question of adding his kingdom to the federated liberty of Italy, although hitherto no attempt has been made to go so far south in the comprehension of the scheme of deliverance for the people of that country. The Sicilian provinces, too, of the Neapolitan King are by no means in that state of even quietude which he believes to be their normal condition of happiness. It is clear that even the sagacious ruler of Belgium is not altogether in a condition of absolute assurance with regard to the prospects of his domain. Spain, too, has gone through a slight phase of insurrection; and Denmark is accused of intriguing with France. Turn which way we will, everything betokens that it needs but a single spark to set Europe in a flame which, this time, will be more universal, and burn brighter and longer than did its fellow of last year.

It is plain that the mistrust and apprehension which it was prophesied would be born of the annexation of Savoy to France have actually arisen, and have generated a notion of further designs of conquest on the part of the Emperor of the French. Indeed, so decided is the anticipation of the worst, that an idea has been started that a Conference of the great Powers should meet, ostensibly and primarily, for the purpose of considering, and if possible settling, the question as to whether the neutral districts of Savoy, bordering on the Lake of Geneva and constituting the Swiss and not the French slopes of the Alps, should belong to France or to Switzerland. This, no doubt, is a reasonable mode of endeavouring to put an extinguisher on the very spot where the flame is likely to break out; and, if such a Conference were to take place, it would probably tend in a great degree to elicit the real views and intentions of France; and, if its deliberations were brought to a satisfactory conclusion, it is not unlikely that a good deal might be done towards preserving the peace for (say) another year. If, on the contrary, the negotiations relating to this affair are to be carried on in the old way, in a series of interminable despatches, containing more or less of protest, unaccompanied by any proof of a design to act, it can hardly be supposed but that all the Powers will assume an attitude of armed watchfulness, which in a moment, and for some cause so slight or remote that it is not traceable by the most far-seeing eye, may be converted into a situation of active hostility. We do not pretend to say that England will, in the first instance, be involved in any positive warlike proceedings; but, supposing that Prussia was one of the belligerent parties, how long would it be likely that England would be kept out of the quarrel; while if Belgium came into question we rather think that Great Britain is pledged to the support of the integrity of that kingdom, if need be, even by force of arms. Supposing such a case as this, any part that England might take in a European contest would not be confined to naval operations alone, but once more an English army would embark on a Continental expedition, the scene of its movements being most probably the Low Countries; and perhaps there might be witnessed another Quatre Bras and Waterloo fought between the contending forces of the same nations, as of yore. No doubt these are previsions which take a wide range, but it will hardly be denied that they are by no means outside of possibility, and even come within the limits of probability. One thing is quite certain, that some effort ought to be made to give a final settlement to the questions of foreign policy which are flitting about the political atmosphere like will-o'-the-wisps. We in this country, at the beginning of this year, were led to believe that the united energies of France and England were to be directed towards extending the area of commercial intercourse and commercial enterprise. We believed that the two leading Powers of Europe were banded together in a new crusade of commerce; that they were about to assail the tariffs of the other nations of the earth, and to force an entrance for the principles of free trade. We have a right to complain then, that this expedition of peace is impeded, if not entirely stopped, by the uncertainty which prevails all over the Continent. It is not too much to ask that now, ere the prime moments of the year be lost, some step should be taken to let it be thoroughly understood whether the world is to be left undisturbed for the pursuit of its peaceful avocations, or whether the cry is to be "Havoc, and let slip the dogs of war!" Anything is better than the existing situation, when no man knows, or can even speculate on, what the morrow may bring forth.

The removal of the existing state of uncertainty is really demanded by the requirements of the domestic business of this country. We have enough of our internal affairs to occupy very fully the period which yet remains of the Parliamentary

"THE LESSON ON THE FLAGEOLET."—BY E. F. FRÈRE.—IN THE FRENCH EXHIBITION.—SEE SUPPLEMENT, PAGE 168.

Session. It is of the utmost importance that the sitt'ngs of our Legislature should not be occupied by constantly-recurring debates, in season and out of season, on foreign affairs, which intervene at all sorts of moments, and, as a matter of course, never lead to any actual result. Unless the Foreign Secretary is soon in a situation to make a statement which will satisfy at least the Lower House, we shall have those anxious members who, with cause we admit, insist on the necessity of placing England in a right position, from continuing from time to time on the motion for going into Committee of Supply, and it is not easy to calculate to what extent the interruption of the absolutely indispensable business of the country may be delayed by this sort of wrangling, even without the setting up of regular discussions on foreign policy. For the next few weeks there can be no objection to allowing the Marquis of Normanby to deliver ex post facto orations to the Peers on what he deems the base and abominable rape of Tuscany from its hereditary Sovereigns, and, indeed, their Lordships in general will be at perfect liberty to amuse themselves with any abstract dissertations which may be calculated to give them sufficient prominence in the Parliamentary reports. But we see that the country is desirous in the first place to have matters so arranged that the House of Commons may be enabled to devote itself to the completion of the financial plan of the Government, several important items of which yet remain for consideration, to address itself seriously, and in no mocking and lukewarm spirit, to the settlement of the question of Parliamentary Reform: enter with care and attention on the task of law reform, which, in several branches, is swelling into magnificent proportions independently of the half-dozen other measures hanging about the notice-book, the reform of the Corporation of London, Church Rates, the reorganisation of the Indian Army, and the Indian Council in the House, being noticeable specimens of the class which ought to be comprehended within the period which will elapse before the end of July. In the next place, we believe that the people of this country are very earnestly and very justly desirous of the recurrence of such a state of things as will enable our trade and commerce once more to experience that movement and action which is essentially its life; and it is by no means unlikely that, unless some radical change takes place in the present unsettled situation of what we may call, for want of a better term, the foreign mind, we will be loudly made by public opinion for a more satisfactory administration of that department of the Government. It is understood that the conduct of our foreign policy is under the care of a duumvirate consisting of Lord Palmerston and Lord John Russell; and surely, if they are really and wholly in accord, it must be in their power to bring the present eccentric, in the sense of uncertain, condition of this country, as regards her relations with the rest of Europe, to some crisis or the other.

FOREIGN AND COLONIAL NEWS.

FRANCE.

A circular from the French Minister of Justice shows the Emperor Louis Napoleon's resolution to repress any attempts of the Ultramontane party to erosse a Papal agitation in France. The law officers are called to prosecute clergymen who in their sermons shall infringe the provisions of the Concordat, and to institute inquiries respecting any acts held by religious congregations.

The Government has sent the following official communication to the Times and Patrie:—"In the occasion of the attempts at insurrection in Sicily and Spain the Times and Patrie contained immediate imputations against a neighbouring Power. These papers ought so much the less to have accepted those imputations because they are wholly devoid of authenticity."

The negotiations for a treaty of navigation, which are about to be opened between the French and English Governments, arouse the anger and opposition of the French protectionists, whose organ asserts that the abolition of existing restrictions will ruin the French merchant shipping, and declares it to be a work of supererogation to grant anything to England beyond the stipulations of the treaties of commerce.

An official decree in the Moniteur of Thursday notifies that the Superior Council of Commerce, Agriculture, and Industry, will proceed to an inquiry for the purpose of investigating the average prices of the articles admitted into France by the treaties of commerce with England, and in order to fix an ad valorem duty upon them.

A note in the Moniteur points out the large amount of capital on the French export trade by the treaty of commerce with England, especially in the articles in the south-western departments. The Patrie

The litigation in the case of M. Emile Ollivier, in which the legal profession, not only in Paris, but throughout France, has taken such a deep and extraordinary interest has been brought to a conclusion, the Court of Cassation rejecting the final appeal.

The Paris correspondent of the Guardian, writes on Monday as follows:—"There is fortunately very little to say to-day. Lent, such as it is to be hoped, that things in general are losing the irritating aspect which has characterised them for some time past. The sacred occupations and duties of the last eight days seem to have exercised a sedative effect, and to have distracted men's minds, at least momentarily, from the strife of this world. On the Fast-days and the Feast-days of the Church have been well observed, and her services thronged with pious worshippers. In Catholic churches and chapels Ryedee have been crowded in the sunny afternoon, church and chapel have been equally so in the morning, and still more so up to a late hour of the night, when three-wick-candle-lighted Shabby Interior the voice of the preacher might, haply, light upon the ear even of the careless passer-by. Mr Mackonochie's Church of 'Hallelujahs' of Easter Day alike drew vast audiences; and the Communion at the Madeleine at Nines Dame at midnight on Saturday, and which is generally regarded by the clergy and the religious societies as the test and touchstone of their influence during the past year upon the mass of the metropolitan population, presented an edifying spectacle of many hundreds of devout recipients. The weather has been unusually propitious for the out-of-door observances of the season, and the promenade de Longchamps, during the 'three days,' was marked by its animation and accessories—as with impunity from either rain, or dust, or cold. On Good Friday the warmth left nothing to desire, coming so suddenly as it did after the long and dreary winter. All the 'Imperial' theatres were closed during the week, but the Italiens improvised the 'Stabat' of Rossini, and it proved highly successful."

ITALY.

UPPER AND CENTRAL ITALY.

The Parliament of the new kingdom of Upper and Central Italy is composed of one hundred and sixty-two Senators and three hundred and fifteen Deputies.

The Cabinet of the Italian Kingdom is now settled, comprising eight members—three from Old Piedmont—viz., Cavour, Vegezzi, and Casenisi; two from Romagna—viz., Count Mamiani and Farini; one from Lombardy, Tacini; one Modenese, General Fanti; one Tuscan, Thomas Corsi.

The Legations of England and France at Florence have taken down their escutcheons.

The occupation of Parma, Modena, and the Romagna by the Sardinian army has been completed, three divisions of General Cialdini's corps being distributed in those provinces. Their military build of the country will be strengthened by fortifications which are to be constructed in several places.

Signor Lanza has been elected President of the Turin Chamber of Deputies by 123 against 90 votes at the second ballot.

General Garibaldi, last Saturday, asked permission of the Sardinian Chamber to put a question to the Ministry on the subject of Nice. Count Cavour replied that the Chamber, not being duly constituted, the question could not be discussed at the Chamber of Deputies.

A Turin letter of the 7th says:—"We are assured that, at the earnest request of King Victor Emmanuel, Prince Napoleon has consented to leave in Lombardy three divisions of the army of occupation some time longer. They are the first, second, and third; under Generals d'Autemarre, Ulrich, and Bourbaki."

THE PAPAL STATES.

The Giornale di Roma contains the appointment of General Lamoricière to the Commander-in-Chief of the Papal troops. A letter from Rome, of the 7th, says:—"General Lamoricière has been received with a salute of cannon by the Papal troops. He remained nearly five hours at the Ministry of War, having had conferences with the chief of that department, the four Directors-General, and the Director of the Military Magazine of San Michele." The same letter states that the General has received the authorisation necessary for the purchase of horses and to engage military service. General Lamoricière, writing to a friend in Paris from Rome, speaks very hopefully of the prospect of affairs. He says, "With the assistance of God, and our own diligence, I hope soon to have Roman Zouaves." General Lamoricière has a special talent for organising an army. It was he who organised the Chasseurs d'Afrique, and other native corps in Algeria, and the Garde Mobile in 1848. He is said to have already passed an inspection where sufficient materials in the Roman States to form an excellent army.

THE TWO SICILIES.

An insurrection broke out at Palermo on the 4th inst., when some "seditious persons" attacked the troops. They were repulsed, and a great number killed. The Swiss, disgusted by their conduct, left the town by the troops, but the rising was not suppressed till after an "obstinate combat in streets and houses." On the 5th "the insurrection at Palermo has been completely suppressed, and is spread in Casena." No news was sent on the 6th, but the next day it was telegraphed from Naples, "The insurrection in Sicily is completely at end, later in the evening, tranquillity reigned "at Palermo and throughout Sicily." On the 8th the following telegram was prepared for emergencies." On the 9th an official despatch from Naples was to the following effect:—"Order reigns at Palermo and in Sicily. The inhabitants are full of enthusiasm. The troops are in full accord with the Government. An excellent feeling prevails among the troops." A telegram of the 10th, at Lisle, says, "Naples is quiet."

"According to news from Naples to the 10th, the insurgents, numbering about 5,000, well armed and under commanders, left the Lipari Islands, and had interrupted the canals communicating with Palermo. The troops quartered in that city were attacked every night. On the 9th the remaining sixty-seven Swiss left Sicily." Opinione publishes the following telegram, dated Naples, April 10:—"The insurrection is entirely suppressed in Sicily. Order is restored. Up to six of the present rebellion, which it is intended should be on such a scale as to astonish Europe, but our intended victims enable them to take away with them some correct notions as to our resources and the active spirit of our people, and which science and experience have been the foundation of the unequalled greatness of our nursing mother. Preparations are afoot in various other parts of the province for the great event of the year, the Prince's visit, and the inauguration of the great marvel of modern science and skill that now bears an honoured motto—Fratelli d'Italia. The influx of visitors expected here at the time will 'be a caution,' as our neighbours across the borders have it, and 'the jolly good fellowship,' we are told, 'is to start' in numbers to see a real live Prince. Such an occasion may not occur again for a generation."

Mr. Galt, Provincial Secretary in Canada, has given notice of an intention to establish a bank of issue for the whole provinces.

The Parliament of Canada has repealed the Clergy Bill. A vote was taken on the night of the 26th ult. in the Canadian Parliament on the motion of Mr. Cauchon, that the Clergy Bill, as revived by Governor Head, be read a third time, which it received by a majority of 26.

The Ministry have given notice of their intention to divide the large cities of Canada into wards, for the purpose, it is thought, of diversifying representation as far as possible, and enabling all classes and interests to be more fairly represented in the municipal council. Toronto is to be divided into two, and Quebec and Montreal into three, divisions.

INDIA.

Some agrarian disturbances have occurred in Lower Bengal; but it is hoped that the measures issued by the Lieutenant-Governor will be effective in arresting them.

CHINA.

Accounts from China assert that the Imperial Government was alarmed at the rumours of the English and French preparations, and that the Chinese were withdrawing the guns from the Taku forts for the purpose of placing them in positions at Tien-Tsin. Mr. Bruce was active at all the ports, but some uneasiness had been caused at Shanghai by the arrival of the Russian squadron. It was there said the General expressed a hope that the 67th Regiment, which he headed at the assault which he led, would be sent to garrison Hong-Kong.

A decree of the King of Sardinia enacts that the flags destined for fortresses, and for recipients of infantry and cavalry, shall bear in the centre of the white flag the arms of Savoy, viz., a cross of gules on a red field, surrounded with blue, the whole surmounted with a Royal crown of gold, enriched in silver.

By command of the Emperor of Russia, the end of the war in the Caucasus, which has lasted fifty years, will be proclaimed throughout the whole of that country on the 6th of September. The Governor, Prince Bariatinski, has issued orders to that effect. Several clans have submitted, the duties of his office.

The Union Libérale of Turin states that M. Tommaseo, one of the leading members of the Venetian Republic in 1848, has declined being the leading members of the Venetian Republic in 1848, has declined being named a member of the Sardinian Parliament, although he has been elected in two colleges, and Count Cavour in eight.

The Times, published at the Red River Settlement, British North America, in its issue for the 28th of February, announces that it has received private intelligence from England to the effect that the project that its home Government had resolved to introduce a bill during the present Session of Parliament for the formation of a Red River into a Crown colony.

As the bell of the Church of Château Malo (Ile-et-Vilaine) was being rung for vespers, on the 1st inst., a cracking noise was heard, and the bell fell into the church from a height of about forty feet. In the bell is struck the following inscription, painted round, Caroline, with her husband had just entered the church, and so injured her that she died a few hours after.

The number of savings banks and branches, on the 1st of January, throughout the United States, according to returns to the Auditor of accounts, was 1052; the capital paid in, $121,882,000 dollars; and the amount of specie on hand, $8,064,000 dollars. The resources of these banks, including loans, notes, securities, and real estate, is stated at nearly 1,500,000,000 dollars, and their liabilities 381,000,000 dollars.

CAUGHT BY A SHARK.—The Kennah has arrived at New York from Havannah and Nassau with Sir W. Gore Ouseley. As she was leaving the latter port a pilot fell overboard from her boat, in which he was being towed. The ship was stopped, and the boat instantly left for his rescue, while two fishing boats were also sent out. The boat got close enough to give him the end of an oar, which he took, and cried, "For God's sake, row me!" But the boat was not allowed to land him, for the boat was no sooner carried down by a fierce shark which came up at the moment, taking the oar with him.

LATEST NEWS FROM ABROAD.

The following telegrams were received through Mr. Reuter's office yesterday (Friday) morning :—

THE PAPAL STATES.—Rome, April 11.—General Lamoricière has issued an order of the day in which he declares that he has not hesitated to resume his sword when required by the Pope. He continues thus :—"Catholic Christianity is the life of civilisation. Europe is threatened by revolution, as it formerly was by Islamism. The cause of the Pope is that of civilisation and liberty." The General concludes by exhorting the soldiers to have confidence in the success of the cause which is intrusted to them.

THE INSURRECTION IN SICILY.—Marseilles, April 12.—A letter from Naples states that the combat at Palermo was very bloody, most of the insurgents having perished at the barricades. Several monks of the convent were seized and imprisoned. Reinforcements have been sent into Sicily. The commercial steam-boats have been put into requisition, and the army in Sicily will be augmented to 30,000 men. Prince Castelcicala has returned to his post as Governor of the island. Prince Filangieri has arrived, in order to confer with the King. The panic at Naples on the 6th instant was general, but without consequence.

SWITZERLAND AND SAVOY.—Berlin, April 12.—The Kreuzzeitung of this evening says :—"In well-informed circles it is believed that a union will be effected between Prussia, England, and Austria in reference to the threatened interests of Switzerland, but it is expressly stated that no hopes are entertained that Russia will join this alliance."

Geneva, April 12.—The Federal Council has to-day dispatched a note to the Powers which states that, as Switzerland had not been consulted on the occasion of the vote of Savoy, she protests against any violation of her rights which may result from such vote.

THE PAPAL EXCOMMUNICATION.

The text of the Pope's excommunication of all who have promoted, aided or abetted the insurrection in the Romagna has been published. After expatiating on the providential origin of the Holy See's temporal authority, the Pope inveighs against the wicked innovators who have impiously attempted, by lying, hypocrisy, false and pernicious principles, and cunning dissimulation, to destroy his secular power. Especially does he deplore that some whose particular duty it was to protect the Catholic Church have sullied themselves by their wicked acts. The Sardinian Government has taken the principal part in these mischievous and perverse intrigues, and has despised the Apostolic admonitions addressed to it. At the Paris Congress it attempted to weaken the Pope's temporal authority, and it spared no fraud or sin to instigate sedition when the war broke out in Italy last year. It thus procured a Dictatorship in the Romagna, and by persevering in its wickedness, by force, money, threats, terror, and other cunning means, it obtained a vote in its favour by universal suffrage, and then dared to subject the Papal provinces to its power. So, finding admonition and complaint to be of no avail, the Pope pronounces the sentence of major excommunication against all those who have taken part in the sinful insurrection in his provinces, in usurping, occupying, and invading them, and declares that they cannot be absolved from these censures by any one but the Pope himself, unless they are at the point of death, and even if they should be then absolved they are to reincur the censures if they should perchance recover. The remainder of the document formally decrees and publishes the excommunication.

The Duke of Brabant arrived at Constantinople on Tuesday, and was received by the Sultan at the Tophana Palace. On Wednesday the Duke visited the British Ambassador, Sir Henry Bulwer.

The King of Sweden and Norway has refused his sanction to the resolution of the Norwegian Parliament, in pursuance of which no Swede was to be appointed Lieutenant-Governor of Norway.

The Espero of Turin says that Russia intends giving up its establishment at Villafranca, and has applied to the Sardinian Government for some place near the Gulf of La Spezia instead.

The Garden of Plants in Paris has a collection of wild animals now more complete than it has been for a long time past, there being four lions, with two cubs ; a royal tiger, two jaguars, a panther, nine bears, three of which are white ; fifteen wolves, ten foxes, &c.

The Ministry of Schleswig-Holstein has directed the judicial authorities of the Duchy to prosecute all persons, even the members of the States, who, in the course of the Session, distributed the Address to the King, which the Government declared to be seditious.

The number of conscripts furnished annually by the two provinces of Savoy and Nice, annexed to France, will be only 4500, instead of 17,000, the number which they have hitherto supplied to the army of Piedmont. In that respect the annexation will undoubtedly be regarded as a benefit by many.

MEXICO.—Advices from Vera Cruz are to the 15th ult. The endeavours to bring about an armistice had failed. The siege had been renewed with considerable effect. The reported flight of Miramon and the dispersion of his forces is unfounded.

A letter from Moscow states that the "Society of Amateurs of Russian Literature" in that city has just been informed by the Central Censorship that it cannot be allowed to continue to exercise the privilege it has for many years enjoyed of publishing works without previously submitting them to examination. The society has addressed a petition to the Emperor praying that its privileges may not be taken away ; and, as his Majesty has always protected the press in its conflicts with the censorship, hopes are entertained that the prayer of the petition may be accorded.

THE GRAND DUKE OF BADEN AND THE ROMAN CATHOLIC CHURCH.—A manifesto of the Grand Duke has been published proclaiming the principle of the independence of the Roman Catholic Church, and adding that its laws are placed under the protection of the Constitution. Guarantees shall be given for the sure foundation of the legal position of the Church. The contents of the concordat shall be lawfully sanctioned by special laws and other ordinances. The manifesto promises the free development of the Protestant Church as well as of other public requirements. ——The Minister of Finances, Regenauer, has been pensioned. M. Vogelmann has been appointed as his successor. Other changes of other high functionaries are expected.

PAPAL EXCOMMUNICATIONS.—The following are the names of various Princes, Kings, and Emperors who have been excommunicated more or less solemnly by preceding Popes :—John XII., excommunicated Otho I., Emperor of Germany ; Gregor V., King Robert, for having contracted an illegitimate marriage ; Nicholas II. excommunicated Gerard, Count of Galicia ; Gregory VII., Henry IV. ; Urban II., King Philip of France, because he had carried off the wife of the Count d'Anjou and would not restore her ; Pascal II., the Emperor Henry V. ; Innocent II., King Roger of Sicily ; Celestin II., Alphonso, King of Castille ; Alexander III., the Emperor Frederic Barbarossa ; Celestin III., Duke Leopold of Austria ; Innocent III., Philip Augustus of France. On Palm Sunday, 1239, Gregory IX. excommunicated the Emperor Frederic ; Innocent IV. excommunicated the same Emperor in 1245 ; Boniface VIII., Philippe le Bel ; Urban VI., John of Castile ; Jules II., King Louis XII. ; Clement VII., Henry VIII. of England ; and Pius VII., Napoleon I.

MUTINY ON BOARD A COOLIE SHIP.—We have brief details of a tragedy on board an American vessel, the Norway, while on her way from Macao to Havana, with a cargo of a thousand coolies on board. When she had been five days at sea a mutiny broke out among the coolies, who attempted to set fire to the ship in two places. The mate, who was on duty, rushed to the hatches, which those confined beneath were attempting to force, and began the struggle. The crew, the larger part of which was aloft, was seized with a panic, and attempted to cut loose the boats and get clear from the vessel ; but the surgeon threatened to shoot the first man who made a move in that direction, and they desisted, rallied, and went to the assistance of the officers. From six o'clock at night until daylight next morning the terrible combat lasted, and then, after thirty of the coolies had been killed and ninety wounded, the rest consented to give up the arms in their possession rather than submit to the alternative which the captain offered ; for he threatened to cut away the masts, set fire to the ship, and leave its living cargo to the mercy of the flames. During the conflict a lady passenger and her child died from fright.

STATES OF CENTRAL AND SOUTH AMERICA.—The news from New Granada states that the Cass-Herran Treaty, as amended by the United States Senate, had been finally ratified by both Houses of the Congress of that State. The President's opposition to a repeal of the unpopular election law had caused great excitement, and a revolution was feared. In Guatemala the treaty to settle the boundary between that country and British Honduras had been ratified. General Barrios had been elected President of San Salvador, and his term of office extended to six years. The news from Chili is unimportant. Business at the mines was in a flourishing condition, and the country generally prosperous. Markets were active, and ores had advanced. In Peru an attempt at revolution at Arequipa had been suppressed. The murderers of Captain Lambert had not been discovered. The arrival of a French fleet was expected to enforce the French claims. Preparations to repel the threatened invasion by Peru were making in Bolivia. The latest accounts from Ecuador represent that country as being on the eve of civil war. The arms of the constitutional Government of Venezuela were still in the ascendant, and the forces of the rebels were being rapidly dispersed.

COUNTRY NEWS.

Miss O'Brien, daughter of the Hon. Judge O'Brien, has been received into the Convent of St. Alphonsus, Drumcondra, Ireland.

Mdme. Sala, a lady long and honourably connected with the musical profession, died at Brighton on Tuesday, at an advanced age.

Earl Talbot's inheritance of the title and estates of Shrewsbury has been the occasion of much festivity this week in Staffordshire. The fêtes commenced on Tuesday and terminated on Friday (yesterday) evening.

On Tuesday night a lecture in connection with the Glasgow Athenæum was delivered in the City hall, by the Earl of Airlie, on the "Life of George Stephenson."

At a meeting held in Birmingham, on Monday, under the Presidency of Viscount Curzon, it was resolved to form a society for the purpose of establishing a national exhibition of sporting and other dogs.

A new wing to Tottenham Park House, Marlborough, the residence of the Marquis of Ailesbury, at the cost of £40,000, has been commenced. A chapel is likewise in progress for the use of the household.

The foundation-stone of the new Wesleyan Schools at Newton Heath was laid yesterday week. A public tea meeting was afterwards held in the room underneath the chapel, at present used as a school.

The Spaniard, Serafin Manzano, who was convicted at the recent Wiltz Assizes of the murder of Anastatia Trowbridge, at Ashcombe, was hanged on Wednesday in front of the New Prison, Devizes.

The foundation-stone of a new church, intended for the congregation of the Rev. Dr. Graham (late of Ayr), was laid in Shaw-street, Liverpool, on Wednesday.

Out of about forty plans for the Hartley Institute, to be built in Southampton, that of Messrs. Green and Deville, the London architects, was selected on Wednesday by the Town Council. The building is to cost nearly £10,000.

On Tuesday se'nnight some ruffians broke into Gwernapfield Church, Mold, and carried off the communion plate. They set fire to one of the galleries. After leaving the church they broke into the parsonage and succeeded in carrying off a sum of money.

A man who recently escaped from Newcastle Gaol, where he was confined on suspicion of being engaged in a daring jewellery robbery, has been recaptured in a public-house at Newcastle. A brace of loaded pistols, and an apparatus for moulding balls, were found upon his person.

A coroner's jury has returned a verdict of "Manslaughter" against a woman named Elizabeth Allcock, of Newton, near Hyde, for killing her child by ill-treatment. It appeared that for some trifling cause she seized hold of the deceased and threw it on the floor, and when on the floor kicked it with her clog.

Some riotous proceedings took place at Birmingham, on Sunday, on the occasion of an open-air meeting, held to protest against the method adopted by the authorities to suppress Sunday trading in the town. One of the speakers was knocked out of the waggon that served for a platform, and several persons were injured with stones and other missiles.

EXHIBITION AT PEEL PARK, SALFORD.—The success of the last year's exhibition of paintings, &c., at the Public Free Library, in Peel Park, has led to the decision that there shall be another exhibition this year, to be opened not later than the 23rd of May, and to be closed on the 1st of October. The Queen, as is usual with her Majesty in such cases, has not only given her name as patron of the exhibition, but she will give valuable aid towards its effectiveness.

HALIFAX WORKING MAN'S COLLEGE.—The annual distribution of prizes to the students of this institution took place on Tuesday evening, under the presidency of Edward Akroyd, Esq., the principal. The Rev. C. R. Holmes read a very satisfactory report of the year's studies. Examinations had taken place in geography, literature, mathematics, history, and French, the examiner being the Rev. A. O. Hartley. The chairman then addressed the meeting at some length, after which the distribution of prizes took place. A concert brought the proceedings to a close.

MANCHESTER FIELD NATURALISTS' SOCIETY.—The first soirée and inaugural meeting of this society, which has recently been established in connection with the Manchester Athenæum, were held in the library hall of that institution on Wednesday evening. The object of the society is to provide the means of constant communication between ladies and gentlemen who have a taste for natural history, either in the shape of botany, entomology, or any of the kindred sciences. The meeting was very fully attended, especially by ladies. In the room were exhibited some rare and valuable specimens of natural productions, consisting of mosses, ferns, exotic insects of great delicacy and brilliancy, birds, &c.

PROPOSED MINERS' PROVIDENT ASSOCIATION.—A meeting of delegates from various collieries was held at Seton Delaval last Saturday to consider the propriety of proceeding at once to the establishment of the Miners' Provident Association. About sixty delegates were present, as well as other persons who did not attend as representatives. A discussion took place, after which a resolution was passed agreeing to the project, but the rules were left for discussion in committee at the various collieries represented. The best possible feeling prevailed, and the institution seemed never in so fair a way to become endued with vitality as at the present moment.

ECCLES NEW CONGREGATIONAL CHURCH.—The further services in connection with the opening of the New Congregational Church at Eccles were held on Sunday last, when sermons were preached, in the morning by the Rev. G. B. Bubier, and in the evening by the Rev. Dr. Halley. The cost of this place of worship, including the purchase of the land, amounts to nearly £5500. The sum subscribed by a numerous list of friends, previous to the opening, was about £4000. The amount collected at the close of the various opening services, added to some donations still expected, left nearly £1200 to be raised. A few of those gentlemen chiefly interested in the promotion of this object met at the close of the evening service, and subscribed this remaining amount. Thus this beautiful edifice is now opened for public worship entirely free from debt.

A RUNAWAY ENGINE.—The other morning, an engine-cleaner at at Penzance had got an engine ready for the day's work, and retired for a moment. On his return the engine was gone. He had left the regulator open and the brake up ; the fire had caught quickly, steam rose, and away went the riderless puffer over the wooden viaduct at Chyandour, smash through the gates a Marazion Station, slowly up the incline, sixty miles an hour down steep gradients, over many unoccupied crossings, through numerous pairs of stout gates, by St. Ives Road and Hayle, Gwinear Road and Camborne, until its breath was nearly gone. The first of a pair of gates near Pool it opened, the second it tore up and bore along the line on its cow-catcher, until at Carn Brea some one saw it coming at an abated speed, with the gate in front, jumped on it, and thus secured the truant—most fortunately not the slightest harm having occurred, except to the gates aforesaid, during its unrestrained run of sixteen or seventeen miles.

A MAYOR'S RIGHT OF PRECEDENCE.—There is now some probability (says the Birmingham Journal) that the question in dispute between the Mayor and the magistrates of Birmingham as to the right of that officer to take the chair at meetings of the justices, will be set at rest. Mr. Lloyd went to the Home Secretary, laid the whole subject before him, and showed how the ill feeling, local jealousies, and contention which had arisen in Birmingham would be likely to spread to other boroughs if the question of precedence were allowed to remain in doubt. Sir George Lewis at once took the opinion of the law officers of the Crown on the meaning and intention of the clause in the Municipal Corporations Act, in which the precedence of the Mayor is declared. That opinion declares that the Mayor of an incorporated borough takes the chair as a matter of right at all sessions, special or petty, and that the "precedence" is magisterial and official, not social.

EASTER FESTIVAL OF THE YORKSHIRE CHORAL UNION.—On Monday there was a morning performance of this Union in the Victoria Hall, Leeds, the pieces selected being Haydn's "Seasons" and Beethoven's "Mount of Olives." The Union numbered two hundred and fifty performers, carefully selected from the various parts of the riding ; the band, which was full and complete, was principally selected from Mr. Charles Hallé's celebrated instrumentalists. Mr. J. Burton presided at the organ ; and Mr. R. S. Burton officiated as conductor. The attendance was only limited, but it included many of the most respectable families in the district. The leading vocalists were Mdme. Catherine Hayes, Mrs. Sunderland, Mr. Perren, Mr. Inkersall, and Mr. Weiss. In the evening there was a larger attendance in the hall, the programme being of a miscellaneous character, and including two songs by Madame Catherine Hayes, two by Mr. Weiss, and three pianoforte solos by Mr. Charles Hallé.

A "VALUABLE" WITNESS.—At the Norfolk Assizes, on Tuesday week, a rather ludicrous incident varied the monotony of a will case which occupied the Court for two days. One of the witnesses called by Mr. Serjeant Parry, on behalf of the plaintiff was Mr. C. F. Gale, solicitor, of Cheltenham, who, on coming into the witness-box, declined to answer any questions until he had received his expenses—viz., £3 3s. per day for loss of time, and travelling charges at 1s. per mile. Eventually the Court ordered that he should receive £1 1s. per day for eight days, and his travelling expenses, including an allowance of £6 for railway fares, in all about £16. After some little delay, a cheque for the balance due to the witness was handed to him, and he then consented to be examined. In reply to a question, whether he had made any communication to Mr. Hamilton, his town agent, with reference to the will, the validity of which was disputed, he said he believed he had not, and Mr. Hamilton did not recollect anything being said on the subject. Mr. Serjeant Parry then, amid much laughter, observed that he supposed the witness could not afford any information on the matter ; to which he replied, "I told them I could not tell them anything about it when they subpœnaed me at Norwich."

SMUGGLING TRANSACTION AT HULL.—On Monday, at the Hull Police Court, four foreign sailors, charged with smuggling a large quantity of tobacco from the Austrian ship Margaret Rosa, were again brought up, and, after some further evidence, they were each fined £100 and costs.

The associated spinners and self-actor minders of Preston celebrated, on Monday, the opening of an institute at the Albion Assembly Room, in that town. They have taken the room on a five years' lease, and have fitted it up as a place for the dispatch of their business, for public meetings, and as a reading-room for the members.

On Tuesday morning, a German, whose head bore terrible marks of violence, was found in a dying state, in a field, at Penrith, Cumberland, and before medical aid could be procured he expired. A man, who had been seen in the company of the deceased on the previous evening, has been apprehended on suspicion.

THE BERKELEY HUNT.—A dinner was given last week, at Henbury, to the Right Hon. Admiral Sir Maurice Berkeley, K.C.B., and Colonel Berkeley, M.P., by the tenant farmers and others of the neighbourhood, as a testimony of esteem and regard, and of gratitude for the sport afforded by the frequent meets of the Berkeley hounds in their vicinity. About 130 gentlemen sat down, under the presidency of J. W. Miles, Esq.

As a vast number of holiday people were assembled on the quay of one of the Liverpool ferries, on their return home on Good Friday night, some thoughtless or malicious person cut the guard-rope, and the consequence was that upwards of 120 men and women fell into the mud, it being low water. One young woman was trampled to death, and eleven were severely injured. Had the tide been up the results would have been far more serious.

At the opening of the Salford Hundred Quarter Sessions, on Monday, the Chairman, in addressing the Grand Jury, spoke at considerable length of the pernicious results produced upon the younger portion of the working classes by the establishment of money lotteries at inns and beer-houses. He exposed the fraudulent nature of these lotteries, or clubs, as they are generally termed, and warned the promoters of them that there was a statute by which "managers of the drawings, issuers of shares, or any person who took part" in such proceedings, were liable to fine or imprisonment with hard labour.

A RAILWAY BLOCKED UP BY A SHIP.—On Wednesday week an accident of a remarkable character occurred at the Southeram telescope bridge, on the London and Brighton Company's Hastings line of railway, over the River Ouse, about a mile from Lewes. As a vessel of small tonnage, named the Norfolk Tar, was passing through she became stranded in the mud in the very centre of the bridge. The consequence was that all traffic was suspended, the trains stopping on the margin of the bridge on each side, and the passengers had to alight and pass over a bridge of planks which was placed across the gap.

SUNDAY-SCHOOL CONFERENCE AT BURY.—The thirteenth annual Sunday-school Conference for Lancashire, Cheshire, Derbyshire, and the surrounding districts, was held on Good Friday at Bury, under the auspices of the Bury Sunday-school Union. Upwards of one hundred and sixty representatives from various schools in the district took part in the proceedings, which were held in the Brunswick Chapel, North-street, and commenced with a prayer meeting at seven o'clock in the morning. The conference was brought to a close by a tea meeting in the schoolroom in the evening, after which addresses were delivered by several of the representatives and their friends. The next annual gathering is fixed to be held in Salford.

SUNDAY-SCHOOL CONFERENCE.—The annual conference of the Yorkshire and Lincolnshire Sunday-school teachers, superintendents, &c., was held at Hull on Good Friday. The services were opened in the morning at Fish-street Chapel. The Rev. E. Jukes presided, and Mr. F. J. Hartley, secretary of the London Sunday-school Union, read a paper on "The art of teaching, and how to acquire it." An afternoon meeting was held in the same place, when the Rev. J. Medicraft presided, and Mr. J. C. Hoatson, of Halifax, read a paper on "Combined effort and fervent prayer essential to secure the results sought by good teaching." A public dinner and tea meeting were also held, and at the latter the delegates, secretaries, &c., unanimously expressed the desirability of holding, during the year 1861, in London, a conference of Sunday-school teachers, &c., from all parts of the United Kingdom, as well as from America and the Continent of Europe. The conference was closed by the holding of the forty-first annual meeting of the Hull Sunday-school Union, in the theatre of the Royal Institution, which was crowded to overflowing. The Mayor of Hull presided.

CRINOLINE IN THE WORKHOUSE.—On Monday seven pauper women, inmates of the South Dublin workhouse, were brought before the magistrates of the head office of police, charged with a riot, smashing nearly one hundred panes of glass and "other property." It appeared in evidence that the female paupers objected to the "lanky"—the unfashionable—form of the petticoats supplied by the guardians, and with a mind to remedy the deficiency, provided themselves with various appliances, such as pieces of rope, bent canes, twigs, bits of buckram, iron hoops, &c. The supply proving inadequate to the demand, the ladies were obliged to resort to other expedients, and stole several spare petticoats from the laundry. The stolen articles were ordered to be given up or a general and personal search would ensue. The ladies first denied all knowledge of the missing articles. A search was then attempted, and the riot then broke out. Every tin, form, poker, tongs, brush, or other available weapon, was flung at the heads of the officers and guardians, and great was the crash of glass, while fortunately skulls escaped with slight bruises. The ringleaders of the riot were sent to prison and hard labour for fourteen days.

THE TURNER GOLD MEDAL.

UNTIL quite recently the Royal Academy had not given a medal for landscape-painting, partly, probably, on the ground that that branch of painting was not included in the course of academic study. It was Turner, the great landscapist, and the magician of colour, who viewed the omission as a defect, and resolved to supply it by means of a handsome money bequest for the production of a gold medal, to be allotted every second year amongst students in landscape-painting. It would be futile to dilate upon a reflection which this transaction naturally suggests as to the position and resources of art in this country. Let it be simply recorded that to the act and will of a single individual, backed by the contribution of a few hundreds to carry them to accomplishment, the highest establishment and school of art in the country owes the fact of its having a medal to award for landscape-painting ; and that, for the same good and sufficient reasons, the name of Turner is to be to all time associated with that medal, and thus to hold the proud position of representing the landscape school of England—a position which his performances, admirable in their way, in many respects did not entitle him to.

However, the Turner medal is now an acknowledged fact and an institution, and the first of the series was allotted, in 1857, to Mr. Nevil Oliver Lupton, in a competition of seven candidates, for "An English Landscape," the original of which is now in the possession of Joseph White, Esq., of Clonmel, Ireland. Mr. Lupton is a rising young artist, and from what we have remarked of his publicly-exhibited performances—which are full of truth, genuine feeling, and high promise as regards technical achievement—we feel satisfied that he was justly entitled to the high distinction thus conferred upon him. We may observe that, the Academy having declined to make an award at the competition in 1859, Mr. Lupton is at present the holder of the first and only Turner medal.

The preparation of the design for this medal was intrusted to Mr. Maclise, R.A., and the execution of the dies to Mr. J. C. Wyon, and most satisfactorily have they accomplished a task not free from considerable difficulties. On the obverse is a profile effigy of the founder of the prize, taken from the original as he lived and breathed, and not idealised or polished up in any way ; and from this circumstance it will be of more interest than that usually attaching to medals, inasmuch as the portraits of the great colourists are few, and unimportant in character. Around the head is the inscription "Joseph Mallord William Turner, R.A., Nat. 1775, Ob. 1851." The reverse is occupied by an allegorical design, in which an attempt is made to idealise the peculiar speciality of Turner's pencil, rather than landscape generally. Below, in the foreground, reclining on a bank covered with flowers, is a figure intended, we suppose, to represent the genius of landscape-painting, with his pallette and brush in hand, who, looking upward, contemplates a vision suggesting the mysteries of atmosphere and colour. Above, and circumscribing all, is a group of three graceful female figures resting on clouds, emblematic of the three primitive colours. Beneath them, in the midst, the Sun, with Apollo driving his car ; and extending from this to the foreground is a wide expanse of ocean, bounded on one side by a cluster of palatial buildings, constituting a marine landscape such as Turner delighted to paint, under the glorious effulgence of a morning or an evening sky. The lower portion of the design is given in very high and bold relief ; the upper in lower relief ; and the middle portion in lower still ; the whole producing a bold and striking effect.

Our Engravings are taken from photographs obligingly supplied by Mr. Charles Tolley, of Rickmansworth.

LITERATURE.

PALÆONTOLOGY; or, a Systematic Summary of, Extinct Animals and their Geological Relations. By Professor OWEN, F.R.S., &c. Adam and Charles Black.

Conspicuous on the roll of remarkable men whose genius and labours have placed them in the front rank of their fellow-men appears the name of the author of this volume, Professor Richard Owen. No other individual living can be mentioned whose labours have contributed so much to enlighten us on the early condition of our earth and its inhabitant, and whose researches have exercised so remarkable an influence over this and many kindred departments of science. A very large amount of valuable matter is collected and compressed into this cheap volume which before was either unattainable by the student or could only be had in a large and expensive form. The publication of this manual, then, on palæontology, must mark an epoch in the history of the science which explores the stratified records of the earth's widespread and its extinct inhabitants. In its pages we are presented with a comprehensive survey of the characters, succession, geographical, and geographical distribution of the various forms of life that have passed away; and we find "the different epochs of the earth attended with corresponding changes of organic structure, and that in all these instances of change the organs, still illustrating the unchanging fundamental types, were, as far as we could comprehend their use, exactly those best suited to the functions of the being. Hence we not only show intelligence evoking means adapted to the end, but, at successive periods, we find it producing a change of mechanism adapted to a change in external conditions." Amongst other important subjects discussed are—the antiquity of the human race, and that weapons in stratified gravel and in caves, the antiquity of which Sir Charles Lyell believes to be great indeed, and implying a long interval of ages separating the era in which the fossil implements were framed and that of the invasion of the Gaul by the Romans.' A section is devoted to "Ichnology, or the Science of the Footprints of Animals, or even of Imprints in General. Impressions made on a part of the earth's surface soft enough to admit them may be preserved after the impressing body has perished." Thus "the ballstone, the ripple-wave, the raindrop, the wind that bore it along and drove it slanting on the sand, have been registered in casts of the surface which they originally made on the soft stratum beneath." In the same way "every form of animal life that, writhing, crawling, walking, running, hopping, or leaping, could leave a track, depression, or footprint behind it, might thereby become a lasting living evidence of its existence, and also, to some extent, of its nature." In this wise the "palæodictyon" shows that from the inconceivably remote period of the deposition of the Cambrian rocks the earth has been vivified by the sun's light and heat, has been fertilised by refreshing showers, and washed by tidal waves; that the ocean not only moved in ordinary oscillations, regulated, as now, by sun and moon, but was agitated and ruffled by winds of a storm; that the atmosphere, besides these movements, was healthily influenced by clouds and vapours arising, condensing, and falling as aqueous precipitation. With these conditions of life palæontology demonstrates that life has been enjoyed during the same countless thousands of years, and that with life, from the beginning, there has been death. The earliest testimony of the living thing, whether coral, crust, or shell, is the oldest fossiliferous rock, as it is the same time proof that it died. At no period does it appear that the gift of life has been monopolised by contemporary individuals through a stagnant sameness of untold time, but it has been handed down from generation to generation, and successively enjoyed by the countless thousands that compose the species. Palæontology further teaches us that not only the individual but the species perishes; that, as death is inherent in the generation, so extinction is the consistent result with the creative power which has continued to provide a succession of species; and, furthermore, that, as regards the various forms of life which this planet has supported, there has been 'an advance and progress in the main.'" Thus, we learn that "the creative force has not deserted the earth during any of the periods of its existence, but has succeeded to the first manifestation of such force; and that in respect to the new class of animals the operation of creative force been limited to one geological epoch; and, perhaps, the most important act of research of palæontology consists in the proof of the establishment of the axiom of the continuous operation of the ordained lessening of living beings."

On the question of the existence of species Professor Owen is of opinion that little can be said demonstratively, and on the more mysterious subject of their origin "no light has yet been thrown by experiment or observation." The probable causes of extinction appear to have been either "continuous, slowly-operating geological changes, or to no greater sudden cause than the, so to speak, spectral appearance of mankind on a limited tract of land not before inhabited. Extinction of species prior to mankind's appearance on the earth has been due to ordinary causes—ordinary in the sense of agreement with the law of organisation and of the ordinary modifications of the geographical and climatal conditions of the earth's surface. The species, and individuals of species, least adapted to bear such influences and incapable of modifying their organisation in agreement therewith have perished. Extinction, therefore, on this hypothesis, implies the want of self-adjusting power in the individuals of the species subject thereto."

THE FIRST TURNER GOLD MEDAL.—REVERSE.

In vindicating the law of correlations or principle of the coincidences of animal structure, Owen asserts the zoological character against Geoffroy St. Hilaire and others. St. Hilaire, it appears, refused to see or acknowledge the existence of a principle in construction of any part of an organised body. Our author concludes by stating that he regards with satisfaction that he has in his work fulfilled one great object he had in view. That object was to exhibit the benevolence and intelligence of the Creative Power. "If (he says), in all the striking changes of form and proportion which have passed under review, we could discern only the results of minor modifications of a few essential elements, we must be the more strikingly impressed with the unity of that cause and with the wisdom and power which could produce so much variety, and at the same time such perfect adaptations and endowments out of means so simple. For, in what have these contrasted limbs, hoofs, paws, fins, and wings so variously formed to obey the behests of volition in denizens of different elements differed from the mechanical instruments which we ourselves plan with foresight and calculation for analogous ends, in greater complexity, in their perfection, and in the unity and simplicity of the elements which are modified to constitute these several locomotive organs!" "Everywhere in organic nature we see the means not only subservient to an end, but that and accomplished by the simplest means. Hence we are compelled to regard the Great Cause of all, not, like certain philosophic ancients, as a uniform and quiescent mind, as an all-pervading entire mind, but as an active and actuating intelligence. By applying the laws of comparative anatomy to the relics of extinct races of animals contained in and characterising the successive strata of the earth's crust, and corresponding with as many epochs in the earth's history, we make an important step in advance of all preceding philosophies, and are able to demonstrate that the same pervading, active, and benefcent Intelligence which manifests His power in our time has also manifested His power in times long anterior to the records of our existence.

THE LATE MR. GEORGE RENNIE.—SEE PAGE 356.

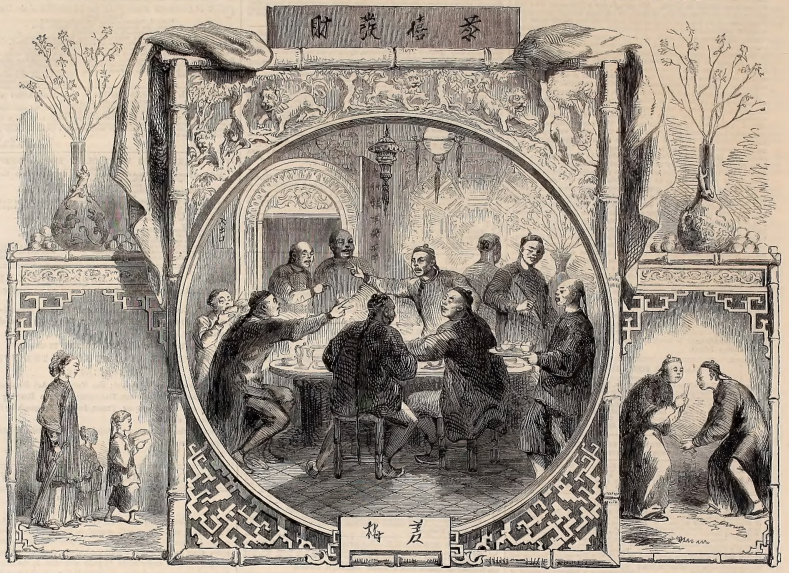
"But we likewise, by these investigations, gain a still more important point of view, that the phenomena of the world do not succeed each other with the mechanical sameness attributed to them in the cycles of the epicurean philosophy: for we are able to demonstrate that the different epochs of the earth were attended with corresponding changes of organic structure; and that, in all these instances of change, the organs, still illustrating the unchanging fundamental types, were, as far as we could comprehend their use, exactly those best suited to the purposes of the being. Hence we not only show intelligence evoking means adapted to the end, but, at successive periods, we find it producing a change of mechanism adapted to a change in external conditions. Thus the highest generalisations in the science of organic bodies, like the Newtonian laws of inorganic matter, lead to the unequivocal conviction of a great First Cause, which is certainly not mechanical."

We must not here occupy our space to close without a word of commendation for the general arrangement of the work. It is copiously illustrated by numerous figures of the leading types of species and fossil remains, which make it perfect as a text-book on the science which treats of the evidences in the earth's strata of organic beings.

A COMPENDIUM OF ENGLISH AND SCOTTISH LAW; Stating their Difference: with a Dictionary of Parallel Terms and Phrases. By LAING PATERSON, Esq., M.A., Barrister-at-Law. A. and C. Black.

The union between England and Scotland has long become generally complete, with one very vital exception—namely, the system of law of the two countries. There are still as nearly different as if each was a foreign country to the other. The founders of Scottish jurisprudence drew on the Roman law for its principles and nomenclature; the sages of the English law have carefully avoided deriving their inspiration from that fountain-head. With a common Legislature and a common Supreme Court of Appeal, something of an anomaly necessarily exists in this respect; and when the administration of the law of the two countries is, in a certain sense, before the House of Lords, occasional difficulties arise with regard to that of Scotland, which, as our work before us will, we think, go very far to remove. It is, in fact, a key of intercommunication between the two codes. It will not as a kind of interpreter between English and Scottish lawyers. Its object is to afford an understanding of the two systems by placing the one in juxtaposition with the corresponding detail of the other, and to show whether apparent conflict at one point is not neutralised by some peculiarity in another, though remote, department; and an attempt is made to give a view of the entire field of the law in the same dependency, so that the aggregate provisions may be thoroughly collated. The first requisite to this end the author considers to be the formation of a dictionary of all parallel terms and phrases, stating as nearly as possible what things are known under the same name in the one country and under a different or slightly different name in the other; and the next object is a statement of the differences between the two laws. The necessary practical basis sought to be obtained by reference to the Dictionary of Phrases. The plan of the work, therefore, is based on the assumption that the laws of the two countries are the same in substance, except where the contrary is expressly stated. The text comprises a statement of the law in the form of reference to the reference to real property and the rights incidental thereto, personal property, succession to a deceased person's estate, personal and domestic relations, crimes, and miscellaneous matters, with some points of international law; while foot notes contain the contraries and exceptions applicable to the law of Scotland to such corresponding proposition, and those are generally expressed in the Scotch law language as far as is found expedient and intelligible to the English lawyer. The dictionary contains a collection of nearly every technical term and all the leading phrases used in both countries, with their equivalents, or their nearest and most intelligible analogies. It also serves as a very copious index to the previous part of the work. It will be gathered from the above statement that a very valuable and a very interesting work, the result of much labour, and no ordinary combination of knowledge of the laws of both England and Scotland, has been produced. We will venture to assert that the book, while sufficiently technical, is yet thoroughly within the comprehension of the most unlearned reader. And to any one who does not regard the laws of Great Britain as matter of dry theory, with which no one but ill-fitted professors have any concern, the perusal of this work may be even called agreeable information from its perusal. Mr. Paterson, having for some time occupied the responsible position of a reporter of the cases which came before the House of Lords, on appeal, both from Scotland and England, has enjoyed peculiar advantages for acquiring a knowledge of, and for making an exact comparison between, the laws of the two countries; and the result is the work before us. Of the mode in which it has been executed we can confidently say that it is careful and elaborate, while it is not overloaded with matter. It is, as we have above intimated, a series of legal propositions, England and Scotland, presented in convenient juxtaposition, clearly stated, and in every case fortified by the quotation of authority. Not wishing to be tedious, we shall, in conclusion, say that we of a work which is, we believe, quite novel. It is very appropriately dedicated to Sir Edward Ryan, who has long held the position of the ablest expositor of Scotch as well as English law at the bar of the House of Lords.



The Westminster Review.—The number of this review for the current quarter contains eight articles, besides the admirable section devoted to Contemporary Literature, in which men and books, both those who desire to know what to read, and those who only wish to know what there is to read, are alike under very possible obligation, comprising as it does theology and philosophy, politics, sociology and novels, science, history and biography, and belles letters. The first article on Vedic Religion is founded on several works relating to the religion and institutions of India. That on Maxim and Venice in 1848-49 is not only historically valuable, but, as it seems to us, particularly suggestive at the present moment, while it may be read with advantage as a companion to the paper dissertation on Austria and the Government of Hungary. A paper on "The Ethics of War," by Sir Francis Doyle, Bart., formerly in the Guards, on the Crimean and Oliphant, in 1850, are the themes of the other articles, with the exception of the seventh—"Parliamentary Reform: Its Dangers and Safeguards." The Westminster Review was at one time the representative of philosophical Radicalism. If that creed is still understood by this publication, all we can say is that Mr. Disraeli is a philosophical Radical. The article on Reform is just the counterpart of that gentleman's speech on the second reading of the Reform Bill. Lord Derby and Mr. Disraeli have had a peep at the proofsheets of the Westminster. The writer argued against the admission of the working classes to the franchise in at any rate identical to the speech and in the article before us—namely, the remarkable capacity for combination exhibited by the artisan class, who at the same time are pronounced to be guilty of entertaining most erroneous views respecting fundamental social relations, to show infinite partiality in their attempt to enforce their erroneous views; and, being ready to break up their own private liberties to the despotic rulers of trades unions, and therefore being scarcely independent enough rightly to exercise political liberties, cannot safely be trusted with political power.

The National, in a paper on "The Reform Bill, its Real Bearing and Ultimate Effect," takes the same line as the Westminster in practice point. Viewing Lord John Russell's Bill with grief, disappointment, and dismay, the writer argues that the question of the franchise ought to be full of deep reproach to the morality of our public men, and of terrible augury for the future of our nation. Parliament, we are told, is about to be asked to pass a measure of democratic change, though five-sixths of both Houses notoriously and in their hearts know it to be unsafe. Parties, it is said, are in a state of uncertainty, waiting in detail the system of trades' unions, their workings, with their committees of delegates, their secret funds, their irresponsible and sometimes unknown leaders, it is stoutly held that the £6 rental franchise will give electoral power, and almost certainly electoral preponderance, to the fluctuating, ever-excited labouring class, so bad passions and no insane desires, nor to the intelligent artisan of cities, but to the more ordinary and less sophisticated constituencies of rural obedience! There is in the fulmination of these two professedly reformists' journals against the simplicity of Lord John's Bill something remarkable; and the almost joint denunciation will probably not be without its effects. At any rate, there will be no lack of argument for the use of the opponents of the Bill; and, for once, Tories will be supplied with means of offence against a Liberal measure by Liberal organs! Again, there is identity in the choice of subject between the Westminster and the National, as evidenced in the papers on "Railways Livre" and "Japan." Mr. Gladstone's financial scheme receives some slight notice here, heading in an article headed "The Budget and the Treasty in their Relation to Political Morality;" the Budget being characterised "as a good thing done in a bad manner and at a wrong time; a measure—or rather, a series of measures—sound, to a certain extent, in principle, and possibly embodied in result, but suggested by motives that are more than questionable, brought forward in a fashion that is almost cynical, and carried under circumstances which almost transform a right into a wrong." But amongst the eleven articles which the review contains that which will be perhaps, read most, and probably with most astonishment, is that on "The Church and Dissent." It is ably written, and as trenchant as Mr. Bright could, no doubt, make a paper, if he ever wrote one, from his own point of view. The purpose and the style of the article may be gathered from the following quotation:—"We have three distinct charges to bring against Mr. Bright, in all of which moral culpability enters at least as largely as obliquity of judgment or ignorance of truth. We accuse him of sedulously employing his great powers to sow dissension and excite animosity between the upper and lower classes of society; we accuse him of endeavouring to effect this object, as well as his other political aims, by habitual, wilful, and unscrupulous misrepresentations; and, lastly, we accuse him of systematically inculcating on the audiences he addresses the most sordid, selfish, and dangerous views of national policy—views shallow and poor as well as base."

THE FIRST TURNER GOLD MEDAL.—OBVERSE.

SKETCHES FROM CHINA.—BY OUR SPECIAL ARTIST AND CORRESPONDENT.

GOING TO CHIN CHIN THE NEW YEAR. SHOPKEEPERS PLAYING AT "CHAI MOOY," OR CHINESE "MORRA." CELESTIALS GIVING CARDS OF INVITATION.

NEW YEAR'S DAY IN CHINA.

THE "China New Year" is, says the Hong-Kong Daily Press, a great institution, and is "a festival deserving of respect and perpetuation. What Christmas is in Merrie England, the new year is in 'far Cathay.' Families are united and the links of kindred ties renewed, friendly visits are given and exchanged, dull care is driven away, and all is mirth, jollity, and good-fellowship. Scenes of childhood are visited, the old friend and relative affectionately and tenderly approached, the Deity propitiated in plenty and good humour, if not by fasting and devotion. The ancestral halls are decorated, and the sacred graves of forefathers visited and worshipped. Nor are the poor and helpless forgotten, but supplied wherewithal to warm their hearts in the general jubilee. It is almost impossible for a stranger to realise the devoted determination with which the Chinese abandon themselves to the new-year holiday recreations,—the poorest coolie in foreign service will beg, borrow, or steal a few dollars to remit to some aged mother or grandmother, and to appear in garments suitable to the occasion. This abandonment to festive devotions at new-year time is, as far as we know, universal in China. We never knew a Chinaman who had either the inclination or the fortitude to estrange himself from these festivities. But, beyond these social predilections, which make the occasion correspond to our Christmas, there is this consideration, that a Chinaman must settle all outstanding accounts before new year, or, as they say, 'lose face.' In this case he cannot publicly join in the festivities, and consequently involves disgrace on his family. The stimulus to settling accounts which this excites can only be believed by those who have witnessed it. Money is borrowed with avidity at usurious rates, produce is sold for what it will fetch, and every nerve strained to raise money and collect accounts."

PREPARATIONS FOR WAR: THE "CHESAPEAKE" PRACTISING IN HONG-KONG HARBOUR.

Our Special Artist and Correspondent in China, writing on the 31st of January last, says:—"The China new year is just over, and, taken altogether, has been a very happy one, no failures having been reported. I send you some Illustrations of this festive period (one of which we engrave this week). The centre subject of our Engraving represents a glimpse of indoor life, caught through one of those round doors for which the Chinese houses of the interior are noted. Surrounding a table the shopkeepers and their friends are assembled, and, having dined, they indulge in a noisy game, the same as the Italian game of morra, consisting of holding up so many fingers, and requesting your adversary to say quickly how many you showed. If he says wrong he has to drink a cup of 'sam shiew;' and as in the course of the game a great many wrong guesses are made the consequences may be imagined. The noise waxes louder, and the faces get redder, and our friends give vent to their joy in various ways, till you no longer recognise in the jolly faces before you the sedate-looking men who only yesterday looked as if they never drank anything stronger than tea. On the right are two Chinamen meeting on New-Year's Day, wishing each other the compliments of the season. In their hands they have their red visiting-cards, which are exchanged in incredible numbers on this day. On the left are represented women going to the temple, to pay their respects to the new year. The plant in a vase on each side of the Engraving is the tien chung fa, which is placed in every Chinaman's house on New-Year's Day, and its blossoming on that day is supposed to bring luck to the inmates. The inscription in Chinese on the top signifies a wish that you may be happy and make plenty of money."

Our Special Artist has also sent us an illustrative Sketch of the preparation for war in China—the Chesapeake Practising in Hong-Kong Harbour—which we have engraved on the preceding page. The Chesapeake's head is towards Canton River, and she is firing at Stonecutter's Island.

CALENDAR FOR THE WEEK.

SUNDAY, April 15.—Low Sunday. Godwin, Earl of Kent, died, 1053.
MONDAY, 16.—George Louis Le Clerc Buffon died, 1788.
TUESDAY, 17.—Battle of Culloden, 1745. Easter Term begins.
WEDNESDAY, 18.—Cambridge and Oxford Easter Term begins.
THURSDAY, 19.—Alphege. Lord Byron died, 1824.
FRIDAY, 20.—Emperor Napoleon III. born, 1808.
SATURDAY, 21.—Gold discovered at Fraser River. New Moon, 5h. 45m., a.m.

TIMES OF HIGH WATER AT LONDON-BRIDGE,
FOR THE WEEK ENDING APRIL 21, 1860.

Sunday.		Monday.		Tuesday.		Wednesday.		Thursday.		Friday.		Saturday.
M	A	M	A	M	A	M	A	M	A	M	A	M	A
h m	h m	h m	h m	h m	h m	h m	h m	h m	h m	h m	h m	h m	h m
9 42	10 23	10 59	11 33	—	0 3	0 26	0 44	1 2	1 19	1 36	1 52	2 7	2 23

NEW BOOKS RECEIVED.

A Compendium of English and Scotch Law, Stating their Differences. With a Dictionary of Parallel Terms and Phrases. By J. Paterson. A. and C. Black, Edinburgh.
A Story about Riflemen and Rifles. By N. Thornton. Whittaker and Co.
An Inquiry into the Genuineness of the Manuscript Corrections in Mr. J. Payne Collier's Annotated Shakspere, folio, 1632; and of Certain Shakesperean Documents likewise published by Mr. Collier. By N. E. S. A. Hamilton. Bentley.
Abroad, and How to Live There. A Narrative of Three Years' Residence in Germany and Switzerland. By Mr. Best. Seeley and Co.
Academic Reform and University Representation. By J. Heywood. Whitfield.
After Many Days. A Tale of Social Reform. By Seneca Smith. Tweedie.
American Securities. Practical Hints on the Tests of Stability and Profit. By an Anglo-American. Mann.
Amy's Kitchen. A Village Romance. Lockwood and Co.
Biographies by Lord Macaulay, contributed to the Encyclopædia Britannica. A. and C. Black, Edinburgh.
Comparative View of the Human and Animal Frame. By B. Waterhouse Hawkins. Chapman and Hall.
Contributions to the Hygienic Treatment of Paralysis. By M. Roth, M.D. Groombridge.
Days at Muirhead. James Blackwood.
Descriptive and Explanatory Notes on the Morning and Evening Services of the Book of Common Prayer. By the Rev. J. E. Golding. Westerton.
Echoes from Dreamland. By F. Norman. Ward and Lock.
Essays by the late G. Brinley. Edited by W. G. Clark. Macmillan and Co.
First Traces of Life on the Earth; or, the Fossils of the Bottom Rocks. By S. J. Mackie. Groombridge.
Four Years in Burmah. By W. H. Marshall. Two volumes. Skeet.
Highlands and Highlanders. Second Series. Saunders and Otley.
Is it not Written? Being the Testimony of Scripture against Romanism. By E. S. Pryce. Smith, Elder, and Co.
Lectures on English Law. By J. Francillon, Butterworth.
Life of Edmond Malone, Editor of Shakspeare. With Selections from his M.S. Anecdotes By Sir J. Prior. Smith, Elder, and Co.
London at a Glance. Hodgson.
Love at First Sight, and Stories of the Barrack and Battle-field. By Capt. H. Curling. Ward and Lock.
Lyrics and Legends of Rome. By Idea. Chapman and Hall.
Mr. Collier's Reply to Mr. Hamilton's Inquiry into the Imputed Shakespeare Forgeries. Bell and Daldy.
Musæ Sacræ; to which is prefixed an Essay on Church Music. By the Rev. J. Cooper. Haddon.
My Norske Note-book: or, a Month in Norway. By a Lady. Westerton.
My Life and Adventures. By the Author of "New El Dorado." Two volumes. Hall, Virtue, and Co.
Œuvres Complètes de W. Shakespeare. Tome V. Les Jaloux, II. François Victor Hugo, Traducteur. Pagnerre, Paris.
On the Construction of Horse Railways for Branch Lines. By C. Burn. Weale.
On the Curative Treatment of Paralysis and Neuralgia, &c. By H. W. Lobb. Second Edition. Baillière.
Palæontology, or a Systematic Summary of Extinct Animals and their Geological Relations. By R. Owen. A. and C. Black, Edinburgh.
Poems before Congress. By E. B. Browning. Chapman and Hall.
Practical Observations on the Prevention of Consumption. With Statistical Tables. By John Hogg, M.D. Hardwicke.
The Australian Keepsake. By J. Hurrey Mason and Firth, Melbourne.
The Colloquies of Edward Osborne. By the Author of Mary Powell. Third Edition. Hall and Virtue.
The Comprehensive History of England. Parts 27 and 28. Blackie and Son.
The Culture of Flowers and Plants. By G. Glenny. Houlston and Wright.
The Culture of Fruits and Vegetables. By G. Glenny. Houlston and Wright.
The Embroiderer's Book of Design. Collected and Engraved by F. Delamotte. Spon.
The Garden that Paid the Rent. Chapman and Hall.
The Handbook of Chess. Cassell and Co.
The Heroes of England, or, the Rifle Defenders. By J. Taylor. Pigott.
The History of a Ship from her Cradle to her Grave. By Grandpa Ben. Collingridge.
The History of the Unreformed Parliament and its Lessons. By W. Bagshot. Chapman and Hall.
The Land and the Book; or, Biblical Illustrations drawn from the Manners and Customs, the Scenes and Scenery, of the Holy Land. By W. M. Thomson, D.D. Nelson and Sons.
The Popes' Rights and Wrongs. Trübner.
The Prisoner of the Temple. An Introductory Account of the Life of Louis Charles de Bourbon. Saunders and Otley.
The Queens of Society. By Philip and Grace Wharton, with Illustrations. Two volumes. Hogg and Sons.
The Theory and Practice of Harmony and Composition. By S. Barr. Part I. Di Monti, Glasgow.
The Voyage of the Lady. Two volumes. Hurst and Blackett.
Vulgar and Decimal Fractions and Duodecimals Familiarly Explained. By the Rev. J. Evans. Penny.
Waverley Novels.—New Illustrated Edition with the Author's Notes. Vols. III. to XVI., containing Guy Mannering, The Antiquary, Rob Roy, Old Mortality, The Heart of Mid Lothian, A Legend of Montrose, The Bride of Lammermoor, The Black Dwarf, and Ivanhoe. A. and C. Black, Edinburgh.

THEATRE ROYAL, HAYMARKET.—Monday, April 16, and during the Week, Last Week but One of THE OVERLAND ROUTE and Mr. and Mrs. C. MATHEWS. The new Fairy Romance, THE PILGRIM OF LOVE, every evening, with THE BOARDING SCHOOL.

ROYAL ST. JAMES'S THEATRE.—Sole Lessee, Mr. F. B. Chatterton; Directress, Miss Wyndham.—On Monday and during the Week, A BORDER MARRIAGE; A CHANGE OF SYSTEM; LUCREZIA BORGIA AT HOME AND ALL ABROAD—Miss Wyndham, Mr. Charles Young. To conclude with NO. 49.

NEW THEATRE ROYAL, ADELPHI.—Sole Proprietor and Manager, Mr. B. Webster.—Last Twelve Nights of THE DEAD HEART, in consequence of Mr. B. Webster's engagements at Bath, Bristol, and Manchester, commencing the 30th of April. On Monday, and during the Week, THE DEAD HEART—Mr. B. Webster, J. L. Toole, D. Fisher, Miss Woolgar; and THE FAIRONE WITH THE GOLDEN LOCKS—Messrs. J. L. Toole, P. Bedford, Miss Woolgar, R. Thorne, K. Kelly. Commence at Seven.

ASTLEY'S AMPHITHEATRE.—Proprietor, Mr. BATTY; Manager, Mr. HUGHES.—Monday, April 16th, and during the Week, the successful Military Spectacle entitled THE HISTORY OF A FLAG. Succeeded by the SCENES in the CIRQUE, supported by Mdlles Monet, Marie, Fernando and Berg; Messrs. Williams, Devereux, Watson, Fernando, and the Wonder of the World, "Jonathan Jack." Terminating with a Farce. Doors open at Half-past Six, to commence at Seven. Box-office open daily from Eleven till Four.

MR. RICHARDSON begs to announce that he will give a GRAND CONCERT at the ST. JAMES'S HALL, on THURSDAY EVENING, APRIL 19, to commence at Eight o'Clock. Vocalists: Mdlle. Parepa, Mdme. Weiss, Miss Messent, and Miss Palmer; Signor Belletti, Mr. Santley, and Mr. Sims Reeves. Instrumentalists: Violin, Herr Becker; Violoncellos, Signor Piatti and Herr Schroeder; Flute, Master Drew Dean; Pianoforte, Miss Arabella Goddard. Conductor, Mr. Cusins. Sofa Stalls, 5s.; Balcony, 3s.; Unreserved Seats, 1s. Tickets may be obtained of Chappell and Co., 50, New Bond-street; Cramer and Co., 201, Regent-street; Hammond (Jullien's), 214, Regent-street; Keith, Prowse, and Co., 48, Cheapside; Mr. Richardson, 105, Warwick-street, Pimlico; and at the Hall, 28, Piccadilly.

CRYSTAL PALACE.—June 25, 26, and 28, GREAT ORPHEONISTE MUSICAL FESTIVAL. Vouchers for Tickets for this great combination of the French Choral Societies, comprising deputations from nearly every Department of France, representing One Hundred and Seventy distinct Choral Societies, and numbering between Three and Four Thousand Performers, who will visit England expressly to hold a Great Musical Festival at the Crystal Palace on the above days, are now on issue at the Crystal Palace; at No. 2, Exeter Hall; or by order of the usual agents. The Prices of Admission will be as follows:—The Set of Transferable Tickets (one admission to each of the three days), 12s. 6d.; Reserved Seats (for the three days), 12s. 6d. extra, or in the Corner Galleries, 25s. extra.—The new Season Tickets will admit on the above occasion, subject to the usual regulations.

CRYSTAL PALACE.—Arrangements for the Week ending Saturday, April 21:—Monday, open at Nine; Tuesday to Friday, open at Ten. Admission, 1s.; Children under Twelve, 6d. Orchestral Band, Great Organ, and Pianoforte Performances daily. Beautiful display of Camellias, Hyacinths, and other flowers round the Fountain Basins and throughout the Palace.
Saturday open at Ten—Vocal and Instrumental Concert. Admission by Season Tickets, 10s. 6d. each; or on payment of 2s. 6d.; Children, 1s.; Reserved Seats, 2s. 6d. extra.
Sunday, open at half-past One, to Shareholders gratuitously by tickets.

CRYSTAL PALACE.—FRIDAY, MAY 4.—Tickets for the GREAT FESTIVAL PERFORMANCE of ELIJAH, on the occasion of the Inauguration of the Bronze Memorial Statue of Mendelssohn, are now on sale at the Crystal Palace, and at No. 2, Exeter Hall, or by order of the usual agents. Admission Tickets 5s. (if purchased before May 1); Reserved Stalls, in blocks, as arranged at the Handel Festival, in the Area, 5s. extra; or in the Corner Galleries, 10s. 6d. extra. The new Season Tickets will admit, subject to the usual regulations. NOTICE!—Immediate application is requisite for Central Blocks. Post-office orders or cheques to be payable to George Grove.

PHILHARMONIC SOCIETY.—Conductor, Dr. BENNETT.—The First Concert of the Season will take place, at the HANOVER-SQUARE ROOMS, on MONDAY EVENING, APRIL 23. Subscription to the Series, Three Guineas. Places can be secured at Addison, Hollier, and Lucas', 210, Regent-street, W.

MUSICAL UNION, TUESDAY, April 17, Half-past Three, ST. JAMES'S HALL. Quartet, B flat, Haydn; Sonata, F minor, Op. 57, Beethoven; Nonetto, Op. 31, Spohr. Solos, Pianoforte. Artists: Sainton, Goffrie, R. Blagrove, Piatti, Pratten, Barret, Lazarus, Hausser, Harper. Pianoforte, Herr Lubeck, Pianist to the Court at the Hague, his First Performance in London. Single Tickets—to be had of Cramer and Co., Chappell and Co., and Ollivier—Half-a-guinea each. J. ELLA, Director.

ST. MARTIN'S HALL.—ROSSINI'S STABAT MATER, MACFARREN'S MAY DAY, and WEBER'S OVERTURE to DER FREISCHUTZ. WEDNESDAY, APRIL 18, at Eight. Under the direction of Mr. JOHN HULLAH. Principal Vocalists: Miss Parepa, Miss Fanny Rowland, Miss Palmer, Mr. Wilbye Cooper Mr. Santley. Tickets, 1s.; 2s. 6d.; Stalls, 5s.

MR. SIMS REEVES' BENEFIT at the MONDAY POPULAR CONCERTS, ST. JAMES'S HALL.—Mr. Sims Reeves has the honour to announce that he has made arrangements with the Directors of the MONDAY POPULAR CONCERTS to take his BENEFIT at the ST. JAMES'S HALL on MONDAY EVENING, APRIL 23, on which occasion the programme will be selected from the works of VARIOUS MASTERS. Principal Performers: Miss Arabella Goddard, M. Sainton, and Signor Piatti. Vocalists: Mdme. Sainton-Dolby, Mrs. Sims Reeves, and Mr. Sims Reeves. Conductor, Mr. Benedict. Stalls, 10s. 6d. and 5s.; Balcony, 3s.; Unreserved Seats, 1s; may be obtained of Messrs. Chappell and Co., 50, New Bond-street; Cramer, Beale, and Co., 201, Regent-street; Hammond's (Jullien's), 214, Regent-street; Keith, Prowse, and Co., 48, Cheapside; and at the Hall, 28, Piccadilly.

ST. MARTIN'S HALL.—Mr. Sims Reeves, Mdlle. Parepa, Mdme. Weiss, Miss Poole, Miss Stabbach, Miss Leffler, Miss Bleadon, Miss Clara Hamilton, and Miss Lascelles; Mr. Ramsden, Mr. R. Seymour, Mr. G. W. Morgan, and Mr. Weiss. The London Vocal Quartet: Harp, Miss Coatterton; Concertina, Miss M. Collins; Violin, Mr. Viotti Collins; Pianoforte, Mr. L. Williams, Herr Wilhelm Ganz, and Mr. J. L. Hatton, at LANGTON WILLIAMS'S GRAND EVENING CONCERT, WEDNESDAY APRIL 25.—Tickets, 1s., 2s., 3s., and 5.

MR. ALBERT SMITH'S MONT BLANC NOW OPEN EVERY NIGHT (but Saturday) at Eight o'clock, and Tuesday and Saturday Afternoons at Three o'clock.—Stalls, 3s., which can be taken at the Box-Office, Egyptian Hall, daily, from Eleven till Five; area, 2s.; gallery, 1s.

MR. and MRS. GERMAN REED.—Every Evening (except Saturday) at Eight; Thursday and Saturday afternoons at Three, in their POPULAR ILLUSTRATIONS, OUR HOME CIRCUIT and SEASIDE STUDIES, introducing a variety of amusing and interesting SKETCHES FROM REAL LIFE, with Characteristic Songs, at the ROYAL GALLERY OF ILLUSTRATION, 14, Regent-street. Admission 1s, 2s.; Stalls, 3s.; secured at the Gallery; and at Cramer, Beale, and Co.'s, 201, Regent-street. Last Week of SALLY SKEGGS.

MR. and MRS. HOWARD PAUL'S FAREWELL SEASON at the ST JAMES'S HALL, in their Gay, Dashing Entertainment, which will be given EVERY EVENING NEXT WEEK, and on Tuesday and Saturday Mornings, at 3. Mr. Howard Paul in three new Impersonation Songs. The astonishing "Double" of Mr. Sims Reeves, in "Come into the Garden, Maud," and "Geraldine." Stalls, 3s.; Area, 2s.; Gallery, 1s. Commence at 8. Places may be secured at the Box-office, 28, Piccadilly.

THE SISTERS "SOPHIA AND ANNIE" will have the honour of appearing in an entirely new Entertainment (written expressly for them by an eminent author), entitled MERRY MEETINGS, at BALLYMENA, APRIL 16 and 17; COLERAINE, 18 and 19.

CHRISTY'S MINSTRELS.—Polygraphic Hall, King William-street, Strand.—Farewell Season in London. Every Evening at Eight, and Every Saturday Morning at Three o'Clock. Tickets and places may be secured at the Hall from Eleven till Four, and at Mr Austin's, West-end Box-office, St. James's Hall, Piccadilly. Sole Proprietor and Manager, Mr. J. W. Raynor. Secretary, H. Montague.

ALBAIN'S CHOIR and ORCHESTRA.—The COLOURED OPERA TROUPE are continuing their CONCERTS of Refined NEGRO MUSIC, in Court costume, with unprecedented success. Fête committees, &c., address, W. Albain, 21, Newington-crescent, London, S.

FRENCH EXHIBITION, 120, Pall-mall.—The SEVENTH ANNUAL EXHIBITION of PICTURES, the contributions of ARTISTS of the FRENCH and FLEMISH SCHOOLS is NOW OPEN.—Admission, 1s.; catalogues, 6d. Open from 9 till 6, daily.

VICTORIA CROSS GALLERY, Egyptian Hall, Piccadilly, Daily from Ten till Seven. Admission, 1s., Catalogue, 6d. The Descriptive Catalogue of the whole of last year's pictures, with numerous additions, all painted by L. W. Desanges, Esq., will be forwarded by post on receipt of Seven postage stamps, by the secretary, Mr. James Rowe, Victoria Cross Gallery.

PRACTICAL GEOLOGY.—KING'S COLLEGE, London.—Professor TENNANT, F.G.S., will give a Course of Twelve LECTURES on GEOLOGY having especial reference to the application of the science to ENGINEERING, Mining Architecture, and Agriculture. The Lectures will commence on FRIDAY MORNING, APRIL 20, at Nine o'Clock. They will be continued on each succeeding Wednesday and Friday, at the same hour. Fee, £1 11s. 6d. R. W. JELF, D.D., Principal.

LINCOLN'S-INN HERALDIC OFFICE.—Engraving on Stone, Silver, Emblazoning, &c., in accordance with the laws of Garter King of Arms. Crest on Seals or Rings, 8s. 6d. Book Plate Arms, 21s.—H. SALT, Turnstile, Lincoln's-inn.

CAUTION on HERALDRY.—The Nobility and Gentry complain of the Errors committed in Armorial Bearings by Stationers, Jewellers, Engravers, and others. Bachelors are represented married, the married bachelors, and the maiden widowed. The Public for protection, and to prevent being censured, should consult her Majesty's Heralds, or the Lincoln's-inn Heraldic Office, who execute Engravings, &c. Lincoln's-inn MANUAL OF HERALDRY, 3s., or stamps.—H. SALT, Turnstile, Lincoln's-inn.

FOR FAMILY ARMS, send to the LINCOLN'S INN HERALDIC OFFICE Name and County. Arms Painted, Empaled and Quartered. Sketch, 3s. 6d., or stamps. Pedigrees of Families, 21s.—H. SALT, Great Turnstile, Lincoln's-inn.

LINCOLN'S INN HERALDIC OFFICE.—The established office for authority in England, which for many years has furnished Arms, Crests, &c., with that authenticity known throughout Europe.—H. SALT, Great Turnstile, Lincoln's-inn.

TESTIMONIALS Designed and Emblazoned on Vellum and Caskets for ditto for Presentations. Monumental Brasses, Ecclesiastic, Notarial Seals, Dies, Presses, Book Plates, &c.—H. SALT, Heraldic Office, Turnstile, Lincoln's-inn.

SMART'S WRITING INSTITUTION, 97B, Quadrant, Regent-street (entrance in Swallow-street).—Removed from Piccadilly. Open from Ten till Nine daily. Persons of all ages received (privately), and taught at any time suiting their own convenience. Lessons one hour each. No classes. No extras. Improvement guaranteed in Eight to Twelve Easy Lessons. Separate rooms for Ladies to which department (if preferred) Mrs. Smart will attend. For prospectuses, terms, &c., apply to Mr. Smart, as above.

INVESTMENT of SAVINGS and CAPITAL.—THE CONSERVATIVE LAND SOCIETY.—Trustees: Viscount Ranelagh and J. C. Cobbold, Esq., M.P.—Interest on Shares, five per cent per annum; on Deposits, four per Cent per annum, payable half-yearly, on the 1st of May and 1st of November. Prospectuses explanatory of the Share, Deposit, Borrowing, and Land Departments, free. Plans of Estates, 6d. Offices, No. 33, Norfolk-street, Strand, W.C. CHARLES LEWIS GRUNEISEN, Secretary.

THE ARMY.—SANDHURST LODGE, Primrose-hill, London. Thorough preparation for Addiscombe, Sandhurst, Woolwich, and Commissions direct. This Establishment, existing since 1843, has prepared 500 pupils for military life—Terms, &c., on application to Dr. LINFOOT, M.A., Principal.

THE ALLEYN PARK ESTATE presents a combination of advantages adapted for building purposes possessed by few localities in the neighbourhood of London. Placed almost on the same eminence with the Crystal Palace, from which and from two railway stations to the City and West-end it is but a few minutes' walk, it commands beautiful prospects with a salubrious atmosphere. It has also constant omnibus communication with the City and West-end. Several most eligible plots for building residences, having frontages from 80 to 300 feet, are now let at moderate ground-rents, and some are to be sold. The ground-rents (except a nominal sum) may be redeemed, if desired, so as to render the property nearly equal to freehold. Leases would be granted direct from Dulwich College. Many who are desirous to have a house after their own taste fear to enter into those troublesome arrangements attending contracts with builders. For such persons the proprietor of the estate is willing to erect houses. One most important advantage connected with this Estate is that the tenants have the privilege of sending their children to the Dulwich College School, but a few hundred yards distant, and where, for the sum of about £6 annually, an education is obtained nearly equal to that at Harrow or Rugby. There are many Scholarships in the gift of the College. For further particulars apply to Messrs. Brady, Son, and Scott, Solicitors, 50, King William-street, City; or Messrs. Haslam and Buckland, Surveyors, 69, Cannon street West, E.C.

ROYAL NATIONAL LIFE-BOAT INSTITUTION.—The Committee of this Institution earnestly appeal to the public for pecuniary assistance to aid them to meet the present heavy demands on the limited funds of the society.
14, John-street, Adelphi, April 1860. THOMAS BARING, Chairman. THOMAS CHAPMAN, Deputy Chairman.
Bankers—Messrs. Willis and Co., Coutts and Co., Herries and Co.

CITY of LONDON HOSPITAL for DISEASES of the CHEST, Victoria Park.
Under the Patronage of her Majesty the QUEEN.
President—His Excellency the Earl of Carlisle, K.G.
Treasurer—H. Edmund Gurney, Esq.
The TWELFTH ANNIVERSARY FESTIVAL of this Institution is appointed to be held at the LONDON TAVERN, Bishopsgate-street, on TUESDAY, the 17th of APRIL.
The Right Hon. the Earl of Shrewsbury and Talbot, C.B., in the Chair.
The expenditure of the Institution is greatly augmented by the opening of the whole of the wards, and, as the Committee have taken this step, relying solely on the increased support of the public, they earnestly solicit the kind and active co-operation of the Governors and friends of the Charity to obtain the funds so urgently required on this occasion.
Office, 6, Liverpool, E.C. HENRY SEWELL, Hon. Secretary. RICHARD P. SLATER, Secretary.

HOSPITAL for CONSUMPTION and DISEASES of the CHEST, Brompton, London, S.W.
A PUBLIC DINNER will take place at the ALBION TAVERN, 153, Aldersgate-street, E.C., on WEDNESDAY, MAY 16, 1860.
The Right Hon. Sir JOHN S. PAKINGTON, Bart., M.P., G.C.B., &c., &c., &c., in the chair, in aid of the general Expenditure of the Hospital, and with a view to the formation of a Special Fund for extinguishing the Mortgage Debt, which now presses so heavily upon the financial resources of the Charity.
PHILIP ROSE, Hon. Sec. HENRY DOBBIN, Sec.

THE FOLKESTONE WEST CLIFF HOTEL COMPANY (LIMITED).
Registered pursuant to the Joint-stock Companies Acts, 1856-7, by which the liability of Shareholders is strictly limited to their Subscriptions.
Capital, £60,000, in 60,000 Shares of £1 each.
Deposit, 10s. per Share on Application, and 10s. on Allotment.
Offices—20, Walbrook.
Possession of the West Cliff Hotel having been taken on the 24th of March by the Directors of this Company, the contemplated additions and alteration, without interruption to the present business, will be forthwith commenced by an eminent contractor.
The advantages to the Shareholders of this undertaking are as follow, viz.:—
Limited liability.
Conversion of Shares at their par value, at pleasure.
Interest at five per cent on paid-up capital until the first division of profits.
Possession of a well-established, first-class hotel business.
Applications for the unallotted shares will be received by the Directors for a limited period, and by the Brokers and Solicitors of the Company. JOHN CHALLICE, M.D., Chairman.
London, 20, Walbrook, April 2, 1860.

LARGE COLOURED ENGRAVING GRATIS.
IMPERIAL STAG-HUNT IN THE FOREST OF COMPIEGNE.

With the Number of the ILLUSTRATED LONDON NEWS for next Saturday, APRIL 21, will be given a Supplement containing a magnificent

TWO-PAGE ENGRAVING, PRINTED IN COLOURS,

AN IMPERIAL STAG-HUNT IN THE FOREST OF COMPIEGNE, from a Drawing by M. Beaucé; also Two Fine-Art Illustrations—THE BURGOMASTER AND HIS DAUGHTER, from a Drawing by J. Gilbert; and THE FALLS OF TERNI, from a photograph by the late H. Johnson, of Rome.

Price of the Number and Supplement Fivepence Unstamped, Sixpence Stamped.

Office, 198, Strand.

THE ILLUSTRATED LONDON NEWS.

LONDON, SATURDAY, APRIL 14, 1860.

WE have already expressed an opinion that the conduct of the Post Office authorities with regard to the transmission of newspapers is unsatisfactory. At the same time we stated that it was more than probable that a good deal of the evident inclination on the part of that department to place obstacles in the way of the free and regular circulation of journals through the post is owing to the fact that an insensible demand is made by the Minister of Finance on the Post Office for a certain amount of revenue, the tendency of which is naturally to cripple the working power of the establishment. As it would be a bold thing to attempt to limit the ready and effectual transit of letters (although, even in that respect, endeavours have been made which are deserving of the severest reprehension), the department falls back on the newspaper and book arrangements. It is, therefore, rather to the Chancellor of the Exchequer than to the chiefs of the Post Office that remonstrances should be addressed in reference to the arrangements which are to come into operation on the removal of the impressed stamp on newspapers. The system as it at present exists is full of complications, and half the district postmasters, both in London and the provinces, are ignorant of the exact postal rates of newspapers going abroad. When the new plan comes into existence these difficulties will be greatly increased, and that constant failure of delivery of newspapers, both at home and abroad, with regard to which we hear such numerous complaints, is likely to become not only enlarged but chronic.

As this is the right moment for making an effort to set this matter right, we will offer a suggestion for a plan which is calculated to ensure simplicity and facility in the previous management and in the subsequent transmission of books and newspapers. Why should not some such system as this be adopted in the rates of payment for newspapers and books? Let a charge of one penny be imposed on every newspaper and book up to five ounces, with an addition of a penny for every additional ounce weight, no matter whither it is to be sent. Such a rate could be most easily calculated, would materially facilitate the necessary manipulation in the various post-offices, and tend very greatly to prevent that delay, too often ending in absolute non-transmission, which attends the present complicated system. It may be that the adoption of such a plan would involve the necessity of additional force in each department of the Post Office; but that is an improvement which the public has a right to demand from an establishment which is undertaken by the State for social purposes, and not with a view to gain to the revenue. But even from this point of view we are informed by those who have examined into the matter that the returns from such a system would very soon more than compensate for any additional expense which might be incurred. Mr. Gladstone is even now showing, as he has shown before, that he has faith in penny taxation. We commend to his consideration another phase in that principle which it is conscientiously believed would not ultimately, if at all, diminish the revenue derived from the Post Office, while it would make perfect a system which is essentially a national requirement.

THE excommunication that was delivered in England on Good Friday seems to be regarded as a blank cartridge, not only by those who do not recognise the Power of the Keys, but by the Roman Catholic world in France and elsewhere. This comes of its generality. For reasons of his own, his Holiness the Pope abstains from naming anybody as the object of the malediction, and therefore everybody declines to suppose himself alluded to. Readers of Cowper will remember that a similar abstinence on the part of another great theologian—namely, Mohammed—in regard to mentioning what part of the unclean animal was to be eschewed by the faithful, produced a similar carelessness, and the Mohammedan world "eat up the hog." Pope Pius, who sits in the chair marked with a proclamation of the Prophet, appears to have caught inspiration therefrom. Here, in England, the reception of the Bull has resolved itself into good-natured criticism on its Latin and its English; and Cardinal Wiseman's cross-bearer, Mr. Bowyer, has had to correct the spelling of an official's description, but has not yet explained the passage in which the Pope announces that the excommunication shall not be taken off anybody "except at the moment of death, but not in case of recovery." It is insinuated that the Hibernian element, strong in Rome, has been engaged in the composition of the document. It is one of those curious contradictions in which history abounds that, while educated society has reached a condition which dictates the reception of such a document with a smile, the Church that launches the Bull should be—speaking in a worldly sense—justified in doing so, inasmuch as "the curse of Rome" has still a terror for ignorance.

Easter has been anything but genial, and the keen blasts and occasional snowstorms have been dispiriting to the myriads who look forward to the season for the first of the year's holidays. Still, the weather has not been actually bad, and the railways and steamers have been loaded with passengers bent on pleasure in spite of the sullen skies. The Crystal Palace has been, of course, the grand attraction for the metropolitans, but half a dozen crystal palaces, had they existed, would have been largely patronised on "the great days," and the province of brick called London is as yet but inadequately supplied with places of recreation. The museums at Brompton, affectedly called South Kensington, were as well attended as could be expected, but their riches are but imperfectly known, as yet, to the masses. Thousands also wearied themselves in the interminable galleries of Great Russell-street, those halls where the scantiest resting-places are provided for the tiring visitor, who performs two-thirds of his pilgrimage with dragging feet and inobservant stare. There is high debate as to what shall be done to relieve the overcrowded building, and the national philosophers sternly demand that the Duke of Bedford be asked for more room, instead of the removal of the collections dear to them. Be the result what it may, in the interest of humanity the trustees ought to devise rests for the people, who, unaccustomed to husband their powers of sight-seeing, become pitiable martyrs to the "cruel distances" of the British Museum. The erection of the handsome fountains show that those authorities have human feelings, which may be safely indulged a little further.

Another "national" amusement, of which people who might be expected to be more decorous talk with a singular tolerance, has received a discouragement. The champion sent over by America to snatch the belt from the leader of the English ring has been arrested, and held to bail, and it is probable that the intended combat will be prevented, or will take place in the presence of a very select circle of amateurs. As this is one of the topics of talk in the clubs and elsewhere, it is entitled to mention by the journalist; but as Shakspeare has it, "the tears are in an onion that should water the sorrow" one feels at the probable prevention of a large assemblage of about the worst people England can summon from fighting-houses and other dens for the purpose of witnessing a spectacle entirely unsuited to the present day.

Less attention than it deserves will probably be given to a protest on the part of the educated members of the profession of a dentist—a most important branch of surgery, and one whose best professors have been laudably doing all in their power to elevate. We would, therefore, invite notice to it. The protest is directed against an inferior class of practitioners, who are seeking by a sort of terro-metallic device (in which brass preponderates) to induce the thoughtless public to confound them with those who have passed a regular examination and obtained a diploma. When the suffering which quack treatment may entail, throughout a whole life, upon the victim to unskilful hands is considered, society cannot be too careful in examining the credentials of any man who professes to be qualified to deal with our dental or any other troubles; and, as it is now pretty well understood that something more than advertisements, impudence, and a strong wrist are required to make a dentist, it will be well that any one in need of his aid should ascertain that he possesses an addition to that stock in trade.

Marriages are not usually selected, in England at least, as the theme for newspaper comment, though our friends across the western water frequently garnish their announcements of a bridal with a few complimentary verses, all the more gracious if the name of bride or bridegroom permits of an elegant joke. But a marriage almost becomes matter of history when an Ambassadress of England is in question. That proud title has just devolved upon the accomplished daughter of one of our most favourite composers. Miss Victoire Balfe, advantageously known to all the musical world as a charming artist, has conferred her hand upon our Sovereign's representative at the Court of Russia, and is now Lady Crampton. Were we but transatlantic we would say a great number of pretty things about the promotion of harmony between the Courts, the making any overtures acceptable, and we might even get in a philanthropic compliment about the common chord of friendship; but, being only prosaic and English, we content ourselves with noting that a lady who did honour to the stage has been elevated to a circle where her merits and graces will meet more refined though not more cordial recognition than they received from her audiences.

Geological Excursionists.—A large number of members of the Geologists' Association on Monday last visited Folkstone, with a view to examine the strata of that interesting locality. The party, which was under the guidance of the president, the Rev. Thomas Wiltshire, and Professor Tennant, spent several hours on the seashore, investigating the chalk, greensands, and gault, and procured many characteristic fossils.

THE COURT.

On Saturday, the birthday of Prince Leopold, the Duchess of Kent and the Princess of Leiningen paid her Majesty an early congratulatory visit. In the afternoon the Queen and the Prince Consort, with the Prince of Wales, Princess Alice, and Prince Alfred, rode out on horseback. In the evening the Queen and Prince Consort, accompanied by the Prince of Wales, Prince Alfred, Princess Alice, Princess Helena, Princess Louisa, Prince Arthur, Prince Leopold, and the Princess of Leiningen (who had joined the Royal party from Frogmore), attended by the Ladies and Gentlemen in Waiting, were present at a performance of sacred music in St. George's Hall. The performance was "The Passion," or "The Seven Last Words of our Saviour on the Cross"—a sacred oratorio by Joseph Haydn—for which the following eminent artists were engaged:—Miss Louisa Pyne, Miss Lascelles, Mr. Sims Reeves, and Mr. Santley. The band and chorus, consisting of nearly two hundred performers, were selected from Her Majesty's Theatre, the Royal Italian Opera, the Philharmonic and Sacred Harmonic Societies, the choir of St. George's Chapel, and her Majesty's private band.

On Easter Sunday the Queen and Prince Consort, the Prince of Wales, Princess Alice, Prince Alfred, Princess Helena, Princess Louisa, and Prince Arthur, the ladies and gentlemen of the Court, and the domestic household, attended Divine service in the private chapel. The Duchess of Kent and Princess Leiningen were also at the service. The Hon. and Very Rev. the Dean of Windsor officiated, and administered the Holy Sacrament. In the afternoon the Queen and Prince Consort, accompanied by the Prince of Wales, Princess Alice, Prince Alfred, Princess Helena, Princess Louisa, Prince Arthur, Prince Leopold, and Princess Beatrice, walked on the East Terrace. The Ladies and Gentlemen in Waiting were in attendance.

On Monday the Queen, with Princess Alice, walked and drove in the Home Park, and visited the Duchess of Kent at Frogmore. The Prince Consort, accompanied by the Prince of Wales and Prince Alfred, went to the Wellington College, attended by Captain Du Plat and Captain Grey. The Duchess of Kent and Princess Leiningen visited her Majesty in the afternoon. In the evening the Queen's dinner party, included the Prince of Wales, Princess Alice, Prince Alfred, Lady Mary Hood; Colonel M. Wood, commanding officer 2nd Battalion Coldstream Guards; Captain the Hon. H. W. Campbell, 2nd Battalion Coldstream Guards, and Miss Campbell; Sir James Clark, Captain Grey, and Major Cowell, R.E.

On Tuesday the Queen and Prince Consort, after visiting the Duchess of Kent at Frogmore, proceeded to Aldershott Camp. The Royal party, included Princess Alice, Prince Alfred, the Princess of Leiningen, and Prince Arthur. Prince Edward of Saxe-Weimar and General Knollys had the honour of joining the Royal dinner party.

On Wednesday, at eleven o'clock, her Majesty left the Pavilion on horseback, and proceed to review the division at Aldershott. The Prince Consort, Princess Alice, and Prince Alfred rode with the Queen; and Prince Arthur and the Princess of Leinengen followed in an open carriage. In attendance were the Marchioness of Ely, the Hon. Flora Macdonald, the Equerries in Waiting on the Queen and Prince, Major Elphinstone, Major Cowell, and Major-General Forster, Deputy Adjutant-General; and Colonel the Hon. A. Gordon, Deputy Quartermaster-General.

On Thursday the Queen drove round the camp, and visited the hospitals and some of the officers' and soldiers' quarters.

Yesterday (Friday) the Court returned to Windsor Castle.

The Court is expected to return to Buckingham Palace on Monday next from Windsor Castle.

The Marchioness of Ely has succeeded the Countess of Gainsborough as the Lady in Waiting to the Queen.

COURT ARRANGEMENTS.

We are authorised to state that her Majesty will give a juvenile ball at Buckingham Palace on Tuesday, May 1; a concert, on Friday, May 4; and a state ball on Wednesday, May 9. Another concert and a state ball will be given in June.

His Excellency the Ambassador of France and the Countess de Persigny left Albert-gate House on Wednesday for Paris.

The Duke of Devonshire and Lady Louisa Cavendish have left the Viceregal Lodge, where they have been staying on a visit to the Earl of Carlisle, for Lismore Castle.

The Duke and Duchess of Richmond are receiving a succession of visitors at Goodwood.

The Earl of Elgin has made arrangements to proceed on his mission to China by the last mail this month. His Lordship is daily expected to return from Scotland, where private affairs have detained him.

The Earl and Countess of Hardwicke and family will return to town on Monday from Wimpole Hall, for the season.

A marriage is arranged to take place shortly between Lady Charlotte Carnegie, sister of the Earl of Southesk, and Mr. Thomas F. S. Fothringham, of Fothringham, Forfarshire.

WILLS AND BEQUESTS.

Dowager Lady Cowley: The will and two codicils of the Right Hon Georgiana Charlotte Augusta Baroness Cowley were proved in London on the 2nd of April by the Most Noble the Marquis of Salisbury, K.G., the brother, Viscount Cranborne, the nephew, and the Hon. and Very Rev. Gerald Wellesley, Dean of Windsor, the joint acting executors; the personalty sworn under £12,000. Her Ladyship has bequeathed to her only daughter, the Right Hon. Georgiana Charlotte Mary, wife of his Excellency the Right Hon. Sir Henry Lytton Earle Bulwer, G.C.B., P.C., her Majesty's Ambassador at Constantinople, all her jewelery, plate, paintings, books, Sèvres, Dresden, and ornamental china, articles of virtù, and curiosities; and has directed that all the rest of her property (saving some legacies by codicil) shall be invested in the purchase of an annuity for her life and for her sole and separate use. By her first codicil her Ladyship has bequeathed to her nephew, Lord Eustace Gascoyne Cecil, £500 worth of London and Brighton Railway shares; and by her second codicil she leaves to her old and faithful servant Mary Smith a pension of 14s. per week for her life, to be paid out of her shares in the Continental Gas Company. The will bears date June 29, 1857; first codicil, December, 1858; second codicil, February 8, 1859. Lady Cowley was the eldest daughter of James, first Marquis of Salisbury; was born on the 20th of March, 1786; and married, on the 27th of February, 1816, Henry Lord Cowley, who died in Paris in April, 1817.

Baron Watson: The will and codicil of Sir William Henry Watson, one of the Honourable the Barons of her Majesty's Court of Exchequer at Westminster, has just been administered to in the London Court by his son, John William Watson, Esq., and the personalty sworn under £50,000. The will is very short, and written entirely in his own handwriting, but without date, yet it is known to have been made on or about the 31st of August, 1850. There is also a codicil dated the 15th of October, 1859. He leaves his law books to his son John William, and all his other books he leaves to his son William Henry, and also leaves to him his Bermuda medal, sword, and guns (Sir William was formerly in the Army in India), and also leaves him his best watch. The residue of his property he leaves as follows:—One moiety to his son John absolutely; and of the other moiety the principal to be invested and the interest and dividends arising therefrom to be paid to his wife for her life, and at her decease the principal to become the property of his said son William Henry, absolutely. The codicil refers to a sum of £10,000 under marriage settlement of his son John, to come out of his estate. He has left to his clerk, John Lancelly, if with him at the time of his death, a legacy of £300. The witnesses to the will are J. E. Buller, 56, Lincoln's Inn-fields; and R. S. Sutton, his clerk.

It is asserted that the proposed telegraphic line from Falmouth to Gibraltar has been indefinitely postponed, and that the cable, 1000 miles long, which is in course of manufacture for the purpose, is to be laid down between Rangoon and Singapore.

The exquisite pictures painted by Henry O'Neil, A.R.A., that caused so great a sensation at the Royal Academy, and which have raised Mr. O'Neil from comparative obscurity to a membership of the Royal Academy, are about to be exhibited in the west end of London during the season.

Mr. W. Sloane Stanley died on Wednesday morning at Paultons, the family seat, near Romsey. Mr. Stanley was for many years well known as a zealous supporter of the turf and our field sports. He married, in 1804, Lady Gertrude Howard, daughter of Frederick, fifth Earl of Carlisle, by Lady Margaret Leveson Gower, second daughter of Granville, first Marquis of Stafford.

Mr. Horsman and his Constituents.—A long letter from Mr. Horsman to the gentleman who proposed him at the last election has been published, in which the right hon. gentleman enters into an elaborate defence of his recent conduct in Parliament. In the outset he says that the report of the proceedings of the recent meeting of his constituents which had been sent to the London newspapers was so untruthful "that even foreign journals have been able to use it largely to prove that Lord John Russell's recent declaration of the policy of his Cabinet is condemned in England, inasmuch as the member who elicited that declaration has been discarded by his constituents." The letter concludes as follows:—"I opposed the financial measures of the Government; I condemn their Reform Bill: and, if a fitting opportunity be given, I may censure their foreign policy. In this course I believe I shall ere long be sustained by the voice of the country, not excepting the electors of Stroud. But, should this last hope unfortunately not be realised—should Stroud be an exception to the general feeling—and, when the time for reviewing my public conduct arrives, should the constituency of Stroud not approve it, I can assure them and you that I shall be the first to sever, though with much sorrow, a connection which, under such circumstances, must be as embarrassing to me as it would be distasteful and unfair to them."

CHURCH, UNIVERSITIES, &c.

The deanery of Kilmore, vacated by the death of Lord Fitzgerald and Vesci, has been conferred upon the Rev. Dr. Carson, Rector of Cloon.

It is proposed to establish schools in Wales for encouragement of such young men of promise from the middle classes as may desire to enter holy orders, the existing schools being of too expensive a character for the classes there from which the ministry must find its recruits.

On Monday the congregation of St. Stephen's, Shepherd's Bush, presented to the Rev. J. W. Hallward, their late Curate, a silver tea and coffee service, bearing an appropriate inscription, on his resigning the curacy for the chaplaincy of the House of Correction at Wandsworth.

The Bishop of Brisbane proposes to sail for his diocese on the 1st of May. His Lordship will, we believe (says the Guardian), be accompanied by seven clergymen, one lay-reader, and three schoolmasters.

On Sunday evening the third series of the special Sunday evening services, under the dome of St. Paul's Cathedral, was brought to a close. The Rev. Archibald Boyd, M.A., Incumbent of St. James's, Paddington, was the preacher.

An association has been formed in the deanery of Southwark for the purpose of augmenting the small benefices of that district. Each of the sixty incumbents promises an annual collection in his church in aid of the funds.

On Easter Eve the Rev. W. J. Dampier, Vicar of Coggeshall, Essex, was presented with a complete set of robes by his parishioners. The above testimonial was accompanied by a letter containing expressions of their gratitude and regard for his valuable services.

A public meeting will be held in St. George's Hall, Liverpool, on Tuesday next, the 17th instant, for the distribution of prizes awarded to those competitors who were successful at the last Cambridge examination held in Liverpool. Lord Stanley is to preside on the occasion, and deliver the prizes.

Lord Ebury and the Book of Common Prayer.—The following are the terms of the motion of which Lord Ebury has given notice for the last week in May:—"That a humble address be presented to the Queen, praying her Majesty to be pleased to appoint a Commission to consider whether the Book of Common Prayer and the Canons of the Church of England be not susceptible of alterations which will give increased efficacy and stability to the religious institutions of the country."——On Ash Wednesday the noble Lord inveighed, in a letter to the Times, against the frequent repetitions in the services for the day; and, in another communication, dated Good Friday, his Lordship complains of the tediousness of the form of prayer appointed for that solemn occasion. He appeals to the Bishops to quit that "obstructive position" which they have hitherto held with reference to the proposed revision of the Prayer Book, and to exert themselves in the removal of existing difficulties, which, "if continued, will, day by day, become more difficult of solution."

University of Durham.—The twenty Foundation Scholarships of the University are all now open, with the exception of one attached to the Durham Grammar School. Two of these, of the value of £30 per annum and tenable for three years, will be assigned in the ensuing Easter term to the two candidates who, not being already members of the University, shall pass the best examination in classics and mathematics. The examination will commence on Monday, May 21. Testimonials to be sent to the warden on or before Wednesday, May 16.

Church Extension in London.—The Bishop of London has addressed a letter to the laity of his diocese urging on them the claims of the London Diocesan Church Building Society. His Lordship says:—"There are in this diocese three parishes with populations exceeding 35,000, four with between 30,000 and 35,000, five with between 25,000 and 30,000, six with between 20,000 and 25,000, sixteen with between 15,000 and 20,000, and thirty-two with between 10,000 and 15,000. Now, whatever diversity of opinion exists amongst us as to the desirableness of not carrying the sub-division of old parishes too far, there is, I believe, but one opinion—that such parishes as I have now mentioned ought to be subdivided. The parochial principle is lost when we come to such multitudes. They cannot meet together in one house of God, nor be subjected to one efficient system of pastoral superintendence or visitation. Moreover, the subdivision of overgrown into manageable districts always leads to the multiplication of schools, and diffuses more widely the advantages derived from district visiting, from provident societies, dispensaries, and all the other subsidiary parochial arrangements which every active clergyman strives to attach to the ministrations of the church. . . . Since I came to the see of London I have consecrated twenty-nine new churches; whereby a new parochial organisation has been supplied, capable of reaching the wants of at most 90,000 persons; but, according to the Registrar-General's calculation, the population of the diocese has meanwhile increased by 140,000. Allowing, for argument's sake, that the Dissenters and Roman Catholics have been as active in this matter as ourselves, and that we should be justified in considering their efforts, it will be found that we have but kept pace with the increase of population, without applying any remedy to the fearful aggregate of neglect accumulated during past years."

Ashton-under-Lyne Church Institute.—The third anniversary meeting of the members and friends of this institute was held on Tuesday evening in the Townhall, Ashton-under-Lyne. Tea was provided at about five o'clock, and the attendance, numbering nearly 1000 persons, so far exceeded all calculations on the subject, that some inconvenient crowding and confusion was the result. After tea, the chair was taken by Mr. John Ross Coulthart, banker. The chairman, in an introductory address, said that the institute was formed for the purpose of uniting all classes of Churchmen in the endeavour to extend religious and secular knowledge on the principles of the Church of England. It was opened on Easter Monday, 1857, and in October, 1859, they were enabled to remove to their present commodious premises. Education was of use socially and religiously; and, as it was offered in this institution on the most easy terms, he earnestly recommended the institution to the attention especially of the young men of the place. The Rev. T. Ridley then read the report, which lamented the small attendance at the classes, and specified the advantages to be obtained from joining the institution. A resolution approving the principles of the institution was unanimously carried, and after some business of a formal nature the meeting separated.

Preferments and Appointments.—Rectories: The Rev. T. J. Burke to Durston, Somerset; Rev. T. Fox to Abbas Combe, Somerset; Rev. S. Hosegood to Thelbridge, North Devon; Rev. R. P. Powell to Bellingham, Northumberland; Rev. J. R. Stock to Allhallows the Great with Allhallows the Less, Upper Thames-street, London; Rev. T. K. Thomas to Winforton, Herefordshire. Vicarages: Rev. E. L. Berthon to Romsey, Hants; Rev. G. Mansfield to Finchingfield, Essex. Perpetual Curacies: Rev. W. H. R. Bayley to Christ Church, Nailsea, Somerset; Rev. J. E. Echlin to Bronington or New Fenns, Flintshire; Rev. P. Hedgeland to Penzance, Cornwall; Rev. G. A. Mahon to Leigh-upon-Mendip and St. Edmund-at-Vobster, Somerset; Rev. W. Prince to Christ Church, Newark. Curacies: Rev. H. J. Bowden to West Buckland, Somerset; Rev. C. B. Calley to Ditcheat, Somerset; Rev. C. P. Causton to St. John's, Waterloo-road, Lambeth; Rev. H. T. Cavell to St. James's, Bath; Rev. L. R. Hamilton to Bathwick, Somerset; Rev. J. B. H. Hawkins to Norton Fitzwarren, Somerset; Rev. W. Hexter to Wellington, Somerset; Rev. C. R. Hyde to the Abbey and St. James's, Bath; Rev. H. Macnamara to Mells, Somerset; Rev. E. May to Walcot St. Swithin and Margaret's Chapel, Bath; Rev. H. Newton to St. George the Martyr, Southwark; Rev. C. H. Nutt to Farnborough, Somerset; Rev. J. T. C. Stacey to Kittisford, Somerset; Rev. D. W. Teape to Bourton-on-the-Hill with Moreton-in-the-Marsh. Chaplaincies: Rev. W. Johnston to Brislington House Lunatic Asylum, near Bristol; Rev. J. C. W. Tasker to the Bath United Hospital. Rev. J. W. Gowring to be Afternoon Lecturer of St. John's, Horslydown.

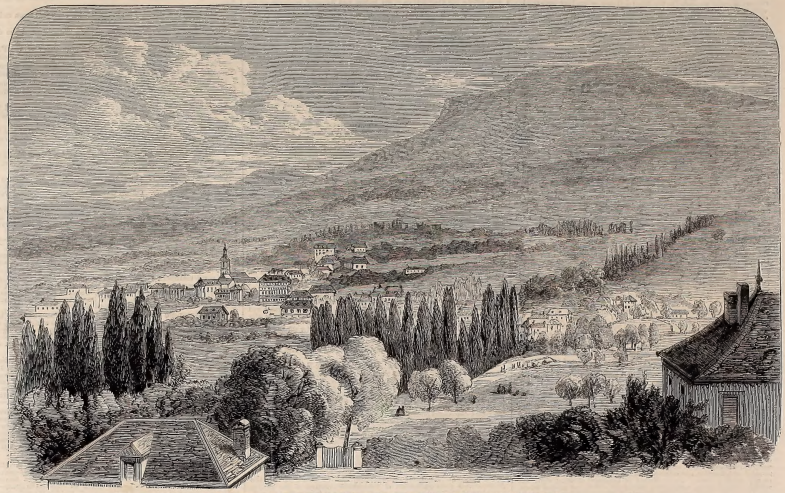
The Rev. C. Andrew, M.A., has been appointed Head Master of Archbishop Holgate's Grammar-school, Hemsworth, Yorkshire.

Loss of a French Schooner off Dungeness.—In the gale of Monday week the French schooner Alphonsine Estelle went down at anchor about two miles from Dungeness. The schooner was bound from Sunderland to Nantes with a cargo of coal-dust and twenty-seven anchors, now first admitted into France under the new tariff. She sprang a leak in the gale, the coal-dust choked up the pumps, and after the crew succeeded in throwing about thirty tons of her cargo overboard she went down bodily. All hands were saved, and, upon reaching Dover, were received at the Sailors' Home.

Impregnable Iron Fortress.—(To the Editor.)—In the columns of your valuable Paper of the 24th of March you were pleased to insert a drawing and sectional plan of my "Impregnable Iron Fortresses," and my attention has been drawn to a paragraph in the following Number (March 31) wherein it is stated that Mr. Joseph Chesterton, of Leicester, claims priority of invention, and asserts that, in March, 1852, he sent to the Ordnance Office drawings and plans of an iron fortress "very similar" to those of Mr. Hall. It is far from my wish to detract from any merit that may attach to Mr. Chesterton's project, or to over-estimate my own plan, my sole object being to procure without delay the most perfect system of fortification for our commercial rivers and coasts. Mr. W. Bush, C.E., and I, therefore, applied to the Ordnance Office, where we received great attention from the officials, who were, however, unable to discover any trace of Mr. Chesterton's plans, but who promised a diligent search. As soon as the documents may be found I shall be in a position to give an opinion on the subject, and will cheerfully resign to Mr. Chesterton any merit which the facts may justify. I embrace this opportunity of suggesting that my forts would be best placed, where practicable, about four miles outside the entrance of rivers, so as to encounter the first brush of any hostile fleet, and thus afford time for the shore batteries to be in readiness.

W. J. Hall.

THE PORT OF NICE.



THE PORT OF NICE.

JUDGING from the Treaty for the union of Savoy and Nice to the French empire, it would appear that not all the territory hitherto known as Nice will be ceded to France, but only, so to speak, Nice proper (the circondario di Nizza), of which the town of Nice—the sojourn of aristocratic invalids and rich pleasure-seekers—is the capital. The provinces of Oneglia and San Remo will thus still continue to form a part of Italy, and the frontier be marked by the course of the River Roya and the high mountains descending from the Peak of Tenda to the Mediterranean (see our Map in No. 1018). We may remind our readers that it is situated on the Mediterranean, near the mouth of the Var, at the foot of an amphitheatre formed by the surrounding hills; and that it is at all times frequented by a great many vessels, the number of which is increased just now by the arrival and departure of a series of French transports employed in conveying the imperial troops back to Marseilles.

The county of Nice belonged from the thirteenth century to the house of Savoy. Charles V. took possession of the town, which, during the series of wars that led the French armies into Italy, experienced continual vicissitudes. It was besieged in 1543 by Francis I.; taken in 1691 by Catinat; in 1760 by Berwick; and in 1792 by the army of the Republic. Nice formed the chief place of the French department of the Maritime Alps from the last date down to 1814, when it was restored to Sardinia.

THE PIAZZA DEL POPOLO, FLORENCE.—DECLARATION OF THE ANNEXATION OF TUSCANY TO PIEDMONT.—SEE PAGE 357.

THE TOWN OF MONACO AS VIEWED FROM THE SEA.—SEE SUPPLEMENT, PAGE 362.

The town owes its prosperity to the mildness of its climate, which attracts, especially in winter, quite a colony of wealthy foreigners in search of health or pleasure; and their presence contributes greatly to render the position of the population flourishing and happy. Amongst the public monuments, there are few which call for particular mention, except the Cathedral and the Governor's house; but the private dwellings are generally remarkably elegant, and impart an agreeable aspect to the coup-d'œil.

THE TOWNHALL AND PIAZZA DEI FRUTTI OR MARKET-PLACE, PADUA.—SEE SUPPLEMENT, PAGE 362.

METROPOLITAN NEWS.

CHRIST'S HOSPITAL.—On Tuesday morning the scholars of Christ's Hospital proceeded to the Mansion House, where they were regaled with wine and buns; while, as a more substantial recognition of their claim upon the City, twelve Grecians received each a guinea; thirty-five monitors each half-a-crown; and 690 boys a shilling each. After eating their buns, drinking their wine, and pocketing their money, the boys gave three cheers for the Lord Mayor, and then proceeded to Christ Church, Newgate-street, where a sermon was preached by the Rev. Henry Christmas.

MEETING OF SUNDAY SCHOOL CHILDREN.—On Monday the annual meeting of teachers and children of the various metropolitan Sunday schools took place at the Surrey Chapel, Blackfriars-road, when an impressive address was delivered by the Rev. Newman Hall to the assembled congregation. The children, amounting to many hundreds, looked in the best health, and were respectably dressed. They were conveyed from a distance by covered vans and omnibuses, and seemed heartily to enjoy their Easter trip.

FIRES.—On Monday morning a fire occurred at the Coach and Horses Tavern, Aldergate-street, City. The house was completely gutted, and the inmates narrowly escaped with their lives. The adjoining premises of Messrs. Maiben and Bingham, printers, were much damaged by fire and water.——A calamitous fire took place in Wellington-street North, Strand, at an early hour yesterday week, and one poor fellow lost his life. He fell through the burning floor into the flames beneath just as the fire-escape was placed against the window at which he had been standing.

THE EASTER BANQUET AT THE MANSION HOUSE.—On Monday evening, pursuant to annual custom, the Right Hon. the Lord Mayor entertained a numerous and distinguished circle at dinner in the Egyptian Hall. Covers were laid for 315. The Duke of Cambridge honoured the Lord Mayor with his company. His Royal Highness returned thanks for the Army, urging the advisability of maintaining the efficiency of our national defences, and giving a concluding word of praise to the volunteer movement. He pointed out the value of this auxiliary force, and hoped that the movement would be continuous, and not a mere temporary outburst of enthusiasm.

MEETING OF MEDICAL PRACTITIONERS.—A meeting of medical practitioners from all parts of England was held on Thursday afternoon, at the Freemasons' Tavern, for the purpose of promoting the success of the measure introduced into the House of Commons by Mr. Pigott, having for its object an extensive reform in the system of poor-law relief at present existing in England and Wales. The meeting was convened under the auspices of the Poor-law Medical Reform Association, who have at various times laid the case of the medical officers under the poor law before the President of the Poor-law Board. Resolutions embodying the above objects were agreed to.

WORKMEN'S INSTITUTE AND BENEFIT CLUB.—On Wednesday night Sir F. H. Goldsmid, Bart, M.P. for Reading, delivered a lecture on the "Health of Towns" to the members of this institution, which has recently been established in the Euston-road to provide for workmen of all classes a reading-room, library, house of call, and a benefit club enabling them to make provision for sickness and old age. Mr. Jervoise Smith occupied the chair. The hon. Baronet, in the course of his lecture, which was listened to with much attention, touched upon the various subjects of food, drink, dress, cleanliness, pure air, and wholesome recreation; and under each of these heads made some very excellent suggestions for promoting the public health.

ARCHITECTURAL ASSOCIATION.—On Tuesday evening the tenth annual exhibition of this society took place at their rooms in Conduit-street. A collection of beautiful drawings and water-colour paintings—representing either celebrated existing specimens of various architectural styles and schools, both ancient and modern, British and foreign, secular and ecclesiastical, or else representing approved designs for projected edifices—was displayed upon the walls. Amongst the latter, none attracted more attention than the gorgeous designs for the new Assize Court House at Manchester. A set of curious and beautiful pictures by Mr. Wilson, intended to contrast the respective merits of classical and mediæval architecture, by showing, in the one case, a congregation of English churches and cathedrals forming a towered and steepled city, and, in the other case, the Forum of Rome surrounded with temples, and colonnades of the antique character, was looked on with much interest. An assortment of tesselated flooring, stone and marble chimneypieces, cornices and mouldings, carved and stained woods, paper-hangings, metal ware, with all sorts of fittings and furniture, useful and ornamental, also engaged the curiosity of the visitors. The ladies and gentlemen were briefly addressed by Professor Cockerell and Mr. Edmeston (one of the hon. secretaries), who directed their attention to the different classes of objects in the exhibition. Allusion was made to the regretted death of Earl de Grey, the kind and obliging late president of the society. The finances of the society were reported to be in a tolerably steady position. The committee have made arrangements for the delivery of a series of lectures.

SOCIETY FOR IMPROVING THE SOCIAL POSITION OF THE BLIND.—The friends of this excellent institution met together on Wednesday evening week, at Milton House, Walworth-road, to hear the report of the hon. secretary, Alexander Mitchell, Esq., on their present and future prospects. The chair was taken by Wm. Roupell, Esq., M.P., who addressed the meeting in feeling and eloquent terms, urging the claims of the blind as a class upon the community. He, for one, felt there could be no lack of sympathy in so good a cause if only the necessities of this afflicted class were made known. The Rev. W. H. Bonner, Thomas Dakin, Esq., and other gentlemen addressed the meeting. The Rev. F. F. Statham, of St. Peter's, Walbrook, gave expression to feelings of satisfaction with the results of the committee of gentlemen who have exerted themselves to establish this much-needed institution, and said that "This Society for Improving the Social Position of the Blind, by a combination of education, friendly interchange of thought, general information, and rational amusement, left no doubt on his mind that a considerable amount of intellectual mental food, with a corresponding amount of temporary happiness to the recipients must result from such efforts, and therefore, in his opinion, this society, is highly deserving of Christian sympathy and support." Various manufactured articles in wool, bead, and plain needle work, and basket-work, were distributed throughout the rooms; and during the evening several of the blind pupils belonging to the reading and musical classes exhibited remarkable powers of memory, delicacy of touch, and facility of execution in their various performances. The chairman announced that, on the evening of the 20th inst., the pupils of the society would give Mr. Mitchell's opera of "The Crusaders," at the large room, Horns Tavern, Kennington, in aid of the funds of the society.

SOCIETY OF ARTS.—The exhibition of inventions held annually at the house of this society in John-street, Adelphi, consists of nearly four hundred inventions, appertaining to engineering, mining, and railway mechanism, naval and military appliances, manufacturing machinery, agricultural implements, philosophical apparatus, building and domestic contrivances, &c. Under the first three heads will be found great improvements in marine boilers, steam-valves, water-injectors, traction-engines, railway-breaks, tramways, and cast-iron pavings for common roads. One of the most remarkable articles perhaps in the collection is Wray's patent insulating compound for telegraphs, which is likely to supersede every other. The material is composed of indiarubber, shellac, and powdered flint, in certain proportions, and, as chemistry has proved that these substances do not act upon or destroy each other, an insulating medium is obtained of the highest power. That this is so will be apparent when it is known that the most experienced electricians have declared that this compound possesses two thousand times higher insulating power than the gutta-percha cables in use at Gibraltar, the Red Sea, and elsewhere. Its inductive power is also very great, being one-half, or nearly so, more than gutta-percha. Another invention of great merit is a pump so contrived that it can hardly get out of order; but, if it should by any means do so, it can almost instantaneously be set right. The pump, from its simplicity and non-liability to getting out of repair, will be of immense advantage in mining operations. It is capable of adaptation to any purpose, either as a ship's pump or for overground or underground operations. A pump of this description, to be attached to a pumping-engine, and capable of drawing 63,000 gallons per hour, is to be employed in one of the sewers of the metropolis. The cotton-gin invented by Mr. J. M. Dunlop merits notice, as it is calculated to produce great results in India. The simplicity of the machine is, perhaps, its greatest excellence. It is produced at a cost of about £8, and is capable of turning off 5lb. or 6lb. of raw cotton per hour, and can be worked by one man. The Manchester Cotton Supply Association recently awarded a prize of £20 to this invention. It is stated that the machines are being sent out to India in considerable numbers, and that the British merchant exchanges them with the resident cotton-growers for raw cotton for the supply of the home market. Mr. Joseph Lewis, of Bloomsbury, exhibits a very pretty machine for producing covered plaited cord or twist. The machine performs five operations simultaneously, and occupies but one-thirtieth part of the space usually required for the work as hitherto performed. The blast-gas furnace exhibited in the philosophical section claims some notice. It is stated, though on a small scale, to be capable of reducing gold, silver, copper, cast iron, wrought iron, and other mineral substances. It is supposed that 10lb. of copper may be reduced by it in one hour. The Plumbago Crucible Company exhibit some melting and assay pots which appear to be capable of resisting extreme variations of temperature. In the same department Mr. J. H. Gresbach has a curious apparatus for printing the vibrations of strings of musical instruments. Indiarubber, under the name of ebonite, is exhibited in many novel applications by Messrs. Silver; and a deep-sea pressure-gauge, for taking soundings in deep waters, is exhibited by Mr. H. Johnson. There are some very curious specimens of breech-loading rifles, upon an entirely new principle, which, if adopted, will greatly simplify the distribution of cartridges to a regiment. Colt is also in the field with his latest inventions for the destruction of human life. One of these is a carbine and pistol combined, and can be used with one hand. If it should be necessary to detach the pistol it can be done in an instant.

MUSWELL-HILL CRYSTAL PALACE.—A public meeting was held at Hornsey, on Wednesday evening, to receive a deputation from the Promoters of the Palace of the People at Muswell-hill. The meeting was numerously attended by landowners and residents in the neighbourhood; and, after a full examination of the nature and financial prospects of the undertaking, a resolution was unanimously passed pledging the meeting, collectively and individually, to support the company.

MORNING CLASSES FOR YOUNG LADIES.—These classes are in union with the Society of Arts, and will be held at Sussex Hall, Leadenhall-street, under the direction of the Rev. Charles Mackenzie, A.M. They will be opened next week. Five classes are already arranged—namely, English grammar and composition, arithmetic, German (beginners, elementary, and advanced), French ditto, and Bible lessons. Other classes are proposed, and only wait for applications.

TREAT TO THE POOR.—An excellent example has been set by the guardians of the poor for the Fulham Union. At considerable expense they provided last Christmas an amusing evening's entertainment for the inhabitants of their workhouse. The affair gave great delight to the unfortunate (we might almost say fortunate) residents, and it has been determined to provide for them once a month a similar treat. The first of the series was given on Tuesday evening last, when Mr. John Blachford, chairman of the Board of Guardians, gave a lecture upon "London of Ancient and Modern Date." The spacious dining-hall was fitted up in a tasteful manner as a lecture hall, and filled by the residents of the house and many of the guardians and a few select friends. The lecture was illustrated by some valuable old maps and prints of London, and was listened to with great attention and evident pleasure by all. The meeting was presided over by the Rev. Mr. Batty, Chaplain to the house.

COLLISION AND LOSS OF LIFE ON THE RIVER.—Last Saturday morning, shortly before daybreak, a collision, involving the loss of a sailing-vessel and two lives, occurred in the Lower Hope, a few miles below Gravesend. The Leith and London Navigation Company's steamer Express was coming up the river in the Lower Hope. She had her usual starboard and port lights up, and the wind was about east, with an ebb tide. A number of sailing craft were beating down without lights, and (as reported by those on board the Express) the steamer was steered well over to the north or Essex shore. A vessel without lights was noticed under way on the port bow. The steamer had her helm immediately ported, and the approaching vessel was hailed to put her helm down. The steamer had her engines reversed full speed, but the sailing-vessel, which proved to be the Nancy, of Faversham, was too close to be avoided, and struck against the steamer's port bow, and immediately went down. A woman who was on board the Nancy was picked up by a barge cruising close by, but the master and mate of the vessel were drowned.

THE EASTER HOLIDAYS.—Notwithstanding the coldness of the weather, London wore the usual holiday appearance at the beginning of this week, and large parties of persons went off by excursion-trains and steamers to enjoy themselves in the country. Crowds of excursionists also poured in from the country. The places of entertainment open in the day-time had their fair share of visitors; but it was reserved for the theatres at night to present those scenes of excitement with which Easter time is associated. Monday was observed as a holiday at the law offices and many of the public departments, as well as in many of the leading merchants' houses in the City.

THE DISSENSIONS IN ST. GEORGE'S-IN-THE-EAST.—Availing themselves of the withdrawal of the large body of police whose presence, for some time back, had restored something like order in the Church of St. George in-the-East, the mob broke out on Sunday evening last into acts of violence more disgraceful than any which had hitherto occurred in that unfortunate parish.——The Rev. Bryan King, in a letter to the Bishop of London, intimates his determination that the services which have caused the recent disgraceful outrages shall not be "sacrificed." His health has twice broken down under "this weary struggle;" but he is not discouraged. On the contrary, he is ready to offer his life in "this sad contest for law and religion."——At the Thames Police Court on Monday an elderly man, named William Dickinson, was charged with "disturbing the officiating minister," and was ordered to pay a light fine, which was paid immediately by a subscription collected among the people outside the court. On Tuesday Mr. Adams obtained at the same court a summons against Mr. Thompson, senior churchwarden of St. George's, for an assault.

THE ROYAL ACADEMY EXHIBITION.—We learn from the Morning Post some particulars of the probable features of the coming exhibition of the Royal Academy. Sir E. Landseer, it is believed, will send, as his principal work, the large canvas, descriptive of a flood in Morayshire carrying down cattle, upon which he has been engaged for a considerable time. Mr. Maclise has two considerable pictures, but it is doubtful whether he will allow either of them to be hung. Mr. Elmore will exhibit the grand historical work upon which he has been nearly two years labouring, entitled "The Tuileries on the 29th of July, 1792." Mr. Philip's chef-d'œuvre is "The Marriage of the Princess Royal." Mr. Frith has taken a scene from "Claude Duval." Mr. Mulready has in a forward state "The Toy Seller," founded on his sketch in the Sheepshanks collection; but it is uncertain whether he will exhibit it this year. Mr. Egg has taken that lively action in the "Taming of the Shrew," in which Petruchio turns the tables in his country mansion upside down. Mr. David Roberts's chief work is "A View of the Façade of St. Mark at Venice." Mr. Millais' subject is the parting of a black Brunswicker from his sweetheart on the eve of the battle of Waterloo.

ELECTION OF CHURCHWARDENS.—The metropolitan vestries met on Tuesday to elect the parish officers and to transact other parochial business. In some of them religious differences occasioned a little excitement, but the majority passed off peaceably enough.——There is likely to be a renewal of the feuds at St. Paul's and St. Barnabas', Knightsbridge. After proceedings of a stormy character, during which the conduct of the Incumbent (Mr. Liddell) was strongly denounced, Mr. Westerton was elected churchwarden, and was authorised, by a formal resolution, to adopt measures for removing objectionable articles of furniture from the two churches—the evangelical party undertaking to pay any expense which he might incur in so doing. Mr. Liddell nominated Mr. Davidson as his churchwarden.——The vestrymen of St. George's-in-the-East unanimously re-elected Mr. Thompson churchwarden; and Mr. Dowsett, a Dissenter, was chosen as his colleague.

BIRTHS AND DEATHS.—Last week the births of 838 boys and 755 girls (in all 1593 children) were registered in London. In the ten corresponding weeks of the years 1850-59 the average number was 1617.——The deaths registered in the week that ended last Saturday were 1430, and they show a great decrease on the 1708 returned in the previous week. The average number of deaths in the corresponding weeks of the ten years 1850-59, when corrected for increase of population, is 1288. The rate of mortality therefore continues high; for the deaths in the present return exceed the estimated number by 151. Three children and an adult died by murder or manslaughter. Three deaths were caused by privation. An ostler died from glanders. A widow died at the age of ninety-five years; two widows at the age of ninety-nine, one of whom died in King-street, Camden Town, and her age is proved by baptismal certificate.

BANK OF ENGLAND.—On Tuesday Mr. Bonamy Dobree was elected Governor, and Mr. Alfred Latham, Deputy Governor, of the Bank of England for the ensuing year.——On Wednesday the election of Directors took place. There was no opposition to the "House list," which was as follows:—Mr. John Gellibrand Hubbard, M.P.; Mr. Thomas Baring, M.P.; Mr. Kirkman Daniel Hodgson, M.P.; Mr. Robert Wigram Crawford, M.P.; Mr. George Lyall, M.P.; Mr. Stephen Cave, M.P.; Mr. Alexander Matheson, M.P.; Mr. Thomson Hankey, M.P.; Mr. Charles Pascoe Grenfell, M.P.; Mr. John Benjamin Heath; Mr. James Morris; Mr. Sheffield Neave; Mr. Henry Lancelot Holland; Mr. Thomas Newman Hunt; Mr. Edward Henry Chapman; Mr. Travers Buxton; Mr. Henry Wollaston Blake; Mr. John William Birch; Mr. William Cotton; Mr. George Warde Norman; Mr. Charles Frederick Huth; Mr. James Malcolmson; Mr. Henry Hucks Gibbs; and Mr. Thomas Masterman. Two of the above-named gentlemen are now directors, namely, Mr. Cave, M.P., and Mr. Birch. Mr. Cave is member for Shoreham, chairman of the West India Committee, and a director of the London Docks. Mr. Birch is a partner in the mercantile firm of Mildred, Goyeneche, and Co., in the Spanish trade.

A POLICE STATION MISTAKEN FOR A PUBLIC-HOUSE.—John Impey was charged at the Mansion-house, on Wednesday, with being drunk and disorderly, and making forcible entry into the Bishopsgate-street Police-station. The policeman who had the prisoner in charge said—On Tuesday night, about twelve, the prisoner came to the station and called for "a pint of half-and-half and three-ha'porth of gin" (Laughter). He was quite drunk, but as it was holiday time we took no notice of that, and told him he had made a mistake; we didn't deal in such articles, and that as he had made a mistake he had better go quietly home and go to bed. With that he flared up like a wild Irisher, swearing that that was a public-house, that he wanted something to drink, and that we had a right to serve him; and when we again told him he was mistaken, and that that was a police-station and not a public-house, he said we were a set of villains, who didn't know what was what, and threatened to tell some friends of his who were well to do in the City, and who would get our license forfeited (Roars of laughter). We then put him out gently, but he rushed back, and, in striking at me, struck his arm with some violence against the door-post. As we could not get rid of him at all we were compelled to lock him up, but it was a long while before he left off calling out "Waiter, bring me some gin and beer" (Laughter). He was so drunk that when he saw one of our staves hanging up there with the City arms painted on it he said, "Look there; now will you say it is not a public-house? why, there's the sign of the Goose and Gridiron" (Roars of laughter).—The prisoner, after having been cautioned by the Magistrate not to get drunk again, or, at any rate, to keep away from police-stations when in that state, was dismissed.

The first hamper of potatoes grown in the open air was shipped from the Scilly Islands on the 4th inst., and has arrived at Covent-garden Market.

NAVAL AND MILITARY INTELLIGENCE.

It is stated that there is, ere long, to be a review of the Channel fleet.

The bounty for infantry and artillery recruits has been reduced to £2 and a free kit.

Eighty-four artisans and others were discharged from the dockyard at Devonport on Saturday.

General Sir George Brown, the new Commander of the Forces in Ireland, was sworn in before the Lord Lieutenant on Tuesday week.

It is proposed to have a field-day of all the Lancashire Volunteer Corps in the northern division of the county at Preston on Whit-Tuesday.

Sir James Yorke Scarlett, K.C.B., arrived in town on Sunday, from Portsmouth, to enter upon the duties of his office as Adjutant-General of the Forces.

There is no foundation whatever for the statements copied from the military papers that the remainder of the militia is to be called out into active service.

Mr. J. R. Taylor, C.B., Inspector-General of Hospitals, has been appointed Chief of the Sanatorium at the Cape of Good Hope, for the reception of the sick and wounded troops from China.

A serious disturbance took place on board a line-of-battle ship on Tuesday evening, at Spithead, on the question of leave, and five men were sent on board the Victory as prisoners.

The head-quarters of the Royal Engineers in the eastern district, which have been for many years established at Harwich, are about to be removed to Colchester. Colonel Haddon has succeeded Colonel Wolff in the command.

The examination of candidates for direct commissions by the council of military education commenced on Wednesday, before Major-General Rumley, the vice-president, and other members of the council. There were above 100 candidates.

A grand banquet is to be given by the citizens of Edinburgh to the 78th Highlanders, in the Corn Exchange there, on the 24th inst. The Lord Provost is to preside, and Sir John M'Neill, G.C.B., is to occupy the vice-chair. About 600 officers and men of this gallant and renowned regiment will be present.

As some members of the Northumberland Militia were practising at a mark on Good Friday, a man of the name of Kirk accidentally shot the marker of the target, Corporal Richardson, the ball passing through one of his ribs. He was immediately removed to the Hull Infirmary, where he lies without any hope of recovery.

SHIPS BUILDING FOR THE ROYAL NAVY.—There are now being built at the various naval dockyards eleven screw-ships of the line, to carry from 91 to 101 guns each; four screw-corvettes, of 21 guns each; eighteen screw-ships, sloops, &c., from 11 to 86 guns; five screw gun vessels, and ten steam gun-boats—the aggregate of which ships of war is fifty-six ships, to mount 1754 guns, and of 17,620 horse power.

A private of a detachment of the 45th Regiment, now stationed at the Castle, Scarborough, while walking near the edge of the cliff in the castle yard, was either blown or fell over into the shallow water among the rocks, the cliff rising here to the height of 305 feet. The poor fellow's moans were heard by the crew of a fishing-boat, who pulled ashore and found him in a sad state. He was removed to the barracks, where it was found he had received fractures of the ribs and dislocation of the hip.

The Whitworth and Armstrong guns are to be tested upon the floating-battery Trusty. This cumbrous vessel, whose massive wrought-iron plates were, on a former occasion, so dreadfully shattered by the Armstrong elongated shots, is being put in a thorough state of repair, and will, as soon as possible, be moored some miles off Shoeburyness, when a complete trial will be made, under official direction, of the range and destructive capabilities of the rival weapons.

Major-General Sir James Yorke Scarlett, K.C.B., Adjutant-General of the Army, and late Lieutenant-Governor of Portsmouth, has given orders for the erection, at his own private cost, of a handsome drinking-fountain over a celebrated spring on Southsea-common—the exercising-ground of the troops of the garrison, and the favourite summer promenade of the civilians—as a testimonial of his feelings and good wishes towards the inhabitants generally, engendered during the period of his command.

A large number of men—more than three hundred—belonging to the South Middlesex Volunteers, assembled at their head-quarters, Walham-green, on Monday, and, accompanied by the regimental band, marched over Putney-bridge to Wimbledon. Here they dispersed for a short time, and, reassembling, proceeded to the common, where they went through a variety of evolutions—throwing out and recalling skirmishers, a duty of no small difficulty in a gorse-and-pool-covered heath, charging in line, marching considerable distances at the double, and hardening themselves in various ways. Lord Ranelagh, the Lieutenant-Colonel of the corps, was in command, marching on foot with his men.

REVIEW AT CHATHAM BY THE DUKE OF CAMBRIDGE.—A grand review of the whole of the troops composing Chatham garrison took place on Chatham Lines on Tuesday afternoon by his Royal Highness the Duke of Cambridge. The entire force of the garrison, numbering about five thousand men of all ranks, assembled on the Lines, shortly after eleven o'clock. The troops, all of whom were in heavy marching order, were drawn up into contiguous quarter-distance column, and on the arrival of the Duke of Cambridge on the ground he was received with a general salute, the united bands playing the National Anthem. After his Royal Highness had passed along the front and rear of the columns, the whole body formed in companies, and the various movements incidental to a brigade field-day commenced by the troops marching past in slow and quick time. This part of the day's proceedings appeared to be exceedingly gratifying to the Duke, who frequently praised the marching of the men as they defiled past him. After a variety of manœuvres had been performed, the whole of which were directed by the Duke of Cambridge, the entire force was formed in line to repel the supposed advance of an enemy. This movement was exceedingly well executed, and was one of the most striking of the day. At the close the troops were formed into mass, with the Engineers in front, when his Royal Highness, addressing General Eyre and the assembled officers, expressed the high gratification he had experienced at the discipline and proficiency of the troops, the manner in which the men had performed their evolutions reflecting very great credit on General Eyre and the other officers in command. The Duke afterwards, accompanied by Sir John Burgoyne and his staff, proceeded to the extreme end of the Lines for the purpose of inspecting the fortifications at the garrison.

MILITARY RIOT AT GREENWICH.—On Tuesday evening a serious military disturbance took place in the Trafalgar-road, Greenwich. A numerous party of soldiers belonging to the Royal Artillery, Royal Marines, Military Train Corps, and City of Dublin Militia, several of whom were intoxicated, grossly insulted various persons in the streets. A row ultimately took place, and an artilleryman was captured by police constables. The soldiers, who numbered about one hundred men, then raised a cry to rescue the prisoner, and violently attacked the constables, who took refuge at the house of Mr. Abrahams, a furniture-broker, whose premises were immediately filled by the military, armed with staves from a garden fence which was pulled down for the occasion. Being unable to rescue the prisoner, who was conveyed by the constables through the house, the soldiers broke the windows and committed other damage to the property of Mr. Abrahams, and subsequently paraded the Trafalgar-road, smashing shop windows and throwing stones in all directions. The few police constables then on the spot were savagely attacked, and one policeman received a severe wound on his forehead. A messenger was sent to the Park-row station-house for assistance. Mr. Inspector Golding, with the whole of the reserve men on duty, promptly arrived, and matters then assumed a serious aspect. The soldiers, each armed with some weapon, had taken up a military position completely across the road, and used the most violent threats to the police, who then mustered about twenty men, and who were aided by Sergeant Mann, of the City of Dublin Artillery Militia, two non-commissioned officers of the Royal Artillery, and a large number of residents, who were warned to aid and assist. The two parties faced each other for about five minutes, when in obedience to orders the police advanced upon the soldiers with their truncheons out at a run, and the latter, unable or unwilling to stand the sudden charge, took to their heels, and were pursued by the police for some distance on the road to Woolwich.

STEAM SKIRMISHERS.—One of the results of the Whitworth cannon appears to have escaped notice. Hitherto, owing to the great strength of construction required in men-of-war for their heavy ordnance, such vessels have remained quite distinct from other vessels. But, if it be true that a light telescope-looking tube like the Whitworth 3-pounder can throw a 12-pound shot, it results that even a penny river boat may be made into a formidable vessel of war. Take a few fast little steamers, such as the Dover packets, and arm each with a formidable Whitworth proportionable to its size, and what hope would a French invading force have of successfully landing in boats in our shallow waters? Imagine, also, five hundred or one thousand such vessels acting as steam skirmishers to our fleet, and concentrating their fire on the gigantic floating targets of the enemy, who would have no hope of coming to close quarters as with unwieldy gun-boats. The principle of concentric fire, as illustrated in the attack of a fortress, where a few guns in a distant parallel rapidly silence the batteries of the defence, will enable us to judge of the result. England, and England alone, has such an auxiliary force always at hand.—"Hexagonal Bolt," in the Times.

MUSIC.

The two great ITALIAN OPERA HOUSES opened at the same time on Tuesday evening last. Her Majesty's Theatre, as our musical readers are aware, is now under the management of Mr. E. T. Smith, who has commenced his campaign at the head of a powerful host, comprising a greater number of distinguished individuals than we have ever seen congregated at the same time. He did not, however, put forth any great degree of strength at the outset. The opera chosen for the opening night was a piece which has now lost entirely the gloss of novelty—Flotow's "Marta"—which was performed very nearly in the same way as when Mr. Smith gave Italian operas last season at Drury Lane. Mdlle. Titiens personated the heroine; Giuglini and Vialetti the two young farmers, Lionello and Plumkett. The only novelty of any consequence was the appearance of Mdme. Lemaire in the character of Nancy, in which she succeeded but indifferently. She seems to be a lively actress; but has a thin, French voice, and sings out of tune. There is little to be said about a performance in which there was so little novelty. Mdlle. Titiens, as usual, was charming. Perhaps, in assuming the disguise of a country girl, she did not sufficiently throw off the fine lady. The peasant Martha was almost as aristocratic in look and manner as the noble Lady Henrietta. This may not be a fault, because a Lady Henrietta in real life might have been equally unsuccessful in assuming the guise of a Martha. But, certainly, had Mdlle. Titiens been a little more comic, the first act, and especially the pleasant spinning-wheel scene, would have been more gay. But, subsequently, when the subject becomes serious, and affords room for feeling and passion, Mdlle. Titiens was admirable, and her singing was exquisite throughout. Her "Last Rose of Summer" was a gem of simplicity and expression. Giuglini neither acted nor sang so well as usual: he seemed to be suffering from indisposition. The orchestra (which was conducted by Signor Arditi) and the chorus were good; and the opera altogether was carefully and well put upon the stage. Mr. Smith has shown taste and spirit in what he has done for the improvement and decoration of the house. The staircases, lobbies, and passages are richly carpeted; there are many new chandeliers and mirrors; every part of the interior is freshened by new painting and gilding; and the house is both brilliant and comfortable. The celebrated contralto, Madame Borghi Mamo, appeared on Thursday, for the first time in this country, in "La Favorita." Of this lady's début we shall give some account next week.

The ROYAL ITALIAN OPERA opened with "Dinorah," an opera which, having been produced almost at the end of last season, could be performed only six times before the theatre closed. It was now resumed with some alterations in the cast, one of them of great importance. This was the appearance, in the character of Hoel, the hero of the piece, of M. Faure, for whom it was written, and who was its original representative at the Opéra Comique. M. Faure is a vast improvement on Signor Graziani, who, notwithstanding his magnificent voice, sang the music but indifferently, and failed to give effect or interest to the character. Faure, with an inferior voice, is a much superior singer, and he possesses all the requisites of a great actor—face, person, and dramatic genius. Mdme. Miolan-Carvalho resumed her character of the interesting heroine, and acted and sang more charmingly than ever. There was another change in the cast, which was decidedly for the worse—the substitution of Mdlle. Giuditta Sylvia for Mdme. Didiée in the part of the goatherd. Why this part has been given to another while Mdme. Didiée, who filled it so admirably, continues to be a member of the company, is a thing which we cannot understand. Au reste, this fine opera has been reproduced with all the splendour of last year, and will doubtless have the same success here which it has obtained in every country in Europe.

Drury Lane is at present occupied by an English opera company, who opened the theatre on Easter Monday with Wallace's "Maritana." The principal performers were—Mr. Haigh, an agreeable tenor singer, who was lately a member of the Pyne and Harrison company at Covent Garden, and Miss Dyer (Mrs. Haigh), a soprano, who is a lively actress and a singer of some talent. Mrs. Haigh appeared in the part of the heroine, and her husband in that of Don Cœsar de Bazan. A Miss Emma Heywood, a débutante from the provinces, performed the part of the boy Larazillo. She is a contralto of considerable promise. There was a good house, and the performance was favourably received.

THE THEATRES, &c.

HAYMARKET.—The Easter season has opened strong in burlesque. "The Pilgrim of Love" is the title of the new piece at this house, and written by Mr. H. J. Byron, who, however, names it a "fairy romance," and with this idea pursues rather the fanciful than the grotesque. The basis of the action, nevertheless, even as we find it in Washington Irving's "Tales of the Alhambra," partakes of the extravagant, and raises expectations which Mr. Byron scarcely satisfies. To diminish the caricature rather than increase it has been his evident aim, but this, we are afraid, is, in all senses, working against the grain. The piece will therefore probably have to depend on the capital series of Spanish views, painted by Mr. Fenton, and the admirable spectacle accessories; and these, probably, will support it for the allotted period. The story is elegant enough. A Moorish Prince, Ahmed (Mrs. B. White), is kept in seclusion by his father's commands, under the tutorship of a sage, who is prohibited from instructing him in the passion of love, and therefore teaches him the language of birds. A better way of placing the forbidden fruit within his reach could scarcely have been devised. A certain dove tells him all about it, and of a lovely Princess, to whom the said dove becomes the bearer of an amorous epistle. The poor dove, however, is shot on its return, and falls dead at Ahmed's feet, with the portrait of the lady under its wing. He forthwith proceeds to identify the portrait, and for this purpose applies to a wise owl, who refers him to a raven, and the raven to a parrot, who describes the likeness as that of the Princess Aldegonda of Toledo (Miss M. Ternan). Ahmed at once starts from Granada, and presents himself in the lists at Toledo. Here the stage-machinist has introduced a panorama, with scenes of Seville and Cordova, illustrating every part of the journey between Granada and Toledo. Ahmed, arrived at the latter place, finds a difficulty in its Monarch (Mr. Compton) being a Christian, and Moslems being excluded from the tournament. To be sure, the Pilgrim of Love, as Ahmed calls himself, is provided with a magic horse and magic armour, but as yet knows but little how to manage them to advantage. The horse upsets everybody, and then retreats into the cavern whence it had been taken. Aldegonda, consequently disappointed, falls love-sick, and her despairing papa advertises for a physician to cure her; whereupon Ahmed, disguised as such, visits the patient, who recovers at sight of him. Ahmed demands, as his reward, a piece of carpet once the property of King Solomon, and which has itself the properties of a flying steed, by virtue of which it bears away the young couple to Granada. As an affair of costume and scenery nothing can be better than the spectacle of this piece; and we hope that the sobriety of the dialogue will not operate against its popularity. It is, at least, an evidence of Mr. Byron's better taste.

